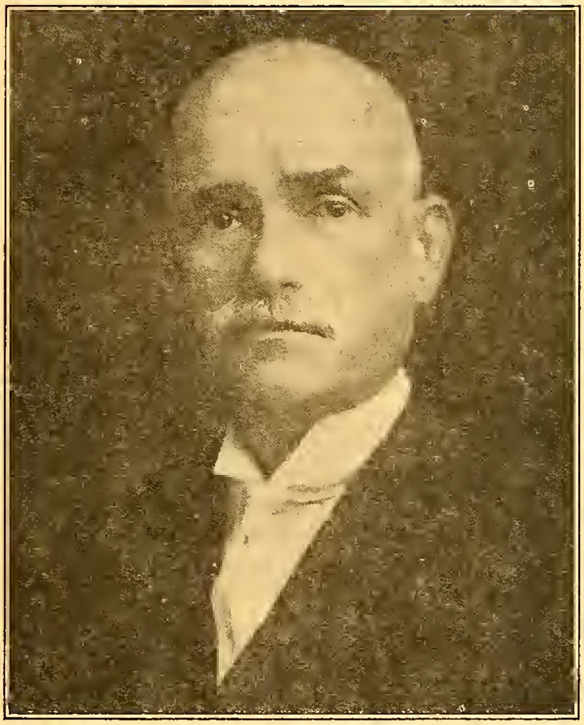
From Log Cabin to Halls of Fame

An Appreciation of Charles Edward Forlines

The biography of this man from a floor sweeper in a North Carolina cotton mill to a Professor of Systematic and Historical Theology in the Westminster Theological Seminary is a challenge to youth to face their future with the slogan of Hannibal: "There shall be no Alps."

His Humble Birth and Boyhood Struggles read like a fairytale. Cradled in a one-room log cabin in Virginia, he began to support himself at an early age by sweeping the floors of the Belmont Cotton Mills in North Carolina. For five years his work day was from 1 P.M. to 1 A.M., for which he was paid twenty-five cents a day, all of it going to his grandmother for board and lodging. She allowed him to keep all he earned by extra hours of work, and so eager was he to gratify his early love of books that to buy one he would often work eighteen hours a day and sometimes thirty-six in succession. At the age of fourteen a $10 gift permitted him to attend school for two months. This made more keen his thirst for learning. He developed into an expert in the simultaneous use of hand and mind by converting his workshop into a school, hiding books under boxes and reading them when the eye of the boss was elsewhere. Having caught the glimpse of a line he continued his task, his hands mechanically in motion but his thoughts among the stars. Although he had been able to read for only two years, this fourteen-year-old boy became teacher in a Sunday school, spent his little money for Lesson Helps, and to prepare for his class often played hookey from the mills, went home, crawled into bed, and permitted his grandmother to infer that he was sick. After she had dosed him with the home panacea and left the sick (?) there was an immediate recovery, and from under the pillow he drew his precious literature and was soon lost in Biblical speculation. Does he today, as teacher of Ethics, approve of conduct toward his boss and his grandmother which suggests deception? Further deponent sayeth not, except to opine that these were cases in which the end justified means, and the hope may be fostered that the Recording Angel has sufficient discrimination to nod upon rare occasions.



Rev. C. E. Forlines, D.D.

His Career in Public School, College and Seminary was a continuance of his fight against poverty for the sake of his educational goals. At the age of sixteen his salary was only $2.40 a week but out of it he paid all weekly expenses and laid aside $1.00 for education. How possible? By wearing his mill clothes on Sunday, and never wearing shoes except the coldest days of winter; by passing through Normal and High with his brother in a "Bachelor Hall," living on $2.00 a week, catching rabbits and fish for the daily menu. He graduated from the Western Maryland College with a debt of $1,000, but he entered the Westminster Theological Seminary with only $12.00, yet graduated with $25.00 in his pocket. Fine financiering! Nor did he lose either his poverty or his love of study during the first five years of his circuit riding. Half that time his salary was less than $300 a year, and all that time while riding from church to church his library was on a self in his carriage seat. No wonder such a student was soon called to the Chair of Philosophy in Adrian College, Michigan; then to the same chair in the Western Maryland College; and finally to the Chair of Historical and Systematic Theology in the Westminster Theological Seminary. Nor is it strange that he is now crowned with the honor and merit of the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Sacred Theology, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Divinity, Laws and Literature.

His Life as a Christian Teacher began in boyhood when he met his playmates in the woods Sunday afternoon, built tabernacles, and conducted there religious worship. Since then this man's influence has shaped the religious thought and conduct of scores of ministers and missionaries, is now commanding the admiration and love of all the students in the Seminary, and receiving from a sister Seminary this tribute: "Among the theological professors of America his rightful place is in the front row." And his heart is as great as his mind, for he loves not only all men, but all Nature. He deights to point his students to the stars, the flowers, the birds and every dumb brute. Astronomy, Botany, Ornithology, and Dogology he teaches as extras without pay. As a theologian he may not teach the personality and immortality of a dog; but as a logician he is able to put up a strong argument in favor; and all who know and love him would be happy, if there be a dog-heaven to meet him with "Buster" and "Laddie." Log Cabin Babe, Cotton Mill Hero, Intellectual Giant, Impersonator of "Uncle Remus," Christian Gentleman, unselfish servant of God and man, long and happy be your teaching and preaching days! And may their sunset reflect even more of the brilliance of your thought, the beauty of your spirit, the triumphs of your faith, the lustre of your hope, and the warmth of your love.

Hugh Latimer Elderdice.

Address by Dr. Forlines.

7:30 P.M.—Evening Worship in First church.
Worship in song and prayer.
Music by High Point College group.
Address by Dr. Forlines.

We are hoping to have at least one hundred at the banquet on Saturday night. A splendid meal will be served at 35 cents per plate. I am sending out some tickets to pastors within easy reach of Burlington and asking them to report back not later than January 10th. This does not mean that those who do not have an opportunity to buy a ticket are excluded, but we are printing a small number of tickets to keep down the expense, and, too, the committee thought that those who live some distance from Burlington could not very conveniently come for the banquet on Saturday night. But let it be understood that every one is invited. However, we would like to know not later than January 10th if you are coming.

We are hoping for capacity crowds on Sunday. Methodist Protestants everywhere, especially in North Carolina, love Dr. Forlines. Let us reassure him of our love by being present at these services. Methodist Protestants throughout the entire North Carolina Conference are asked to co-operate with us in making this program successful in every particular.

Fred W. Paschall.

NORTH CAROLINA LAYMEN'S FELLOWSHIP

At the last session of the North Carolina Annual Conference a Laymen''s Fellowship Committee was elected, as follows: J. G. Rogers, Denton; J. W. Boyles, Thomasville; F. G. Hammer, Gibsonville; Jasper B. Hicks, Henderson, and H. A. Garrett, Burlington.

Friday evening, December 29th, the committee met in the district parsonage with our President, for permanent organization. All members were present except Mr. Hicks. Officers: J. G. Rogers, president; F. G. Hammer, vice-president; J. W. Boyles, treasurer; Mrs. George Haltom was elected secretary that she might assist her father with his correspondence.

The object of this movement is to get behind the whole conference program. Almost every man has a desire to serve the church in some capacity when he joins. Much latent talent dies without being developed because the church is not organized for definite work.

The committee made plans to organize the laymen in order that they may co-operate with the pastors in carrying out the whole program of the church. In some of our churches seventy-five per cent of the expenses is paid by the officials. The question is asked, why? One reason is because the Board is better informed of the church's needs. The Laymen's Fellowship proposes to organize the men into a working body which will see the needs of the church as they have never seen them before.

This committee wants to see every church in the conference organized and stands ready to assist.

Why should the men let the women do all the organized work? The challenge has come to us through them and we must accept.

H. A. Garrett, Secretary pro tem.

GOD'S LOVE

The Christian is the object of God's love, which from its immensity and power can secure everything good to its object, yet he is often exposed to the most trying circumstances. Yet it is in these very circumstances that he may prove how thoroughly he is the object of God's infinite love. Born of God and poor, yet he may be supremely happy, for he has more occasions to look to God, whereas if he had means he has what might divert him from dependence on God.—Scripture Truth.

THE NEW YEAR

By Grenville Kleiser

Begin the New Year with clear purpose, strong resolve, and supreme faith. Concentrate upon essentials. Put your high ideals into practice and resolve to live nobly every day.

Do your work well. The best reward for good work will be greater work and a larger sphere of usefulness. Rid yourself of everything which in any way retards your best progress. Scrutinize your thought habits, and be alert to every chance for self-improvement. Keep your mind upon a high level of constructive thought, realize the priceless value of time and opportunity, and feel inspired by the truth that success is your birthright.

Cultivate silence and stillness. You grow your best thoughts in times of solitude and meditation. To continue to grow and accumulate useful ideas, you must have frequent periods of mental and physical relaxation.

Beware the modern tendency to hurry and waste. The time you give to quiet and intelligent meditation will repay you well. Cultivate quietness, poise, and deliberateness. When you are still and receptive you can best hear the voice of God and learn His will.

Among your good resolutions for the New Year you might include these:

Resolved that I will be an intelligent optimist, and look for the best in everyone and in everything.

Resolved that I will daily develop the habit of constructive thinking.

Resolved that I will maintain a high standard of personal conduct at all times.

Resolved that I will always speak well of other people, or keep silent about them.

Resolved that I will cultivate in my daily life the cardinal virtues, of courtesy, gratitude, sincerity, generosity, courage, and humility.

Greatness of character implies self-denial and self-sacrifice. As you grow in bigness of spirit you will more readily yield your personal preferences to the wishes of others. The spirit of Christ is to give freely, generously, and daily, to render helpful service when possible, to seek constantly to make the world better and happier.

Greatness of life is largely the product of clear purpose and lofty ambition. When you have made definite choice of a worthy life purpose, there will come to you a wonderful sense of increased power, and many influences will set to work for the sole purpose seemingly of helping on your progress. The consciousness at the close of each day that you have made real and substantial advancement towards a great purpose will increase your courage, and still larger possibilities will be revealed to you. In this spirit you will learn that all really worth-while work must be in harmony with God, and that worthy work always has divine approbation.

Your daily life is made up of desires, choices, judgments, and deeds. These are largely under your personal control, so that in reality you are daily making your own destiny. Nothing can hold you back if you have set your mind and heart wholly and earnestly upon a great life purpose.

There is something sublime about the beginning of a New Year. Possibly the past year has been filled with dark misgivings, losses, disappointments, and dominating fears. But the beginning of a New Year, with its promise of unexplored possibilities, should gladden the heart and inspire the soul. It is the time for stronger resolutions; for new courage in face of difficulties; for more diligence in useful labor; for more generous service to less fortunate fellow-pilgrims.

I will start the New Year gladly
With a clear and noble aim;
I will give unselfish service
To enrich another's name.

I will speak a word of courage
To a soul enslaved by fear;
I will dissipate drab discord
With the sunshine of good cheer.

I will be sincere and humble
In the work I have to do;
I will not indulge in censure
But will praise the best in you.

I will keep my mind and body
Sound and flexible and pure;
I will give my time and study
To the things that long endure.

I will do what I am able
To advance a worthy cause;
I will strive to lessen evil
And obey God's righteous laws.

I will pray to Him to guide me
In the straight and narrow way;
I will shun false pride and folly,
And I'll live my best each day.

FROM THE BOARD OF CHURCH EXTENSION

Since Dr. Andrews has designated January as the month when churches are asked to raise their apportionment for Church Eextension, it has occurred to me to say a few words as Chairman of the Board. And before I tell you about the needs of the Board I want to tell you that the situation looks a lot better than it did a year ago. The money that Dr. Brown, the Treasurer of the Annual Conference, turned over to the Board went a good long way toward paying the two years of interest on the Board's outstanding obligations. Just as soon as we can get caught up with the interest we want to begin reducing the indebtedness of the Board. Due to the fact that the money was not in sight, the Board has not made any appropriations for this conference year.

And now for the needs. We do need some money to finish paying interest and to reduce some of the obligations of the Board. There is a note at a certain bank for about $275 that the Board is anxious to get rid of, and the bank would not object to our getting it out of the way, either; so, churches, come on and help us and some of these days the Board is going to be in condition to finance some new enterprises and to help some of our churches that are hard pressed.

J. E. Pritchard, Chairman.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

A Mistake

In the published statement of the Budget Council an error occurs in the amounts assessed for A. C. debts and Superannuates; the items should be reversed. There is laid on the Conference $2,500 for Superannuates and $2,000 on A. C. debts; the amount for Superannuates is therefore more. Observe this when raising the amounts.

These Charges Are to Pay A. C. Expense in January

St. Paul, Greensboro; Graham; Gibsonville; Grace church, Greensboro; Spring Church charge; Welch Memorial; English Street, and Tabernacle. While other charges are raising their assessment for Church Extension these are raising theirs for A. C. expense. We trust that they shall then set February for Church Extension month and clear this item from their list for the Conference year.

When Pay Other Claims?

The committee appointed at conference did not assume the task of telling the pastors when it would be best to raise every claim. Conditions differ in different sections of the conference; so we are leaving for the officials of the charge to decide this. But we do insist that a time be fixed when YOUR charge will raise its part of each claim. It will be easier to do it that way in the majority of cases. However, some charges have a different method; we do not insist so much upon the method, what we want is that the claims be met.

First Church, Lexington, Rev. C. G. Isley, Pastor

I attended the first quarterly conference of this charge. The charge consists of First church and Mt. Carmel. The weather was disagreeable and there was no one present from Mt. Carmel; however, there was a good attendance and a fine conference. The recommendations for the budgets for the year were accepted and all other business of the conference was transacted in a splendid spirit. Pastor Isley is quite popular with his people and this is attested by the way the work has grown since he became its pastor. He has a fine helper in the person of his mother. They remembered the President as he took his departure and placed a fine hen in the car. We enjoyed the hospitality of the parsonage on this visit.

First District Meeting

This meeting was held in our Littleton church. The attendance was not large, but the meeting was held upon short notice. All pastors except Brother Bingham were present. The claims of the church were presented and there was evidenced an interest in them. The chairman, Brother Neese, has a fine plan in a card display showing the amounts of the claims and those which have been paid. It ought to be used in all of our churches where there is difficulty in raising the claims.

The meeting adjourned at noon and the first quarterly conference of Littleton charge was held in the afternoon. There were more present than last year and the interest was better. We hope that Littleton charge will come to life again and return to its former place in the annual conference activities of the denomination. There are some fine people here, and if they would take more care of their young people by having Sunday schools and C. E. societies, the future would be much brighter than it otherwise will be. Brother Vickery had visited all churches except one and is encouraged with the reception he received; the people are pleased; we are therefore expecting to hear good things from Littleton circuit this year.

The Laymen's Fellowship

I attended a meeting of the officers of this organization last Friday night. Those present were: president, J. G. Rogers; vice-president, F. G. Hammer; secretary, J. W. Boyles, and H. A. Garrett. It was a fine meeting. Most of the men traveled quite a distance, and it was a cold night. A full report of the meeting will doubtless appear in this issue of the HERALD, and if these men continue with the same zeal and wisdom in this work as they evidenced that night, you may look for some fine results before the Annual Conference meets again.

Whitakers-Enfield, Rev. E. O. Peeler, Pastor

I was at Whitakers at the 11 o'clock hour, December 17. There was a splendid congregation for Whitakers; this was the regular appointment and there was no conflict with appointments at other churches. The work appears to be doing very well under the conditions; while the leaders are not enthusiastic, they are at least trying to do their best. One encouraging sign I discovered is that more young people are enlisted than usually took part in the services when I was there formerly. A young man is superintendent of the Sunday school and he is doing it well. There is the group of faithful ones who can be depended upon for every emergency still carrying on. The pastor informed me that the church treasurer had already sent to Treasurer J. H. Allen their allotment for A. C. expenses. That is fine.

I visited Enfield at the evening hour. The congregation did well. Here we always have conflicts with other appointments in the local churches, so that the membership is usually the only ones who attend our services. There were several people from Whitaker Chapel also present. We enjoyed our visit here and received a most genuine surprise from the Women's Auxiliary when I was invited into a class room and told that I was to receive a pounding, which I did in the most graceful manner an unexpectant recipient could. I have received from individuals gifts from time to time, both this term and the former term I served the Conference as its President, but never before did I receive a real pounding. I greatly appreciate both the gifts and the spirit that prompted it. I may be making other visits there before the 14th of November since I received such a cordial welcome at this time.

Pastor Peeler has done very good work there, and he and Mrs. Peeler are deservedly popular with the people they are serving. We enjoyed the hospitality of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Cutchin, Mrs. Mamie Braswell, and Mr. and Mrs. Peeler.

Richland Charge, Rev. R. L. Hethcox, Pastor

I held the first quarterly conference of this charge at the parsonage on Wednesday evening. There was a fair attendance, all churches represented except New Union. The members appear to be well pleased with their new pastor and are starting in the right way; purchasing furnishings for the parsonage and pounding him heavily. The conference accepted the items in the entire A. C. budgets in full, and pledged to do their best for the World Service my holding special days and raising money for these interests in this budget. The conference also voted to ask the different churches to take a room at the parsonage to furnish and keep in furniture during the year. This is a fine scheme and should result in the parsonage being well cared for.

Alamance Charge, Rev. J. A. Burgess, Pastor

I held the first quarterly conference of this charge at Center church, December 23rd. All churches excepting Rock Creek were represented, and the usual business of the conference was transacted in a friendly way. The A. C. budgets wre accepted as handed down by the Budget Council, and the pastor is making plans to raise the amounts in the different churches. The parsonage question was up and the committee was told to select a location for the preacher's home. We suppose immediate action will follow this instruction. Bethel church, this charge, pays all claims. Did you get it? This church pays the World Service budget as well as the other claims. It was remarked that this was done by the women; the thing all should know that IT IS DONE.

I visited Rock Creek church December 24th at 11 a.m. There was the usual attendance for their regular service. Extra stewards were elected to raise the Conference claims.

District Meetings

I attended two district meetings on December 31st. The first one was held at Shiloh church in which the following charges were to participate: State Street and First Church, Lexington, Shiloh charge and Mocksville charge. I was there only for the morning service and do not know how well those charges were represented—there was a splendid attendance at the morning service. I was pleased to see how well the pastor, Brothr Ridge, was starting off with the work there. There was a bulletinu on the church wall showing the objectives for the year. Such a plan always bears good results. Dr. Johnson, chairman of the district, was present with several of his members. I suppose a full report of the day's activities will be published in the HERALD, but I was greatly pleased with the evidence of a good start as I saw it.

In the afternoon I was at First church, Thomasville, for another district meeting. Here were pastors Madison, Surratt, Powell, Williams, Taylor, and Hill, with a good delegation from their churches. This was also a splendid meeting; I did not attend the night session but in the afternoon Bro. F. G. Hammer, first vice-president of the Laymen''s Fellowship of the N. C. Conference, was present and shared with me the honors of the afternoon session, making a good speech. It was revealed there that the pastors were beginning the work of the new year with zeal and determination to succeed. All reports showed that the churches beside accepting the items in the A. C. budgets, were accepting more of the World Service budget than last year. The spirit was fine and we feel that the meeting was a splendid success. Chairman Surratt was present and presided over the meeting in a most pleasing manner. First church organized a local unit in the Laymen's Fellowship.

Loyalty League Payments

It was our hope before Conference met to have one to represent this work to our people and to make the collection as he went from church to church. But we were unable to do this. Now, we are appealing to those who have pledged to give a definite amount monthly or at other times to make the payments promptly, either giving the amounts to your pastor to send in or to send direct to Dr. C. R. Hinshaw, Treasurer of the Board, High Point, N. C. He has the lists, but you should state what church you are a member of as well as to give your post office.

Money is needed to take care o finterest, insurance, etc., which the Board has to pay and this is now the only income the Board of Education has. Because of the urgency of the matter then, we beseech you to immediately pay up the amounts pledged and begin the New Year right in this particular as well as in all others.

R. M. ANDREWS.

GIVING THAT WHICH COSTS

After a missionary meeting in Brighton, England, a poor widow of the parish presented herself before the pastor and gave him a sovereign. He knew the poor woman's great poverty, and accordingly refused to accept the coin, remarking at the same time that it was too much for her to give. The widow now seemed greatly agitated, and with the irresistible eloquence of an overflowing heart she begged him to accept it.

"Oh, sir," added she, "I have often given pieces of copper to the Lord. Two or three times I have had the joy to give Him pieces of silver; but it was the grand desire of my life to give Him a piece of gold before I die. For a long time I have been putting by all that I was able to make this sum. Take it, I pray you, for the missionary cause." The minister did not refuse further. He added to the collection this precious offering of a loving heart.—Unknown.

CONFERENCE COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

T. J. WHITEHEAD, President
1800 Spring Garden St. - - Greensboro, N. C.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The North Carolina Conference is to be congratulated upon the program launched at the last Annual Conference session. It takes in every interest of the church—local, annual, and general—for the next ten years.

An important part of this program is the work being undertaken by the Conference Council of Religious Education under the leadership of Rev. T. J. Whitehead. This Council, in co-operation with the Department of Religious Education of the Christian Education Board and the leadership of the local churches, is concerned primarily with the work of the local church.

The whole church program depends upon the local church. If the local unit fails, all is lost. One key to the success of the local church is a trained and consecrated leadership. Another is the success with which a church wins and directs its youth. For this reason, it is timely that an intensive leadership training program is being launched to reach practically every local church in the conference, and a special effort is being made to interest every church in the observance of Young People's Day with the theme, "Youth for Christ."

Let us in the Old North State co-operate to the fullest extent with the forward-looking program which has been presented under the leadership of Dr. Andrews and give to Rev. T. J. Whitehead and his co-workers during January our earnest co-operation in the projects outlined in this issue of the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD.

F. L. GIBBS.

MATERIALS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Young People's Day should be observed in all of our churches on either January 28 or February 4, 1934. To aid the local church to put on an excellent program the Department of Religious Education has prepared the following materials:

The Program Leaflet—On the front page of this leaflet there is a picture of Dr. C. E. Forlines, to whom this special day is dedicated. The second page contains a special worship service for the Sunday school. The third and fourth pages contain the order of service for both morning and evening.

The Preparation Bulletin—This bulletin has been arranged by Rev. F. L. Gibbs, Executive Secretary of the Department of Religious Education. Every pastor should pay close attention to the sermon outlined by Dr. Harlan L. Feeman. The Christian Endeavor Society should consult the suggestion for the regular prayer meeting and the suggested outlines for short talks by young people in the evening service. This bulletin is filled with splendid information on the theme of the day—"Youth for Christ." Be sure to get a copy of this bulletin before your committee completes its plans for Young People's Day.

The Play—"The Saving of Wearyworld" by Dorothy Elderdice is just the thing needed for the evening service. Any group of young people could put on this play. Every congregation would get a great deal of inspiration from seeing and hearing its challenge.

The Offering Envelope—There is a place for giving in the program of such a special day as this. The Young People's Day offering envelope provides a plan by which every Methodist Protestant is urged to make a weekly offering during January for World Service. Money given for World Service will go for Missions, Christian Education and Philanthropy. And note this—If Methodist Protestants in North Carolina give on an average ten cents per person on Young People's Day, we will raise our $3,000. WILL YOU DO YOUR PART?

OUR STORY PAGE

A COLLECTION AND A REVIVAL

I went to help dedicate a church building in one of the Southern cities in other days. Arriving there ten minutes before the service was begun I asked the church officers, "What do you expect of me here?" They told me, "You must preach the dedicatory sermon for this beautiful building, and then when it is over you must get $6,500 in cash, so that we may dedicate it free of debt. That is all due tomorrow as a cash offering."

"Very well," I said, "where shall we get that $6,500 in cash?"

They looked at each other slowly, timidly, and then ventured to say, "Maybe we could get $500 out of our church, but you must get the $6,000 out of the city."

"Oh, dear me," I said, "I am used to this sort of thing ever since I was a boy! It does not come that way. If you get that $6,500 in cash your church will have to give $6,000 of it. Then if the town does not give the other $500, you must give that. Let us face it."

We went into the service. I preached the sermon and then said to the people: "These men bid me tell you that you must give $6,500 in cash, which is all due tomorrow, before we can dedicate this beautiful house. Will you provide it? Here is a man designated to take your subscriptions. What is your answer?" Then there began the slowest, most reluctant, most Christ-shaming offering I have ever witnessed. After thirty minutes they had $3,000—not half the amount needed. Then there was a long pause. I said, "What do you expect of me? I am your guest. I do not happen to have the other $3,500. What do you expect of me?"

There arose a little woman back there, plainly clad. There was a surpassing pathos in her voice, as looking past me to the young man at the desk who was taking the names—her husband—she said, "Charley, I have wondered if you would be willing for us to give our little cottage, just out of debt. We were offered $3,500 in cash for it yesterday. We were told we could get it at the bank any time in ten days if we chose to make the trade. Charley, I have wondered if you would be willing for us to give our little house to Christ, that His house may be free. When we remember, Charley, that Christ gave His life for us, I wonder if we ought not to give this little house to Him."

The fine fellow responded in the same high spirit with a sob in his voice, saying: "Jennie, dear, I was thinking of the same thing." Then looking up at me with his face covered with tears, he said, "We will give $3,500."

Then there occurred a scene beggaring all description. Silence reigned for a minute, and then men sobbed aloud, and gentle women and men standing around the walls, who a dozen minutes before had shut their lips with scorn and contempt for a church halting and defeated, sobbed aloud, and almost in a moment provided the $3,500. Without invitation there came down every aisle to where I stood men and women, saying, "Sir, where is the Savior and how can we find Him?" They had seen Christ's cross incarnated in human lives.

When this wearied, bruised, sinning world sees Christ's Cross incarnated in your life and mine the Kingdom of God will come with a swiftness that will be the wonder of the world.—Geo. W. Truett, D. D., in The Watchman-Examiner.

THE STOWAWAY

On board an English steamer, a little ragged boy, aged nine years, was discovered on the fourth day of the voyage out from Liverpool to New York, and carried before the first mate, whose duty it was to deal with such cases. When questioned as to his object in being stowed away, and who had brought him on board, the boy, who had a beautiful sunny face, that looked like the very mirror of truth, replied that his stepfather did it, because he could not afford to keep him, nor pay his passage out to Halifax, where he had an aunt who was well off, and to whose house he was going.

The mate did not believe the story, in spite of the winning face and truthful accents of the boy. He had seen too much of stowaways to be easily deceived by them, he said; and it was his firm conviction that the boy had been brought on board and provided with food by the sailors.

The little felow was very roughly handled in consequence. Day by day he was questioned and requestioned, but always with the same result. He did not know a sailor on board, and his father alone had secreted and given him the food which he ate. At last the mate, wearied by the boy's persistence in the same story, and perhaps a little anxious to inculpate the sailors, seized him one day by the collar, and, dragging him to the fore, told him that unless he told the truth, in ten minutes from that time he would hang from the yard-arm. He then made him sit down under it on the deck. All around him were the passengers and sailors of the midway watch, and in front of him stood the inexorable mate, with chronometer in his hand, and the other officers of the ship by his side. It was a touching sight to see the pale, proud, scornful face of that noble boy; his head erect, his beautiful eyes bright through the tears that diffused them. When eight minutes had fled, the mate told him he had but two minutes to live, and advised him to speak the truth and save his life. But he replied with the utmost simplicity and sincerity, by asking the mate if he might pray. The mate said nothing, but nodded his head, and turned pale as a ghost, and shook with trembling like a reed in the wind. And then all eyes turned on him, the brave and noble fellow—this poor boy whom society owned not, and whose own stepfather could not care for—knelt with clasped hands and eyes upturned to Heaven. There then occurred a scene as of Pentecost. Sobs broke from strong, hard hearts, as the mate sprang forward and clasped the boy to his bosom, and kissed him, and blessed him, and told him how sincerely he now believed his story, and how glad he was that he had been brave enough to face death, and willing to sacrifice his life for the truth of his word.—Our Young Covenanters.

Money and How Used

Offerings in money have come from many sources since Conference and is greatly appreciated. With it we culled down every bill possible. Since Conference we have lived and reduced our obligations by about $1,500.00 To do this we drew to the limits on December 30th, 1933, leaving just a small balance to hold our account.

That we might pay other pressing accounts, salaries were left back. Now, because of obligations just ahead of him, Mr. J. A. Dixon, our faithful farmer, must have a part of his salary. May we look to every Sunday school in the Conference for good monthly offerings to help meet this need? We thank you for your faithfulness, and may God bless each of you and prosper you in this new year.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

NOTE: We have tried to keep track of, and to report every item coming to us. We know that with packages being left at the door some items may be overlooked. If so, we shall gladly correct. Let us know. A. G. D.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Greensville Charge.—We have been kindly received as pastor of Greensville Charge for the coming year and appreciate the privilege of laboring for and with the people of the charge.

The first service for the new Conference year was at Philadelphia church the first Sunday at 11 a. m. There was a good attendance in the Sunday school and also for church services. After the service the pastor was invited to the splendid home of Brother Pearson, where a good dinner was enjoyed with Mr. Pearson and family.

The second service was at Matthews Chapel church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Here we had a church full for service and we have not spoken to any congregation that was more attentive than the people who composed the congregation.

Night service was at Wesley's Chapel church. Our congregation was small on account of rain.

The pastor and family are comfortably located in the parsonage at Triplet, Brunswick County, a short distance from Roanoke Rapids, Emporia, Lawrenreville, Va.

On Friday night about 7 o'clock we heard a knock at our front door and when we investigated discovered we had a pounding on hand, and the kind that a pastor and family enjoy. We thank each one for the gifts and appreciate the spirit in which they were made. We have already seen evidences of a spirit of love and appreciation on the part of the people of Greensville Charge. It will be our purose to render the best possible service for the promotion of the wingdom during the coming year.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

MRS. Q. L. JOYNER.

Flat Rock.—We had good attendance and splendid interest in the services for the past two Sundays. On the fourth Sunday we were at Flat Rock church for the 11 o'clock service and at Bethany church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Christmas songs were sung and the Christmas theme was discussed at each service. Last Sunday we were at Palestine church for the 11 o'clock service. This church has a preaching service every third Sunday morning and every fifth Sunday morning. After the service Sunday the pastor and family went to the home of Bro. L. C. Tucker, who has been a member of Palestine church for the past 50 years. We enjoyed a good dinner in this home, prepared by Mrs. Tucker, the second wife of Bro. Tucker. We learned that Mrs. Tucker is a Baptist but attends Palestine church with her husband regularly.

There have been a number of members sick for the past few weeks. Some have recovered and others are improving, we are glad to report.

Among the homes visited in the Palestine community last Sunday was that of Bro. Houston Landreth, one of the faithful members. We thank Bro. Landreth for the gift of a bushel of corn which he placed in our car. We have been remembered by others with gifts of fresh meat, milk, butter and sweet potatoes, which are highly appreciated.

Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Annual Conference, will visit Flat Rock charge Sunday, January 14. He will be at Gideon's Grove at 11 a. m. and Flat Rock at 3 p. m. We trust there will be large congregations at each church to hear his message.

The writer and family were remembered by many of the members of our present charge and from members of West Forsyth charge with beautiful Christmas cards and messages. We value these friendships and appreciate more than we can express the tokens of love and esteem from those whom we served in formr years. We are also thankful for the gifts which we received during the Christmas season, coming from some of the churches on our present charge, and from friends at other places.

We were delighted to have had a number of visitors at the parsonage during the Christmas holidays, including members of churches on Flat Rock charge and others. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Hargrove and attractive little grandson, of Burlington; Miss Frances Thomas, of Boone; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Turner, of Burlington; Miss Inez Way, of Burlington.

Our services for next Sunday will be at Bethel church at 11 a. m., and Gideon's Grove church at 3 p. m. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed at each church.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Henderson.—Since our reporter was away spending Christmas and not at our Christmas services I believe I will give a little report.

There was a good average attendance at the 11 o'clock service on December 24th. Many of our people were away for Christmas but their absence was made up for in part by a goodly number of our young people who were home from school for the holidays. The combined senior and young people's choirs furnished the music A number of the familiar Christmas hymns were sung to the edification of the audience in addition the anthem "The Christmas Story," by Carrie B. Adams. Robert Tompkins, son of Mrs. J. R. Tompkins, one of our faithful members, sang very effectively "Jesus of Nazareth." The pastor preached the best he could on "God's Gift of Peace."

At the evening hour Mrs. Gerringer, assisted by the organist, Mrs. Watson, by the choir and the large number who took part, put on the Christmas pageant, "The Star Came." An audience larger than usual attended the special services at this church seemed to have greatly enjoyed it. I have not heard quite so many compliments for any other service since I have served this church.

We were delighted to have the Harrises, the Youngs, the Hights, the Boyds, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis, of Greensboro, Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, of Atlanta, Ga., and there may have been others that do not come to mind just now, home for the holidays and in the services of the church.

Our Christmas came to a rather shocking end because of the tragic death of Mr. Ralph Burrows on the evening of Christmas day. Mrs. Burrows and the daughter, Helen, are members of our church. Mr. Burrows was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The family has our heeart-felt sympathy and prayers.

Many of our friends of former churches we have served as well as many of the Henderson church remembered us at Christmas time with cards and other tokens of their friendship. We wish in this way to thank as many of them as can be reached in this way. And we shall be praying for the Father's blessings to be upon you all during the year ahead.

Some of the preachers have reported as many as two poundings, one before and one after Conference. Well, this preacher did not receive two poundings, but many. The donations and gifts started before Conference and have continued up until after Christmas. One gift especially appreciated by the pastor came just before Conference when one of our members presented the pastor with the finest hat that he has ever owned—a John B. Stetson. I won't tell you the price. Also a real nice tie. These were greatly appreciated, but the pastor didn't know whether to mention them or not since the donor told him to wear them and say nothing about them.

We are looking forward hopefully for the New Year. May the Lord bless abundantly all those who labor for Him, and may our hearts be encouraged as we see the work of the Lord prospering under our direction.

L. W. GERRRINGER.

Lebanon, High Point.—The holiday season with our people has been one of unusual enjoyment. It is gratifying to note causes for special joy, and as the old year passes, we do trust that the advent of the New Year may find more causes for special joy. May many hearts rejoice in God's wonderful love and care throughout all lands.

Last night (Monday) was the occasion of our annual Christmas tree and program in our church. The house was crowded to its fullest capacity. The tree was beautiful and the contata-play rendered by the Junior C. E. Society under the direction of Miss Jewell Welch, Junior superintendent, was a marked success. In fact, some of us who have been worshiping here for many years think it was the best entertainment ever given in our church. Miss Hallie Welch pleyed the role of mother; Mr. C. A. King, the father; Sammie Taylor, the son; Shirley Welborn and Irene Simpson, the two daughters in this splendid Christmas play, which portrayed in such striking contrast the true Christian spirit and the non-Christian spirit in life. A group of girls composing the cantata chorus sang the Christmas songs in a very pleasing manner. At the close of the program gifts were distributed and all Primary and Intermediate Sunday school classes were given a fruit treat.

In the morning service our pastor, Dr. S. W. Taylor, preached a splendid sermon on "The Christmas Story," the one great story of all the great stories. Written by Doctor Luke, recorded in the first 19 verses of the second chapter of St. Luke, the story that takes first place in the world's realm of news stories. Being old in years, it is still fresh, charming, gripping. It is sung, printed, painted, as no other story has ever been, and reverently listened to by thousands of attentive audiences.

Instead of having the usual Senior C. E. program the Endeavorers joined the Rainbow Class on Sunday evening in singing Christmas carols to shut-ins and distributing baskets to the needy.

Mr. C. A. King, Sunday school superintendent, presented gifts to the following: Mr. J. W. Montgomery, Miss Louise Welch, and Mrs. Stokes Gallimore at the morning service. This was done in behalf of the Sunday school as an expression of appreciation for their invaluable services and good attendance in the choir. To Mrs. Gallimore, for faithful service as pianist.

Miss Loula Thacker and Miss Nancy Jones each received a shower of dainty gifts from personal friends throughout the Sunday school as tokens of love and esteem in which they are held and for their faithfulness in the work of the different departments.

Instead of the usual Sunday evening sermon a program of readings and Christmas music was rendered by the choir.

The decorations and pot plants for the services in church Sunday were so beautiful and appropriate that I feel like sounding a note of appreciation for those ladies in charge.

The Ladies' Aid Society has pledged to pay off the superannuate fund and have paid $5.00 of that amount.

With best wishes to the editor, his faithful helpers, and also all readers of the Herald for a happy and prosperous New Year.

Draper.—The Draper M. P. church Christmas program seemed to be a great success. The program opened by a song, "Merry Christmas to You," by the small girls' and boys' class. The second thing on the program was Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. L. S. Helms. The reading was 17 verses from the ninth chapter of Isaiah. After this an offering was taken for the Children's Home at High Point. The third thing on the program was a lot of short readings, verses, and poems by the small girls' and boys' class. The last thing on the program was a play by the Junior Sunday school class. It was "The Star-Lighted Path." This play was carried out splendidly. Each person seemed to know his part well and every person seemed to be touched by that heart-touching drama. The congregation was very large.

After the play the treat was given. Mr. Jack Wyatt acted as Santa Claus. A large number of personal presents were given. Everyone seemed to enjoy the program. Bro. W. M. Keaton dismissed the congregation and all went home and I truly hope that they were not only enjoying the gifts they received at the church but the gift God gave to redeem the world.

We all hope that Rev. R. L. Vickery, our past pastor, is enjoying his new home, and we all hope and pray he makes a great success with God's help. Rev. R. L. Vickery is a mighty good preacher and a mighty good man, and we all know the people there will like him, and here is hoping for him good luck with his work.

R. H. STEWART, Reporter.

Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw Charge.—As the danger zone is passed I will now say we have a good preacher at Orange Chapel, and we are glad that he is going to be with us one more year, and we trust longer. There is not much doing at our church during the winter. Of course, if it is possible, our pastor is always there, but it is a little discouraging when he goes and does not find enough people to be called a congregation. If our people were as loyal to their church organization as they are to the Junior Order and Grange, they would be there and would not ask the weather man much about it. I live in a Grange community and I know. They go and they pay and don't grumble, but seem to enjoy it.

Our Sunday school closed last winter for the first time in several years, but they voted to try and keep it going this winter and not be so much like a bear.

And it is also very discouraging for our superintendent to go, only to find that the first white frost kills it. And, by the way, our famous red muddy roads leading to the chapel have been covered with gravel, so dont be afraid to start if there has been a shower.

However, if we can not report much doing at the church, there has been something doing at the parsonage. When I went over and looked at the yard in September with a view to setting some shrubbery, I never saw such a discouraging-looking prospect, or such a forsaken-looking place. It looked just like its owners had all left the country. But when I went back to set the plants I hardly recognized the place. Some of our church folks had done a good job grading and leveling it. Can't call the names of the ones who did it, but I do know who did some hard digging and work setting those shrubs, and if they grow, Pastor Loy gets the credit. I think we are fortunate in having a pastor in the parsonage who takes so much interest in the house and grounds. But all you Saxapahaw folks who read this, don't think that yard is finished. It is only started; it needs to be sown in grass, and bricks enough to edge a walk so it will be a walk and not a path; and it needs a few special plants that, though they only cost a dollar each, I can't buy, grow, beg or steal; if anybody else can or will it will be appreciated. It is your yard as well as mine.

When I read Dr. Johnson's article where he spoke of those Yadkin College Tottens it reminded me that we have one of them nearby. Prof. H. R. Totten, son of Rev. W. T. Totten, one of our superannuated ministers, is in the Botany Department at the State University. He knows how to teach, grow and set plants; and has advised me some in planning the parsonage setting. He has also given us two special plants. If all the owners of that yard were as interested as he is it would help a lot. There are some conditions, though, that make a proper setting impossible, but they can be remedied to some extent. But I must stop boring the Herald readers with our parsonage problems. The editor will not know in what department this article belongs and consequently it may find the wastebasket. I heard Bro. Bethea say once that it made no difference what subject he started on, if he did not watch he would end up on tithing. (His hobby) And you need not be surprised if my reports end up on yards and shrubbery. (My hobby). I hope next spring to be able to report that the parsonage has been painted. If our Sunday school does not hibernate during the winter, this reporter does, so, if anything happens at Orange Chapel, Pastor Loy will have to report it. I guess he can, though I have never seen an article that he has written. I have never heard of him having writer's cramp, so I don't suppose there is anything wrong with him but modesty or timidity, or both, and he is getting about old enough to outgrow such things.

MRS. J. J. CRANFORD.

Mebane.—On the morning of December 11 my predecessor vacated the parsonage and that afternoon my wife and I took possession. We hardly began to get things in order before preparation for Christmas was upon us. But we managed to survive the rush and confusion, and feel now that we are able to plan for the future of the work.

According to accounts given in this paper, poundings seem to have been in order. Not to be behind any other charge in the Conference, the Mebane church folks surprised us after prayer meeting during our first week here with an abundance of groceries, meat, canned goods and kindling wood. It came at an opportune time, and we were deeply appreciative.

And may I, in passing, express our appreciation to the Grace Church folks, for the kindnesses in word and deed they bestowed upon us before we left Greensboro? A number of practical gifts were presented to us, for which we shall be continuously grateful.

In spite of the brevity of time for preparation, the Christmas celebration was a pronounced success. The White Gifts for the King service was used, and gifts were presented from the classes in the Sunday school as well as Circles in the Woman's Auxiliary. It was previously agreed upon that the monetary gifts from the adult classes should be applied to the Superannuated Ministers' Fund, and the contributions reached the Annual Conference apportionment for this church. This is the first time this has been met for a number of years. Other causes profiting by this service were the Children's Home, Bethel Home, and the local needy.

We find this church to be well organized and progressive. The people are willing, cooperative and enthusiastic. They seem to want their pastor to offer suggestions and make plans for the furtherance of the work, and they gladly fall in line. Underneath this outward demonstration is the impelling force of a consecration to their Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. Trusting in Him, and Him only, for the wisdom, strength and zeal needed to carry on His work, we look forward to a happy and successful year.

E. LESTER BALLARD.

Shiloh.—On Sunday, December 24, we gathered for our regular Sunday school, which was followed by the delivering of the treat. The Primary classes were given treats. After Sundap school we had prayer service, which was led by Mr. Jeff Fritts, who used for his subject "Prayer," reading a part of the 12th chapter of Luke. Mr. Fritts also gave the average attendance for the past year, which was 104.

This seems to have been one of the best year's work Shiloh church has ever experienced in prayer services. This year each class has had charge of a meeting, ending up with the church as a whole leading.

On Sunday evening at 7 o'clock the C. E. Society gave a Christmas program consisting of songs, recitations, and talks. The program was closed by a short talk by our pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, on "The Christmas Spirit."

After the program was ended, the Sunday school gave our faithful superintendent, Mr. H. A. Leonard, who has served for about 20 years, a nice suit of clothes. Then Mr. J. L. Evans, teacher of the Young Men's Class, received a gift. Then he gave 19 perfect attendance gifts to boys of his class. Mr. R. B. Sink, teacher of Mothers Class No. 1, received a gift and then gave four perfect attendance presents. Primary Class No. 1 had one perfect attendance and Class No. 2 had six perfect attendance presents given.

Rev. C. E. Ridge received two gifts, one from Mr. Ed Waitman and family, and one from the Y. M. W. A. class.

On Sunday December 21, a district rally was held at Shiloh church. This district consists of Shiloh Circuit, Spencer, State Street, First Church, Lexington, and Mocksville. Dr. T. M. Johnson is District Chairman, and Dr. R. M. Andrews made the principal address. Other addresses were made in the evening.

First Church, Lexington, and Mt. Carmel.—Our sixth year on this charge is beginning well. Interest in the regular church services continues good and the Sunday schools are increasing in attendance and general interest.

The first quarterly conference of the year was held at First Church, Lexington, Tuesday night, December 12. Dr. Andrews presided over the conference. Reports were good and gave evidence of an intention to make the present year a successful one in the various departments of the work.

The salary of the pastor has been paid up to date and one month in advance. The people of this charge believe in seeing that their obligations to the pastor are fully met, and when able go ahead of the amount due.

Both churches rendered excellent Christmas programs, which were well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

I notice that several pastors have been "pounded" recently; we have not been "pounded," but we have been remembered by the following who have given us valuable gifts: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mallard, Mr. H. C. Koonts, Phonse Bean, Mrs. A. F. Johnson, Mrs. Willie Carver, Mr. Joe Tussa, Mr. R. M. Fritts, Mrs. Julia Waitman, Mr. C. L. Hedrick, Mrs. John Rowe, Mrs. Mary Lookabill, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Koonts. My mother and I sincerely thank each one who has so kindly remembered us, and we wish them success and happiness.

C. G. ISLEY, Pastor.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Dr. Pritchard delivered a most wonderful New Year's sermon to his congregation Sunday morning, using as his subject "God's Highway." He used as his text a portion of Joshua 3:4: "Ye have not traveled this way heretofore." He said that the New Year might be compared to a new highway. There are a great many things to be seen and to hold our interest, and that God does not reveal to us all the things that we will meet during the year. He said this new highway will lead, first, "By the City of Difficulties," and we must not expect the way to be easy; lots of the travel will be up hill. "Before our Lord could wear a crown he had to bear a cross." Second, it will lead by "The City of Indifference." Third, it will lead by "The City of Sacrifice." On God's highway travel is always safer going forward than backwards. Dr. Pritchard also said if we rightly use this highway we will reap some rich rewards in this life.

Just preceding the sermon Dr. Pritchard took a few minutes to pay a tribute of respect to Davidson Alexander Fishel, a retired Methodist Protestant minister and an honorary member of the North Carolina Methodist Protestant Conference, whose death occurred last Wednesday.

Dr. Pritchard suggested at the Sunday school hour Sunday that each member of the Sunday school make a resolution to bring a new member to Sunday school next Sunday.

We were delighted to have the choir of West End Methodist Protestant Church repeat its Christmas program at our church Sunday evening. This took the place of the regular Sunday evening service. The program was composed of varied Christmas music and was heard with much interest.

Anyone wishing to unite with our church will be given an opportunity to do so next Sunday at the 11 oclock service.

The Boy Scouts, Troop No. 7, with their Scoutmaster, Floyd G. Reynolds, and W. L. Caudle, troop committeeman, were guests at a surprise birthday party, given by Mrs. W. M. Pike at her home during the holidays, in honor of her son, Herndon Pike, who is a member of the Boy Scouts, Troop No. 7.

We are glad to report that Mr. J. D. Heritage, who had the misfortune of getting his hand shot about two weeks ago when the gun which he was preparing to clean before starting on a hunting trip, accidentally discharged, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home on Julian street, and is getting along as well as can be hoped for. Mrs. Heritage is a member of our church choir and of the Friendly Sunday School Class.

Mrs. R. T. Gaines, who has been sick for quite a while, is still confined to her home.

The Mission Club, of which Mrs. J. Frank Coble is chairman, and Miss "Polly" Coble president, held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday of last week at the home of Miss Mabel Blaylock, with seven members and one visitor present. They report that they have raised their budget for the year.

Mrs. L. A. Michael continues ill at her home on Tuscaloosa street.

Three of our Missionary Circles met Tuesday afternoon and evening. Circle No. 1, of which Mrs. C. M. Friddle is chairman, met with Mrs. Otis Campbell on Randolph Rvenue, with 15 members present, at 3 o'clock. Circle No. 2, of which Mrs. J. W. Swain is chairman, met with Mrs. J. F. Williams on Randolph Avenue with 15 members and four visitors present at 3 o'clock. The Business Girls' Circle, of which Mrs. Robah H. Fields is chairman, met at 7:30 with Misses Pearl and Velna McCulloch on Martin street.

Spring Church Charge.—The people of this charge have not come to the parsonage in a body and brought their gifts, but every few days something nice finds its way to the parsonage. I just want to mention the names of those who have been mindful of us in this way since Conference: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Massey, Mrs. Catherine Massey, Mrs. T. J. Kee, Mrs. H. E. Vassar, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dimick, Mr. W. W. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crew, Mrs. J. M. Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Crew, Mrs. J. W. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Littleton Balmer, Mr. T. B. Vassar, Mr. and Mrs. John Hart, Miss Martha Ann Barnes, and Mr. J. C. Cook.

The ladies of the Lebanon Auxiliary, wishing to have a part in making their pastor and family happy for Christmas, told the writer yesterday that a fine turkey had been purchased and would find its way to the parsonage in time for the Christmas dinner. All these kindnesses make us feel that our efforts are appreciated and make us determined to go forward and try to accomplish more for our Master's kingdom in the future than we have in the past. Again we say, "Thank you."

Draper Church.—Christmas has come and gone and the activities of the church centered around the general theme, "Christ Is Born." The play given on Saturday night before Christmas was of a high order and presented Christ in the manger, the star that led the wise men to the manger was the striking feature, as it appeared from the Sunday school room brilliantly lighted in four different colors, moved slowly down the main auditorium and stood over the manger. The reporter will give an account of this play in its detail.

The sunrise prayer meeting on Christmas morning was attended by 30 or 40 people. Christmas songs were sung and Scripture was read and everybody took a part in the service and enjoyed it to the fullest extent. At the close, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," was sung, and everybody shook hands and went out into the day rejoicing.

The Wednesday night prayer meeting was well attended and a fine spirit of fellowship and prayer was in evidence.

The Sunday morning services were well attended, showing an increase over the previous Sunday at the preaching hour. A goodly number was present and a spirit of love and fellowship pervaded the entire congregation. The entire Christian part of the congregation pledged themselves to do more for the church and for Christ this new year than in the old year that has just closed. Some who are not Christians came forward and requested prayer and expressed their desire to become Christians. Bro. E. F. Chilton joined the church and others who have been holding their letters promised to to place them with us soon.

Brethren, pray for our little church in Draper that it may be a power for Christ this new year.

A happy New Year to the Herald and all of its readers.

L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Rockingham.—Our pastor, Rev. C. W. Saunders, filled his regular appointment Sunday the 24th, at 7:30 p. m., and remained over with us for the sunrise service Christmas morning and the Christmas tree and program at night. Mr. Saunders in his address Christmas night spoke of the sunrise meeting as being the sweetest he was ever in, which brings to my mind the two days in the Christian year that should be all important: the day on which Christ was born and the day when He arose from the dead.

The new year is here with its new hopes and expectations and I earnestly hope for each reader of the Herald the very best of health and happiness during these coming months. We all have made resolutions in the past, and may each of us live up to the new ones we are making this year; 1933 is numbered wit hthe past. As we enter this new year, let's get down to real work and "keep on keeping on."

Recall this little poem? It's good, and fits in with those making significant resolutions:

"If the day looks kinder gloomy,
An' your chances kinder slim,
If the situation's puzzlin',
An' the prospect awful grim,
An' perplexities keep pressin'
Till all hope is nearly gone—
Just bristle up and grit your teeth,
An' keep on keepin' on.

"When a bit of sunshine hits ye
After passin' of a cloud,
When a fit of laughter gits ye,
An' y'r spine is feeling proud,
Don't forgit to up an' fling it
At some soul 't's feelin' blue,
For the minute that ye sling it,
It's a boomerang to you."

Pensacola, Democrat Charge.—We are one of the smaller churches, but I want to send in a few news items from our church.

We were sorry to give up Rev. Earl Cook as our pastor. We wish to congratulate Roberta on securing him as their pastor. Bro. Cook was a great worker in our church. Among other things that he did he started a growing Sunday school in our church. We will miss Rev. and Mrs. Earl Cook and Loma.

We were glad to welcome Rev. D. T. Huss as our new pastor. We feel sure that he will carry on the work in our church to our great gain. Pastor Huss filled his first appointment in our church the 24th. Our attendance was good. He preached an inspiring sermon. He was accompanied to our church by his daughter and nephew, Mr. Carter, of Pleasant Gap church, who was our delegate to Annual Conference.

A few days ago Mr. M. H. Blankenship and Mr. A. G. Wilson cleaned off our church grounds. Mr. Blankenship also gave a load of wood to the church.

Our Sunday school is getting along nicely. Some of the adult members of our church provided a treat for the children in Sunday school. Mrs. Kenzie Wood deserves to be complimented for her faithful work with the children in our Sunday school.

After church services we pounded Pastor Huss by placing several good things to eat in his car.

Lebanon, Spring Church Charge, C. E. Society.—About two months ago the writer organized a Christian Endeavor Society at Lebanon with 21 young people as members. Mr. W. Zell Burnette is the capable president. It was my good pleasure on last Sunday night to attend for the first time. Miss Rebecca Grant was the leader. The subject was "What Does Salvation Mean?" It was interesting and inspiring to sit and hear those young people discuss that great subject, and this thought came to me. How much this band of young people can accomplish for the Master's kingdom if they are only trained in the right way, and surely the Christian Endeavor is one way of obtaining the right training. Another thought came to me: What a great and grave responsibility this church has in helping these young people to live the Christ-like life. It was a spleasure to speak to them and to try to encourage them in the great work they are trying to do. It was an inspiration to look into their faces and bid them Godspeed.

MRS. Wm. H. NEESE.

Enfield-Whitakers.—Our Herald reporters report the different activities of the church, but I would like to express my appreciation and that of my family for the gracious reception accorded us as we enter upon this work for the second year. We enjoyed working here last year, and are happy in the fact that we have the privilege of serving in this field for another year. We wish to thank everyone who has had any part in any way in providing for our comfort and happiness. We have been remembered quite often with fresh meats, vegetables, and nuts. But we are thankful most of all for the splendid spirit of co-operation in the church program, and for the fine spirit of friendship that we feel.

Last Thursday morning, December 21, Mr. Eli Bellamy and James Rives, Jr., of the Enfield church, drove a truck into the back yard of the parsonage, which was carrying a large box, and they placed the box on the porch of the parsonage, which contained many things for our pantry. I shall not take the space to mention everything we received in this pounding. We do not have words to express our appreciation to those who made contributions, but may we say Thank you.

During the Christmas season many folk remembered us with cards and gifts. We appreciate them very much, and may the loving Heavenly Father richly reward those who sent the gifts and those who remembered us in any way.

We were happy to have Rev. R. M. Andrews, D. D., president of our Conference, with us in two services the third Sunday in December. He delivered a very helpful and encouraging message to two attentive congregations. He was at the Whitakers church at the 11 o'clock service and at the Enfield church at 7:30 in the evening. We were pleased to have a number of members from Whitaker's Chapel to worship with us in the evening service.

The following Monday evening at 7:30, December 18, we held our first quarterly conference. The business of the conference was transacted in a fine spirit, and a number of goals were set forth for the year. It is our sincere hope that we will attain every one of them. May we ask the prayers of the readers of the Herald.

E. O. PEELER.

Orange Charge.—Immediately after Conference we set out to do two things by January 1, 1934—first, to raise Herald deficit in full, $22.50. This was completed and balance sent in December 26th. Second, to raise balance parsonage debt, $1000.00, and burn mortgage at a public meeting December 31, 1933. This was done yesterday.

We are grateful to God for permitting us to see these two things accomplished. We wish to thank the parsonage trustees, the solicitors of funds and the people generally for their co-operation in the above financial campaign.

January—Church Extension.
February—Y. P. Day Offerings.
March—College.
April—Easter Offerings.
May—Annual Conference Expense.
June—Children's Home Offerings.
July and August—Revival Meetings.
September—Rally Day Offerings.
October—Superannuates.

This schedule has been approved by offcials of each church. We hope to raise our apportionments as per above schedule.

We have been remembered during the Christmas season by a number of our friends with cards, etc., expressing Christmas cheer; also several articles, Christmas presents, etc., for all of which we express our sincere thanks.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Concord.—We had a most enjoyable Christmas. On Saturday night our tree was loaded with gifts for every one. Santa Claus was there to see that everyone received a treat from the Sunday school. On Sunday night the play was given. The church was packed and everyone seemed to think it one of the best the church has ever had. Early Monday morning our Junior choir visited many homes, singing beautiful carols.

The Sunday school was off in attendance today, but we hope that everyone will start off the new year with a perfect record next Sunday.

Our morning service was held by our regular pastor. The service was well attended. The choir gave us a special selection which was greatly enjoyed.

We were very glad to welcome back our former pastor, Rev. A. D. Shelton, to preach for us at our evening service. His text was concerning John and his humble life.

The church is in the best condition financially that it has been in in five years. We are hoping that the new year will be the best we have ever had, and with the aid of God and our church members it will be, because with God nothing is impossible.

The board of stewards has formed ittself into visiting boards to keep check on absentees and sick.

We want to be able to make an inventory of our Christian life at the end of 1934 with the assets the largest they have ever been. We hope to be able to say as Paul said: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith."

Siler City Church.—Another Christmas has come and gone. We hope every Herald reader enjoyed the holidays to perfection. Nothing has happened to mar the pleasure of any of our little band, and we feel truly thankful for this. Everyone seems filled with happiness.

On Friday night, the 22nd, our Christmas program was given, which was a treat to all who heard it. Mesdames T. L. Smith, C. E. Brady and J. N. Johnson with their three classes did themselves credit in getting up this splendid program. There was also a tree for the children and grownups. This tree was loaded with presents for everyone, and a treat for the children. It has been said this was the most beautiful tree we have ever had, with all the season's decorations and lighted with spotlights of red and green turned directly on the tree in all its splendor. The church was filled to overflowing. Rev. and Mrs. Isley were present and received some nice presents.

A programe, "The Gift of Gifts," was presented by the C. E. Society at their regular meeting the fourth Sunday night. This was very impressive and a good number was there to see it. Each one in the pageant carried a white gifts which was later presented to our pastor and wife.

Mr. Junius Wrenn of the First M. E. church, was with us at our last mid-week prayer service and made a splendid talk on Christmas. We were very glad to have him.

Mr. Evans Stone, of Richmond, Va., spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Stone.

Miss Verda Shaw Fox has returned home after spending a few days with Miss Gretchen Hargrave of Silk Hope.

With many good wishes for a Happy New Year to the editor, staff, and all the Herald readers.

Pleasant Grove.—Our Sunday school is increasing each Sunday and is moving along nicely under the leadership of our superintendent, Mr. Clyde Payne.

Our pastor, Rev. H. L. Powell, has been delivering splendid sermons to large congregations. Sunday, December 24, his text was Isaiah 11:9: "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea."

The church would not accommodate the large crowd on Sunday night, December 24th, for our Christmas tree and program, which consisted of songs and recitations by the children and also a pageant, "The Starflower," directed by Mrs. Ralph Kennedy. The characters were as follows: Marcus, the Inn-Keeper, Clyde Payne; Rosda, the Inn-Keeper's Daughter, Kathryn Kennedy; Angel of the Lord, Madge Kennedy; Prophet, Wallace Kennedy; Mary, Mrs. Wallace Kennedy; Joseph, F. H. Clark; Miriam, Helen Cecil; Sophia, Sable Hedrick, Nahor, Jones Kennedy; Simeon, Ralph Kennedy; and other Pilgrims, Shepherds, Kings and Cherubs. Each part was splendidly carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Kennedy, of Burlington, and Miss Helen Kennedy and Mr. Quentin Veach were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kennedy Monday evening, December 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Clark were called Monday to Columbia, S. C., to the bedside of Mr. Robert Morris.

On Saturday night, December 30th, the Brotherhood will hold its monthly meeting with Mr. Z. B. Morris. We are sorry Mr. Morris has not been able to attend services for some time on account of sickness, but we are glad to say he is some better at this time.

Graham.—The Graham church observed the Christmas season by three services in the church, one Cristmas Sunday morning at the Sunday school hour when everyone was asked to bring a gift for the Children's Home to be placed under the Christmas tree already erected. To this suggestion our people responded heartily. Beside many useful articles there was quite a purse also given. Don S. Holt, our superintendent, and his father, S. S. Holt, took the gifts to the Children's Home Sunday afternoon. Following this service, the choir rendered special music in connection with the regular morning worship service. Graham's Christmas celebrations were concluded by a service of Christmas story and song at 5 o'clock the same day.

In our people's cheer the pastor and his family were not forgotten. A nice turkey was given by the Auxiliary; hams from Phil S. Dixon and Green and McClure; fresh meat from John L. Amick; "greenback" from Dr. W. C. Goley, and many other smaller gifts which were equally appreciated. We shall try to show our gratitude in the kind of service which we will try to render.

The first quarterly conference will convene on the 12th, Friday night, at 7:30. A full attendance is desired.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

Tabernacle-Julian.—Since Conference we have been favored and blessed in many ways. Immediately after Conference both churches entered into the Thanksgiving services, which came out successfully at both places. We then began to look toward the Christmas season. The Julian church did not have a Christmas service at the church, but just prior to the Christmas time an oyster supper and bazaar was given by the Woman's Auxiliary. The store building in which this was given was decorated in Christmas colors and evergreens, which gave us fine impressions of the season. The net proceeds were encouraging. Christmas at Tabernacle was also nice and fine. On Saturday night, December 22, a group of young people conducted a nice play of Christmas scenes and experiences in a home. The church was beautifully decorated. A Christmas tree with the nice things that go with such a fine old custom was one of the pleasant parts of the evening. On Sunday morning appropriate Christmas music was rendered while the pastor's subject was "The First Christmas Message." On Sunday night our young people again brought us another message as the hymn, "Angels From the Realms of Glory," was dramatized. An offering for our superannuate fund was taken. After the Sunday night service a number of our people traveled in automobiles from house to house where there were shut-ins and sang Christmas carols. In this way the Christmas spirit was carried to the hearts and homes of a number of our people.

Attendance in all our services and financial interest are much better this year than last. It is to be remembered that last winter was a very unfavorable season with much mud and country roads almost beyond travel. while this year the weather has been fine. But beyond this, it is hoped that there is an improvement. More than three times as much money has been raised this year as was raised last year to the same date. We have kept the superannuate fund before ourselves during December. Julian came out over the top. Tabernacle did not quite reach the goal, but they will find it later on. The Conference expense is the item to be cared for during January, and we are hoping that we will be able to go over the top here.

Recently a new garage has been built on the parsonage grounds and an upstairs made in the barn. Now the pastor's automobile, as well as old Guernsey and her feed are well housed. Thank you, good people.

Our continuous pounding is still on and in full force. Among those who have been nice to us recently are R. L. Jones, Jesse Hauner, Clark Kirkman, C. A. Smith, Tom Reynolds, Worth Trogdon, W. A. Corsbie, D. T. Smith, Mrs. Charlie Sizemore, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fields, Mrs. Ed T. Coble, Clara Pitman Coble, and W. T. Hauner. As a result of the kindness of these good people we are the better off by wood, canned goods, fresh meat, butter, fruits and nuts, kraut, case, neckties, towels. We have been remembered by cards of the seasons which we much appreciate. The pounding has been so severe lately we have possibly overlook someone, but if so it was not intentional. Then we do not forget that the whole family, six of us, were the invited guests to a good holiday oyster stew. This was out of the kindness of Bro. and Sister Worth Trogdon, who have recently moved into their new home. God bless the good people, and thanks from every member of the family.

Hickory Grove, Guilford Charge.—Since our last report was sent in we have had an election of the church and Sunday school officers for the new year. They are as follows: Trustees, Mr. A. L. Jones, Mr. R. L. Borum, Mr. Clayton Edwards, Mr. C. E. Jones, Mr. C. C. Hassell, Mr. W. A. Matthews and Mr. Henry Cook; stewards, Mr. O. E. Hassell, Mr. C. D. Tedder, and Mr. Marshall Jones; superintendent, Mr. C. D. Tedder; assistant superintendent, Mr. A. L. Jones; secretary, Joy Strickland; pianist, Celeste Strickland; class leader, Mr. A. L. Jones.

There are 99 members on the Sunday school roll at present. We are seeking the one-hundredth member to begin the new year with.

We were very sorry to lose our former pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome, although we are very much pleased with the new one, Rev. T. A. Williams. Preaching services are held at our church twice each month, at 2:30 o'clock on the second Sundays and 11 o'clock on the fourth Sundays.

Our Christmas program Friday night, December 22, was very successful. A large number was present and everyone seemed to enjoy the large collection of songs and recitations. Santa Claus came walking into the church at the end of the program.

A sad and unusual triple funeral was held at our church Tuesday, December 26th, of three boys, Hubert and Fletcher Vickers and Troy Edwards, who were killed in a train and automobile wreck near here on Christmas Eve with two others. The sixth person is still living. It was estimated that about 1,000 people attended the funeral.

Liberty.—White Christmas was given at our church by the choirs of the different churches of Liberty. The church was decorated in green and white. A white cross was used in the center and tall candelebra on each side with burning white candles. As the processional, "O, Come, All Ye Faithful," was sounded; the choir entered dressed in white and carrying white candlles and placed them in holders in front of the cross, then took their places in the choir.

The scripture reading and prayer were given by the pastor, Rev. Fred R. Love, after which Mrs. John W. Curtis sang very sweetly, "The Holy City." "Vandyke's Christmas Story, "The Other Wise Man," was very effectively read by Miss Katherine Underwood. The gifts were brought from each church by small girls dressed in white at which time Mrs. T. R. Wall sang "There Is a Song in the Air." As the notes of the recessional sounded, the choir marched to the vestibule, then the benediction was heard.

Much credit is due all those who helped to make this a success, and especially to our pastor, Rev. Fred R. Love, and our superintendent, Mr. R. L. Elkins, also Miss Margaret Shepard, president of our Christian Endeavor.

Our church extends sympathy to Mrs. John W. Curtis in the sad bereavement of the death of her father, Mr. W. H. Clapp, of High Point.

Mr. and Mrs. John Holt were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shepard on Christmas day.

Mrs. J. O. Overman was hostess to the Book Club on Friday afternoon at her hospitable home on Swannanoa street. A Christmas tree was one feature of interest, with gifts from their Pollyanna Sisters, after which dainty refreshments were served.

Quite a number of friends and relatives enjoyed a turkey dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Newton Isley on Christmas day.

Rev. and Mrs. Love visited Mrs. Love's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Black, of Weaverville, during the holidays.

An announcement of the marriage of Miss Alta Hudson to Mr. Ralph Eugene Watkins is received with much interest to a wide circle of friends. Miss Hudson is the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hudson, and for a number of years was a member of the Thomasville school faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Shepard and Miss Bertine Shepard have been quite ill with influenza; however, they are much improved now, for which we are very grateful.

Here are some good New Year's Resolutions:

I will read my Bible and pray at least once each day.

Roberta.—Our church work is going forward under the leadership of our new pastor, Rev. Earl Cook. He has been with us since Conference and is already winning his way into the hearts of the people.

Friday night before Christmas we gave our pastor and wife a pounding. Many useful things were given, including flour, sugar, coffee, eggs, nuts, fruits, also clothing and other articles which will be very useful. Many other things were given which are too numerous to mention. A five-dollar bill was put on the Christmas tree for the pastor as a gift.

Our Sunday school is progressing under the leadership of our good superintendent, Mr. Zeb Cochran, with an average attendance of about 200. Our Christian Endeavor is moving along nicely. In the Sunday evening service the Endeavorers pledged themselves to do better things in the future, and to strive to make the organization more worth while.

The Ladies' Auxiliary gave a chicken and oyster supper the week before Christmas and made about $15.00. A Christmas program and tree was given Saturday night before Christmas. CLARA LINKER, Reporter.

I will make at least one person happy each day by some kind word or deed.

I will work more in all phases of church work.

I will help our faithful editor by getting some new subscriptions to our church paper.

I will be happy in my work, whatever that work may be.

The Liberty High School has resumed work. The Parent-Teachers meeting will be held tonight in the school auditorium, Mrs. Wade Hardin, president, presiding.

Now at the beginning of this new year, may we resolve to be more helpful to those with whom we come in contact, each day making someone happier by word or deed so that as the evening comes and the shadows lengthen may we have the sweet contentment that we have been of service to the world.

Best New Year's wishes to all readers of the Herald.

Bellemont, Mount Hermon Charge—We hope that everyone had a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

A large number of people attended the Christmas program which was given at the church on Saturday evening, December 23. The directors and those taking part are to be commended for such a splendid program. After the program the presents were taken from the tree and distributed. Treats were also given to all the members of Sunday school.

Regular preaching services were held on the fourth Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. At this time Pastor Mabry brought us a message in keeping with Christmas. He read from the second chapter of Luke and took as his subject, "Symbols of Christmas." The first symbol of Christmas is song. The first that we hear of the religious message is in the form of a song. The religion of Jesus Christ is a singing religion. Christ came into the world and brought a song. He brought gladness and happiness. A song is something to make our hearts glad. If we are Christians we will be glad that we are; if we are a Christian we will have a song in our lives and gladness in our hearts. The second symbol of Christmas is a star. Jesus is this Star. He is a Shining Star that we should always follow as the Wise Men followed the Star in Bethlehem.

The third symbol is effort. God will never save a person that does not make an effort. God does not save anyone miraculously. We sometimes do not get the significance of Christmas. We do not know what it all means. In conclusion, Pastor Mabry asked us not to think of God as a stern judge, but think of Him as a God who is loving and kind. After the sermon the Lord's Supper was observed. Special music was rendered during the service by ladies from Mount Hermon church. We enjoyed this music very much and hope they can be with us again.

On Sunday afternoon, January 14, at 2:30 o'clock a special service honoring Dr. C. E. Forlines will be held at this church. Singers from High Point College will have charge of the music. Everyone is invited to attend.

We are sorry to note the illness of Mrs. Mabry, wife of our pastor. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

The Sisters' Class met with Miss Nannie Coble on Thursday evening, December 21. The class had a Christmas tree and gifts were distributed to the members.

Mecklenburg Charge.—We were sorry to give up dear Brother Reed, but we all hope for him a happy and prosperous New Year.

We have a grand pastor, Mr. M. C. Henderson. All our people like him. I think he is going to be a great help to our church, he is so full of the work until he will have us going in a hurry. We are glad to see the people taking an interest in the church. Mr. Henderson is interested in the young people, and that's what it takes in the churches today.

Yesterday was the fifth Sunday and we were not looking for anyone, but our dear pastor came down to be with us on the last Sunday and also the last day of the year. We were more than delighted to have him with us, because we all love him. He preached a good sermon, "The End of the Old Year and the Beginning of a New Year." It was enjoyed by each and everyone present.

Everyone in Rose Hill church expects to make this the best year. We are having more services this year than before. We are having two services a month where we have just been having one.

We have also organized a Christian Endeavor Society and are having good meetings every Sunday night. Let's hope we continue the good work.

North Davidson.—We have just closed a series of splendid programs given by the churches. They have been good. We have had a large crowd at each one. There has been splendid co-operation in each. A good treat was arranged for each scholar in the school. The Christmas trees have been loaded with presents.

At Spring Hill when the presents and gifts were delivered Old Santa came and took the pastor by the arm and led him to the Sunday school room where the good folks had gathered together many things to eat. Words can not express our appreciation for these things. I want to say that the ladies of this church have completed the seating and carpeting of the church. This church has a great future.

We held our first quarterly conference December 28, at Mount Pleasant. There was a good crowd present. We spent the day. Sermon at 11, followed by a good dinner given by the ladies of the church. The conference was held in the afternoon. A spirit of harmony prevailed in every item brought forth.

English Street Church.—Our Christmas entertainment was given on Friday night, December 22. All of the children carried out their parts unusually well. Approximately 50 children took part. After the program Santa Claus came and distributed the gifts off of the big Christmas tree and also treated the Sunday school pupils. A large number was present to enjoy the program. Our pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, also received a very nice present—a large barrel of groceries.

Sunday evening our pastor spoke briefly, after which the C. E. Society presented a New Year's program. Events of the old year were reviewed, along with a sketch of the year's work of the church and society. Goals were then set for the coming year.

The ladies of our church have recently organized a new Ladies' Aid Society, with 12 members. Mrs. S. A. Setzer has been elected president and expects to double this number in the near future.

First Church, High Point.—A quiet and impressive wedding was celebrated on Wednesday morning, December 20th, at 8 o'clock, when Dean H. L. Spessard, of High Point College, and Miss Miss Naomi Dawson, secretary to President G. I. Humphreys, were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by Dr. Humphreys, assisted by Rev. R. I. Farmer. Miss Margaret Sloan of the Music Department of the college played the wedding music while Miss Charlotte Cooper, of Baltimore served as the bridesmaid, and Coach Julian F. Beall, of the college, was the groom's best man. Immediately after the ceremony a delicious wedding breakfast was served by Mrs. G. I. Humphreys to a few close friends at her home on West College Drive, after which the happy couple left for Salisbury, Md., to visit the bride's relatives. They will make their home for the present at the College.

Another pretty wedding of much interest was solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. T. R. Ballard, on Howell street on Saturday evening, December 23rd, when Miss Lalah Shepard and Mr. James Oliver Poindexter plighted their troth. The vows were heard by the bride's pastor, Rev. R. I. Farmer, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The home was tastefully decorated with roses, snapdragons and lilies of the valley. Prior to the ceremony, Miss Mae Hayes sang very sweetly, "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life," accompanied by Mrs. R. I. Farmer on the piano. The bride entered with her sister, Mrs. T. R. Ballard, followed by the groom with his brother, Mr. Nat Poindexter, as best man. During the ceremony Mrs. Farmer softly played Kreisler's "Old Refrain." After the ceremony the newly wedded coupe left for a honeymoon tour to Florida, and will live in High Point upon their return. The bride, who is the younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Shepard and who was reared by her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Sechrest, is attractive and popular with a large circle of friends, while the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Poindexter, and holds a position with the Security Warehouse Company. Congratulations and best wishes are extended by many friends.

On Sunday morning, December 24, a Christmas service out of the ordinary was observed, when instead of the usual sermon the pastor presented Dr. Henry Van Dyke's beautiful and impressive story, "The Mansion." At intervals during the reading Miss Beulah Moton rendered quiet music on the organ. The choir rendered the anthem, "Behold I Bring You Good Tidings," the solo, "O Holy Night," being sweetly sung by C. L. Gray, Jr.

Last Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour of worship, after prayer led by Rev. George L Reynolds, who attended services on account of its being the fifth Sunday, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Farmer, delivered an encouraging New Year's sermon on the theme, "We Pass This way But Once," from Joshua 3. He said that we anticipate a great future and neglect or fail to use the present. The challenge to us today is to anticipate disappointments and burdens as well as larger experiences. What place has Jesus in our lives in the new year just dawning? How dare we face life unless He is with us? At this service C. L. Gray, Jr., delighted the congregation with a lovely solo, "Seek Ye the Lord."

The Senior C. E. Society held a delightful supper meeting Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in the dining room of the church. Rev. Tom A. Sykes, pastor of Central Friends church, was the speaker of the hour and college students, who are spending Christmas with homefolks, were guests of honor. This affair was well attended by a goodly number of young people, who voted it very enjoyable.

The usual Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be held this week, and will be led by the minister on the theme, "Is Jesus Conquering?"

The minister and family, accompanied by his niece, Miss Helen Johnston, who has been here for several months, made a hurried trip to relatives in Uhrichsville and Wellsville, Ohio, for Christmas, leaving Sunday afternoon, December 24th, and driving through the country. Miss Johnston, who made many friends in High Point, did not return, but Mrs. O. E. Farmer, the pastor's mother, came home with them and will spend the remainder of the winter at the parsonage. The party arrived late Saturday afternoon and report that they encountered cold weather while away, temperatures at 5 degrees below zero, deep snow, etc. Many friends made on former visits are pleased to see Mrs. Farmer, Sr., again.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert T. Pickens announce the arrival of a baby son at Burrus Memorial Hospital on Tuesday, December 19th. This fine and promising little boy will bear the name of Robert Andrew Pickens, both being favorite names in the family for several generations. This is the reporter's first grandchild, and the congratulations of many relatives and friends are extended to these fond young parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hutchinson, of Charlotte, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gray and family on Sunday, December 24th. Mr. Hutchinson is a brother of Mrs. Gray.

Miss Esther Pritchard and brother, Wilbur, have returned from a holiday visit to friends in Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Gibson, of Durham, the latter having been Miss Lois Snipes before her marriage, were called here on account of the serious illness of Mrs. S. S. Gibson, mother of Mr. Gibson, at her home on Forest Avenue. They returned home Monday.

We are pleased to learn that Mrs. R. C. Boyd, who has not been well for several weeks, shows considerable improvement for the past week.

Mt. Pleasant, North Davidson.—A very interesting Christmas program was given by the young people Saturday night, December 23.

The fourth Sunday morning Bro. Grant brought us a beautiful Christmas sermon, taking for his text Matt. 2:1-3. Jesus not only came many years ago as a babe of Bethlehem, but He is coming the second time to gather His loved ones home. Be prepared when Jesus comes the second time, because He will not wait for anyone to get prepared. Make the preparation now, don't wait, because you know not when or where Jesus will come to you the second time, but He IS coming! No one can enter into eternal life unless he is ready. Be prepared to meet thy God!

At the quarterly conference last Thursday the preaching service was changed. Instead of the second Sunday night it was changed to the second Sunday morning and the fourth Sunday morning, as usual.

The fifth Sunday teachers for the Sunday school were elected for the coming year.

The many friends of the newly-married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hilton, wish them a long, successful life. Mr. Hilton is a faithful member of this church and Mrs. Hilton was a member of Bethany church.

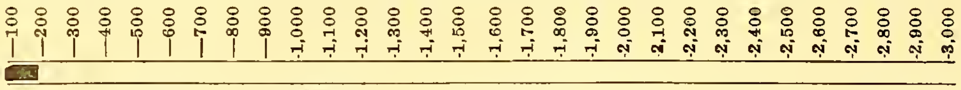
HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS



YOUR CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED TO INCREASE THE LENGTH OF THIS BLACK LINE

And now, brother pastor, if a Herald agent has not been appointed in your church or churches, won't you please see to it that some one is appointed right away and that the campaign is pressed to a finish? Personally, I have always believed that the pastor could do more toward getting subscriptions than anybody else, as he sees the people as he goes around calling. My experience in getting subscriptions both on a circuit when I drove a horse and buggy and as pastor of stations in more modern times justifies this belief; however, I am not insisting on the pastor doing it, just so it is done. But we do want it done. The Herald needs subscribers and our people need the Herald to enable them to know what is going on. So, let the campaign get going and going now!

SILENT STARS

I love the silent stars
  That stud the spacious sky,
Bright jewels of God's Mind
  That lift the soul on high.

I love the silent stars

True symbols of God's Love
  And all-embracing care.

MEETING OF FIRST DISTRICT

A meeting of the first district was held in Littleton church on last Saturday, including President Andrews, Pastors Loy, Joyner, Peeler, Vickery, and the chairman, were present. A number of leading laymen and laywomen were in attendance. The attendance was good considering the brief period given in which to advertise.

Pastor Loy represented the College, and stressed the importance of raising the College assessment. Pastor Peeler spoke in behalf of our Superannuates, urging that this budget item be raised. Mrs. Neese spoke in behalf of the women's work. Mrs. H. E. Vassar spoke concerning Spring church circuit auxiliary.

At this point Dr. Andrews presented the Conference program. Pastor Vickery conducted the devotionals in the beginning, and Pastor Joyner closed.

A Pilgrim's Progress

Not Bunyan's Pilgrim—far from that!
Yet in his mind strong purpose sat:
He would not fail, he would go out
And win the world without a doubt.

Without advice from wise or good,
He goes in ways that no man should;
He tries the paths that him invite,
And many times is caught by night.

New paths he tries, new ways he goes.
And follows on till ways do close:
Himself he finds away from home,
But none the less disposed to roam.

Great gain he sees beyond the hill,
Most charming things his vision fill:
He rushes on with all his strength.
A hopeless man now lies at length.

Or find the course of longest days:
If man would come to glorious day,
Then God himself must lead the way.

Bishop Cannon Must Stand Trial

Five years ago Bishop Cannon took a leading part in the national election, doing perhaps more than any other man toward the defeat of candidates in favor of doing away with prohibition. One thing he did was held to be unlawful and suit was entered against him. The court took the position that the charge was too indefinite to be entertained, and would have dismissed it had not the prosecutors appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States. This court has recently decided with one dissenting vote (McReynolds) that tha charge will lie against Bishop Cannon, and he is sent back to the lower court for trial.

The charge against the bishop is that he violated the Corrupt Practices Act of Congress. This law requires that money received for political campaign purposes be reported to the public. The bishop was charged with receiving a large sum from a wealthy New Yorker which he did not report. The bishop did not deny receiving the money, but explained that publication was withheld because requested by the giver of the money.

Bishop Cannon's secretary or treasurer, a Mrs. Burroughs, is also charged with guilt in the same offense.

It is a case of only technical guilt, apparently, if guilt at all, but such offenders have in many cases been punished as real criminals. Anderson of New York served a term in prison for a mere technical error, an act that hurt no one. We cannot predict the outcome of Bishop Cannon's trial, but he has got the best of his foes so many times that we will be surprised if he does not prevail over them this time also.

The Supremacy of Good

By Grenville Kleiser

Right desires and aspirations bring increased happiness. When you begin the day with a renewed appetite for work and achievement, the world assumes a new and wonderful attractiveness. There are no dull times for an upward-looking mind. Your life will be rich and productive in the proportion that you begin each day with right intention and apply yourself with diligence to the task before you. Success and happiness are not mysteries, but simply the results of obedience to divine law. As you study this law and conform your life to it in all your thoughts and desires, you will experience a sense of increasing harmony, happiness, and prosperity. God's law is supreme, inexorable, eternal.

Good is constructive; evil is destructive. Good elevates, encourages, and sustains; evil saddens, enslaves, and kills. Good builds churches, hospitals, monuments, cathedrals; evil sets up saloons, gambling-houses, and dens of sin. Good paints great pictures, carves noble statues, and designs lofty architecture; evil darkens and blasts men's lives. Good produces the greatest statesmen, prophets, preachers, poets, and philanththropists; evil makes drunkards, thieves, murderers, and social degenerates. Good inspires faith, integrity, love, and truth; evil produces suspicion, dishonesty, hate, and falsehood. Good is eternal and indestructible; evil is temporary and self-annihilating. Good is of God, since God is good.

Dedicate your life to the service of God. You can carry this lofty spirit into all your daily activities, whatever their nature may be. If it is well to serve God at any time, then it is well to serve Him at all times. If you should use one of your gifts for the honor of God, then you should use all your gifts for this great purpose. If it is desirable that you should practice purity, wisdom, and righteousness some of the time, surely it is equally desirable that you practice these great virtues all the time. There can be no higher purpose to your life than to serve God at all times, in every thought, word, and act. It is your privilege to do this from this day forth. God waits on your answer. Think on these things.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

The Leadership Training Schools

We congratulate the Board of Young People's Work on the fine program it is offering our young people in the many training schools, schedules of which recently appeared in the Herald. They, without other advantages to youth of the present day, remind me of the superior advantages offered our youth now over those offered them in my youth. We know that many of our young do appreciate them, but we are wondering whether enough of them do. The church is greatly in need of more trained workers, and as this is such a fine opportunity for them to discover their latent talent for service, we feel it would almost be tragic for them to remain away from the schools if it is possible for them to attend. I know of some pastors who are finding the cost (small though it be) for each student, so that their young people may attend their school without cost in dollars and cents. We shall watch for reports from these schools with great interest and expectation.

Committee on Stewardship's Larger Plans

Before the meeting of last Annual Conference we met with this committee and it was decided to make this committee's work more vital to the life of our membership by setting up a conference-wide committee, which is the committee elected by the Annual Conference, and have it as a sort of clearing house of stewardship, and to try to enlist more of our people in the practice of systematic and proportionate giving. The plan is to use the pledge card which pledges the signer to give as the Lord prospers him; he shall say whether that be a tithe or a larger or even smaller amount, but that he shall fix the amount, and then he shall decide that this shall be given statedly, weekly, monthly, or quarterly. It is the hope of the committee that there shall be enough of such practicers of systematic giving in many of our churches to organize them into a group, calling them the Stewardship League, and that they shall become the leaven which shall help to transform other non-systematic givers into liberal contributors to the cause of the Lord. We hope to be able quite soon to furnish some literature on this subject. Communicate with the Chairman, Rev. N. G. Bethea, Gibsonville.

Moriah Church, Rev. M. P. Chambliss, Pastor

I surprised the pastor of this church by visiting it last Sunday at the morning worship period. Got there in time to see the Sunday school at work and learn something of the work of the church. I was told that the school is increasing in attendance, likewise the church services are better attended than formerly. There was a very good congregation present, considring the day, and the people heard me with patience. The pastor expects the church to pay its A. C. budgets and to hold the special day programs. Moriah church as a community center has a very fine opportunity for service. It has about it a very substantial class of people and is not crowded by the close proximity of other churches. It therefore has within itself the opportunity for both extensive and intensive growth. Such a church can do wonderful things for its youth, and I understand that the leaders in this church, with the pastor, are giving their young people the advantages their circumstances afford them in many ways. The night service is altogether in their hands. We would like to hear more about Moriah church through the Herald. It would encourage other centers which might be set off and do an intensive work of developing the church membership. We were glad to see Brother Earnest Sharpe looking well and cheerful. He is hoping to be out of bed soon. It is our prayer and wish that his hope shall be realized.

Fountain Place Church, Rev. N. G. Bethea, Pastor

This was our first visit to this church since we came into this office, but not our first visit. It was not a good night for church attendance; not too hot or too cld, but too wet. The weather, which might be called the church member's alibi, was working last Sunday night. No doubt it was quite effective at many paces. But we had between twenty and twenty-five present, which I thought was fine considering all things.

Here is a church that has indeed had a strugge to keep going for many years. The burden is the church debt. Nothing new about this,—other churches know all about this experience—but it does not comfort our Fountain Place people to know that others share the experience which has hindered their growth so much. Verily, if the debt could be lifted, I believe the church would have a rapid growth, notwithstanding another denomination came and camped on the very doorstep of Fountain Place after our church was located there. Such disregard for the finer spirit of co-operation and service among the other denominations discourages one who hopes for the final union of Methodism. Nevertheless, we have some heroic souls at Fountain Place. Such things do not daunt them. When a fellow is all nerve and determination, the things that hit him just bounce away further from their goal than they were when they started. There is a little band of twenty-five tithers in this membership. It is really the biggest list I know of in any church in our confrence. We congratulate the pastor on the good results of his preaching. He is chairman of the Committee on Stewardship in our conference. Brother Bethea is getting on nicely at both places. Gibsonville has started off splendidly, too, this year, and it looks from what is now seen that the two charges will have a splendid year. We enjyed the hospitality of the parsonage Sunday night.

Pastors' Federation

This meeting was held at Concord. It is the only Federation that continues to hold its meetings. The president, G. H. Hendry, has been quite efficient and with his able assistant, Secretary Bingham, have prepared good programs and have usualy had splendid attendance. This meeting was quite well attended, just three pastors absent. Those present evidenced a fine interest in the work of the church beside a good fellowship spirit. The women of the church proved their ability to serve a splendid meal at the small cost of twenty-five cents, and so all that should have been done was done to make the meeting quite a success. The conference program was presented by the President of the Annual Conference, and every pastor pledged his support; most of them had already held their first quarterly conferences and had presented the conference budgets and reported a cordial reception on the part of their people. We feel quite hopeful this year regarding the budget. It was the unanimous opinion of the pastors that the Church Extension allotments for the churches in their area would be raised in full. That would indeed be fine. For the Board to receive within the next thirty days two thousand dollars would certainly relieve the tension it has been operating under for some time now.

THE BEST IS AVAILABLE TO YOU

The best things are not remote and inaccessible. They are near you, within your grasp, and ever available. The best times are not in the dim future, but here and now in the living present. The best opportunities are not reserved in some distant place, but are within your reach right where you are today. Heaven is not tucked away in some indefinite place in the sky, but is within you. All that is good and fine and noble in life is now available to you. You will no longer suffer from self-limitation, doubt, and discouragement, once you have fully realized how much has been provided for you. Today earnestly resolve to claim these priceless gifts and opportunities and to use them for your largest unfoldment.—Grenville Kleiser.

DILIGENTLY WORK AND YOU WILL WIN

The men who have accomplished great things in the world have invariably been prodigious workers. You will do well to emulate their example. Whatever your present responsibilities are, apply yourself to them with diligence. Purpose and endurance are the handmaids of successful enterprise. Many men have the means but not the application for great achievement. The certain way to win distinction in any line of endeavor is through intelligent and incessant labor. The records of highly successful men are open to you for your guidance and inspiration. Above all things else they counsel you to work if you would win. The price of real attainment is an indomitable will to persevere under all circumstances. —Grenville Kleiser.

CLEAR ALL CALENDARS FOR OCTOBER 6

A drive is on—unlike anything ever before attempted in the religious life of America—to observe October 6, 1934, as National Sunday School Teachers' Recognition Day, with a mass meeting in every village, town and city in the country.

The simple purpose is to honor the more than two million Sunday school teachers and officers who, unpaid and unrecognized, have been one of the underlying educational influences of our time. This generous expression of appreciation should wholesomely stimulate all religious interests by concentrating public attention upon the Sunday school. Denominational and religious education organizations have already pledged co-operation.

It is of urgent importance that this date—October 6, 1934—be kept free from conflicting engagements by all religious organizations. Officials should at once reserve it on their calendars, and put the subject into their programs. If active co-operation is forthcoming, this should be the outstanding religious demonstration in American history.

OUR STORY PAGE

PETER'S LITTLE FEET

Peter is a little boy about six years old. His mother and he are great chums; they read stories and play games together. It does not seem as if this can be true. One day not long ago, Peter stamped his feet at his mother. It was the first time he had ever done such a thing, and his mother was so surprised and grieved that she could hardly keep the tears back.

Peter ran off in the garden to play, but he could not be happy. He thought for some time what he should do, then he went back to mother and told her how sorry he was to have been so naughty.

His mother took him in her lap, took off his sandals and socks. She wished to look at those little feet that had stamped so angrily. It did not seem possible to her they could have been so unkind. She told Peter that the first time she ever saw them they were wee, wee feet, to tiny and weak that they were wrapped in a blanket to keep them warm. For almost six yars she had taken care of those little feet. She had washed them and kissed them. She had bought shoes and stockings for them. She had warmed and cuddled them when they were cold; she had dried them when they were wet. She had watched those little feet grow bigger and bigger. She had helped them to take the first steps. She had taught them to walk in the right way, the safe path, that when he disobeyed mother he was a disobedient child, even though she did not find it out. * * *

Peter sat very still as mother talked and held on to the little feet, about which she was talking.

THE GOLDEN RULE GIRL

It was Sylvia's birthday and she could hardly wait for dinner. She could not have a party because little sister Jane had been ill, and was just now only well enough to sit up for a few hours each day. Mother had promised, however, that she should come to the table when daddy came home to carry her down, and as long as Sylvia could not have a party, said she might have what she liked best for dinner.

Sylvia had brought the list to mother, who had checked it carefully. ‘‘The chicken is all ready to roast,’’ she said, ‘‘and the sweet potatoes ready to bake. The corn is ready to steam, and the ice-cream is ordered. Everything is going to be just as you wish.’’

‘‘Did you order it from Hunt's, mother?’’ asked Sylvia.

‘‘Yes,’’ answered mother, ‘‘and it will be on the back piazza in plenty of time.’’

All day long Sylvia and Jane played happily in their own room. ‘‘What a good girl my Sylvia is,‘’ said mother, ‘‘to give up her birthday to her little sister.’’

Then daddy came and there was a twinkle in his eye as Sylvia ran to meet him.

Just then mother came up to them looking very much worried. ‘‘I can't understand why the ice-cream has not come,’’ she said. ‘‘I must telephone about it at once.’’

‘‘I can understand it,’’ said daddy, opening a big package. He took out half a dozen big snapper bonbons, and the cunningest little favors, kittens, and puppies, and one beautiful deer.

‘‘You see,’’ he added, ‘‘Sylvia telephoned to me. She thought as long as Jane could not have ice-cream that she would not have it either, and she asked me to bring from Hunt's instead, something that Jane would enjoy too.’’

‘‘My darling Golden Rule girl,’’ said mother, giving Sylvia a hug. ‘‘This will make Jane very happy, and it has made me very happy too.’’

And would you believe it—Sylvia was sure that she herself was the happiest of all.—Unknown.

HE COULD BE TRUSTED

Stephen Girard, the infidel millionaire of Philadelphia, one Saturday told his clerks to come to work next day (Sunday) and unload a vessel which had just arrived. One young man stepped up to the desk and said, as he turned pale, ‘‘I cannot work tomorrow.’’

‘‘Well, sir, if you cannot do as I wish, we can separate.’’

‘‘I know that, sir,’’ said the young man. ‘‘I also know that I have a widowed mother to care for, but I cannot work on Sunday.’’

‘Very well, sir,’’ said the proprietor, ‘‘go to the cashier's desk and he will settle with you.’’

For three weeks the young man tramped the streets of Philadelphia looking for work. One day a bank president asked Mr. Girard to name a suitable person for cashier of the new bank about to be started. He gave this young man's name.

‘‘But I thought you discharged him?’’

‘‘I did,’’ was the answer, ‘‘because he would not work on Sunday. The young man who will lose his position from principle is the man to whom you can entrust your money.’’ —Unknown.

A BLASPHEMER JUDGED

A few months after the baptism, by immersion, of several persons, a wicked young man took a sheep to the same place in the stream, and with fearful oaths swore he could baptize as well as the preacher. The shore of the stream was a very gradual slope, so there was no apprehension of danger from deep water. Three of his comrades stood on the shore and witnessed his blasphemous performance. Taking the sheep in, and holding it by its feet, he pronounced the formula of baptism, and as he leaned over to immerse the sheep, the animal struck him with its hind feet, knocking him into deep water where he was drowned, while his comrades stood looking on. When asked why they did not try to save him, they said they were perfectly helpless and could not stir. Let not the tongue be given to blasphemy.—Selected.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

PRESIDENT OF N. C. BRANCH EXTENDS GREETINGS TO WOMEN

In wishing each of you loyal women of the North Carolina Branch a happy, useful and prosperous New Year, I want to urge upon you the need of allegiance and service to our great church. We are today facing new conditions, as we enter upon the new calendar year, and there are many needs which call for our most consecrated service.

The observance of Young People's Day is scheduled for January, and this year the services are dedicated to Dr. C. E. Forlines of our own state. The Board of Christian Education has outlined three programs, "Youth for Christ," for Sunday school, morning church and evening church services. The receipts for the services will be used for the whole program of the church. Women, do your best to honor Dr. Forlines and to aid your church which is in great need. Thank Offering Day comes in February and we will again have an opportunity to assist in this program, which is also for the entire program of the church. The third urge is that each auxiliary enter in the campaign to increase the subscription list of the Missionary Record. The goal is 1,000 new subscribers during January and February. We must not fail. North Carolina's quota is 150 new subscribers at 75 cents each. Will our women accept this challenge?

Rev. and Mrs. Minnis and their children sailed from India December 1 and will in all probability be on native soil by the time this letter reaches you. Let us give thanks for their safe return. Remember, first comes observance of Young People's Day. Programs have been sent to pastors, Sunday school superintendents, Christian Endeavor leaders, and all Standard Leadership Training School students, who were at High Point last summer. These will be ample for programs in all of our churches. May we in North Carolina prove our appreciation of Dr. Forlines by putting on programs in every Methodist Protestant church in the state.

With personal good wishes and assurance of my appreciation of your co-operation,

Very truly,

MRS. WM. C. HAMMER, Pres.,
N. C. Branch, Women's Work.

SPRING CHURCH CHARGE MISSIONARY NEWS

On January 3rd, 2 p.m., the Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Camp with 13 active members, 1 honorary, 2 Precious Jewels and 4 visitors present. Mrs. W. W. Grant was devotional leader, using the theme, "Guidance," as laid down in the December Missionary Record. The leader made the lesson very impressive, showing that she had put much time and thought on the subject.

Mrs. H. E. Vassar led the society in a very impressive prayer. The program was then given. Mrs. H. E. Vassar read "The Guided Life of a Young Man." Miss Virginia Grant read "The Guided Life of a Young Woman." Both papers were very instructive. Miss Mildred Grant gave a reading, "The Church Walks with the World," making it very real and impressive.

Plans are being made for February Thank-offering programs at each church, and will be made later for the World Day of Prayer program.

Mrs. C. E. Dimick conducted the question box and it was very interesting to see so many of the ladies taking an active part in answering the questions. It certainly makes one study the Record in order to be able to answer all the questions.

A new feature of the program added solemnity to the closing, reading together as a prayer, Hymn No. 221, M. P. Hymnal.

Mrs. Camp's nieces, Misses Virginia and Mildred Grant, served refreshments.

Lebanon Auxiliary met Sunday, January 7, for a short business meeting. Only six members aswered to the roll call. Secretaries were appointed at this time to correspond with the Branch secretaries.

This Auxiliary has a branch budget and it is also helping to pay off some church debts. The January project for raising our $10 pledge is for each member to give or collect as many hens as they can—each one is asked to give at least one hen. Our band of women here is small, but they are proving that, though few in number, they can accomplish much for the church and the Kingdom. We wonder how churches get along without a live Auxiliary.

MRS. WM. H. NEESE.

PROMOTIONAL LETTER AVAILABLE FOR THANK-OFFERING SECRETARIES

Dear Co-Worker:

February marks another red letter month in the church calendar for the women of our denomination. This is our Thank-offering month. We hope that your Auxiliary is already making preparations to observe this day.

The Thank-offering Committee has prepared several programs for your use. "Color Blind" is the suggested pageant and a worship service has been planned to accompany this pageant. For the convenience of our churches that have already used this pageant or prefer something different, we are suggesting several others. A missionary sermon has been prepared by Dr. J. C. Broomfield and will be ready for distribution on January 20 to those churches who would like to use something of this nature and feel that it would be impossible to produce the pageant. "A Unique Plan for Gathering Thank-offering" and "Fun From the Other Side of the World" are also suggested. We have attempted to prepare a service sufficiently elastic for the use of every church in our denomination.

You will also find in the February number of the Missionary Record an article on "Special Objects of Missionary Support"—salaries of missionaries, salaries of Bible Women, student scholarships, will be listed in this article. Make frequent use of it to create an interest in the missionary program of our denomination.

Remember that the February Thank-offering is a credit on your apportionment for World Service, and inasmuch as your church gets credit on its Annual Conference budget as well as General Conference budget, certainly you will want to make the most of your opportunity on this day.

Order your Thank-offering boxes and envelopes from your Thank-offering Secretary, and programs from Miss Bettie S. Brittingham, 516 N. Charles St., Baltimore, Md.

Trusting that February will mean much to you as an Auxiliary and much to your denomination as you seek to observe this day, we are,

Yours in His service,

MISS BETTIE S. BRITTINGHAM,
Associate Executive Secretary.
MRS. W. C. HAMMER, President.
MRS. W. J. BULLIS,
Thank-offering Secretary.
MISS NETTIE JOHNSTON,
Missionary Education Secretary.
MRS. J. W. BOYLES,
N. C. Branch Thank-offering Secretary.

NOTICE OF MEETING

The Executive Committee of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work will meet on Thursday, January 25, at 10 a. m. at the Children's Home. A full attendance is desired.

Members of the committee are requested to take a box lunch and Mrs. Dixon will provide coffee.

Mrs. Hammer suggests that churches having women on the Executive Committee might find it convenient to send cakes to the Home for the children's lunches. This would make a very "sweet" shower.

Business will consist of reports from all officers and district chairmen, plans for Branch meeting, and other items of importance. I have mailed report blanks to each Auxiliary on my list. Please fill out and return at once.

MRS. GEO. R. BROWN, Cor. Sec.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Community church, Thomasville, cakes and cookies for school lunch; 1 tea towel and 47 cakes of soap.

Squirrel Hill church, Pittsburgh, Pa., one barrel of white gifts. A splendid barrel of clothing, towels, bed linens and many other useful articles.

Denton church, Thanksgiving offering in produce, 2 half gallon and 15 quart cans of fruit and vegetables, 6 pumpkins, a package of peanuts and also of apples and oranges.

This report is following a fifth Sunday and consequently is much shorter than usual. The N. C. Branch, the Thanksgiving offering from Denton, and a few other specials help us up with a good report. The dear Lord bless all who have given.

We also greatly appreciate the produce and other gifts. These are wonderfully helpful. Squirrel Hill, Pittsburgh, gave over its entire White Gifts service at Christmas to the Home, and as a result they sent to us a barrel of very helpful supplies.

Coupons

We have just shipped a very fine lot of coupons to the Octogan company for which they will send us check soon. We thank all who helped in any way to gather these.

Looking to May 1st

Most churches and Sunday schools have done fine by us for Thanksgiving and Christmas. We are confidently looking for and expecting a Thanksgiving offering from some yet. They always do send such an offering, but so far haven't this time. Others should fall in line.

Looking to May 1st, or thereabout, we hope to get substantial help from the Duke Endowment. If all our Sunday schools will set aside one Sunday in each month, take an offering and send to us promptly, then when May comes with its Duke gift we will be able to pay up closer than ever. We are sure you will help us in this and we rejoice in the outlook. God bless every one of you.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

TRAGIC PASSING OF BRO. D. A. FISHEL

The many friends of Bro. D. A. Fishel will be grieved to learn of his tragic passing.

On last Wednesday, about 5:30 in the evening, his home was set on fire by the turning over of a lamp in a servant's room located on the rear of the building. While his daughter, Miss Pearl Fishel, was trying to attach the hose to the water pipe, Brother Fishel hurried down the back steps to call for help. He then turned to go back into the house and fell dead at the top of the steps. Help arrived as quickly as possible and carried the body of Brother Fishel to a neighbor's home. A doctor was promptly summoned, but he could do nothing. The life of this dear man was gone. The home, and practically all the contents, were completely destroyed.

The funeral followed on Thursday, and was in charge of the writer, who was assisted by Rev. Mr. Joyner of the Episcopal church; Rev. Mr. Bradley, of the M. E. Church, South, and Rev. R. L. Vickery, pastor of Littleton charge. Interment was in the Littleton cemetery.

The loss that the family feels in the breaking of this earthly tie, and also his neighbors among whom he lived for half a century, is keenly shared by those of us in the conference who knew Brother Fishel intimately and who loved him.

In due time a suitable obituary will be prepared and published in the Herald.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Pleasant Grove Station.—On November 17, 1933, the stationing committee of our Annual Conference convened at Thomasville, read my name for the pastor of the above-named station. I entered the work assigned at once. I met a good congregation to hear the new pastor. I wondered if this fine congregation had come just to see how the new pastor looked! I found quite a number that I knew and had preached to elsewhere. We have had people from Thomasville, High Point and Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge. I do not think that there has been any vain curiosity just to see the new pastor, as our congregations have had a steady increase till now we are greeted from Sabbath to Sabbath with a well filled house of fine looking folks to hear the Word. The Sunday school has increased more than 25 per cent from the number found on the first Sunday I visited this church. The Men's Bible Class, of which I am a member, has set for its goal 100 men by the close of the year. Watch us and see us reach this goal!

The church is large, with ample Sunday school rooms. I judge we can care for from four to five hundred in Sunday school. We can not be satisfied till we see every room filled to full capacity. The pastor will do his best and I believe this fine bunch of young people will do theirs. I say young people advisedly, for we have no old people. The oldest of our young people is Bro. George Hilton, who is only 72 years young, and is present at each service. I see large possibilities here.

We held our first quarterly conference with 10 officials present. The general routine of business was transacted in harmony. We have accepted our financial obligations and will do our level best to raise them. We are getting the Sunday school classes to sign up to pay 25 cents per months each to the Annual Conference claims. We will have our special days and offering for World Service.

The Christmas program and tree was on Christmas Eve. The auditorium was filled to its capacity. All room for seating and standing was taken; some of the older young people said to me: "I am surprised; I had no idea of such a crowd, the largest ever seen here." The pastor, of course, was asked to say something. I never looked into the faces of a finer looking congregation. The deportment of the congregation was the finest I ever saw on a like occasion. I never witnessed a more impressive program. I am stepping light, because our good reporter will, or has, report in detail. The pastor was very generously remembered. Many thanks to the givers.

On last Saturday night I attended a Brotherhood meeting at the good home of Bro. Burgis Morris. It was well attended and to say we had a good and profitable time would put it very mildly. A finer spirit of brotherhood and fellowship I have never seen. This Brotherhood is undertaking for Kingdom service. Bro. Morris has been sick for several weeks, but is now convalescent. We shall be glad to see him able to be back in worship with us.

Last Sunday at 11 a. m. we had one of the finest consecration services I have ever witnessed in the 38 years of my ministry. Nearly all of the congregation came forward for reconsecration to the Master's service for the new year. Every organization seems to be on the go. We feel greatly encouraged and we are looking for one of the best years of our lives in our Master's service.

I have already received many tokens of kindness. May the Lord abundantly bless our feeble efforts to do His will, and may pastor and people be joined heart and hand in putting forth a solid front against the forces of evil. Come on, brethren, the boat is on our side; Jesus is the captain. All aboard for a safe crossing.

H. L. POWELL, Pastor.

Guilford Charge.—New Year wishes to all the Herald readers.

We held our first quarterly meeting the 16th of December with a large attendance from three of the churches. Vickory was not represented. The business was transacted in harmony. I have filled two appointments each at all four churches and have found a fine people to serve. They have received us very cordially and were soon busy finding out what was needed at the parsonage for our comfort. Finding that we had no living room suit, they were not many days getting money for us to purchase one, which we are very proud of. We have been receiving nice things for the pantry from each church. On Friday before Christmas the real pounding came from Fairfield church. Three car loads came and many nice things were left for us to eat. They also brought us four loads of wood, sawed and split, ready for us. I can't take space enough to mention each name or article brought, but our Heavenly Father knows all. Mrs. J. L. Cashatt, teacher of the Primary class at Mitchell's Grove, placed a large basket in front of the altar at Sunday school and it was a touching scene to witness the little ones bringing their gifts and placing them there for the pastor and family. We have received a load of wood from this church. These people want us to keep warm as well as to have something to eat. We are very grateful to each one and hope to be able to help them in a spiritual way.

On Tuesday after Christmas I was called on to assist in the funeral of three young men at Hickory Grove. They were killed at a crossing near Greensboro by a train. Two brothers, Fletcher and Hubert Vickory, and Troy Edwards. The bereaved families have our sympathy.

T. A. WILLIAMS.

Thomasville, First.—This Christmas has proven to be a very happy one for this community all because of the thought and consideration the folks had for others. After all, "it is more blessed to give than to receive." There was a great deal of philanthropic work done during the holidays, cheering the lonely and sad and sharing our joys with those who are so unfortunate.

On Christmas Eve night the Children's Home family came over and gave a delightful Christmas program to a church packed to its capacity of people, who came to see our children and to give them their Christmas offering and best wishes. It was our purpose to see that each child of the Home received a gift and we hope there were none missed.

Last Sunday we were allowed the honor of entertaining the District Rally in our church. The service, which began at 3 o'clock, was well represented from the churches in this district. Some few churches were not represented. The devotional was conducted by Miss Anna Tesh, of the Winston-Salem District. Rev. R. M. Andrews was present and gave an address; also Mr. Hammer, vice-president of the North Carolina Layman's Fellowship organization, brought to us a "sermon" in behalf of the organization which he represented.

Mr. W. J. Lofton was elected president of our own Brotherhood, and L. R. Jarrett and D. R. Connell first and second vice-presidents, respectively; William Dorsett, treasurer.

For the evening rally service we had the distinction of hearing Rev. G. I. Humphreys, president of High Point College, preach a wonderful sermon. We had also a few members of the male chorus who furnished the music for the evening.

Mr. Ed Owen has recovered from a tonsil operation sufficiently enough to be out again.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Loltin on January 1, a son.

Miss Ruby Pearson, who has been spending some time with her sister, Mrs. T. G. Madison, has returned to her home at Roanoke Rapids, N. C.

Rev. and Mrs. T. G. Madison spent Christmas day with Mr. Madison's parents at Statesville, N. C.

Hobhs Chapel, Greensville Circuit.—We have had the pleasure of hearing Rev. Q. L. Joyner preach three times since he came to Greensville charge. His first subject was "The Absent Church Member." Thomas was used as an example. He said Thomas hurt himself, his church, and his Christ by his absence. Bro. Joyner left food for thought to the careless church-goer. His second discourse was "Fishing For Men." The reason that ministers and Christians do not catch more fish for Christ is because of lack of faith in God and failure to launch out into the deep water. His third sermon was the old, ever new story of the birth of the humble Christ-child, and its significance to the world. The lowly Babe came to bring peace and good will to all men in a world of darkness and confusion. Bro. Joyner stated that the trouble with the world today was that the world failed to accept and practice the principles which the Christ came to bring to the peoples of the earth.

Bro. Joyner and family are finding a warm place in the hearts of our people, as evidences have been shown from time to time. We believe this is going to be a good year for the charge if the folks will pray and stand behind him in every good work. He and family have already visited many homes, and the result is better church attendance.

Bro. Joyner's son, of Asheboro, N. C., visited the parsonage during the holidays and worshipped with us on Christmas Eve. He made a very favorable impression on the older people. We wonder about the girls?

We were sincerely glad to see such an excellent report from Richland charge. Folks, if you continue to back up Bro. Hethcox we believe you will hear some as good sermons as any of our preachers can deliver. Our prayers and New Year wishes follow Bro. Hethcox and family to his new field of service. Our home and church doors will be open a hearty welcome awaits them any time they see fit to return to Old Virginny.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Pair are the proud parents of a baby boy, Silas Auman. We trust Rev. Clyde Auman will return to Greensville charge sometime and see his namesake. 'Twould be very agreeable if he'd fetch his family along, too.

Brower's Chapel, Richland Circuit.—We are moving along nicely. Our Sunday school is doing good work and the attendance is fine. We had a nice Christmas program Saturday night before Christmas at our church. A large crowd was present.

On Sunday morning we had with us our new pastor, Mr. Hethcox, and family. He gave us a fine sermon. The churches of the charge recently pounded him, for which many thanks were extended.

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Preaching every fourth Sunday at 11 a. m.

The Ladies' Aid of Brower's Chapel held a Christmas tree entertainment at the home of Mrs. Zelle Brown on Thursday evening at 2 o'clock to present the Health Sisters with gifts. Mrs. Brown was also remembered. At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Brown served refreshments. Our last monthly meeting was held with Mrs. Hugh Brown. Miss Effie Brown, president, had charge of the devotionals. Rev. and Mrs. Hethcox, the new pastor and his wife, were present for the first meeting after their arrival on the new charge and joined our Circle. Roll call showed a good attendance with a nice collection. The next monthly meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Deaton the first Thursday in January. Following the business a social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown.

Denton Charge.—Since I sent in my last report to the Herald many changes have been wrought. First, I want to express our appreciation and gratitude for the kindness, sympathy and prayers of our friends here and elsewhere during the illness of my wife, birth and death of our infant son. Mrs. Bowman was very sick and spent two weeks in Burrus Memorial Hospital, High Point. At present she is at home and is getting along nicely.

In reading the Herald I notice so many pastors speak of being pounded at some particular time. Well, these good people at Denton and the other churches nearby began daily pounding when we arrived here Thanksgiving day and they are still on the job. Besides milk, butter, meats, cakes, pies, sugar, coffee, fruits, and other things for the kitchen, the refinishing of the dining room table, six chairs to match, curtains for the dining room and re-enameling three beds has been donated by one family. Another family gave 20 gallons of kerosene oil and still another installed a radio by the bedside of Mrs. Bowman for her use during the time she is confined to her bed and room. To each and all we wish to extend our deepest appreciation and heart-felt thanks for these many gifts which have been so helpful and which have meant so much to us.

During the time my wife was in the hospital the good people of Denton church did a lot of work at the parsonage. They painted inside, stained floors, put in some new window shades and curtains, and did a great many other nice things. We are truly thankful for all that has been done. It was very kind and thoughtful of Brother Short to leave us a nice turnip patch.

The work at all the churches seems to be going nicely and much interest is manifested. The attendance at Canaan church, particularly of the young people, has greatly increased. On Sunday morning, December 24th, Cid church gave a splendid Christmas program, had a Christmas tree and gave treats to 80 or more. Sunday evening, December 24th, Denton church gave a Christmas pageant entitled "White Gifts." It was directed by Mrs. John Mitchell, who was assisted by others. The White Gift was a liberal offering given for the superannuates of our Conference. During the latter for of January there is to be a Leadership Training School held at Denton church. All members of the surrounding churches are invited to attend and take part.

A Young People's program will be given at Denton the third Sunday evening in January. We are hoping to put one on at each of the other churches the two Sundays following. The A Capella Choir from High Point College is to be with us at Denton church the first Sunday afternoon in February. Prof. Hunter has been elected chairman of the business organization of the church, which will meet once each month, or oftener. Another organization has been completed which you will hear from in the near future.

Bethesda.—Since our last report there have been some changes made. We have had to give up our preacher, Mr. Maier. It was sad to part with him and his good wife, but our Conference president saw fit to change him to another work, so he gave us Rev. T. M. Johnson in his stead. We all like Bro. Johnson. He has filled all his appointments up to date. He gave us a wonderful message on Sunday before Christmas about the angels being sent from heaven to proclaim peace and good will to men. Yet it is sad to think so many will not accept that peace.

Our first quarterly conference was held December 7th at State Street church.

We were glad to have Mr. Sam Leonard, of Rocky Mount, with us today. He is one of our boys and we are always glad to see him. He gave us a very fine talk in Sunday school about how we should start the new year that is just ahead of us. He said no matter how badly our pages from the old year were blotted with wrong things we had done that we would all have a clean page to start with tomorrow. So, dear readers, let's one and all make that one New Year's resolution, to try and keep our pages as clean as possible all through the year 1934, asking God to help us. May we all set a goal to work for as did Paul, as we have been studying the past quarter in our Sunday school lessons, so when we come to the end of our journey here on earth we can say "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

The teacher of the Ladies' Bible Class asks each one of the members to tell what they admired most about Paul's life. It seemed they all admired his courage to stand for the right, no matter what happens to him. I fear we are all guilty of that, to give away to things that are wrong for fear someone will get mad. May we ever stand for the right, no matter what the cost may be.

Kannapolis.—We have just finished another book in life's history. Are you satisfied with your past life? Do you desire a closer walk with the Author and Finisher of your soul in the future? If so, there is no better way to obtain this than to stand by your church and work for the upbuilding of God's kingdom and pray without ceasing for faith and understanding from God the Father.

Our pastor is spending two weeks with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Morris, of Fallston, N. C. In his absence on Sunday, December 31 we had with us Mr. Henry, principal of Aycock School in Kannapolis, to deliver a splendid sermon, taking the 23rd Psalm as his subject and some wonderful truths were discussed. At the evening service Mr. R. T. Sides brought another fine sermon. Pastor Morris will be back on Sunday, January 7, at the usual hour, and we trust he may come back to us with his cup of faith and advice running over.

We are very sorry that some of our flock are indisposed at this time. They are Mrs. C. B. McCommons, Mr. M. W. Henderson, Little Miss Zela Sides. We hope for these a speedy recovery. Am happy to note that Miss Virginia Ruth Marlow is able to be out again. Grandma Ramsour is still unable to be with us, and we are very sorry. Hope that she may be back soon.

The Ladies' Aid held their regular monthly meetings last evening, January 1, 1934, Circle No. 1 meeting with Mrs. M. E. Marlow at 7 o'clock with 14 members and one visitor present. After the business those present were served delicious refreshments. Circle No. 2 met with the president, Mrs. L. C. Carter at 7 o'clock with nine members and five visitors present. After the business hour a delightful social hour was enjoyed.

Spring Hill Church.—In spite of the bad weather Sunday afternoon there was a large number present for Sunday school, with Mr. Robert Swaim taking office as our new superintendent. Clark Haynes was re-elected as our secretary and treasurer. The following teachers were elected for the following classes, Mr. C. W. Haynes, teacher, and Mr. Henry Byerly, as assistant for the Men's class; Mrs. Virgil Swaim, teacher, and Mrs. Wesley Payne as assistant for the Women's class. Milford Byerly, teacher, and Bennett Hilton as assistant for the Young Men's class; Miss Bessie Swaim, teacher, and Mrs. Henry Byerly as assistant for the Young Ladies' class; Mrs. Richard Byerly, teacher, and Miss Myrtle Byerly as assistant for the Junior class; Miss Helen Moore, teacher, and Miss Bernice Swaim as assistant for the Primary class, and Miss Edith York, teacher, and Mrs. Mae Hodges as assistant for the Beginners' class. We hope to have a prosperous year and wish the same to all the other churches.

Our pastor, Rev. C. L. Grant, was in the pulpit Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and delivered a most interesting sermon. We were glad to see several visitors at this time and hope they will all come back and bring someone else with them.

Miss Ollie Belle Moser, of Burlington, spent the past week with her cousin, Miss Edith York. They left Sunday afternoon for Burlington where Miss York will spend a week with friends.

At the time of this writing we regret to hear that there is much sickness throughout the community. Mrs. Carl Swaim and son, Howard, have been seriously ill with pneumonia for the past two weeks, but are slowly recovering. Miss Doris Swaim has also had pneumonia, but is on the road to recovery. We miss them in our congregation and hope they will soon be able to be back with us.

We are proud to state that as we enter the auditorium of our church we see new benches and the floor has been carpeted. The credit goes to Miss Bessie Swaim, who has given more of her time than anyone else to this cause. She is a great church worker and we are glad to have her in our church.

The Young Ladies' and Young Men's classes have recently completed their Sunday school rooms in the basement and are occupying them now. We hope that it will not be long until we all may go down there for Sunday school.

At the quarterly conference at Mount Pleasant two weeks ago, the matter of the parsonage debt was raised and it was agreed that the charge would try to raise $50.00 and the interest toward the debt. Spring Hill's part would be $23.00, and it was voted Sunday that the stewards try to raise the money.

We sincerely hope each member will try to give some money toward this debt.

Whitakers Church.—I haven't reported since Annual Conference. We welcome the return of our former pastor and his fine wife.

The third Sunday in December our president, Dr. R. M. Andrews, was with us, and we enjoyed his visit so much. He was our pastor a number of years ago, and we are always glad to have our old preachers with us. This was his first work in the ministry.

On the night of the 16th of December we held our first quarterly conference with Enfield church. We had a very good meeting and everything was carried on in a fine spirit. I heard one lady say she thought it was the most spiritual meeting she had seen in some time.

We are anxious to do our part to carry out the Conference program as well as possible.

Our Sunday school holds up fairly well. Some of our number are still not able to be with us in our church activities. Mrs. J. M. Cutchin is still in with a broken foot, however we hope the worst is about over with that.

With best wishes for a truly happy new year to the editor and all readers of the Herald. REPORTER.

Weaverville.—I am very happy to be returned to this charge for another year. I have been sick since Conference, a part of the time in a hospital in Asheville in a very critical condition, coming back home just a few days before Christmas, and being confined to my room during the holidays. Thus, I have not been able to do anything on the charge, but am better now and was able to fill my regular appointments yesterday for the first time.

I want to take this method of thanking the brethren and friends of the Conference from all over the state for the many kind greetings and Christmas cards that came to us during the holiday season. I was not able to write in reply, so am taking this method of saying Thank you to each and every one that remembered us at that time.

One of our churches, Mt. Zion, came en masse and pounded us on the night before I was carried to the hospital the next morning. (However, that pounding, heavy as it was, was not the cause of my having to go to the hospital.) Then the other two churches began remembering us as soon as I came home, and they still keep it up, every day or two someone from the different churches stopping at the parsonage with gifts that cheer the hearts of the occupants of the parsonage, and keep our table loaded with good things for the inner man.

Time and space forbids the mentioning the names of the gifts and the givers, but we know them, and God knows them all, and we appreciate so much everything that has been done and every gift that has been given, and we thank them for it all. Our prayer is that we may measure up, and show our appreciation in better and more consecrated service for the Master with these people.

We are planning for a better year the coming year than at any time during the present pastorate, and the prospects are good, the outlook for the future is bright, for a great year in Kingdom sevice.

Our reporters from this charge seem to be asleep on the job; at any rate, they are not reporting and should they continue to slumber I shall take it upon myself to write an occasional note to the Herald, and we hope to have something to report from time to time from this charge, and we feel sure that we will.

With all good wishes and prayers for a prosperous and happy New Year for the Herald family, and for the entire Conference.

E. G. COWAN, Pastor.

Fallston Charge.—We have found the people on our new work kind, liberal and generous toward us. Our first "pounding" netted up 64 cans of fruits and vegetables, and everything else to match that goes to make up a well filled pantry. The supply has not as yet diminished; others have added to it as fast as we have taken away. Our reception at the churches and the co-operation offered has everywhere been just as generous.

Our first quarterly confeence was held on Januay 6th. Here I "bumped" into exactly what I have been looking for for some time; namely, a group of churches willing to take a day off at least four times a year for the work of the church. There were perhaps a hundred people present despite a steady downoour of rain. The morning service in attendance and response was much like a regular church service. However, undearneath it all lingered the consciousness that we were there in an official capacity. To me the hour was inspiring and made a good foundation for the work of quarterly conference proper which followed in the afternoon. All the business which usually comes before the first quarterly conference was transacted in a friendly and orderly manner. The people are making an earnest attempt to raise the pastor's salary, $250.00. A little boost from old man prosperity would easily put it over.

Of course, four or five weeks is a short time in which to learn even slightly eight or nine hundred members. However, each day brings increasing evidence that the people are worthy of the best any pastor can give them. The five church buildings are the equal of any similar group within our conference. Two of them have histories running back covering a period of near a century. The cemeteries as a rule are large, including many impressive markers. The churches as a whole are well located. Three on the state highway, the other two nearby. Five miles of dirt road will get you to all of the churches. Friendship Sunday school has an enrollment of considerably more than 200 members. All the other churches have good Sunday schools, ranging in enrollment from near 80 to 150. There are now six ministers who have gone out from the charge, doing active service in our Conference. Sometimes when I have more space at my disposal I may give their names. In the meantime you may take a guess. It would be interesting to know whether any other charge has a similar or larger number of men now serving in our Conference.

Calvary, Greensboro.—At our mid-week prayer service last week Dr. Pritchard read the first 18 verses of John I, placing special emphasis on the 12th vese: "But as many as received him, to them gave he the right to become children of God." Dwelling on the word "become" he said we should all want to, and try to, become something better than we already are. He fears that a Christian has "lost sight of the goal" when he is satisfied to stay where he is and not try to become something better.

The regular weekly meeting of the Boy Scouts Trop No. 7 was held Friday evening in the hut with a large attendance. Several of the boys have their Scout uniforms. There are two candidates that are ready to pass off their tenderfoot requirements so they may become Scouts. The boys are very enthusiastic in Scouting. Most of them have passed off the requirements to become second class Scouts. They initiated Dr. Pritchard, who is Dr. Bates' successor as Troop Committeeman, Friday evening. They had looked forward to this opportunity and had lots of fun. Dr. Pritchard seemed to enjoy it equally as well, and is now a full-fledged Scout.

Frank Braden, Scouth executive, and Ed P. Benbow, District Boy Scout Commissioner, visitors from the Greensboro Boy Scout Council, made brief but inspiring talke on 1934 Scouting plans at the meeting. The officers of Troop No. 7 are: J. Frank Coble, chairman of the troop committee, which consists of Dr. J. E. Pritchard, John Ingram and W. L. Caudle; Floyd G. Reynolds, scoutmaster; Ross Dixon, assistant scoutmaster; Ernest Curtis, Wolf Patrol leader; Floyd Poe, assistant Wolf Patrol leader; John Emanuel, Eagle Patrol leader; C. M. Aiken, assistant Eagle Patrol leader; Clarence Ingram, flag-bearer; Robert Lee Laughlin and Billy Caudle, color guards; Hendon Pike, troop scribe; Clarence Ingram, quartermaster, and Robert Flemings, Troop collector. Dr. Pritchard, Troop Committeeman, and Floyd G. Reynolds, Scoutmaster, attended the Greensboro monthly Scouters' Club at the West Market Methodist church Monday afternoon.

The Christian Endeavor is making splendid progress under the leadership of Miss Claudine Kirkman. Miss Ruby Blaylock was leader Sunday evening.

Dr. Pritchard delivered two very inspiring sermons Sunday. At the 11 o'clock service his subject was "Cheerfulness," and Sunday evening he spoke on the "Golden Rule."

The Friendly Class met with Mrs. C. S. Current Monday evening with 14 members and two visitors present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. S. Hemphill.

The Business Girls' Circle is having an oyster supper at the Hut Friday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock. Tickets may be secured from any member of the Business Girls' Circle.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. T. F. McCulloch is slightly ill. Her illness was caused by a fall from the doorsteps at her home last Wednesday as she was returning home from her Circle meeting.

Dr. Pritchard spoke to the Greensboro Rotary Club Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 and as a newcomer received a warm reception.

He also delivered the principal address Tuesday evening at 7:45 to the quarterly mass meeting of the Greensboro Christian Endeavor Union. He is a member of the city union, serving as chairman of the social service and prison work in this organization. The members of the Calvary Christian Endeavor attended this meeting.

Reidsville.—The following items may be of interest to our brethren throughout the Conference:

A Thanksgiving offering to the Children's Home.

A Thank-offering service held by the women of the church amounting to more than thirty dollars.

A visit from our president, which was enjoyed and appreciated by pastor and people.

A donation of good things to eat, including two turkeys and a guinea. Since which time we have been able to gobble and chatter to our heart's content.

A few New Year's resolutions have been made by all of us, and by the time this is in print some of them will have been broken and we will still be numbered with the great majority of mankind. If we can manage to keep one, namely, the resolution to be more Christ-like during 1934, the Lord will doubtless forgive us for not keeping the others.

Friendship, Fallston Charge—The first quarterly conference met last Saturday at the Knob Creek church with good attendance from all churches. At the 11 o'clock worship period our minister spoke on "The Christian Program," using the 28th chapter of St. Mathew as Scripture lesson. At 12 o'clock a delicious dinner was spread by the ladies of Knob Creek church.

In the afternoon session Mr. B. A. Sain was unanimously re-elected secretary of the quarterly conference. This will make his 20th year of service in that office. The number of the Advisory Committee was changed from three to five—one from each church on the charge. Members of the committee are: Messrs. J. J. Hayes, from Friendship; Quincy Hartman, Knob Creek; W. D. Hoyle, Macedonia; Charlie Hayes, Hebron, and Ben Sain, Laurel Hill.

Members of the committee on examination are Messrs. Gettys Bingham, T. P. Deal, Huss F. A. Boyles, and Horace Sain.

On Sunday night Bro. Fogleman filled his regular appointment at Friendship church, using as his subject, "Co-Laborers With God."

The time for our evening service has been set at 7 o'clock. Members of the Christian Endeavor Society are planning a program for Young People's Day. Our program will be given next fist Sunday night, taking the place of the sermon.

South Winston Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. Atlas Ridge, came to us January 7 with a very good sermon, as usual, with the reading of the fourth chapter of Joshua.

Our congregation was very small, owing to the rainy weather. We were indeed very grateful for the sermon, it being the first of the new year.

We are very sorry to learn of the illness of our pastor's wife. May she soon recover her usual health.

On our next regular preaching Sunday, January 21, we will have preaching at the regular hour, 11 o'clock and at 7 o'clock. Sunday school at 9:45; also our first communion service will be conducted at the morning service on January 21.

Our Sunday school attendance was better this morning that expected, this being the first Sunday of the new year, we started off with 70 present; also we had 70 present last Sunday, it being the last Sunday in the old year.

We are very sorry to learn that Mrs. C. W. Bowers is very sick; hope she will soon be up and around again, as we miss her very much.

Randleman Charge.—I have just been thinking that somebody has been wondering what has become of us folks down here. We are still here doing things in a small way, but are trying to be very sincere in the little we do. So many people are not willing to do the little things, so the big things never come their way. They are found idle all the day. The sun goes down and the darkness settles over them empty handed. But we thank God for the faithful ones that are always willing to do anything for the cause of Christ in His church. Our first quarterly conference was held at Mount Lebanon on the ninth of December. All churches were represented and the business was transacted in a very pleasant way. The Conference budget was accepted and all seemed to be willing to do their best to raise it in full.

On Friday evening before Christmas the Ladies' Aid gave a very impressive pageant, "Gifts to the King," gotten up by Mrs. Trogdon and Miss May Caudle. Worthville church gave a very beautiful Christmas program by the children of the Sunday school, gotten up by Mrs. W. L. Ward, Jr., and others. Before the program began Bro. Bird came to the pastor and asked for the keys of my car, so I gave them up and he drove off to the store, but he soon came back and when it was all over and I went to my car I found a box which contained 30 pounds of sugar, fruits, nuts, candies and other things for the pastor and family, for which we are very thankful and pray the blessing of Heaven upon each one and that we may be better servants to them and our Master. On Christmas morning we found two sacks of treat at our front door. We don't know who put them there but the Lord knows, so I am sure He has already blessed them for it. And we are thankful. These deeds of kindness make us feel we owe our best to the people and our Master that He may be glorified in our lives.

On the 27th of December the town of Randleman was saddened by the passing of Bro. C. L. Brookshire and the church suffered a great loss. He was a friend to man. He was in the mercantile business for 30 years and he helped many a brother over a hard place in life and many mourn his passing. He leaves his widow and the following children to mourn their loss: Mrs. Esther Hammond, Burton, Elwood and Mildred, all of Randleman, and a host of friends. Funeral services were conducted on the 28th by his pastor, assisted by Rev. H. H. Robbins, pastor of the M. E. church of Randleman. He was laid to rest beneath a beautiful mound of flowers in Mount Lebanon cemetery. May the dear Lord comfort and keep His loved ones in the way of life eternal.

Shady Grove Church, Connelly Springs Charge.—As I have been elected reporter from this church, I will try to give a report each month. I sincerely hope I will be able to give good reports.

Our church is doing a very good work. We have about an average of 75 in our Sunday school. The rainy weather has hindered quite a lot. We had planned to meet Mrs. Love at the parsonage Thursday night to organize the Ladies' Aid, but it rained us out. We are hoping to get organized soon.

I think our pastor, Rev. J. L. Love, and family like their new home fine. All the members seem to like Pastor Love and believe he will build the work to a higher standard.

Lots of improvements are being made at the parsonage. They have buit a porch, and a garage, and are now digging a well. We are hoping to report more improvements, both spiritually and financially.

We were sorry to give up Rev. L. S. Helms as our pastor, but hope and pray that everything will work out for the best.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Connelly Springs.—Some may think we have gone into seclusion since I have not written in some time. However, we are yet in the Master's service. We did not expect to find ourselves at Connelly Springs, but could not resist the urge when I received the request from these good people to serve them this year. We have found a worthy and deserving people and although I regret very deeply to leave the many good friends at Greensville and Yarborough charges, we are persuaded the circumstances directing the change was providentially ordered, believing that God uses human agencies to direct his own wise ends and over-rules evil for His own glory.

A fine spirit of optimism and Christian fellowship is apparent, particularly at Shady Grove. In the few shorts weeks here there has been a great deal of improvement made on and around the parsonage. They built a concrete front porch, leveled the yard, made improvements on rear porch, did some inside work, built a garage, and other outside work. They are now digging a well. It is down about 15 feet. We plan other improvements soon.

Shady Grove has recently covered the church. Burke's Chapel has painted and made repairs on the church.

We were here only a few days before the people gave us a liberal pounding. A good assortment of the more necessary items. On Monday after Christmas Bros. Page and Vanhorne, of Burke, brought us a nice pounding. We have received individual contributions of produce from different ones. Space forbids mention of names. But we deeply appreciate the spirit and substances and the social favors shown us by different ones.

Our first quarterly conference met at Shady Grove on January 6. Officials of the distant churches were not present due to the bad weather. All officials of Shady Grove were present. Several important resolutions and recommendations pertaining to the improvement of the work, particularly pastoral support; a special plan is being put into operation for each church to furnish a certain list of produce at regular intervals throughout the year. A good number has agreed to plant an extra acre to be known as the Lord's Acre, and the stewards will present this idea to each member and urge their acceptance. If the plans we have in mind materialize we may expect the best year in the history of Connelly Springs Charge. We are dependent entirely on the guidance of the Holy Spirit for the advancement of the Kingdom here.

A good foundation is laid by my predecessors. They have preached Christ. The results are evident by the splendid, well developed Christian characters present. My brief survey of Bro. Helms' work and sacrifice here has raised him highly in my estimation as a capable pastor. May he see the fruits of his efforts and receive the rich favors of the Master in his present field of labor.

We wish to express our deep appreciation for the many Christmas cards received from different sources. We cannot reply to all, but appreciate each one.

J. L. LOVE.

West Forsyth Charge.—We have been kindly received as pastor of our new charge. We reached Winston on November 29 from the Pleasant Grove parsonage. We feel like we left some loyal friends and neighbors there, for which we are thankful, and we shall continue to pray for them. Five of our churches had very interesting Christmas programs. All of the churches were full of people, who came out for these services and I am glad they could all get in. Experience has taught us we can't tell the spiritual life of a church by how many attend Christmas entertainments, so we are hoping and praying the Christmas spirit will last all through the year. Sometimes in June the farmer looks at his corn crop with delight and great expectation of a wonderful harvest, but August and September make an accurate report as to the corn crop. As with the farmer, so with the pastor: we may be mistaken in June, but September and October will tell the farmer and pastor whether he has good corn or nubbins. So if we want a good spiritual harvest churches must be willing to make sacrifices; so may we do this and lift the churches out of a long drawn out spiritual depression, and that we may go to the Annual Conference with a smile and all claims paid. A poor man is a man with three outs and one in—out of money, out of clothes, in debt, and out of doors. I haven't met him yet.

Friendship, Mount Hermon Charge.—Sunday school was opened at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The attendance is good and much interest is shown in class work.

Definite plans have been made for paying off the remainder of the debt on the Sunday school rooms. It is our desire to see the debt paid within the first six months of the year.

At 11 o'clock our pastor preached a very approriate sermon. He used as his subject, "Looking Backward and Looking Forward." After the sermon the Lord's Supper was observed with a large part of the congregation taking part.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Christmas has come and gone, the new year is begun, and may it be a good year for us all.

Our new pastor, Rev. Robert Short, has been with us twice, and each time gave us two splendid sermons.

For the past two months the young girls' class has been having a contest. (This has meant much to the class and the gain of seven members.) The winning side was entertained at a fish supper last Friday evening by the losing side and their teacher, Mrs. Cecil McClimon, at her home. After supper they held a business meeting and discussed plans for the new year. They have named their class "Willing Workers," and have taken for their motto, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." Mrs. McClimon has a small church, which is a "bank." She already has several dollars in it, and the girls are going to save and put in it twice a month, with the hope of some day having the opportunity to put it on Sunday school rooms. Mrs. McClimon, who moved her membership here just last August, is leading the most wide-awake class in the Sunday school. We wish everyone was as interested as she.

Sunday night the Christian Endeavor met with Miss Lucille Davis as leader. "How Can We Improve Our Society in 1934?" was the topic, and we hope some good was accomplished. It was a splendid program, and we hope this will be the best year our society has known.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their January meeting with Mrs. J. K. Poole, using as their subject "Patience and Resolutions."

May we ask the prayers of all Herald readers for a happy and successful year, knowing anything we ask in His name will be received if we do our part, and trusting in Him we hope for the best.

South Winston Church.—It has been a long time since I have made any kind of a report. That does not mean that I have been asleep. I have lost sleep trying to plan how we can finish the church at Winston and meet the financial needs of the church. We have as good folks here as you will find anywhere. They are trying to do their best to get the church done. But they need help. We have a great field here to do a great work. These folks need some help. If anyone feels like helping these good people I am sure they would feel very grateful to you. If you feel like doing so, please send your offering to me, A. Ridge, Lexington, N. C. I also want to say our work is progressing nicely. The people here have been very kind to us. We pray God's blessings on all these good people.

With all good wishes to the Herald and its readers for a happy and a fruitful New Year.

Fountain Place, Burlington.—Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Conference, was with us Sunday night, January 7. He delivered a very helpful and encouraging message. Just at this time we need all the encouragement that we can get, as it is almost time for another payment on our church debt. We always enjoy having Dr. Andrews at our church.

Rev. N. G. Bethea, our pastor, preached a splendid sermon the fifth Sunday. His sermons always inspire us and make us want to hear him again.

The attendance of the Sunday school has been increasing for the last month; it is much better than it was at this time last year. At the Christmas program the Sunday school tried to show its appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Bethea for the work they have done during the year by presenting them with a book-stand and a large picture. On Sunday morning, December 24, a very impressive program was given by the children and the choir.

The Annie Forrest Bible class held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Callie Meacham on Tuesday, January 2. At this time officers were elected for the new year. Mrs. Dora Terrell was elected president.

This church is hoping to be well represented at the banquet at the First Church Saturday night, and also for the services given in honor of Dr. Forlines on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott and their three children, of Denver, Colorado, spent the Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Scott.

West End, Thomasville.—The Men's class held its regular monthly meeting at the home of one of the members, H. W. Armsworthy, on Saturday evening, December 23, 1933, with 21 members and five invited guests present. They were invited into the dining room and were seated at tables before a Christmas supper consisting of turkey, salad, boiled ham, cranberry sauce, celery, slaw, cakes and pickles. After the supper they were invited into the living room and called the meeting to order and had several interesting talks by W. W. Russell, Mr. C. L. Berrier, Sr., Rev. H. W. Bell, and Carlos Hill.

Business was discussed, after which the meeting adjourned.

Draper.—The Draper M. P. church is still growing. We have reorganized our Young People's Society. We meet every Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Our young people discontinued their meeting during the summer months, so we have started again with 21 on roll; that is a mighty good start. We hope now that our Young People's Society will grow. We have some good leaders in this society and we hope that you will remember our society in your prayers. Rev. L. S. Helms is still liking his new home and is very much interested in this society.

Miss Eda Burnette's small girls' and boys' Sunday school class has taken the banner from the Junior class. These girls and boys are liking their new teacher and we hope she will keep up the good work.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Last fourth Sunday morning we had a Christmas tree. The presents were put on the tree by anyone who wished to. Oranges were passed over the entire congregation and the candy was passed to the small children. But just before this Miss Erma Hawkins held a Christmas prayer service. The little tots sang a song and Misses Dorothy and Eunice Green sang a duet.

On the fifth Sunday morning Mr. Leo Pittard delivered an address on the "Upbuilding of Our Sunday School." We are glad to report our Sunday school is building for a higher aim than it has in the past few years. After Sunday school the class leader, Mr. C. F. Hawkins, got up and said he was glad to have a volunteer, and that she would take charge of the meeting at that time. One of my Sunday school pupils arose, Miss Mildred Hawkins, and asked all to sing that beautiful song, "I Choose Jesus." She read Proverbs 23:16-25. Her topic was "Truth, Wisdom, and Understanding."

On Sunday night Rev. A. L. Vickery read from St. John 21. His text, "Come and dine." Mr. Vickery when he reads the Scripture lesson closes his Bible and does not have his sermon written on paper, but in his heart. We were glad to have Mrs. Vickery and children to worship with us Sunday evening.

Don't forget our next preaching service at 11 o'clock every second Sunday morning and every Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Sunday school officers for the coming year are as follows: Mr. Baldy Green, assistant superintendent; Mr. C. F. Hawkins, class leader; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Forest Hawkins; assistant, Miss Mary Green; Class No. 1, Mr. D. E. Hawkins; No. 2, Miss Erma Hawkins; No. 3, the writer; No. 4, Mrs. Phillip Hawkins; No. 5, Miss Maggie Hawkins; No. 6, Mrs. Baldy Green.

Mrs. Hayward Glasgow and children and Mrs. Jack Hawkins visited Mrs. Berta Hawkins Sunday.

Misses Maggie and Esther Hawkins, and Mr. Edward Hawkins, Mrs. Garnette Hawkins, Miss Dollie Pepper and Mr. Willie Pepper were the guests of Misses Erma and Clara Hawkins Sunday.

Miss Mary Virginia Hawkins spent Christmas with Miss Louise White, of Portsmouth, Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Pittard were the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pittard Sunday.

Mr. Raymond Hawkins, of Richmond, Va., spent the holidays with his mother, Mrs. C. M. Hawkins.

Mount Pleasant Church.—"Young or old, artist or farmer, housewife or musician—whatever your occupation in life, you have a tool to use for Christ." This was the kernel of Rev. J. W. Braxton's sermon on "Dedicating Your Talents to Christ" at the usual 11 o'clock service Sunday morning.

"Perhaps your tool is a broom or an axe," declared the speaker, "but you can use it for Christ." Then, with the Patriarch, Moses, and his rod that became a serpent, for an initial example, Pastor Braxton transported his audience to an imaginary museum of simple tools that had been used by God to accomplish the greatest movements of ancient and modern history. We trembled with a heathen Pharoah at beholding a shepherd's rod transformed into a serpent, and water turned to blood—that a nation loved of God might leave slavery and Egypt. We saw a spear signal the attack on Ai; Gideon and his alert followers rout the Midianites with trumpets and pitchers; David make history with a harp whose sweet strains could tame wild souls, and a sling and stone that could kill a giant Goliath.

All this we saw as we observed simple tools in the museum of history. Later history displayed a crude drag net used by Peter and his fisher companions, that became a divine instrument in winning souls of men. Mary had only an alabaster box of precious ointment, but its odor filled the world. Dorcas had but a simple sewing needle to sew garments for the poor, but the needle wrought immortality for her.

Another section of the museum displayed for us two pens—the simple tool that has been declared mightier than the sword. One of these pens, being dedicated to Christ, wrote in the hands of John Bunyan, "The Pilgrim's Progress." The other, in the hands of Harriet Beecher Stowe, had freed a people from slavery.

I have noticed that the sermons of our pastor have a two-fold appeal: first, a universal appeal; second, a personal or individual appeal. Each sermon is a spiritual creation—a white bird, say, that, winging its way aloft, amidst the farther outlook of a universe, yet finds its rest in the individual soul of the hearer.

"What is the gift that you will dedicate to your Christ? Can you sing, lead, follow, work? Youth is in our midst eager to be led aright!" was the indiivdual challenge.

"Opportunities used rightly become blessings multiplied. Opportunities used wrongly become evel multiplied. Possible good and possible evil lie very closely together," was the individual warning.

"Maybe your tool is an axe or a broom, but it can be used for Christ!"

The Young People's Training School, to be held at our church will begin at 7 p. m. a week from next Friday.

Philadelphia, Greensville Circuit.—We heartily welcome our new pastor, Rev. Q. L. Joyner, his wife and little daughter, into our midst. We think of him as a splendid and promising man. He has filled several appointments and each time preached very forceful and appropriate sermons. We hope to make this a good year and feel if the church co-operates with the pastor as it should much good will be accomplished. We trust that the year will be a prosperous one for him in material as well as spiritual belssings.

We regretted very much to give up our former pastor, Rev. R. L. Hethcox. We hope for him much success in his new field of work.

Our Sunday school attendance has been very small for the past few months, not what we would like it to be by any means. We have a splendid superintendent, so why not everybody work together and have a worthwhile school?

Pastor Joyner is planning to organize a Woman's Auxiliary and several other church societies. Let us all join with him and put forth every effort to do our part. We feel sure that it will be a great benefit to the church.

I trust that all are looking forward to doing more during the coming year for Christ's cause and the church than we did during the past year.

With prayers and best wishes for a prosperous and happy new year.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—Brother Loy brought to us another one of his fine sermons Sunday at the regular morning hour. He read in our hearing Joshua 1:1-9; from the Scripture he brought to us some of the things that we must do in order to make this the most successful year.

Miss Edna Nicholson rendered a special number at this service; we appreciate this very much. After the close of the service Mr. Loy met with the ladies of the church and talked to them about organizing their Auxiliary into Circles, and to see if the church couldn't do better work than we have in the past. Some plans were made to this effect.

During the Christmas holidays Mrs. J. C. Guthrie and the writer entertained the Junior, Primary, and Beginners Department of our Sunday school at the home of Mrs. Guthrie. All of the members present seemed to have an enjoyable time.

We plan to observe Young People's Day some time in the near future.

I am sorry to report that a good number of our members are sick; hope that all may soon be recovered to their usual health. Mrs. A. N. Roberson, one of our most faithful members, is still in Duke Hospital; hope she will soon be home. Mrs. T. H. Moore is able to return home from Long's Hospital. Her son, Mr. T. S. Ray, of Baltimore, spent last week-end with her.

We hope that a large number of our people will be able to attend the Leadership Training School at Mount Hermon for this district.

Mitchell's Grove Church.—We were very sorry to lose our pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome, but we are glad to welcome Rev. T. A. Williams in our midst. He has preached for us twice. His sermons were both interesting and instructive. We are hoping and expecting that more work will be done this year than in the past.

On Saturday night, December 23rd, the Sunday school gave a Christmas program. The pageant, "The Star-Lighted Path," was presented and also a pageant exercise, "Through the Christ of Bethlehem," by the smaller children. The committee in charge of the program was Mrs. A. C. Bergerson, Miss Gwennie Jones, Miss Bessie Casatt and Mrs. Herman Billings. The service was largely attended.

New plans have been made for our Sunday school. We are hoping to interest the young and old in the church work. The attendance Sunday was small, due to rain.

Mrs. E. S. Wilson conducted a very interesting class meeting after Sunday school Sunday. We are hoping that she will carry on this good work.

On Sunday night the C. E. Society elected new officers for the coming year. Miss Bessie Cashatt, president; Mr. Curtis Jackson, vice-president, and Mrs. Ola Misenheimer, secretary and treasurer. The Christian Endeavor did some fine work the past year, but we are hoping to do more this year.

Reidsville.—It has been a long time since there has been a report of any kind from the Reidsville church, but this does not mean that the churc is not alive and at work, but that tne reporter just failed to do her duty.

The work of the new year has started off nicely, and we are very happy to have Dr. and Mrs. Brown with us for anotehr year. We have enjoyed working with them the past seven years, and I am sure we can show our appreciation of their services much more this year than last by each member making it a rule to be present for each service during the year.

Our Sunday school is active and we are having a very good average attendance. Dr. J. S. Moore has been re-elected superintendent for another year.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its last monthly meeting in the basement of the church, at which time a play was given and a thank-offering taken. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. J. R. McCollum each promised one dollar to the Circle contributing the largest thank-offering, and this reward went to Circle No. 1. Our Auxiiary won second prize in the soap coupon contest for the Chidren's Home.

A short Christmas program was given at the church the week before Christmas, after which a nice treat was given the children of the Sunday school.

The members of the Philathea class and the Woman's Bible Class prepared three boxes of fruits, nuts, candies, and jellies and sent them to some shut-ins for Christmas.

The Philathea class decided to continue its custom of sending the Herald to Miss Mamie Pegram as an expression of their love to her. We hope she will some day be able to come back to Sunday school and church.

We were delighted to have Dr. R. M. Andrews pay us a visit. He brought us a splendid message, which we are sure will continue to be helpful and encouraging.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gunn and family are spending the winter at Lakeland, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and son, of Atanta, Ga., spent Christmas with Dr. and Mrs. Brown.

We were glad to have Miss Myra Yount and Miss Ida Mae Whitner, of Greensboro, worship with us last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Carroll spent Christmas in Keysville, Va., with the latter's parents.

Mr. Larry Yount, of High Point College; Mr. Eugene Yount, of Oak Ridge, and Mr. Bennie Garrison, of Davidson College were at home over the holidays.

Miss Adelaide Pegram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pegram, united with our church last Sunday morning. She is a member of our Sunday school, and we are delighted to have her come into the church.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Welch Memorial, High Point.—On Wednesday night following the second Sunday in December we held our first quarterly conference. A fair number was present. John Easter was elected secretary to succeed Mrs. W. L. Edwards. Several important items were taken care of at this time. The budget was accepted and the conference asked Dr. Williams to instruct the official board of the church as to their respective duties. This is to be done Wednesday night of this week at the business meeting of the chuech.

On the third Sunday in December it was our pleasure to have Mrs. W. C. Hammer, f Asheboro, with us. She very interestingly explained to us the different schools and interests of the Conference. We feel that since her talk we are much better informed as to the work we are supposd to be doing.

Christmas time was very pleasant at our church. The children gave a short program Friday night, at which time we had our tree and a treat for the children. The church was filled to overflowing.

The last Sunday in the year was a very special day. It was home-coming and Memorial day for the Baraca class. The time at both Sunday school and church was used. The Holt quartet from Asheboro, the Jarvis quartet from Greensboro, Mr. Eugene Volger from Winston-Salem, the Chisholm Sisters from Thomasville, and the Wallburg orchestra furnished music for the occasion. Mr. E. T. Segraves, teacher of the class, gave a short address of welcome; then Mr. E. A. Lockwood, of this city, gave a talk, using as a basis the verse, “And now abideth faith, hope and love.” The memorial part of the program came next. The widows of the deceased members had seats on the stage. The secretary called the roll of the dead, and as a name was called a light came on, until six lights representing each departed member formed a cross. The Chisholm Sisters beautifully sang “How Beautiful Heaven Must Be” and “I Wonder What They Are Doing in Heaven Today.” Dr. G. I. Humphreys gave a splendid memorial address. For the conclusion of this part of the program as Charlie Peek sounded taps the lights on the cross faded and went out.

The final feature was an address by Hon. Johnson J. Hayes, which was enjoyed thoroughly.

This morning Dr. Williams gave us a wonderful New Year sermon, or exhortation, on “Redeeming Time.” Our attendance today at both Sunday school and church was better, and we expect 1934 to be the best yet at Welch.

Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—Rev. C. G. Isley filled his regular appointment Sunday morning to a good sized congregation for the weather to be so bad. He took his Scripture lesson from the first chapter of Joshua. Since I have not reported since ConferenceI would like to say we are very glad indeed to have Rev. Mr. Isley and mother back for their sixth year’s work on this charge.

Yesterday being the first Sunday of the new year, we put 88 on roll to start off. Several of the regular attendants being away on account of sickness made the roll smaller. We had a number of perfect attendance last year that I intended to report the names of, but failed to get the list.

The church is planning to put on a supper in Lexington Saturday night, January 13. The public is invited. The proceeds will go for the indebtedness of the church.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. J. G. Tussey and hope for her a speedy recovery. Mrs. Sam Fritts, who entered the Davidson Hospital last week, is reported improving. ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

Why Not Charge.—The most important event that has happened on Why Not Charge since Conference is the building of our new church at Seagrove. The building committee, composed of S. G. Richardson, Dr. D. J. Johnson and James Walker, deserve much credit for the way they have handled the enterprise. Dr. Johnson has paid for all the brick and the roofing, which has made it possible for the work to go on without interruption. The church feels much indebted to him for his interest and donations. This church is an all brick structure, with an auditorium 38 by 60 feet and Sunday school rooms 28 by 48 feet, three stories high including basement. This gives us a modern church building. Our chairman of the building committee, S. G. Richardson, is superintendent of the Sunday school. He is also president of the Randolph County Sunday School Convention and a man of experience in this line of work. We are expecting soon to have a fine Sunday school in this splendid new building, headed by Bro. Richardson. Then, too, the loyal co-operation of all our Seagrove members, and some others who belong to our nearby churches, deserve mention: The pastor appreciates all this and is expecting greater achievements for Christ and His cause. A report from the other church will follow. G. L. REYNOLDS.

P. S.—Rev. J. W. Hulin, of Love Joy church has been very sick, but is some better at this writing. G. L. R.

Shiloh Charge, Greer’s Chapel.—Rev. C. E. Ridge filled his first appointment on this charge at Greer’s Chapel on November 26, 1933, using as his text Judges 7:21. His text hit the keynote of our aim for the coming year’s work, “And they stand every man in his place.” His impressive message left with us a desire to be found in our places, working in the Master’s vineyard.

Today, the first Sunday in January, we reorganized our Sunday school. Most of the teachers and officers were re-elected, as we think they could not be bettered. The biggest change made was the organizing of a new class for the Junior boys and girls. We feel that this bunch of children can have a better chance now that their ages are more uniform. The Adult class and the Sunday school, as well, missed their able teacher, C. F. Fitzgerald, this morning. It was such a bad day he was too feeble to be with us.

Now as we are starting a new year, the school as a whole seems to have a better sense of co-operation and good fellowship. Pray for us that this sense may be preserved and that we may give our very best to the Master’s cause. REPORTER.

First Church, Lexington.—We have been having good attendance and splendid interest in our services. Mr. Isley filled his appointment at Mount Carmel Sunday morning and Mr. C. L. Hedrick spoke to the congregation at First Church. He read the third chapter of Philippians and took for his subject, “The Objective of Every True Christian.”

At the evening hour Mr. Isley filled the regular appointment, bringing to us an unusually good message entitled, “Asleep in the Lap of the World.” The pastor used the account of the ten virgins, as related in the 25th chapter of Matthew, as the basic theme of his sermon.

On Monday night, January 1, 1934, the Christian Endeavor Society enjoyed a social at the home of Miss Juanita Easter. Games were played throughout the evening, after which delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches, cake, pickles, and punch were served to a large number of Endeavorers.

On Friday night, December 30, 1933, while we were all hushed in slumber, God send His angel to claim for his own, Alline May Read, affectionate little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reid. We don’t understand why the angel came and took her away from us so suddenly, for she was sick only a few hours, but sometime we hope to understand. Alline was an unusually sweet child, and although having lived only a few short years, had made many friends. Everyone, both old and young, who knew her had learned to love her. She was a member of the Primary Department of the Sunday school, which she was always eager to attend. Her favorite song was “I Shall Not Be Moved.”

The funeral was held at the home on East Seventh Avenue by Rev. C. G. Isley, pastor of First church, and Rev. A. Odell Leonard, pastor of the Second Reformed church. Interment was in the city cemetery.

A fine tribute was paid to her, not only the large number of relatives and friends who attended the funeral, but also by the lovely flowers which they sent. Alline was born April 3, 1928, being only a little over five years old when she returned to the One who sent her. She leaves to mourn their loss her parents, grandparents, and three brothers, Kenneth, Walter Franklin, and Horace.

We extend our sympathy to the parents and loved ones in this sad hour. May we each live better and be prepared to meet her when we are called beyond.

“A precious one from us has gone, her face no more we see;
She has entered Heaven above to spend eternity.”

Rev. and Mrs. Isley spent Christmas with friends in Alamance.

Miss Jessie Everidge, of Kernersville, visited Miss Margaret Lea Swing last Tuesday evening.

Miss Georgia Etta Davis has returned to Averette Junior College after spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davis.

Mr. Oscar Koontz, of Atlanta, spent a few days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Koontz.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Koontz and son, W. C., Jr., and Mr. Paul Wallace spent Sunday in Kernersville visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Everidge and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Everidge had as their guests Sunday Miss Edith Hilliard, of Thomasville, and Mr. Joe Petrea, of Lenoir.

Gibsonville Church.—We are fortunate to have Rev. and Mrs. Bethea with us for another year’s work. This is their fifth ytar of service with us; they have proved themselves excellent leaders.

Last Sunday our pastor preached a very interesting and inspiring sermon, using as a subject, “A New Year’s Question.” He also presented the following as goals for 1934: Weekly or monthly offerings from every member; every member paying something on the church debt; Methodist Protestant Herald in every M. P. home; regular attendance upon church and Sunday school service; special prayer and work for a revival in our church; inviting the unsaved to Christ in reach of our church; co-operation of every member for the attainment of these goals.

January has been designated as the time for Gibsonville church to pay off the A.C.B. Already we have a fairly good start toward that end. We hopt to liquidate the full amount by the end of the month.

A 7 p. m., Saturday, January 27, there will be a steward’s fellowship banquet in the public school cafeteria. A splendid program, including music, speeches, stunts, etc., is being planned by the members of the board of stewards. The following have tickets for sale: Messrs. K. J. Williams, Ed Summers, C. L. Younger, G. J. Yow and F. G. Heavner; Mesdames Mystrle Petty and Grace Harris; Misses Lena Faucett, Stacy Walls, and Orpha Burgess. Plates for all ages above 12 years will be 50 cents each. Under 12 years 15 cents each. Special arrangements are being made for the little folk. The money received from the sale of tickets will be paid on the A. C. B. Buy your ticket early and plan to attend. "There'll be fellowship together regardless of the weather."

Miss Esquido Yow has been appointed as agent in our local church for the Methodist Protestant Herald. If your subscriptions has expired see Miss Yow and renew your paper. If you do not take the paper, you should; see her and subscribe for it.

Harmony, Yarborough Charge.—We were very glad indeed to have our new pastor, Rev. Mr. Short, with us last fourth Sunday. He delivered some very interesting and inspiring messages in both the morning and evening services. We are all well pleased with Bro. Short and hope that the entire church and community will co-operate with him in accomplishing much during the coming year.

After the preaching service last fourth Sunday night, a business meeting was held at which time officers for the coming year were elected. The first quarterly conference will be held at our church Saturday, January 13.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting Saturday, December 29, with Mrs. Taylor. An interesting program was carried out with Miss Kate Medlock as leader, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Our Sunday school is doing fairly well. Attendance has decreased slightly the past few Sundays due to the bad weather we have had, and also an epidemic of whooping cough in the community. REPORTER.

First Church, Charlotte.—The annual Christmas program and treat for the Sunday school was given on Friday evening, December 22.

Universal Bible Sunday was observed at the morning service on the last Sunday in the year. The theme for this service was "The Light Shineth in Darkness." Rev. G. H. Hendry delivered a very fitting message on "The Bible a Light."

Amid the darkness of a world-wide depression it is encouraging to read the Bible's many promises of light. It is the one Book which has proven itself many times a light unto the path of God's people.

A beautiful and impressive candle-light service was a feature of the evening worship program. Each person who wished to rededicate his or her life to the Lord for the coming year came forward and lighted a small candle from the one great candle which burned brightly at the altar. While holding the lighted candles the congregation sang "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning." A large crowd attended this service.

The church school attendance has reached a high average mark, and a 25 per cent increase over the present attendance record has been set as a goal to be reached by Easter. Under the leadership of M. D. Frink, superintendent, a noted increase in interest as well as attendance is being shown.

H. G. Garrison, the efficient secretary, reads the report of each class before the entire school, which is an incentive to each class to make the best record possible.

A record of attendance, at the morning and evening services, and the mid-week prayer service, is being kept as a part of the New Day program adopted at the beginning of tho Conference year. These records reveal that we have some very faithful members.

On Tuesday evening the meeting of Circle No. 2 will be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Penny on Park Road.

Last Wednesday evening's program was broadened to include a fellowship hour, and a special musical program given by Mrs. A. L. Haigler, Mrs. Roy Blair, A. A. Ledbetter, John M. Muse, C. B. Hollifield, and Cecil Hollifield, with J. C. Penny as master of ceremonies.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society, with Miss Mary Shaw leader, presented a splendid program on the topic, "Have We the Best Foundations for Life?" Alfred L. Roberts, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., was the speaker for the evening and made a most impressive talk on the subject.

An Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society has been organized under the leadership of Mrs. G. H. Hendry and Mrs. A. L. Haigler.

The Junior Society, with Mrs. Calvin Beatty, superintendent, has been doing good work for several months. The Wilma Shaw Bible class will have a chicken supper in the basement of the church on Friday evening, January 8, from 6 to 8 o'clock. If you like chicken cooked in real country style, come and enjoy this supper with us.

Canaan, North Davidson Circuit. — The Christmas season has just passed and we as a people are just starting into a new year. The Christmas entertainments in our church and the neighboring churches as well were all good. I hope we can be sincere in our gifts to the Babe of manger this coming year, and that our thoughts of Him be as truly reverent as during the Christmas season.

Our new pastor, Bro. Grant, has fallen into the work, showing much interest in every line of endeavor. We welcome them in our midst and hope they will succeed in making this a very prosperous year in the Master's work.

Our first quarterly conference was held with the Mount Pleasant folks on December 28. A number of things of interest were brought before the people. The plan our circuit steward had put before the people for raising funds for our new parsonage was adopted by the conference. We are starting into this year with this item in mind, hoping much will be done.

The Ladies' Aid of our church made it possible for us to have a good fence put around the cemetery recently, for which we are all very thankful. On Sunday morning, December 24, at the parsonage one of our young ladies, an active church worker, was married, Miss Maud Berrier and Mr. Ralph Hartman. The writer joins the community in wishing these young folks much happiness.

A number of our people have been kept away from church recently on account of measles in their homes. We shall be glad to see them all in their places again.

The December meeting for our Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Clyde Saintsing. An interesting meeting was held, after which the members voted to send to our Children's Home 100 pounds of flour as a Christmas gift. Hope we may be able to do many more things for this cause. REPORTER.

Pinnacle and Mt. Zion.—As this is my first report since Conference I will say I am glad to be back with these good people for another year, and the people have been showing their appreciation of us in a substantial way. The Mount Zion people gave us a generous pounding for Thanksgiving, and the people from the other different churches have remembered us with fresh meats, butter, sweet potatoes, irish potatoes, pumpkins, milk, wood, etc., so we haven't suffered with cold or hunger since the winter arrived.

We held Christmas services in each of our churches. The pastor and family were remembered when the presents were given out.

Things seem to be starting off well, the people seem more hopeful than they have been for the past three or four years, and their interest in the church seems to be steadily increasing.

Our first quarterly conference will be held at Pinnacle church next Saturday at 1 p. m., January 13. All officials are requested to be present.

Pilot church community is suffering with an epidemic of measles, but we trust no serious consequences will result.

Bro. E. S. Stone, of Mount Zion church, has been very sick, but we are glad to note he is some better at this writing.

Bro. H. E. Kiger and Sister Campbell, of Shoals church, are very sick at this time; we trust that they may soon be better.

A. L. HUNTER.

Winston-Salem, First Church.—Our very efficient reporter has had sickness in her home most of the time since I have been here, which explains why she has not reported as often as usual. But a good many things have been happening that I am sure are of interest to the friends of this church. I make bold to report some of them.

Outstanding among them is the Christmas exercises. Instead of the pageants, plays, cantatas, etc., which are the usual forms of entertainment, the committee took us back to our childhood with an old-fashioned Christmas service. Recitations by the children, a beautifully decorated tree, Santa Claus, a bag of candy, nuts and fruits for each child, presents exchanged, and all the other things that went along with it. And how the folks did enjoy it!

And then on New Year's Eve, which, as you remember, was Sunday, a watch night service, the first, so the older members tell me, in the history of the church, and the first in my ministry. We began at 10 o'clock with a song service, and a New Year's talk. Then had intermission, with refreshments, for a half hour. For the closing period an antiphonal New Year's service, closing with a prayer of dedication just as the bells and

And now, brother pastor, if a Herald agent has not been appointed in your church or churches, won't you please see to it that some one is appointed right away and that the campaign is pressed to a finish? Personally, 1 have always believed that the pastor could do more toward getting subscriptions than anybody else, as he sees the people as he goes around calling. My experience in getting subscriptions both on a circuit when I drove a horse and buggy and as pastor of stations in more modern times justifies this belief; however, 1 am not insisting on the pastor doing it, just so it is done. But we do want it done. The Herald needs subscribers and our people need the Herald to enable them to know what is going on. So, let the campaign get going and going now!

whistles ushered in the New Year. The folks said they enjoyed it.

(By way of parenthesis, the preacher wants to acknowledge the receipt of a turkey gobbler, the gift of our brother, A. A. Moser, which came a day or two before Christmas and languished in duress until after that day because we were not to be at home at that time, but was duly executed and eventually consumed. Part of it the Browns from Reidsville ate on New Year's Day. Some more of it helped to fill up our hungry college students. We had five of them for dinner on the day after New Year's.)

In spite of an epidemic of measles in the Sunday school membership, we had a good attendance Sunday, and one of the largest congregations Sunday morning that we have had at all.

This preacher, after going from Dan to Beersheda looking up his members, is about to locate most of them. 1 suspect the pastor of the First Church, Winston, whatever other distinctions may or may not attach to his pastorate, can boast of a more widely scattered flock than any other preacher in the Conference.

While I was at Calvary, I had, as Brother Pritchard now has, the distinction and privilege of preaching to more superannuated ministers than any man in the Conference. Three of them most of the time, four of them occasionally. Here 1 have only one. We appreciate Brother C. H. Whitaker's faithfulness and interest. We were delighted to have Brother D. R. Williams and his family with us on the last fifth Sunday morning, he having no appointment on his charge for that day.

THE JOURNALS ARE ON THEIR WAY

The proof was returned last Wednesday. There were very few errors in it, so it ought not to take long to get it ready for the press. I think you may look for the Journals some time next week. Pastors, please make an effort to turn in the money for them at the earliest possible date. The printer needs his money. Please look on the address tab. The number inclosed in brackets ( ) is the number of copies you asked for, and that ought to be in the package. Check up on it, and don't forget how many you got.

A Boy Who Would, a Man Who Can

A boy who would in world's great plan
Turns out to be a man who can:
In early years foundation's laid
On which the later structure's stayed.

Most men in youth find what they seek
Unless they seek in ways too bleak;
Those wise in search are sure to find
The greatest treasures of the mind.

When wisdom's joined to diligence
And life is ruled by common sense,
Rewards are sure to come to hand,
The best you find in all the land.

Would you a fine example know?
Then give good heed and I will show:
A boy who sought and found rich mines—
Doctor Charlie Edgar Forlines.

Heads of Communions Join in Call to Spiritual Advance

The heads of thirty national communions, with an aggregate membership of over 27,000,000, have joined in issuing a call to spiritual advance at the beginning of the New Year. Included among the signers of the statement are the recognized leaders of most of the important American churches. While not undertaking to speak in an official capacity, their statement carries great weight by virtue of the fact that so many outstanding representatives of the various churches have found themselves in such agreemnt as to be able to unite in a joint statement to the churches and to the nation.

The statement bears the striking title, "The Present Crisis as a Summons to Spiritual Advance." It grew out of an informal conference convened by Rev. Albert W. Beaven and Rev. Lewis S. Mudge, president and vice-president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Being unofficial in character, the conference included representatives of several communions which are not members of the Council.

The message in which the presidents, modrators, presiding bishops, or other official heads of the thirty communions unite begins with an affirmation of unchanged faith in God and in Christ—"eternal verities which stand unshaken amid the present chaos"—and records the conviction that "the personal experience of fellowship with God in Christ" is "the foundation of any Christian program adequate for a fear-stricken and bewildered world." They declare that "unless the Gospel is first lodged in the heart of the individual as a renewing and transforming power, it can have no healing for society as a whole."

The emphasis upon a renewed spiritual life for the individual, it is insisted, "must lead us straight out into the great social issues of our day,—not away from them,—and make us think of them in spiritual terms." As a result, the signers of the mesage analyze the spiritual aspects of our present economic, social and international situation. They conclude that the spiritual tasks of the present hour are "a clear summons to greater co-operation among all Christians."

The full statement is as follows:

The Present Crisis as a Summons to Spiritual Advance

"As representatives of Christians of many communions, convened at the invitation of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, we have faced together the present crisis in the nation and the world, and find ourselves united in a sense of need for a great spiritual advance. We join in bearing witness to deep convictions in which we are at one.

"We are agreed in regarding this time of testing as an occasion not of despair but of challenge and hope. Far from being a fair-weather faith, Christianity started with the Cross and has won its major victories amid tragic turmoil and storm.

"We are agreed in affirming certain eternal verities which stand unshaken amid the present chaos. In the face of prevalent skepticism we affirm an unchanged faith in God. In the face of widespread moral confusion we affirm faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour, through whom God has revealed Himself and shown us His will for human life.

"We are agreed in holding the personal experience of fellowship with God in Christ to be the supreme value in life and the foundation of any Christian program adequate for a fear-stricken and bewildered world. Unless the Gospel is first lodged in the heart of the individual as a renewing and transforming power, it can have no healing for society as a whole.

"We unite in summoning our people everywhere to a new determination to explore the riches of God's power, in order that a new outpouring of His spirit may come upon us. Let us humbly confess that we who have named His name have been unworthy representatives of our high profession. We have been touched by the common sins of our day until we need to echo the old cry, 'Create within us a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within us.' Let us, therefore, unite in seeking the cleansing which comes from true penitence and confession, the inspirations that proceed from the study of the Bible, the refreshmnt to be found in God's day of rest and worship, the assurance that comes from prayer, the new strength that results from the fellowship of the Lord's Table, and the encouragement of united worship.

"We are agreed that a renewed spiritual life for each of us as individuals must lead us straight out into the great social issues of our day,—not away from them,—and make us think of them in spiritual terms. Our experience of God proves its Christian character by the service it induces for others. The more deeply we become aware of the reality of God, the more we are impelled to test every aspect of our complex life by its conformity to His will. The more unclouded our discernment of the significance of Christ for ourselves and for the world, the greater is our compulsion to bring every realm of men's relationships under His influence. We cannot be interested in the salvation of individual personalities without being at once concerned about the slums that damn them or the unemployment that works havoc to the spirit of man no less than to his body.

"We are agreed in thinking of our present breakdown as not merely economic but spiritual. Our new powers of machine industry and our unrivalled technical skill have failed because they have been controlled by the motive of private acquisitiveness instead of public service. The attainmnt of economic health canont come from a mere return to things as they are. We should regard it as a dire tragedy if a mild recovery should now blind our eyes to the moral issues involved and lull our consciences into complacency with our former condition.

"We are agreed that our emphasis on spiritual values calls for a rebuilding of our economic life. Private profit as the cornerstone of the economic order appeals to men to be selfish when the Christian Gospel bids them be unselfish and seek the common good. We plead, therefore, for a courageous facing of the cause and cure of our present situation in terms of the Christian principle that the aim of any economic system should be the welfare of the people. This new emphasis on co-operation we regard as especially in harmony with the Christian view of life. While the churches should stand above any political or economic partisanship, they can not be indifferent to the central issue as to whether our economic order is to have a Christian or an unchristian basis.

"We are agreed in recognizing the moral and spiritual peril involved in the liquor traffic. The Eighteenth Amendment has been repealed but there has been no repeal of the liquor problem. We therefore set ourselves to reducing the traffic in intoxicants to the lowest possible proportions. We are not willing to see the traffic treated as a source of profit for either individuals or government. We insist that selfish cupidity shall not be permitted to exploit the appetite for liquor and create demand for it that does not now exist. We call upon the churches to take up with renewed vigor a movement of vital education concerning the habit-forming nature of alcohol and the ruinous social effects of the liquor traffic, so that an intelligent moral conviction on the subject may be developed throughout the rank and file of the people.

"We are agreed in dedicating ourselves afresh to the task of securing an international order in accordance with the mind of Christ. We note the forbidding aspect of the present world situation, the clashing interests, the swollen armaments of rival powers, the exaggerated nationalism, the suspicions and the heated passions which presage war. But knowing peace to be God's will for men, we must maintain our faith that it can truly be achieved. If others surrender to the necessity of war, we the more must see clearly and say boldly that the spirit of war and the spirit of Christ can never be reconciled and that we do not hesitate which to choose.

"We are agreed in regarding goodwill, understanding and co-operation among the races as a crucial spiritual problem both in our own country and in the world at large. The acute manifestations of racial prejudice against the Jews in Germany, the unjust discriminations against Negroes and other racial minorities in America, and the appalling increase this year in lynching—all evidences of moral confusion—are a solemn warning of disruptive forces that threaten the unity of mankind.

"We are agreed in our emphasis upon the spiritual values of the Christian family. Unless the home is the nursery of the Christian life, there is small hope indeed that men and women will ever be Christian in all the wider relationships of society. When insidious influences of stage and screen and fiction are tending toward the disintegration of the family, we know nothing more essential for religion, for morality and for the social welfare than the undergirding of the home with the strongest spiritual influences.

"We are agreed in regarding these tasks of the present hour as a clear summons to greater co-operation among all Christians. At a time when the spirit of co-operation is seen to be the keystone to recovery in our economic and our international life, the Christian churches should set the supreme example of co-operation. For co-operation is of the very essence of the Christian way of life. If our churches, committed to the ideal of brotherly co-operation and fellowship by the Gospel they proclaim, do not co-operate effectively, it is vain for them to preach that commercial and industrial organizations should do so.

"We unitedly urge those who have been reared in Christian homes and who owe to the Church many of the greatest inspirations of their youth but who now have become indifferent to their obligations, to renew their allegience to Christ and the Church. In this crisis which threatens so much that all men of good will hold dear, those who are at heart on the side of Christ should make it clear on which side they stand.

"We unite in summoning our aspiring youth to contemplate the opportunity for the highest use of their powers in the service of Jesus Christ. When youth in other lands are so frequently uniting to remake society, we hope for a youth movement here that will help reorganize our social relationships on the basis of the Christian ideal. It is to Christian youth that we must look both to conserve the great spiritual values of the past and also by their contributions of vision and life to make the Church more than ever the instrument for the forming of that better world for which we pray.

"Finally, as representatives of the many millions of devoted God-fearing citizens of this nation, we unite in assuring the leaders of government that we rejoice in every evidence that great social ideals of Christianity are being woven into the fabric of our national life! We have read with deep interest the declaration of President Roosevelt in his address to the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America that 'the churches are the greatest influence in this world of ours to overcome the present tendency toward greed.' We have welcomed his statement that 'while the churches remain wholly free from even the suggestion of interference in government they can at the same time teach their millions of followrs that they have the right to demand of the government of their own choosing the maintenance and furtherance of a more abundant life.' In the light of this challenge we unitedly voice our conviction that alongside all plans for recovery that are made in our economic and industrial life there should be a nationwide effort for moral and spiritual recovery and advance. To this we commit ourselves and for that same program of moral and spiritual strengthening, we ask the interest of all who are in places of leadership, in order that the moral idealism necessary for the co-operative enterprise may be generated and the superstructure of a better order rest not upon the sand but upon the rock."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS TO THE CHURCHES

Below is presented the text of the address delivered by the President of the United States at the 25th Anniversary Meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, on December 6, 1933:

"I am honored by the privilege of speaking to the delegated representatives of twenty-five Christian denominations assembled here on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. In this quarter of a century you have surrendered no individual creed, but at the same time you have been creating a much-needed union that seeks to better the social and moral conditions of all the people of America.

"During a quarter of a century more greatly controlled by the spirit of conquest and greed than any similar period since the American and the French revolutions you have survived and grown. You have come through to the threshold of a new era in which your churches and the other churches—Gentile and Jew—recognize and stand ready to lead in a new war of peace—the war for social justice.

"Christianity was born in and of an era notable for the great gulf that separated the privileged from the underprivileged of the world of two thousand years ago—an era of lines of demarcation between conquerors and conquered; between caste and caste; between warring philosophies based on the theories of logicians rather than on practical humanities. The early churches were united in a social ideal.

"Although through all the centuries we know of many periods when civilization has slipped a step backward, yet I am confident that over the sum of the centuries we have gained many steps for every one we have lost.

"Now, once more, we are embarking on another voyage into the realms of human contacts. That human agency which we call government is seeking through social and economic means the same goal which the churches are seeking through social and spiritual means.

"If I were asked to state the great objective which Church and State are both demanding for the sake of every man and woman and child in this country, I would say that that great objective is 'a more abundant life.'

"The early Christians challenged the pagan ethics of Greece and of Rome; we are wholly ready to challenge the pagan ethics that are represented in many phases of our boasted modern civilization. We have called on enlightened business judgment, on understanding labor and on intelligent agriculture to provide a more equitable balance of the abundant life between all elements of the community.

"We recognize the right of the individual to seek and to obtain his own fair wage, his own fair profit, in his own fair way—just so long as in the doing of it he shall not push down nor hold down his neighbor. And at the same time we are at one in calling for collective effort on broad lines of social planning—a collective effort which is usually in accord with the social teachings of Christianity.

"This new generation of ours stands ready to help us. They may not be as ready as were their fathers and mothers to accept the outward requirements or even many of the ancient observances of the several churches, yet I truly believe that these same churches can find in them a stronger support for the fundamentals of social betterment than many of the old generation are willing to concede.

"This younger generation is not satisfied with the exposure of those in high places who seek to line their own nests with other people's money; to cheat their government of its just dues, or to break the spirit of the law while observing its legalistic letter. This new generation seeks action—action by collective government and by individual education, toward the ending of practices such as these.

"This new generation, for example, is not content with preachings against that vile form of collective murder—lynch law—which has broken out in our midst anew. We know that it is murder, and a deliberate and definite disobedience of the commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.' We do not excuse those in high places or low who condone lynch law.

"But a thinking America goes further. It seeks a government of its own that will be sufficiently strong to protect the prisoner and at the same time to crystallize a public opinion so clear that government of all kinds will be compelled to practice a more certain justice. The judicial function of government is the protection of the individual and of the community through quick and certain justice. That function in many places has fallen into a sad state of disrepair. It must be a part of our program to re-establish it.

"From the bottom of my heart I believe that this beloved country of ours is entering upon a time of great gain. That gain can well include a greater material prosperity if we take care that it is a prosperity for a hundred and twenty million human beings and not a prosperity for the top of the pyramid alone. It can be a prosperity socially controlled for the common good. It can be a prosperity built on spiritual and social values rather than on special privilege and special power.

"Toward that new definition of prosperity the churches and the governments, while wholly separate in their func-

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

More About Stewardship

In the report of the Committee on Stewardship adopted by the last conference a pledge form was approved. This is to be signed by all who are willing to practice systematic, proportionate giving. The following is the pledge:

As a member of the Society of Systematic and Proportionate Giving of the N. C. Annual Conference, I hereby reaffirm my vow taken when I joined the Methodist Protestant Church, "I will contribute as God gives me ability for the support of the gospel ministry in this church, and its works of Christian benevolence, remembering that I am but a steward of whatever wealth I may possess." And to give systematically as taught in I Cor. 16:2, "Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him."

Charge................. Address.....................

The month of January was set apart as the time for an educational campaign on the subject. Literature is to be distributed from the Central Committee at Gibsonville, pastors will preach on giving, and an effort made to secure members to the society and to form them into groups in the local churches. The fact that the Journal has not yet appeared is responsible for this late start, but it is not yet too late to do much by way of agitating the subject. Rev. N. G. Bethea, Gibsonville, can supply you with pledge cards and suggest the best literature on the subject by the Layman Publishing Company, and offer other suggestions to you. We sincerely hope that every pastor will try to interest his people in giving and thereby bring a twofold blessing, upon those who give as well as upon those who receive.

Honoring Dr. Forlines

It was quite a representative group that sat around the banquet tables in the Hut of First M. P. church, Burlington, in honor of Dr. C. E. Forlines, last Saturday night. I do not know how many were present, nor from how many churches they came, but I do know it was a fine group and full of pep and love for our good friend. The attendance was fine, the program reflected credit upon those who prepared it and the church people who served the meal were up to a high standard in what they contributed. The Doctor was in a happy frame, told us a new Br'er Rabbit story, puzzled us with his ability to read unseen numbers and gave us a sample of the orchestra he carries around with him.

We know that there are hundreds of our people, not there, who would gladly have joined us in this meeting last Saturday night to make it more nearly unanimous. We Carolinians have been accused of being mighty slow in recognizing native talent and achievement—and we are guilty. I therefore rejoice the more that this token of esteem should come to our great scholar on Seminary Hill while he is still actively employed in the great work of training our leaders there.

Church Extension Allotment

I still hear good reports about this collection for January. Our pastors and people are giving thought to the request and I believe most of the churches are raising it. Brother Helms from Draper church writes that he has already sent it in to the Treasurer; that is fine; so have others, doubtless. Let's rally to this cause and do the thing one hundred per cent strong. We can and we certainly should.

The Methodist Protestant Herald

It is possible for us to keep the Herald out of debt this year. If all churches will pay the amounts assessed them as "Subsidy," and all boards and institutions pay what they are asked to pay, then the rest of us keep the subscription list up a little above last year, and the feat is accomplished. Who says we can't? Of course we can, and let's go!

The Children's Home

It was with great joy that we read the long lists of contributions to the Home for several weeks. It certainly did look good, but last week was not up to par; our folks were resting; so let's start again and make our offerings from the Sunday schools larger than last year; and, too, there were schools which did not contribute last year. We want you to join the majority group this year.

Flat Rock Charge, Rev. C. B. Way, Pastor

I visited two churches on this charge last Sunday. We were at Gideon's Grove in the morning. There was present a very good attendance for a rural church; some were present from Palestine. This congregation has a nice, comfortable church building—one room, in which to worship, and the people were quite attentive and appreciative of the message.

We visited Flat Rock church in the afternoon. This church was organized by Rev. Alson Gray in 1831; his picture is back of the pulpit. Here we have a lovely church edifice. A few years ago the old frame building was veneered with stone, the interior was plastered, windows changed, new pews put in. So it was a complete rejuvenation. The pulpit chairs as well as the pews have memorial tablets showing they were given in memory of former members of this church. It was to me most impressive, as it brought back to memory the lives of many who were leaders in our church life in the conference.

The congregation was good, although the measles was still in the community, I was told, thus keeping some of the members in their homes.

The churches on this group are busily engaged in the program of the conference; now they are raising the assessment for Church Extension and Pastor Way is hopeful of the entire amount being raised this month.

CONFERENCE COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

T. J. WHITEHEAD, President
1800 Spring Garden St. - - Greensboro, N. C.

IN HONOR OF DR. FORLINES

All who attended the banquet on Saturday night and the two services on Sunday will agree with me that we had a wonderful celebration in honor of Dr. Forlines. But these services were more than mere celebrations. The messages that this great thinker brought were filled with a real challenge for our youth. Yes, there was a great challenge for a greater program for Christ in our Conference. Let every church meet this challenge by observing Young People's Day.

Leadership Training Schools

Schools opened at the following places this week: Whitakers; Mebane; Fountain Place, Burlington; Mt. Pleasant, Mt. Pleasant Charge; Liberty; West End, Greensboro; Brown Summit; Denton. Schools will open at the following places next week: Henderson; Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Charge; Tabernacle, Tabernacle Charge; Lexington, First; Concord; Midland. It is not too late for a large number of our Methodist Protestants to get into a leadership training school.

Our Goals

1. Every church on every charge observing Young People's Day on January 28th or February 4th.
2. A $3,000 offering from the North Carolina Conference for World Service as a result of this special day.

"Leaders in the local church—lead on!" With your help we will have a great Young People's Day in the Old North State of Dr. C. E. Forlines. We want to meet his challenge to youth.

T. J. WHITEHEAD.

SCHEDULE OF APPORTIONMENT

Of the North Carolina Council of Religious Education

Sunday Schools with 100 members or less	$2.00
Sunday Schools with 101 members to 200	3.00
Sunday Schools with 201 members to 300	4.00
Sunday Schools with 301 members to 400	5.00
Sunday Schools with 401 and over	6.00
Christian Endeavor Societies with 10 members or less	1.00
Christian Endeavor Societies with 11 members to 20	2.00
Christian Endeavor Societies with 21 members to 30	3.00
Christian Endeavor Societies with 31 and over	4.00

These apportionments will be sent direct to the Council Treasurer rather than to the Conference Treasurer, as you have been doing for the last two years. The Treasurer of the Council is in a receptive mood and he would appreciate it if the Sunday School Superintendents and C. E. Secretaries would take knowledge and begin now to start their apportionments in this direction.

We made a good record last year, having paid all our bills, with a small balance. Let's do as well this year.

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Treasurer.

L. T. S. CLUBS

Let us begin now to organize, if you have not already done so, Leadership Training Clubs. Organize your interested young people and church leaders into a club. Elect the most wide-awake member to be chairman; elect also a secretary and a treasurer; have regular monthly meetings; make plans to raise money to be shared equally by those who go to High Point Leadership Training School, and in all your meetings make going to High Point Leadership Training School June 25th to 30th your chief objective.

For further information please write

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Director.

JUST A SUGGESTION

I haven't been asked to make it, but it has occurred to me that, in view of the fact that this year's program for Young People's Day has been dedicated to Dr. C. E. Forlines, who, as you all know, is a member of our Conference and a Tar Heel born, that the churches of the Conferenec, including the Sunday schools and C. E. societies, ought to honor him by giving the Board of Education, Department of Religious Education, which is sponsoring the program, the largest offering the Conference has ever given to that interest. How better can we show our appreciation of Dr. Forlines than by paying this tribute to him and to the work in which he is vitally interested? So, let's get an offering from every church, Sunday school, and C. E. society in the Conference. It can be done. Here at Winston First, we are going to try to give the largest offering we have ever given to Young People's Work. Go thou and do likewise.

THIS IS NO JOKE

Kansas, a pioneering state in the cause of prohibition, is made the butt of many jokes because of its dry attitude. It is no joke, however, what Kansas has reaped as a result of its bone-dry law. In Kansas there are:

Fifty-four counties without any insane; fifty-four counties no feeble-minded; ninety-six counties without any poorhouses; fifty-three counties without any persons in jail; fifty-six counties without any representatives in the state penitentiary. —The Christian Observer.

President Roosevelt's Address to the Churches

tions, can work hand in hand. Government can ask the churches to stress in their teaching the ideals of social justice, while at the same time government guarantees to the churches—Gentile and Jew—the right to worship God in their own way. The churches, while they remain wholly free from even the suggestion of interference in government, can at the same time teach their millions of followers that they have the right to demand of the government of their own choosing the maintenance and furtherance of a 'more abundant life.' State and Church are rightly united in a common aim. With the help of God, we are on the road toward it."

CHIPS

"Hello, boy!"

"Hello, man!" the answer came back as quick as a flash.

"Stop a minute, will you?"

The boy stopped and turned about, grinning.

Mr. Arthur Milman, artist, had strolled beyond the village limits, looking for the picturesque to fill his sketch-book.

Catching sight of a boy swinging an empty basket, it looked as if he'd found something to fill the bill, or, rather, a page of the book. The boy's face was keen, but full of a jolly good nature.

"What's your name, my son?"

"Chips!" The word came with a twinkle.

"Humph!" Mr. Milman muttered, "bright youngster." Then aloud: "Why do they call you 'Chips'?"

"Folks call me that 'count of my business," and Chips swung his basket proudly.

"Oh, I see! Well, Chips, if you want to earn a quarter easily, you stand still a little while just as you are, and let me make a picture of you."

Chips grinned again in delighted appreciation, and the artist sketched away.

Chips was really a noted character—he was a monopolist. The men who owned the large woodyard let him have all the kindlings. They were willing to do it without cost, in view of the fact that he was the mainstay of his mother, who was too feeble for much work. But Chips was no beggar; he meant to do business on business methods. Therefore, he paid a small price for the kindlings, and sold them out by the basketful at houses in the village.

Everybody liked Chips; he was so industrious, so kind to his mother, so ready to give and take a joke. He had a gay word for every housewife or servant-maid; he grabbed off his cap and said, "Thank you!" with rough politeness every time he was paid for the kindlings.

It may be thought strange that other boys did not poach on Chips' preserves. Indeed, it was tried once or twice, and he pounced on the offender in a fashion not to be desired. After that the manager of the woodyard, wishing to give the boy the best chance, and not being devoid of humor himself, posted the following notice:

"The owners of this yard have sold the right to deal in kindlings to Richard Holmes, otherwise known as 'Chips.' Any one trespassing on this will be handed over to the police."

So Chips was really a monopolist, though he didn't know it until Mr. Milman, the artist, said so, after Chips had explained his occupation.

Mr. Milman took a great liking to the boy.

"Chips," he said one day, "I'm going back to the city pretty soon, and all winter long I'm going to paint pictures. There are several things I'd like to put such a boy as you in. How would you like to go with me? You could learn to take care of my rooms, and then pose for me when I needed you. I'd give—let's see—" Mr. Milman thought a minute, and then named a sum that made Chips' eyes fairly dance.

"Think it over, and ask your mother."

Chips' face fell at the word "mother."

Chips marched off frowning hard. That night he lay awake—an unheard of proceeding. One thing he resolved, "I'll not trouble mother with it till I've settled it myself." It was not the first time he had shielded her from anxiety. Toward morning he went off to sleep.

When he awoke, and had plunged his tousled head in cold water, everything cleared up. He knew!

It was like him to go straight to Mr. Milman.

"Well?" the artist asked.

"I've thought it over, sir. I'd like to go mighty well, but mother couldn't spare me. Yes, sir. I know it's big money to what I get now, it's just this a-way: You wants me three months, say. Then I comes back, an' some other boy has my place, 'cause they can't have the kindlin' litterin' round. An' maybe I wouldn't like to sell kindlin' after I'd been a city feller. An' the woodyard man has promised me a place 's quick's I'm big enough, so it's slow an' sure. But it's mother mostly. She'd feel it every minute. Thank you, sir, but I've decided."

There were pretty nearly tears in the honest eyes. Mr. Milman grasped the boy's hand; he never wanted so much to paint him as at that moment.

"I'm proud of you," was what he said, "and when I come back next summer we'll make up for what we can't do this winter, eh?"

As the boy turned away, the artist thought to himself, "Chips has a good head and a good heart."—Morning Star.

HEALTH

THINK health!
Yourself as healthy see;
As you think within your heart,
So you'll be.

TALK health!
Speak words of truth and praise;
Know that wisdom's tongue
Is life and length of days.

ACT health!
Let manner, mood and mind,
Show purpose, poise and power
In high degree combined.

BUILD health!
By thought and word and deed;
Look high, have faith, be brave,
Persist and you'll succeed!

THE OPTIMIST

I sing a song to the Optimist,
To the man that is brave and strong,
Who keeps his head when things go right,
And smiles when things go wrong.

I am proud of the genial Optimist,
His radiant voice and speech,
He helps to smooth the rugged path
Of all within his reach.

I like the way of the Optimist
Who looks for the bright and best,
He scatters sunshine as he goes
And leaves his fellows blest.

So here's a song to the Optimist
Who joyously works and sings,
And daily shows this weary world
The way to better things.

CONTENTMENT

When I was but a boy,
I made a rosy plan,
Of all the things I'd have,
When I became a man.

When I became a man,
I recalled with joy,
The many things I had,
When I was but a boy.

Today I'm quite content,
I know now what to do:
No fears, no vain regrets,
My wants are very few.

KEEP SERENE!

Keep serene!
Do cheerfully your part.
No matter what the task,
Be true and strong of heart.

Keep serene!
Make this a fruitful day.
However hard the task,
Keep smiling all the way.

GET BUSY!

If you have a job to do,
Get busy!
Stimulate the best in you,
Get busy!
Better labor than to lean,
Freely share than to be mean,
If you want a life serene,
Get busy!

If you have a bill to pay,
Get busy!
Don't delay another day,
Get busy!
Unpaid debts are just a pest,
They bring worry and unrest,
Promptitude is much the best,
Get busy!

If there's hunger in the land,
Get busy!
Give with generous, willing hand,
Get busy!
Try today some good to spread,
Banish doubt and useless dread,
If you want to get ahead,
Get busy!

ONLY A DOG

I'm only a dog,—
Not much: you say?
But I have great sport,
I play all the day.

I'm only a dog,—
You're sorry for me?
I sleep well at night,
From worry I'm free.

I'm only a dog,—
Sad lot, do you think?
I've good things to eat,
And plenty to drink.

I'm only a dog,—
When I see men at strife
I'm thankful to God
I lead a dog's life!

GET OUT OF THE RUT

Get out of the rut,
Be done with the past;
Don't talk of old age,
Hang fear at half-mast.

Get out of the rut,
And the rocking-chair too;
Don't be a dull cynic,
But broaden your view.

Get out of the rut,
Don't longer delay;
Resolve to make this
A happy new day.

Get out of the rut,
Ignore doubt and strife;
Begin something new,
Get a fresh grip on life!

WHAT TO DO

If you're feelin' tired and blue,
And you don't know what to do,
Do nothin'.
If your appetite's not right,
And your waistband's gettin' tight,
Stop stuffin'.

If your plans are all awry,
And you think you're goin' to cry,
Go fishin'.
If you can't see far ahead,
And you wish that you were dead,
Stop wishin'.

If you know you talk too much,
And your neighbor's feelin's touch,
Stop talkin'.
If your nerves are all askew,
There is one good thing to do,
Go walkin'.

If you want to win life's race,
With a smile upon your face,
Stop shirkin'.
If you have a task to do
And would like to get it through,
Keep workin'.

SECURITY

I built a castle in the air;
It seemed so very real to me,
Until one day a monsoon came
And blew my castle out to sea.

I built a bungalow on sand,
Of charm and beauty fair to tell;
Floods came, wild winds blew,
Beat upon it, and it fell.

I built a house upon Rock,
Built it so to long endure;
Let rains descend and tempests smite,
I know my house will stand secure.

METHUSELAH

Methuselah was a wise man,
A vegetarian he,
No meat, no fish, no poultry,
No coffee and no tea.

He lived on foods from nature,
Fruits, nuts and vegetables,
He chewed them two and thirty times,
But eschewed indigestibles.

His happy years were fruitful,
Nine hundred and sixty-nine;
I'm working for longevity,
So I've made his habits mine.

NIGHT

The sun descends
Upon the tired day,
And night nurse comes
To tuck the world away.

Going Out of Business

How true the statement, "A friend in need is a friend indeed." We feel that very keenly just now since the High Point Grocery Company is going out of business. Mr. O. P. Moffitt has directed that company for years, and during our years in this Home he has trusted us for months at a time, and yet sold to us at wholesale prices. We do not know another friend who will do it. We are compelled to buy breakfast cereals, sugar, salt, lard, baking powder, soda and other articles. We must now pay cash, or not get the materials when needed, so our MANY friends must come to our rescue just a little better or we suffer. There are just three firms now that will furnish us the materials they sell, at wholesale prices, and wait for their pay. If they were to go out of business, or for any reason withdraw credit, it would just about put us out of business.

We are not pleading now for large contributions, but we are pleading as we have never plead before for a larger number of regular monthly contributions. For the Lord's sake, dear friends, hear our plea and lighten our burdens. We do not want any other good work to suffer, but this work must go on. We cannot turn back in these times. We thank you for every contribution that comes, and may the dear Father bless and prosper every one of you.

A Wedding of Interest

Miss Virginia Beam, one of our finest girls, who went out from the Home about 18 months ago, was recently happily married to Mr. Ralph Mauney, of Cherryville, N. C. We congratulate the fortunate young man and wish for them both success and happiness.

NORTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE HONORS DR. FORLINES

The North Carolina Conference Council of Religious Education in co-operation with the Bellemont and First Church, Burlington, sponsored four services in honor of Dr. Forlines. The occasion marked the beginning of an intensive Leadership Training Campaign, leading up to Young People's Day, either January 28th or February 4th.

The banquet held in the hut of the First Methodist Protestant Church of Burlington was attended by approximately 200 admirers of the honored guest. An evening of fun and fellowship was enjoyed by all. Those attending were from all parts of the Piedmont section of the state. A goodly number of ministers were present.

Sunday morning at the First Church the Rev. F. L. Gibbs, who spent his boyhood days in Burlington, brought the message. Many attended this service, filling the large auditorium.

Sunday afternoon a service was held in Bellemont, the boyhood village of Dr. Forlines. It was a beautiful day and some 350 people were present to hear Dr. Forlines bring one of his masterful sermons.

The climax of the day came at the evening service, at which time Dr. Forlines brought another message. A token of appreciation was presented to the honored guest by friends and former students who had studied under this great teacher. It consisted of a neatly bound book in which his students serving in North Carolina wrote their appreciation of their teacher. A purse of funds was also given with the booklet.

Many others took part in the celebration. A group of High Point College students furnished special music. It was indeed a rare occasion and was enjoyed by all.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Next Major Special Day—January, 1934

We challenge the interest of pastors, Sunday school superintendents, Christian Endeavor leaders, leadership training school students, and other church leaders in Young People's Day, with the following features:

1. A day dedicated to Dr. Charles Edward Forlines, professor of Systematic Theology, Westminster Theological Seminary.
2. A timely sermon outline, "Youth's True and Everlasting Friend," prepared by Dr. Harlan L. Feeman, President of Adrian College.
3. Something different in the way of a play, "The Saving of Wearyworld," prepared by Miss Dorothy Elderdice, professor of Speech and Drama, Westminster Theological Seminary.
4. Suggestions for two other types of evening services where the play is not used.
5. An opportunity to challenge the young people of your church to share in the celebration of Young People's Day.
6. A special weekly envelope plan to assist you in raising your World Service budget in full.

We are mailing 5,000 Young People's Day samples by December 10. You should receive yours. Order your materials at once and avoid the Christmas rush.

We are primarily concerned that every church, large and small, observe this day. Make it an occasion for enlisting Youth for Christ.

The offering received on Young People's Day goes to the support of the program of the whole church—which interpreted as World Service means Missions, Christian Education, and Philanthropy.

The offering was doubled in 1933—let's do it again in 1934.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

TO AUXILIARY SECRETARY, SPIRITUAL LIFE DEPARTMENT

May I remind you that the World Day of Prayer is on Friday, February 16, this time? Wherever this service was observed last year it gave new hope, it drew women closer together in a sweet fellowship; it brought churches of many different creeds together in a united service—these prayers from women of all nations throughout the world were ascending to the throne of grace.

Please begin right now to prepare for the day in your daily prayers, then in special prayer at the Auxiliary meeting, for we have the promise that our Lord will give us strength and bless us with peace.

May each of us do our best for a spiritual uplift in our own church, and the community in this the new year.

Some wrote me for program last year for this service. I never have them. Please order early. The program is "Pray for the Peace of Jerusalem," price 2 cents each; the posters are 5 cents each, and the call to prayer is free. Do please hand these out in every group between now and February 16th, and talk your meeting. Those who attend will find it time well spent.

Order supplies from Miss Bettie Brittingham, Editor, 516 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Md. Some have already ordered. Read carefully Psalm 122 aut pray daily for "Peace, sweet ptace, the gift of God's love," as you prepare your program for the World Day of Prayer.

EXPLANATION

In the Calendar of Lebanon church, published in the Herald of last week, there was no provision made for superannuates and Herald subsidy. Some who read the valendar may have wondered about this omission. The explanation is that our Aid Society raises the allotment for superannuates, and Miss Lula Thacker, one of our active members, collects the amount allotted for Herald.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Gibsonville Church.—Since Conference the reporter for Gibsonville church has been dormant; however, there has been a great deal of activity on the part of the other workers.

On Tuesday evening, December 19, the Young Ladies' Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Lee Harris on Whitsett Avenue. The program was in charge of the president, Miss Lessie Faucett. Readings were given by Misses Marie Summers, Hazel Woodard, Orpha Burgess, and Esqurido Yow, and Mesdames Lee Harris, M. J. Jennings, and Clara Randolph. After the missionary program Miss Faucett directed a social period, leading a number of games, which were enjoyed by all members. Mrs. Harris served fruits at the close of this program. The January meeting will be held with Miss Marie Summers.

Miss Esqurido Yow's class of Intermediate girls enjoyed a Christmas party at the church hut on Tuesday evening. Progressive games were played. The members of the class drew names and gave presents to the person to whom the name belonged which they had drawn.

On Friday evening at 2 o'clock the members of the third Primary Sunday school class met with their teacher, Miss Orpha Burgess, at the hut. After exchanging gifts, a number of games were played on the church lawn.

At 3 o'clock an appointed committee met all of the Primary Sunday school children in the hut and presented them with a bag of fruits, nuts and candy from the Sunday school department.

On Sunday evening at 5 o'clock a program of Christmas music was rendered by the choir. Pastor Bethea preached a Christmas sermon at this hour.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their December meeting at the home of Mrs. M. J. Jennings. A Christmas program was rendered with Mrs. Myrtle Anderson in charge. Readings were given by Mesdames Greeson and F. R. Owen.

The members of the Junior Missionary Circle recently enjoyed a Pollyanna party at the home of Junior Shelton on Church street.

The members of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society are planning to give a missionary play some time during the month of January.

At a recent meeting of the board of stewards, plans were laid to give a supper during the month of January. The members adjourned to meet again January 7th to arrange more definite plans.

The quarterly conference will meet Thursday, January 11, in the church auditorium. All members are asked to attend.

At Fountain Place church, Burlington, January 18, 19, 29, 30, and 31, there will be a Leadership Training school. Rev. N. G. Bethea will be the dean. We hope a number of our folk will attend.

Pastor Bethea will also be Dean of the Leadership Training School held at Mebane January 15, 16, 17, 25, and 26, also the school at Mount Hermon, January 22, 23, 24, Feb. 1, and 2.

Miss Katie Lee Taylor, of Greensboro, spent the week-end with her aunt and cousin, Mrs. I. N. Woodard, and Miss Hazel Woodard.

Siler City Charge.—The work of the new Conference year seems to be starting off in a gratifying way with all the organizations functioning. Pleasing Christmas programs were rendered at all three of the churches, Siler City, Hope, and Piney Grove, with beautifully dressed holly trees at Siler City and Piney Grove. When the trees were undressed the pastor and wife received a number of beautiful and valuable presents. Hope church had no tree, yet the primary classes were treated. On the evening of December 24 an inspiring pageant, "Bethlehem's Star," was given by the young people of the Siler City church, this taking the place of the sermon.

It seems popular to report poundings these days. Two of the churches, Siler City and Hope, have given this pastor generous poundings since the Annual Conference, consisting of almost everything needed for the pantry. Members of Piney Grove church have made donations to the pastor from time to time. We are truly grateful for these donations, and it is our desire to do our best in serving them.

May the Lord bless us as we labor together this year in the Master's cause.

Just recently the church yard at Siler City has been graded and shrubbery planted. A little later grass seed will be sown. Some work has also been done on the yard at Piney Grove.

Plans are being made to observe Young People's Day at all three churches on this charge.

Some of our faithful members are very sick at this writing. We miss them from the church services. H. L. ISLEY.

Flat Rock Charge.—Last Sunday was a good day on Flat Rock charge. We had the pleasure of a visit by Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Annual Conference, at Gideon's Grove and Flat Rock churches. We had a fairly good attedance at Gideon's Grove for the Sunday school and preaching services. Dr. Andrews arrived in time for the Sunday school. He delivered a very appropriate and helpful message at the church service. After the service the pastor and family, accompanied by Dr. Andrews, went to the splendid home of Bro. Archie Lemmons, where a good dinner was enjoyed. Bro. Lemmons is a member of Gideon's Grove church and Mrs. Lemmons is a member of Palestine church. They attend both churches regularly, which is very commendable.

We were at Flat Rock church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. We had a very good attendance, although there were not quite as many as usual, due to the prevalence of measles among some of our members. Dr. Andrews spoke first of the work of the Annual Conference and preached a splendid sermon. He complimented Flat Rock church for the splendid improvements made on the church building since his last visit to that church.

The writer was called to Yadkin County Tuesday of last week to assist in the funeral services for Rev. J. W. Doub at Baltimore church. The going away of Bro. Doub is a distinct loss to Baltimore church, because he was the outstanding leader in the Sunday school and church for the past half century. We presume the pastor will furnish an obituary for the Herald, so we will not comment further.

We are glad to report some additions to the big family of Herald readers. New subscribers for Flat Rock charge are as follows: Bethel Church, N. W. Gordon, Mrs. R. C. Gordon; Palestine Church, Mrs. Hassell Angel, A. L. Lemmons; Flat Rock church, W. E. Johnson.

Our appointments for next Sunday are: Palestine, 11 a. m.; Bethel, 3 p. m.

Union Chapel, Granville Charge.—The crowd at church was unusually large at both Sunday school and church services Sunday. This seemed so encouraging. We hope it will continue.

Mr. Spencer preached a most inspiring and helpful sermon, using as his Scripture the 13th chapter of Luke's Gospel, first ten verses, selecting the text from the eighth verse. After the Scriture reading we were favored with a solo by Mrs. L. E. Barnes.

Some of our members are planning to attend the Leadership Training School conducted this week in Henderson at the M. P. church.

May God bless our church and make the members more active this year than ever before. MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

Denton Church, Denton Charge.—This morning, January 14th, as the worshippers came into the church a surprise lay in store for them. Instead of the regular mode of service, the Philatheea class had charge of the program, with Mrs. A. R. Morris presiding. After the opening song, the school was led in prayer by Mrs. A. R. Shaw. Mrs. John Mitchell, teacher of the class, read the Scriutpre, after which the classes adjourned to their rooms for the lesson. When the school reassembled, we were favored with a quartet by members of the Philathea class, after which Mrs. George C. Haltom gave an interesting talk on "Customs in the Days of Christ." The school adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Mittie B. Mitchell. It was a big day for Denton, with 154 present, the largest number in years.

Since next Sunday is Young People's Day in our Conference, we will observe it in our Sunday school, and the Junior Philathea class will have charge of the services.

The C. E. Society met at 6 o'clock with Mr. N. V. Johnson, president, presiding. He immediately turned the meeting over to Mr. Bowman, our pastor, who explained the order of the program. Mrs. A. L. Hill gave an interesting talk on the topic for discussion, after which new officers for the coming year were installed. A very impressive installation service was held with Mr. Bowman officiating. Officers installed were: Clinard

Sexton, president; Max Rogers, vice-president; Marjorie Cranford, secretary-treasurer; Katherine Sexton, assistant secretary-treasurer; Helen Cranford, choir director, and Blanche Hoover, pianist.

The Ladies' Aid Society met last Monday night with Mrs. C. L. Kearns and Mrs. Nancy Sexton at their home on Main street, with a record-breaking attendance present. This organization is very active and always has a good report to make. Their money-making project for the coming month is the "rainy day" plan. Each member is to give one cent for each day it rains and ten cents for each day it snows.

On Thursday night of this week the Denton Leadership Training School will begin at 6:30 under the directorship of Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bowman and Rev. E. A. Bingham of Lineberry church, Davidson Charge. A cordial welcome is extended to everyone.

We are glad to report that Ms. Bowman is ercoverng ncely from her recent lllness.

MAX ROGERS, Repoter.

Union Grove, Mocksville Charge.—On Sunday, January 14th, Rev. G. B. Ferree filled his regular appointment with such an inspiring message. His subject was taken from the parable of the "Wheat and Tares." So many good points were brought out. We hope that every sermon will be so inspired that we will take them home, use them every day, and make new 1934—a year for God.

Our Sunday school has made a very good improvement the last year. We are proud of it. Everyone that attends seems to worship in the right spirit—and not "to see and be seen." There are a few people in our community who do not attend Sunday school. We are making it our aim to have everyone that possibly can attend at least three Sundays out of every month. This is our goal. Won't you aid us by lending your prayers?

Christian Endeavor Society has elected new officers for next quarter. Miss Flora Mae Wooten, president; Hugh White, vice-president; Rex Templeton, secretary-treasurer; Annie Wooten and Bennie Williams, captains of groups Nos. 1 and 2.

Junior Christian Endeavor is making a huge success. These little meetings are so helpful to them. They have chosen for their leader, Miss Mayme Harris.

We earnestly ask the prayers of the Herald readers; we need them that we may succeed in trying to uplift the kingdom of God and His righteousness. Union Grove church joins me in saying, God be with you and keep you in the paths of righteousness.

Matthews Chapel, Greensville Charge.—The work of the new year has started off nicely, and we are very happy to have with us Rev. Q. L. Joyner and family.

Our Sunday school is active and, we feel, doing good work. E. L. Edwards has been elected superintendent for this year. We have an enrollment of 102; attendance last Sunday, 93.

We are using the attendance and on-time plan among our little folks, Beginners, Primary, and Junior, and it works wonderfully.

Pastor Joyner is giving a prize between the Bible class and Senior class on attendance, collection, and increase in membership for the next three months.

We hope our Sunday school will increase to such an extent that our people may feel the need of Sunday school rooms. We teanhers, as we meet with our classes from Sunday te Sunday, see the need of them now, and one of our teachers made this remark recently: "We are going to talk Sunday school rooms until we can almost see them." We know that it can be done, and would mean so much to our church and Sunday school.

On the evening of December 26th our Sunday school gave a Christmas program and tree. Each member of the Sunday school was given a treat, and we did not forget our pastor and family. They shared with us.

We are planning to re-organize Christian Endeavor in the early spring. We feel it is too good an organization for our young people to be deprived of, and no church should be without a young people's organization.

About 15 of our young people are planning to attend the Leadership Training School which will be held at Wesley's Chapel the latter part of this month.

We were very sorry to learn through the Herald of the illness of Bro. Cowan. He was our pastor for three years. Bro. and Mrs. Cowan both are well remembered by our people here. Hope he may soon be restored to his usual health and able to serve his people.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Lottie Edwards, Reporter.

Lincolnton.—Another Christmas has come and gone and we wish every reader of the Herald a very happy and prosperous New Year. May we not be satisfied with our past accomplishments, but strive for more noble heights in the future.

Our Sunday school is doing splendidly. We have a good attendance every Sunday and an unusually good offering. Our superintendent has asked that we make the first Sunday in each month more evangelistic and on that day put forth very special effort to bring the entire school to Christ. We have had only one of these special phases of service and seemingly much good was accomplished. We feel that with God's help this will mean much to te spiritual condition of the church.

We ave a very wide-awake group of young people in our Christian Endeavor and its great help to the church cannot be over-estimated.

During the winter months our mid-week prayer meetings are being held in the homes of various members. Our prayer meeting in '33 was not what we would like for it to have been, and we hope for much greater success in the present year. REPORTER.

State Street Charge.—The regular appointment in our Yadkin College church is the third Sunday afternoon in each month; hence, I have been there only once. The membership is small. Our people hold Sunday school jointly with another church in our building. They had a Christmas tree and exercise. I understand Christian Endeavor is conducted in the same way.

The other churches, State Street and Bethesda, each observed the Christmas season with appropriate exercises.

Each of the two churches is laying plans to raise all Annual Conference claims in full. The Men's Bible Class of Bethesda church did the generous act last Sunday of voting to share these claims on a fifty-fifty basis with State Street, instead of the forty-sixty basis of pastor's salary apportionment.

Each church is getting together figures of amounts contributed last year to World Service with the thought of increasing 25 per cent, as suggested. Each church is preparing for Young People's Day observance.

The superintendent of each Sunday school is urging increase in attendance with good results. A few Sundays back two classes with their teachers in State Street Sunday school stood, reporting one hundred per cent present. Last Sunday five classes stood with like report. Last Sunday 92 per cent of the entire enrollment were present, including 10 new scholars added to the roll.

We are now thinking, and talking, and planning for our Leadership Training School, to begin January 22nd with two standard courses and two Young People's courses.

State Street church has workable plans already laid and is working the plans to clear off entirely the street pavement claim and to reduce very materially the building debt on the church. The people have a mind to work. They have already held two suppers, clearing more than $30.00 on each.

This same church pays one-twelfth of the salary for the year each month. Once before during my ministerial career I served a church that did this.

On the entire work the people are very cordial and have the spirit of co-operation.

T. M. JOHNSON.

Asheville Church.—Our Christmas program given by members of the Sunday school on Sunday night, December 24th, was enjoyed by a large audience. The collection was sent to the Children's Home. Christmas night we had our Christmas tree for the Sunday school. Each class sang a carol while representatives from their class presented some suitable decorations for the tree to "the Spirit of Christmas," Miss Margaret Fawcett.

The Faucett Bible class met in regular business and social meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Faucett December 26. Business was soon dispensed with and the class enjoyed the evening as "boys and girls" in school with Miss Faucett as teacher.

The Young Ladies' Class had a supper at the church recently, from which tey raised a nice sum to apply on their budget.

At a recent Sunday school Council meeting Mrs. Maier was elected superintendent of of the Children's Department. She called a meeting of the teachers in her department and divided it into four departments with Mrs. Bolick, superintendent of Beginners; Miss Josie McNeeill, Primary; Mrs. Baker, Junior. Each class in turn is to present a 10-minute program during the opening exercise.

In the Adult Department of the Sunday school during 1933 each class had charge of the worship program once each month. The same plan has been adopted for 1934.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. Y. D. Eller Tuesday afternoon, January 9, with Mrs. Younginer, chairman of the Circle, in charge.

The Auxiliary will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Baker Thursday, January 18, with Mrs. Maier in charge of the program.

The Junior C. E. Society held its monthly social at the home of the president, Miss Virginia Taylor, on Rankin avenue, January 11. A small admission was charged and an interesting program was presented by the Juniors for their mothers and friends present. A pledge of $10.00 was made by the Juniors on the budget.

The Senior C. E. Society met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Eller January 12. Plans for the year were discussed. It was decided for the society to sponsor a "news sheet" for the church, and to ask each organized group to elect a reporter to furnisch the news from their group. Plans for the annual C. E. banquet to be held at the church January 26th were made. Seven new members were received.

The City C. E. Union met with our society Sunday evening, January 14th. A very interesting program was given by Miss Faucett, Miss Clouse, Miss Mildred Younginer, and Mr. Jarvis Eller on the subject, "The Influence of Christianity on the Fine Arts." The business session was conducted by Miss Nelle Gray, president of the City Union. The next meeting will be at the Presbyterian church, West Asheville, Tuesday evening, February 27, with their society in charge of the program.

Shiloh Charge.—We began our work here promptly after the adjournment of Conference and have filled all appointments to date. We have been very kindly received by the people of this charge, and the work seems to be starting well for a successful year. The different organizations seem to be functioning, Sunday schools are doing good work, attendance for the church services is slendid, offerings are good, and finances are coming up fairly well. The people are optimistic, and the work as a whole is encouraging.

All three of the churches gave Christmas progams and treats for the Sunday schools that were in keeping with the spirit of Christmas. During the holidays our people remembered us with flour, fresh meats, a turkey, milk and butter, chickens, shirts, ties, fruits, candies, Christmas cards, and other useful articles, all of which is greatly appreciated. We will not take space to call names of all contributors, but pray God's blessings upon them and pedge to the charge our very best service in the new year.

We enjoyed our stay of five years on Cleveland Charge, and it was indeed a blessed privilege to serve them. We shall ever remember them among our very best frinds. Surely there is to be found there some of the "salt of the earth." Blessings upon them and their new pastor.

C. E. RIDGE.

Littleton.—Since we have reported only once since we have been here I would like to give a brief report of our work. We are greatly encouraged with all of our churches. We filled our appointments January 7 at Corinth and found that our church there needs a new roof, so we tried to get enough money to re-cover the church and have only $40.00 to raise then we will have a new roof on our church.

We went over to Weaver's Chapel in the afternoon and were delighted to see so many out for service. We re-organized the Sunday school and we believe we will have a real good Sunday school at Weaver's Chapel.

We then went to Hawkins Chapel and met a large congregation there as usual.

Yesterday was our regular appointment at Hawkins Chapel. The house was almost full. Then we went to Vaughn last night and did not expect to have many present as we have changed our appointments there. Now we have service at Vaughn the second Sunday night and fourth Sunday morning, and there are many people at Vaughn on the sick list. Bro. W. T. Carter and several others have been sick for some time, but are some better now. We wish for them a speedy recovery. But in spite of all the things that we thought would keep us from having a large congregation we had a house full. We are thankful that we have the fine spirit of co-operation of the Baptist people at Vaughn.

We are also encouraged with the work at Chase City. We went to Chase City last fifth Sunday and had a large congregation at each service. We believe that the work there will go forward this year. We have a good Sunday school at Chase City and two Sunday schools on this work and we hope to have one at Corinth soon.

R. L. VICKERY, Pastor.

Gibsonville-Fountain Place.—The work here is off to a good start. Everything looks more encouraging than the beginning of last year. Better attendance in church and Sunday school at both churches. The stewards at Gibsonville have their work well under wey, and with the enthusiosm manifested, and the increase in collections over this time last year, all point to a successful year. Plans are already on feet to raise all Annual Conference claims by the last of January. This, to the writer's mind, indicates a fine start for a good year's work. There were 184 present last Sunday, the most I have seen recorded here during the four years I have served, and there was a correspondingly large attendance on the morning services the same day at church.

Fountain Place people are working as hard as ever on their church debt, and while the reduction is slow, still it is coming down, and with the same patience and perseverance of the past the goal will be reached. Sunday school and church attendance here is much improved. One of the outstanding things done here of recent date is the organization of a band of 25 tithers. This originated in the Young Men's Class. Kept up, it will certainly mean a revival of interest along all lines.

So many tokens of appreciation were given to the inmates of the parsonage during the holiday season that it would not be just to mention the names of those who remembered us in so many ways. There were cards from numbers of our friends that we have served in days gone by. We thank you, too. Those of our neighbors and friends were as follows: Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Stewart, Miss Hazel Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Shelton, Mrs. L. D. McCollum, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Kivett, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jennings, Mrs. J. P. Huffman, Goley Yow, Arthur Kivett, Minneola Manufacturing Co., G. J. Yow, Mrs. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, and the Sunday school at Fountain Place gave a beautiful dining room picture and a combination end table and revolving book case. All these things were appreciated and enjoyed.

We are beginning our fifth year here and we are planning as best we can for the development of the work. Whe are circulating the Layman leaflets in our church work by using the blank side for our bulletins in all the day services held. This is, as I understand it, following the plan adopted at our last Annual Conference—make January the month when these things should be especially stressed. Someone has remarked that if we could induce one-tenth of our people to tithe, there would be no deficits in our collection. There needs to be at least a greater number of our folks testing this thing out. Give a demonstration at least of what God would do for us if we would but put Him to the test. Rowland Hill said, "There needs to be one more Pentecost, a Pentecost of giving, and then the Kingdom of God would come, if all God's children were filled with the spirit of giving that would lead them to give Him that part which rightfully belongs to Him."

If more of our spending was for His glory, then our greater joy would come from the blessings that would come to us as a result of unselfishness. May there be a greater spirit of that which develops in us the trait of God —GIVING OUR BEST!

N. G. BETHEA.

Calvary, Greensboro.—"We have some justification for spending things on Jesus," said Dr. Pritchard at the mid-week prayer service last Wednesday evening. "When Jesus visited in the home of Martha and Mary and Mary took that box of precious ointment and anointed the feet of Jesus she did it because she loved Him. Her home was made happier and richer because of that deed." He continued by saying: "In this home in Bethany, Jesus was invited and made welcome, and he knew it." "The thing that was a recommendation to Jesus was a LIVING MAN, a man he had raised from the dead—a man who had been changed from a dead man to a live man. People came, saw and believed:" "This man Lazarus was transformed from a dead man to a living man because of the fact that Jesus was invited into that home and great things were done to make him welcome."

If you will just come to the prayer meeting one Wednesday evening you will come again, for you will feel that you cannot afford to miss the very, very helpful message that Dr. Pritchard has for you each time.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting in the hut Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with 30 members present. Mrs. D. E. Curtis, the president, was in the chair for a short business session. Mrs. J. E. Pritchard conducted the devotional exercise, her subject being "Prayer." It was announced at the meeting that plans for the Thank-offering service, to be held the last Wednesday night in February, are being worked out. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected at the next Auxiliary meeting. The nominating committee appointed at the meeting yesterday is composed of Miss Velna McCulloch, Mrs. J. W. Williamon and Mrs. L. W. Jobe. Circle No. 1 won the attendance prize by one.

The members of the Auxiliary are planning an all-day Mission Study program next Thursday, beginning at 10 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Otis Campbell on Randolph Avenue. The book, "The Christian Mission in America," will be reviewed by Dr. Pritchard.

Quite a large congregation was present Sunday morning to hear Dr. Pritchard's sermon on "The Weapons of Our Warfare." His text, taken from II Cor. 10-4, tells us there is a conflict on. "There has always been conflict," said Dr. Pritchard, "conflict between righteousness and sin. For a nation to fight it must have confidence in its weapons. Since the forces of evil have weapons and have confidence in their weapons the forces of Jesus Christ MUST have weapons and confidence in them. What are the weapons of warfare of righteousness? Preaching, when backed up by the spirit of God, is a wonderful weapon. Teaching makes everlasting impressions. Prayer. Faith. Music, people testify through the singing of songs. Godly living, the most powerful weapon."

The largest congregation of the year was present at the Sunday evening service at which time our pastor delivered a very helpful sermon on "The Dangers of Sin."

An Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society was organized Sunday evening in the church with 28 young people joining. The officers are as follows: Morris Campbell, president; Miss Jane Greer, secretary, and Miss "Polly" Coble, treasurer.

John Ingram, who is a member of the Clinic Hospital staff, will conduct a six weeks' course on First Aid in the hut, beginning Friday evening of this week and continuing for five consecutive Friday evenings. All the Boy Scouts, as well as their parents or anyone else who is interested in learning First Aid treatments, will be given an opportunity to do so.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

First Church, Burlington—Yesterday marked a great event in the history of our church, which will live long in the memory of those who were present. Every year the N. C. Conference Council of Religious Education sets aside a special day, plans a program, etc., and dedicates it to some member of the Conference. Yesterday was that day, in honor of Rev. Charles Edward Forlines, D. D., Litt. D., L. L. D., now a teacher in the Theological Seminary, Westminster, Md. A great many persons were responsible for this program, but one of our very own whom we feel was especially responsible seemed to have a great part, Rev. Ferry Lee Gibbs. Rev. Mr. Gibbs went out from this church and he seems very near and dear to us, and we feel proud of him indeed.

Our attendance was large at all services, the church being filled to its capacity. A great many noted ministers were present during some of these services. It was sort of a Home-Coming Day, meeting new friends and seeing old acquaintances and enjoying good fellowship.

Dr. Forlines is one of our own. He was reared in a little town, Bellmont, about four miles from our city, but he attended this church and, in fact, his name is still on roll here. A host of his friends were present in honor of him. We feel very grateful in having a share in the life of a man with such caracter.

Dr. Forlines greeted the Sunday school with a few words.

At the 11 o'clock hour Rev. F. L. Gibbs delivered an address which was very inspirational. The theme was "Builders in God's World." At 2:30 p. m. another service was held in honor of Dr. Forlines at the Bellmont charge where he, himself, delivered the address.

At the evening hour here in this church Dr. Forlines again spoke. At this service Dr. Forlines stressed the fact that he had not gone out from this church to make a name for himself, but that he had gone out with the purpose of doing all the good he could, to all the people he could, in all the ways he could. Both sermons were very gratifying. At the close of the evening service Dr. Paschall, pastor, presented to Dr. Forlines a book containing letters of appreciation from pupils from his classrooms who have gone out into the active world. Dr. Forlines assured Dr. Paschall that it was greatly appreciated, that it encouraged him very much. Dr. Paschall then presented to Dr. Forlines a bill-folder containing some bills from some 30 former students now in the ministry as an appreciation fund from them. He stated, however, that nothing they could do could measure their gratefulness to him. Dr. Forlines accepted this with great pleasure also.

Saturday evening at 6:30, previous to the Sunday services, a banquet was held in the M. P. Hut also honoring Dr. Forlines. Approximately 175 were present at this feast. This affair was also a never-to-be-forgotten one. Dr. Paschall, pastor of this church, introduced the noted guests. Rev. Ferry Lee Gibbs acted as toastmaster. Everybody seemed to be in a good mood. Inspirational singing, fun and fellowship, toasts, yells, humorous readings and special music was enjoyed. Dr. Forlines was the spirit of the program. He told some jokes and Br'er Rabbit stories. They were side-splitting.

An extraordinary dinner was served by one of the circles of the church. This part of the program was especially appetizing.

The good time was brought to a close by joining hands and singing some inspirational choruses conducted by Mr. Ballard.

REPORTER.

Henderson.—On Wednesday night, December 13, our church had a get-together supper, and as it happened to be the birthday of our pastor the Auxiliary presented him with a lovely birthday cake with at least 21 candles on it. Speeches were made and an enjoyable evening was had by all present.

On Friday night, December 15th, our pastor and family received a surprise from some of the most faithful members, a pounding, which was highly appreciated by the family.

A pageant was given by the church on Sunday evening at 5 o'clock, December 24th. Much credit is due the directors and those taking part as the presentation of the Christmas story was very impressive.

The Philathea class was entertained at the home of the president, Mrs. Alvin T. Nuckles, on January 9. A unanimous vote was given to bring toilet articles at their next month's meeting for the Children's Home in High Point.

Our superintendent, Henry T. Powell, was rather excited this morning during the closing exercise of the Sunday school as the secretary's report showed an incease of 50 in attendance and over twice as much collection. Then, to climax it all, a guarantee that some new songbooks would be here by next Sunday.

At the 11 o'clock hour the choir rendered a beautiful anthem. Dr. Gerringer's subject at this hour was "The Joyful Christ." The message was so interesting that the city clock, only two blocks away, struck the hour of 12 with only a few hearing it.

At the vesper hour Dr. Gerringer announced the different circle meetings and also the meeting of the board of stewards, which will convene this time with the treasurer, Jasper B. Hicks. Dr. Gerringer's subject at this time was "Copying Christ." He told how some of Christ's followers, Peter, John, and others, had tried to copy after Him because of their love and desire to be like Him.

We regret to report that Mrs. F. R. Harris is confined to her home with pneumonia. Mrs. J. B. Fox, who is taking treatment in Richmond, Va., is improving.

Miss Lucy Hayes was operated on last week at the Maria Parham Hospital and is said to be improving.

We are glad to report that Glenn Satterwhite has returned from the hospital in Durham, N. C.

CLYDE L. FINCH, Reporter.

Pleasant Hill C. E., Spring Church.—For the past two years we have had a live C. E. Society, with Miss Ollie Crew as president and Miss Erlene Barnes, as vice-president.

We have 27 active members enrolled, who attend well and are interested in the work. Most of our members from the age of ten years up take some part in the program each Friday night.

Last year we held Valentine and Easter socials, two lawn aprties and a Hallowe'en social. All these were well attended, and enjoyed.

We were glad to see Bernard Cooke, one of our members, who has been in several weeks with a dislocated knee-cap at Sunday school, Sunday morning.

Our new officers for this year are: President Cullen Barnes, vice-president, Miss Sarah Marie Neese, and secretary and treasurer, Miss Georgie Shaw.

Just a brief summary of the work that we did on the outside last year. During the summer months we sold ice cream Saturday afternoons for the purpose of raising money. This with our regular offerings amounted to over $25.00. We paid $15.00 on A. C. B. and $3.00 on Superannute fund, and our Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home was $2.42.

Since November we have given two nice baskets of fruit to sick members, and a large box of provisions to a needy family.

We are hoping to do more for the cause of Christ this year than we did last, and hope to do more financially, too.

AUBREY CREW, Reporter.

St. Paul, Greensboro.—The annual Christmas program and treat for the Sunday school was given on Friday night, December 22.

New officers for the year have taken their places. Mr. G. H. May is our new Sunday school superintendent. Everything is moving along nicely at this time, though the attendance is not what it should be. There is always a dropping off just after Christmas.

Last Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the community singing was held at St. Paul. Every seat in the church was filled. All the chairs from the Sunday schol room were brought in and even standing space was taken. Everybody seemed to enjoy the singing.

Next Sunday night the preaching hour will be given for a song service. Good old gospel songs will be sung.

Sunday night, January 28, Dr. Andrews will preach at 7:30 o'clock.

The Royal Blue class will have a supper at the hut Saturday night, January 27, proceeds to go on the new carpet fund.

The Ladies' Aid Society held their January meeting last Saturday night. At this meeting they planned to put on a program for Washington's birthday. At the meeting Saturday night we had a pleasant surprise when Mrs. G. H. May presented the society with a lovely scarf that her sister, Mrs. Sallie Jordan, had made and gave to be sold at the meeting, the money to go in our treasury. It brought two dollars, and that two dollars helps very much. Mrs. Jordan has been sick for a number of years, which makes her gift doubly appreciated. She is always looking for something to do to help the churches and societies around her. This is not the first time this good woman has remembered us.

We are sorry to report that Munsey Millaway has been real sick at his father's home on Summit Avenue Extension; also Mrs. M. A. Hepler has been on the sick list for quite a while. We miss her at church and in our class and hope she will soon be able to be out again. MRS. J. S. WADE, Reporter.

Cedar Cliff, Mount Herman Charge.—We had our Christmas tree and program. A nice treat was given each member of the Sunday school.

The work of our new year has started off fine. Mr. Mabry gave us a very good New Year's sermon.

Our Sunday school is active and we are having a very good average attendance.

Our Christian Endeavor is getting along nicely. We are planning to give a social at the home of our president, Miss Bertha Boger.

We are sorry Mrs. Mabry has been ill. Because of her illness Pastor Mabry was unable to fill his appointment the fourth Sunday. Mr. Lee Moser filled his place with a fine Christmas sermon.

On Sunday, January 14th, Mr. Jacob Sharpe was laid to rest in our cemetery. The funeral service was held at the church Sunday evening at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. W. Holmes and our pastor.

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—We've had severe cold weather since my last report, but the Sundays have been beautiful. So we've not missed a Sunday school this fall and winter.

We had a good attendance Sunday. Bro. Bingham gave us a fine sermon. His subject was "Obedience to God's Command."

J. B. White and Mabel Barnes were married on January 7th. They took a bridal trip to Norfolk and other places, visiting his and her people. They were at Sunday school and church. She will attend with him. She is indeed a very fine girl. He resides at his home, a short distance, but will still continue to cultivate his father's land and be at his home in the day. If his father should be taken sick, as he often has had severe spells in the last four years, he said he would be right by him. He's a wonderful boy, so loyal to his church, been Sunday school superintendent at least ten years and is always there.

Laddie Swain and Mabel Riddick were married not long since and are regular attendants at our church. He's a fine young boy, so he has added one more to the church. For a long while marrying from Rehoboth always took one away. I'm glad the tide has turned, and hope others will follow suit.

First quarterly conference will convene at Mount Hermon Tuesday after the third Sunday. We hope all the churches will be represented. REPORTER.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—We had a fine program at our church on Saturday night before Christmas. The children said their pieces real well. The pageant given by the larger girls and boys was fine. We had a Christmas tree and old Santa treated each member of the Sunday school.

Bro. Henderson preached a soul-stirring sermon Sunday morning. We had a large congregation. Bro. Henderson is so interested in the young people. He insists on everybody going to church and taking somebody with them. The church is the best place for anyone to go. The church is a safeguard to man. It holds out a friendly hand to the man in fine linen and to the man in homespun. It gives gifts that gold cannot buy nor kings take away. They are given freely to all that ask. The church is the best friend to man.

After the sermon the pastor opened the doors of the church. Mrs. Henderson, M. C., Jr., Billy and Alma Ruth Henderson joined. We are glad to have them cast their lot with us.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the parsonage the first Thursday at 2:30 p. m. We had an interesting program rendered by Mrs. P. L. Garmon, Mrs. M. C. Henderson and Miss Naomi Hunnicutt. We had very good attendance. Mrs. Henderson served delicious refreshments.

Best wishes to the Herald.

English Street M. P. Church.—Our Sunday school is on an upward trend. We have been having unusually good attendance for the past few Sundays. Our older men's class has a new Sunday school teacher, Rev. Mr. Moore, a retired minister of High Point. The class seems to be growing under his able leadership. Too, we are glad to report that we always have good attendance at the preaching services. We have been having some rather unfavorable weather, but hardly a service has been held that we did not have almost a full church.

We were very glad to have Mr. Boyles, of Community Church, Thomasville, with us last Sunday, January 7, to explain the Layman's Fellowship organization to us. The men have met together and are interested in the organization. Just as soon as they can get Mr. Boyles to come and explain a little more fully, they plan to organize.

At our evening service the past Sunday we were pleased to have the Chisholm girls of Thomasville present to sing for us. We are always inspired and uplifted by their songs. There were two quartettes present also.

Our C. E. Society is keeping busy at this time. We were very proud to secure two new members Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Troxler. We are sure that they are going to be a great help in the society. The society is helping a hospital and the Children's Home at this time by making articles that are needed by them. They are also making plans for Young People's Day and for Christian Endeavor Week. They are planning and getting up a play.

We are sorry to report that several of our members have been ill. Mrs. S. A. Setzer and Mr. S. T. Styres both home been ill at their homes, but are improving now and soon hope to be back with us. Mrs. J. A. Bowers was taken very ill Sunday. We hope for all these a speedy recovery. REPORTER.

Why Not.—Sunday was a good day for us at Love Joy and Macedonia. We held communion services at each church and there were more communicants than usual.

We found Rev. J. W. Hulin better than he was some days ago, though not able to attend services. We greatly miss his activities in the local church when he is not present. The church voted unanimously to accept his proposition to give the church free connection to his carbide lighting plant. This will solve our church light problem. A committee was appointed to work out details and go ahead with the installation of lights for the church, the arbor, and the grounds. The pastor and the church appreciate this very kind and benevolent act of Bro. Hulin, but those who know him best know that he has nothing too good for the church he loves and the God whom he serves. May the Lord bless, sustain and keep him in these days of sickness.

On Saturday night before Christmas the Sunday school class of Prof. R. J. Elliott rendered very beautifully the Christmas pageant, which was followed by delivering of the presents from the tree and the usual treat from the Sunday school. But the most surprising event of the hour followed the opening prayer. In response to approriate music rendered by Mrs. R. J. Elliott, Mr. Homer Suggs and Miss Mildred Adkins came down the aisle and took their position in front of the pulpit. The pastor then spoke the words that made them husband and wife. Homer is the oldest son of Bro. Dovid Suggs, one of our leading church officials at Love Joy, and Miss Mildred is the attractive daughter of Bro. Willard Adkins, who is olso one of our interested members. This young couple has the congratulations and best wishes of the entire church and a large circle of friends. They are young people of fine character and are members of our church here. Another good home will be established to stand by and help push forward the great work of this old historic church.

Our very efficient Sunday school superintendent, Mr. E. H. Reynolds, was not on duty Sunday because of sickness. We hope he may soon be out again. However, his place was most acceptably filled by one of our young local preachers, Rev. Paul Hamilton.

We want to take time here to thank the folks of Love Joy for the substantial pounding given us there Sunday. About the time services were to begin, Bro. Frank Maness came in hurriedly and said that some boys were meddling with our car and for us to come out and bring the key. He didn't look quite serious enough to make much of an impression, yet we followed his advice and soon discovered what it was all about. We found too many things to mention here, all of which we most highly appreciate. We appreciate them, not only for their monetary value; but for the fine spirit behind this giving. Those of you who know what a pantry needs to make it complete, know about what we received. We thank again and again all who contributed. The articles given, if bought in High Point, would have cost us eight or ten dollars. ;

Concord.—Our services for the past two Sundays have been wonderfully attended and splendid interest has been shown in our Sunday school. The Baracas have put on on attendance drive. They had 98 present Sunday and are still working. The total number present for Sunday school was 370.

The Leadership Training School starts Monday, and we are hoping a good number will be present.

The Western Pastors' Federation met here last Monday. The service was opened by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Morgan. The ladies prepared lunch for them, thus adding a little extra money to their treasury.

The Ladies' Aid Society met in regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. E. F. Litaker. The meeting was well attended. They tried the plan of each bringing a package and each buying a package, which netted an income of two dollars and thirty-five cents. Then plans were made for a fish and chicken supper to be given Friday.

The Young People's Class is having a social at the home of the teacher, Mr. Ralph Waddell, on Friday of this week. Everyone is looking forward to a good time.

MRS. RALPH WADDELL, Reporter.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—The regular services were held yesterday with good attendance, Sunday school attendance being 251. Offering, $8.22. Our Sunday school roll was revised at the beginning of the Conference year, starting off with 158; 133 additional members have been enrolled since, making an enrollment of 291 at present. We are pleased with this.

Our pastor preached two splendid sermons yesterday. His morning subject was "Reading the Bible," and his evening subject was "The Greatest Search in the World." Dr. Taylor expressed his pleasing at having large audiences for these worship services from time to time, and the entire membership share a like pleasure. The evening services are being made evangelical. There is an urgent need at present in our community for this type of service. The field is ripe unto harvest. We do earnestly pray for a great ingathering of souls.

On last Wednesday night we combined prayer meeting, song service and quarterly conference and had an unusually good service. The song service was led by Mr. Chas. Bogle, who recently moved here from Statesville and is connected with the Dillon-Vitt Underwear Company that recently opened up business here.

The building of a hut on the church lot was discussed with marked enthusiasm. There will probably be an interesting announcement made at an early date regarding this.

This is church extension month with us. Let us keep this in mind and make special effort to raise the $25.00 obligation which is due.

We are pleased to report the following members who have recently joined our church: Misses Ruth Lueile King, Elsie Marie Setleif, Shirley Hortense Welborn, Letha Ireue Harris, Dorothy May Long; Messrs. Rowan S. Welborn, John Raymond Welborn, John Cook Blair, U. S. Lefler by letter from M. E. church, and the following by letter from M. E. Church, Rocky Mount, Va.: Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Easter, Fred Walter Easter and Norman Easter.

The Junior C. E. Society held its installation service at 5 o'clock on Sunday, January 7th, in the church auditorium. Dr. S. W. Taylor installed the group, namely: President, Dorothy Long; vice-president, Williard Hill; secretary, Ruth King; treasurer,, Eunice Briggs; pianist, Irene Harris; chairman of Missionary Committee, Ruth Swann; chairman Social Committee, Shirley Welborn; Press Chairman, Eleanor Weleh; chairman Sunshine Committee, Doris King.

The program began with soft violin music by Eleanor Weleh. Irene Harris and Shirley Welborn sang a duet. Misses Juanita Hayworth and Iris Welch assisted with back stage music.

The chancel for this occasion was very pretty, being draped with white, decorated with ferns and lighted by tall tapers.

The Woman's Auxiliary seems to be well pleased over recent reports following the usual monthly Circle meetings. The women usually come right over the top with their budget, so we need not worry over that part of our obligations.

Let's toss a rose to some of those good mothers for backing up the Sunshine Circle. It surely had some backing. (Pardon me, perhaps it was the "daddies" that did the backing.) Anyway, they had a large attendance for their January meeting and had the largest offering of any Circle for the month. Fine, keep it up, children.

We regret to report that Brother S. M. Hines had the misfortune to get struck by an automobile last week. He suffered a compound fracture of the elbow and is now in the Burrus Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Hope, Siler City Charge.—Rev. H. L. Isley filled his appointment at Hope church Sunday morning, January 14. The attendance was disappointing for such a beautiful day. However, the sermon of Bro. Isley was very uplifting and was greatly enjoyed by all present. His most interesting subject, "The Land of Beginning Again," was very unique and well rendered in the form of a New Year sermon. He stressed love, loyalty, co-operation, and attendance as goals for the new year. A few beautiful poems were also used in connection with his sermon.

He also thanked, from the pulpit, all who so generously remembered him with a pounding a few weeks ago. This pounding should have been mentioned in the reporter's other letter, but was overlooked.

Young People's Day will be observed in Hope church, Bonlee, on the second Sunday in February.

The Christian Endeavor is requested to meet next Sunday night, with the aim of reviving interest and making a good start for the new year.

Bro. Isley announced he was getting splendid telephone service now and urged all the members to call him at any time they need him in any way, and to communicate with him on any subject they were interested in.

Mr. J. L. Field was taken to the hospital again today, very ill.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

CLARA JOHNSON, Reporter.

Mt. Moriah, Cleveland Circuit.—Regular preaching service was held last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by our pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler.

Our attendance has been off some since the weather got cold and the measles epidemic is in the community. We hope that everyone will be back at church soon.

Wedding bells have been ringing around Mount Moriah in the past two months. Three of our girls and one boy have married. They are as follows: Miss Monie Waters, Miss Dessie White, Miss Lucille Self, and Mr. Horace Deviney.

DAPHINE HUNT, Reporter.

Kannapolis.—Rev. Clarence P. Morris filled his regular appointments Sunday; a splendid sized congregation was present for both the morning evening services.

We had the pleasure of receiving 10 new members Sunday morning, namely: Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Whitley, Ridge Avenue; Mrs. J. S. Marshal and daughter, Miss Ruth Marshall, Ridge Avenue; Mrs. Mae Meechum and daughters, Louise and Helen, Maple Street; Mr. G. S. Barker and sons, Samuel Clintou and Billie Gray, North Poplar Street. May these be a help to all those they chance to meet and may the church prove a help to them. We are very proud of the gain of our church in the past 18 months. Pastor Morris came to us as his first work in the ministry in 1932. He started work with a membership of 96 and we are happy to state that at present the membership is standing at 171 and a great prospect of more soon. And there have been lots of imrovements on the church and parsonage since his coming here along with the increase in number. It is very encouraging to see the co-operation that is manifested throughout the church. Our Sunday school is growing so rapidly that it is very necessary to provide some way to take care of the members, so the officials are considering remodeling the church and adding a basement and 16 Sunday school rooms. We truly hope the plans prove favorable and that work will start immediately.

A meeting has been called by the chairman of the board of stewards, Mr. X. E. Grayson, at the home of Mr. M. W. Henderson on Saturday night, January 20, at 7:30 o'clock. All stewards and officials of the church are urged to be present.

The church is in great sympathy with Rev. J. T. Bowman in the recent illness of his wife and the death of that little babe. Let us think of it as asleep.

On Friday evening, January 12, at the parsonage, the organization of a Layman's Fellowship Club was effected of the male members. Mr. D. B. Cartner was elected president; Mr. Eugene Henderson, first vice-presi-

Mrs. R. C. Sharpe, who before her marriage was Miss Willie Strowd, was born November 4, 1890, and died December 12, 1933, aged 43 years,, 1 month and 8 days.

Sister Sharpe joined Chestnut Ridge church in early life; in 1920 she transferred her membership to Efland M. P. church, where she remained a faithful member until death.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer at Efland M. P. church December 14. A large congregation was present for these services.

It has truthfully been said she loved her home, her family, her friends, and her church with unselfish devotion.

Near relatives surviving are her husband, three children, Harold, Margaret and Victor; two half sisters, Mrs. Gaston Moore and Miss Pattye Crutchfield; two half brothers, Ivey and James Crutchfield, and her stepfather, Geo. F. Crutchfield. May God comfort them all.

Funeral services were conducted from the home by the Rev. J. Elwood Carroll and Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor and pastor emeritus of Grace church, respectively; and Rev. E. Lester Ballard, former pastor, sang. Interment was in the Forest Lawn cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Hester are his wife, who before their marriage was Miss Mary Hendrix of Greensboro; two daughters, Miss Irene Hester of Burlington and Miss Mary Frances Hester of Greensboro; two sons, Martin Luther and William F. Hester of Greensboro; two sisters, Mrs. Ora Binkley of High Point, and Mrs. Dora Linville of Belews Creek; also a number of nieces and nephews.

A place of active usefulness in Grace church will be vacant at the passing of Mr. Hester, but the mantle of such a godly man will soon rest upon other shoulders which in turn shall become for some growing young men a great strength of power to them.

J. ELWOOD CARROLL.

McVey

Our hearts were made sad by the news of the death of one of Bethel's older members. Friday, November 17, 1933, Mrs. Elizabeth McVey, wife of Mr. J. B. McVey, and daughter of Mr. Peter and Mrs. Sallie Foust, passed from earth to her eternal reward, aged 78 years, 3 months and 5 days. She was born in Alamance County and reared in sight of Bethel M. P. Church, of which she became a member many years ago, and lived a consistent Christian life, always ready to do her part in all church interests. She was a good neighbor, cheerful and generous-hearted. She had no children, but raised a niece, Mrs. Lillie Foust Shoyer, to whom she was devoted, but who preceded her in death a few years. She leaves to mourn their loss a broken-hearted husband and quite a number of nephews and nieces who all loved "Aunt Bet." All her brothers and sisters preceded her in death. She was the last one to go home. What a happy meeting in the glory world! She had many other relatives and friends who are sad at her going. We trust our loss is her eternal gain. She was sick for a long time and suffered much. We know that Heaven is sweet to her; free from all suffering, a soul full of rejoicing, basking in the sunlight of the Savior's presence, surrounded by all the beauties of the Father's home, and to meet again so many that she knew and loved on earth. She is so happy now. No, we would not call her back. Some sweet day we will meet again to part no more.

Sunday, November 13, at 11 a. m., at Bethel M. P. Church, funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. W. Holmes, assisted by Rev. J. A. Burgess. Pallbearers were her nephews. Flower girls, her nieces. The floral offering was beautiful. Interment was in Bethel cemetery.

The bereaved husband has our sincere sympathy. May God bless and comfort him.

MRS. J. M. FOUST,
MISS MARCIA FOUST.

Spencer

God, in His infinite wisdom called to her reward our beloved sister, Mrs. Cornie Alice Spencer, on November 19, 1933. She was a kind neighbor and a devoted mother. She loved the church and was always ready and willing to do what she could. She will be greatly missed by the church and Missionary Society.

Therefore, Be it Resolved:

First, that we, the members of the Missionary Society of Charlotte Methodist Protestant Church, of Richland Charge, offer a tribute of love in memory of one of our most loyal and devoted members.

Second, that we extend to the family our deepest sympathy.

Third, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to the Methodist Protestant Herald, to the Missionary Record, and a copy be filed with the minutes of our Society.

MRS. S. E. HENLEY,
MRS. D. T. McCAIN,
MRS. W. E. BULLA.

Harris

Roy Baxter Harris, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Harris, on November 11, 1933, was carting logs to the saw mill when he was accidentally killed. He was 18 years and one month old at death.

Roy professed faith in Christ and Joined Chapel Hill M. P. church the past September. He was a good boy and was loved by all who knew him. He was in the tenth grade at Farmer High School. He was driver of the school bus.

He leaves to mourn their loss a devoted father and mother, one brother, Edward, and Grandmother Cranford at home. He also leaves Grandfather and Grandmother Taylor and a host of relatives and friends.

The funeral service was conducted at Liberty M. P. Church by his pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Smith, the pastor of New Hope. There was almost a thousand friends present to express their appreciation for Roy and the family. The floral designs were beautiful. Roy will be greatly missed in the home, school, church and community. May God richly bless the bereaved family.

E. A. BINGHAM.

Bowman

John Ashworth Bowman, infant son of Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Bowman, of Denton, was born at 6 p.m., December 15, 1933, and departed this life at 11:30 p.m., aged five hours and 30 minutes. Funeral services were conducted December 17 at 2:30 o'clock from Pleasant Union church by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Braxton, and Rev. Mr. Whitehead. A large gathering of friends and relatives attended the final rites.

During the services Raeford Black sang "Jesus Loves Me," and Miss Frances Causey sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

Pallbearers were Jack Futrelle, Howard Bowman, Junior Neese and Benson Causey. Flowers were carried by Misses Elizabeth Neese, Frances Neese, Rebecca Causey and Frances Causey. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

dent; Mr. C. L. Hampton, second vice-president; Mr. R. T. Sides, secretary; Mr. Garland Barker, treasurer, and M. M. W. Henderson and Eugene Grayson, reporters. The Satuday after the fourth Sunday was selected as the regular meeting night. The next meeting, however, will be held on Saturday, January 27, at the home of Rev. Mr. Morris.

The Senior C. E. held their regular monthly meeting with Miss Zula Carter on Saturday, January 13, with 15 members and five visitors present. After the business hour a delightful social was enjoyed, consisting of games and refreshments. The Sunday evening worship of Senior C. E. was enjoyed very much. The subject, "Self Understanding," was thoroughly discussed and the society was surprised with a wonderful talk from a visitor, Mr. Hay Harrington, from the Baptist denomination.

One of the town's latest sorrows was the burning of Cannon High School on Wednesday, the 10th of January. The loss was estimated at $95,000. The children are being taken care of in the other schools of the town.

We wish to extend congratulations to Miss Frankie Widenhouse and Mr. T. I. Hill, who were quietly married at Saturday, January 13. May their future be long and happy.

The Leadership Training School will open at Concord M. P. church on Monday, January 22. Study period will begin at 7 o'clock on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, then skipping the remainder of the week will resume studies on the following Monday and Tuesday at the same hour. The subjects will be taught by Rev. Clyde Auman, returned missionary, and Rev. Clarence P. Morris, and others.

Well, that tells the story! What story? Just what the three charges that are the furthcrest along in the Herald campaign have done. They have made that much progress on their journey. Now, just watch these and others and see who reaches the goal first. Remember there is yet room at the top and time for some other charge to reach the goal first.

For the next few weeks I expect to figure out the percentage that each charge has made in the Herald campaign and to put the first three at the head of my column. So, come on, Herald agents, and let's have a great race!

TO PASTORS AND HERALD AGENTS

Last week I mailed out to the pastors, sections of the Herald mailing list which gives the time to which each subscription is paid up. Pastors will please put these lists into the hands of Herald agents in case the pastor is not working the list himself. Let agents keep this list before them during the year so they can see when subscriptions expire. Then go after them and get the renewal.

THIS IS THE TASK—WILL YOU FACE IT SQUARELY?

The amounts apportioned to the several churches of the Conference to be contributed as HERALD SUBSIDY, while the same as for last year, are repeated below in the belief that there may be some who may fear to trust their memory as to the amount assessed their church or charge:

Churches whose membership is from 101 to 200	5.00
Churches whose membership is from 201 to 300	7.50
Churches whose membership is from 301 to 400	10.00
Churches whose membership is from 401 to 500	15.00
Churches whose membership is more than 500	20.00

The HERALD depends very largely upon these Subsidy payments for its existence, and it is of vital importance that these assessments be met. In laying your plans for this year's work, be sure that you have not omitted this very essential part of your financial program.

VOLUME XL GREENSBORO, N. C., JANUARY 25, 1934 NUMBER 10

Automobile Driver's Prayer

O Lord, I need Thee every hour!
My task is greater than my power.
The way is thick with perils strewn,
And oft I hear the injured groan.

Forbid that I should fall a-prey
Or spoil with pain another's day:
And may it never come to pass
That I bring death to lad or lass!

With coolest head and steadfast nerve
May I from true way never swerve.
All life, O God, springs forth from Thee:
To me all life must sacred be!

Helping God Paint Sunsets

By James L. Elderdice

The boy had reached that momentous period of life when it was necessary that he should make choice of a vocation. His widowed mother was anxious and prayerful. As yet, so far as any special aptitude of powers or expressed desire was concerned, there had been no indication what that choice might be.

One evening mother and son went out for a walk in the fields. As they sat beholding the glow of the rainbow-tinted sunset sky, the mother inquired, "My son, have you decided what you will be?" Gazing with enraptured awe upon the scene before him, and with eyes kindling with the fire of a divine aspiration, he exclaimed, "Mother, I am going to help God paint sunsets!"

Wise boy and happy mother. That decision meant whether he were artist or artisan, musician or merchant, carpenter, farmer or salesman, that his supreme purpose was to link his life with God's, to be a co-laborer with Him, to be responsive to the summons of the divine rather than to the lure of the material. To him spiritual values were more precious than silver, and God was better than gold.

But how can one help God paint sunsets? In a very real sense God's sunsets, rainbows, cloud-draped skies and star-wreathed heavens not only declare His glory, but are symbols both of love for and the performance of the good, the true and the beautiful. Love of the beautiful is an essential element of true religion because it draws the soul nearer to God, and he who lives near to God will be doing God's work in the world.

"The domain of beauty is more extensive than the domain of the physical world, exposed to our view. It has no bounds but those of the entire nature and of the soul and genius of man." Victor Cousin, French founder of the eclectic school of philosophy, says, "God, in whom is combined absolute unity with infinite variety, is necessarily the realized ideal of all beauty." Plato, in his philsophisings on the beautiful, nowhere separates it from the good.

He, therefore, who can in a world where life at its best has gloom and care, toil, sorrow and disappointments, impart cheer to the discouraged, hope to the despairing, change a sigh into a song, lighten the face of the downcast, or persuade weary souls to fling open the closed curtains of the heart and look up to the glory of the heavens and the loving face of God is helping God paint sunsets.

And so also they who contribute to the enjoyment and enrichment of life by painting pictures, transfixing on canvas the forms of loveliness found in sky and landscape; who in poetry express and interpret every mood of Nature and of the human heart; who voice in music the melody of the spheres; who "bring good tidings of good, who publish salvation," and all whose lives of faith, service and unfailing love make homes the highest earthly types of Heaven.

The high honor, the supreme privilege of helping God! It is for Him to do inconceivably great things,—create worlds, sprinkle the universe with blazing constellations, to adorn the earth with blossoming forms of loveliness, and redeem a lost race, but every human soul, however obscure his station in life, who is faithfully performing his allotted task, is helping God paint sunsets. "For we are laborers together with God." What a partnership—God and man!

Helping God to paint sunsets brings the soul into intimate communion with the infinite beauty of that "land that is fairer than day," where the Divine Artist will welcome into His presence, and reward with His commendation of "well done" those who have been associated with Him in bringing beauty and happiness to the weary ones of earth. "For all loveliness," as one has said, "is one, and only by enjoying and loving the beauty that God has spread over the earth can we prepare ourselves for the more glorious scenes of a spiritual world."

"O God, O Good beyond compare,
If thus Thy meaner works are fair,
If thus Thy beauties gild the span
Of sinful earth and mortal man,
How glorious must those mansions be
Where Thy redeemed shall dwell with Thee."

RIGHTEOUSNESS, REASON, AND GOD, OUR BEST DEFENSE

By Luther K. Long

Opinions differ widely concerning things Russian—even among those who have spent considerable time in that much-talked-of country.

My impression is that President Roosevelt's correspondence, conversations, and decision leading up to and including recognition of the Government of Soviet Russia, were eminently well-considered and wise—one of the best pieces of work he has done.

There is still much confusion over the matter. Many people suffer from one, or both, of two major fears:

1. The fear that our Government will be overthrown. With Russia recognized, these frightened Americans see an incoming flood of turbulent communistic propaganda shaking the structure of our democracy, and viciously lapping at its very foundations.

Since when, may I ask, have men become suspicious of the validity of the best arguments in favor of democracy? Since when have men lost confidence in the ability of our thinkers, writers, and speakers to meet all opposition in open discussion? Have we become so well-fed, and so mentally indolent that, for safety, we must shut out from our colleges, high schools, public meeting places, and the columns of the press, the free discussion of theories of government, forms of industrial organization, and philosophies of life?

We, and our Government, are safe so long as there is secured to our people political, industrial, and social justice—or, at least, so long as our people believe that they are in a fair way to gain these. Recent lynching parties in California, Maryland, and Missouri; well-grounded doubts as to the wise judgment and integrity of certain high officials, courts, and men of wealth; the people's dread of unemployment, and the fear of want and prolonged suffering—these are some of the outstanding things that shake confidence in our form of government.

Rome fell, not because of the vicious propaganda launched by Barbarians from the North, but because of the luxury, the vice, the corruption, and the injustices of the Romans themselves.

2 . Many fear that religion and the churches are in peril because of Russian teaching and example. Hundreds of church edifices—many of them costly and beautiful—have been torn down, and there is now no place for religion and the church in the Soviet program. Formerly, temporal and spiritual authorities in Russia sat on adjacent thrones, and the two were equally corrupt. They exercised their power to exploit, rather than to serve. Religion was administered as an opiate to keep the people quiet under tyranny, rather than for inspiration and character. The time was ripe to do something about it.

"But wouldn't reformation have been better than destruction?" some one asks. Yes. But where were the leaders for such a work? The people had become benumbed and besotted.

We need not worry because a particular church, or a certain conception of the Divine Being, is rejected. Advocates of things as they are have always been free—when speaking of the advocates of change—in the use of such epithets as "infidel" and "atheist."

Those who believe in the naturalness of religion, the inevitableness of faith, may well comfort themselves by the expectation that eventually the heart of Russia will again turn to God—to a better conception of God, to a finer Christian faith, and to a more reasonable and spiritual worship.

There has recently been held in Washington a notable series of United Missionary conferences. Eighty-four Foreign Mission boards were represented. "Rethinking Missions" was the theme. The missionary motive, the missionary message, and the missionary method were fearlessly examined, and needed changes in these three items are being faced.

As the churches here at home adjust themselves to the New Order—into which E. Stanley Jones believes we are all moving—we shall doubtless tear down, or transfer to other uses, thousands of superfluous church buildings. We shall abolish, or radicaly reconstruct, some of our church creeds. And we shall preach and practice a more simple, a more brotherly, a more Christ-like religion.

As we do this, we should be able to extend—on their invitation—a sympathetic and an understanding hand to our brothers in Russia, as their human hearts turn again for help and comfort to God and religion.

KING OF ENGLAND SENDS MESSAGE TO THE CLERGY OF THE UNITED STATES

At the last meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, Rev. Dr. Rivington D. Lord, Recording Secretary of the Council, presented a message from the King of England to the clergy of the United States. Dr. Lord was an invited guest at the Royal Garden Party held at Buckingham Palace, London, on July 20, 1933. When presented to the King, he voiced the congratulations and good wishes of the clergy of the bodies associated with the Federal Council of Churches. The King said in reply:

"Dr. Lord, I deeply appreciate the congratulations and good wishes you have just extended and I am glad of this opportunity to extend to you and through you to the clergy of the United States my sincere appreciation of your united prayers at the time of my recent illness. On your return please convey to them my felicitations and good wishes."

If you feel depressed or nervous, repeat the following affirmation once an hour, and observe the beneficial results:

"Now that I am partaking properly of the life essentials—plain food, fresh air, pure water—my body is being thoroughly nourished; my nerves and my brain are sharing in this increased nutrition and are returning to their normal condition. Already I feel stronger, quieter, more contented. My self-control has increased. I am now master within myself. I take everything quietly. I am calm, peaceful and contented, and my self-control is excellent. I receive everything phlegmatically, and deliberate before speaking and acting. I am conscious of an increase of my powers within."

Persevere along this line of thought and action. A month's earnest effort will give you a new hold on life.—Grenville Kleiser.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

The Central Pastors' Federation

Requests have come from pastors that this Federation be reorganized and I am taking the liberty of calling the pastors to assemble in Calvary church, Greensboro, February 19th at 10:30 a.m. for an all-day program. Lunch will be served by the ladies of the church for a nominal charge. The following program is proposed:

10:30-11 a.m.—Devotional by Dr. S. K. Spahr.
11:30-12—Stewardship, by Rev. N. G. Bethea.
12:00-1 P. M.—Lunch.
1-1:30—Conference program by President Andrews.
1:30-1:40—Pastors report the best things since Conference.
1:40-2:10—The Children's Home, by Dr. Dixon.
2:10-2:40—High Point College, Dr. Humphreys.
2:40-3:00—Business meeting.
3:00—Adjournment.

The area covered is from Thomasville to Orange, including North Davidson, Forsyth, West Forsyth, Pinnacle, Winston, Kernersville, Flat Rock, Reidsville, etc. This is quite a large area and there ought to be a splendid attendance of pastors. It would be very fine if every pastor might bring with him a layman or laywoman. There should be many matters discussed at this meeting which could greatly help the membership of our churches, could it only be got over to them. Of course, any pastor is welcome to attend the meeting, but we were giving the bounds of the area for the benefit of any who might be in doubt as to which Federation he was in.

Dramatizing the Conference Interests and Institutions

A "drama" with six people in it is being prepared to present the claims of the Annual Conference Budget, Church Extension, the HERALD, the Children's Home, the Superannuated Society, and High Point College. It is the intention to have the claims presented in distinctive costumes, in parts not longer than 500 words each. Dr. Pritchard will undertake to put this on at the district meeting in his church the second Sunday in February. It ought to go over big and we hope it will be so well liked that many other churches will use the plan to interest and inform their membership about the claims of these causes.

Stewardship Area Meetings

Last year these meetings proved to be most helpful in many churches. One pastor said that there were no people from any church other than those on his circuit, but he regarded the meeting as quite a success. It is plain to the writer than this discussion will have to be carried to some of our church folks, if it is to reach them, but we should not be discouraged by that fact. We are the ones who can carry it to them and we ought to do it with a "whoop." I would suggest that the pastor be the judge as to where and when this meeting is to be held; in case it is a circuit, possibly one church might answer for all the churches; if not, then have a speaker from the outside to visit each church at the regular appointment and speak on the plans for financing the claims of the denomination. We must get our people to be more denominationally-minded if we are to increase the efficiency of our conference programs.

Accepting Your Pastor

This note is written late with a design; it too often happens that it takes about two months for some pastors to fully detach themselves from their former pastorates and for the members to really find out that they have a new pastor. But it is a poor way to start off the new year. It is sometimes heart-breaking for a people to give up their pastor and just as disturbing for a pastor to give up some of his members in order that he may go elsewhere, but this is what must happen whenever a pastor leaves a work, and the best way to do it is to LEAVE and to bury oneself in the work of his new charge. As a rule he will find enough to do there to engage his thoughts. It certainly makes the new pastor feel ill at ease for his members to be leaving their own church services in order to visit a service conducted by their former pastor. And it does not help the good feeling of a pastor of a new work to have his predecessor visiting quite a bit among his members. It may be as harmles in intent as the cooing of a dove, but it is not so understood by the new pastor.

Some one asks, Can't we continue to love our old pastor? Yes, you can; you should; but it should be done by respecting the ethics of the case. It is difficult to do pastoral work under the most favorable conditions, but almost impossible for a preacher to do his best when his predecessor is a frequent visitor on his charge or when he knows that some of his leading people are making frequent visits to the home of their former pastor. These lines are written with the kindliest intent but for the good of all concerned. So if any one feels that he is guilty, then instead of wasting a three-cent stamp on me about this note, spend as much time in prayer over it as it might take to write about it and see if you will not be benefited more by your prayer than by any lengthy discussion with the President of the Conference.

Mr. R. T. Pickens

In the passing of Mr. R. T. Pickens in Georgia recently there was removed from us one of the loyal members of the Methodist Protestant church. He served his church faithfully while residing in this state, was a member of the General Conference once or twice, and was regarded as a safe, aggressive leader.

Rev. D. A. Fishel

In the going of Brother Fishel there was taken from us one who, while not actively engaged in the pastoral duties for three decades, he was for many years most acceptable help in revival meetings and most congenial in his personal contacts. He was a man with a wonderful memory. His recollections of many of the episodes in our church history

CONCORD LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

The Concord L. T. S. opened Monday evening of this week with fifty in attendance. Thirty-three of this number registered for regular class work; twenty-six for Standard Courses and seven for Young People's Courses. Rev. C. P. Morris, pastor of the Kannapolis church, is teaching the standard course No. 2, "Principles of Teaching." Rev. C. H. Hendry, pastor of our Charlotte church, is teaching two of the Young People's courses, namely: "Denominational Program" and "Christian Living." And the writer is teaching course No. 106, "Missionary Materials and Methods." On the first night of the school the following pastors were in attendance: Brothers Morgan, Hendry, Shelton, Cook, Reed, and Morris. Rev. A. D. Shelton had charge and conducted a most splendid devotional service.

Brother Morgan and his people have given us a hearty welcome and I believe we are off for a good start.

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Dean.

P. S.—Due to a bridge under construction the school has been called off for the present. J. C. A.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY AND LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOLS

We are all more than pleased wth the great response on the part of the churches and leaders to these two phases of the work beng sponsored by the Conference Council in cooperation with our Christian Education Board. May God richly reward all of those who are co-operating for a better trained leadership in each local church.

A goodly number of our leaders are very anxious that every church in the North Carolina Conference observe Young People's Day. It is possible for every church and Sunday school to have one of the types of services suggested in the materials. As long as the materials last you may have them for the asking. Mail your order to F. L. Gibbs, Westminster, Maryland. Observe the day on any convenient Sunday.

of the past fifty years was indeed worthy of a permanent record. He was not known to many of our ministers who entered the conference in recent years. We are asking Rev. S. W. Taylor, Rev. H. L. Powell, and Rev. R. L. Vickery to act as obitnary committee to report at the next annual conference.

Tabernacle Charge, Rev. Geo. L. Curry, Pastor

I visited Julian and Tabernacle churches in the order named. This is a compact circuit, two points among the best people in the state. Tabernacle is among our oldest churches, and is one of our best rural churches. Julian has not grown much in all the years of its existence. It is close to Shiloh, to Bethel, to Pleasant Union, and Julian is a small place. And yet Julian church is serving a community. Not all the people in the community belong to our church, but they attend it fairly well, I am told, and the church has a place in the community life. Julian is really a model church in the way it keeps its work going. The pastor told me that the claims are paid as they fall due and that it is done with but little noise, neither complaint nor shouting. They are just quiet in the way and manner they serve and worship the Lord. We enjoyed our visit to this little group.

At Tabernacle there was a much larger number present; the membership is larger. But the church is no more active nor more prompt in meeting their obligations than is Julian. Just as fine people, most loyal to their pastor and to the church. My point is this: a small group can be just as efficient in carrying on their part of the allotted program as can a group ten times its size. It is a mistake for the small group to be discouraged because it is not large—just as much so as for a little man to be displeased with himself because he is not a two-hundred-pounder.

I enjoyed my visit at Tabernacle very much. The people were attentive and appeared to appreciate my message. Here is one charge I did not have to spend much time in talking about the conference program. The pastor is on the job one hundred per cent. He has his plans all working. Brother Curry is happy in the work here and we feel that he has one of the best charges in the conference. We wish pastor and people a prosperous year. The envelope system is being introduced, an order of service was used and the responsive readings were observed at both churches; not always used in our rural churches. We enjoyed the hospitality of Brother and Sister W. T. Hanner for the mid-day meal and had a short time for fellowship with them.

OUR STORY PAGE

"HE THAT KEEPETH THEE WILL NOT SLUMBER"

"We're not doing so bad since mother and father are gone," said Joe Bennet as he counted out of the cash register a hand full of bills and some change.

"I'm so glad," replied his sister Shirley, "for they seemed rather reluctant to go and leave us alone right in the busy season. Tourists aren't quite so plentiful as they were before the depression, but it seems that folks are still traveling, and if they travel they need gas and lunches, so after all our project wasn't so unwise as well-meaning neighbors had predicted."

"In the letter from father today, he said to be sure to make a payment on that note, so I'm going down early tomorrow morning with—Shirley, can you believe it?—one hundred and fifty dollars! Quite a lot to have in the house all night, but I had to draw it from the bank this afternoon, so I'd have it in the morning," said her brother enthusiastically, showing the bills.

"Oh, Joe, there is some one for gas," said Shirley, as her brother hastened out toward the waiting car, and she turned to slip the roll of bills into the drawer just as a stranger stepped up and asked for a hamburger sandwich.

Shirley turned to prepare the hamburger, but she kept an eye on the stranger whom she felt sure had seen the money, and who kept watching her from beneath shaggy eyebrows. She breathed a sigh of relief when she saw her brother's manly form in the doorway.

Joe and Shirley Bennet found the work of operating a tourist's inn rather fascinating in the absence of their father and mother, who had finally consented to go for a visit to Grandfather Bennet's, who were both growing old and feeble. While they were there Grandma Bennet had suffered a stroke and for many days hung between life and death, so that their visit was necessarily prolonged. The almost daily letters from Joe and Shirley assured them that all was well at home, and the parents knew that their son and daughter, although only twenty and seventeen years of age, respectively, could be trusted. Shirley was an excellent cook and had attended to the work of preparing quick lunches almost entirely, even when her mother was at home. And Joe, as his father used to remark, had a business head on his shoulders.

This had been an especially busy day, for it seemed that every one on the road discovered that either their gasoline tank or stomachs needed refilling when they read the sign "Bennets' Tourist's Inn 1,000 Feet Ahead." So in the lull which followed the supper-time rush, the brother and sister sank wearily onto the settee which faced the road that wound on till it looked like a ribbon in the distance. Finally Joe said, "Quite a thing—that road. I sometimes wonder if every one knows where they are going—but it's this road that brings us in our money."

Just then the telephone rang, and Shirley ran to answer it. Her voice could be heard through the screened doorway.

"Yes, Mrs. Wilson."

"Now, that's too bad. Is there anything we can do?"

"Yes, I think he can come over, but just wait a minute—"

She turned away from the telephone and called, "Joe, it's Widow Wilson, they've a sick horse and would like to have you come over."

Her brother came to the screen door and said, "But, Shirley, you'd be alone—why, I can't—"

"Don't say that, Joe, you know what it would mean for her if that horse should die, and her Tommy isn't old enough to take care of him. I've been alone before, and, of course, you'll go. Just think how she was here day and night when papa was so sick."

"I know I ought to go, and I'd like to help her out, but I don't like to leave you alone; not that you can't do the work, for it isn't likely that there will be more than several folks stopping for gas—but—"

"Why, Joe Bennet," said his sister somewhat reproachfully, "you know I'm not afraid to stay—and I won't be alone, for isn't God here?"

Turning, she took the receiver at the telephone and said:

"Hello, Mrs. Wilson. Are you still there?"

"Yes, he's coming."

"No, I can't come along, but I'll be all right. Good-by."

"Shirley, you're a brick!" said her brother when she hung up the receiver.

Shirley smiled, for she knew when her brother said that, he was well pleased with her.

"You just go, and stay as long as you can help—I'll be all right," replied Shirley.

She watched him as he drove down the road, till a bend hid him from view, then she turned toward the spacious, rambling farm house, part of which had been converted into a dining room for tourists, when the state had built the concrete highway right past their front door. As she turned toward the house it suddenly seemed very large, and she noticed that the darkness was deepening, and she realized that she was alone.

She entered the door. Her footfall echoed through the house, and when she stood still she could hear her heart beat. She wished she hadn't insisted on Joe's going to the Wilson's. Then she thought of the large amount of money in the drawer, and of the stranger who had aroused her suspicions a few hours earlier. She started for the telephone to call Joe and have him come back; then she thought of her words, "Isn't God here?"

She felt somewhat ashamed of her own fears, and, whispering a petition to God, she grew more at ease.

One or two automobiles stopped for gasoline, and then as it was nearing bed-time, she closed the doors preparatory to retiring. How big and empty the house seemed, and how awfully still! She could hear the tick, tick of the clock, and the thump, thump of her heart as she walked through the long empty hall, and snapped on the light in her bedroom.

There above her head hung a little motto, which she had read many times, but tonight the words seemed to burn themselves into her very heart, bringing peace and quiet with them. Now as she read them it almost seemed that she had never really read them before.

"He that keepeth thee will not slumber," she read. What cause had she to be fearful when she knew that God would neither slumber nor sleep, and that He would keep her safely throughout the night. She dropped on her knees by her bedside and thanked God for His presence and care. No longer did the house seem large and empty, for she felt the presence of God with her. No longer did her heart thump fearfully, for deep peace and joy were pulsing through her innermost being.

She turned on the hall light for Joe when he should return, and slipped into her bed. The light from the hallway shone in through the open bedroom door, casting a square of light upon the wall. In the light she could read the words of the motto, as if to remind her of God's continual care. Presently the words on the motto grew dim and misty and then her eyes closed and she was asleep.

Several hours passed, and Shirley still slept on. Down the road came two figures, and as they approached the "Bennets' Tourists' Inn," they began to slink stealthily along the bushes at the roadside. Presently one of them said in a hoarse whisper, "Say, Jim, you're sure you heard aright—wouldn't like to go on a wild goose chase, but for a hundred and fifty bucks—well, I'd do most anything."

"Sure, I know when I see a roll of bills. And we'll have an easy time getting them too, for I've been hangin' around here, and I seen the boy drive off, and if I'm not mistaken the gals home alone. Ha! Ha! Seems kinda foolish for two big men to rob a little slip of a girl."

"Wonder why the light's burnin' in there," said his companion.

"Yea, I'll take care of that gal—I can scare her if she wants to make a fuss. Just leave that to me. I'll handle her."

Very stealthily the pair crossed the yard and entered the house. Everything was still, till one of them clumsily stumbled against a chair. His companion angrily hissed an oath through his teeth.

"Hey, you go and watch your gal, while I go and get the money," whispered the one addressed as Jim.

"Yea, I'm going," and he stepped into the hall. There he stood, a rough, wicked-looking man, gazing upon the sleeping form of Shirley, who turned restlessly in her sleep, and flinging one slender arm above her head she murmured, "He will not sleep."

Just then, the eyes of the robber in the hallway turned to the motto above the sleeping form. The words stood out plainly, "He that keepeth thee will not slumber." It almost seemed that he could see the wings of angels as they hovered above the beautiful girl on the bed, and fear smote his guilty heart. He recalled another maiden just as innocent and pure, whom he had called sister. That, and the fear of God's wrath, caused the strong man to tremble with fear.

That was too much for the guilty man, and he turned and fled. The atmosphere was too holy, he could not endure it. Hastily he made his way into the adjoining room where his companion was just pulling the roll of bills out of the drawer, and grasping him by the shoulders he said, "Come, Jim, we'll have to go," and they beat a hasty retreat.

As they passed through the door Jim whispered, "Hey, what's up? Who's in there?"

"God," answered the other briefly. "We can't stay around here, for He doesn't sleep.'"

"Well, what do we care since we have the money?" replied the other with a sneer.

It was past midnight when Joe finally came home. He was amazed when he saw the door wide open. He cleared the steps with one bound. What had happened? Where was Shirley? There she lay, sleeping as calmly as a child. With a mystified expression on his face he turned back into the adjoining room and snapped on the light. He saw the overturned chair and the rummaged drawer. He felt suddenly weak, when he saw that it was empty. Oh, why had he gone and left Shirley alone?

Rushing over to her room he called, "Shirley, we've been robbed!"

She rubbed her eyes and blinked at the light. "Oh, Joe, it's you. How is Wilson's horse?"

Again Joe informed her of their loss, and then she was fully awake.

"I never heard anything," she said; "but whatever shall we do, since the money was due on the note?"

The brother and sister did not sleep much the remainder of the night, and the more they talked about it, the darker their problem seemed to grow.

Early the next day Joe went to see the man to whom they owed the money to tell him about their misfortune.

"I don't suppose we shall ever know what happened with our money last night," he told himself as he drove along rather gloomily.

When he returned home Shirley ran out to meet him, waving a torn piece of brown wrapping paper in her hand.

"Joe, come quickly! I have something to show you!"

Joe looked at her bright face in surprise, for he was feeling the very reverse. His visit with their creditor had not made him feel more cheerful, for he demanded the money, and seemed to doubt the story. Joe followed Shirley rather listlessly. When they came into the seclusion of the bedroom closet, she held before his astonished eyes the roll of bills.

"Why, wherever did you find them?" he exclaimed very excitedly.

Handing him the piece of dirty paper she said, "I found the money wrapped in this, stuck behind the hose on the gas pump. It must have been put there some time this forenoon, for when I went to give gas to a customer I found it.

But Joe was already reading the almost unintelligible scrawl on the paper. He read:

"I could not keep this money we took last night, for I too have a sister at home, and a mother that is praying for her boy. I am starting home today. As long as God watches over you, you are safe for He does not sleep, and I couldn't harm a hair on your head knowing He was watching. So I'm bringing the money back; but better get rid of it soon, as my buddy doesn't know I'm taking it back, and he might cause you trouble."

He read and reread it, and when his eyes met the shining eyes of his sister, they were moist with tears.

For a while neither of them spoke, then finally Joe broke the silence by saying, "God is good, Shirley, and this is a direct manifestation of His care for us."

"Yes," replied his sister in a subdued tone. "He that keepeth thee will not slumber."—The Youth's Christian Companion.

VITAL-TRUTH ILLUSTRATION

I saw in a dream that I was in the Celestial City—though when and how I got there I could not tell. I was one of a great multitude which no man could number, from all countries and peoples and times and ages. Somehow I found that the saint who stood next to me had been in heaven more than 1860 years. "Who are you?" I said to him. (We both spoke the language of the heavenly Canaan, so that I understood him and he me.) "I," said he, was a Roman Christian; I lived in the days of Apostle Paul. I was one of those who died in Nero's persecutions. I was covered with pitch and fastened to a stake and set on fire to light up Nero's gardens." "How awful!" I exclaimed. "No," he said, "I was glad to do something for Jesus. He died on the cross for me."

The man on the other side then spoke: "I have been in heaven only a few hundred years. I came from an island in the South Seas, Erromanga. John Williams, a missionary, came and told me about Jesus, and I too learned to love Him. My fellow-countrymen killed the missionary, and they caught and bound me. I was beaten until I fainted and they thought I was dead, but I revived. The next day they knocked me on the head, cooked me, and ate me." "How terrible!" I said. "No," he answered, "I was glad to die as a Christian. You see the missionaries had told me that Jesus was scourged and crowned with thorns for me."

Then they both turned to me and said, "What did you suffer for Him? Or did you sell what you had for the money which sent men like John Williams to tell the heathen about Jesus?" And I was speechless. And while they both were looking at me with sorrowful eyes, I awoke, and it was a dream! But I lay on my soft bed awake for hours, thinking of the money I had wasted in tobacco, soft drinks, purely sensational movies; of my extra clothing, and costly car, and many luxuries; and I realized that I did not know what that word of Jesus meant: "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."—Presbyterian Survey.

PERSONAL STANDARD

By Grenville Kleiser

Let simplicity govern your life. The habit of constantly reaching out for something just beyond your grasp will tend to bring discontent rather than happiness. It is destructive to your tranquility of mind to envy others what you have not, to want too many of the things you see around you, and to dwell overmuch upon your own desires. Use and enjoy what you now have, be grateful for present opportunities and blessings, and trust your ability and the future to bring what is good and best for you. True happiness does not depend upon great material possessions, but emanates largely from the mental qualities of contentment, confidence, serenity, and beneficence. Simplicity of life always tends to happiness.

Set yourself a high standard of personal dignity, and resolve to adhere to it strictly. There are imprudent people who descend to foolishness, empty joking, undue familiarity, and airy persiflage, usually to their own serious undoing. Politeness and pleasantness are not incompatible with dignity. The deplorable habits of contentious argument, aimless talking, and pretentiousness should be carefully guarded against. In every sphere of life it is the man of dignity who gains the greatest respect and confidence. Set a high standard for yourself, and compel other men to come up at least to yours—never descend to theirs. So will you surely develop a character that will stand the test of time.

Work with enthusiasm. Cultivate good cheer. Be tolerant of other people's opinions. Constantly apply the Golden Rule. Have a daily play-time. Breathe deeply. Be systematic and orderly in the details of your work. Avoid the desire to set other people right and to reform the entire world. Aim to influence other lives for good by the force of your example. Have a definite daily program. Avoid waste movements, such as foot and finger tapping, rocking, and nervous clearing of the throat. Keep your mind constantly filled with wholesome, uplifting, healthful thoughts. Be ready to adapt yourself to the unexpected and uncongenial. Form good habits and let them work for you automatically.

"PA'S PRAYERS"

There are many who pray eloquently for the poor and destitute who never think of lifting a finger to help those for whom they are praying. Such people should proceed at once to answer their own prayers. An incident is related of a company of people who gathered to pray for a family who were in great financial straits. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessing upon the family, there was a loud knock at the door. The door opened and there stood a sturdy farmer's boy.

"Pa couldn't come, so I brought his prayers in the wagon," replied the boy.

"What do you mean?" asked the astonished elder.

"Yes, I've brought his prayers; just come out and help me, please, and we'll bring them in."

In reaching the wagon the fact was disclosed that pa's prayers consisted of potatoes, flour, beef, oatmeal, turnips, apples, jellies and clothing. It is said that the prayer meeting adojurned on short notice.—Publisher Unknown.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Cleveland Charge.—The work is moving along very satisfactorily in spite of the fact that we moved here when the people were in the midst of an epidemic of measles. The people here are willing to work, and are taking right hold of it. I think we will pay all of our Church Extension this month. Congregations are growing, and we can see some signs of progress on the horizon.

I found so many roads up here, and in some respect they are like the roads of life: they are so much alike you have to watch carefully or you will get on the wrong road, and they don't all lead to the right place. But we have been studying geography and I think we have just about learned our first lesson. This is a fine place up here with its winding roads and sparkling streams and its beautiful mountain scenery. I think we will like it fine when we get our work all lined up. The people have received us very kindly in their homes and have tried to make us feel at home. They have also been mindful of their pastor's needs. Lawndale gave us a real old time pounding Saturday night before Christmas. Pleasant Hill remembered us just before Christmas with fresh meats and other things for the children. Oak Grove, fresh meats. potatoes, milk, butter, and plenty of good firewood to keep us warm. We will not take space to mention names, but the Good Lord knows who they are, and in due time they will receive their reward. We want you to remember us in prayer that we may be able to do the work the Lord has sent us to do. The field is large, with plenty of work to do. Pray that we may have strength to do it. R. S. TROXLER, Pastor.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Rev. T. F. McCulloch conducted our mid-week prayer service last week, as Dr. Pritchard was attending the Leadership Training School which is being conducted at West End M. P. church. Mr. McCulloch used the following words as a foundation for his talk: "And leaving Nazareth he came and dwelt in Capernium." Since our Sunday school lessons at the present time are dealing with the early life of Jesus, this subject was especially interesting and appropriate.

Quite a few of our members and regular attendants were ill and unable to attend church Sunday. We hope they will soon recover and be back with us.

We are glad to report that Mrs. R. L. Blaylock, who underwent an operation at the Clinic Hospital last Thursday, is recovering rapidly.

"The Friend That Never Fails," was the subject of the fine sermon delivered to us Sunday morning by our pastor. His text, "There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother," was taken from the 24th verse of Proverbs, the 18th chapter. Dr. Pritchard first discussed human friendship, saying: "We must be willing to pay the price. We cannot expect people to be friendly forever if we do not show ourselves friendly. "Friends want sunshine as well as shadows." We should not want to dwell in shadows when it is possible to abide in the sunshine. Then, in discussing the divine Friend, he said: "He has good will; he is interested in even our smallest problems. If He provides for the little birds, how He must be interested in us. He loves us to the end." Our human friends may love us for a while and later their love may grow cold, but God's love is everlasting. "He made the supreme sacrifice." He gave up heaven for us. The superiority of our Heavenly Father is that he gave his life not only for His friends but His enemies as well. While in rare instances a man may have given his life for a friend, but never his enemy. In closing, Dr. Pritchard said our earthly friends can go so far and no farther, while this Supreme Friend goes on to the end.

We are very sorry to learn of the continued illness of Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, of Washington, N. C. Rev. and Mrs. Lowdermilk, who are members of our church, have been missed so very, very much by the church since they moved away.

The guests assembled at the parsonage at 10:30 Monday morning and listened to an inspirational address by Dr. S. K. Spahr, pastor emeritus of Grace Methodist Protestant church on the subject, "The Pastor's Aids."

At noon a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. Pritchard was assisted in serving by Mrs. J. G. Sullivan, Mrs. Howard R. Neece and Mrs. H. W. Highfill. Denton.—The picture below represents the Denton Church as it now appears. Last year it was completely renovated, both inside and out, with an expenditure of approximately $1,200, and today is one of the nicest little churches in the North Carolina Conference, especially in the rural districts. During the Conference year the women of the church have sponsored the beautifying of the grounds. They have leveled the lawn and planted shrubbery, which has added greatly to the appearance of the church. Through their influence the men have put down concrete walks, extending to each street, and also from the front to the side entrance, as can be seen from the photograph.

DENTON METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

A year ago this last Thanksgiving, Denton church made the largest Thankoffering to the Children's Home of any church in the North Carolina Conference. This can be verified by referring to Dr. Dixon's report to the last Annual Conference. And so far as we know it leads the Thank-offering donations of this Conference year.

So far as we know, Denton is the first church to raise the Conference claim for superannuates for this Conference year. This offering was a feature of our Christmas program.

Denton also ranks first in the organization of a local Laymen's Fellowship group. This was organized December 31st, 1933, and is now a functioning unit. It will hold its first supper meeting Tuesday night, January 23, with Dr. S. W. Taylor, of High Point, as the speaker of the evening.

Since the foregoing facts have not been presented to the readers of the Herald, the writer is taking the liberty to present them in this way.

Mt. Hermon, Mt. Hermon Charge—Rev. L. E. Mabry filled his regular appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. His Scripture lesson was taken from the 12th chapter of Luke. This chapter he described as being the most complete teaching of Jesus. His subject, "The Test of Life." It was a wonderful sermon, divided into five different parts. First, sincerity. Speaking of the sincerity of Jesus Himself; also, showing how we must be sincere in dealing with friends, business associates, or in politics. We must be what we are. "Be sure your sins will find you out." Second, fearlessness. Be not afraid of them that kill the body and after that have no more that they can do. But fear the one who has power to destroy the soul. Third, unselfishness. The selfishness of the rich man. He forgot everything but self. Mr. Mabry dwelt on this, stating that no man liveth unto himself and no man dieth unto himself. Jesus said it matters not how much we own, but how we use it. Fourth, putting first things first. He stated that one of our returned missionaries said the fault of America is, we put good things first and best things second. Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all these things shall be added. Fifth, faithfulness. Blessed are those servants, when the Lord cometh, that are found watching.

A Leadership Training School is to be held in our church this week, beginning Monday evening, January 23.

Our Sunday school is well attended. The first Sunday afternoon in January the A. N. T. Quartet from Mebane worshipped with us. They sang several numbers, which were enjoyed very much.

Christian Endeavor seems to be progressing very nicely. The C. E. from Graham Friends church were our visitors on January 7. They gave an interesting program. Then the next Sunday evening several visitors helped with the program in both speaking and music.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of this church held the January meeting in the home of Mrs. Preston Crabtree Friday, January 12. In spite of bad weather we had 13 present. We have our budget about raised for this missionary year. We hope to have it completed by the last of March. We are now selling Christian Service Calendars. They are going fine.

A number of people from our church attended the banquet in Burlington honoring Dr. C. E. Forlines.

Gideon's Grove, Flat Rock Circuit.—On Friday night, December 22, we had our Christmas tree and program. A nice treat was given to the members of the Sunday school. Due to the prevalence of measles in the community and other sickness, the services have not been as well attended since Christmas as usual. The work of the new year has started off fine. The pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, filled his regular appointment on the first Sunday at 3 p. m. At this time he delivered an appropriate and helpful message. The Lord's Supper was administered at this service. We were glad to have Dr. R. M. Andrews with us on the second Sunday at 11 o'clock. His message on "Spiirtual Near-Sightedness" was very inspiring. I am sure it was enjoyed and appreciated by all.

The Sunday school is active and in session each Sunday. Mr. G. A. Middleton was re-elected superintendent for the 8th year. Mr. Middleton, who has so ably and faithfully served through these years, expressed to the school his appreciation of their co-operation and encouragement. He told them what a pleasure this service had been to him. By the same continued spirit he is hopeful for another good year.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting on Monday night after the second Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. J. White and daughter, Gladys. The Auxiliary has not been able to accomplish much in a financial way for some time, but the programs have been enjoyed and boxes have been sent to some of the sick of the community. We hope to do good and be of some service even though in a small way.

Draper.—The Draper M. P. church membership is still increasing. We had three people to join our church Sunday morning. Mr. A. L. McGee was one of them. He had been a member of another church in town for some time, but has now come back to our church. He is a good Christian man and we are indeed glad to have him back to worship with us. Mrs. Bill Thornton is another who joined our church Sunday. We have her and her husband both now and they seem to be good Christian people. The third one to unite with our church was Mr. Eddie Wright. He seems to be interested in the church and we hope he likes it and that he may prosper in his Christian life.

We are having some mighty good Saturday night prayer meetings. Rev. L. S. Helms is taking great interest in these meetings, and it is sure growing. This prayer meeting is a community gathering, and all churches are invited to participate. We are having some good crowds, and if you are not attending them you are missing some great blessings. Mr. N. H. Stewart looks after the speakers and he knows his business; so come out and hear some of his speakers. Everybody is invited to some.

We want the prayers of all the Christian people. We want you to pray that our little town will be a great light for the kingdom of God. R. U. STEWART, Reporter.

Fairview Church, Anderson Charge.—The regular services were held yesterday with good attendance. Our pastor, Rev. Robert Short, preached two splendid sermons. In the evening service he delivered another very inspiring message from Isaiah 9:18: "For wickedness burneth as the fire." His comparison of fire and its results to that of sin and its results made the sermon very impressive.

New Salem, Randleman Charge.—On last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 our pastor, Rev. J. B. Trogdon, brought us a very interesting message, using as his text I Cor. 12:13, "For by one spirit are we baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free, and have been all made to drink into one spirit." At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was administered, a large number participating.

We were indeed glad to have some of our former members worship with us Sunday. We say former members because they are not able to be with us every Sunday, but we feel as if they are a part of us, because we know they are interested in the work here. They were Mrs. Henry King, and a number of others from Greensboro.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Joe Roberts, who has been confined to her home for several weeks, was able to be at church Sunday.

Because of the prevalence of sickness in our community the Sunday school attendance has been quite small recently. We hope those who are ill will soon be able to be with us again.

Draper Church.—Yesterday was a very good day for us at Draper. Just a little above the average in Sunday school; a very good interest in the Sunday school, it seems. If the Sunday school keeps growing we will have to make more room; in fact, we need a new church with a more modern equipment to take care of the work here. The church service was well attended and a good interest was in evidence. At the close of the service Bros. A. L. McGee, Eddie Wright, and Sister Lucy Thornton were received into the church. We are glad to have these good people unite with us and pray that they may be a blessing to the church, the church also to them.

The Christian Endeavor Society is starting off fine. We have a large group of young people here, and they are lining up with us fine. We ore looking forward to a great year among our young people. We are planning to organize a quartet soon.

As a whole the work here is moving on nicely. Salary paid to date and also we have paid our assesment on church extension.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

There has been some sickness in the community for the last month. Among those, two failed to get well—Mrs. Pierce Harkey and David Corbit Harwood. Mrs. Harkey had been sick for some time. The latter, David Corbit, had been at the State Hospital for the past few years. We are indeed sad to hear of the death of these two people, but we feel as if both are at a much better resting-place than here on earth. Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Williams were called back for both funerals.

Mr. Silas Herlocker made a very interesting talk in the C. E. Society Sunday evening.

Although Mr. Williams has been with us on but two occasions, he has made many friends. All who have met him and heard him have admired him because of his friendly disposition and his sincerity. His sermons are delivered so impressively and with such sincerity that all who have heard him must feel greatly benefited.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. W. B. Speas on Tuesday night, January 16, to hold the regular monthly meeting. The attendance was very good and we had a splendid meeting. Isley's sermon was very uplifting and inspiring and greatly enjoyed by all present. His subject was "Prayer." Efland, Orange Circuit.—Unusually large congregations listened to two very inspiring messages by our pastor Sunday.

Many things have been done in our church since Conference, even though the reporter has not been on the job. Most of them have been told to you by our pastor. He not only tells of what goes on, but has a very effective way of doing things. We hope to be able to help him carry out his plans for the coming year.

The Sunday school is still gaining in new members and enthusiasm. Yesterday the enrollment increased three. Several visitors, some from neighboring churches and others whom we expect to join us soon.

The worship service each Sunday morning is very inspiring to a well filled house. The new pastor, Bro. Powell, seems to be filled with the Divine power as he brings the messages to his hearers, who receive them in sincerity.

On Saturday, January 20, the Brotherhood and Ladies' Aid met jointly in the home of B. E. Payne for their regular monthly meeting. The Ladies' Aid received two new members: Mrs. Welborn, of Thomasville, and Miss Albertson, from High Point, were visitors. The Brotherhood received one new member. Rev. T. Glenn Madison, from First Church, Thomasville, delivered a very interesting talk on Fellowship.

Young People's Day will be observed next Sunday in both the Sunday school hour and the morning worship service. Hoyt Wood, a ministerial student of High Point College, will talk during a part of the Sunday school hour. Dr. A. G. Dixon will be the speaker for the 11 o'clock service. The young people will be in charge of both services.

Spring Hill Church.—In spite of so much sickness throughout the community, several were out Sunday morning for Sunday school and preaching. Rev. C. L. Grant preached at the usual morning hour, reading passages of the 23rd chapter of St. Luke, using as his subject for discussion "Jesus on Calvary's Cross." Jesus came to the world to give His life as a ransom for you and me, and was slain for the remission of our sins. Another reason why He was slain was because man transgressed and disobeyed God. Jesus knew it was time to close His work and looked upon the sufferings of people with a sympathetic heart. While He lived on earth He was constantly communing with people. The kingdom of God was left with 12 disciples in order that we might not grow up in ignorance. Since Jesus came as a spiritual deliverer and not a worldly one, He wasn't warmly received. You remember how He was crowned king on Calvary's cross with a crown of thorns, and some of His words during those dark moments were: "Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourself and your children." How may we repay and show our appreciation to Jesus? The answer would be to live an upright life and strive to be more like the Master. After the sermon communion service was held.

We are still having Christian Endeavor at 6 p. m. every second and fourth Sunday evening. Visitors are welcome at all times. Miss Aletha Craven is leader for Sunday evening. The topic for discussion will be "Criticism of Others."

We are sorry to learn that Howard Swaim has been removed to Burrus Memorial Hospital, where his condition is regarded as critical, but hope that he will soon be on the road to recovery and back at Sunday school with us.

A member of our church, Miss Helen Moore, and Mr. Baxter Jones, of near Thomasville, motored to South Carolina Saturday and were quietly married. This came as a complete surprise, but our best wishes go out to them for a long, happy married life.

EDITH YORK, Reporter.

Today we can look back and see the cause of the great depression and troubles that we have had. It is because so many people have failed to hear the Lord's voice, and let Him come into their hearts and rule and reign.

The fourth Sunday will be Young People's Day at Piney Grove church. The services will begin at 2:30. Hope that there will be a large number of people present, and the services will be of great value, not only to the youths, but also to the elder people.

Glad to report the sick of this community are convalescent. REPORTER.

Macedonia, Fallston Charge.—Our Sunday school is getting along fine. We do not have very many just now. Some are sick with measles. We hope they will soon be well again.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is planning to start up again pretty soon. Our young people were doing some good work and the weather got bad and they just stopped it a while. It was decided at quarterly conference that we would have a Rally Day on every fifth Sunday this year at one or the other of our churches. As we have decided to have our revival meeting the fifth Sunday in July, we are planning to have a Rally Day or Children's Day, and try to get all six of the preachers who have gone out from this charge to come and have some special music and all go and enjoy the day. Everybody will be invited.

We regretted very much to give up Bro. Shelton and family, but we feel that the Lord has sent us a preacher just as good. We all opened our hearts and our homes to Brother and Sister Fogleman. He filled his regolar appointment the last second Sunday. Everyone present enjoyed the message.

Next Sunday is our regular class meeting day. Bro. J. B. Bivens is class leader. We hope a large crowd will be present.

We were glad to have Brother and Sister Johnson, from Lincolnton, last Sunday. Hope they will come again. All others are cordially invited to worship with us.

Bethel, Flat Rock Charge.—We were sorry to give Mr. Hutton up. He has sown seed here in our hearts that will live on, and pray God's richest blessings may rest on him and his family wherever they may go. We like our new pastor, too, though we have not had the time to get fully acquainted. We had a splendid Christmas program and a nice treat. Bro. Way and family were with us and we were indeed glad to have them. We trust that people will take more interest in the church work and co-operate with the pastor and much good may be accomplished during this new year.

There is quite a bit of sickness in the community at present, measles, etc., but we hope everybody will soon be able to attend church. Services every first Sunday at 11 o'clock and every third Sunday at 3 o'clock. Sunday school every Sunday at 10 o'clock except the third Sunday, which is at 3 o'clock.

Wishing everyone a happy, prosperous new year and that we may all be drawn closer together and do better work in the church than ever before. I am sure if we will all listen to Bro. Way we will have a good year.

Eden, Halifax Charge.—It is true the reporter of Eden church didn't do her duty last year, just as we fail to do many things; also, as others fail to do their duty. Since reading such glowing reports from the pastor of Halifax charge, how can one fail to perform one's duty? We do appreciate seeing such words of encouragement as well as hearing them, and I'm sure all are trying to live up to these kind expressions.

We are enjoying the friendly relationship with Mr. Loy and family. They are not strangers, but have fallen in line as one of our big church family. Mr. Loy's sermons have been most helpful ones, with a splendid attendance each Sunday.

The Junior and Senior Circles of the Auxiliary are gradually moving on, trying to meet our obligations as they come due.

The Sunday school is improving all the while. A few features to make the work more interesting have been added.

—The many friends of Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, retired Methodist Protestant minister, of Washington, N. C., formerly of Greensboro, N. C., will regret to learn of his extended illness. He has been quite ill since Christmas and as yet has shown no signs of improvement. We feel that the prayers of the people will be appreciated by Rev. and Mrs. Lowdermilk.

—Canning is supposed to have originated with Appert, a Pari chef, about 1783. His method was to place sealed bottles containing the food in a water bath and bring the water to the boiling point. Present day methods, though more scientific, vary but little from the original. Knowledge of canning was brought to America about 1818, but it did not become an industry until 1860.—Pathfinder.

OUR CONFERENCE COMMUNION SERVICE

Our Conference Communion service this year was so very impressive that I have felt moved to make mention of it in the columns of the Herald with my word of hearty commendation. It was done in a most orderly manner, with soft music which added much to the solemnity of the occasion. Good music on such an occasion should always lift us nearer heaven. The service was conducted in such a way that we did not seem to be in a hurry and in every way it was a service of beautiful order. Then, in my opinion, the kneeling around the altar made the service much more impressive and beautiful. There are few, if any, services that are more beautiful and should mean more to us than that of an Annual Conference kneeling around a communion altar. Surely, it should mean to us—

"And heaven comes down our souls to greet,
While glory crowns the mercy-seat."

Such a communion service as we had this year should have so impressed us that the members of the Conference should be able to put more emphasis, beauty and, indeed, more of the real worship in our communion services this year. For one, I want to publicly thank Dr. Brown and those who assisted him for this very fine communion service of the Conference just passed.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Bristow

S. C. Bristow, 79, former resident of Guilford and Randolph Counties, died Saturday evening at his home near Denton following an illness of approximately two years. His death was attributed to the effects of paralysis.

The funeral service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. T. Bowman, who was assisted by Dr. A. G. Dixon and Rev. Edward Suits. It was held at 11 o'clock Monday morning at Marlboro Friends church. Interment followed in the cemetery there.

Mr. Bristow was twice married. His first with was the former Miss Ada Giles, daughter of Rev. J. L. Giles, of Randolph County. Eight children were born to this union. They are Dr. E. A. Bristow, of High Point; Mrs. Guy Grimes, Mrs. H. P. Dilts, Mrs. K. E. Brooks and J. R. Bristow, of Oklahoma City; Mrs. W. M. Burgess, Mrs. Dora Bristow King and H. W. Bristow, of Greensboro.

Mr. Bristow's second wife was the former Miss Nancy Elder, of Randolph County, who survives. He is also survived by two brothers, T. A. and F. A. Bristow, of Randolph County, and 11 grandchildren. He was a member of the Denton Methodist Protestant church.

J. T. BOWMAN.

Thompson

With sorrow we record the passing of one of our honorary members of Bethel Missionary Society, Mr. David H. Thompson, of Snow Camp, N. C., who went to his reward December 14, 1933, aged 85 years, 9 months and 28 days. He was a son of Mr. John and Mrs. Ruth Thompson. He was twice married, first to Miss Sarah McPherson. To this union were born six sons. Messrs. Walter and Julius preceded him in death. Surviving are Messrs. E. L., of Haw River, N. C.; A. G., of Burlington, N. C.; Romulus and Dr. W. L., of Virginia; and three daughters, Mrs. R. F. Holman, of Snow Camp, N. C.; Mrs. F. T. Burney, of Chadbourn, N. C., and Mrs. Myrtle Lee, of Florida; 17 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren. About 18 years ago he was again married to Mrs. Ellen Braxton Bivins, who survives him. He was a member of Cane Creek Friends church, but as both of his wives were members of Bethel M. P. church, he attended services there, and has for many years been a member of our missionary society.

He was a good man, a good and useful citizen, and kind neighbor. He was for many years a teacher of public schools, was a surveyor and farmer. He will be sadly missed both in our church and neighborhood. He had been sick for a long time, and his death was not unexpected. He was tenderly cared for by Mrs. Thompson and his children, who, together with a good physician, did all that could be done; but God called and he went to be with Jesus and many loved ones gone before. We love to think of the meeting as a glorious, happy one.

Funeral services were held at Cane Creek church December 16 at 11 o'clock, and were very impressively conducted by Rev. Lewis McFarland, of the Friends church, and Rev. G. W. Holmes, of the M. P. church, assisted by Rev. J. A. Burgess and Rev. D. Harris. Songservice by Cane Creek and Bethel choirs. Pallbearers were his grandsons, and flower girls his granddaughters. The floral offerings were beautiful. Interment was made in Cane Creek cemetery. Many of our missionary members have preceded him in death. How our society is growing in heaven! Some day, when God wills, we hope to meet them all.

Whereas, God in His infinite mercy and love has called our brother home, therefore be it resolved:

That we bow in humble submission to His will. He doeth all things well. He does not make mistakes.

That we try to emulate his splendid example and work while it is day, for night cometh to all.

That we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy and commend them to our Father's care. In all our sorrow, we know our Father cares.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, to the M. P. Herald, and recorded on our minutes.

"O Father, grant Thy love divine,
To make these mystic temples thine;
When wasting age and wearying strife
Have sapped the leaping walls of life,
Take the poor dust Thy mercy warms,
And mold it into heavenly forms."

MRS. J. M. FOUST,
MISS MARCIA FOUST,
MISS BESSIE HOLMES,
Committee.

Jones

Martha Celestia Watson Jones died December 2, 1933, aged 73 years, seven months and twelve days.

She professed faith in Christ in early life and joined Mount Zion Methodist Protestant church, and remained a member there until the church was organized at Pinnacle, when she with her husband and children moved here as charter members and where she has lived a faithful member until called to the Church Triumphant.

She had been in declining health for years, and could not attend, but would insist on her husband and children attending.

She was married to S. P. Jones in September, 1879, and to this union were born 10 children, five boys and five girls, all of whom survive. She leaves her husband, 10 children, 39 grandchildren and five great-grand children, two sisters and one brother, besides a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

She will be greatly missed in her home and community where she lived. Especially will she be missed in the homes where there is sickness, as she has spent much of her time administering to the sick of her own family and friends, but now she is gone where sickness and sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. R. A. Hunter of Forsyth Circuit, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Pinnacle M. P. cemetery to await the resurrection.

The bereaved have our sympathy.

A. L. HUNTER.

Sharpe

Mrs. R. C. Sharpe (who before marriage was Miss Willie Stroud) was born November 4, 1890; died December 12th, 1933, aged 43 years, one month and eight days.

She joined Chestnut Ridge church in early life. In 1920 she transferred her membership to Efland M. P. church, where she remained a faithful member until death.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer in Efland church December 14. A large congregation was present for these services.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Lambert

On December 18, 1933, the death angel visited the humble home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lambert, Sr., of Concord, N. C., and took from them their darling baby, Arthur Lee Lambert, Jr., aged one year, nine months and nine days. Funeral services were conducted from Roberta Methodist Protestant church by the pastor, Rev. Earl A. Cook, and Rev. J. M. Morgan, pastor of Concord M. P. church, another minister, a relative of the family, also assisted. Interment was made in the Roberta cemetery.

Little Arthur was not sick very long, and his passing came as a great shock to the family and friends. He was a most loving child, and all who knew him were greatly attached to him. It was hard to give him back to God. He will be greatly missed, but as we think of little Arthur in his new home we are reminded of these words:

"Gathering buds, gatherings buds;
Full grown alone will not do;
Jesus is gathering day after day
Buds for the Kingdom of Heaven."

EARL A. COOK.

Pegram

Mrs. Nancy Barrow Pegram was the daughter of Moses Barrow and Sallie Warren Barrow. She was born December 26, 1834, and departed this life January 1, 1934. Her age was 99 years and six days. She was united in marriage to Allen W. Pegram September 4, 1855. Four children were born to this union, Julius, Henry, Charlie and Elizabeth Pegram. The husband passed to his reward July 15, 1911.

Mrs. Pegram professed faith in Christ and united with Bethel Methodist Protestant church, on Flat Rock Charge, early in life, being one of the charter members of Bethel church. She spent her entire life in the Bethel church community. She was a devoted wife, a loving mother and a consecrated Christian. Very few people are blessed with such a long life as Mrs. Pegram's, she having lived almost five score years.

The funeral service was held in Bethel Methodist Protestant church January 3, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. Parker Holmes, of Winston-Salem. A large congregation of relatives, neighbors and friends attended the funeral service, which was evidence of the esteem and respect in which the deceased was held. The saying in the Scriptures, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord," should be comforting to the bereaved.

C. B. WAY.

Williams

G. D. Williams, an older brother of the late J. W. Williams, and the last surviving member of the family of Uncle Bilie Williams, who was one of the pioneer members of Flat Rock, died November 13. His funeral was conducted by Revs. J. R. Hutton and A. G. Dixon.

Mr. Williams was a member of Flat Rock in his boyhood days, but when he adopted Reidsville as his permanent home he moved his membership there.

Fry

Miss Dovey Fry, daughter of James L. and Lindy M. Fry, was born January 29, 1857, and departed this life December 24, 1933, aged 76 years, 10 months and 25 days. Her entire life was spent in Davidson county, she having been born and reared in the Canaan church section of Davidson county, near Denton. Her last years, however, were spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cross on Sixth avenue in Lexington, at whose home she passed away.

The deceased lived a quiet, peaceful Christian life, and exhibited in the everyday affairs of life, a kind and loving disposition. In her last illness she was patient throughout the hours of suffering that she was called upon to endure.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning, December 26, from Canaan Methodist Protestant church, by the writer. Interment was in the church cemetery.

May God's blessings rest upon the sorrowing nieces and nephews, and the friends she has left behind.

C. G. ISLEY.

Doub

John Wesley Doub was born March 23, 1853, and died January 7, 1934, aged 80 years, nine months and 15 days. He was the son of the late Cannon and Jennie Doub. He was the eldest of a family of nine children, seven boys and two girls. Mr. Doub is survived by one brother and one sister, Evan Doub and Mrs. Sam Spease, both of this community. He spent his entire life in this county as a merchant and farmer, preacher and teacher. He united with Baltimore Methodist Protestant church at an early age and remained a faithful member until the end. He helped erect the first church at Baltimore, a log building that was located on the Doub plot in the present cemetery. No better resting place could be found than the plot beneath the old church that he worked so faithfully to construct. He gave liberally of his time and substance to the support and maintenance of Baltimore church Sunday school. He served as superintendent of the Sunday school for more than 50 years. His greatest devotion and loyalty after the death of his parents was to his church and Sunday school. Mr. Doub preached many sermons, performed many marriage ceremonies and preached many funerals. No better tribute could be paid to his honesty than to say, "Though he lived in the woods, the world made a beaten path to his door."

Rev. R. A. Hunter and Rev. C. B. Way assisted in the funeral service.

D. R. WILLIAMS.

Boyles

Death entered our community January 12 and claimed one of our faithful members, Bro. R. H. Boyles, of Lawndale, aged 54 years, 10 months and 5 days. In his passing the church has lost one of its faithful members, the community a good citizen, the home a faithful father and husband. It was not the writer's privilege to know Bro. Boyles: but the overflowing congregation at the funeral service, the many beautiful floral designs show what great respect and love the community had for him. He professed faith in Christ and joined Lawndale Methodist Protestant church a good many years ago, and remained a faithful member until death.

He was married to Miss Alice Towery, July 11, 1907. To this union were born four children, two boys and two girls. Wilbur Boyles of Lawndale, George of Washington, D. C., Mildred of Shelby, N. C., and Madeline of Lawndale.

To the faithful wife and children who are feeling this loss so keenly we extend our deepest sympathy and pray that the vacant place in the home may be filled by Him who is able to make all things work together for good to them who love God.

"After death, comes life: after cross, comes crown; sorrow merges to rapture, for all His own. After night of weeping, comes morn of bliss, and a world of glory comes after this."

R. S. TROXLER.

Woods

Mr. William Dennis Woods was born in Orange county on April 7, 1850. His soul departed this life on January 20, 1934. He had almost reached the 84th milestone.

Mr. Woods was a faithful and loyal member of the First Methodist Protestant church of Burlington. In recent years his physical condition prevented his attendance upon the services of the church, but he always manifested a deep intereset in the church and supported the church financially, even though he could not attend.

It is the conviction of the writer that Mr. Woods was a good, Christian man. The writer never knew him, nor has he ever heard it reported that Mr. Woods mistreated or dealt unfairly with anyone. He honored God in his life and maintained a Christian attitude toward his fellowmen. Those who have known him for fifty years say that these things are true.

Mr. Woods was a man of prayer. Being unable to attend church and loving God's fellowship, he always wanted his pastor to have prayer during every visit in the home. He found great comfort in prayer.

May the bereaved be comforted with the abundant peace and the unfailing comfort of our loving heavenly Father.

FRED W. PASCHALL.

Albright

Daniel A. Albright, born November 20, 1851, died Jaunary 14, 1934. Fnueral services at Hebron church January 15.

Mrs. Della Isley Albright, born April 1, 1858, died January 22, 1934. Funeral services at Hebron church January 23.

Mr. Albright lived to be more than 82 years of age, and Mrs. Albright more than 75. As husband and wife they had walked together the pathways of life for a number of years.

The near relatives remaining are: daughters, Mrs. Frank Grantham, Mrs. R. F. Terry and Mrs. J. C. Crutchfield; sons, Floyd, Virgil, Royce and John; 17 grandchildren, and 4 great-grandchildren. May God comfort them all.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Pegram

On the first day of January, 1934, the spirit of Mrs. Allen W. Pegram very quietly and peacefully took its flight to its eternal home. She had been sick for about two weeks, and death was not unexpected. She was the widow of the late Allen Walker Pegram, who died in 1911. The daughter of Moses and Sallie Warren Barrow.

Mrs. Pegram was 99 years and six days of age. She was very feeble a few months before her death, but did many things that were very remarkable for her yars. She had made her home with her only daughter, Mrs. F. M. Pegram, for a number of years. Two sons also survive, J. M. Pegram of Greensboro and C. V. Pegram of Winston-Salem.

Grandmother had been a member of Bethel M. P. church since early girlhood, though she had not been able to attend services in several years. She lived in a little world all her own, always sitting so quietly in her rocking chair. She never knew much about the modern ways ad changes that have taken place since her girlhood days. She would have thrown up her hands in horror if she had known some of them. She was very quiet. never butting in in other people's affairs, always honest. kind and true. She was very industrious in earlier days, spinning and weaving her own cloth to make clothes for her family, counterpanes. etc. It was very interesting to hear her tell of the ways and means of living in those days. When we grandchildren visited them, when grandfather was living. they would always give us good advice. Grandfather would always get his Bible and read a chapter or sing a song and have prayer before going to bed. These good influences have lived on down through the years in the hearts of these grandchildren who are now showing traces of silver hair and old age. I do not see how we can do without these good old-fashioned fathers and mothers when they are all gone, and they are going fast. I hope and pray that our children, grandchildren, and all down through the ages may always cling to the faith and many of the ways of these dear old-fashioned mothers and fathers who have gone before.

Grandmother, we know you are better off and we hope to meet you in that beautiful land.

A GRANDDAUGHTER.

Pickens

I desire to pay a brief tribute of respect to Rupert T. Pickens. Sr., whose sudden death a few days ago brought sadness and sorrow to all who knew him. It was my privilege to know Brother Pickens for a number of years. and I flatter myself on claiming him as a warm personal friend. I admired him for his sterling character, for his loyalty and devotion to his church. and for the great service he rendered to his denomination.

The North Carolina Conference honored Brother Pickens by electing him a representative to five General Conferences. In each of these conferences he distinguished himself and reflected great honor upon his brethren. When the Executive Committee of the General Conference was set up. he was made one of its members, and I know from personal knowledge that he was influential in shaping the policies of the committee. He attended all the meetings of the committee and took a lively interest in the work of the entire denomination.

Being the son of one of our honored ministers he always exercised a kindly and sympathetic interest in preachers. He was especially interested in his pastors. and gave them his hearty co-operation and support in all of their endeavors to promote the Kingdom of Christ among men.

I mingle my tears with the tears of the grief-stricken family. and devoutly pray that I and they may meet him one day in the Father's House where we shall enjoy his fellowship forever.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Bain at Haw River was the scene of a beautiful wedding on Sunday morning. December 24, when Miss Ruth Elizabeth. the attractive and accomplished daughter. became the bride of Charles A. Cates. the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cates of Haw River. Mrs. Cates is a member of the Graham Methodist Protestant church, the Sunday school organist, and assistant church organist. She comes of a very influential family in our church here and is herself an example of high Christian character and church loyalty. It is with deep regret that she and Mr. Cates plan to make their home at Mount Holly instead of in this community. However, we trust that our loss will be someone else's gain.

Mr. Cates is a prominent young man of this community and is at present a chemist of the Carolina Dyeing and Mending Company of Mount Holly, N. C.

The writer officiated and he wishes for these young people a most happy journey through life together.

Foushee, of Graham, became the bride of Alvis Wilson, the son of S. G. Wilson, also of Graham. These young people are members of our church, earnest workers in the Christian Endeavor and Sunday school, and are examples of the highest type of young womanhood and young manhood; they come of well known and prominent families here in Graham. We wish for them a journey through life that is full of joy, love, and good will. The writer officiated.

Now you see the percentages in the Herald campaign stand the same this week as they were last week. But DID YOU SEE WHAT CONCORD DID? She came very near pushing Calvary out of third place. So now Calvary is just as insecure in her third place as is a man standing on top of a post with a mad dog below. But Calvary is still coming. And several other charges made good showings last week also. And now, hats off to Orange, St. Paul and Winston-Salem, First, for raising subsidy in full. Saxapahaw has also done well. Get ready to take your hats off for another charge that is reporting subsidy in full this week. Its name will be mentioned next week.

Come on, agents, and make the charges at the head of the column get out of the way!

THIS IS THE TASK—WILL YOU FACE IT SQUARELY?

The amounts apportioned to the several churches of the Conference to be contributed as Herald Subsidy, while the same as for last year, are repeated below in the belief that there may be some who may fear to trust their memory as to the amount assessed their church or charge:

Churches whose membership is from 101 to 200	5.00
Churches whose membership is from 201 to 300	7.50
Churches whose membership is from 301 to 400	10.00
Churches whose membership is from 401 to 500	15.00
Churches whose membership is more than 500	20.00

The Herald depends very largely upon these Subsidy payments for its existence, and it is of vital importance that these assessments be met. In laying your plans for this year's work, be sure that you have not omitted this very essential part of your financial program.

In the Editor's Absence

Dr. McCulloch, the Editor of the HERALD, is at the present time a patient at the Clinic Hospital, Greensboro, where he is undergoing a course of teeth extraction in the interest of his health. His advanced years and weakened physical endurance render this an admittedly critical process, and the prayers and solicitude in his behalf on the part of those who love and honor him would be in order at this time, and, we are certain, deeply appreciated by the Editor himself.

But—to utilize an old expression which fits the present case in a manner more or less appropriately—"when the cat's away the mice will play." The Editor's page in the HERALD has been as sacred ground whereon unhallowed feet must not tread, nor unworthy sentiment be expressed. In his innate modesty, as well as in conformity with his conception of "the eternal fitness of things," Dr. McCulloch has consistently avoided, as one would shun a serpent, any personal reference to the sacrifices that have been made in the endeavor to give the North Carolina Conference, through the pages of the HERALD, a means of perpetuating its existence and strengthening its power and influence for good in the vineyard of our Lord. Now, in the Editor's absence, the printers of the HERALD are going to make so bold as to invade this, his page, his sacred precinct, to make some statements which he himself would hesitate to make, though realizing just as keenly as we ourselves their truth and their justification. For our boldness we tender our apologies to the HERALD's Editor and its readers, and shall endeavor to reconcile any censure that may descend upon us with our own conviction that the setting forth of these facts has been too long delayed already.

We are confining our remarks to some financial aspects of the HERALD. Sometimes church folks—and others as well—shy away at the suggestion of money. But, having combatted for seven and a half years the ever-present problem of raising payrolls and paying paper bills and power bills and a myriad other bills, we have just naturally gotten that way and we excuse ourselves with the thought that we are human and simply cannot help it. We have heard it said that "money talks," but if so, its usual remark to us has been, "Don't you wish you had me?"

In thinking over the struggles we have had, we are forcibly reminded that the problems we have faced for the past seven and a half years have confronted the Editor continuously for near forty years. With fervent faith in the future that could be made possible for the Methodist Protestant Church in North Carolina, were it given adequate means for expression, for the dissemination of helpful ideas, spiritual enlightenment and mutual encouragement, Dr. McCulloch thirty-nine years ago undertook to give our church such a medium. The first year's operation netted him, for a year of strenuous and courageous effort, the handsome salary of fifty dollars. He was then in the prime of young manhood with a family of young children dependent upon him for support. Who else but a Gideon or a Nehemiah would not have abandoned the task in despair?

But Dr. McCulloch did not turn back. How he was able through the intervening years to carry on, only he and the Eternal Keeper of the Records can relate. Now, after these years of uninterrupted publication, we find in North Carolina a vigorous denomination of more than 200 churches and 30,000 members, while then we had only a few churches and a few handfuls of scattered, discouraged members. Who can measure the influence which Dr. McCulloch has exerted through these years, and who can say to what extent our church of today and its various agencies and institutions are directly indebted to the HERALD for their very existence?

Seven and a half years ago the present printers of the HERALD came, in a very real sense, to his rescue. We took from his hands the tools that the feebleness of age made it no longer possible for him to use, and undertook to carry on. Ours was a faith in the overwhelming worthiness of the undertaking, similar in kind to the faith of Dr. McCulloch, though perhaps inferior in its steadfast fulness. We have never sought to make the HERALD a source of profit to us in dollars and cents. We have asked, however, that we might receive an amount equal to the actual cost of its production. The stress and strain of the lean years through which we all are passing has made it more imperative that we receive the sum we have asked, and only we ourselves know how vitally our existence has been threatened by the fact that this amount was not forthcoming. Dr. McCulloch has borne this burden with us most heroically. Since the Publishing House, originally built as a means of providing support for the paper, was sold and the proceeds applied to the relief of our College at High Point, the HERALD has been dependent for income solely on subscription receipts, together with the sums more recently contributed known as HERALD Subsidy. Dr. McCulloch has shared with us so largely from this income, that the portion retained by him for personal living expenses would make the salary of the poorest-paid preacher in the Conference seem a princely sum in comparison.

Dr. McCulloch, as we have stated, has been exceedingly reticent and unwilling to call upon the church for assistance, preferring to suffer in silence. Yet, is it right that he should be compelled to issue such a call? A parent who, having spent his all to rear his child to manhood—having guided his footsteps in childhood, shielded him in his youth, and made it possible for him to establish his position in the world as a man among men,—and then, finding himself in his old age feeble and dependent, would be most unwilling to make demands upon the care and attention of his son. Nevertheless, were this care and attention on the part of a grateful son not readily and cheerfully forthcoming, without the necessity of its being asked, the world would point with the finger of scorn and well-merited disdain.

The North Carolina Conference, through its Subsidy Plan as practiced last year under the direction of Dr. C. W. Bates, made a very real and much appreciated approach toward the solution of the Herald's financial problems. Had all the churches and agencies been able to make the payments suggested of them, the Herald would have been able to close the year without a deficit for current operations. As it was, this deficit was smaller than in any previous year, and this in one of the leanest years in the memory of any man now living. To those churches and institutions which made their payments in full, and to those churches which secured their subscription quotas in full, we give praise in the highest terms at our command. And we venture the assumption that not one of them feels that they have made a painful sacrifice, but, on the contrary, that they rejoice in the comforting assurance of a duty cheerfully performed, an opportunity to render a vital service eagerly seized and easily accomplished. To all those who put forth their very best efforts we are profoundly grateful. You have demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that the Herald can be supported without undue burden upon anyone if all are possessed of willing hearts. Dr. J. E. Pritchard, Herald Campaign Director for this Conference year, needs the support of all. Let us put forth our best efforts and make this undertaking the success it can be and should be, and, with every man faithful to his task, will be.

MUCH LARGER AND FINER

In a story dealing with pioneer days in Nebraska, I came across this interesting description of a home there:

"The house stood on a low round hill, nearly a mile east of town; a white house with a wing, and sharp-sloping roofs to shed the snow. It was encircled by porches, too narrow for modern notions of comfort, supported by the fussy, fragile pillars of that time, when every honest stick of timber was tortured by the turning lathe into something hideous. Stripped of its vines and denuded of its shrubbery, the house would probably have been ugly enough. It stood close into a fine cottonwood grove that threw sheltering arms to left and right and grew all down the hillside behind it. Thus placed on the hill, against this bristling grove, it was the first thing one saw on coming into Sweet Water by rail, and the last thing one saw on departing."

But far more striking and significant than anything in this description, is the statement which introduces it—especially the words I have italicized:

"The Forrester place, as every one called it, was not at all remarkable; the people who lived there made it seem much larger and finer than it was."

That is a worth-while tribute. It speaks of people of real distinction—of character, friendliness, and hospitality. The people lent an air and a significance to the place, that mere money and expensive landscaping could not achieve. They constituted the home.

I know many homes that are dignified and made attractive by the folks who live in them. Sometimes it is because a single one of the occupants possesses the gift of making the place seem larger and finer than it was. We who, through a good number of years, have gone up and down through the land and been entertained for a day, or a night, or a longer time, have learned to appreciate the hospitality and Christian fellowship that have enriched our lives, through these homes.

The people who live in a place, however, are not the only factors that cause it to seem larger and finer than it is. There are other things that contribute to the same end.

I once lived in a house, that was not so much of a house. It was old, had gone through several transformations, and it stood entirely too near the busy street. But I liked the place. It was favored with a maple tree and two oaks. One of the latter was large, and grew at the southwest corner of the front porch. A great limb reached across the south side of the house, coming within a few feet of my study window on the second floor. In a convenient place on this limb a robin built a nest and brought up her family, nothing daunted by my looking on.

The front porch was screened in, and roses and honeysuckles climbed over the framework. A song sparrow built her nest in the vine beside the door. So modest and sly was she, that I never saw her or her nest until she was brooding her clutch of eggs. We became friendly during that period, and after the little ones were out of their shells she would allow me to raise her breast with my index finger and look at her children. When they left the nest they hopped about the lawn for a time under the eye of the anxious mother. There were real dangers, and she seemed to appreciate my help, as I watched that no cat disturbed them until they were able to fly away.

In the summer, flowers on all sides of the house—together with a fruitful vegetable garden in the rear—made it an attractive place for passers-by, as well as for the family most concerned. Down the wide main street Lake Michigan, with its sandy bathing beach, could be seen. It was fine, on a hot evening, to walk down for a swim. Coming back in the moonlight, the old house looked like home, and the beds were attractive. I should enjoy living again in that house.

—It is not the critic who counts—not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is especially in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood, who strives valiantly, who errs and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming, who does actually try to do the deed, who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotion, spends himself in a worthy cause, who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat. —*President Franklin D. A MAN OF ADVENTURE

Some weeks ago Dr. McCulloch asked me if I knew a man at Henderson by the name of C. N. Kalstrom. I replied that I did and that I was his pastor for five years. I then told him some things that Mr. Kalstrom told me about himself and Dr. McCulloch asked me to write them into a story. Ten years or more is a good while to carry the materials for a story in one's mind. And then, to write without having any opportunity to ask a second time or to refresh one's memory or confirm any opinion is somewhat risky. If I make a glaring error here I ask Brother Kalstrom's pardon.

In so far as I remember what Brother Kalstrom told me, this is the substance: He was born in Sweden, and when he was a mere lad in school, instead of going home to lunch one day, he went down to the wharf and got on board a ship that was about ready to leave the harbor, the captain of the ship not knowing that he was on board. When he was discovered it was too late to turn back and so he stayed on. The boy being willing to work, the captain of the ship soon gave him a job. And he stayed and stayed and stayed on board that ship or some other ship for a good many years, traveling around the world many times and seeing more places than almost any other person I ever saw. One interesting thing told by Brother Kalstrom was that he passed through two summers and one winter in the short period of three months. He left England in early summer and started for the west coast of the United States. As the Panama Canal was not built at that time it was necessary to go around South America. So it was summer in England and for some distance out, it was winter in South America and it was summer again as they went up the west coast of the United States.

One of the most thrilling incidents that I heard was about the ship wreck in the Baltic sea. The ship which Brother Kalstrom was on struck a rock near an island and broke in two and sank. Several of the crew, our hero included, were washed ashore. Brother Kalstrom says the first thing he knew about being washed ashore was that he opened his eyes and the sun was shining in them. The waves were rolling up to him and he was partially covered with sand. Then there were some terrible experiences keeping alive and waiting to be rescued. The island was bare and the weather was cold. The men would go into a huddle to keep warm. The ones that were the nearest dead would be put on the inside of the huddle and they would stay there until they were warmed up, and then they would be put on the outside and would help to warm up others. After several days of hunger and cold, when almost all hope was abandoned of being rescued, they saw smoke far out at sea. Then they saw in the distance the form of a vessel. They had no rockets nor lanterns with which to signal. But there was a pole on the island that had washed ashore and they put a coat belonging to one of the men on the end of the pole, and after much effort on the part of the weak, fainting men, they were able to lift it into the air and wave it back and forth. Presently the flag on the ship went up and down three times, indicating that the men had been sighted—(here my voice always breaks with emotion as I tell the story). Brother Kalstrom says he has no recollection of the rescue. The next thing he remembers is that he opened his eyes and that he was on a ship and that he smelled something to eat—the best that he ever smelled in his lifetime. Then the feeding process began with only a small quantity, later something more until the danger point was passed and they were given an abundance.

After many years on the sea, Brother Kalstrom located in this country and married a Miss Paschal of the New Hope church community on Vance circuit. She died in 1921 or 1922. Later Mr. Kalstrom married a widow in Henderson but her name does not come to me now. To this marriage a baby was born, and on one Sabbath morning while I was pastor in Henderson they had it baptized. The Hon. T. T. Hicks, great lawyer, great man, said to me at the close of the service, "Well, I do not know when my emotions were so deeply stirred as they were this morning to see those people bring that dear little babe and dedicate it to the Lord."

DOING GOD'S WILL

By Grenville Kleiser

The chief purpose of your prayer is not to instruct God, but to bring yourself into harmony with Him. Prayer is not to multiply material possessions, nor to satisfy selfish desires. You pray to God for guidance and protection. As you make your mind receptive, God's spiritual ideas pour into it in full and satisfying measure. The good thus sent to you in unlimited supply meets a deep need of your nature, and gradually you come to realize that true prayer is right desire and that such prayer is always answered. Earnestness of desire is better than multiplied words. True prayer promotes humility, patience, self-denial, peace, and gentleness. The final test of true prayer is that it confers upon you increased joy, faith, and courage.

Do not over-plan, nor be unduly anxious. Submit all to God and obey His guiding voice implicitly. Let the prayer "Thy will be done" be a true petition of your heart. The fruit of the spirit is joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law. From this sublime statement it is obvious that as you cultivate and express these qualities in your daily life, you will be close to God and free from the possibility of condemnation. Worry is a form of weakness, and a tacit acknowledgment of self-limitation and lack of confidence. To live a large life, you must have large stores of personal courage. The realization that you have unlimited resources will fortify you for the most formidable enterprises.

The highest purpose of your life is to do God's will. There is nothing greater than this. It transcends all other duties. Men are haunted by the possibilities of the ideal life; they feel a yearning for spiritual perfection. Every thinking man turns at last to God and asks for guidance. He wants to know God's will that he may fulfil the expectations of the all-wise Father. The first vital step towards spiritual realization is to submit your will to that of God, to surrender freely and wholly to Him, and to listen attentively and obediently to His guiding voice. You may search the wide world over for happiness, but you will not find it in its completeness until you have made the great self-surrender to God.

LAST CALL FOR YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Last Sunday was the day when many of our churches observed Young People's Day. Others will observe it next Sunday. There may be a few churches that have made no plans to observe this day at all. If your church is in this last group, please let me urge you to make plans right away to observe it some time in February. This is too important a service to let pass by. Youth holds such a leading place in the church program that they should have the benefit of this information and inspiration of this special service. Remember! This day is dedicated to a member of our own Conference, Dr. C. E. Forlines. Surely every church wants to honor him by observing this day.

A Report Wanted

I would like for every pastor to send me a report including the following items: names of the churches which observed Young People's Day, the amount of the offering from each church, and any remarks you would like to make in regard to this program. A card will be all right.

Some Returns From Young People's Day

Winston, First, $17.00; West End, Greensboro, $13.00. Many others next week, we hope.

P. S.—Because of some delay in mail my letter failed to reach the HERALD last week. T. J. W.

CONCORD L. T. S.

We had a most splendid school. There were more than 50 in attendance. The enrollment was 37, and 35 received credits. Brother G. H. Hendry taught the Young People's courses and Brother C. P. Morris and myself taught the two Standard courses. The pastor of the local church, Rev. J. M. Morgan, and his people gave us their most hearty support, which we appreciate very much.

The writer was kindly entertained in the home of Brother Ross Little. Also many of the other members of the church shared in his entertainment. Everywhere we went we were kindly received.

To our regret, Mrs. Morgan was suffering from an attack of the flu. I hope for her speedy recovery.

—Dr. McCulloch, Editor of the HERALD, entered Clinic Hospital, Greensboro, Monday of this week, to undergo a process of teeth extraction. As the HERALD goes to press his condition is reported as very satisfactory, with perhaps the worst of it safely passed over. He hopes to be able to return to his home within a few more days.

THAT STEWARDSHIP REPORT

This committee is really beginning to function now, and we are ready to help any pastor or committee who is interested in getting the best helps on the subject of tithing or systematic giving.

We also have the cards for pledging your membership to this cause and will be glad to furnish you with what you need to get the organization started in your local church.

Let us know what your needs are to put on an educational program and the literature will either be sent, or if you wish to get it in large quantities, we can put you in touch with the Layman Company, 730 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill., where you can get all that you want for instruction or inspiration along these lines.

A Suggestion

The writer spends part of his tithe the first of every year, or most every year, getting out a bulletin that has matter on one side on the giving question while the other side is left blank for church program that you can either have printed or do the work yourself with a duplicator. This pays in awakening an interest on the part of folks who want to improve the work in their own church and get the information that will help them to be more intelligently liberal.

Christian people with an awakaned, enlightened conscience, cannot remain long on the side of the stingy or spasmodic giver.

I have longed to see one church composed of tithers, giving not from the top of their purses but from the bottom of their hearts. This matter should be pushed to enable people to place not only their lives but their possessions fully in God's hands. For if this is not done there will be either a going back to the possessions or a deeper consecration to God of all.

We are here to serve you if you feel the need of it. If you are not seeing any need of an awakening on this line please do not waste our stamps.

THE INSTINCT OF AMBITION

There are many who regard ambition as an inherited evil rather than as a divine instinct. They hear the account of the ignorant, selfish requests of the ambitious sons of Zebedee; together with the withering reply of Jesus; and jump at the conclusion that all ambition is wrong. So prevalent is this view that some religious sects teach that full salvation will take ambition out of a man. This view is contrary both to the truth and experience. It fails to take into account that ambition is implanted by God himself.

Ambition may be used both to the glory of God, and the exaltation of humanity. Jesus Christ may reverently be called the most ambitious man the world has ever known. The mind of man can not conceive of a more ambitious task than the destruction of the kingdoms of evil in this world, and establishing in their places the Kingdom of God. Again and again Jesus expressed the hope of doing that very thing. It should be the ambition of all Christ's followers to aid their Lord in His ambitious and worthy undertaking. An unselfish and a holy ambition is divine, and therefore should be kept pure and holy. W. A. LEDFORD.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Rev. H. W. Maier Released from First Church, Asheville

Brother Maier returns to Ohio where he will accept a pastorate.

Building Up the Church

Among the fine arts should be listed the art of building up and maintaining at a high level of efficiency the membership of the church. The church should be regarded as an organization of human beings—many of them far from perfection and some of them with but little desire to be perfect. But they compose the church and become the pastor's field and his force. They may hinder him and also help him. But the body should be organized. Every board and committee of the church should be well supplied with members and they should be those who have some adaptability for the tasks which the committees are to perform. It too often happens this is not done. The entire membership is just a group of people to be preached to and preached at so many times a month. We do not discredit the value of preaching—we believe in it, but we also know that the members must do something else besides hearing sermons. Their salvation will depend largely on what THEY do rather rather than WHAT they hear. No preacher can save his people by his sermons. He must find some way of enlisting them in religious activities that by the doing of the Word they shall be saved. And here is the

of many churches. There is not a functioning organization in some of them. All there is there is just a little dictator. Notice the absence of capitals. Mussolini in miniature sits enthroned at the crossroads, rural and city churches. Nothing passes in that Kirk until it has the o.k. of that dictator, and then only his group handles it. The majority of the membership are like spectators at a ball game, watching the players. A census of such memberships would reveal the fact that about ninety per cent are inactive. So when the dictator abdicates, gets the sulks, why, the entire organization stalls. We never build up the membership of a church by enthroning, Hitlerizing, some would-be dictator. Even the Lord can't make saints of a very high order out of such folks. At least, it may take a long time to do it. What we are appealing for is an ever-increasing participation by the church members in the affairs of the church. Only by such a means can a church accomplish the tasks set before it; only by such a means can it really make itself a mighty force for righteousness in the community.

Haw River Circuit, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, Pastor

I visited Fairgrove and Midway churches on this charge. The hours for the services were 10 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. This plan has been observed for some time by Brother Trollinger, and the people like it. By this means they get double the number of services they would otherwise get with one regular appointment in the morning. I understand that the attendance is much better than it was when one service was held in the afternoon each month.

There were good congregations at both services. I remember Fairgrove as a deserted church—almost so—when I was President of the Conference years ago. The pastor then was quite sure there would have to be a church funeral before a great while. But it certainly is a live corpse now. Good attendance and good attention as well. Evidences of keen interest in the work of the church. This church has a fine leader in the person of Brother Richardson.

Midway has a new building since my last visit; but the church is seven or eight years old. However, it is so well kept that it appears to be just out of the hands of the builders. Brick, high ceiling, furnace heat; the only rural church I remember visiting that has a furnace to warm it. The absence of Sunday school rooms is the only thing that attracts one's attention in a critical way. But it is airy, light; acoustics all that we desired.

There was a fine congregation here also and the people appreciated the message. The pastor keeps the record of the membership attendance. It is done by a "silent secretary." By this means he can know how well his members are supporting him by church attendance. The plan is a good one. We enjoyed the hospitality of Brother and Sister G. W. Apple. They are loyal supporters of High Point College, two sons in college now.

Brother Trollinger is now serving this charge his sixth year and is very popular with his people. He has done fine work, as is evidenced in the development of the work under his pastoral care. I noticed a splendid method of raising money on church debt; a large block of bricks on a chart back of the pulpit. The charge has enough blanks when taken at ten dollars each to pay off the indebtedness of Midway church. On the other side of the pulpit is another chart showing the number taken—these are colored so the membership can see from the pews what progress is being made. The fine thing about it is, it works.

I enjoyed a visit with Brother Millaway on my return; found him in good spirits and deeply interested in preaching and all things religious. It was a pleasure to spend an hour with him and Sister Millaway and to partake of the evening meal with them.

St. Paul, Rev. D. I. Garner, Pastor

I was at this church for the evening service. Quite a good congregation, and they seemed much interested in my message. Pastor Garner has raised the A. C. expense budget, the Subsidy allotment, and Church Extension assessment. So his church is about up-to-date on its obligations to the Conference. This is his fourth year and he has been faithful in his work here. However, St. Paul has not made the progress it should have made through all these years. It is in the very midst of enough people to fill it many times who would not have to walk five blocks to reach the church. But we have some as loyal people in this group as you will find anywhere. And we are not despairing of the church because the growth has not been rapid. We hope for these loyal workers here a most prosperous and happy year in the work of the Kingdom.

EDUCATION

From a scholastic standpoint I realize my inability to write on this subject. But the more I study educational economics the more I become convinced that there is something radically wrong with our educational system.

In the first place, I believe the greatest error lies in the basic principle of our educational system, and if our civilization which is now tottering is preserved, there will of necessity have to be a revolution in the basic principles of teaching.

It is of great importance that our boys and girls be taught to read and write and to solve their problems in arithmetic, to build sentences and to find towns, cities, lakes and rivers on the maps in their geographies, and when they have completed their elementary course they should if possible go on through high school and college. But if our civilization is to be preserved there must be laid a new foundation for our educational system, and the chief cornerstone in this foundation must be "Character."

This factor has hitherto been ignored in our institutions of learning to our sorrow. Most all of our troubles, financial, economic, or domestic, may be traced indirectly if not directly to this factor. By the term character I don't mean just what the term generally implies, i.e., the general report of a person, but I do mean the underlying principle of moral and civic righteousness.

It is well enough that our boys and girls be taught to do things; but someone has said that if education is to be complete the mind must be taught to think, the hands must be taught to work, and the heart must be taught to feel. The latter is being almost wholly ignored. This should be the most important, the basic principle of all education. Men are today being predominated by the principles that have characterized all brute creation—the survival of the fittest. This may sound pretty, but what it really means is, Might makes right. In the struggle for food and shelter and for fame and fortune, the strong have always oppressed the weak, and run over them and trampled them under their feet and seemed to forget that from one blood God created all nations of the earth. It may be necessary for us to come back to the starting point and get on the foundation.

We must make the Golden Rule our standard, and the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God the principal factors in our civilization. Our boys and girls must be taught in school and in their homes to do unto others as they would have them to do unto them.

This will no doubt mean a change in the teaching personnel of some of our schools, for we have some profane and immoral teachers in our schools. These are a detriment to our civilization. We should never allow any teacher to be employed to teach our children who is of doubtful character.

I am not advocating the teaching of any religious creed in our schools. But the principles I do advocate are the noblest and highest attainments of man.

C. A. LEWALLEN.

OUR STORY PAGE

THE LARGER SERVICE

Each girl in the class had volunteered to raise a dollar for missions. After the dollar was earned, they were to meet and tell how they did it.

Every one had accomplished that now, and so, to celebrate the event, they met that afternoon with Grace, the president of the club.

Clare's turn came first. Clare was small and slender. She smiled at the girls—but, then, Clare always smiled.

"I took my little niece Virginia down town and bought her a hat," she began. "Her mother was busy and could not go, so she asked me to take her place. On my return she gave me a dollar."

Nora came next.

"I made two kinds of sandwiches for my brother Ben's hiking party," she announced. "For the making of those sandwiches he gave me a dollar."

It was Belle's turn. "I ripped up a skirt for Aunt Anna. She was so pleased that she didn't have to do it herself that she gave me a dollar."

Jennette got up. "I took old Mrs. Perkins to the train. She received a telegram that her brother was ill, and I helped her to get ready. Father let me take the car. She paid me a dollar."

The president stood up. Grace was a model officer, and every one loved her.

"I went to the court-house and recorded two deeds for Mr. Bently. He couldn't go himself, because of his rheumatism. He gave me a dollar."

Maud came next. "I answered several letters for grandmother, who was too feeble to do it herself. She gave me a dollar."

Grace turned to Lucy. Lucy was the last one to speak. She was the poorest of them all, too. Her family lived in a little brown house on the outskirts of town, and the father, being sick so much, never had any steady work.

"Well, Lucy," encouraged the president.

Lucy was silent a moment. She wore a gingham dress, faded from many washings, and her hands didn't resemble Clare's in the least. Instead, they were rough and work-stained.

"I washed dishes for mine," she began slowly. "Mrs. Jackson, who lives in the big house on Cheery Street, had company for two nights. I went over and helped her serve the dinner, and I washed all the dishes. There were so many of them I thought I would never get through. It was after ten when I reached home, and I was very tired, but she gave me a dollar."

There was silence. Grace broke it thoughtfully.

"I think the members of our class should have great credit for their industry in earning the dollar; but, to me, the largest credit belongs to no one else than Lucy. It wasn't hard for us to earn our dollars, but it was hard for her. Not one of us likes to wash dishes, especially after a large dinner. We can only guess what Mrs. Jackson's dishes must have been. She alway serves her dinner in courses; therefore I say that the dollar earned by Lucy represents the most sacrifice and the most labor." She paused.

"Christ took a towel and basin, girded Himself and washed the disciples' feet. I think Lucy has shown some of our Master's humility. She wasn't above doing humble tasks. Somehow I think that Lucy's sacrifice is going to be blessed. I know that you will agree with me that she has given the larger service. You need't blush, Lucy; it is true. Hands up, girls, and show her that you agree with me."

In the twinkling of an eye, every hand went up. As for Lucy, she could not believe her eyes. She had often felt that the girls of that particular class cared very little for her; but, as she looked into those young faces, she knew that from now on it was going to be easier. In some way she had found the way to their hearts. It had taken two long evenings of dish washing to do it; but if it had done this the rest did not matter.

She looked at the girls again. There were tears in her eyes. "Thank you," she said gently. "Thank you."—Girlhood Days.

"JUST AS I AM"

In her youth Charlotte Elliott was asked by the Rev. Cæsar Malan, when in company, if she were a Christian. Somewhat sharply she replied that she did not wish to discuss that matter then. Mr. Malan said he would not persist, but would pray for her.

A fortnight later they met again, when Miss Elliott herself said the question Mr. Malan put to her had been causing her trouble ever since. She had been seeking the Savior, and asked for help. Mr. Malan said, "Come to Him, just as you are."

"But will He receive me just as I am?"

"Oh, yes, gladly." They prayed, and soon she had the joy of salvation. Later she wrote the hymn, "Just as I Am."—Keswick Calendar.

THE CHILD KNEW

Some time ago a little girl gave her heart to Jesus and was very happy in her new-found joy. One day a Christian man visited in her home, and knowing that Mary had become a Christian, entered into conversation with her. Mary was quite sure that Christ was reigning in her heart.

"But," said the gentleman, "if Satan should come and knock at the door of your heart, what would you do?"

The little girl looked up brightly. "Don't you know?" she replied. "I should ask Jesus to go to the door, and when Satan should see Jesus as the door, he would say, 'Excuse me, I came to the wrong door,' and he would quickly disappear."—The Life Line.

Timely Poems

By GRENVILLE KLEISER

LOVE DIVINE

Love divine
Is yours and mine,
To light the way
This new-born day.

Phantom fears
And bitter tears,
Cannot betide
If Love preside.

Love divine
Is yours and mine,
To use today
In God's own way.

DO YOU?

Do you ever give a dollar
To a fellow down in luck?
Do you say a word of courage
To increase another's pluck?

Do you think about the sorrow
That enshrouds the world in gloom?
Do you scatter gleams of sunshine
Like a candle in a room?

Do you lend a hand to someone
With a leaden load to bear?
Do you empty out your pocket
When there's urgent need to share?

Do you fill your obligations
At the time when you should pay?
Do you nightly pray for wisdom
To walk nobly all the day?

THE ONE BEST WORD

The one right word
Should be your quest,
If you would write
And speak your best.

Too small, too large,
It will not do,
If to your thought
You would be true.

So when you write
Make this the test:
Is this one word
The one that's best?

HOW TO GET ON

To get on in the world
You must work with a will,
For only the steadfast
Can scale life's steep hill.

To get on in the world
Set yourself one great aim;
'Tis the man of right purpose
Who best plays the game.

For life is a game
In which only few win;
To have a good chance
You must never give in.

To get on in the world
Be courageous and true;
When you nobly succeed,
Men will then honor you.

GRATITUDE

When I ponder all the blessings
That my Father gives to me,
It brings a deep conviction
How grateful I should be.

For love and truth and labor,
For charm of sky and sea,
For countless daily pleasures,
How grateful I should be.

I thank my loving Father
For all He does for me;
In useful service may I prove
How grateful I can be.

SLEEP

If you would woo refreshing sleep,
Some doctors say count agile sheep.
Good bedtime stories, short and light,
May yield to you a peaceful night.
Hot milk and crackers, so they say,
Will quickly drive brain fag away.
Relax the mind and body too,
It may bring eight hours sleep to you.
Deep rhythmic breathing may be tried,
When you lie tossing open-eyed.
Repeat aloud your favorite verse,
And so annul insomnia's curse.
Or emulate the jellyfish,
And sleep as long as you may wish.
A brisk walk in the outdoor air,
Will tend to banish carking care.
Trace fleecy clouds in sky of blue,
Observe what that will do for you.
Read quietly Psalm four, verse eight,
Then sleeplessness will soon abate.
But best of all to soundly sleep,
A conscience clear serenely keep.

APPROVED OF GOD

I think that God is greatly pleased
With those who crosses bear,
And bravely climb the hill of life
Though oft weighed down by care.

I think that God must surely love
The humble, true and kind,
Since these are innate virtues
Of all-inclusive Mind.

I think that God will clearly hear
All those who seek his aid
In daily childlike, fervent prayer,
And then walk unafraid.

DON'T QUIT

Fight failure fearlessly,
However hard you're hit;
Put on the armor of a knight,
Resolve to never quit.

If the uphill climb is steep,
Know that you are fit
To conquer every obstacle—
Resolve to never quit.

Patience, faith, bull-dog pluck
Will help you do your bit;
No matter what the task may be,
Resolve to never quit.

SMILE!

If the weather looks like rain,
Smile!
When you feel you must complain,
Smile!
Do not care if things seem gray,
Soon there'll come a brighter day,
You will find that it will pay
To smile!

If the world looks sad and drear,
Smile!
Banish every thought of fear,
Smile!
Do the very best you can,
Play your part now like a man,
Make each day a better plan
And smile!

If you taste life's bitter cup,
Smile!
Should the doctors give you up,
Smile!
You are very far from dead,
Waste no time in useless dread,
Put your trust in God instead—
And smile!

IT DOESN'T PAY!

It doesn't pay to worry
Or to give up in despair,
Since there's so much of gladness
For you to freely share.

It doesn't pay to grumble
Though many things seem wrong;
Better drown your disappointments
In a cheerful burst of song.

It doesn't pay to dawdle
When there's urgent work to do;
A clear and noble purpose
Will inspire the best in you.

It doesn't pay to sorrow
Over chances missed and gone,
For however black the midnight
There will surely come the dawn.

FAITH

Faith is an architect,
Builder, a light,
The way to achievement,
It makes the day bright.

Faith softens sorrow,
Drives tears away,
Gives you new courage,
Points to Love's way.

Faith achieves wonders,
Though prospects seem bad;
Dissipates shadows,
Makes the heart glad.

Faith can accomplish
Good things for you;
Have faith that some day
Your dreams will come true.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

NOTICE OF DISTRICT MEETING

The meeting of the women's work for the Fourth District will be held in First M. P. church, Burlington, Friday, February 9th.

The churches composing the District are: Fairview, Glen Raven, Gibsonville, Fountain Place, Graham, Haw River, and First church, Burlington.

There will be an interesting program, both in the afternoon session, beginning at 3:00, and the evening session, beginning at 7:00.

Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Asheboro, state presidet of the Women's Work, and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, of Mebane, state District Chairman, will both be on the program.

The public is cordially invited to be present, and all the women in the District are urged to come and get information as well as inspiration, so that they may be able to carry on the work in their individual churches more effectively.

MRS. W. J. JENNINGS,
Chairman of the 4th Disrtict.

IT IS TRAGIC!

There are those who have labored in the heat of the day to carry out the command of the Master, "Go ye." They have passed the torch on to us, and we are little by little letting the flame go out. They knew the meaning of sacrifice; we do not. We should give our tithe, but that is not sacrifice. We must go far beyond that and the sacrificial giving must include everyone in the entire denomination from the highest official to the most insignificant member in the smallest one of our churches. We have dealt in terms of "They Should," when it should not even be "We Should," but "I Should." The sooner we get away from the thought that it is "Their duty" to "My privilege" the better it will be.

It seems to be that we have been playing "fruit basket" for some time, and now we have "upset the fruit basket," as you will notice from the most recent report from the Board of Missions. In India: our two boarding schools have closed, a number of native workers were turned off, and the Minnisses returned to America. In Japan: Miss Douglas has had to secure work outside the mission, Miss Hempstead is returning to America in March; the mission evangelistic work has been dropped; nine or ten churches closed and the pastors retired, which means that certain important districts for which our church alone has been responsible will be without the Gospel. In China: the reduction will give them only enough to pay one married missionary, which will mean bringing two home. You must agree with me that this is indeed tragic.

Now to our immediate privilege and responsibility: Mr. Minnis is at home. I have seen him and talked with him; so I am sure he is at home. For the last two years, just about the time our plans were shaping up, the news would come that they were coming home. Then we would begin over again, never knowing exactly where we were. The Board tells us that from May, 1932, to January, 1934, we owe $1,233.75 on the Minnis salary, most of which was 1932, 1933 salary. As you perhaps know, no effort was made to raise this amount aside from our regular apportionment, due to the uncertainty of his remaining in India. The emphasis during that year was placed on raising as much as possible on our apportionment. During the past nine months, we have been making an effort to raise the salary in addition to our regular apportionment. During this time we are behind about $400. Won't you please get busy on the Calendars and let's turn the money in as rapidly as possible, so Mr. Minnis can have what is due him? We have not met our obligation to the Board; the Board has not met its obligation to Mr. Minnis. Please send your money to Mrs. Taylor as quickly as possible, being sure to say it is special for Mr. Minnis. Mrs. Taylor will send it to the Board and they will send it to Mr. Minnis. It is necessary to send it this way so that you may have credit on your World Service Budget. Next week I will report the amounts paid, so if you have any money collected, please send it in, so I may have it for my report.

MRS. C. W. BATES,
Chairman of the Minnis Fund.

Gideon Grove Church, Woman's Auxiliary.—Please give us a small corner. We have a live Auxiliary and have done a lot of home work. We have now decided to put on the pageant for February Thank-offering. Our motto is: "We will do our part." We feel we must step out a bit from home and help somebody else.

At our next meeting we want to appoint a reporter for our Auxiliary. Very likely I will not write any more, so please don't let me get in the wastebasket.

FROM SECRETARY OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK

Dear Co-Worker:

I am once again asking that if you do not have Young People's Circles and Children's Societies in your church that we organize and train our children in the whole program of the church.

The children's organization shall be largely missionary in character. Any child under six years of age may become a member of the Precious Jewels by the payment of 15 cents a year. Children between the ages of six and twelve years may be organized into Sunshine Clubs, and those between twelve and sixteen into Mission Clubs. Any child may belong to these organizations by paying five cents per month. Young People over 16 years of age may be a Circle of the Woman's Auxiliary. Each of these organizations shall be under the supervision of some active member of the Auxiliary whose duty it shall be to watch over and direct their efforts, to devise useful means of raising money, to see that all monies collected are duly paid to the Auxiliary treasurer, and also to give them instruction in Home and Foreign Missionary work.

In our church the Sunday school teacher uses one Sunday each month as Missionary Day in the Beginners' class or Precious Jewels. Christian Endeavor Societies may also use one Sunday each month, where you do not feel that you have leaders for new organizations. The object is to give the young people of our church the whole program of the church. If you can't do otherwise, may I urge that you at least give missionary information through the Sunday school at least once a month. Kindly report any and all work along this line to me.

If I can be of service to you at any time, please do not hesitate to call on me.

I have mailed quarterly report blanks to everyone on my list, and will thank you to fill out and return to me at once.

Trusting that long before the year 1934 shall close we may be able to report Missionary Education being given to the young people in every church of the North Carolina Conference, Methodist Protestant church.

MRS. A. H. RAGAN, Sec'y,
Young People's Work.

PASTORS' SUMMER SCHOOL

If I do live way out in the "sticks," I have heard it whispered that we are to have a two weeks' Pastor's Summer School at High Point College this summer, one week of it during the Leadership Training School.

As yet, I have seen no account of it in the Herald, but think my information is pretty correct, and as I was not told to keep it a secret, I don't suppose I am telling tales out of school. Anyway, it is too good to keep.

Of course the Summer Conferences are all right as far as they go, but from what I understand this Summer School will give our preachers who have not been fortunate enough to attend the Seminary a chance to work for credits on a Seminary course.

I have always felt that every one of our preachers should have Seminary training, but know it is not always possible. But now that the Seminary (faculty) is coming to High Point College, I think it would pay all our preachers to make a big effort to meet it there.

Brother Auman has been advising the young people to lay up their dimes and nickels for expenses to the L. T. S. Just suppose our pastors get a Pastor's Summer School bank and do the same thing.

I am glad that it is to be held at the same time as the Leadership Training School. I think it will be an asset to the school. More of our young people should learn to know the leaders in all our church institutions, as well as our home leaders and preachers.

One of the things I greatly enjoy at the L. T. S. is hearing the lectures of our out-of-state people and learning to know them. Another is the fellowship with my own M. P. family—am hoping to see more of them there next summer.

I have always been too lazy to work for credits, but I am looking forward with more pleasure than usual to "listening in" on this Pastor's Summer School. I know it will be interesting.

As the song says, "Meet me there."

MRS. J. J. CRAWFORD.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

South Winston Charge.—We had our service Sunday, January 21st, and I was somewhat disappointed as our Sunday school attendance was off a great deal for some reason; hope it will be back as usual next Sunday. Our pastor, Brother Atlas Ridge, at 11 o'clock brought an excellent sermon, and I think everybody enjoyed it a great deal.

We also held our communion service following preaching. Our morning church attendance was near 25.

Our evening service at 7:30 was better attended than the morning service.

We are very sorry that Sister Ridge is still sick; may she soon recover and be in our midst again; also, Mrs. C. W. Bowers is still ill. Hope she will be in Sunday school next Sunday.

Brother Ridge and I made two sick visits Sunday afternoon.

We are still looking for some way to get our church painted on the outside. Anyone wishing to donate to this purpose can forward same to our pastor, Rev. Atlas Ridge, Lexington, N. C. All donations are greatly appreciated, no matter how small or how large. I would like to get Bro. R. L. Vickery's address. W. C. MORRIS, Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro.—One hundred and ninety-five members were present at Sunday school last Sunday. Dr. Pritchard is challenging us to find new Sunday school members and it is our ambition to be able to report an attendance of at least 200 next Sunday.

Quite a pickup was noticed in the attendance at prayer meeting last Wednesday evening, at which time Dr. Pritchard spoke to us, using a part of the 20th verse of Romans 5 as his subject, "But where sin abounded, grace did abound more exceedingly." "God saw it was necessary for us to have the opportunity to sin before we could have the opportunity not to sin," said Dr. Pritchard. He continued by saying: "God saw that sin was ruining mankind and He gave us some commandments to abide by." "God is in everything that is for the betterment of mankind" and "God wants to develop us spiritually, physically, morally and intellectually."

Several members of our Woman's Auxiliary spent last Thursday in an all-day mission study class at the home of Mrs. Otis Campbell on Randolph Avenue. We assembled at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 10:30 our pastor began the review of the study book, "The Christian Mission in America." The review was conducted until noon when everyone enjoyed a "covered dish" dinner. In the afternoon the book review was resumed and carried on until it was finished.

Young People's Day was observed at both the morning and evening service at our church last Sunday. Dr. Pritchard used as the subject of his sermon Sunday morning "Making the Most of Youth," Tim. 4:2 furnished the text, "Let no man despise thy youth." He said the older people should help the younger people to find a place. He told us of many great people who made their accomplishments when in their youth. Some of the privileges of youth that he mentioned were: Period of physical fitness, youth is the springtime of life; visions, more wonderful impressions are obtained by the young; optimism. "Wherever there are privileges there are perils," said the pastor. Dr. Pritchard said the obligations of youth today are greater than were those of our fathers because the advantages of today are greater than were those of our fathers.

"Youth for Christ" was given by the young people of the church, directed by Miss Claudine Kirkman, president of the Senior Christian Endeavor Society, Sunday evening. This took the place of the regular Sunday evening service.

We wish to sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Willis Booth and family who had the misfortune of having their home partially destroyed by fire early Monday morning.

Dr. J. F. McCulloch entered the Clinic Hospital Monday for treatment. We hope that he will be able to return to his home soon very much improved.

Circle No. 1 will meet with Mrs. W. M. Johnson at her home on Caldwell street Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. M. H. Greer on Randolph Avenue Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Business Girls' Circle will meet with Mrs. Robah H. Fields, 711 Voltz street, Monday evening at 7:30.

Tabernacle-Julian.—Our first quarterly conference met on the night of January 3 and the work was well considered and plans were made to carry on the work of the year as we hope to the best advantage. We are resorting to the night for our conferences as a trial. It was noticed that some were in attendance who had not been in the custom of attending.

Last Sunday was a red-letter day with us. President Andrews was with us at both of the churches, Julian at the morning hour and at Tabernacle in the afternoon. He gave us two fine sermons. The people were highly pleased at his coming. Come again, Dr. Andrews. We should be glad to have you at any time. Our doors are open and the pulpits are yours at any time you can come this way.

The Leadership Training School at Tabernacle began on Monday night of this week. We are indeed pleased with results up to this date. The attendance is not as large as we had hoped for, but it is certainly gratifying. The ages run all the way from nine years to beyond three score years and ten. This is our first attempt here with the work of the kind and we are well pleased. Both churches are represented and we only wish some of our neighboring churches could be represented.

Recently we have lost two of our oldest members by death. Bro. William Kirkman and Bro. William Shaw. They were both more than 80 years old and they had been faithful members of Tabernacle church for a great number of years. More will be said of them at a later time.

Mrs. Charlotte (Grandmother) Woodburn was 95 years old January 5. The pastor made her a visit on that day and found her happy in her great love for God. She is happily waiting for her glory home, as she terms it. When the pastor visits her he expects her to shout and praise her Lord. She loves her Heavenly Father and she loves everybody. The writer has in his possession her Methodist Protestant Discipline, which was published in 1851. It is possibly a copy of the first Discipline ever published by our church. It is interesting indeed.

We have had some sickness among our people. Possibly the most serious case is that of little "Pete" Neese, the little boy of Bro. Purvis Neese. He has been quite sick, but is improving at this time. We pray for his recovery. GEO. L. CURRY.

Shoals, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge.—It is a little late, but we want to thank the Conference for sending Rev. A. L. Hunter back to us again. The longer he stays with us the better we learn to love him. The writer heard one of the stewards say that he preached just about the best sermon last Sunday he ever heard, but that is nothing new; we hear remarks like that about all of his sermons.

We hope to have a good year this year and be able to accomplish a little more in our Master's service, and if we are willing to be led by our pastor's teaching we will be able to accomplish much more.

Our Sunday school is a little weak right now, due to measles and other illness, but everything is working smoothly, and we hope to have the best Sunday school this year that we have ever had.

Mrs. Mary A. Campbell's condition remains about the same. She has been confined to her home for about five months. She suffers a lot. If it is God's will we hope she will soon be restored to health again and take her place at church and Sunday school, where she is missed so much.

H. E. Kiger, one of our oldest members, has been very low with pneumonia, but is much better at this writing. We hope he will soon be able to attend church and Sunday school again. He is over 70 years of age, but he is one of the most faithful ones to attend church.

Winston-Salem, First Church.—Attendance for the past two or three Sunday mornings has come pretty close to the high water mark. We are glad to see so many out, and especially to see so many young folks "staying for preaching." We received one new member by letter last Sunday. There is prospect of a number more coming in soon. We are also looking for a considerable ingathering as a result of a "WOFC" campaign. ("WOFC" stands for "Win One for Christ.")

The women folks are busy trying to round up the Auxiliary budget, which is woefully behind. Circle No. 2 prepared the meal for the Fellowship Supper two weeks ago and made $16.00. Last week Circle No. 1 served the Workers' Council and cleared $9.00. The School Girls' Circle (Mission Club) made $5.00 from a Brunswick Stew, and has about raised its art of the budget. This Friday the Auxiliary is putting on a Birthday Party and is hoping to raise the $25.00 assigned them for the College.

Last Wednesday night we had a meeting of the Workers' Council. I have attended a good many such meetings, but this was by far the best I have been in anywhere. Brother B. K. Millaway is not only an exceptional Sunday school superintendent, but also a splendid presiding officer. Thirty officers and teachers were present, and the meeting was full of interest and enthusiasm.

We observed "Young People's Day" yesterday. The young people had charge of the closing exercises in the Sunday school; I preached to them at 11 o'clock; and they had entire charge of the vesper service at 5:00 o'clock. The offering for the Department of Religious Education was $17.00. We set out to beat the record, and we went far beyond it.

We only had one graduate in the mid-year class of the Reynolds High School this year, but she made up in quality what was lacking in quantity. Helen Contos is an honor student, a member of the National Honor Society and of the Quill and Scroll, as well as secretary of her class. Congratulations to her and to the church.

The measles has about subsided so far as our Sunday school is concerned, so we may expect better attendance from now on. It was much better yesterday.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Spring Church Charge.—The various organizations on the charge are normally active, and the attendance upon all services is fairly good.

We have just held two Young People's Day services. The third will be held next Sunday night at Pleasant Hill. The two held were profitable and interesting.

Mrs. H. E. Vasser has been confined to her room for several days with a painful felon. Quite a number are suffering from bad colds.

We are being well taken care of, as usual, by our people. We appreciate the kindly spirit of those who remember us.

Siler City Church.—All the activities of the church are moving along nicely for the first month of the new year. Our pastor filled his appointment the first Sunday in January with an appropriate new year's message, his theme being "Steps in the Ladder of Life." Special music was rendered by Misses Verda Shaw Fox and Minnie Cooper. Again the third Sunday morning we listened to an inspiring message based on "The Christian's Immortality Here on Earth." At this service the Lord's Supper was administered to a large part of the congregation.

Our mid-week prayer services have been conducted this month by Mr. W. S. Durham, of the First M. E. church, Mr. L. L. Wrenn, and our pastor. The C. E.'s have charge on the 31st. These meetings are always interesting and we have good attendance.

We have a wide awake Sunday school under the leadership of our new superintendent, Mr. Wrenn. The second Sunday Mr. Wrenn asked each teacher to tell to the entire school what their plans were for the year, what goal they had set to reach, etc. The answers were all based on the upbuilding of God's Kingdom here on earth. These talks were very interesting and with the co-operation of each class with their teacher there is no reason why we can't have the best school we have ever had. We are having good attendance each Sunday. The Philathea class had charge of the devotionals the fourth Sunday and Mrs. T. L. Smith's junior class will have charge the first Sunday in February. This makes it very interesting for different classes to conduct the devotionals with any kind of a program they wish to render.

Our missionary circles are well attended and doing good work. Each circle studies the Question Box laid down in our Missionary Record, and find it quite interesting. We are also busy trying in different ways to raise some much-needed money to improve and beautify our church grounds and other improvements. Recently we have set several pieces of shrubbery and other plants and it already is looking good. Grass seed will be sown in the near future.

The entire town and community was shocked and saddened last Monday night, January 22nd, when the news was broadcasted that Mr. J. E. Fox, one of our faithful members, had died suddenly, without a moment's warning to his dear wife, who was alone with him, sitting by the fireside talking. He had been in failing health for more than a year, but was in town on the streets not over three hours before he died. He is survived by his companion, who was Miss Liunie Highfill, and two brothers, besides a host of relatives and friends who mourn his passing. On Wednesday, January 24th, he was laid to rest in Brush Creek Baptist church cemetery, beneath a mound covered with beautiful flowers. The funeral was conducted by his pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, Rev. F. B. Peele of the First M. E. church, Rev. J. C. Canipe of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Weener of Brush Creek church. The Junior Order, of which he was a member, had charge of the service at the grave. The pallbearers were also Juniors. The sympathy of every member of our church and all the community goes out to Mrs. Fox in this sad hour of bereavement.

Beginning the fourth Sunday night and extending through the first Sunday night in February the C. E.'s will observe Young People's Week with appropriate meetings through the week. A visiting speaker, Miss Elizabeth Hauner, will be here and deliver an address on the first Sunday night at 7 o'clock. This will be a great week for the society.

Albemarle.—Our Sunday school is still progressing nicely and we are making small gains each Sunday. We have adopted a plan whereby each department has a separate superintendent, and we hope this plan will spur each department to better attendance.

Our pastor is bringing to us each Sunday forceful sermons which should be of great profit to us when applied rightfully. One which was especially impressive was delivered last Sunday morning, the subject being "The Standards of Christian Living."

The Lucy Hatley Circle has been holding a very interesting contest, the purpose of which was to raise funds. The Circle was divided into two sections, with a captain for each section. The losing side was to entertain the winning side, but each side raised the same amount of money.

The Cam Snotherly Circle held a social in the home of Mrs. J. U. Whitlock on last Tuesday evening. During the evening the men hemmed dish towels. Mr. C. S. Moton won the prize for the best hem. This was a quarter social and the proceeds proved an increase in the treasury.

Our Ladies' Auxiliary voted at their last meeting to send a box of provisions to the Children's Home at High Point. These things were collected and Rev. and Mrs. Anderson carried them to the Home on last Thursday.

Rev. A. D. Shelton, of Friendship church, preached a very inspiring sermon for us at the evening service on January 21. We were very glad to have him and enjoyed his sermon very much.

Ebenezer, Greensville Charge.—Our Sunday school is moving along nicely, but it could be better, which is not the fault of our capable leader, Mr. J. B. Clements.

We heartily welcome our new pastor, Mr. Q. L. Joyner, his wife and little daughter, into our midst. We think him a splendid man. We are hoping to make this a good year and feel that it will be if the people will just do their part.

We were all very sorry to give up our pastor, Mr. R. L. Hethcox. We always notice to see what Richland charge folks have to say about Mr. Hethcox, and we always see an excellent report. I am sure if you folks will only co-operate with your new pastor much good will be accomplished. We know you will hear some just as interesting sermons from him as any of our preachers can deliver. Our prayers follow Brother Hethcox and family to his new field of service. We would love for him and family to come to "Old Virginia" sometimes.

We will have the first meeting of our newly organized Woman's Auxiliary the fourth Sunday in February. Mrs. William Woodruff is our capable president. We hope that all will do more work in the coming year for Christ and the church than we have in the past.

With prayers and best wishes to the Herald and its readers,

English Street Church.—Young People's Day was observed at English Street the past Sunday. The theme used for all the services was "Youth for Christ." The opening of the Sunday school was in charge of the young people. At the 11 o'clock preaching service Rev. C. H. Hill spoke to the young people on the topic, "Youth's True and Everlasting Friend." At the evening service, Mr. A. J. Koonce, local business man, made a very insiring and uplifting address to youth. At this service, Rev. G. L. Reynolds spoke a few words also. We were glad to have both of these with us. There was a very good attendance at all the services Sunday.

In carrying out Christian Endeavor Week our Senior C. E. Society will hold during the week a sunshine meeting with one of the sick members of the church, conduct the Wednesday evening prayer service, give a play explaining C. E. on Thursday night, and have a fellowship supper on Friday night.

Mr. Boyles, of the Community church in Thomasville, was present with us again at the Sunday school hour to explain more fully the Laymen's Fellowship organization. After the explanation, it was decided that an organization be started. Officers were elected and plans were made for future work. We feel that this organization will be a great help to the church and are looking forward to its success.

We are very sorry to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. Hill, is very ill at her home. Also, one of our faithful members, Mrs. C. M. Queen, is confined to her home with tonsilitis. We miss these two very much in our church services and sincerely wish for them a speedy recovery.

Hebron, Orange Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. B. M. Williams, filled his regular appointment Sunday morning. He preached in a very impressive manner, a very interesting and inspiring sermon.

We have been doing many things in our church since Conference. We have been working trying to raise money to pay off our parsonage debt. We have made about $35 by the men of our community presenting a "Womanless Wedding." We hope to have the debt paid in full by February 1st.

Our Sunday school is gaining new members and enthusiasm under the efficient superintendent, Mr. Warren McAdams.

The Christian Endeavor Society has been wide awake all winter. Some very interesting and helpful programs have been given.

Hebron has a large group of capable young people who are real Endeavorers. Miss Calleen Thomson is our C. E. president.

While our attendance is not small at church service, Sunday school and C. E., there are still many more people in our community that we want to attend.

We have had two deaths recently in our community—Mr. Daniel A. Albright and his wife, Mrs. Della Isley Albright.

Mr. Albright died January 14, and Mrs. Albright died a week later, January 22. To the bereaved we extend our deepest sympathy. May God comfort them all.

Mount Pleasant, North Davidson.—The Sunday school is still increasing and growing in interest. The young girls' class is growing the most of any of the classes in the school.

Mr. Grant brought us two of the most beautiful sermons this month. The second Sunday his subject was "Choice." Lot chose the south, the best of the land, and Abraham took the north. Lot went into the south and got entangled with the worldly things and forgot God. Abraham went north but did not forget God. Choice is what ruins the world today. People turn God loose and turn to the things of the world. They get entangled in the things of the world and when they see where they are it is too late. Make the right choice, make it for God.

The fourth Sunday his text was, "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Christ Jesus our Lord." God shed His blood on the cross for the sins of the world; through the shedding of His blood we can be made as white as snow. Sin is the beginning of trouble. Why do people follow sin when they know the wages of sin is death? Sin may not only lead you to death, but it will lead your companions, the people you are influencing. Repent of your sins so you may have eternal life. The wages of sin is death, and the gift of God is eternal life!

Young People's Day will be observed at this church the second Sunday night at 7 o'clock; Christian Endeavor at 6 o'clock.

A box party will be held at this church Saturday night, February 17. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Ebenezer, Greensville Circuit.—Rev. Q. L. Joyner filled his regular appointment Sunday. He has filled all his appointments here since he has been serving this charge, with a large attendance each time. We believe if the members will co-operate with Brother Joyner we will have a successful year.

We regretted very much to give up our former pastor, Rev. R. L. Hethcox, and family. We wish for them much success.

We have been running our Sunday school through the winter months, and it is gradually increasing. We hope it will continue to increase.

Brother Joyner organized a Woman's Auxiliary society Sunday and we feel like Mr. and Mrs. Joyner are going to be lots of help to us in this society.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Rockingham.—Our pastor, Rev. C. W. Saunders, filled his regular appointment here the second Sunday morning and night. Also last Sunday night, using for his text, "And if the righteous scarcely be saved where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?" He spoke of the swiftness of time. It seems that a year passes now in the time that a month used to pass and that we are preaching our own funerals. We should be very careful how we live, that our conscience might always be clear.

Brother Saunders received the promise of several subscriptions to the Herald on his next appointment. I think that every member should read their church paper. It would create more interest in church work.

Our pastor will preach for us Saturday morning before the second Sunday in February at 11 o'clock. We will have dinner at the church and hold our first quarterly conference at 2:00 in the afternoon. All members are urged to be present. There will be preaching morning and night on the second Sunday in February, which is the regular appointment. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services.

Flat Rock, Flat Rock Circuit.—The work of the new year has started off nicely and we are very happy to have with us Rev. C. B. Way and family. Pastor Way has filled all appointments since coming here, with good attendance considering the sickness and measles which has swept the community. We hope to have a large attendance in the future. We have about 125 on roll at Sunday school with an average of 85 or 90.

Our Ladies' Aid is progressing nicely with Miss Ella Friddle as president and Mrs. W. E. Johnson secretary and treasurer. Our next meeting will be held at the home of Misses Joy and Iva Friddle next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. We have invited Mrs. W. C. Ogburn of Greensboro to be with us and make a talk. We are planning to have a silver tea Saturday night before the second Sunday in February. The tea is to be given at Mrs. Ira N. Johnson's. We hope to have a large crowd.

Each of the five churches on Flat Rock charge have a movement on foot to re-cover the parsonage which we hope can be done in the near future.

We are very sorry to learn that one of our members, Mrs. Cora Wray Lester, is seriously ill at Wesley Long hospital in Greensboro.

We are very much interested in our pastor and hope to show our appreciation more this year in trying to do our part. Our Sunday school is doing very well at present with very good attendance. Sunday school at 9:45 and services next Sunday evening.

The board of stewards will meet with Mrs. F. A. Fortenbery next Saturday evening.

Our superintendent was absent Sunday morning on account of serious illness of his son, who is in the hospital. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Pray for us that we may go forward in the work for the Master.

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge.—Mr. Pegg filled his regular appointment here Sunday with good congregations both morning and night. In the morning we enjoyed a trio by Miss Sykes, Miss Williamson, and Mrs. Waddell, with Miss Thompson accompanying. All are of our church.

At our next regular appointment we will observe the Young People's Rally.

The Sunday school is doing nicely and our membership has increased greatly under the leadership of Mr. C. P. Suits. We have the promise of another duet when the Sunday school reaches 150 by Mr. Coble, Mr. Suits, and Mrs. Sykes.

First Church, Lexington.—"Faith" was the subject of the fine sermon Sunday morning by our pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley. His text, "Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, walks about, seeking whom he may devour." As a basic theme for the message he used the familiary story of Daniel. Mr. Isley stated that the lions of sin are just as ready to devour us as were the hungry lions among which Daniel was cast. But as the Lord locked the mouths of the lions that they might not harm Daniel, so will He lock the mouths of sin if we will only call upon Him and trust in Him.

His second subject for the day was "The Two Important Calls;" the text, "Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." The two important calls that come to everyone are the call to life and the call to death. The first call comes to many who refuse but the call of death cannot be refused or put off. This inspiring sermon left food for thought with the large congregation which was present for the evening service.

On Monday night of last week the Leadership Training School began with an enrollment of about 70. The faculty for this school is composed of Rev. J. T. Bowman, dean, Dr. T. M. Johnson, Rev. C. G. Isley, and Miss Lila Aaron. Good attendance and interest was shown.

We were glad to see Mr. J. J. Mallard back at church Sunday after being a patient in the Davidson Hospital for a week suffering from septic sore throat.

Concord.—Friday marked the close of our Leadership Training School. We are proud of the way in which our teachers took advantage of the wonderful opportunity. Around 30 certificates were given at the close of the school. We appreciate very much the efforts the preachers put forth in making this school a success, and we feel that each teacher has been greatly benefited.

Several of us had the pleasure of having Rev. J. C. Auman in our homes for a short visit, and feel that we have known him always, and hope that he will again visit us, bringing with him his wife and children. Rev. Clarence Morris, of Kannapolis, also taught a class in our school; everyone liked him, and we hope he will visit us again. The remaining class was taught by Rev. G. H. Hendry; needless to say, we hope he will come again. He is a former pastor. We all love him and our doors are always open to him.

Our superintendent, Mr. Little, called a short meeting of the teachers to sign them up to take the different correspondence courses. Sixteen names were handed in; each department of the Sunday school was represented.

Our Sunday school attendance continues to be good. The Baracas are still climbing, having around a hundred and seventeen present. The total number for Sunday school was 397.

Splendid interest has been shown in our morning services. Our pastor, Rev. Morgan, has brought us some very inspiring and helpful messages. We have had a filled house in spite of the fact that quite a bit of sickness has been in our homes.

The following Sunday has been set aside as Young People's Day; plans are under way for a special program and I am sure it will be good.

We are glad to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. Morgan, is now able to be up, after being ill for two weeks with influenza.

Kannapolis. — The Leadership Training School at Concord M. P. church closed Friday night, January 26, at which time 34 pupils received certificates, those from Kannapolis being: Mesdames J. V. Dwiggins and X. E. Grayson; Misses Zula Carter, Beatrice Cartner, Elva Sides, Eva Nell Faggart, Mary Willie Donnahue, Macie Whitten, Mr. M. E. Marlow and Rev. C. P. Morris, who taught in the school, together with Rev. J. Clyde Auman and Rev. G. H. Hendry. We think the school was a huge success and thanks to the school.

We were happy to have Mr. Joseph Coble, of High Point College, with us Sunday, and we bid him Godspeed in the ministry.

We had the pleasure of welcoming seven new members on Sunday, January 21; namely, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Nesbit and children, Bettie Sue, Forest and William; and Miss Pauline Carver, of North Ridge Avenue; and Mrs. Z. B. Rimmer, North Juniper street. May the church and its work be a great inspiration to these and may they prove a blessing to us.

Church calendar for the week: Monday at 7, Woman's Missionary Society; Wednesday at 7, prayer meeting at the church; Friday at 7, choir practice; Saturday, 9 a. m., play practice at church; Saturday at 7, first quarterly conference; Sunday, February 4, 7 p. m., Holy Communion service; Sunday, February 11, Young People's Day.

Some items that appeared in Sunday's bulletin: "Don't stay away from church because it is not perfect—how lonely you would feel in a perfect church." "This church is here to serve the community. Its purpose is to help me to see Jesus, and to carry out the Divine intention, not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

We are sorry to state some of our members are sick at this time. Hope they will be out soon. Little Zelia Sides, infant of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sides, is improving.

REPORTER.

Kannapolis.—I suppose most of us like surprises, especially when the surprise consists of a great spread of appetizing rations. Saturday night I received the greatest surprise of my life, thus far. Immediately following the meeting of the Layman's Fellowship we were invited to the Red Men's lodge hall where, to our great amazement, were gathered 200 people surrounding a long table heavily laden with all sorts of delicious foods. My first understanding of the occasion dawned upon me only when they all joined in singing "Happy birthday to you." In my embarrassment I had only one consolation in the fact that in it I was not alone. At this birthday feast Mrs. N. F. Harris, Mr. G. B. Price, Mr. M. E. Farlow, Mr. David Abernathy, and Mr. David Cartner were likewise honored. The Harrington quartet rendered the music for the occasion, and everybody enjoyed an hour or more of fellowship and of eating. The writer is very grateful to all our many friends who made this feast possible, yet he is still suffering from the shock.

It was a pleasure to have with us last Sunday Miss Laura Braswell, of High Point College and our Children's Home, who rendered a solo for us at the morning service. Also, we had for our guest over the week-end Mr. Joseph Coble, of High Point College, at which institution he is studying for the ministry. We enjoyed having both of these with us and trust that they will see fit to visit us again.

Our church here is progressing nicely, and with the mills beginning to run better we hope to make this the greatest year in our history. Already we have received 18 into the church since Conference. Plans are now under way for liquidating our present indebtedness and for the building of a new church with Sunday school rooms, which we need so badly. Our crowded condition necessitates some form of expansion. Our regular attendance almost fills our auditorium, and this makes it almost impossible to put on anything special. We covet your prayers that we may find some way for expansion.

Our Laymen's Fellowship is getting off to a good start under the leadership of Mr. D. B. Cartner, president, and his able staff. There were between 40 and 50 present at the regular meeting last Saturday night. The greatest problem seems to be to find a place of meeting which is adequate, since we're trying to keep this meeting out of the church auditorium. Yes, the men are waking up, and watch them go. Still they have to go some to catch up with the women, who are going in full speed all the time.

Saturday we are to hold our first quarterly conference. The second Sunday in February is the day which we will observe as Young People's Day. Our spring revival meeting, at least we trust it will be a revival, begins Easter Sunday, or the first Sunday in April. We consider ourselves quite fortunate in being able to secure Rev. R. A. Hunter, pastor of Forsyth Charge, Winston-Salem, for our help in this meeting. We are looking forward to Bro. Hunter's presence with us.

Pray for us and our work here.

C. P. MORRIS, Pastor.

Flat Rock, Vance Charge.—We were very sorry to lose our pastor, Rev. J. W. Braxton. Our loss will be someone else's gain. We wish for him much success in his new field of work. On the other hand, we heartily welcome our new pastor, Rev. D. D. Broome, his wife and children. He has filled several appointments and each time has preached a very appropriate sermon. He preached an especially interesting sermon the third Sunday morning. At this service we were very glad indeed to have with us Dr. F. L. Gibbs, of Wesminster, Maryland.

The Woman's Auxiliary met Thursday afternoon at the church. Plans were made for a Valentine party on Friday evening, February 9, at the home of Mrs. A. E. White.

The Vance and Granville counties Young People's Conference was held at the Methodist church, Henderson, last week. We were very sorry that Dr. F. L. Gibbs could not be with us but one evening. Splendid work was done, however, under Dr. L. W. Gerringer, pastor, Henderson, and Miss Maxine Taylor, faculty, Henderson. Four young people from Flat Rock attended: Ethel and Elizabeth Wortham, Maxis Hester, and Katherine Reavis.

REPORTER.

Liberty.—Young People's Day has been observed. The theme for the morning worship was "Youth's True and Everlasting Friend." Rev. F. R. Love delivered a very fitting and helpful message. Youth should seek the companionship of Jesus.

Sunday evening a beautiful and impressive service was given in the form of a Young People's program. Special address by Rev. George L. Curry. A quartet, "Living for Jesus," was very effectively rendered by Katherine Underwood, Marjorie Elkins, De Lacy Foust, and Frances Ashburn. Violin solo, "Angel's Serenade," Miss Robinson; piano accompaniment, Mrs. Carl Brower. The Mount Pleasant girls were with us and gave some impressive numbers.

Circle No. 1 met in December with Mrs. J. E. Clapp; No. 2 with Mrs. Fred Reitzel. Circle No. 1 will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. A. D. Gregg. Circle No.

2 will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Fred R. Love.

It is truly a benediction to have them visit in our homes and pray with us around the fireside. They are true shepherds of their flock.

The Philathea class at the Christmas season gave gifts to their teacher, Mrs. Mamie Smith, as a token of love and appreciation of her efficient and faithful work as teacher and also president of the Woman's Auxiliary. The Bible class gave to their teacher, Miss Bertine Shepard, a handsome gift at Yuletide.

Miss Mary Bowman Shepard has resumed her studies at High Point College after spending the week-end with her mother, Mrs. F. A. Shepard.

Miss Lora Bowman has been on an extended visit to her brother, Dr. Earl Bowman, and her younger brother, of Lumberton, Dr. Willie Bowman, also her sister, Mrs. Daphne Crotts, of Winston-Salem.

Mrs. W. C. Shepard had the misfortune of falling and hurting herself quite badly, though she is very much improved now.

There is an epidemic of measles in and around Liberty. Some have been right sick, while others have had it in a very mild form.

Mrs. Mary Reitzel Beree, of Columbia, S. C., recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Reitzel, also her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Reitzel.

Our first quarterly meeting convened Friday evening. A goodly number were present and manifested a fine spirit of brotherliness and co-operation.

Bethesda.—Rev. C. W. Saunders filled his appointment at Bethesda the fourth Sunday at 11 o'clock; he preached an interesting serman; subject, "Repent." We hope that this will be a prosperous year with our churches. J. T. Maness, of Rockingham, N. C., came with the pastor. We are always glad to have the Rockingham people with us. We sincerely desire the prayers of the good people of Rockingham and the Herald.

J. R. BOON, Reporter.
Chesterfield, S. C., R. 3.

Harris Chapel, Vance Charge.—Yesterday was a lovely day and we had a good crowd at church for the afternoon service. Our people do not attend these fourth Sunday afternoon services as well as they do the morning services on second Sundays. But those that miss these miss something worth while.

Bro. Broome preached a wonderful sermon yesterday, his subject being "Emptiness." He pointed out to us unless we used what little talents we had to serve the Lord and for the good of our fellow man that to long for great things was useless, but to do what we could and God would bless our efforts in a big way.

Our Sunday school is moving along on the upward way. Our attendance is better and the people seem to be taking more interest in the Sunday school work. Still, there are others that could come and make it even better. We noticed right many strangers and visitors in our congregation yesterday. To these we extend a very hearty welcome. We are always glad to have visitors worship with us at any time. We are planning to have our young people's program next Sunday, Miss Ruby McCann being in charge of the program. We hope to have a good attendance.

We are sorry to report that Dr. C. D. Wyche, of Dabney, has been very sick with pneumonia, but glad he is much improved at this writing. Although Dr. Wyche is not a member of our church, he attended the services regularly, also the other members of his family are often seen in the congregation.

MRS. J. B. GLOVER, Reporter.

Pensacola, Democrat Charge.—Rev. Huss filled his regular appointment at our church Sunday. He preached an interesting sermon on "The Prodigal Son." He told so many good stories to illustrate his subject. The attendance was good. We were glad to have several members from the other churches in our community. Rev. Huss also had another service Sunday night. He wanted to discuss the work of the church with the officers of the church and Sunday scoool. Bro. Huss expects to spend a few days' visiting with us, of which we are glad.

The first quarterly conference will meet on next Saturday at 2 o'clock at the Democrat charge.

We are enrolling new students in our Sunday school among the children, but our adult members do not take the interest in our Sunday school that they should. We hope that they will attend better in the future. V. B.

Union Chapel, Granville Circuit.—We are delighted with the good attendance and added interest our people are taking in the church and Sunday school. We hope it will get better yet.

Mr. Spencer brought an inspirational sermon Sunday, bringing out many helpful guides for his people.

A board of stewards' meeting was held Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. Stephen Floyd to discuss and transact the general business of the church.

Mrs. Celestia Edwards Garrett, one of our former members, was buried at our church Monday afternoon. Although she had been a member elsewhere for the past 18 years, many of the older members remembered and loved her. Our heartfelt sympathy goes to the family and friends.

There will be a special program on second Sunday in February carrying out the missionary thank-offering plan. A short miscellaneous program will be rendered followed by a missionary sermon by the pastor. We hope to have a good attendance and that everyone will give as liberally as possible.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

Hickory Grove, Guilford Circuit.—Rev. T. A. Williams filled his regular appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Lord's Supper was observed.

Our Sunday school roll has increased from 99 members to 104 since the beginning of the year. To promote the attendance, some of the classes have worked out different plans of their own.

The "Willing Workers," the young ladies' class, and the Junior class have chosen sides and are racing to see which side can bring the largest number of visitors and new members into the Sunday school. There seems to be renewed interest in this plan.

The fine weather that we have been having this winter has enabled us to continue our prayer meetings each Sunday night and also to increase the attendance. There seems to be added interest in the work it has accomplished. A leader is appointed each Sunday night to open the meeting the following Sunday night.

Last Sunday night Mrs. Julius Tedder made an interesting talk on the question, "Are We Ready Christians?" Then the question was left open to the group for further discussion from anyone.

On January 15 one of our oldest church members, Mrs. Julia Kirkman Jones, passed away at the home of her daughter in De Ridder, La. Her husband preceded her about two years ago. The funeral rites were held at our church on January 16.

CELESTE STRICKLAND, Reporter.

Graham.—Graham observed Young People's Day last Sunday. An offering was taken for the Board of Christian Education in each one of the services. The amount of the offering will be announced later.

Our Sunday school under the capable leadership of Don S. Holt is growing in interest. Last Sunday a number of shares of stock in the Graham M. P. Sunday school were given to those who made the greatest investment in the Sunday school during the preceding four Sundays. Such recognition of appreciation will be given after each fourth Sunday.

This coming Saturday evening, February 3, from 6 to 7:30 p. m., the men of the church will serve what they like to call "A Healthy Man's Supper" at the M. P. Hut. Men will cook and serve the supper. Everyone is invited. The price will be 35 cents. A healthy time is assured.

A men's chorus will have charge of the church music for the Sunday night service this coming Sunday. Come out and hear them.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Dr. Andrews was with us last Sunday, and all who were present were well pleased and benefited by his visit. He gave us a wonderful message on "The Sin of Indifference."

Bro. Trollinger has filled all his appointments since Conference. His sermon the second Sunday in January was very suitable for the beginning of the new year, his text being, "Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Death has again visited our community and taken from us Mr. Samuel Walker. He was a member of Bethany M. P. church, but had lived with his son, F. S. Walker, near Midway church, for four years, and we had learned to love him. Funeral services were conducted at Bethany by Rev. W. F. Ashburn. May the Lord comfort the bereaved.

MRS. G. W. APPLE, Reporter.

A DREAM OF HEAVEN

The Home of the Soul

By C. N. KALSTROM

I saw a land where perfect
Bliss is prevailing,
And the roses forever shed their sweet perfume,
Where the silver swan
On the crystal lake is sailing,

In that land there is a
Beautiful city,
Where the streets are all paved with pure gold;
No unclean will ever
There be permitted,
And the joys of inhabitants have never half been told.

The walls made of jasper
And precious stones,
The gates of one beautiful pearl;
The tired, wearied pilgrim
Approaching his home,
As the swell of sweet music is filling the air.

With joy he stops
At the fountain of life,
Where cleansing and strength he freely received;
His old faded garment
Is changed to spotless white,
And pure golden sandals on his feet.

As he walks toward
The beautiful gate,
That opens wide by an angel's hand,
His loved ones meet him
That gather by faith
To welcome him to sweet Beulaland.

While the gate was open
I happened to view
The beauty in the home of the soul,
But no ears have heard,
And no tongue can tell
The glory within the jasper walls.

In the midst of the city
Stood a snowwhite throne,
The structure and beauty beyond man's word,
And He that sat on it
Was like unto the sun
That shines in his strength at the noonday hour.

The swell of sweet music
Was filling the air,
From angel band across the crystal sea,
While all the redeemed ones
In robes bright and fair
Fell down and worshiped Him that ever shall be.

Like the roaring of thunder
In the seasons of spring,
From happy souls within the pearly gates,
Saying, Glory and honor
Belongeth to Thee,
Thine own blood redeemed us, salvation is great.

From the throne of God
There flowed a river,
The sparkling and beauty like the crystal sea,
And the tree of life
That stays green forever
And sheds its fruits for you and for me.

There were beautiful cottages
And mansions so bright,
Constructed of pure precious stones,
That glimmered and glistened
In that wonderful light;
I was told it is the home of the soul.

There were other mansions
As yet unoccupied,
Prepared and constructed for you and for me;
When our life's work is ended
And we cross the swelling tide,
How wonderfully happy we there shall be!

GOOD MORNING, DRAPER; come right up here and take this front seat. Why, you are away out in front in the Herald campaign. Southside, ah, ah, well, you just step back there, please, and take that second seat and make room up here for Draper. English Street, you and Calvary go back there, please, and stand against the wall. Concord has won this seat. Next week you will have another chance, and maybe there will be a seat on one of the first three rows for you.

Now, folks, let me tell you something, the Herald campaign is beginning to move. Not in a long time have I seen as many subscriptions credited as were credited last week. This is one time when you cannot stand still and win. Any charge that does not keep moving up will soon be pushed off the platform. Did you see what that young Brother Stubbins did down at Asheboro last week? Well, Stubbins is good at lots of things besides mimicking preachers.

Last week I told you the name of another charge would be mentioned as having raised subsidy in full. That charge is Calvary, though its name did not get in the subsidy column last week. Who will be the next?

country church which sends its offering regularly.

The $20.00 offering comes from a good country woman who is clothing a child, and she dropped in and paid four months of it at one time. Her family is one of the most liberal in the support of their home church.

Cold

Yes, it is extremely cold today, but our men and boys are unloading a car load of commercial lime, the gift of Mr. C. F. Finch for the Home farm. We are so thankful for this wonderful gift, but wish it might have come when the weather was mild. Another car load comes a few days later. We greatly appreciate this gift also. The Southern Railway Co. granted us half rates on freight. We also appreciate that gift.

May our heavenly Father abundantly bless all those who are thus helping to care for the orphan child.

Yours in His blessed service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

Pastors, Please Take Notice!

The printers of the HERALD are this week mailing extra copies of the paper to be distributed among the people who are not at present subscribers. Won't you please distribute these with care and see that none of them are wasted by more than one copy going into the same home? I am anxious for our people generally to see the article by the printers in this week's issue in the hope that it may inspire more of our people to take the HERALD. Please do your best to get the facts before the people.

A Task for a Few . . . or a Joy for All

During the absence of the Editor from his accustomed post, we, the Printers of the HERALD, last week attempted to give our appraisal of the consecrated and sacrificial service Dr. McCulloch has given to his church, and directed an appeal to the denominational pride and loyalty of the church to become more vitally conscious of its responsibilities in the matter. Not many days thereafter we were the recipients of the following communication:

One West 72nd Street,
New York City.

TODAY IS THE DAY TO ATTEMPT AND ACHIEVE SOMETHING WORTH WHILE.
—G. K.

February 3, 1934.

To the Printers
of the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD
Greensboro, N. C.

I am so profoundly impressed by your article, "In the Editor's Absence," that I am enclosing a check for fifty dollars as a contribution to the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD.

GRENVILLE KLEISER

This remarkable communication comes from one not a stranger to our readers, as our pages have been brightened on numerous occasions by the varied and exceedingly helpful thoughts that flow from his pen. Mr. Kleiser is an eminent and successful author, and the HERALD is most fortunate in having been used by him as a medium through which to render uplifting service to his fellowmen. This present instance furnishes abundant evidence of the kindness of his heart and the greatness of his generosity.

Almost simultaneously with the receipt by us of this communication, the following letter was delivered to Dr. J. E. Pritchard, Chairman of the HERALD Directing Committee:

Whitakers, N. C., Feb. 5, 1934.

Dr. J. E. Pritchard
Greensboro, N. C.

Dear Mr. Pritchard:

I notice in the HERALD that Dr. McCulloch is in Hospital and having teeth extracted and hope his health will be much improved after he recovers from shock. I don't have vocabulary to express my appreciation of Dr. McCulloch, and what he has done for our church. I am enclosing check for $25.00 that I would like to go to him, and ask that not less than one hundred M. P.'s who feel like inclined add to a fund to help in a small way replace some of the money he has used while giving himself so unstintedly to our church.

With kindest regards, I am very truly,

J. M. CUTCHIN

Unlike Mr. Kleiser, Mr. Cutchin is one of our own number, being a member of our church in the North Carolina Conference. But both are alike in benevolence, and in their spontaneous yielding to the inner urge to give support to an eminently worthy undertaking.

We feel assured that we speak the Editor's heart and mind in expressing profound gratitude for the kindly thought and generous action of these donors.

Substituting for the Editor

When the Editor, Dr. McCulloch, was getting ready to go to the hospital, he said. "If you want to write any editorials, just give them to the printers." Somehow that caused a strange kind of feeling to come over me. For years I have been writing for the HERALD and for other papers but I was always conscious of the fact that there was an editor's eye to pass judgment on it before it reached the public; now that restriction for the time being is removed.

On last Sunday afternoon, I stood with bared head beside the tomb of the Rev. A. W. Lineberry, D.D., in Moriah Church cemetery about three miles out of Greensboro. As I stood there beside the grave of this good man, many things came into my mind. One of these was, Do we appreciate the sacrifices which those who have gone before us have made for us to have that which we enjoy today? When Dr. Lineberry was what many would call an old man, he was my pastor. At that time he was serving Richland Circuit—churches that are grouped around Asheboro. Dr. Lineberry lived at his home about six or seven miles east of Greensboro. On February 11, 1899, if my memory serves me correctly, he boarded a train in Greensboro and went by High Point and on to Asheboro. From Asheboro he went to the home of Ezekiel Hudson about five miles southwest of Asheboro, where he spent Saturday night in order that he might be near New Union Church where he was to preach the next morning. It happened to be the beginning of what the Weather Bureau calls the worst blizzard that ever hit the United States so far as any records go. Snow began falling Saturday afternoon and continued all night Saturday night, all day Sunday and through most of the day Monday, the wind blowing a gale on Monday and the snow drifting to the top of the rail fences. The Weather Bureau says the coldest weather ever recorded in central North Carolina was 16 degrees below zero at Ramseur in Randolph County February 13-14, 1899. Think of this, an old man caught away from home at a time like this! On Sunday morning, February 12th, Dr. Lineberry got up and started to build a fire in his room, had a stroke and lived until Tuesday the 14th, when he went home to glory. The snow was drifted so deeply that the train from Asheboro to High Point could not run. My recollection is that the family did not get there until after he died and perhaps several days later. That was thirty-five years ago. Now, we live, either near the church or have an automobile that will take us there on Sunday morning in ample time for the preaching service. If the snow is deep or the weather unduly rough the minister knows that it is not necessary to go to the church far away. But in the days of yesterday they could not do this. They had to go days in advance in some cases and be ready to preach the gospel.

When I think of these circuit riders of many years ago it makes me almost ashamed of myself. In the first place they were separated from their families for days at a time, and in some cases members of the family back home died while the head of the house was away from home. There were few telegraph and telephone wires to carry the news, and when these soldiers of the Cross left home they simply had to leave their loved ones in the hands of the Lord while they were gone.

Again, these veterans received very little financially for their services. In a great many cases the members of their families were at home making the living while they were away preaching. Of course it did not take as much money to live on then as it does now. If it had, they simply could not have lived. But after all is said, those who have gone before us made sacrifices,—real sacrifices—for the Kingdom, and we are today the beneficiaries of their sacrifices. They preached because they were called of God. They preached because they loved God.

The question comes to us, What can we do to show our appreciation of their services and their sacrifices? If we could get money enough we could build marble shafts to perpetuate their names. We can hold memorial services and extol their virtues, but the best thing that we can do, and the thing that would please them most were they living today, is to carry to completion the work they started, the work that was dear to their heart. Every time we go to Sunday school, or teach a class, or preach a sermon, or sing a hymn, or do anything in the name of Jesus, we are helping to honor the memories of those who have passed on. What they wanted and what they prayed for and labored for was a better world, a more religious and devout people and that should be our desire today.

What I have said so far applies with equal force to any and all denominations. I might go a step further and make this message apply to our own church. They loved the church which they had established and wanted it to succeed. To them it was a good church, the best church on earth, else they would not have sacrificed so much for it. They felt that the church to which they belonged stood for some things that were vital and they felt that they could afford to sacrifice for these things. In our day many people have lost sight of that phase of life. To many people now it is a matter of convenience or of social standing. It is possible that our forefathers went to the extremes in their love for some particular branch of the church, but on the other hand I am wondering if this age is not even more at fault in not loving any church as much as they should.

Anyway, whether those who have gone before us made mistakes or not, there has been committed to us the task of carrying on the work started by them until such time as other systems take the place of those we now have, and the thing for us to do is to carry on to the best of our ability, remembering that what we do for God is never lost and that we, like the Founder of the Church and like the fathers who have walked in His footsteps are laboring to make this a better world.

THE END OF AN EPOCH—AND BEYOND

By Luther K. Long

It is reported that Phillips Brooks once read from his pulpit the account of the deliverance of the Israelites and the destruction of the Egyptians at the crossing of the Red Sea, ending with: "Thus Jehovah saved Israel out of the hands of the Egyptians; and Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea-shore." Looking over his congregation in his inimitable way, the preacher said: "When they saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea-shore, the Israelites realized that they had come to the end of an epoch."

He was right. Egypt, the oppression, and the dead army of their oppressors were behind. Mount Sinai, the wilderness God, and the promised land were ahead. The dread past was gone, not to return, and their faces were set toward the future where lay their hopes. They had come to the end of an epoch.

Speaking as optimists, taking a hopeful view of the situation, we are justified in saying that we have come to the end of an epoch and are facing a New Order. The depression is beaten, the fever is broken, the patient is on the way to recovery. But what is meant by recovery?

To some, recovery means a return of the good old days, the full flesh-pots of Egypt, the restoration of the old system for the benefit of those who can take advantage of special privileges at the expense of the masses. The chances are that such a recovery means that we shall soon again be sliding down the well-greased ways to a deeper depression than we have ever experienced.

To others, recovery implies radical changes in government and industry approaching, at least, Fascism, Hitlerism, or the ways of Soviet Russia.

I heard the Chancellor of a University a few nights ago. He expressed his conviction that, while we are beginning a new epoch, there will not be any material changes. He thought there would not likely be introduced into our government, industry and life any noticeable amount of socialistic theory and practice, communistic theory and practice, or the theory and practice of any other radical group. He hoped for some renewing and elevating of our people, but things would go on very much as they had been doing. This, of course, recognizes the difficulty of getting people to accept fundamental changes; and gives up too readily, I think, changes that should be made.

My own conviction is, that we are moving along four fairly well-defined lines. If we make satisfactory progress, there will be increasing well-being and happiness for all sorts and conditions of men. Otherwise, we may be in for a series of disasters. We should not be afraid of words that have been spoken against. We are safer to understand ideas, and to accept whatever has value.

1. The communistic principle: "From everyone according to his ability, to everyone according to his needs,"' is a good Christian principle. In a family, the property is usually held in common, and administered by the parents in the interest of all. In the early days of the church in Jerusalem, "All that believed were together, and had all things in common; and they sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all, according as any man had need." They were doubtless influenced in this by their mistaken belief that Jesus would soon return in glory. But it was a beautiful and Christian feeling of sharing, and it should have a large part in the New Order. Our public schools, libraries, museums, art galleries, street lighting and paving, and elaborate highways, are, in essence, communistic. What we have may be improved, and others things added.

2. The principle of municipalism should be given a larger place. By municipalism I mean the ownership—at least, the supervision and control—by the municipality, the state, or the nation, of various industries. The Federal Government already owns and operates the postal system, including parcel post, money orders, and postal savings. This is a big business and, on the whole, well conducted. It might be extended by taking over telephone, telegraph, wireless, and express companies. All these, with the exception of express, are parts of communication, and express logically belongs with parcel post. Banking and railroading are being investigated. The Government may have missed a good opportunity last March to nationalize the banks. The railroads must be looked after. Surplus competing lines, unnecessary branches, inconvenient competing city stations—all these should be done away with. The convenience and comfort of the public are first considerations. This may, or may not, lead to nationalizing the railroads.

3. Unemployment insurance, old age pensions, the care of dependent children—these are being pressed now as never before, and should have serious consideration. But when we call to mind the outrageous claims and scandals connected with the relief, hospitalization, and bonuses of ex-service men, we are inclined to be careful. If world war veterans are the cream of our manhood—and they ask what they are asking—what may we expect of the millions of unemployed, and those who come to a propertyless old age? These, together with the amazing numbers of insane, defective, and criminal we are already caring for, will swamp our institutions and become an unbearable drain on our resources. If society is to accept responsibility for the care of all these people, surely it should be granted the right to say something as to who shall be born. Has any one a right to reproduce his kind, when there is evidence that his offspring will be congenitally insane, diseased, or criminal, and that he will not be able to care for them? Sterilization of the unfit is an urgent matter.

4. An increase of personal righteousness is greatly needed among all classes. A man's character, what he really is, is of far more importance than his physical powers and his material possessions. Furthermore, if the community, the city, the state, and the nation are to take an increasingly large part in administering the affairs of the people, there will be a growing list of government officials and employes. The carelessness, inefficiency, and dishonesty of many public servants has been noted. Unless there is a marked increase of moral integrity, our progress toward a satisfactory organization and administration of society will be slow indeed.

This moral improvement is not to be attained by going back to the times and ideals held when people attended church more universally and gave unqualified assent to current religious utterances. We need to get back to the spirit of the Old Testament prophets, the wisdom of the Psalms and the proverbs, the insight into God and man and life possessed by Jesus and the Apostles. Such men as Henry Ward Beecher, Phillips Brooks, Horace Bushnell, and Charles H. Parkhurst had the ability to discern the signs of the times and the will of God. Our ministers today need to develop that same ability. God is with us still, the source of wisdom and power.

OF COURSE YOU CAN!

By Grenville Kleiser

Today you have golden opportunities to do greater and better work than ever before; to advance yourself through earnest effort to worthy success. The power for real achievement is within you. Where you are now is the place to do your best work and to translate your good intentions into actual deeds. You can do it. Of course you can!

Success depends chiefly upon the kind and quality of your thoughts and the habitual way in which you think about yourself, and your work. Realize forcefully your God-given powers, unlimited abilities, and capacity for large development. Resolve to make the most of present opportunities.

To the man of confidence and courage, difficulties serve only to stimulate and enlist the highest efforts of which he is capable. However formidable a task may seem to you, apply yourself to it with unflagging diligence. Your physical and mental powers grow most rapidly in the exercise of adequately laborious tasks. One of the rewards of achievement is that it lights the way to something still greater.

Set before yourself a great life purpose. Devote your best energies to its accomplishment. Make it the one definite aim of your daily life. Be enthusiastic about it. The great things of the world are done by men who specialize and concentrate. You must plan and plow and persevere in order to win reward and renown.

You can do it,
Of course you can;
Face your problem
Like a man.

You can do it,
Try your best;
Show you're equal
To the test.

You can do it,
Be a man;
Prove you're master,
Of course you can!

CENTRAL PASTORS' FEDERATION

Dr. Andrews has already given notice that the Central Pastors' Federation is to meet in Calvary Church on February 19. This notice is to say that the women of the church will serve a baked chicken dinner that day without dessert for the small sum of twenty-five cents, and with dessert for thirty-five cents. If pastors want to bring their wives along, do so. And if possible let pastors bring some laymen along, for the things that will be said will be good for laymen as well as ministers.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY ORDERS

To date we have filled orders as follows: Maryland 70, North Carolina 53, Ohio 38, Pittsburgh 25, Eastern 18, West Virginia 14, Indiana 14, Onondaga 8, Iowa-Missouri 7, Ft. Smith-Oklahoma 9, Mississippi 5, Michigan 11, Missouri 8, Louisiana 9, Georgia 6, Arkansas 3, Texas 8, Kansas 7, Alabama 11, Kentucky 2, Washington Mission 1, Illinois 5, Texhoma 2, Colored Conferences 5; total, 339.

One of the most significant things about these orders is the fact that not only the larger conferences are continuing to place heavy orders, but the day is gaining in popularity among all the smaller conferences. This, no doubt, is due to the contact we have with the young people during the summertime.

Please let us have a report of the day observed in your church and forward your offering to the Treasurer of your Annual Conference and mark it Young People's Day Offering. It counts on the General Budget of your local church.

F. L. GIBBS.

—"Give the Bible to the people, unadulterated, pure, unaltered, unexplained, uncheapened, and then see it work through the whole nature. It is very difficult indeed for a man or boy who knows the Scripture ever to get away from it. It follows him like the memory of his mother. It haunts him like an old song. It reminds him like the word of an old and revered teacher. It forms a part of the warp and woof of his life."—Woodrow Wilson.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Finishing the January Assessment

I wish all pastors would use this month to complete the task of raising the Church Extension and any arrears on Annual Conference expense budgets. It will be so much better to keep up with our assessments than to allow them to get far behind. Better for the interests which are to be served and better for the churches which pay up as they go along.

Make It One Hundred Per Cent

All pastors are receiving a letter from Dr. Shipley asking that they accept a certain number of Recorders in block subscription during March and April. The allotment by the Executive Committee for our Conference is 400. It should be easy for us to sell that number of papers; and we need to do it. Of course we need the HERALD; it is invaluable as an aid to our Conference enterprises, but we also need the Recorder. All our families should have a copy of it in their homes; and this is a fine way to introduce it to them. Five cents a week for nine weeks would give them a good chance to become acquainted with it.

The Central Pastors' Federation

Lest you forget the date and place, this is to remind you that we meet on February 19th, 10:30 a.m., at Calvary church. Are you going? Yes; we shall expect to see you. We want our laymen and laywomen also. Dr. Pritchard will most likely publish in the HERALD the price of the lunch, the program has already been announced, and all that is needed is that you be present and participate in the meeting.

Paid Up Claim to Date

Below we are listing churches which the pastors have reported to us that certain claims are paid to date. The Conference Treasurer may publish a list which would include partial payments, but only when the total amount assessed has been paid is the church listed here:

ANNUAL CONFERENCE EXPENSE BUDGET

Whitakers; St. Paul; First church, Asheboro. Three churches out of a possible fifteen charges. Of course other charges will pay their claims, but this makes a very bad showing.

CHURCH EXTENSION

Draper, West End, Thomasville, Community church; Richland circuit, Charlotte church, New Union; Julian, Tabernacle circuit. Of course, many have doubtless paid the amounts in full but have not reported to me. We want to have a complete list in the HERALD next week. Let us give you credit for what you have done. Do not hold funds when paid in, send direct to Treasurer J. H. Allen, Reidsville.

Pastor Surratt of Community also reports College assessment paid, and $25.00 raised by Young People's program.

Pastors' Report Blanks Mailed

I am sending out blanks for pastors to report the results of the first quarter which ends February 14th. I would greatly appreciate it if these should give the detailed information desired, in so far as pastors can give it. Use an extra sheet to list achievements which have no place on the sheet sent you. Mail it after next Sunday.

Remember . . . .

We are using February to clean up all unpaid assessments to date. There will be an interest assigned for March, so let's get out of the way Annual Conference expense claims and Church Extension, with others, so we shall be ready to give our full attention to the next claim when it is presented.

Richland Circuit, Rev. R. L. Hethcox, Pastor

I visited two churches on this charge last Sunday,—Charlotte and New Union. I was unable to visit these churches last year. I found the Sunday school at both places busily engaged in the study of the lesson when I reached the churches. We were at Charlotte at the morning service. Charlotte has found the use of curtains to separate the classes in the one-room church to make the class work more effective. It is a good device where there are not class rooms. This church is on a state highway and in a good community. We are not sure as to its numerical strength, but it ought to be a real power there.

New Union is also on a state highway, No. 62, and easily accessible. I was pleased to see the attendance at the services of both churches. It indicated interest. Both these churches have members that live in Asheboro but hold their church interest in the country. Brother Hethcox is serving his first year on this charge. He is taking hold of the situation wisely, making plans for increased efficiency here and there, and if he is given the co-operation of his members he will do a fine piece of work on Richland.

The parsonage is being overhauled. Different churches are becoming responsible for painting and furnishing a room. Already the kitchen has received treatment from them and is the best looking room in the house, but this will be rivaled by the work of some other church on another room in the near future, doubtless. R. M. ANDREWS.

A BAD RECOMMENDATION

A young man desiring to get a situation as apprentice in a certain business, recently entered a store with a cigar in his mouth and expressed his wish to the proprietor. The gentleman looked at him a little and then said: "I could easily give you a situation here but you carry in your mouth a bad recommendation.

"I never saw any harm in smoking," the young man said, "almost everybody smokes."

"My young friend," the old gentleman answered, "I am sorry that I must tell you I cannot take you. If you have money enough to smoke cigars, you will not care to work as an apprentice; and if you have no money your desire for cigars may lead you to steal it. No young man that smokes finds a place in my business."—The Little Christian.

ABOUT PAPERS AND PASTORS

While there is so much talk about the paper, I feel like making a little confession and telling why I am a Methodist Protestant today. Never having heard the name until after I was married, environment made me one in the first place. But an interested pastor and the Methodist Protestant Herald made me one for all time. Every drop of blood in me is Baptist, and when I moved out of a Methodist Protestant community into a Baptist one, it would have been so easy to turn back to the church of my childhood. I had dropped the church paper and was fast losing interest—when something happened. Rev. J. Clyde Auman was my pastor before he went to the Seminary and to Japan, and during a visit in my home he learned I was not taking the paper, and asked me to renew. He thought he had failed, but the renewal went to him by mail. He did not know how my loyalty to the M. P. church was wavering. I hardly knew it myself then, but I see now that I was standing at the forks of the Baptist and Methodist roads. And, if J. Clyde Auman had sidestepped his duty that one time instead of reaching out a helping hand, I very much doubt if I should be in the M. P. church today.

And my interest in missions was renewed in almost the same way by the Missionary Record. I had almost forgotten there was such a thing as missions when Rev. H. F. Surratt gave me a copy. He was never my pastor, but he stepped across the Orange charge line and restored my faith and changed my whole outlook on missions. Now, just suppose Freo Surratt had stayed on his own side of the fence (it is not very high): I wonder what my attitude would be today on missions. Two very small paper incidents, you might say.

Pastors cannot always tell what the results will be, and they should never miss an opportunity when in the homes of the people to work for the church paper. Not only for the sake of the paper, but for the influence it might have on the members. He cannot shy around these responsibilities and be true to the church he is serving.

And now, just a few words in regard to those visiting ex-pastors and I will leave, but don't promise to stay gone. I don't quite agree with Brother Andrews that our ex-pastors should get out, stay out, leave and never come back. I cannot see where they would do any more damage to the pastor there than eat the chicken he might eat, but usually there are two chickens. Of course, some ex-pastors could try and undermine the influence of his successor, but I have never come in contact with any such preachers. Or, the present pastor might have a little jealous streak in him, but I have never seen one of that kind. So I believe both species are rather scarce. I am hoping that some of my best friends are among my ex-pastors, and I would be sorry to think they would be censured by the President if they visited me. And now, just between me and all my ex-pastors, I will say that if J. Clyde Auman wants to drive out and spend the day with me, or Brother Isley or T. J. Whitehead, or any of the others want to drop in and see how the chickens are getting along, we will not say a word to "Father Andrews" about it. And I don't believe it would worry Pastor Loy one bit if they should all come. My pastor always holds a place all his own, and no ex-pastor can fill it. But he can and does fill the ex-pastor's place. If I am a little "dictatorial," just remember that my father was half-Andrews and my mother was half-Andrews—how much am I? Baptist blood and Andrews blood all mixed up.

Mrs. J. J. Crawford.

CANNON LEADS ATTACK

"Millions of supporters and well-wishers of President Roosevelt will regret the decision that intoxicating liquors shall again, after the lapse of over fifteen years, be served publicly at the White House.

"It is true that a discrimination is made between distilled liquor and wine but it cannot be ignored, that wine contains twelve or more per cent of alcohol and that wine was the cause of drunkenness of antiquity when the process of distillation was unknown. (Belshazzar's revel was a wine revel and as school children we were taught that Alexander the Great died at the age of thirty-three from drinking too much wine.)

"It is to be feared that this discrimination between wine and distilled liquor will be considered to be an intimation that wine is not harmful or intoxicating, whereas it contains far more alcohol than beer, and some wines as much alcohol as some distilled liquors, and that alcohol, whether in wine or distilled liquors, is a narcotic poison and a habit-forming drug. Millions will regret that alcohol will again be served at the White House."—Statement of Bishop Cannon reported by the Associated Press in The Baltimore Sun.

NORTH CAROLINA IN A WASHINGTON CONCERT

It is worthy of note that North Carolina is becoming conscious of something beyond its cotton and tobacco products. The scenery and good roads of the state have been for some time recognized as attractive features. Just now, education and the cultural arts are giving signs of coming into their own.

January 31 there was given in Constitution Hall, here in Washington, a North Carolina State Concert. The purpose was to call attention to artists of ability from that great state, and to promote culture.

Those who took part were Edouard Albion, teacher and concert baritone; Elizabeth Marshall Mauney, coloratura soprano, who made her first concert appearance outside of North Carolina; and Leslie P. Spelman, an outstanding organist. Mr. Spelman is the director of music in Meredith College, at Raleigh, N. C. I am not sure as to the connections of Mr. Albion and Miss Mauney. George H. Wilson accompanied the singers on the piano.

Mr. Albion, who was the organizer and president of the National Opera, hopes to make these concerts—each state giving one—an annual affair. L. K. L.

—The condition of Dr. McCulloch, Editor of the Herald, continues to be very satisfactory. He has for some time been confined to the Clinic Hospital, Greensboro, for the extraction of teeth. The trying ordeal has been completed, and he hopes to be able to return to his home the latter part of this week. He has held up remarkably well for one of his age, and the many evidences of interest and concern on the part of friends have been of inestimable value.

KEEP UP YOUR COURAGE

By Grenville Kleiser

In these days of severe trial and readjustment, fortify your courage with new and stronger resolve. Determine to go forward with increased confidence and high expectation. Be faithful to your obligations, and discharge every duty with unflinching promptitude. Be alert to fresh opportunities now available to you. Stimulate your mind with clear, strong, uplifting ideas of what you wish to accomplish, and realize the immense powers and resources at your personal command. Make this day mark a distinct and important advance in your progress toward a great life ideal.

It is wonderful how even little daily victories over inertia, weakness, uncertainty, and depression, contribute ultimately to a successful life. The practice of rising above petty discouragements and seeming obstacles soon develops a habit of self-confidence equal to any undertaking. Work was never intended to be drudgery, but a source of pleasure and a stimulus to worthy achievement. Life is not a treadmill, a jail, or a place of punishment, but a beautiful and fascinating field of endeavor, with inspiring horizons of newer and greater fields beckoning ever onward. Work, opportunity, effort, and service are blessings to enrich life and make it truly worth living. Blessed is the man who does his work joyously.

Rely upon your own resources. You have within yourself all the power necessary for a useful and successful life. Pluck and perseverance are the hand servants of prosperity. Difficulties are for discipline. Problems promote progress. Right results and rewards come from indefatigable labor. Apply the abilities you now have and your powers will develop in the use. You are now living in a time of wonderful opportunity, with practically no limit to your possibilities of growth and usefulness. Mighty influences within and without are at your command. Decide for yourself what you will do with these resources, and whether you will work to attain a place among the successful men of your day.

Your are building better than you realize. When things appear to be going the wrong way, they may be shaping themselves for the best results. A temporary disappointment is often a blessing in disguise. Seeming failure has many a time proved a stepping-stone to real success. Every trial, temptation, mistake, and apparent failure can be made to serve a useful purpose. Turn such experiences to practical advantage. Your best guides and teachers are often those very disappointments which stimulate to better self-management. Meditate deeply upon a difficult problem, and the solution will often unfold itself. There is no such thing as failure to one of courageous purpose.

What you do with your present chances and abilities, you will be likely to do with larger powers in time to come. Prove the greatness of the qualities within you, be earnest and enthusiastic in your effort today. Procrastination is not only the thief of time, but of ambition, initiative, and courage. Do not mislead yourself into believing that under other circumstances, or in different environment, you could and would do better. In your present position you can prove your greatness of character. Where you are at this moment is the place to begin your best work and to translate your good intentions into actual deeds. Despite trial or hardship, loss or disappointment, keep up your courage.

Work on! Though mists obscure
The steep and rugged way,
And clouds of fear beset,
Soon dawns the brighter day.

Keep on! Though hours be long,
And days deep-fraught with woe,
Let patience have her perfect work,
And vanquish every foe.

Hope on! Though all seems lost
And storms beat high,
Have faith! Be still and know
That God is nigh.

HOW MUCH DOES IT MEAN TO YOU?

Times are hard, but who of us has begun to put into the cause we profess to love better than life what Jesus Christ put into it? Jesus spent all that He had and all that He was in His movement. Kagawa, in The Religion of Jesus, tells about a labor union man who pawned all his clothes to raise money for the Union, and when more was needed was ready even to sell the mats covering the floor of his house to help along a strike that was then in process. When Christians become dead enough in earnest to promote Christianity that they are willing to sell their floor rugs, the church will begin to have power.

This was the kind of religion the members of the First Church in Jerusalem had. There was a certain man named Joseph, of Cyprus, who had a farm. He sold it and brought the price thereof and laid it down at the Apostles' feet. That man had faith enough in the new religion to invest all that he had in it. No wonder that such a man soon became known far and wide as "The Son of Consolation." He kept on pouring out his life for others as long as he lived. When church members think enough of their religion to invest their lives in it, it will begin to move forward to the conquest of the world.—The C. U. Herald.

OUR STORY PAGE

A BAG OF POTATOES

When Rosalie came down to breakfast that morning, there was a big bag of potatoes on the kitchen floor.

"Dear me," said Rosalie's mother. "I am sure I don't know how I'm going to get those potatoes out into the storeroom, for they are so heavy that I cannot lift them!"

"But Daddy can carry them," suggested Rasalie.

Her mother shook her head.

"No," she replied, "your father was called away this morning on important business, and will be gone a couple of days. He went before you were up. Well, I'll have to try and manage some way or other, for they are right in the way here."

Then Mrs. Barrie went upstairs to make the beds.

Rosalie looked at those potatoes thoughtfully. She wished she could lift them, but that was out of the question. She went out into the storeroom and there she saw a big bushel basket.

Rosalie suddenly got an idea. She hurried back to the kitchen and got an empty basin. Next she untied the bag and filled the basin with potatoes. It held ten. Then she started trips back and forth between the bag and the basket.

There were times when Rosalie's arms ached, for it took a good many trips before the bag was empty, but such a thing as stopping never occurred to her.

When every potato was in place, she folded the empty bag up neatly and put it on a bench in the storeroom, and with her own little broom and dust-pan, swept up any litter which moving the potatoes had made; for Rosalie, you see, had learned to pick up after herself, and not to leave that for someone else to do.

She had just finished her self-appointed task when her mother came down, and Rosalie waited to see what she would say.

"Well, I do declare," exclaimed Mrs. Barrie, "what has become of those potatoes?"

"There they are," she pointed out, "and I bringed them myself in the gray basin!"

"It must have taken a great many trips," said her mother admiringly.

"It did," beamed Rosalie, "but I didn't mind because I was helping you."

"That's splendid," approved her mother, "and it shows us how much we can do when we are satisfied to do a little at a time and to work right away at it until the task is finished."

"And then," nodded Rosalie wisely, "it's fun to fink about it."

And Rosalie went out to play, very happy indeed.—The Evangelical-Messenger.

THERE ARE TWO OF US

Some one tells a story of a boy whom some older boys were trying to compel to join them in a mean act.

"I can't do it," he said.

"What's the reason you can't? You will have to, I tell you. We are going to make you do it whether you want to or not. We are all of us against you, and how are you going to help yourself?"

The boy looked at the other a moment and said, "I can't do it; it's wrong, it's mean, and I won't do it. I am not as much alone as you think I am, either. There are two of us, and the other One has always been more than a match for all that have come against Him."

"Two of you," sneered the other boy, "and where's your partner, I'd like to know? Why doesn't he show up? Much help you'll get from him! You'll be used up before he comes."

"No, I shall not," answered the other boy quietly, "for He is here now. It is just as I told you; there are two of us, and the other One is—God."

The leader of the rough boys was startled. He looked for a moment into the determined face of the little fellow before him, and then, casting a sheepish glance at his companions around him, he said, "Come on, fellows, let him alone. There is no use fooling with such a chap as that." And away they went.—Publisher Unknown.

WHAT GRETA COULD DO

Greta was only six years old, and very small for her age. When she came into the Sunday school she wished very much to "do something for Jesus." "Only I'm so little," she sighed, "and there isn't anything I can do."

"Tut!" said grandfather, who had overheard. "Who opens my paper and finds my spectacles and brings my book from the library table?"

"And who puts the ribbon in my cap and gives puss his saucer of milk?" added grandmother.

"Who is the little girl that carries my slippers and rolls my chair up nearer the fire?" asked father.

"I know some one who can do errands as nicely as any one," said mother.

"Every little task that we do willingly makes the Lord Jesus glad in heaven," finished grandfather, patting Greta's brown curls.—Jewels.

SOMETHING TO LIVE FOR

Leland Stanford lost his only child. Though he was United States Senator from California, he said to himself, "I have nothing to live for. I have no children." He put a million dollars into a private home, but it was not a home to him.

One night he had a dream. In this dream his son appeared to him and said:

"Father, never say again that you have nothing to live for—live for humanity, live for other people's children."

There soon arose at Palo Alta the Leland Stanford Junior University at a cost of $20,000,000. He and Mrs. Stanford became the devoted servants of the poor, the orphan and the suffering, and left all their property to go on doing good to the rising generation.—From the Stewardship Spokesman.

Woman's Missionary Department

NOTICE OF DISTRICT MEETING

The meeting of the Women's Work of the third district will be held in Mebane M. P. church Saturday, February 10, beginning at 10:30.

Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president Woman's Work, and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, state district chairman, will both be on the program. Be sure your church and auxiliary are represented. Pastors are urged to be present.

The following charges belong in the district: Mebane, Alamance, Orange, Mt. Hermon, and Saxapahaw.

MRS. H. A. GARRETT,
Chairman Third District.

FEBRUARY, THANK-OFFERING MONTH

We hope your Auxiliary is aready making preparations to observe one day this month. The committee has prepared several programs for your use. "Color Blind" is the suggested pageant and a worship service has been planned to accompany this pageant. A missionary sermon has been prepared by Dr. J. C. Broomfield for use by those churches who would like to use something of this nature, and feel that it would be impossible to produce the pageant.

You will also find in the February number of the Missionary Record an article on "Special Objects of Missionary Support," salaries of missionaries, Bible Women, student scholarships will be listed in this article. Make frequent use of it to create an interest in the missionary program of our denomination. Remember that the offering is a credit on your apportionment for world service, and inasmuch as your church gets credit on its annual conference budget as well as general conference budget, certainly you will want to make the most of your opportunity on this day. Two copies of the pageant, "Color Blind," free to each auxiliary with worship service. Order pageants and program material from Miss Bettie S. Brittingham, 516 N. Charles St., Baltimore, Md.

Let's make February mean much to our auxiliaries, and much to our denomination in North Carolina, as we seek to observe one day, beginning with the Sunday school children, using the beautiful service of worship suggested. (Be sure to ask Miss Brittingham to include it in your order.) Then in each department or class, explaining to the group the meaning of Thank-Offering, the use and needs of the money received. (This offering goes to Board of Missions.) Ask them to make an offering, to be presented at the public service, when a candle may be lighted for each auxiliary, circle, department, class and individual offering as they are brought forward, amount announced by the bearer. Then a general offering will be received from the audience by the ushers or designated persons of the auxiliaries. The candle-lighting with offerings can come at the close of the pageant as heretofore. It is well for each auxiliary to set a goal, a certain amount to raise, then work to that end.

If you can use envelopes or boxes, write me how many and I will be glad to send them.

Your Thank-Offering Secretary,
MRS. J. W. BOYLES.
Thomasville, N. C.

NOTICE

I feel that a word of information relieves us of much worry, and many times much suffering, so I felt that if the many friends of Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Laughlin knew their condition they would be glad to do anything they could to relieve them. Sister Laughlin is confined to her bed and perhaps will never be very stout again. Brother Laughlin is very feeble and has no way of making support to keep the wolf from the door. Brother Laughlin has never had a circuit, but has preached the gospel all over the state, and has been a strong supporter of our church. Mrs. Trogdon and myself visited them a few days ago, and seeing their needs, I just felt that if their friends just knew how a few dollars would lighten their burdens, I feel you will be glad to send your mite, knowing that you could not give to a more worthy cause and more worthy people. I am sure no one would appreciate it more than Brother and Sister Laughlin. I am just saying this as a brother and a friend, hoping that it may bring comfort and joy to them from their friends.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—We are proud to say our Sunday school has started off the first month of the year splendidly, in interest and attendance. We hope to keep up the good work the whole year. On last third Sunday in spite of the bad weather and freshly-worked roads we had 124 for Sunday school. We are in better hopes each day, hoping to get Sunday school rooms. Almost every class in Sunday school is following the example of the Willing Workers' class and working to get means to put on the rooms.

Last Sunday night the president of the Christian Endeavor Society had asked Mr. L. H. Mayfield, of Greer, to have charge of the service. Mr. Palmer Leonard, a young man formerly of this place, who is now studying for the ministry, made a short talk. Special singing by Mr. John Brown, L. C. Pearson and Mr. L. H. Mayfield. Although Mr. Mayfield was converted only nine months ago he is now studying for the ministry. He preached one of the most soul-stirring sermons, using for his Scripture the Ten Virgins. Nine young people accepted Christ as their Savior. The service was one of exceptional value, we believe, to everyone present.

We want the prayers of all Christian people that we, as church, Sunday school, and Christion Endeavor, may be shining lights for the Kingdom of God. REPORTER.

Flat Rock Charge.—We have had fairly good attendance at all services for the past two Sundays. The churches have been contributing to the apportionment for Church extension during January and we are continuing our efforts to complete the entire amount during February. Every church on the charge has paid to the cause. We have also put forth efforts for subscriptions to The Methodist Protestant Herald and now have eight to our credit. We shall continue our efforts for the Herald during the year.

The pastor was at Bethel church for the regular appointment at 11 o'clock last Sunday. Owing to sickness and the fact that some of the people have moved away from the community, we did not have as many present as usual. A beautiful duet was rendered during the service by Mrs. Holt and Mrs. R. C. Gordon.

The service at Gideon's Grove at 3 o'clock was conducted by Rev. Paul C. Southard, of Stokesdale, minister of the Disciples of Christ church, in the absence of the pastor, who was called to Harmony Grove church, West Forsyth charge, to assist in the funeral service of Mrs. J. E. Jarvis. The deceased was a faithful member of Harmony Grove church and a regular attendant during the five-year pastorate of the writer. Mrs. Jarvis occupies the first grave in the new cemetery started at Harmony Grove church.

The writer was shocked to learn of the sudden death of Bro. John B. Phillips, leading member of Baltimore church, which occurred at an early hour last Sunday morning. He was regarded as the lay leader of Baltimore church for a number of years. We were called upon to assist in the funeral services on Tuesday morning.

The pastor and family have been remembered constantly by members of the different churches with gifts for our pantry and dining table. Those who have either brought gifts to the parsonage or given them to the pastor during his visits to the homes are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. John Wray, Mr. and Mrs. Holly Johnson, Mr. Sidney Parrish, of Flat Rock church; Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Humphries, of Bethany church; Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Combs and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pegram, of Bethel church; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lemmons, of Gideon's Grove church. Besides these, others have left gifts at the parsonage during the absence of the pastor and family, the names of whom we have not learned. We are indeed thankful for all these gifts and also we appreciate the gift of stove-wood in the amount of two truckloads, given by Mr. McGee and the use of a truck with which to haul the wood, provided by the Simpson Brothers garage. All of these kind remembrances are deeply appreciated.

Our appointment for next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock will be at Gideon's Grove. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon we will be at Flat Rock church for the regular appointment there. Rev. B. A. Culp, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Winston-Salem, and evangelist of the Blue Ridge-Atlantic Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be with us and preach the sermon. We hope to have a large congregation present. C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Bessemer City.—We had services again at 7 o'clock February 4, with a very good congregation. Rev. J. D. Cranford, our pastor, delivered a wonderful and inspiring sermon. His subject was "The More Excellent Way."

Our church is doing very well in general at present, although there is much needed work to be accomplished.

The Christian Endeaevor Society meets every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening.

Remember us in your prayers that we may go forward in the work for the Master.

"Come, Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove,
In all Thy quick'ning powers;
Kindle a flame of sacred love
In these cold hearts of ours."

Pastor Mabry preached an inspiring sermon Sunday. The theme of the sermon was, "A Message to the Christian Church." Live so that God and man can see your Christian life. "Am I my brother's keeper?" Our conduct is influenced by the way we think. When we become puzzled over our lives we go to Jesus Christ. We want a closer fellowship with God. Do you have that religious certainty? Do you know that you are investing your time, money and self in something that will advance the kingdom of God. We want to help people socially: when we pray we must help answer our prayers. We want to apply the teaching of Jesus Christ to all of our life. It is pleasant to do that which is right and torment to do the wrong. The sin sickness of the world can not be cured by words, but by the spiritual teaching of God. The wind of Pentecost is blowing in this land of ours. We must bring God closer to our own lives. We have suffered because we did not "take it to the Lord in prayer." Find time to pray. Be a walking disciple of Jesus Christ in whatever your occupation may be. Be a power for righteousness. What we need most is a reconsecration of our own lives to Jesus Christ. Use the teachings of Jesus Christ in your home and daily life and never direct the lives of others while you are in a fit of temper.

We are sure the sermon was enjoyed by those present.

We are glad to know that Mrs. Mabry continues to improve. We trust that she will soon recover. REPORTER.

Draper.—We are very glad to report that the Sunday schol and Young People's C. E. Society are progressing, even though we are having very bad weather. New members are being welcomed by both the Sunday school and the C. E. each Sunday. A very interesting program was given in our C. E. Sunday night; every one present enjoyed it.

We are very sorry to report the death of one of our members. Bro. Frank Frazier, one of the younger member of the church, was called into the Great Beyond last Tuesday, January 30. He had been ill a very long time and death came to ease his tortured body.

Mrs. Jack Wyatt is very ill at her home on Maryland avenue. Hurry up and recover, Leona, we all want you back at Sunday school and C. E.

All the members of the Sunday school, church and C. E. Society would like to see a report from Rev. R. L. Vickery's church. We all hope he and his family are enjoying the work at his church. We miss him very much.

Rev. L. S. Helms seems to be enjoying his work here. We have never heard him complain and we hope that he does enjoy it.

Best wishes for all pastors and their churches and for the Herald. May it always be in "the service of the King."

EDNA RIDDLE,
BEA SMITH,

Shiloh.—The work at Shiloh is going along very well, although the measles and other sickness is keeping lots of our people away from church. Today there were only 202 at Sunday school.

Our pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge, brought to us an interesting message, using for his text, "There is a lad." He said, "The home is the foundation of the lad," and what are parents training in the home? Whatever the father does the lad tries also. Fathers, set high ideals for the youth to follow. He stated that the parents' problems are much greater than in olden days. Today modern conveniences make the lad's circle much larger and he is faced by more worldly surroundings. "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." Train for Christ, was his plea. The world is making the way clear for the youth. But Christ makes the way clear by the spiritual eye. Remember, lad, "Whatsoever ye sow, that shall ye also reap." Parents, be sure that the seed sown are good ones. Mr. Ridge closed by saying, "Let us save the lad."

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock the young people gave an interesting program on "Young People's Work and Part in the Christian World," this honoring Dr. C. E. Forlines. The program consisted of talks, readings and special music.

The collection, which was used for World service, amounted to $7.85.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—Our pastor brought us a fine sermon Sunday, using as his main thought, "Am I my brother's keeper?" In his message he plainly pointed out that we are our brother's keeper. One of the greatest drawbacks in religion today is that we are so self-centered that we forget those round about us. If we Christian people want to find the utmost joy in Christian living we must lose ourselves in the thought of our fellowmen.

We are looking forward to having Mrs. Hammer and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson with us Sunday afternoon and speak to us in the interest of our Auxiliary. We plan to hold our thank-offering program the first Sunday in March. We will observe young people's day some time soon.

I am sorry to report that a large number of our people are sick. Mrs. Loy Roberson is very ill; hope that she and the others may speedily recover their health and be able to take their rightful place in the church and community.

Very glad indeed to see Mrs. A. N. Roberson back in her place at church after being in the hospital for some time. Mrs. T. H. Moore is still improving; hope she will soon be able to be back in church.

Our community was made sad last week by the passing of two of our young people: Arthur Andrews and Mint Guthrie. It seems sad that they should be called when just in the prime of life, but God knows best for He never makes mistakes. Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the bereaved ones and may they so live that they will be prepared when they shall be called.

We shall miss Mrs. Andrews and daughter, Ruby, as they have gone to make their home in Burlington until spring, then will go to Raleigh. Ruby was a member of our Sunday school. BESSIE COBLE.

Halifax Charge.—We held our first quarterly conference at Ringwood church about the middle of January, which was attended well by the officials of the circuit. The business was transacted in a very orderly manner. Each person present seemed to have a progressive mind, and was willing to co-operate in any plans for the betterment of our charge and the advancement of Kingdom service.

Pastor's salary was pro-rated to the different churches on a percentage basis. We did not accept any definite amount of the conference claims, but we are going to do our best to raise all we can. Halifax charge always tries to do its part.

This quarterly conference voted to make some needful repairs on the parsonage, also to buy a range for the kitchen. The Ladies' Auxiliaries of Eden and Bethesda had already bought window curtains and shades, a rug for the kitchen floor, and paint for the kitchen, which cost about $18.00.

The pastor and family appreciates very much the much-manifested willingness of the people to do all they can to make the parsonage a more desirable place for them to live.

Since our last report we have received two more poundings. One each from Hollister and Union churches. These poundings were ample proof of the generosity of the good people of both churches. We received many good things to eat. In fact we have bought few groceries since we moved to the parsonage. These gifts have been a great help to the pastor and family, and we can never express in words just how much we appreciate this kindness on the part of our people.

The second Sunday in February there will be held at Bethesda a Thank Offering service. A special program is being prepared for the occasion. This is sponsored by the ladies of the church. There will be also a special service for our young people sometime soon. The date will be announced later.

There will be a special service for young people held at Eden church on the third Sunday in February at 3:00 p. m. An address will be delivered by Rev. E. O. Peeler, pastor of Enfield M. P. church. All are invited to come, and especially do we urge young people of the surrounding communities to come. A special offering will be taken for the support of the General Conference budget.

Will close this report by saying that we see no cause for discouragement on our charge, and that we are expecting some worthy accomplishments on Halifax Circuit before the conference year shall end. O. C. LOY.

Mt. Hermon Charge.—Last Sunday was a remarkably good day for us here on this charge. At Friendship for the morning service we had a splendid congregation. They gave prayerful attention to the morning message. The Sunday school at this place is making forward steps under the leadership of the new superintendent, Mr. K. G. Holt. Mr. Holt is a fine, energetic young man and will render unselfish service to his church in every way possible. The Sunday school has been under the efficient leadership of our good brother, Mr. T. F. Overman. He was untiring in his efforts in behalf of his Sunday school and church. The church owes him much in appreciation for this noble service.

At Mt. Hermon for the afternoon service there was a full house for Sunday school and also for the preaching service. All the organizations of the churches are functioning normally so far as I am able to observe. The ladies of the Belmont church have now completed an Auxiliary, which we have felt there was a great need for all the while we have been on this work. It is hoped that we will be able to complete a similar organization at Cedar Cliff ere long and then all four of the churches will have an active Auxiliary. All of the churches have observed, or will observe, Young People's Day in some form.

Words fail us to express our great appreciation for the many kind deeds on the part of the churches, organizations of the churches and individuals, for the many deeds of kindness and many useful gifts during the recent illness of Mrs. Mabry. She is practically well again and can see to her household duties. All the churches remembered her and the several needs of the parsonage during the Christmas holidays.

There are other things of interest, but I am sure that the reporters will have something to say concerning them. We expect to go a long way toward reaching all our obligations to the Herald this Conference year. The paper has been introduced to many new people and they speak in highest praise of it.

Friendship Station.—The first quarterly conference was held February 3, with several of the officials present to help transact the business of the church. The spirit of cooperation was manifest, and the conference was helpful.

The people here have been kind to us since we came among them, and we sincerely appreciate it. We are hoping and praying that this church, and all other churches in our conference may have a year of enriched spiritual life, and a larger part in the extension of tho Kingdom of Christ.

God bless every pastor and every member.

A. D. SHELTON.

Midway Church.—Our pastor, Bro. Hutton, was sufficiently recovered from a recent attack of flu to ably fill his appointment today.

Our church can report some favorable progress even in this discouraging time. The Sunday school is having an unusually large membership for this time of year. The choir has benefited by singing lessons; a class is starting again this week.

The Girls' Junior Missionary Society elected new members in January meeting and is entering the new year's work with much enthusiasm. They plan to concentrate part of their efforts to helping children at the Children's Home.

The Ladies' Aid is perhaps the hardest working branch of our church. Their financial aid to church has been real help, and their interest and enthusiasm are real assets.

The Christian Endeavor Society is composed of all the young folks who find pleasure in the training they are getting in church leadership.

MRS. LEO PALMER, Reporter.

Spring Hill Church.—We were glad to see several visitors Sunday afternoon for Sunday school and preaching. Pastor Grant's subject was "The Parable of the Prodigal Son," Jesus' foremost parable. First, the son was given his share of the riches and he goes out in the world to have a good time. As he journeys farther into sin his worldly friends grow in number. As his money dwindles, so do his friends, and we find him in want. Then he comes to himself. This is considered the most important part of one's life. Many people today have not come to themselves, but are taking a chance with life. God is good, and blesses us more than we know. In God's care we will not perish, but if we're in sin sometime we will perish. The wages of sin is death, but the Gift of God is eternal life through Christ Jesus. Third, the Prodigal Son comes to his sense of need, and starts back to the old home. He is willing to come back and work as a slave. The older brother is grumbling because he is jealous of the younger one. Sometimes we are like the older brother, standing in the way of others to come to Jesus. The spirit of God is not with us when we do a thing like that. It should be our aim to help someone back into the fold. If we should stray, there is no use giving up because there is still hope. Our prayer and desire is to live closer to Him every day.

At this time William Hayworth was elected as an usher, making a total of four.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Virgil Swain. The president has a project she wishes to put before the society and would like to have every member present.

As we have some money left in the church treasury it was voted that we use it to try to finish the basement. Thursday afternoon the men will start this work by hauling sand and rock.

We are glad to state that Spring Hill's part of the parsonage debt at the present has been paid.

Rev. and Mrs. Grant and children were the guests Sunday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Sam L. York and family.

We will observe Young People's Day the fourth Sunday of this month by having a program Sunday morning beginning at 10 o'clock. In the evening at 6 o'clock the C. E. will give a play entitled "The Saving of Wearyworld." It is our desire to have a large crowd out for the morning and evening services.

We are sorry to learn that Misses Catherine Sink, Myrtle Byerly and Stasie Hilton are confined to their homes with sickness. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

Caroleen.—The C. E. Society of the M. P. church of Caroleen are doing fine. We have 54 on roll and about $4.00 in the treasury. We have a good program every Sunday night. We have good officials, who are as follows: President, Albert Allen; secretary, Ella Ruff; assistant secretary, Mary Ruth Upton; treasurer, Goldie Upton; Group Captain No. 1, Lucille Scruggs; Group Captain No. 2, Kathleen Quinn; C. E. reporter, Mary Sue Coffey.

We hope to be successful the rest of the year.

Community Church.—The young men of Community Church organized last month the Laymen's Fellowship club. The officers of the club are: President, Alvah Boyles; first vice-president, Frank Gardner; second vice-president, Marvin Hobbs; secretary, John Perry; treasurer, Paul Clodfelter. Various committees were appointed by the president, as follows: Devotional committee, with C. L. Berrier, chairman; music committee, T. G. Perry, chairman; local program committee, C. A. Leonard, chairman; membership committee, Frank Gardner, chairman; publicity committee, John Perry, chairman, and visiting committee, with Marvin Hobbs, chairman.

Circle No. 1 of the Auxiliary will serve a dinner to the Laymen's Fellowship club on Wednesday evening, February 7, at 6:30 o'clock, at which time there will be an interesting program made up of the business, of special music and an address by J. G. Rogers, of Denton, president of all Laymen's Fellowship in the M. P. Conference in this state.

Sunday, January 28, was observed as Young People's Day, with the topic for the day being "Jesus As Youth's True and Everlasting Friend." The Sunday school service at 9:45 was conducted by Alvah Boyles. Miss Katherine Welborn gave an interesting sketch of Dr. Forlines' life.

Miss Susie Myers conducted the 11 o'clock service, at which time C. A. Leonard offered prayer. The pastor, Rev. H. F. Surratt, delivered an interesting address.

At the evening service, which was conducted by Mrs. Jake Secbrest, an interesting pageant was given by the young people of the church, entitled "The Saving of Wearyworld." Those participating in the pageant were: Nell Myers, Grace Saunders, Ralph Jones, Walter Beasley, Marvin Hobbs, Chester Myers, and Odessa Myers. Prayer was offered by Miss Imogene Boyles and a very pretty solo was rendered by Mrs. N. J. Miles, of Main Street M. E. church.

We are very happy to state that on Young People's Day $25.00 was raised which will apply on the General Conference budget. That day also we raised our assessment on church extension budget in full, amounting to $30.00.

The attendance at both morning and evening services is improving. We feel that credit is due our pastor who is making the services so worth while with his interesting sermons. On last Sunday morning his sermon was based on "Winning Victories in Advance" and was most interesting, as was commented by various members present who heard him.

The subject for the evening service was the beginning of a series of the "Christian's Code." The sermon was based on the first item, "The Spirit of Humility."

Welch Memorial.—Our Sunday school now has an enrollment of 319 with an average attendance of around 275. We see a great deal of enthusiasm in all the departments.

The Young Men's Class recently had a contest with the young men of the Reformed church. Our boys lost, but they say the fine spirit and good fellowship enjoyed at the oyster supper given the other class made up for the loss. They gave the supper last Saturday night in the basement of the Reformed Church.

At the monthly business meeting of the Young Ladies' Bible Class last week they changed the name of their class to the Catherine Gill Bible Class in honor of Miss Catherine Gill, who organized the class in 1925 and was the first and one of the most loved teachers. This class is growing in number and in spirit under the leadership of John Easter.

Sunday was Young People's Day. The young people, under the leadership of Howard Vuncannon had charge of the singing at both preaching services. At Sunday school John Easter led the singing and gave a splendid short talk on Ways in which we can witness for Christ.

At the preaching service, which was also communion service, Dr. Williams brought an inspiring and challenging sermon on "How to Be a Success in Life." The young people had full charge at night. Odell Brown, Aubert Smith and Mr. W. W. Frye each gave a good short talk. It was a good day all the way through.

I feel impelled to mention the sermon Dr. Williams preached two weeks ago. He used the text, "Remember Lot's Wife," and used these inscriptions that are inscribed on Lot's wife's monument: "Salvation is harder for some than others." "Example is mightier than precept." "Gregarious religion is a precarious religion." "One may go a long way without getting there."

First Church, High Point.—This letter will attempt to combine the words of a substitute reporter and pastoral comment. A few items that have been of interest locally may be interesting to Herald readers generally.

These first three months of the year have passed so rapidly that one scarcely realizes the quarter is gone. Some efforts to interest and help our people have been attempted. A new office has been created for efficiency, that of church secretary. Miss Myrtle Davis, a loyal member of the church, has been chosen for the work and has already demonstrated her fitness for it. The new "Sunshine Circle" brings together about 30 children once each month. Miss Davis is the superintendent; Mrs. J. R. Meredith, chairman, and Miss Margaret Walton, assistant chairman. All are enthusiastic about this missionary project.

The vesper services at 5 o'clock on Sunday evenings instead of 7:30 are proving to be better than the later hour. Upon three occasions the Men's Chorus from the Baraca-Brotherhood delighted the audiences with their Gospel singing. I have concluded a series of sermons on the theme, "A Quartette of Whys." They were as follows: "Why Jesus Wept;" "Why John Spoke;" "Why Jesus Spoke;" and "Why Paul and Silas Sang." Gracious comments have been given as to their helpfulness.

A nice increase in attendance is being recorded. Our chief usher, Mr. J. H. Pritchard, counts the audiences. His record showed for December this average attendance: A. M., 240; P. M., 81. The January record showed the following: A. M., 264, and P. M., 108. The February record bids fair to exceed that of January. In last Sunday's Communion service we had about 250 communicants. Ten new members have been received—five by confession and five by letter.

In the mid-week services we have had running a series of studies entitled "Poets of Faith and Trust." With two to be used, they will have been: "Tennyson, the Man of Hope;" "Wordsworth, the Poet of Life;" "Browning, the Writer of Faith;" "Longfellow, the Advocate of Righteousness;" and "Bryant, the Exemplar of Christian Courage." This has been a fruitful field for study.

In the January meeting of the Sunday School Workers' Council, Mr. Tyson Ferree was elected to succeed Mr. Lawrence Leonard as general secretary of the Sunday school, and Mr. Roy P. Montgomery to succeed Mr. J. B. Spencer as treasurer. Both Mr. Leonard and Mr. Spencer have given long years of faithful service and retired at their own request.

In the Every-Member Canvass, teams headed by Captains J. H. Allred and R. W. Riggins pitted against each other. Captain Riggins and his workers succeeded in bringing in a little larger report than the other team and were given a supper by Captain Allred and his team on Januay 15th.

Friends of Capt. A. M. Rankin will be glad to know that he is returning this week from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he has been for treatment for neuritis. Letters state that he is much improved. Brother R. W. Riggins and Richard Shaw recently underwent operations. Mr. Riggins has returned home and Mr. Shaw is improving nicely in the hospital.

Our Christian Endeavorers carried out a very successful observance of Christian Endeavor Week in celebration of the 53rd anniversary of the founding of the organization. They held a shut-in "Sunshine" meeting; sponsored the mid-week service; gave a banquet-program, the proceeds of which went to the building fund of the church; and planned Sunday evening's service in which the speaker was Rev. T. J. Whitehead. His helpful address was heard by Endeavor guests who worshipped with our congregation. Miss Annabel Thompson is the society president.

In closing I am happy to announce the presentation of the Utica Jubilee Singers for the vespers Sunday evening, February 11th. It may be that some from the various churches or charges within easy driving distance of High Point would enjoy hearing these colored singers from the Utica Normal and Industrial Institute in Mississippi. A free-will offering will be received to be divided between the singers and First Church. They come highly recommended by Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, and both the foreign and American press. They have been abroad for two concert tours. For three years they were an exclusive NBC radio feature from WJZ over the Blue Network. We anticipate their program of reverent spirituals will be helpful and welcome all who attend.

Both the family and I are appreciative of the many greetings and remembrances which came to the parsonage during the Christmas season. Each of us takes this means to say heartily, "Thank you, every one."

Fraternally and sincerely yours in Him,
R. I. FARMER, Pastor.

Siler City C. E. Society.—The C. E. Society observed Young People's Week in our church, January 28-February 4. On Sunday, January 28th, we had a special program for C. E. in the form of a radio program, conducted by Miss Verda Shaw Fox. On Wednesday night, January 31st, prayer meeting was held with the C. E.'s in charge. Interesting talks were made by Misses Joy Holt, Minnie Cooper, and Charles Stone. Miss Verda Shaw Fox sang very effectively "Never Grow Old." The C. E. orchestra, composed of D. G. Fox and Hubert Stone, saxophonists; John Robert Forrester, violinist, and Verda Shaw Fox, accompanist, gave us some special music. Irving Ellington had charge of this meeting.

At the morning service on February 4th Mr. Isley was at his best.

At the C. E. hour, Miss Berta Mae Andrew had charge of the program. Mrs. E. D. Woody told very pleasingly what the C. E. Society had meant to the local church. This was very encouraging to our society. Mr. Isley also gave us a short talk after which a tableaux was presented showing a huge cake with 53 lighted candles on it in observance of the 53rd anniversary of Christian Endeavor. When the curtains were drawn it showed all the members standing in a circle around the cake. Our president, Irvin Ellington, then told in a few concise words what Christian Endeavor meant to the young people, after which Miss Sallie Smith led in prayer. Our theme song was sung and then Miss Clata F. Andrew cut the cake and served it to the visitors present. Our C. E. orchestra at this time gave some special music.

We were very fortunate in securing Miss Elizabeth Hanner, of Julian, as our evening speaker. Miss Hanner is a very accomplished young woman, and is very much interested in Young People's work. She took "Youth" as her subject and she spoke very fittingly on the youth of today, what their desires and ambitions are and how they go about accomplishing these. Everyone present was most enthusiastic in their praise of Miss Hanner's talk and we feel sure it will be beneficial to the C. E.'s as well as to the older ones present. We were grateful for her coming to us and sincerely hope she will visit our society again.

Kistler's, Cleveland Charge.—We heartily welcome our new pastor, Rev. R. S. Troxler, his wife and children, into our midst. It seemed that we could never give up Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Ridge and children, but our loss was Shiloh's gain, and Shiloh's loss was our gain. We are well pleased with our new pastor. We think him a splendid man and an interested worker with the church and people. Our Sunday school is going some in attendance, with more interest being shown.

Pastor Troxler filled his appointment at our church February 4th with a good sermon, the text being "Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." At this service the Lord's Supper was administered to a large part of the congregation. We were well pleased to see a better attendance at church Sunday. We were also glad to have some visitors with us. Everybody is welcome to our church, so come again.

Bro. Troxler and family were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Turner Sunday. Mr. Turner is in very feeble health.

With prayers and best wishes for this church and all others. REPORTER.

Gibsonville Church.—The Stewards' Fellowship banquet was held in the cafeteria of the Gibsonville public school building on Saturday, January 27. About two hours of fun and fellowship were enjoyed by those who attended. Approximately 160 tickets were sold. A great deal of the food was donated; most of the money received from the sale of tickets was clear. This will go to help pay the A. C. B. which our church was asked to do during the month of January.

The Junior Missionary Circle held the January meeting with little Miss Julia Allen. Camille Kivett presided. Each member answered to the roll call by telling what he or she did for a "shut-in" or unfortunate person during the Christmas holidays. This is one of our most active organizations. During the past year they gave a cereal shower of 80-odd packages to the Children's Home, 38 pillow cases, 9 sheets, and 1 bed-spread. For the silver offering they gave $5.00, $5.00 also to the Minnis Fund. They are now saving their pennies for a "Trip to Tokio." The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Jennings who is their able supervisor. She finds a plenty for the children to do and they enjoy doing it.

The Woman's Missionary Society met in January with Mrs. D. M. Davidson. "Guided Youth" was the topic for discussion. There were readings by Mesdames B. B. Greeson, F. R. Owen and Miss Nancy Rountree.

On Sunday, January 28, some of the members of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society and some of the young men presented a pageant, "Saving the Weary World," in the church auditorium. Last Sunday night they went to Burlington, Fountain Place, where they presented the same program.

Attendance at preaching and Sunday school services shows a decided increase. Since Christmas the Sunday school record has risen from approximately 100 to more than 300. Last Sunday morning the Young Men's Bible Class alone numbered 89.

The Christian Endeavor Society has elected new officers: President, Mrs. Myrtle Petty; vice-president, Mr. Hal Yow, and secretary and treasurer, Miss Lessie Faucett. Miss Stacy is chairman of the program committee.

In addition to the good sermons that our pastor has been preaching he has furnished us excellent reading material on tithing. The following quotation is from "What We Owe and Why We Owe It," by Thomas Kane:

"If God ever owned anything He does yet. If the children of men ever needed to pay the tithe they do yet. If ever men were stewards for their property and money they are yet. If they ever needed to pay a regularly defined proportion of their incomes to the owner, they do yet. Remembering that this would be just as true if there were no rewards, how supremely foolish we are to neglect the duty, when the reward is so rich and so sure."

Rev. F. L. Gibbs was a recent guest of Rev. and Mrs. N. G. Bethea and a sister, Mrs. Coffin, of this place, also visiting relatives and friends of surrounding communities before going to Henderson, N. C., where he was dean of a Leadership Training School.

We are glad to report that Mr. Occo Gibbs, who has recently undergone an operation for appendicitis, is able to resume his studies in school. Mr. Gibbs is a member of the Senior class, Gibsonville High School.

Virgil Yow, of High Point, N. C., spent last Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Yow. REPORTER.

Bethesda, State Street.—Our pastor failed to fill his last appointment as he was sick. We were sorry to hear of his sickness, but trust he will be able to be with us next Sunday.

The Workers' Council met Sunday just after Sunday school. They attended to some very important matters concerning the Young People's work. Mr. C. M. Yokley was appointed to help the C. E. Society start off for the new year. We feel that the Workers' Council is a great help to the Sunday school. We are planning a Young People's program, "The Saving of Wearyworld." We should have already given it, but we were late in getting our literature.

Our Sunday school is moving along well in spite of winter and plenty of measles. Our superintendent, Mr. C. L. Wagner, lives at Winston-Salem, 15 miles away. He has not been absent in several years. With a man like he is for leader the good work can not stop. The teachers made 100 per cent attendance for the first quarter this year.

We had a very interesting prayer service Sunday night. Our leader, Mr. E. A. Clodfelter, could not be with us on account of illness. He had given out Scripture topics on "thinking." They were discussed by different ones present. Practically everything that is done, whether it be good or bad, starts with our thoughts. So we should be very careful how we think. If we start our work with a song or a smile, how much easier we can get along than if we start with a frown. With God's help may we all endeavor to make this the happiest year of our lives. Let's ever remember that every year brings us nearer to the great judgment day.

First Church, Burlington.—Young People's Day was observed throughout all the services Sunday.

The Golden Rule Sunday school class was in charge of the Sunday school service. The morning worship was in charge of the pastor, Dr. F. W. Paschall. Dr. Paschall delivered a most wonderful sermon on the subject, "Jesus Our Friend." His many hearers were greatly inspired by this message.

We were fortunate indeed in having with us for the evening worship Rev. B. J. Peeler, of First Reformed church of this city. Mr. Peeler delivered the evening address. He used as his subject "Empire Builders." Many illustrations were given in his message of people of whom the words, "empire builders," could be written creditably over their names for their accomplishments. At the close of his splendid address a very beautiful message was brought to us in song: Miss Carlyene Crutchfield and Dr. Paschall sang "It Pays to Serve Jesus."

We are glad to report that some of our members who have been ill for some time are improving. REPORTER.

Kannapolis.—Sunday morning, February 4, Pastor Morris delivered a very touching serman on the subject, "What Should a Church Member Do and Be?" after which the doors of the church were opened and we had the pleasure of receiving Mrs. Edna Sells. We trust that her efforts in the work will prove a blessing to her.

We miss Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lisk from our community very much, and since their leaving our Missionary Society has grown cold, as Mrs. Lisk was president. It seemed that no one would take it over. Pastor Morris called a meeting for January 29. As the weather was severely cold there were only a few out, but nevertheless enough to re-organize. The new officers elected were: Mrs. V. M. Whitley, president; Mrs. M. E. Marlow, secretary; Mrs. J. F. Faggart, treasurer, with Mrs. J. V. Dwiggins, vice-president. The new officers have taken right to their work and are getting everything lined up fine. They are planning a play for the near future. The president urges all to come to their next meeting on Thursday, February 22, at 7 p. m., at the church.

Sunday, February 11, will be observed as Young People's Day. Special services at the Sunday school hour as well as at the morning and evening worship. Miss Dorothy Clampet will preside over the 7 p. m. program, which will consist of special music by the Junior choir and the Junior quartet and talks by Misses Zula Carter and Ruth Marshall, Mr. Arthur Tutterrow and Mr. Edward Sides; and the pageant, "The Saving of Wearyworld." There will be a special offering taken for World Service.

Sunday, February 4, at the evening worship, communion service was observed in an unusual way. Ten girls of the ages of 12 to 14 years read Scripture between songs. They were dressed in white robes and formed a semi-circle in the center of the pulpit. The Lord's Supper was taken kneeling around the altar. Pastor Morris was assisted by Mr. R. T. Sides. The service was very beautiful in its simplicity, candle-light being used for the entire service.

We wish to express our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kiser and family in the recent death of Mrs. Kiser's father; also to Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Marlow and family in the recent death of Mr. Marlow's father. May their loss be Heaven's gain.

Our community has had much sickness for some time, but all our "flock" are improving, we are glad to report.

The Ladies' Aid held their regular monthly business meeting on Monday evening, February 5. Circle No. 2 met with Mrs. E. H. Steele with 11 old members, six new members, one visitor and one baby present. A contest, "Heart Sister," came to a close with lots of fun and interest created within the circle. Circle No. 1 met with Mrs. Carrie Braswell with nine members and two visitors. Plans were discussed to have a box supper soon. REPORTER.

Calvary, Greensboro.—The Baraca class held its regular monthly meeting at the hut last Thursday evening. It was a combination business and social meeting. About 18 of the class members with their teacher, J. C. Coe, Dr. Pritchard and Fred F. Myrick, judge pro tem of municipal court, who addressed the class during the evening, assembled at the hut at 7:30 for supper. Following the supper Mr. Myrick talked to the class, calling their attention to the steady growth of the Baraca class movement since the time of its initiation in 1890. After the address attention was directed to business. Floyd G. Reynolds, president, served as toastmaster. Officers of the class for the ensuing year are: J. C. Coe, teacher; J. Norman Kirkman, assistant teacher; Floyd G. Reynolds, president; T. B. Waugh, first vice-president; Hester Causey, second vice-president; Ernest Williamson, secretary-treasurer, and Charles Coe, Jr., assistant secretary-treasurer. The next class meeting will be held the first Thursday evening in March at the same place.

The Friendly class will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. R. S. Hemphill on Bellevue street next Monday evening at 7:30. Mrs. L. P. Allred and Mrs. J. N. Griswold will have charge of the entertainment for the evening.

We failed, by 15, in our attempt to get 200 members out to Sunday school last Sunday, but we are not going to let that discourage us. We are going to keep trying.

Dr. Pritchard asked Sunday that we launch a campaign known as the 50-50 campaign. That is to set our goal for our Easter offering at $50.00 and our goal for new members, added to our church by Easter, at 50. We do not want to fail in this.

There will be a Thank-Offering service given in our church the fourth Sunday evening in February, under the direction of Miss Vivian Sullivan. All the children taking part in this service are requested to meet at the church Friday afternoon of this week, at 4 o'clock for practice.

The board of stewards held their regular monthly meeting in the hut Monday evening. Mrs. H. M. Johnson was hostess to Circle No. 1 Monday afternoon. Mrs. C. M. Friddle, chairman, was in the chair for the business session. They have planned a Brunswick stew for Thursday of this week. Mrs. J. M. Sullivan conducted the devotional, after which Mrs. D. E. Curtis read the leaflet. Thirteen members and two visitors were present.

Circle No. 2 welcomed Mrs. J. E. Deviney as a new member Monday afternoon when it met with Mrs. M. H. Greer. Fourteen members and one visitor were present at the meeting. The devotional was conducted by Dr. Pritchard. He used as a subject for his short but helpful discussion: "She hath done what she could." The leaflets were read by Mrs. J. Frank Coble and Mrs. Howard R. Neece. Mrs. J. W. Swain, chairman, presided.

The Business Girls' Circle met with Mrs. Robah Fields, circle chairman, Monday evening with 17 members and two visitors present. Miss Mary Wills McCulloch conducted the devotional. The missionary leaflets were read and discussed by Miss Pearl McCulloch, Miss Helen Ray, and Miss Ila Burrow.

Mrs. E. D. Overcash and children are leaving this week for Richmond, Va., where they expect to spend two or three months.

"Dangers of Satisfaction" was the subject of our pastor Sunday morning. "The worst thing that can happen to a man is the state of ease and satisfaction." "The worst thing that can happen to a church is the state of ease or satisfaction," said Dr. Pritchard, and going on, he said: "Indifference is a terrible thing. The thing Jesus dreads most is a satisfied church. A church should never be satisfied or at ease while there is sin, unchurched people in the community, children in the community out of Sunday school or while a single evil exists in the community."

The county wide young people's conference will be held February 15th, beginning at 9:30 in the morning, at the First Presbyterian church. Miss Vivian Sullivan has been appointed registration agent for our church.

The Anna Star Bible class and Dr. McCulloch's Sunday school class will go to the Firemen's building next Sunday morning at 9:30 for Sunday school. Dr. Pritchard will teach the lesson.

Dr. Pritchard will deliver a sermon Sunday at 11 o'clock to the Boy Scouts of Troop No. 7, which this church is sponsoring. The members, troop officials and the parents of the Scouts will sit together in reserved seats at the church for this special service. Just prior to the sermon there will be a special featue put on by the Scouts.

On Saturday, February 10th, at 12 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, the President of the United States will broadcast over the Columbia and the National Broadcasting system a special message to the Boy Scouts of this nation. A special feature of the president's message will be a National Good Turn request to every Scout in the United States. The entire membership of nearly one million Scouts will be mobilized to receive his message. Incidentally, President Franklin D. Roosevelt is a Scouter, and has been one for 12 years.

First Church, Charlotte.—On January 28 the pastor's birthday was observed with a very fitting and beautiful service. A large birthday cake, beautifully decorated and holding the required number of candles, was presented the pastor by Mrs. G. W. Stegall and Mrs. Calvin Beatty. The cake was cut and served to each person present, in an impressive fellowship service, or love feast. Two members, Miss Beulah Smith and little Miss Loma Stegall, were received into the church.

The Baraca class also held their meeting. After the business meeting the two groups enjoyed a delightful social hour together, with Mrs. J. E. Wommack in charge of the program. Games were directed by Mrs. I. L. Coble, of the Parks and Playground Recreation Commission of the city. Refreshments were served by members of the Wilma Shaw Bible class.

Mrs. R. S. Garmon is confined to her home with pleurisy. We miss her and hope for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. W. A. Seehrest has been sick, but is improving, we are glad to note.

Little Billy Robinson is getting along nicely after an operation for removal of tonsils and adenoids at the Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital here.

Herbert Garrison, Jr., two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Garrison, who holds the attendance record in the Cradle Roll class, was absent last Sunday on account of a severe cold. We hope he will be able next Sunday to continue his record for faithful attendance.

We note an increase in interest and attendance in the church school. Miss Maryon Muse's class had a perfect attendance last Sunday. The Baraca class received the banner for having the largest amount of offering per person. The Young Men's Baraca class, with R. S. Garmon the very capable and efficient teacher, bids fair to become one of the largest and most active classes.

The Intermediate C. E., one of the most enthusiastic organizations of the church, was well represented at the Mecklenburg County C. E. Union at Davidson College last Friday evening. Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Hendry attended the meeting. The Young People's Society was represented by Miss Gray Stiles, president of the society; Miss Rachel Tadlock, Grady Tadlock, and Woodley Craig. Attendance increased at the Young People's C. E. meeting Sunday evening. R. E. Stegall led the meeting, using the topic, "Young People's Part in Interdenominational Work."

On Sunday morning Joash Day was observed, and a very appropriate pageant, written by Pastor Hendry, was presented by a group of Intermediate boys. The part of Joash, the king, was well done by Lynn Garmon. Billy Hollifield represented Jehoiada, the priest, in a very splendid manner. Others taking part were D. G. McCall, Jimmy Frink, Fred Love, Jr., James Ingle, and Patrick Haigler, with Miss Mary Shaw taking the part of an angel. After the presentation of the pageant members of the congregation came forward and deposited their offerings in the Joash chest. The offering had previously been collected in small wooden barrels representing the "penny a meal" plan. Mrs. G. W. Stegall was chairman of the "penny a meal club," and much credit is due her for the splendid offering received.

On next Tuesday afternoon, February 13, Circle No. 1, Mrs. B. W. Little, chairman, will meet with Mrs. G. W. Stegall on Mecklenburg Road. Mrs. Calvin Beatty will have charge of the program. Circle No. 2, Mrs. G. H. Hendry, chairman, will meet with Mrs. L. M. Harward on Pecan Avenue Tuesday at 7:30. A splendid program of entertainment is being prepared to be given Monday evening by the church school, and everyone is assured a good time and a pleasant evening of good fellowship.

We are looking forward to the coming of Miss Mary E. Williams, a returned missionary from Japan. Miss Williams will speak to us and show slides of our work in Japan at our February Thank-offering service to be held on Sunday evening, February 11. Mrs. B. W. Little, Thank-offering secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, will be in charge of the service. Whatever Mrs. Little does, she does it well, and we are expecting this service to be an outstanding feature of this year's program.

May God's richest benediction rest upon the editor of the Herald while he is in the hospital, and may he soon be restored to his usual place of service in the Kingdom.

Charlotte, Richland Charge.—We were glad to have our president, Dr. Andrews, and son, Robert, with us last Sunday. We all enjoyed his fine sermon and wish that he might be with us more often. Everyone enjoyed the special music by the Bulla quartet.

We gladly welcome two new members into our church, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Spencer. They come by letter.

Much interest is being shown in our Sunday school, though the attendance is not as good as usual.

There will be a song service at our church next Sunday afternoon. A number of quartets will be present and we are expecting a good program. An offering for the church budget will be taken.

The Woman's Auxiliary plans to have a Thank-Offering program the third Sunday night in February. Our pastor, Mr. R. L. Hethcox, will be the speaker.

Enfield.—Young People's Day was observed in our church January 28. Our pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, preached a splendid sermon at the morning service on "Youth's True and Everlasting Friend." Special music was rendered by the choir. At the evening service we were very fortunate to have Rev. O. C. Loy, of the Halifax charge, preach for us. He brought us a very inspiring and appropriate message using for his text "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when shalt say, I have no pleasure in them." A quartet composed of Mrs. Exum Bellamy, Mrs. Cecil Matthews, Mr. Hubert Whitaker and Mr. Exum Bellamy sang, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul." The congregations at both these services were very good and we were happy to have Rev. and Mrs. Loy and children and a number from Eden church to worship with us. We trust they will all come again.

Our Sunday school is growing both in interest and attendance under the leadership of Supt. J. R. Rives.

The Christian Endeavor Society is also doing good work with Miss Susan Maddry president. After the meeting January 31 they are planning a social and hope to have some of the old members back.

The Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. E. E. Stallings January 29th at 3 o'clock with Miss Mary Collins assisting hostess. Mrs. Peeler conducted the devotionals in a most interesting way. Mrs. Exum Bellamy sweetly sang "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go." Mrs. E. L. Pike, Mrs. Will Herbert and Mr. Henry Neal were reported still confined to their beds and the auxiliary sent each of them a pot of jonquils and pussy-willow from the meeting. Circle No. 1 is planning a chicken-salad and oyster supper. Miss Lossie Wallace is president of the Junior Woman's Auxiliary now and they are having real interesting meetings. They are sponsoring a picture show Wednesday of this week to help pay their budgets and other pledges.

Since our last report one of our Junior members, James Rives, Jr., was presented with $10.00 he won as a prize for the best essay on "Milk" in the state contest put on at the State Fair. We all feel very proud of James and hope this is just a beginning of good things for him.

With best wishes to the Htrald and its readers.

CULTIVATE FINENESS OF LIFE

Discreetly keep most of your radical opinions to yourself. When with other people be a listener a large part of the time. Be considerate in every word and act. Never descend. Cultivate tolerance toward others. Patiently listen to opinions which oppose yours. It is a wise thing never to boast, never to speak of yourself unless it is imperative, never to speak ill of another. Be slow to pass judgment. Examine and judge the contents of your own mind rather than of others. Give preference to pleasant subjects. Rule your moods. Resist the tendency to say clever things. The best evidence of your culture is the tone and temper of your conversation. Charitable judgment will help you to progress most rapidly in love, gentleness, and sympathy.—Grenville Kleiser.

WATERSPOUT IN ACTION

Waterspout is the name of the funnel-shaped cloud of the tornado when it occurs at sea. It is caused by opposite winds of different temperature meeting in the u per atmosphere. Atmospheric pressure being lowest at the center of the storm the winds tend to rush towards the center, but are diverted by the rotation of the earth and twirl rapidly around the center in a counter-clockwise direction (if it is in the northern hemisphere—clockwise if in the southern). A partial vacuum is created in the center which draws the water up in its vortex. It runs its course quickly, seldom lasting more than a half-hour. —The Pathfinder.

HERALD CAMPAIGN FOR 3,000 SUBSCRIBERS

Well, you see there have been no changes in the percentages in the Herald campaign since last week, but THERE SOON WILL BE! The way subscriptions are coming in somebody is going to lose his standing if he does not watch his step. The question now is, WHAT CHARGE WILL REACH THE QUOTA FIRST? We might decide to dress up the pastor of that charge or the Herald agent in a coat of many colors. Anyway, the race is on and somebody is going to get there first unless two get there at the same time. There are some charges that are making a steady climb and that is what counts.

And let me say that all the book-keeping is done by Dr. McCulloch and his daughter. But I am very anxious that every charge get credit for all money sent in. Therefore it is very important that agents heed the request of last week and give the name of the charge that is to get credit for the subscription. Where there are several charges close enough together for the people to get their mail at the same office it is sometimes hard to tell where credit belongs.

I can hardly wait for this week's issue, for I am sure somebody is going to forge ahead.

Yours for the race,
J. E. PRITCHARD.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

A Tribute of Love

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call from our midst Mrs. Sara Rebecca Sharpe, the oldest member of our Auxiliary, to her heavenly home, January 5, 1934, we humbly submit to His will, feeling our loss is her gain. As one by one our number is passing to the great beyond we are reminded that life is short and time is fleeting. It is with saddened hearts that we tender this tribute of love and sympathy.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her husband and also a copy to the Methodist Protestant Herald.

Her toil is past, her work is done
And she is fully blest.
She fought the good fight, the victory won;
She entered into rest.

This change for her meant joy and peace
And rest in the Home afar;
Pray God that we be as ready to go
When we shall cross the bar.

MRS. E. L. BERRY, Sec'y,
Ladies' Auxiliary, Moriah M. P. Church.

Jones

Mrs. Julia Kirkman Jones died January 15, 1934, aged 82 years, 3 months and 4 days. She was the wife of the late William M. Jones. One daughter was born to this union, Mrs. William Walter Sellars, of De Ridder, La., in whose home she and "Uncle Billie," as he was called, made their home for the past ten years. He preceded her almost two years. Aunt Julia was an invalid for years, but with her sweet, patient disposition she bore it all with a Christian fortitude.

The funeral service was held on January 17 at Hickory Grove Methodist Protestant church, where she united at an early age and had remained a faithful member until the end.

Rev. T. A. Williams conducted the service in the presence of a large host of relatives and friends, which was evidence of the esteem and respect in which the deceased was held.

Clinic Hospital

Ye doctors, nurses, maidens, men!
O what a fight your fight has been!
Your foe is one of dreadful mien,
The worst the world has ever seen.

Composed of pain, disease and death,
The fearful sight quite takes your breath.
You faltered not but forward went
And into rout the foe was sent.

The wasting fever, pains and aches
Were driven out like fiery snakes.
Lost health came back, resumed its sway,
And life was good from day to day.

I once thought of hospitals as decent places to die,—scarcely as desirable places to live. A little experience has changed my view. This experience came as a result of an arrangement made by my dentist. He put me in the Clinic Hospital for convenience during thirteen dental operations. This taste of hospital life opened my eyes. I learned that hospital populations have not given up hope of life, but on the contrary entered a hospital as a means of prolonging and bettering life. And the majority are not disappointed. They return to their homes and occupations with renewed hope and strength. Health is in large measure under human control, and the good hospital is the grand means of achieving this result. There are poor hospitals, but there are good ones. Much depends upon the equipment and the management as well as the location.

Clinic Hospital is the most centrally located hospital in Greensboro, its grounds lying near the County Court House. The place is free from disturbing noise. Street cars pass within one block of it. It is a popular resort for the sick and injured, all rooms being occupied at times.

The genial Dr. J. G. Thomas is superintendent or manager of the Clinic Hospital. He knows how to make his guests feel at home. Any of the physicians of the city may be called on for advice or practice in the hospital. There are about a dozen experienced nurses and some helpers not so experienced. Two members of the Dust and Ashes department held a conversation in my room one morning which I could not avoid hearing and which may interest you. They were a new hand and an experienced helper.

New Hand—I'm a new hand at this business and would like for somebody to show me where to begin. I can't tell where the one before me left off.

Significance of Christian Living in the Twentieth Century

By J. E. Pritchard

Some weeks ago I was asked to speak at a certain time and place on the subject, "Significance of Christian Living in the Twentieth Century." It so happens that the time I am to deliver that address is tomorrow. Today Dr. McCulloch asked me if I would not prepare a short article for the Herald and have it ready by tonight. The thought came to me to write today on the subject that I am to speak on tomorrow.

What is the significance of Christian living in the 20th Century? We might ask the question, What is the significance of living in any century? The answer to this question would be that living in any century has had its significance to those who have done the living. Regardless of the age in which men have lived and regardless of man's surroundings, there have always been some things to live for. Looking back over the centuries we can see that the people in every century have played an important part. The achievements of no century could be blotted out without the world being poorer. Life in general is sweet and men cling to it. With this much already said, let us add the suggestion, Christian Living. What a world of thought and activity and hope and aspiration and joy and fellowship has been added. The man who lives in Christ and with Christ and for Christ has something to live for that the worldly man knows nothing about; for spiritual things are spiritually discerned. To him life has a purpose. It may take some effort to live. There may be some disappointments and trials and heartaches. Very likely there will be, for Our Lord had to contend with these things. His life was not always easy. He had a cross to bear before being crowned and we need not be surprised if we have a similar experience, but the man who is a Christian will be able to see the purposes and plans of God. Sometimes we see them but dimly, but if we trust Him, He will make things plain to us, if not now, then later on.

Now let us add to what we have already said, Living for Christ in the Twentieth Century. What an opportunity! What breadth and depth and height life has for us in this century! First, there is the richness that comes to us through the contacts we make. The Monks who lived in the sixteenth century rendered a service to the world in that they shut themselves up in the monastery and studied the Bible. They preserved the Bible for us when its enemies were trying to destroy it, but while their life was worthwhile it was not to be compared to the life that is lived in our day with the possibility of forming new acquaintances and touching a

A PSALM OF PERPLEXITY, AND CONFIDENCE IN GOD

Arranged from Psalm 73

By LUTHER K. LONG

Surely God is good to Israel,
Even to those who are pure in heart.

But as for me, my feet were almost gone;
My steps had well nigh slipped.
For I was envious at the arrogant,
When I saw the prosperity of the wicked.
They suffer no death-pains,
They pass away comfortably.
They are not in trouble as other men,
Neither are they plagued like other men.
Their eyes stand out with fatness;
They have more than heart could wish.
They are scoffers;
They speak loftily;
They say: How doth God know?
Behold, these are the wicked;
And, being always at ease, they increase in riches.

Surely in vain have I cleansed my heart,
And washed my hands in innocency;
For all the day long have I been plagued,
And chastened every morning.

When I speak thus,
I know in my heart I am not speaking wisely.
When I consider the evil and injustice in life,
I am at a loss for an explanation
Until I go into the house of God
And consider the latter end of the wicked.

Surely thou settest their feet in slippery places:
They fall down to destruction.
Desolation overtakes them in a moment,
They are utterly overcome with terrors,
They vanish as a dream.

My soul was in a ferment,
And I was nettled in my heart:
So brutish was I, and ignorant!

At last, my soul has found peace and comfort:
I am continually with thee, O God,
Thou dost hold my right hand.
Thou wilt guide me with thy counsel here,
And afterwards receive me with glory.
Whom have I in heaven but thee?
And I desire none upon earth besides thee.
My heart and my flesh fail me;
But thou art the strength of my heart and my portion forever.

It is good for me to draw near unto God;
I have made the Lord Jehovah my everlasting refuge.
Praise ye the Lord.

THE CHRISTIAN'S THORN

Authorities generally agree with Dean Farrar, that Paul's "thorn in the flesh" was some form of physical weakness—either ophthalmia, which disfigured and rendered him helplessly dependent on others, and compelled him almost always to employ an amanuensis; or some recurrent attacks of depressing malaria fever. The stronger argument seems to favor eye trouble, as he wrote in large letters, or employed an emanuensis, and failed to recognize the high priest across the room, and the Galatians would have given him their eyes, if it had been at all possible.

We may not be able to speak dogmatically as to Paul's "thorn in the flesh," but we can concerning our own. Like our "besetting sin," we all have our thorn. It may be a Mordecai at the king's gate, or some form of physical weakness, but like Paul, when we would do good evil is present with us. We can speak positively also in saying that all our attitudes toward our thorns are the same—we want them to depart from us, or we from them. David praying for wings as a dove, Jesus praying for His cup to pass, and Paul praying for the departure of his thorn, in keeping with our first and natural thoughts.

If with Paul, we can learn that our thorns are sent to us by the Lord, and for our own good, we will endure them gladly and with rejoicing. But like Job, many of our thorns are sent by Satan. Some who will doubtless read this paper will readily recall a Seminary debate when Dr. H. L. Elderdice asked us to debate the following subject: "Resolved, That the appointments of the Annual Conference are made by the Lord." Many of the less experienced and more theoretical brethren took the affirmative side, contending that the appointing powers were nothing more than mortar in the hands of the potter. After a lengthy, one-sided debate, a more experienced and practical brother arose, and stated that he was on the negative, and went on to explain that the devil had made all his appointments.

The above may be an extreme case, and the brother may have been radical in his views; but after relating the story to several District Superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal church, they all said they would have been neutral in that debate. Take the poor, unemployed man walking the streets seeking an opportunity to make an honest living, who has lost his former job through sinister influences, and you could not persuade him that his lot is of the Lord's sending. Picture the poor mother and children, eking out a mere existence, living in a cold house, with scanty clothing and food, while the husband and father drinks and gambles away his earnings.

Paul's thorn was sent of the Lord, for his own good. How long it took him to learn that we are not told. Neither are we told how long it took him to learn that grace was more abundant than sin, or that all things work together for good to them that love God. How long it took John Milton to regard his blindness as "the shadow of God's wing" spread over him, we are not told. Nor does George Matheson tell us how long it was before he could make his thorn an object of thanksgiving. Paul was not stubbornly resigned to his thorn, but it became on object for gladness and rejoicing. His immortal ministry was achieved against the agony of his thorn. The late Dr. J. H. Jowett points out what poor, anæmic witnesses we would be without our thorns.

Paul learned that it was infinitely better for the thorn to remain, and be given grace to win out in spite of it. I have wondered what kind of ministry the angels rendered to Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane. I am persuaded that it was something infinitely more precious than the passing of His cup. The Captain of our salvation was made perfect through suffering; and doubtless, we shall encounter the same as we go unto perfection. Travelers in the Alps notice a beauty and glory about the flowers near the snow line, that the hot-house plant does not possess.

W. A. LEDFORD.

PERFECT LIVING FOR THE ILL

A very old man, not many ticks from 80, wishes to make known how he has become a veritable Rip Van Winkle simply by learning what nature exacts from every one to enable their complicated machine to function. The fact that at the age of 14 I was the typical fever-exhausted convalescent, with forever a crippled heart, turned a thirsty young soul to find out what price he should pay to learn nature's terms. Suffice it to say I am one of the oldest living rheumatics—a joyous old mature age, with a fair substitute for the fountain of youth.

Here is the secret: In disease there is the fundamental that the moment you get your system functioning (and that is mostly depending on digestion) nature heals at once in the proportion to the damage done in previous wrong usage of a perfect but staggeringly complicated machine. It does not matter what the chronic disease is. Arthritis, pyorrhea, sinus affections, anemia, neuritis, rheumatism and even toothache can be arrested of making any marked progress, giving amazing relief. To do this (and I have omitted kindred afflictions, such as hardening of arteries and epilepsy, for want of further investigation) one has to use a restricted diet, confining one's self to perfectly digestible foods in conjunction with all good habits. Then the earth is yours!

Modern medicine is topsy-turvy, adding this and that, excess of everything, when elimination is the remedy. Every research worker is blasting mankind with some new experimental "life saver" in contrast to one of the few wise men I know of. Chittenden of Yale (still living), who wrote years ago, "The smallest amount of food that will give full physical and mental vigor is, I think, the ideal diet."

There is even hope for the chronic invalid, but not with the present obsession of foods—that we must "take something." So I write The Sun that not only is there a Santa Claus, but there is perfect living, with comparative freedom from disease, if one pays the price.—William Gill, Newton Highlands, Mass.

—An affectionate farewell to R. Fletcher Williams who departed life while I was in the hospital.

—We thank Dr. R. L. Shipley for his kind words of sympathy provoked by our resort to a hospital for treatment. But, Doctor, it is a Greensboro and not a Winston-Salem hospital.

REACHING FOR THE GOSPEL

"Teacher, please give me one of those little books," said tousle-haired Jimmy Johnson, with emphasis, as he reached out an eager hand for a copy of the red-covered Gospel of John.

Jimmy was voicing the urgent desire of all his fellow pupils in the one-room prairie schoolhouse, away out in bleak Cherry county of Nebraska, where a teacher found, while preparing a Christmas program, that "the children did not even know of the birth of Christ, and had not the slightest conception of God."

Have you ever visualized the serious spiritual need of the boys and girls in the isolated sections of the western, northwestern and southwestern parts of the United States? These children are often deprived of the benefits of a Sunday school, or of a church service where the Word of God is preached. One teacher in Montana writes that their school is thirty-eight miles away from any church, and that they have no Sunday school nor preaching in her community. Another teacher in New Mexico writes: "I am especially interested in getting these books for the children, as this is an isolated school away from church and Sunday school."

Pressed by this urgent need, the Bible Institute Colportage Association of Chicago, founded by D. L. Moody in 1894, is making an earnest effort to place wholesome, Christian literature and Scripture portions, such as the Moody Colportage books, Evangel booklets, Pocket Treasurys, Gospels of John, and gospel tracts, in the hands of the boys and girls in the pioneer homes of America, with the aid of the teachers of the one-room schoolhouses. These schools are scattered throughout North and South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, and the number of scholars in each school ranges from nine to twenty-nine, seldom more.

"My pupils are hungry for such material as yours," states one teacher; and another says: "I shall appreciate very much your generous offer. It is the first of the kind I have ever received." Surely the fields are "white unto harvest"!

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Here Are Some of Them

These churches paid assessments in full for Church Extension: Draper, West End Thomasville, Community Church, Charlotte and New Union churches, Richland circuit, First Church Thomasville, all churches on Guilford circuit, Kannapolis church, Hickory Grove, Flint Ridge, Shiloh, Liberty Circuit, two churches on Orange Circuit, Mebane, Spring Church.

These paid annual conference expense budget in full: St. Paul, Whitakers, First Church Asheboro, Spring Church, Gibsonville Church, Graham.

These paid Superannuates in full: Graham, Mebane.

Pastors' Report Blanks All Mailed Out

These were sent in time to be in the hands of all pastors so that they could be filled out and mailed to me by the 14th instant. I hope all pastors will fill these out promptly, as I want to tabulate them and give a set up of what has been accomplished during the first quarter. We ought to be able to show how many charges accepted the budgets in full or in part and how many churches have paid the assessments laid up to date.

Minnis Goes to Asheville

At the request of First Church, Asheville, I have appointed Rev. J. F. Minnis pastor for the remaining conference year in place of Rev. H. W. Maier who recently resigned to return to Ohio.

"Sermon Tasters"

Many years ago this expression became current through a book written by a Scotch preacher. He represented a woman critic whose interest in the preaching service was to decide whether this preacher were a more able preacher than some other one she had heard. She tasted the sermon as a cook tastes the broth in making. And like the cook with the broth who lets others eat it, this sermon taster never accepted the truths of a sermon with a serious intent. She left all this for the devout members of the congregation. Her mission was performed when she got her specimen of the preacher's ability and went away to compare it with what she remembered of what other preachers said. Most preachers know this character. Sometimes it is a man. I have also seen them in the miniature or embryo, or like the caterpillar state of the butterfly. But when I try to compute their value to the Kingdom we have to decide it is quite infinitesimal—small indeed. The classroom method should always be critical; but the church service should be composed of participants in, rather than critics of, what is being said and done. Here is the "great divide" which separates a worshipper from a mere church attendant—the scoffer who delights to find fault and the devout soul who goes to worship. I certainly would not dispense with criticism of the preacher or the preacher's sermon, but I would destroy with one stroke, could I do it, that attitude of the critic which can only see flaws in others while their very souls shrivel into a mummy of a real spiritual man or woman.

Conference Claims Dramatized

I dropped into Calvary church Sunday afternoon and heard "the boys," Revs. Pritchard, Curry, Chambliss, Garner, Carroll, and Whitehead put on this plan. The men did their work well and I think those present would have gotten quite a bit of inspiration for these claims if they listened with an open mind to the statements delivered by the speakers. The attendance, while not large, was quite representative of the churches of the community.

Pleasant Grove Church, Rev. H. L. Powell, Pastor

I visited this church at the morning hour of worship. It was a bad day for a good attendance—the weather was disagreeable, but the church was warm. It was my first visit to this church in a number of years. It is another one of our rural stations. A large church auditorium with Sunday school rooms, well kept grounds and a splendid parsonage. There is here equipment sufficient to carry on a number of interesting church projects. They have quite a young man as superintendent of the Sunday school, and this part of the church work appeared to be going well. Pastor Powell reports that attendance has been splendid since he came here; this is his first year and there is much to indicate a good year. I enjoyed my visit to this church.

English Street Church, Rev. C. H. Hill, Pastor

I visited this church for the evening hour for worship. It was not a good night for church-going, but there were between forty and fifty present. By a show of hands, nearly all present were members of the church. Brother Hill was detained at home on account of sickness, but we got on with the service all right. The people are easy to preach to and I enjoyed my visit.

This church property is in bad shape. Unfortunately, a parsonage was bought many years ago; the price promised was about twice what it really is worth and it has not been paid for. Those who loaned the money on the parsonage also have claims upon the church and unless there can be a successful deal put over in the process of liquidation of the Commercial National Bank (defunct), these people may lose both parsonage and church properties. We are hoping that they may not and shall try to hold the properties, but the above is the statement of affairs here.

Plan of Appointments

Feb. 18—Glen Raven 11 a.m.; District meeting, afternoon; Calvary at night.

Significance of Christian Living in the Twentieth Century

thousand lives where they once touched one. In this classification would fall the civic club, the religious convention and the many interdenominational features that we once did not know much about. The question sometimes comes to me, Do Methodist Protestants make full use of these opportunities or do they stay away from these places and lose the chance of a lifetime? I seldom go into one of these interdenominational meetings and hear the good things that are to be heard without wishing that there were more Methodist Protestants there.

In the second place, Christian living in the twentieth century is significant because of the opportunities for informing ourselves. To the man who wants to read life is rich because it is full of good books. Somebody in talking about the value of biography said, "Why is a man content with one life when he can have a thousand?" The world is full of inspiring examples that have been written down for our admonition and our instruction. Then there is the radio that brings to us the choicest music and great addresses. Of course you must do some tuning out as well as some tuning in to get the best, but that same principle must be used in books. Also there is the religious press that comes to our table, with a rich collection of fine things for the mind to feast upon.

And to the people who want to reach others as well as to be reached there are the daily papers, the church papers and the radio as well as leaflets and various other things to mould public opinion. On a farm a short distance from where I was brought up were some relatives of mine. We had no telephone and the only way that I could communicate with them was to go to their home after the day's work was done. Those relatives have married and live in different cities. Last year I stood by a small device in what was called a studio and talked, not any louder than I used to talk, and those relatives in cities a hundred miles away sat in their cozy corners and listened to me as plainly as if I had been standing in their own home. "Marvelous indeed," you say; yes, but it is very true. For the past several weeks somebody has been giving to the daily paper extracts from my Sunday morning sermons. A few days ago I was walking along the street in a town several miles away and I saw a colored man standing on the street corner, and he said, "Is not this Mr. Pritchard?" and I assured him that it was, and he said, "I look for your sermon in the daily paper every Monday morning and read every word of it." Is it worth while to use the press? If a colored man away off yonder is looking for what we say, think of the opportunities of reaching people both here and there and everywhere else. Yes, it is great to live in these days of many opportunities.

S. O. S. CALL

Dear Brother Pastor:

I wish I could share with you my anxiety for our missionary work. It is in dire distress. We have been pushed back to where we were 25 years ago. Did you read the letters from our Missions appearing in the Methodist Protestant-Recorder of January 26? They were the most discouraging, and most challenging letters I have ever known our missionaries to write. To hear Paul Cassen and Miss Miskimen say, "It seems to us this is the beginning of the end" is almost heartbreaking, and my soul cries out, "IT SHALL NOT BE"! You can help us save the situation by doing two things:

First—Lead your women and your charge in securing a generous February Thank-offering.

Second—Begin now to plan for the greatest Easter in our history. The Kingdom depends on you.

J. C. Broomfield.

FRIENDS

Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are gold;
New-made friendships, like new wine,
Age will mellow and refine.
Friendships that have stood the test—
Time and change—are surely best;
Brow may wrinkle, hair grow gray,
Friendship never knows decay.

For 'mid old friends, tried and true,
Once more we our youth renew.
But old friends, alas! may die,
New friends must their place supply.
Cherish friendship in your breast,
New is good, but old is best;
Make new friends, but keep the old,
Those are silver, these are gold.

Clinic Hospital

Experienced Helper—All right: I will show you where she left off sweeping.

N. H.—I shorely will thank you. How long does it take to learn this business?

E. H.—About two days.

N. H.—Can you learn all about it in two days?

E. H.—You can if you are smart; I did it and I am awfully dumb.

May these girls reach their highest ideals in life!

We were impressed with the kindly spirit of helpfulness that pervades the institution. This spirit with its growing means will enable it to render a great service in the years to come.

My stay in the hospital was only two weeks, all spent in bed, and I cannot flatter myself that I learned as much as did the sweeper girl. But I learned enough from the Clinic to have high esteem for all hospitals of its class.

STANDING UP FOR JESUS

Not one of the group of boys who hurried home from school was more excited than Geoff Brown as the little house down by the river came in sight.

"He's sure to be at home about this time," whispered Ned Smith, as if the person in the little house had ears sharp enough to hear at that distance. "He cooks his own meals, and he will be getting his supper ready now. See, there is smoke coming out of the crazy chimney."

"Perhape he'll chase us," suggested quiet little Arthur Peel.

"All the more fun," said Geoff. "That's what we're coming for. He's no good, they say, and it won't hurt no matter how much we tease him. Perhaps he'll get mad and leave town, and that will be a good thing."

"Some one ought to go first and see what he's doing," suggested Ned as they drew nearer. "I would, only—"

"I will," said Geoff bravely. "I'll go around by the back and peek in at the window, and if it's all right for you to come on, I'll wave. But be careful not to make a noise."

Then, without waiting for anyone else to offer, he was off, slipping quietly down by the bank of the river, and tiptoeing up to the dusty window. But somehow he seemed to stay there longer than was needed.

"He doesn't need to be that long just looking to see if he's there," complained Ned.

"He looks as if he was seeing somethtng special," said Arthur. "There he comes now, and he hasn't waved or anything yet."

And Geoff didn't wave at all, although the old man was there and it would be so easy for them to push in the door and startle him as they had planned. And he didn't say anything about pushing the door in as he came slowly back to the group.

"Can we go now?" asked Ned. "Is the coast clear?"

"Not now or any other time," was the reply. "We're not going to do a thing to him."

"Well, I say we are," said Ted. "I thought of this first, and I'm going to have some fun since we've come so far."

"Then you'll have to push past me first," declared Geoff, stepping into the narrow path. "That old man's all right. I saw him."

Then Geoff was silent. He knew the boys would laugh, and be more ready than ever, perhaps, to tease the old man, but he wasn't going to let them.

"I know because I saw him," he continued boldly. "I saw him there, kneeling beside a queer old bed in the corner. He was saying his prayers, and we're not going near him."

"Sure we are," laughed Ned. "What does saying prayers matter? He'll be all the more scared when we pop in on him."

"Well, you're not going to pop in on him, and prayers matters a lot. They—they matter more than anything else. They—" Geoff did not kuite know how to go on, but he felt he must. He had promised in Sunday school, only last Sunday, that he would stand up for Jesus, and this seemed to be a chance to do so.

"Prayers means speaking to God," he said quietly, "and that's the greatest thing any one can do. I—I am going to ask Him right now to—to show us some way to help old Hooper, 'stead of teasing him. If there is a way, He'll show us, and I know He'd want us to go home now and leave the old man to talk to Him—alone."

And, perhaps because Geoff was so brave about it, or perhaps because the others had promised to stand up for Him, too, and had forgotten about it, they all turned and walked away from the little house by the river, and not even Ned Smith thought of calling Geoff a coward.—Olive Plants.

"GENTLE JESUS"

Don was a rough little boy. Everybody said so. The neighbors where Don lived didn't want their children to be in the company of Don, because they said he taught the little ones to be bad-mannered. You know what that means, don't you? Of course you do, for your mother has carefully taught you to say "please" and "thank you," and to be polite at home and everywhere. Don was not polite, but he was not to be blamed altogether, for the poor little laddie was motherless.

Don's mother died when he was six years old, and now he was nine and there was no one to teach him to be nice, for father was one of those salesmen who have to be away most of the time.

Most of the boys and girls who did know Don loved him dearly, for he was generous-hearted and kind. I don't believe anyone ever saw Don tying a tin can to a dog's tail, or hurting an animal in any way. Don was truthful too, and he was plucky—but he was rough.

One day Don confided to his particular friend, a little girl named Ella, why it was that he was not police, and this is what the little boy said: "I ain't going to say 'please' and 'thank you' for anybody. It's awful sissy. Once I saw a man that was big and strong and he had muscles like this" —Don held his hands wide apart—"and he said funny words 'n' everything. I'm gonna be like that man."

Poor little Don. He did not know any better, you see.

But one day one of the nice mothers in Don's town invited Don to her house for a week. Don was happy. It was good to sleep in a new bed. He felt quite grown up. Every night the nice lady would turn back the covers of the snow-white beds of her own little boy and Don, and when the light was out, and just a dim light shining from the next room, she would tell them stories about Jesus. Don had never been told about Jesus before, and his eyes opened wide in wonder, and with admiration for the wonderful Man who had been a boy like himself. To Don, Jesus seemed everything that was marvelous and beautiful, and in his young heart there came a big longing to be like Him. The mother of the other little boy was glad—so glad that her eyes were filled with happy lights, when one evening Don said, "How can I be like Jesus?" She explained to the little fellow how he must pray to Jesus to take all the naughty things out of his heart, and help him to be good in the future. Then she taught Don a prayer and told him to say it every morningand evening. It was this:

"Gentle Jesus, meek and mild,
Look upon a little child,
Pity my simplicity,
Suffer me to come to Thee."

"That means," said Don, "that if I'm like Jesus I'll be kind and polite and not say funny words."

That kind mother drew Don to her breast and kissed his dark curls and said said: "Yes, Don, Jesus was the greatest Man that ever lived, and He was gentle and meek and mild."

NO "IF"

There was a knock at the door of Aunt Fanny's pleasant kitchen one morning, and on the steps stood a little girl with a basket on her arm.

"Don't you want to buy something?" she asked as she came in. "Here are some nice home-knit stockings."

"Surely you did not knit these yourself, little girl?" said Aunt Fanny.

"No, ma'am; but grandmother did. She is lame, so I run about and sell them. She says we are partners."

Aunt Fanny laughed and then bought some stockings. As she counted out the money to pay for them, Maggie said, "This will buy bread and butter for supper."

"What if you had not sold anything?" asked Aunt Fanny.

But Maggie shook her head. "You see, we prayed, 'God, give us this day our daily bread'; and so there is no 'if' about it."—The P. H. Advocate.

"A BUSY BOY"

The missinary from China told many interesting things about his work for Christ in that land. His stories about the boys and girls interested Henry more than anything else. He liked to hear about these children who were so much like him, yet different in so many ways. He would like to see those boys and girls.

Mother found him the next day with his tin soldiers all lined up in a row before him. Henry was jabbering at them in words she could not understand.

"What are you saying to them, Henry?" she asked.

"These are Chinese boys, and I'm talking in their language."

"Are you a soldier or a missionary?"

"I'm a missionary this time," Henry replied. "I'm preaching to them."

"But what are you preaching?"

This made Henry stop to think. "What do missionaries preach?" he was forced to ask.

This caused his mother to sit down and explain why missionaries went to other lands, that folks who didn't know of Jesus might hear the Gospel.

Henry nodded that he understood. "These Chinese boys don't know about Jesus. If I was a missionary, I would tell them about Him. I would like to be a missionary, but I suppose I am too little."

"Yes, you must wait until you grow up," his mother replied.

Henry thought about that part of it through the day. He wanted to do something now, and not wait until he grew up. Surely, there must be something for a willing boy to do.

"Mother," he asked along in the afternoon, "did you have any of those Gospels of John left over? You know,—those small ones you gave your class?"

"Yes," she replied, "I have several of those."

"May I have them?"

"What do you want with them, Henry?"

"I thought of some folks on our street that don't go to church, and maybe if I took them a Gospel of John and invited them to church, they might listen to a little fellow like me. In that way I can do some missionary work without waiting to grow up. I can carry the Gosple in that way."

And so Henry became the little missionary on his street, carrying the Gospel to those near at hand, which is as much missionary work as taking it to those far away.

Henry found that the way to become interested in foreign boys was to be interested in those on your own street. If a boy didn't care if his neighbor missed Sunday school and church, he wouldn't care whether a Chinese boy went or not. Does your chum go to church? If not, then you can be a little missionary like Henry.—Selected.

"I'M HARD OF HEARING, YOU KNOW"

Lois Casen was cross. Things were not going right. She could not find her new story book nor her baby doll, and she wanted to put on her new dress and go out for a walk. And, oh, ever so many things were going wrong.

"I think it is real mean, to have it rain today," she said.

"What did you say, dearie?" asked Grandma, putting her hand to her ear; "Grandma is hard of hearing, you know."

"I said I thought it was horrid to rain today," shouted Lois, coming closer.

"A happy rain, did you say? Oh, yes; lovely! It makes the grass almost laugh, and I should not wonder if the buds on the flowers will open right out."

"Grandma, I said it was mean to rain," yelled Lois.

"A clean rain? Yes, indeed, it is; and it makes everything else clean, too; just see how it has washed the dust off of the trees and the grass."

"Oh, dear!" said Lois, "I do wish Grandma could hear." Then she tried again; going up close to Grandma, "I said, I did not like the rain a bit."

"You like the rain and the wet, do you? Well, so do I. It is so pleasant to sit here and watch it, and see how nice it is making everything look. By and by there will be a rainbow, and that will be nicer yet. Yes, I like the rain, too. Do you know, before I was so hard of hearing I liked to sit and listen to the rain drops pitter-patter on the window pane as they ran a race down the pane. Don't you like to listen to them? They make lovely music, I know."

"Oh, dear me!" said Lois; "Grandma has not heard a word I have said."

"What are you saying, dearie?" asked Grandma, with a queer little pucker around the corner of her mouth; "I'm hard of hearing, you know."

Lois saw the puckered mouth, and began to think it was queer that Grandma could not hear anything aright. But she decided to try once more. She went close to her but did not speak quite so loud and said, "Grandma, I love you."

"Do you, my darling?" answered Grandma with a sweet smile, "how glad I am, for I love you, my little sunbeam. I'm hard of hearing, you know, but I can't help hearing when people say sweet and pleasant things."

I wish we all had ears that were deaf to the words of fault-finding and criticism; to quarrels and tattling; to the unkind and unpleasant words.

What a wonderful place this would be, if we never heard anything except the pleasant and kind and good things.

What do you say, boys and girls, let us play we are deaf to these things and lot listen at all when people speak of unpleasant things.—Selected.

LITTLE BOBBIE

A poor little fellow was picked up in the street, with both thighs crushed by a truck. He was carried to a hospital. By his side was temporarily placed, from the same slum, a little fellow who was very ill with a disease caused by hunger and bad air. He lay side by side with the broken-legged little boy. Creeping up to him, he said, "Bobby, did you never hear of Jesus?"

"No, I never heard o' Him."

"Bobby, I went to the Mission School once, and they told me that Jesus would take you to Heaven when you die, and you wouldn't never be hungry no more, if you'd ax Him."

"O, I don't know no sich great big gentleman as He is, and if I did, He wouldn't speak to a poor boy like me."

"In the Mission School they told me He would. Don't you want never to be hungry no more?"

"O, just don't I!"

"Then you ax Him."

"How could I ax the gentleman if I don't know where He lives? And if I did know, my leg is broke, and I couldn't go."

"Bobby, they told me in the Mission School that Jesus passes by, and we songed about Jesus passing by, and teacher told us it means He comes round. How do you know He isn't coming round this 'ere hospital tonight? And if He should, and you was watching for Him, you could see Him, and then you could ax Him."

"I couldn't watch for Him, my legs ache so awful, and I couldn't keep my eyes open."

"But I say, Bobby, you can hold your hand up, and if He should come round and see your hand up, He'd know you was arter something."

He held his hand up, but it dropped. He held it up again, and it dropped. He held it up the third time, and as it dropped he burst out crying, and said, "I'll give it up; I can't hold my hand up no longer."

"Bobby, I don't want my pillow. You let me prop your elbow up with it."

And the child—whom, perhaps you would sweep off your door step, or turn away from with disgust—took his own hospital pillow, and placed it under the elbow of his sick companion, propped up his arm. In the morning the little fellow lay dead, with his hand held up for Jesus.

You may search the world over, and you cannot find a grander example of faith, trust, and confidence than was manifested in that little fellow who had been in the Mission School but once.

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matt. 11:28.)—Messages of Love.

FAITH AND UNBELIEF

Some unknown writer states there are three kinds of people in the world, the wills, the won'ts and the can'ts. The first accomplish everything; the second oppose everything; the third fail in everything. Having worked out on the anvil of an unusually trying kind of life the supreme joys and excellence of faith, the heroic John Bunyan had the following to say by way of a contrast between faith and unbelief:

Faith believes the Word of God; unbelief questions the same.

Faith sees more in a promise of God to help than in all other things to hinder; unbelief, notwithstanding all of God's promises, says, "How can these things be?"

Faith will help the soul to wait, though God defers to give; unbelief will throw up all, if God makes any tarry.

Faith will give comfort in the midst of fear; unbelief causes fears in the midst of comfort.

Faith brings us near to God; unbelief puts us from God, when we are near to Him.

Faith makes our work acceptable to God through Christ; but whatsoever is of unbelief is sin, for without faith it is impossible to please Him.

Faith gives us peace and comfort in our souls; unbelief works trouble and tossing, like the restless waves of the sea.

By faith we have our life in Chrit's fulness, but by unbelief we starve and pine away.

So, let us have faith in God.—Wesleyan Methodist.

—The daily papers carried the information on Tuesday of the death of Rev. J. W. Hulin on Monday morning. Since his retirement from the active work in 1930 Brother Hulin has lived near Love Joy church in Montgomery county. He served a number of years in the pastorate and labored zealously for the Lord.

—We take pride in having printers who can turn their hands to editorial writing when occasion comes. We also thank Dr. J. E. Pritchard and all others who had any part in the issue of the HERALD of the last two weeks. How can we thank enough those who sent money to help defray the extraordinary expenses? Or those who came in person to express sympathy? Our joy was heightened by gifts of books, flowers, and letters. Divine blessing on all the friends!

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Connelly Springs Charge.—On Monday afternoon, January 8th, the ladies of Shady Grove church met at the parsonage with our pastor's wife, Mrs. J. L. Love, to organize a Ladies' Aid. Officers were elected: Mrs. J. L. Love, president; Mrs. Ruth Aiken, vice-president; Miss Julia Bell Watson, secretary and treasurer; program committee, Mrs. Ruth Aiken; sick committee, Mrs. A. V. Setzer, Mrs. Fulton Tomlinson, Mrs. C. C. Fortenbury; flower committee, Mrs. H. D. Garmon and Mrs. Ada Watson; new member committee, Mrs. Grace Hice; parsonage committee, Mrs. Garmon and Mrs. John Watson. The ways of swelling the treasury were discussed, and the society voted to make a quilt, getting names to go on it. They all seemed anxious and willing to do their part. The society met with Mrs. Ada Watson last Monday night. All members were present except one. Ten new members were added to the society. Program as usual. The first five chapters of Genesis were discussed by the president, after which a few games were played. Twelve dollars reported for names to go on the quilt. Plans for swelling the treasury were to continue the names for the quilt. Also an oyster supper will be given at the parsonage Saturday evening, February 17th, about 7 o'clock. We feel that this society will be a help to our church and community.

In spite of the cold weather our Sunday school is still very good. We started a little contest February 4th. An ice cream supper will be given at the end of three months to the class that has the most new members, and the best attendance. We hope that this will prove beneficial to our Sunday school.

The prayer meeting has been changed from Sunday night to Wednesday night. Preaching service every first Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, second, third, and fourth Sunday nights at 7 o'clock.

A service was held especially for the young people last Sunday with special music. A fine sermon was delivered by our pastor, Rev. J. L. Love.

If the people continue to work and pray, we believe that Shady Grove will come out victorious this year.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Henderson.—A Standard Leadership Training School was set in motion in the Henderson church January 21 and closed on the night of the 26th. Rev. F. L. Gibbs organized the school and stayed through Monday night, after which the pastor acted as dean and Rev. D. D. Broome took the part of director, I believe. The school was successful, though the attendance was rather small. There were about 25 who attended all or a part of the time. Thirteen received credits for courses completed, seven in course No. 4, "The New Testament," taught by the pastor of the church, and six in course No. 72, "Young People's Materials and Methods," taught by Miss Maxine Taylor. The effort was worth while, though at a more favorable time of year more would have attended.

Young People's Day was observed in all the services Sunday, February 4th. A program was given at the Sunday school hour in which three of our young people made talks. The mixed Glee Club of the High School rendered special music. At the 11 o'clock hour the Girls' Glee Club of the High School furnished special music. The pastor preached on the subject: "Two Young Men Meet Jesus." At 5 o'clock in the evening another special service was held in which the Young People's choir furnished the music and Prof. A. M. Fountain, of State College, made an address on "Growth." The attendance was above the average for all these services. Miss Maxine Taylor and Bro. W. R. Trogdon constituted the committee, appointed by Supt. Henry Powell, to arrange these services. They have our thanks for good service rendered.

Glenn Satterwhite, who has been confined to the Maria Parham Hospital for the past three weeks, returned to his home Saturday. Mrs. F. R. Harris continues critically ill at her home. Mrs. C. L. Finch has been with her father, who has been seriously ill for the past three weeks. His home is in Farmville. Mrs. J. B. Fox, who has been taking treatment in Richmond for several weeks, has not yet returned home. We regret to learn that her condition does not seem to improve. Mrs. T. H. Hight and Miss Myra, Mrs. C. F. Tankersley, Sr., and Mr. Walter Grissom are confined to bed at this time. Miss Lucy Hayes, who recently underwent a serious operation at Maria Parham Hospital, is recuperating at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bill Lewis, in Atlanta, Ga. All of these have our sympathy and prayers.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

Roberta.—It has been some time since we reported, but this does not indicate that we are not on the job, for I can truthfully say, that not only myself, but the whole church, has been working harder since Christmas than we commonly work. As pastor we have been laboring under the handicap of a large bunch of strangers, because, as most all new pastors do, we found much to be done, and we have been trying to do some of these things and at the same time get acquainted with our co-workers. I greatly feel that our spiritual conditions are improving, greater interest is being taken, and especially the evening services are becoming interesting and well attended. We try to make our evening services entirely evangelistic. The Sunday school is growing nicely despite the rough and cold weather; in fact, all our organizations are going well and growing stronger. In the beginning of the Conference year the Ladies' Auxiliary took the responsibility of the insurance of the church and parsonage and some repair bills which amounted to $74.25. They have very woman-like paid these bills off and are now ready to help lift others. The Christian Endeavor has charge of all the special days, and is now preparing to observe "Young People's Day." This day should have been observed earlier, but for the fact that the Ladies' Auxiliary was sponsoring a play. The young people moved theirs up a few weeks. This play, "Saving of Wearyworld," will be given on Sunday evening, February 25th.

Now we men have found an unusual task, a debt of almost $600. We have found a mortgage covering both church and parsonage. This responsibility has become an old sore for the past three years, and is greatly hindering in caring for other responsibilities of the church. So we have decided to unburden the church and pay this debt off, and some of our good women are helping do that. In order to pay this off we must have 100 men that will pay five dollars each, although some have pledged $10 and some $25, none less than $5. A committee has worked only one week and over 75 pledges have been made, and some pledges have been paid. We are planning to reach the goal in two more weeks, although we are giving ourselves until the first Sunday in April, the day on which we will celebrate.

We are greatly encouraged at the interest these good people are taking in the work, not only our members, but the whole community; yet we do have, as most churches, a large number that do not become interested in anything in the church. We are trying to rally to Dr. Andrews' call in trying to get them back to church. This is not only a task for the pastor, but for the whole church. For this purpose we are publishing a four-page leaflet monthly for our local church, hoping to keep the program and activities of the church before non-attentive members. We find that it is well filling its mission and has become an interesting monthly feature of the church. I will be glad to mail any pastor a copy of this little publication that you may try the plan yourself. We trust that our Editor is at least able to be back in the home, if not at the office. Our prayers are with you, Dr. McCulloch, and our subscription allotment and subsidy will also be with you in due time.

Brethren, may we have your prayers.

EARL A. COOK, Pastor.

Roberta.—Rev. Earl A. Cook filled his regular appointments at our church Sunday, February 4th, with two splendid sermons. The congregation for the evening service was somewhat larger than usual. Rev. Cook announced that, if it were the Lord's will, he planned to make the evening service evangelistic.

The Sunday school has continued to prosper under the leadership of our superintendent, Mr. Zeb Cochrane.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is giving a supper and play at the Roberta Schoolhouse Saturday, February 10. The proceeds will go to pay the insurance on the church.

The C. E. Society had a business meeting last Sunday night after the regular program. A complete change was made in officers of the society. We hope that the society will grow in number and prosper greatly under the leadership of these new officers as it did under the thoughtful attention of our old leaders.

CLARA LINKER, Reporter.

Laurel Hill, Fallston Circuit.—Rev. H. F. Fogleman preached an unusually good sermon February 11th, using a double text, "Deep calleth unto deep," and "And the Word was made flesh." We are much interested in our pastor and hope to show our appreciation by doing our part. Our congregation was not very large on account of the weather and sickness which is spread through the community.

The Sunday school is doing very well. Our Sunday school lesson was very interesting

Sunday; the subject, "Timely Warning," or "The House on the Rock." It was Jesus' habit to illustrate His talks with parables. So at this time He warned His hearers to beware of false prophets as they would wolves in sheeps' clothing. There are many of them today. In continuing he spoke a parable of the men who builded houses. "A wise man built his house upon the rock." Jesus said, "But the foolish man built his house upon the sand."

Rev. and Mrs. Fogleman are planning something unusual on this charge. They are planning to visit all the members' homes that are in reach of the church or community, and to write to the members that are too far away to visit not later than March or April. We will be glad to have them in our homes.

Rev. and Mrs. Fogleman were dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sain at their home with Mr. J. W. Alwran.

We see no cause for discouragement on our charge.

Best wishes for all pastors and their churches and for the Herald. May it always be in "the service of the King."

BERTHA SAIN, Reporter.

Siler City Charge.—Impressive Young People's services were held at Hope and Piney Grove last Sunday. While the attendance was not large because of the extremely rough weather, yet we believe it was a profitable day. Mr. Leo Pittard, a ministerial student from High Point College, delivered the addresses at both churches. His addresses were thoughtful and to the point. Mr. Pittard brought with him two young boys from our Children's Home, who furnished most of the music. Our folks were pleased to hear the boys sing. The Young People's services at Siler City have been reported. I think we were all inspired by the helpful address by Miss Elizabeth Hanner.

Piney Grove church keeps making improvements from time to time. Just recently the Sunday school classes have been curtained off, the yard graded and shrubbery planted. A few Sundays ago Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Poe and daughter united with this church, Mr. Poe coming from Siler City M. P. church, and the daughter on professon of faith. Mr. and Mrs. Poe have both been teaching in our Sunday school for a number of years. We were very glad to receive this family into our fellowship.

We are looking forward to the coming of Dr. Andrews on the fourth Sunday in this month.

H. L. ISLEY.

Flat Rock Charge.—Owing to sickness among some of the members and the unfavorable weather, we did not have as many present for the Sunday school at Gideon's Grove last Sunday morning. The attendance at the church service was not as good as usual. At the conclusion of the sermon the following members were received by certificate: Mrs. C. B. Way, from State Street Methodist Protestant church, Lexington; Mildred Way and Louise Way, from Pleasant Hill Methodist Protestant church, West Forsyth charge.

The service at Flat Rock at 3 o'clock in the afternoon was fairly well attended. There is sickness among members at this church. We were delighted to have Rev. B. A. Culp, pastor and evangelist, of Winston-Salem, to preach the sermon. His theme was, "Knowing God." It was a very helpful and inspiring sermon, and many favorable comments were heard from members of the congregation.

Bro. Ira N. Johnson, of Flat Rock church, has joined the circle of subscribers to the Methodist Protestant Herald, and we trust that many others will follow his example. Twenty-five sample copies of the Herald have been distributed among members which we hope will result in additional subscribers.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Palestine church at 11 a. m., and at Bethel church at 3 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Chestnut Ridge, Orange Charge.—The work is moving along very nicely at our church, with very good attendance and splendid interest in the services. In place of going into winter quarters, our Sunday school is striving to pull through the winter months. Although we hope for a larger attendance when spring opens.

Young People's Day was observed at our church the first Sunday in this month.

We regret to lose one of our most faithful members and a steward, Mr. Dewit Pender, who transferred his membership to Mebane M. P. church. Our prayers and best wishes go with Mr. Pender and his new wife. Mr. Chester A. Sykes was appointed to succeed Mr. Pender as steward.

Our Missionary Circles have turned in their proportionate amount on the name quilt, money amounting to $15.05, which is to be applied on purchasing a new cook stove for the parsonage. All of our four churches are working on this project.

Mr. Jim Sykes, of Hillsboro, was stricken with paralysis February 6 and died February 7. Interment was made in Chestnut Ridge cemetery.

We are hoping and praying that Dr. McCulloch may be restored to perfect health. His has been a brave and valiant fight for Christianity. Wish that we all could be as uplifting to Christian character as Dr. McCulloch has been.

MRS. DAVID SYKES, Reporter.

Littleton.—We do not report to the Herald as often as some, but we are still here and the work is going on nicely at each church. We have two Sunday schools on the work, one at Hawkins Chapel, and one at Weavers Chapel, both doing fine. We hope that we will soon have one at Corinth.

The attendance has been real good at each church and it has almost doubled at Vaughn and more than doubled at Weaver's Chapel.

You talk about a pounding, well, we sure did get one. Our good people at Weavers Chapel surprised us on the 30th of January, about 7 o'clock, when several of the members came to the parsonage and after talking a while they began to bring in the supply of good things that they had brought to us: a nice ham and a large shoulder and canned fruit, dried fruit, flour, meal, and a number of other things too numerous to mention; we also receive a large ham from Brother Manning at Vaughn. May the dear Lord bless them all and we will try to do our part as best we can to serve them.

We are glad to see such good reports from Draper, and to know that Bro. Helms likes his work so well; but he could not help liking Draper, for he has some as good people there as anywhere. I miss our good friends up there but am glad that everywere we go we find good people.

We are sorry that Bro. Frank Frazier had to suffer so long and was not able to attend church. He gave his heart to the Lord during our stay at Draper, and was one of the happiest men I ever met. We hate to give him up, but we feel that Heaven has been made brighter, for there is one more up there and we expect to meet him some day.

We are sorry that two of our members are sick: Mrs. Del Aycock, of Weavers Chapel, is suffering from a stroke of paralysis and Brother Kenneth Hawkins is very low. We hope they will recover and again take their place at the church.

R. L. VICKERY, Pastor.

South Winston.—February 4 finished up one year our present pastor, Bro. Atlas Ridge, has been with us, and we have enjoyed this year just fine and I believe he brought good luck with him, for we have gotten along fine with the work on our church and are still in hope of completing it before much longer.

Our pastor came to us Sunday morning with an excellent sermon. His subject was, "This Is My Job," and everybody listened very attentively and was well pleased as he explained it so well.

Sunday afternoon we visited his brother, C. A. Ridge, on South Main street, and after spending some time we came by to visit one of our members, Mr. J. A. Horton, for a while.

Our Sunday night service began about 7:30, but we didn't have so many present as Sunday morning; we had a good service just the same. His text was: "And Isaac digged again the wells of water which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father: for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham; and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them." His subject was "Digging Wells."

Draper, you may come on now with your subscriptions to the Herald. I noticed in the February 1st issue that you were in the lead with 64 per cent, but South Winston now has its 100 per cent, so luck to you all. "Who will be in second place in next issue?

Bro. C. E. Ridge did not come to visit us at our service as we expected last Sunday due to sickness and other appointments, but has promised to be down for afternoon service third Sunday coming and we are expecting to have some good singing by somebody. We do not want to disappoint anybody, so come and bring someone with you.

W. C. NORRIS, Reporter.

English Street.—Our pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill, has been unable to occupy the pulpit for the last few Sundays, due to illness. We hope he will soon be with us again. Sunday morning, Prof. P. S. Kennett, of High Point College, brought a fine sermon on "Ruth." We greatly enjoyed Professor Kennett's message; hope he will come again.

At the evening service, Rev. R. M. Andrews, president of the Conference, spoke briefly of the work of the Conference, what the Conference is trying to do, and then brought us an inspiring message on "The Sin of Indifference." We regret exceedingly that our congregation was small, due to the inclement weather. It seems a shame that church people are kept at home by a little rainy or cold weather, and yet, they go to their work every morning in the same kind of weather. Is not God's work the most important work to be done? It seems that this is one thing in which we are slack.

The C. E. Society is planning to raise money in the near future to buy some new songbooks and tidies for the choir. We are quite sure that these will be a great help.

Quite a number of our members are sick. We miss them very much and hope they will all soon be well and back with us. We ask the prayers of all the Herald readers for our church, for the effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

REPORTER.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Members of the J. F. McCulloch class held a very enjoyable social meeting in the hut last Thursday evening. An elegant supper had been prepared by a committee with David Glass as chairman. J. W. Swain, president, was toastmaster. Delightful vocal numbers were rendered by Mrs. L. W. Bissett and Mrs. Robah H. Fields, accompanied at the piano by Miss Vivian Sullivan. "The New Social Order" was the subject used by Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace church, in his splendid address to the class. Timely remarks were made by Dr. Pritchard, teacher of the class. J. C. Coe, Sunday school superintendent, expressed his pleasure at the growth of the class and the plans for expansion. This class was organized when the church was founded nine years ago and was taught by Dr. McCulloch until his failing health made it necessary for him to be relieved as teacher a year or two ago. Since then the class has been taught by the pastor of the church. C. L. Parrish is secretary and treasurer of the class.

Dr. Pritchard based his talk at the prayer service last Wednesday evening on the words, "Be not afraid, it is I." "When Jesus spoke these words to the disciples during the storm on the sea of Galilee they had faith," said Dr. Pritchard, and he declared that FAITH is what the people of today need and that if we can "keep our eyes on the Lord and keep our faith we will get along all right."

The Calvary members are looking forward with a great deal of enthusiasm to the meeting of the Central Pastors' Federation at our church next Monday, beginning at 10:30 o'clock.

Dr. R. M. Andrews, president of the Methodist Protestant Conference, will make his official visit to our church next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. This will take the place of the regular Sunday evening service.

Mrs. T. F. McCulloch has been confined to her home by illness for several days. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

We are glad to report that Dr. J. F. McCulloch has returned to his home after having spent the past two weeks in the Clinic Hospital. He stood the ordeal of having his teeth extracted remarkably well.

Dr. and Mrs. Pritchard visited Dr. Pritchard's cousin, Mrs. W. R. Hamlin, in Asheboro, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hamlin is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Garrett, of near Burlington, visited relatives here Sunday and attended the District meeting at our church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. E. Pritchard entertained the members of the Myrtle Bates Sunday school class, of which she is teacher, at the parsonage Monday evening. Quite a large attendance was present. Miss Velna Beam is president of the class and Mrs. L. W. Bissett is secretary.

Dr. Pritchard delivered a very inspiring sermon to the Boy Scouts, Troop No. 7, last Sunday morning. He used for his subject, "Daniel and His Purpose." He observed that the only reason we know anything about Daniel today is because he had some convictions and stood for them. He urged that the boys, whether brought up in a Christian or non-Christian home, have a purpose in life.

Just preceding the sermon, Floyd G. Reynolds, scoutmaster, introduced the troop committeemen. He stated that these men were the ones the boys went to for advice on confronting problems. He said that the purpose of Scouting is to train boys to become useful citizens and the sole purpose of Scouting is "Building of character and teaching morale." He quoted an organizer of Scout movements as saying: "Building boy is better than mending man." The scoutmaster said that Scouting, like any other organization, must have a foundation to succeed, and that the Scouting foundation is built on: Oath, laws, slogan and motto. He then called the Scouts forward and had them renew their pledge to the Scout oath, which is: "I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." They then repeated the Scout laws, which are: "A Scout is Trustworthy, Loyal, Helpful, Friendly, Courteous, Kind, Obedient, Cheerful, Thrifty, Brave, Clean, and Reverent." They also repeated the slogan: "Do a good turn daily" and the motto: "Be prepared." Four of the Scouts dressed in their uniforms served as ushers in this special service. They were Billy Caudle, Robert Lee Laughlin, Clarence Ingram, and Johnnie Emanuel.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet in the hut next Monday evening at 7:30.

In the District meeting held in our church Sunday afternoon the boards and institutions in the North Carolina Methodist Protestant Church were dramatized by the following ministers: Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace church, represented the Annual Conference; Rev. T. J. Whitehead, pastor of West End church, represented High Point College; Rev. D. I. Garner, pastor of St. Paul's, represented the Children's Home; Rev. M. P. Chambliss, pastor of Moriah, represented the Methodist Protestant Herald; Rev. G. L. Curry, pastor of Tabernacle-Julian, represented the superannuated ministers; and our pastor, Dr. Pritchard, represented the Board of Church Extension. Articles dealing with the boards and institutions had been prepared and these ministers either committed them to memory or gave the substance of the articles, each person representing himself as that interest.

Preceding the dramatization a devotional service was conducted by Dr. Pritchard, the District chairman. A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Robah H. Fields. Mrs. D. S. Coltrane spoke enthusiastically of the women's work in North Carolina and gave some facts concerning conditions in foreign fields.

At 7:30 the devotional service was conducted by Rev. G. L. Curry and addresses were delivered by Rev. T. J. Whitehead, on "The Program of the Conference Council of Religious Education," and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll spoke on "The More Efficient Sunday School."

Quite a number of people were present from most of the churches in the District.

Two of the pictures used in the dramatization were by Greensboro artists. One of these was done by Bart Leiper, and showed "The Superannuated Minister and His Wife." Coley Sullivan's picture of a church also received much favorable comment.

Dr. Pritchard assisted in conducting the funeral services of Mrs. W. G. Coble, a former member of Calvary, at Tabernacle church Monday afternoon.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

Whitaker's Church.—Beginning January 15 and continuing through the week, our pastor conducted the Leadership Training School in our church. Am sorry to say, very few took part in the school; those who did, however, felt benefited by being there and taking part.

The first Sunday night in February we observed Young People's Day with an appropriate program. Our Sunday school is holding up fairly well in spite of the fact we have had some bad weather and some sickness among our folks.

Our hearts were made sad by the recent death of a relative which occurred at his home in Richmond, Va., Saturday. He was raised in our community and was much loved by all who knew him, Mr. Joe Johnston, familiarly known as "Joe" by a host of friends and loved ones. We especially sympathize with his widow who is left alone. May the God of peace comfort her as He only can.

Best wishes to our Editor. Do hope his hospital trip will prove of great benefit to him.

REPORTER.

Graham.—Graham is off for a good start in raising her Annual Conference and World Service budget. Her Superannuate apportionment was over raised when a special offering was taken for the aged preachers and their wives at Christmas time. And recently the men of the church "pulled a big one" when they put on a banquet to raise the A. C. expense. Paul Cheek was chief cook, and he had good assistants in Charles Reavis and Bob Davis. These cooks showed that they had had great training in the kitchen and demonstrated great ability when it came to shoveling spuds or serving chicken-salad. The remarkable thing about it all was that such men as P. B. Core, J. D. Foust, C. L. Clarke, who perhaps (?) never knew the difference between a frying-pan and a stew-kettle, appeared to feel perfectly at home. And this was not all of it. Out in the dining room were the three Johns. There was John Webster, tagged as the chief waiter; John Amick and John McPherson, trying their best to serve the food in style and satisfy the hunger of the multitude. And last, but not least, was our lawyer, Jim Cook, doing everything in his power to fill in with his ready fun where the service otherwise left vacant. And the ice cream—oh, well, Lawrence Cheek will make it from now on, for we know he knows how. Well, of course, his wife might have helped him a little. But anyway, the ice cream was just as good. And as I think about it, the women might have assisted in a few other cases, as our men have mighty good wives. As I write in behalf of our men, remembering much more that could be said that perhaps is not wise to say just at this time, I would like to say that we put over a good job of it. And it was not all done by the men on duty, either, for there were our good men behind the lines and at the distant bases of supply who each in his own way did his bit. Some cooked cakes, others pulled the feathers from well-fed hens. Phil Dixon made some homesick for the country when he sent kraut to be served. Bob Davis cooked a pot of black-eyed peas. I would like to mention them all that had a part in the "Healthy Man's Supper," but if I did, it might make the subscription rate to your paper go up. Anyway, it suffices to say it was a grand success, and you will believe it when I tell you that we raised $24.50 for the A. C. Expense apportionment to our church. A check covering the whole amount, namely, $34.00, has been sent to the treasurer, J. H. Allen.

The Auxiliary had the election of officers on Monday evening at the regular meeting. Mrs. C. C. Burke, Mrs. H. M. Rogers, and Mrs. J. D. Foust were all re-elected to their respective offices, namely, president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

First Church, Thomasville.—We are doing some good work in our church and the cold weather has not frozen us out yet.

We held our Young People's Service. The play, "Saving of Wearyworld," was given.

I notice in the various reports from other churches where the men of our Methodist Protestant Church have been holding their Fellowship Brotherhood meetings. The men of our church are organized and are holding their first meeting on Tuesday night of this week with special singers; speech by Mr. J. G. Rogers, president of the Brotherhood Fellowship of the North Carolina Annual Conference. We now have people of all ages organized into some class of mission work.

The Ladies' Auxiliary held the February meeting at the home of Mrs. Jason Hedrick on the Lexington Highway. Mrs. Stewart Westmoreland as devotional leader used the call to worship, John 15:7. Theme: How to find reality in your devotions. Mrs. A. H. Ragan, program leader, read two interesting papers on the Life dedications, one being dedicated to Mrs. Everett, our home missionary, and the other to the late Dr. Frederick Klein, foreign missionary. The Auxiliary will observe the World Day of Prayer on Friday night, February 16th. After the business session was over, Mrs. Hedrick served tempting refreshments. The meeting adjourned to meet at the home of our pastor in March.

The annual Thank-offering service will be held Sunday night, February 25th. At this time the play, "Color Blind," will be given.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Westmoreland, who lost their infant daughter, Melva Inez, on January 30th. She was ill only a few hours and died in the City Memorial Hospital. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. John Cline from Fair Grove church. Interment was made in the Fair Grove cemetery.

Mr. Lee Sullivan is very sick at his home on Woodlawn avenue.

Mrs. T. G. Madison is recovering from an attack of influenza.

I was saddened by the account of Rev. J. W. Hulin's death in the paper last night. Rev. Mr. Hulin was an ex-pastor of mine and served on the work where I attended church during my childhood for a number of years. It was during his ministry that I joined the church, being baptized by him. I am quite sure that Heaven has one more inhabitant by his leaving this world.

Our mid-week prayer service has been changed this week to Friday night, which is the day set apart for the World Day of Prayer. Therefore, prayer service has been changed so that it would coincide with this day.

Oak Grove.—On January 28 some of the young people of our church met and reorganized our society. Not all officers were elected due to the fact that our crowd was very small. We expect to elect many more sometime soon. We have not been having society during the winter months. We felt that our crowd would be too small since the weather was so disagreeable. We do not wish to overwork our new preacher, Rev. R. S. Troxler, but we appreciate the fact that he has agreed to be our leader. We feel the need of his assistance since our society is made up of a young class of people, who have had very little training. Miss Rosemary White was elected vice-president, and Mr. Summie White, secretary and treasurer. We are expecting to do some splendid work this year.

Pray for us that we may carry on this work in a way that will be pleasing to our Master.

RUBY PENDLETON, Reporter.

First Church, Concord.—We did not have a very large crowd at Sunday school or church service Sunday as the weather was so cold and rainy, and measles is keeping so many of the mothers and children away. Our heating plant did not heat up the church very well Sunday morning, anyway. A very good crowd remained for the preaching hour and Pastor Morgan gave us a real good sermon. We were so interested in the sermon I think we forgot how cold our feet were. At the morning service we received Mrs. Minnie Boyer by means of the the deaf and dumb language. We are very glad to welcome Mrs. Boyer in our church and we hope to be a blessing to her and her to us.

On Sunday afternoon we paid our last tribute of respect to Mrs. Ethel Lowder, wife of Mr. Bealer Lowder. Her funeral was conducted at the church by Pastor Morgan. Mrs. Lowder was not a member of our church, but she was a member of our Sunday school and had she lived I think she would have joined the church soon. Mrs. Lowder was only 25 years old, just in the prime of life. She leaves her husband and three children to mourn her going. Our hearts go out in sympathy to the family and relatives, and we hope and pray that her children that are sick will soon be well. Mrs. Lowder had been sick just a week with pneumonia. We were glad to see Melda Scarboro back at church after being confined with measles. Little Gary Widenhouse is confined with measles. Little Donald and R. D. Waddell are confined with severe colds, so Mrs. Waddell did not have time to report and she asked me to make a report this week. Mr. S. H. Teeter is very sick at this time. Grandma Thomas, the mother of Mrs. T. F. Newton, is sick with a severe cold, and Grandma Thomas, mother of Mrs. L. H. Sides, has been real sick but was some better Sunday. James Nevin Sides was sick last week with a bad sore throat. We are so glad that it was not diphtheria, as the doctor feared it would be.

Our hearts were sad when death came and claimed one of our neighbors, Mrs. Jerome Braswell, before marriage Miss Jerome Eudy. Mrs. Braswell had been a member of our church but several years ago she moved her membership to Forest Hill M. E. church. Her husband, Mr. Joe Braswell, died ten years ago. Mrs. Braswell was sick only two days and at first the doctor thought it was the flu, but she became worse and the doctor did not know what it was. Our hearts go out to the lonely brother, Charlie Eudy, and to all the relatives. She had made her home with her mother and father since the death of Mr. Braswell. Two years ago her mother died; her father had been dead a year or two before; since then Jerome and Charlie have lived alone. We have so many sick people that we can't mention them all now, but we hope measles and flu will soon be gone.

Our young people gave a real good play the other Sunday night, "The Saving of a Wearyworld." I do not know at this time how much the offering amounted to.

Next Sunday night the Missionary Auxiliary will have charge of the evening service. At that time they will hold their thank-offering service. The Circles are all co-operating fine this year and we hope to have a large offering Sunday night.

Our Baraca class is sure working. They don't just invite people to come, but they invite them and go after them if they live too far to walk. And the Women's class is still growing. In fact, the whole Sunday school is co-operating fine this year. The church as a whole seems to be in a co-operating spirit. We are glad to notice so many of the Sunday school members stay for church service.

The Concord folks are sorry to hear that Mr. McCulloch is sick; we hope he will soon be well; also to learn that Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk is sick. We hope and pray for a speedy recovery for all the sick folks.

BERTHA EARNHARDT.

Hawkins' Chapel, Littleton Charge.—On the first Sunday evening, Rev. R. L. Vickery gave us an inspiring sermon. At this service we had a duet by Misses Elyon and Mary Virginia Hawkins. Sunday morning our pastor gave us another beautiful message. But this is always a wonderful service, because the Lord's Supper was observed. Jesus said, "Inasmuch as you do this you remember me."

Our Sunday school is moving nicely. Last fourth Sunday morning, Miss Erma Hawkins, the girls' Senior teacher, gave a splendid report from her class for the past quarter. She also pesented to the church a vase and flowers given by her class. Sunday morning she will read a paper written by Mr. Tom Carpenter. (He is out of the men's class.) His topic is "My Trip to Jerusalem." And this is a true paper. He has seen the cross where it is said Jesus was crucified and has been on Mount Olive and put his foot in the track where it is said Jesus stepped.

We are looking forward to prayer service Sunday. Our class leader could not be with us the first Sunday.

Mr. Forest Hawkins has been our Sunday school secretary and treasurer, Miss Mary Green, assistant. The first Sunday they exchanged places.

On the second Sunday in March at 11 o'clock Rev. R. L. Vickery will preach, then go home for lunch, and in the afternoon quarterly conference will meet.

Mrs. Baldy Green, a music teacher, also our pianist, are meeting each Saturday afternoon with the Juniors for choir practice.

Many hearts were saddened last Thursday night, February 8, when death called Mr. R. K. Hawkins home. Our sympathy goes out to his wife and four children by his first wife, who went on years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hawkins are the glad parents of a little girl.

MRS. CLAUDE HAWKINS, Reporter.

Fallston Charge.—An epidemic of measles is raging in this and all nearby communities. Many of the public schools have been forced to close, some for a week and others longer. Reports fom all the Sunday schools on the charge yesterday showed attendance far below normal. Mr. Gettys Bingham, Sunday school superintendent at Friendship, is nursing a good case of measles this morning, Monday. Thus far no deaths have occurred.

Remembering the measles and the sleety weather, I received a pleasant surprise in the number who assembled for worship at Laurel Hill Sunday morning. Not as many as usual, and yet a fair congregation. Steps were taken looking toward some minor repair on the church building. Miss Florence Sain is receiving subscriptions looking toward a new carpet. In the afternoon at Macedonia church we found an attentive congregation. Mr. Lester Huss, the superintendent here, tells me that the Sunday school is keeping up unusually well. An increase in attendance has been noted throughout the fall and early winter months. At Knob Creek church on our last appointment there were 81 present for Sunday school. This is almost equal to the church membership here. Six new members joined the church at this time. We are expecting additions to some of the other churches soon.

Around a dozen men gathered at Hebron church last Tuesday afternoon and provided four nice stacks of wood. The people here worship in perhaps the newest and nicest building on the charge. Our most recent funeral, Julius Cook's, was held in this church. Brother Cook died in Georgia where he had lived for a number of years. We have had three other funerals on the work thus far during the Conference year and in the order named: Mrs. Rebekah Costner, Laurel Hill church; Jacob T. Bivens, Macedonia church; Frank Wright, Friendship church. Each of these persons had passed beyond middle life and leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn their departure.

As previously announced, Young People's Day was observed at Friendship church on the first Sunday night at the hour for the regular church service. The program was sponsored jointly by the Sunday school and the Christian Endeavor Society under the leadership of Miss Nathalie Lackey. The general subject was "Youth." Short talks were made by Miss Jessie Baxter, Mrs. E. P. Watson, Miss Lackey and the pastor. Music provided for the occasion included special selections by Mrs. Oscar Morgan, Miss Cloe Wright and Colon Wright. The attendance was good and the offering fair. One of the noticeable things about this church, and each of the others, is the large number of young people who attend and take part in all the services.

The people have given fine response to our efforts tending toward a wider circulation for the Herald. The following names have been added through subscriptions to the Herald family: J. L. Lewis, B. C. Baxter, B. H. Sain, L. E. Lindhardt, B. A. Sain, and Mrs. W. W. Richards. Moreover, we are now disposing of around 25 copies each Sunday through the Sunday schools.

At a recent meeting of the Friendship Auxiliary held at the home of the president, Mrs. F. D. Toney, plans were set in motion which have resulted in a number of substantial additions to the shrubbery and flowers about the church and parsonage. We appreciate this ever so much.

H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

West End, Thomasville.—Mid-week prayer meeting in the basement of the church Wednesday night. The board of stewards has charge for the month of February. Thursday night, February 8th, Class No. 5 held their regular monthly meeting at the home of the teacher, Mrs. L. C. Godbey. After the meeting the hostess, Mrs. L. C. Godbey and Mrs. Thomas Westmoreland served delicious refreshments to 13 members and the teacher.

Mr. Bell brought an interesting message Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service. His subject was "Wait." At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was administered.

Mrs. Tom Hamm, who is the teacher of class No. 3 of West End, is in the hospital at this writing. We hope she will soon be back in Sunday school again.

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—We have had the most severe weather in this section since 1918—snow and ice, strong northeast wind, for several days; the Albemarle sound was frozen nearly all the way across. Had it been calm it would have frozen across. Yesterday rain set in. We had no services last night owing to weather conditions. We had morning service. Bro. Bingham gave us an excellent sermon. Wish we could have had a good congregation, but the faithful few were there. We celebrated holy communion, a lovely consecration service.

Sorry to say Bro. William Wiley is confined to his bed, having had a fall, injuring his hip. Pray for his recovery. Billy White is very sick with deep cold. So far everyone else is well in the community, nothing to worry about, plenty and thankful to God for all His tender mercies. Prayers were made for Dr. McCulloch; wish him a speedy recovery. Best wishes to all.

Shiloh Church, Connelly Springs. — Our Sunday school is progressing very nicely; our attendance last Sunday was the largest this year although aur superintendent, Bro. Setzer, was unable to fill his place, having the bad luck Friday to cut his foot. We hope he will soon be back in his place.

Our pastor, Bro. Love, preached a very interesting sermon. This was his regular appointment. He also gave us an extra sermon Saturday night. His text Sunday was "And he came to himself." Some wonderful truths were directed particularly to the young folks.

We believe Bro. and Mrs. Love are greatly interested in the work for the Master, and we wish them great success.

We solicit the prayers of all the other churches for our preacher and people.

Denton Church, Denton Charge.—The day broke this morning, February 11th, cold and rainy with the temperature hovering at 26 degrees. In spite of this handicap, we had a good attendance at Sunday school with 97 present and an offering of $2.78. The assistant superintendent, Mr. N. Val Johnson, had charge of the service and he had a good program in store for us.

At 6 o'clock the young people gathered for their regular C. E. service. A good program was presented with 24 present.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Fishel

A recent tragic accident removed from us one of our beloved ministers—in point of membership the second oldest on our Conference roll—and a unique and outstanding citizen in the community where he had lived for more than 50 years.

Rev. Davidson Alexander Fishel was one of a large family—12 sons and daughters—born December 6, 1849, to Alexander and Susan Woosley Fishel.

Bro. Fishel was born and reared on a farm in north Davidson county. In his early twenties he was married to Miss Laura Hanes, of the above county, reared, no doubt, in the same neighborhood where he grew up. This happy relation was interrupted by her untimely death less than a year after her marriage. She left no children.

In 1875, in his 26th year, Bro. Fishel married again, to Miss Emma Jane Nicholson, of Warren county, N. C. This was a long and happy union, broken after 50 years by the death of Sister Fishel in February, 1925. Ten children blessed this union. The surviving children are: Mr. Ben Fishel, of Philadelphia; Mr. Sol Fishel, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. Harry and Mr. Will Fishel, of Vaughn, N. C.; Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, and Miss Pearl Fishel, of Littleton, N. C.

The beginning of the religious life of Bro. Fishel was in his early years, as his ministry began when he was about 25 years of age. For more than half a century he sought, both by precept and example, to magnify Jesus, and he came down to the end of his long and useful life in the triumphs of the Christian faith. At different times during the protracted illness of his old age he told Miss Pearl, his devoted daughter and nurse, that he was just waiting for his summons to go.

His active work as a minister must have begun about 1875, though Conference records do not supply exact information as to that. However, from what I have heard him say, that must have been about the date, and Pigeon River, in western North Carolina, must have been his first charge. I have heard him speak often of serving Pigeon River charge, and my understanding is that he went from there to what was then Littleton Mission. The Conference records show that this was in 1877. If I am correct about his Pigeon River pastorate, his active ministry covers a period of about 15 years, dating from 1875 to 1890, at which time he seems to have retired from the pastorate. He served as a preacher for a few years, and was ordained an elder in 1879, at the Temple Conference.

In the main, Bro. Fishel had long pastorates, as he served only four charges during his active ministry. After leaving Pigeon River he was assigned to Littleton Mission four years in succession, from 1877 to 1880. His next charge was North Granville, where he served six years in succession, from 1881 to 1886. He then went to Granville charge (North Granville seems to have been divided about this time), for two years, 1887, 1888. From Granville he went back to Littleton Mission for the two years of 1889 and 1890.

So far as I have been able to search the records, this last pastorate ended the active ministry of Bro. Fishel, though it did not end his preaching. He filled many appointments in our eastern charges, by invitation, and no doubt assisted the brethren in revival meetings. For quite a number of years, and up to the time of his death, his relation to the Conference has been that of Supernumerary on Littleton charge. So far as I am informed he never asked for, nor desired to be superannuated.

Bro. Fishel was a man of marked native ability, though his early schooling was very limited. As a preacher he was scriptural, clear, deliberate, and forceful. His long pastorates, and the type of people that he served, indicates his acceptableness as a preacher and his ability to win and hold the esteem of his congregation. I have felt assured, as I have talked with the people on the charges that he served, that he won their confidence and left with them a pleasing record. Bro. Fishel was a close observer, and all of his life a learner. The vigor of his mind seemed unabated even to the last. His memory was remarkable. He could recount, with vivid recollection, and in minute detail, many things that came into his experience, and under his observation, in the more remote periods of his life. He delighted in these reminiscences, and recounted them in the most interesting and entertaining manner. He was witty, and possessed of a vivid imagination. He had a fine sense of humor, and his fellowship was delightful. It may be said of Bro. Fishel that he had the spirit and the courage of a pioneer. He could not be content with things as they were. His mind and body were both active, and he was always forging ahead for something better. He was interested in things and people, and kept up with what was going on in the world. And of course he was interested in the church. He would often talk to me of the ministers of the Conference, especially those he knew, and those who were his contemporaries during his active pastorate. He was devoted to his family, and provided well for his home, and for the education of his children. He drew his family to him in an esteem and an affection that was noticeable and pleasing. For more than 50 years he had lived at Vaughn, in Warren county, and during that time he formed wide acquaintances, and made a host of friends who honor his memory. At the grave where I had attempted to make a brief appraisal of the life and character of Bro. Fishel, Judge and Congressman Kerr came to me to say that he endorsed all that I had said. He had known Bro. Fishel for years and held him in highest esteem.

The death of Bro. Fishel was tragic and occurred on the 27th of December, lst. A servant boy, occupying a room on the back of the home, accidentally turned over a lamp and from this the house was set on fire. When Bro. Fishel found out what had happened, he hurried to the back of the house and down a flight of steps to call for help. He then turned to go back into the house and fell at the top of the steps. He was quickly moved to a neighbor's house, and a doctor summoned, but to no avail. Bro. Fishel was not, for "God took him." Thus ended the long earthly life of an honorable, good, and useful man, God's servant, and one whom I delight to think of as my friend. His exact age is 84 years and 21 days.

The funeral service was held on Thursday, December 28, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul A. Johnson, and at the grave in the Littleton cemetery. The service was simple and in keeping with his modest spirit and unpretentious life. The writer was assisted in the service by Rev. Francis Joyner, of the Episcopal church; Rev. Rufus Bradley of the M. E. Church, South, and Rev. R. L. Vickery, pastor of Littleton Charge. Many were present to share in this last tribute of respect to this old and esteemed citizen. His body was committed to the earth by the side of that of his devoted wife, and we left it there beneath a covering of flowers to await in peace the triumph and glory of the resurrection morn.

May the bereaved be comforted in their affliction, and have grace to submit to God's righteous will, and be fully prepared to say, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

Powell

Mary E. Snow Powell, daughter of Frank and Martha Snow, was born July 25, 1879, died December 26, 1934. She leaves a husband, Solomon R. Powell; one brother, Monroe Snow; one niece and three nephews, all of Winston-Salem, N. C., and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss. She had been a member of Pilot Methodist Protestant church for a number of years, and while able to attend was not often absent while living in reach of the church. She lived a consistent Christian life until called away. Her last words were: "Don't worry about me;" "I don't fear death;" "there is nothing in my way."

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Smith of the Presbyterian church. Interment was mode in the Pilot M. P. cemetery.

The bereaved have our sympathy.

Pickens

In the recent passing of Mr. Rupert T. Pickens, a prominent and an appreciated landmark has been removed from boyhood days and my earlier mature life. He was my senior by several years, but one of the men whom I knew in that period of my life to which I have just referred, and for whom I had unbounded esteem. As I now appraise my attitude toward him in those days, he was to me an outstanding example of clean, capable, aspiring young manhood. His picture as a young man is vividly stamped upon my memory. I can all but hear his hearty laugh now, and see the glow of happiness on his countenance. He was always neat in his personal appearance, polished in his manners, and blameless in his conduct. He moved at ease upon high levels, and yet he had the bigness of heart, and the common touch, that made him equally at ease among those less fortunate than himself. As our lives have lengthened we have had more or less of frequent contacts, though I have not had the opportunity and pleasure of seeing him for a number of years. I am fully assured, however, that the same stamp of clean, honorable, upright, cheerful manhood that characterized his earlier days remained with him to the end, and was undimmed.

Any appraisal of his life would be incomplete if it did not deal with his religious tendencies and practice. He was reared in a home of piety and culture, and imbibed much of both of these qualities. I doubt, therefore, if there was ever a time when he was not religious. And his religion was not of the nomial sort. Inwardly he was religious. He knew the Lord. He loved the church because he loved its Head. He was interested in the progress of the church because the church stands for a spiritual kingdom in which he had citizenship. My impressions of his religion as I knew him are pleasing and inspiring. I think of him as one who believed that to "fear God and keep his commandments is the whole duty of man."

I have often appreciated the loyalty of Bro. Pickens to his church. He was in no sense a narrow denominationalist. He saw value in all churches, and shared fully in the common spirit of Christian brotherhood. But he loved his own church, and had a loyalty for it that was based on conviction, and that was not swayed by favorable or unfavorable circumstances. He was loyal to his denomination whether the church in which he worshiped was a large one or a small one. When he was located where he could do so, he frequently attended our Annual Conferences, and was always welcome, whether he was present as a visitor or a delegate. Several times he represented our Conference in the General Conference, and always in a most acceptable manner. I shall always think of him as a loyal, useful churchman, and a true Christian.

The going of Rupert T. Pickens, in the providence of God, marks the earthly end of a good man—good as a husband, and a father, a citizen, a Christian, a friend; and as his friend I desire to offer this simple tribute to his memory. S. W. TAYLOR.

Frazier

Frank Frazier was born December 19, 1909, and died January 30, 1934. He first joined Draper Baptist church and later the Methodist Protestant church.

Bro. Frazier was a good man and interested in his church; though not able to attend it, he talked much about it and prayed that he might get well so that he might do something for his church, but the Lord saw fit to take him home to be with him.

Bro. Frazier leaves to mourn their loss his wife and one child, also his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Frazier, and two brothers and three sisters.

The funeral was conducted by the writer and his body was laid to rest in the family graveyard in Vigினia to await the resurrection morn.

The family have the sympathy of all.

L. S. HELMS.

Fox

On the evening of January 22, 1934, Mr. James E. Fox passed suddenly from the scenes of this life at his home in the suburbs of Siler City at the age of 50 years. Mr. Fox was owner and operator of the Chatham County Game Preserve, and was well known throughout the country as a leading sportsman. He numbered among his friends many northern hunters who visited his lodge annually during the hunting season. It was always a delight to him to show visitors his ducks, quail, and beautiful pheasants. With always a friendly word for all, sociability seemed to be one of his outstanding characteristics.

For a number of years Mr. Fox had been a member of Siler City Methodist Protestant church. During the writer's visits in the home he learned that he was a man of strong convictions and profoundly interested in spiritual things.

His faithful companion, who was before marriage Miss Linnie Highfill, a sister of Rev. D. A. Highfill, survives. May grace be multiplied to her who has been his companion and co-worker in life. They shared with each other their joys and sorrows, their failures and successes.

The funeral was conducted at Brush Creek Baptist church. The pastor was assisted in the service by Revs. J. C. Canipe, F. B. Peele and Weaver. H. L. ISLEY.

Davis

Mary Victoria Jarvis was born December 30, 1858, the daughter of the late Cannon and Ollie Harper, and died at the age of 75 years, 1 month and 2 days. She was united in marriage to J. E. Jarvis, October 10, 1880.

She is survived by her husband, J. E. Jarvis, and by five children — three sons, W. M. and S. T. Jarvis, of Pasedena, California; J. F. Jarvis, of Clemmons; two daughters, Mrs. Tillie Vogler, of Clemmons, and Mrs. C. M. Craft, of Winston-Salem; 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild; four brothers, H. C., E. A., T. C., and Elisha Harper, all of Forsyth county. She was a faithful member of Harmony Grove Methodist church for a number of years. She was a kind and affectionate wife and mother and was loved by all who knew her.

The family has our deepest sympathy. May the Lord comfort them in their bereavement.

The funeral was conducted at Harmony Grove Methodist Protestant church. Rev. Robertson and Rev. C. B. Way assisted.

AN EMERGENCY SITUATION AT THE M. P. CHILDREN'S HOME, HIGH POINT

In the midst of the coldest and roughest spell of weather we have had this winter, the old furnace under our girls' dormitory which has been in use for 20 years gave completely out. It could not be patched up even to tide us through the cold spell, so we had to seek somebody to put in a new one. A local company composed of big-hearted Christian people agreed to put in a furnace for the actual cost of materials and labor, all profits being a donation to the Home. The men are working overtime to get it in quickly at cost. Fifty-five girls and three of us workers have spent six of these cold nights without fire.

Our Difficulty

That cost price must be met at an early date. We have no money with which to meet it. In the midst of these times it takes all our meager income to provide the actual necessities for our children. Our great need at this time leads us to tell you the simple story of our situation. Our faith in God and in His people led us to place the order for a furnace when we didn't have a dollar with which to pay for it, and our faith in God and in His people leads us to believe that many will send us offerings to help us over this immediate difficulty. This is an emergency special. While we have been working here to replace the loss, we have been earnestly praying that God would put it into the hearts of His children to help us pay for it. In His Word He says: "Before they call I will answer; and while they are yet speaking I will hear." Imagine our delight then when the mail came this morning to find a check inclosed in one of the letters for $100.00. It is a rare thing that we get a check of that size anymore, and we praise God and thank His servant for this one. "Go thou and do likewise." Send the amount which measures your ability and your interest whether it be as large as this check, or smaller amounts.

Watch the Herald Next Week

In next week's Herald we hope to publish some definite plans by which the finances of the Children's Home may be put in better shape. Send along your special offering for the furnace, but don't let that keep you from entering heartily with others into these larger plans. We thank you for your prayers, your sympathy and your help.

Yours in His blessed service,

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

SPRING CHURCH CIRCUIT AUXILIARY

On Wednesday, February 7, the Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. J. W. Crew with 12 active members, one honorary, one visitor, and one Precious Jewel present. Mrs. J. W. Crew conducted the devotionals, using the program outlined in the January Record. Mrs. W. W. Grant led the Society in prayer closing with the Lord's Prayer in concert by the society. A paper, "Life Dedication, Home Missionaries," was read by Miss Mary Daniel. Mrs. H. E. Vassar told something of the life of one of our foreign missionaries, Dr. Fred C. Klein. During the business session new officers for the ensuing year were elected, as follows: President, Mrs. C. E. Dimick; vice-president, Mrs. J. G. Mitchell; recording secretary, Mrs. H. E. Vassar; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William H. Neese; treasurer, Mrs. H. E. Vassar. The remaining officers will be elected at the March meeting. The program for the Day of Prayer was discussed and it was decided to have a service for the entire charge in the Pleasant Hill church February 16, 2 p. m. The pastor was asked to have charge of the program and an interesting one is being planned. The meeting closed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Neese. Mrs. Crew served delicious refreshments.

Lebanon Auxiliary

The Lebanon Auxiliary met in the church February 4 with the faithful few present.

At this time a report was given on the Hen Project for January, and it was found that enough hens had been collected and sold to amount to $8.00, that with $2 given by a member in Hopewell gave us enough for our January pledge. It keeps the ladies busy trying to find something new to swell their treasury. They are now planning to patch aprons with pennies. We hope that proves successful. MRS. Wm. H. NEESE,

Corresonding Sec'y.

THOMASVILLE, FIRST	65

That tells the tale of last week. Think of it! The youngest church in the Conference reached its goal first! Our heartiest congratulations, Southside. Since the pastor of Southside, Rev. Atlas Ridge, lives in Lexington, I am granting permission to Dr. T. M. Johnson and Rev. C. G. Isley, who also live there, to look him up and extend congratulations of the committee to him.

And Draper, also, made a big climb last week. Watch out for them, for that big man, Helms, up there means business and he will be hard to stop.

And thou, too, Thomasville, First! My, how you came to the front with a whoop. It is wonderful what some folks can do when they really try. Now that they have gone thus far I am not expecting them to stop there.

The big question now is, Who will be the second to reach the goal?

And, Concord, let me tell you that Calvary lacked only one point of catching up with you last week. You will have to get out of the path of these other folks that are traveling so fast. It is dangerous to stand still—better keep running.

I am so eager to see the record of this week I can hardly wait.

You know I am not supposed to mention anything sent in this week until it first appears in the Herald. That is fair to everybody.

Yours for the quotas in full,

A general rally for First District will be held in Weavers Chapel church the fifth Sunday in April. Details will appear in due time.

Our chief concern now is to call your attention to the rally, and to insist that you cooperate in an effort to make it a number-one meeting. Every pastor in the district attending, and every church represented by one or more members, is our goal. A further aim is to make ours a number-one district. A survey of the six charges is to be made in an effort to find our rating. A chart showing the findings of this survey will be shown at the rally.

The following information will be called for and used as a basis for determining our rating:

Number of Sunday schools.
Number of C. E. Societies.
Number of Woman's Auxiliaries.
Number contributing to Children's Home.

The Drinker's Dollar

Liquor in its long reign upon earth has never helped the man consuming it to place a single dollar in the bank. It has never been worth a dime to him upon going to the grocery store for flour, coffee, meat, milk, or butter for his family and himself. It has never helped him to place a single cent's worth of coal or wood or gas in his house to keep the home fires burning.

It has never helped him to get a job, although it is on record as having lost him many jobs. It has never in its long life convinced a single railroad employer that a man smelling of liquor would make a better engineer or fireman than the fellow with the liquorless breath and an unclouded head.

It has never been of any value to anyone in starting a life insurance policy. Liquor is not on record as helping the man consuming it to buy a home, or to start one through a building and loan association. It has never once helped him to pay his doctor or to contribute to the life of his church. No instance has been found where it has helped him to educate his children for citizenship or for manhood and womanhood.

Two small groups profit by liquor—the tax-evading millionaires and those who manufacture and distribute it. Yes; it means prosperity for them, but it also means a living hell for its countless victims.—From an address by United States Senator Morris W. Sheppard, in the Senate, January 16, 1934.

A United, Happy Family

Mrs. Roddy Swaim of Randolph county has five sons and five daughters. All are married and have children. All join annually in celebrating the birthday of mother and grandmother. This year it came last Sunday and was attended with the usual pleasure. Two of the daughters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Greer, are members of Calvary church. We thank those who sent us a generous portion of the dinner.

BRETHREN, PLEASE SEND IN YOUR JOURNAL MONEY

I have a bill from the Stockton Press for 900 Conference Journals which amounts to $419.00. (You can figure out how much they cost apiece.) I have received to date to pay that bill $36.50. (You can figure out at that rate how long it will take to pay the bill.) Brethren, please send in the money you have collected. It isn't fair to keep the printers waiting. Thank you.

Plans for Children's Home

Elsewhere in the Herald you will find report from the Pastors' Federation which met in Greensboro on Monday.

With the full consent and the promise of co-operation on the part of the President of High Point College and the President of the N. C. Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, Dr. R. M. Andrews, President of the Conference, suggested to the meeting a plan to raise the debt in operating expenses at the Home. After due discussion the plan was approved and passed on to the Trustees of the Home for final action.

It seemed that the month of March was the only time that could be given to it, and because of the shortness of the time until the first of March we are writing this note ahead of the meeting of the Trustees. We feel sure they will approve the plan. Get ready, get set, and let's go from the first to the thirty-first of March!

The Plan

This plan was worked out by the President of our Conference and is simple and easy to work:

1. A worthy offering from every Sunday school and church in the Conference, with emphasis upon every one.
2. All churches and Sunday schools which do contribute regularly to the Home, double their offerings for March.
3. Campaign managers to be appointed in each of the fourteen districts to co-operate with pastors and Sunday school superintendents and Children's Home secretaries in raising the needed amount.

Just thirty-one days of thought, and prayer, and planning, and faithful co-operation to help raise sufficient funds to relieve the tremendous strain from the hearts and hands of your workers at the Home. Everybody helping, men, women, and children, this can be done easily and quickly if all will help.

The Fruit of Our Labor

Just this morning this letter came: "Inclosed please find $2.00 for furnace. I take pleasure in sending this small amount. Prior to my marriage I was Grace S. Robbins. I was in the Home six and a half years, leaving there in 1923. I am proud to say I was reared in the M. P. Children's Home. God has been real good to me. He has given me a Christian husband, a new beautiful little home near East Bend, and He has blessed us with a dear little son, eighteen months old. May we "count our blessings." May God's blessings be upon each and every one in the Home. With best regards to all, Mrs. Clifford P. Williams."

Good expressions like the above come to us every few weeks. May God lead and bless in this undertaking.

Yours in His service,
A. G. Dixon, Superintendent.

WHY SHOULD MY CHURCH PUT ON A VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL

1. The summer vacation is a month longer in most cities and rural districts in North Carolina, due to an eight-month public school term. Will not the children weary of it?

2. President Schurman said: "No man can be really uneducated who really knows the Bible, nor can anyone be considered a truly educated man who is ignorant of it." The Vacation Church School gives one a chance to begin acquiring that knowledge.

3. The crying need of the world today is leadership—of the right type. I firmly believe that the right type cannot be developed save through a knowledge of the principles of Christ's Kingdom. The Vacation Church School teaches these.

4. The church today wants to hold youth—and it cannot do it unless it gives youth "something to do." The Vacation Church School helps youth to find a niche in the church.

Mr. Whitehead has asked me to direct the Vacation Church School work in our conference. Won't you call on me to help you plan your school? And now is the time to begin.

"OH, HOW I LOVE JESUS!"

One day a missionary in Africa found a little boy crying very hard, and asked him, "Why Yengi, what is the matter?"

"Oh, sir," he replied, "I have just read in my Bible how Jesus loved me, and died on the Cross for me. I do not love Him like that; I could not die for Him, I am afraid."

"But," said the missionary, "you do not need to die for Him, but you can live for Him every day. That would please Him just as much." So Yengi tried very hard to do what Jesus would like to have him do every day.

One day some bad men who knew that he loved Jesus caught him and tied him to a tree and began to throw stones at him; but he was not afraid. He began to sing as loud as he could, "Jesus loves me, this I know," and then, "Oh, how I love Jesus!" until the men were sorry and ashamed, and ran away and left him. When he was found and untied from the tree, though he was hurt and bruised by the stones, yet he was very happy because he had been able to show his love for Jesus, who had been willing to die for him.—The King's Message.

ENOUGH SAID

A minister was anonyed by people talking and giggling during the service. He paused, looked at the disturbers, and said: "Some years ago as I was preaching, a young man who sat before me was constantly laughing, talking and making uncouth grimaces. I paused and administered a severe rebuke. After the close of the services a gentleman said to me:

"'Sir, you made a great mistake; that young man is an idiot.'

"Since then I have always been afraid to reprove those who misbehave in chapel lest I should repeat that mistake and reprove another idiot."

HIGH POINT COLLEGE NEWS

For the benefit of those who do not get the college paper, I shall attempt from time to time to give through the columns of the Herald facts of the doings on the campus of our institution at High Point. It must be realized that in our short space it will be impossible to say very much about them. Our four-page weekly, The Hi-Po, with possibly as many columns as the Herald, is very crowded with things happening on the campus from week to week.

The first debate of the college year was held in the auditorium on February 16. It was a double-header, non-decision with Campbell Junior College. Aubert Smith, High Point, and Kermit Cloninger, Lincolnton, upheld the affirmative side, while Wilbur Hutchins and A. L. Fulk, both from High Point, encountered the opposing negative team. The High Point boys, in the opinion of the audience, made a very fine showing in this initial conflict of the year.

Try-outs for the oration contest to be held in Greensboro, March 8 and 9, will take place in the auditorium Thursday of this week at 4 o'clock. The successful contestant will participate in Greensboro at the same time of the Tri-State tournament. Teams from colleges in the following states will participate: North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and Tennessee.

The A Capela Choir, the largest this year in the history of the choir, under the direction of Miss Margaret Sloan, appeared before an appreciative and responsive audience at Siler City, Friday, the 16th. Again they gave a program on Monday, the 19th, before the Musical Arts Club of High Point. Several engagements have already been made for the choir and will be announced through these columns at subsequent times. Those in and around Greensboro might be interested in the program which they will give at a 4:30 vesper service on Sunday, March 18, at Grace church. There are forty-two young people in the choir and it has been said by those who have heard them that it is the best that High Point has yet produced.

The Utica Jubilee Singers of Mississippi appeared before the student body Monday, the 12th, and rendered six numbers and two encores. This group was composed of a quartet and a soloist.

Dr. C. H. Hill, head of the dramatic department of the college, is planning to give two more plays before the end of school. These will be given in the college auditorium Thursday and Friday, March 15 and 16. The performers in the play, "Lackeys of the Moon," are: Edith Guthrie, Saxapahaw; Ina McAdams, High Point; Clarence Morris, Salisbury, Md.; J. D. KiKmrey, High Point; Paul Owen, King; Fred Julian, Milboro; Broadus Culler, High Point; Dorothy Bell, Southport, and Alton Hartman, Advance. The cast for the second play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," are: Clarence Morris, Salisbury, Md.; Herman Yokley, High Point; Dot Perry, Thomasville; Joe Coble, Greensboro; Adylene McCollum, Reidsville; John Hussey, Florence, S. C.; Debro Peeler, Lawndale; Ed Woollen, High Point; Lucy Clyde Ross, Asheboro, and Margaret Smith, Winston-Salem. The public is cordially invited to both of these plays. There will be no charges.

At this writing the High Point basketeers have only two more games on their schedule. Elon to be played at Elon Friday evening, February 23, and Guilford here, February 28. Until the defeat by Guilford last week High Point had a chance of winning the championship, which is not likely that they will stand higher than second place when the season closes. Coach C. V. Yow, one of our own boys from Gibsonville, has whipped into shape a very good team from raw material. Zolton Ronyecz, the star guard on the team, received a fractured vertebra in the contest at Wilson about a month ago but was not aware of the serious injury until recently, and will not be permitted to participate in any of the further games.

A high school basketball tournament will be conducted by the college athletic department commencing Monday, February 26, and continuing each evening through March 3. Some thirty teams have registered for the tournament, representing different sections of the state. From two to four games will be played each night. These games will be played on the cross-courts. The teams will be classified according to their standing and the number of students in the school which they represent. There will be three classifications. The teams of each class will compete until one of the teams is undefeated. To this winner will be given a silver trophy. All-star team of all five players will be selected and awarded gold basketballs. These trophies are gifts from business houses from the city.

The second annual oration-essay contest for high school seniors and graduates will be conducted at the college March 22 and 23. All contestants will write upon the subject "The Kind of College Freshman I Would Like to Be." Scholarships ranging from $50 to $400 will be awarded the successful contestant. Some fifty-odd have already entered the contest; many of these, however, will be eliminated when the composition of these orations and essays are judged. The others will appear here and deliver their speeches from memory. The public is invited to this contest.

Dr. Paul Bowen, from the Biology department of the college, has been employed by the Asheville Normal School to teach his subject there during their summer school.

TO PLEASE HIM

It is a poor cold thing to say to an ardent healthy young Christian, "Don't do that, it is wrong." It is worse to say, "Don't do it, it is not expedient." It is altogether different to say, "Even Christ who gave Himself for you pleased not Himself. You may displease Him if you do that; you will certainly please Him if you seek to know and do His will." That is the love that melts the ore. That is the heat that makes flexible the hard, stiff material. That is the motive that gives a new zest to living, and puts delight into what otherwise might be called duty. It invests service with a halo, and is the one motive that can be trusted to secure in us all whatsoever things are noble.—Scripture Truth.

Reports Tabulated

I hope to give in my letter for next week a complete tabulation of the pastors' first quarterly reports; if yours has not been sent in, please let me have it at once.

Glen Raven Church, Rev. J. P. Pegg, Pastor

I visited this church at the morning appointment. Found the Sunday school in session, and the work seemed to be going well. An addition has been made to the church and basement, which greatly increased the room for both Sunday school and church services. The pastor told me that they were going on the "pay as we go" plan, and that soon the work would be all completed, and when completed, paid for. That is fine. While Glen Raven has had some serious setbacks, it is now going under full steam and I was most favorably impressed with what is being done here. Here is a fine opportunity, no other church in the community, and if our people do not make good our responsibility will not be light. The Christian Endeavor Society here pays five dollars a month to the Children's Home, the Sunday school also contributes monthly. Pastor Pegg is quite popular with his people, and seems happy in the work.

The Fourth District Meet

The Fourth District held its meeting at Glen Raven. Dr. F. W. Paschall is the chairman. There are seven churches in the district and all of them were represented at the meeting,—Graham, First church Burlington, Fountain Place, Gibsonville, Haw River, Glen Raven and Fairview. All pastors were present. That was fine—better than usually happens. But the interest was quite fine also. Professor Stough of Gibsonville gave a splendid address on Stewardship, which gripped those present and will certainly bring forth good fruit. We greatly appreciate the willingness of this fine superintendent of the Gibsonville schools to be present and speak to our prople. There was good singing by the Glen Raven and Burlington church choirs, which added to the pleasure of those present. It was a splendid meeting, well worth the time and effort of those who came.

Calvary Church, Greensboro, Rev. J. E. Pritchard, Pastor

I visited this church at the evening service. The pastor was not present, being kept at home because of a stubborn cold. Others were in the same condition, I was informed. No preaching service was held at the morning hour of worship. Calvary is the youngest church we have in Greensboro, but it takes second rank in membership; the membership raised $4,428 for all claims and expenses last year. They have operated under the burden of a debt from their beginning but have gradually reduced their debt and we feel confident that eventually they will come out in fine form.

Dr. Pritchard is beginning his work well. He is a wise planner of his work and has the enthusiasm of youth to carry out his plans. We are expecting him and his people to do a splendid work together there this year.

Central Pastors' Federation

The meeting was held at Calvary church Monday. There were thirty-one pastors present, a total number of all present about fifty. It was well attended and a splendid meeting. It was decided to continue the Federation and Dr. F. W. Paschall was elected the president. The women of the church served a good chicken dinner, and didn't those preachers and "nigh" preachers show their appreciation! We thank the pastor of the church and all others who contributed to the success of the meeting. It was too good not to have another next quarter.

Mrs. W. E. Swain Passes Away

In the going home of this good woman we feel that we have lost a good friend of the Methodist Protestant church. Our sympathies are with the relatives.

The Following Charges Pay A. C. Expense Budget in March

First church, Winston-Salem; Mebane; Lincolnton circuit; First church, Henderson; West End, Greensboro; Glen Raven circuit; Denton charge. Please have the treasurer to send this money in to Mr. Allen just as soon as it is raised. The money for these causes is needed.

Let's Finish What Was Begun

In many of the pastors' reports coming in to me the statement is made that not all of the A. C. Expense budget or of the Church Extension assessment was raised. If possible I wish that these would be raied now. It will greatly aid in the completion of other budgets. The A. C. Expense is larger than the others, so when it is out of the way only one remains larger, High Point College. Make it the objective to raise every budget in full this year.

Brother Hulin Goes Home

A large concourse of people attended the funeral services last Tuesday of Rev. J. W. Hulin, who passed away at his home at Love-Joy church Monday. There were a number of ministers present, attesting the esteem in which he was held by his brethren. I am appointing Revs. G. L. Reynolds, J. B.

Trogdon, and E. A. Bingham to act as the obituary committee, to report to the next Annual Conference.

Brother Saunders Asks for Prayers

A note from Rev. C. W. Saunders received a few days ago states that he must go to the hospital for a serious operation and would appreciate the prayers of the brethren. We ask that you remember him at the throne of grace when you pray.

A MACEDONIAN CRY

A cry is ever sounding
Upon my burdened ear,
A cry of pain and anguish,
A cry of woe and fear;
It is the voice of myriads
Who grope in heathen night,
It is the cry of Jesus
To rise and send them light.

With every pulse's beating,
Another soul is gone,
With all its guilt and sorrow,
To stand before the throne.
And learn with awe and wonder
The story of that grace,
Which God to us entrusted
For all our fallen race.

Oh, how the Master's bosom,
Must swell with love and pain,
As evermore they meet Him,
That sad and ceaseless train!
And if He holds us guilty
For all our brothers' blood,
What answer can we offer,
Before the throne of God?

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

A Symbol of Religious Freedom

To churches and synagogues the celebration of Washington's Birthday has always been associated with religious freedom, which Washington stressed repeatedly. His messages to the various religious denominations exude this spirit.

To the Roman Catholics in the United States, Washington wrote (December, 1789): "As mankind becomes more liberal, they will be more apt to allow, that all those who conduct themselves as worthy members of the community, are equally entitled to the protection of civil government. I hope ever to see America among the foremost nations in examples of justice and liberality."

To the Hebrew Congregation in Newport, Rhode Island: "All possess alike liberty of conscience and immunities of citizenship. It is now no more that toleration is spoken of, as if it was by the indulgence of one class of people, that another enjoyed the exercise of their inherent natural rights. For happily, the Government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance, requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens, in giving it on all occasions their effectual support."

To the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States (May, 1789): "While all men within our territories are protected in worshipping the Deity according to the dictates of their consciences, it is rationally to be expected from them in return, that they will be emulous of evincing the sanctity of their professions by the . . . beneficence of their actions."

Messages of similar import were also addressed by Washington to the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, the United Baptist churches in Virginia, the Society of Quakers, the Hebrew congregation of Savannah, the Universal church, the New Church in Baltimore and the Protestant Episcopal church.

THE INFLUENCE OF A TRACT

A young Frenchman who had been wounded at the siege of San Quentin was languishing on a pallet in the hospital when a tract that lay on the coverlet caught his eye. He read it and was converted to God by it. You may see the monument of that man before the Church of the Consistory in Paris, standing with a Bible in his hand. He is known in history as Admiral Coligny, the leader of the reformation in France.

But the tract had not finished its work. It was read by Coligny's nurse, a "sister of mercy," who penitently placed it in the hands of the Lady Abbess, and she, too, was converted by it. She fled from France to Palestine, where she met a young Hollander and became his wife. The influence which she had upon that man reached out into the reformation on the entire continent of Europe, for he was William of Orange. "How far yon little candle threw its beam!" Who knows what the power of a tract may be?—Publisher Unknown.

HONEST JACK

''Hello, Jack! You're just the fellow I was looking for,'' called a gentleman as he stepped off the train from Baltimore.

''Any news from my Mother, Mr. Bruce?'' asked Jack, after they had gone in the restaurant. ''I could hardly wait until you returned to find out how she is. I wish I could see her.''

''I've enough to tell you, I guess, to make you wish the more to see her. The specialist says there is hope of her recovery if she can pull through the operation he plans to perform. She was more cheerful than when I saw her a week ago. She just longs to see you, but she says it will probably be weeks before you can save enough to take the train trip. That's what my present is that I spoke to you about. You don't seem very anxious to know what I have for you.''

''Oh, yes, I am!'' Jack replied. ''But I did want to know about my Mother first. You have always been very kind to Mother and Me, Mr. Bruce, and I do thank you for this news of her.'

''Well, my present is a ticket to Baltimore. I knew you would like to go and visit your Mother.''

''Oh, but Mr. Bruce,'' said Jack hesitatingly, ''that is far too much for you to do for me. Let me work for you in some way that I may earn my fare.''

''It's all paid for, Jack,'' replied Mr. Bruce. ''You see, when I came on the train that morning I was busy reading my paper when the conductor took up the tickets. He passed me altogether and didnt ask for my ticket. I thought of you right away and your desire to see your Mother. Here it is, Jack,—the ticket is good for a week. Go and see your Mother before her operation.''

During Mr. Bruce's explanation Jack's face had flushed deeply. A conflict was going on within.

''I am sorry, Mr. Bruce,'' he quickly replied. ''I am anxious to see my Mother, but I could never consent to take the trip dishonestly. I shall have to refuse to accept your used ticket.''

''But it isn't used,'' Mr. Bruce remonstrated. ''You can see it hasn't been punched at all. There's nothing dishonest about it. If the railroad employs men who don't watch their business, the railroad is the loser. It's up to us to make as much of our money as we can. Show that you love your Mother by taking this chance to go and be with her for a week. Come, be a man.''

Jack's face turned a deeper red. It was no easy matter to accuse an older friend of dishonesty.

''Mr. Bruce, I am sure you are anxious to help me, and I am also sure that I love my Mother, but she would be heartbroken if I stole my way to see her on a used ticket. You have already had the use of that ticket. I cannot be convinced that I have any right to use it.''

''Here, take it and get that foolish idea out of your head,'' said Mr. Bruce, thrusting the ticket into Jack's hand.

Jack took the ticket and tore it into shreds. ''Never,'' he said firmly. ''I would rather be denied the joy of being with Mother, than to sear my conscience.''

Mr. Bruce walked off in great disgust. ''Just what happens when you want to help some one. How unfortunate that people like that have such a keen conscience. They don't know when they have a good thing.''

Later in the day Mr. Bruce met the president of one of Washington's leading stores. During the conversation the banker asked, ''Say, Bruce, you don't happen to know an honest boy whom I could get to take a position of trust in my store, do you? I have tried out a number who seem promising, but as soon as the were given money to handle they went under.''

Mr. Bruce thought a minute and then replied, ''I believe I know a fellow who will fill the place. He then related his experience with Jack that very morning.

The following morning Jack received a letter from a store in the city. With great curiosity he tore it open and read, ''Please call today at the First Drug Store and ask for Mr. Douglas.''

The interview resulted in Jack's securing a good position with excellent opportunities for advancement. It was a great joy to him to be able steadily and honestly to provide for his Mother.—Light and Life Evangel.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

Salvation is real. It works in practical life. The Word of God is sharp and powerful, it pentrates as God directs. We recently read the simple narrative as given below which we pass on to our readers. It's another evidence of God's power and interest in the individual. The narrative is marked for the contrasts shown, it is beautiful in its simplicity: it carries a fundamental truth; get it.

In a village there lived a laboring man by the name of Mr. Jones. For a number of years he and his wife lived careless, wicked lives. After a while the wife became a Christian. Her husband had always been cross and ill-tempered to her, and after this change became worse than ever. He scolded her, swore at her, and beat her. Some of her neighbors advised her not to live with him, and others said she ought to have him put in prison for his cruel treatment of her. But she would not listen to them. She bore the ill-treatment of her husband with the greatest patience; she never spoke crossly to him, but was always gentle and kind, hoping one day to win him to Christ.

One morning, when he was going to work, Mr. Jones told his wife to have his dinner ready at 12 o'clock, and said if he had to wait a minute for it he would beat her till she could not stand. There was no occasion for the threat, for his wife was very careful to do everything that he told her. He returned ten minutes before twelve. But the dinner was all ready, and his wife was sitting by the table occupying the ten minutes she thought she had to spare in reading a few verses of her Bible. He approached her quickly, with a savage look as though he meant to hit her; but when he got near, stood still, and said to himself, ''I wonder what's in that Book, anyhow?'' He could not read, but he knew the letters, and could spell a little, so he looked down on the page, and, putting his finger on the last verse of the chapter his wife had been reading he began to spell it out, in this way: "T-h-e—that spells 'the', I know; w-a-g-e-s, what does that spell, Sally?" "Wages," said his wife. "The wages—o-f 'of' s-i-n 'sin' i-s 'is' d-e-a-t-h; there's another big word, Sally; what's that?" "Death," was the answer. Then he seemed frightened. He repeated the words over to himself. "The wages of sin is death," and said, "Well, if anybody ever earned those wages, I have." He ate his dinner without saying another word. After dinner he said "Good-by," kindly to his wife. It was the first time he had spoken a kind word to her for many a day, and when he came home in the evening he was quite sober.

The first words he spoke, on coming in, were, "Those terrible wages! Sally, is the Book all like that?" "Oh, no, Tom," said his wife: "there is a bright side, as well as a dark one. Just let me read the whole of the verse." She opened the Bible, and read, "The wages of sin is death; but (and her soul went out with the next half) the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

He listened earnestly, and the tears ran freely down his cheeks while his wife read to him. At last he sobbed out, "God be merciful to me a sinner!" Then his wife kneeled down by his side, and prayed with him and for him. He believed in Jesus, and found pardon and peace in believing. He never forgot that part of the verse, "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." It is wonderful to experience the bright side.—Publisher Unknown.

A STORY OF THE OLD-TIME RELIGION

There lived in the same town in which Budd lived a learned lawyer, who was an avowed infidel. No good lawyer who will give due attention to the testimony of Jesus Christ can be an infidel; but this one had not examnied the facts and evidence in the case, but went regularly to hear an eloquent minister of the Gospel stationed in the town. So the minister prepared and delivered a series of sermons on the evidences of Christianity, hoping to win the unbelieving gentleman of the bar. Soon after the lawyer presented himself as a candidate for church membership.

The minister was doubly delighted; first, that the man of the bar had become a Christian; and second, that this great change wrought in the man was the result of his eloquent preaching. So he modestly inquired which of his sermons brought about the great change he professed to have experienced.

The lawyer replied, "My dear sir, excuse me when I tell you that I listened attentively to your entire series of sermons, and to my own satisfaction answered all your arguments, and became more than ever confirmed in my unbelief in being able to do so."

"Then how were you brought into your joyful experience of salvation?"

"I was overtaken while along the street a little after dark by a sudden fall of rain, and ran into the first open door I saw,. and found myself in a Methodist class-meeting. I never was in such a meeting before.

"There were, men and women, about twenty persons present. I soon perceived that they were testifying to facts pertaining to their religious experiences. Sitting back, and observed by but a few, I with notebook and pencil took down in shorthand the testimony of eighteen witnesses. Then I woke up as from a dream, and said to myself: 'These are creditable witnesses. I know most of them, and would be glad to have such witnesses in court to establish any matter of facts within their knowledge, and I observe that they are bearing witness to facts of conscious experience. Now, unless I can impeach these witnesses and ignore their testimony, their cause is established.

"While thus grappling with the facts before me, Budd Thomas, the daft, arose to his feet and said: 'Mother got sick. The doctor comed and comed and she got worse and worse. Then she held my hand and said, "Budd, I am going to leave you." I said: "No, you ain't, mother; you can't go anywhere; you can't get out of bed." "True, Budd, I can't get out of bed, but my spirit is going to leave my body and go to heaven. As I have often told you, Budd, fourteen years ago Jesus took all my sins; He has kept me all these years in all my sorrows from departing from Him, and now He is coming to receive my spirit.

" ' "When I am gone, Budd, you will feel very lonesome, but any trouble you may have that you would like to tell to your mother you must tell it to Jesus. Give yourself to God and receive and trust Jesus, and He will save you as He saved your mother." Her words were all dark to me. I never knowed anything about death, but I felt a choking in my throat and went away and cried and cried, and then some people comed and fotch me in the house, and said, "Budd, your poor mother is dead." I said, "No, she ain't; she is asleep." Then I called, "Mother!" but she no open her eyes and no speak to me. Then I put my hand on her face and it felt as cold as ice, and I said, "What is this? Is my mother gone?" Then a man comed with a wagon and a great big box, and they put my mother into the box and hauled her out into a field and put the box with mother in it down into a deep hole in the ground, and I said, "I am going down there with my mother," but they cotch hold of me and pulled me back, and then they shoveled dirt down on my poor mother and filled the great hole and packed it down.

" 'Then they fotch me back to the house and I cried and cried. Then I went into mother's room and kneeled down where my mother prayed, and said, "O God, my mother's God, mother told me to tell my sorrow to You. She told me You loved poor boys. She told me for Jesus' sake You took away all her badness and made her happy. I know You did, for she said You did, and that You would give me a new heart, same as You gave my mother." I believed what my mother said, for she never told me a lie, and just while I was talking to my mother's God and trusting my mother's Jesus, Oh, what love and happiness came into me! Then I know my mother's God be my God, and my mother's Jesus take away my sins, and make me clean and happy inside, and I would be happy every day. And I know some day Jesus will take me to His happy home, where my mother has gone.'

"Budd sat down, and I arose to my feet, shaking as with an ague, and said, 'I want to find Budd Thomas' Jesus, and I want Budd to come help me.' I dropped on my knees, and the daft laid his hand on my shoulder and said: 'Oh, mister, you can't save yourself from sin, and nobody can save you but Jesus. He died for you and rose again, and He is here now waiting to save you and will save you this minute if you will give yourself to Him and receive and trust Him.'

"Right there and then I surrendered myself and all my belongings to God, and received and trusted Jesus Christ as my Savior, and He saved me and saves me now.

"It did not come to me through your eloquent preaching, which was all right in its way, but through the testimony of Budd Thomas, the daft."—Tract.

MESSAGE OF THE SUNFLOWERS

Father had a few misgivings as he saw the walls of the little cabin go up day by day. For he realized as he had not done before what it was going to mean to Kathryn.

It was so far away from her friends and from the surroundings that to her were both dear and familiar.

He stifled a sigh.

How little one could foretell events! Who would ever have dreamed that his health would fail and that his physician would order him out West?

There were just these two, Kathryn and himself — for mother had been called Home seven years before. No father and daughter were ever closer to each other than they.

It was Kathryn who detected in him the first traces of weakness. It was she who had insisted upon a physician. When the verdict had been given she did not flinch. How brave she had been all through!

"Of course, you must go, Father," she had said as she put tender young arms around him. "As soon as you get settled I will come to you."

He had not waited—fearing a greater illness. And now here he was actually in the West and building a little cabin which was to be their home. Would she like it? He almost feared to ask himself the question.

There were no trees—but far away in the distance stood the mountains veiled in purple haze.

Kathryn would love them, he knew. But what would she think of the prairie grass and cactus and the little, rude dwelling that was the best he could afford? Would she be lonely, discouraged, and dissatisfied?

The little cabin that had been so unlovely and barren, began to bloom with sunflowers. Day after day new ones sprung up, until the morning of the day that Kathryn was expected, they were a very riot of color.

It seemed to the man who awaited his daughter's coming, that never in his life had he seen so many. They surrounded the cabin as if to make up for its barrenness—and its unloveliness. They tapped at the windows—and clustered in tall groups at the door. They seemed to grow every hour taller and more beautiful.

The time came at last for Kathryn to arrive.

Her father met her, and in that close embrace he realized more than ever the love she had for him. How sweet she was! How graceful and bright-faced! A daughter of whom any one would be proud!

"You're looking better," she said fondly.

"I am better," was the reply, "but Kathryn, you don't know how it pains me to take you away from the old home and the old friends. It doesn't seem fair to you. Not that I don't need you and want you, but how will you bear it? It is so different."

Kathryn smiled and patted the thin hand.

"Father, isn't it enough that you are better—that you have a chance to gain back your health? What would life be without you to me?"

Her father did not reply for a moment; his heart was too full.

"There's the cabin," he said as they drove on.

Kathryn eyed it interestedly.

"Oh! Father, Father," she cried. "I can hardly wait. Drive faster, do drive faster!"

He obeyed her request and presently they drove up to the gate.

Kathryn stared.

"Father," she cried, springing up. "Why didn't you tell me about these sunflowers? Who planted them?"

Her father smiled.

"No one. They are indigenous to the soil. I was afraid when I began building the cabin that you would find it bare and desolate. No trees or shrubs anywhere about—but the sunflowers, as if they really knew about your coming, began blooming."

"They bloomed for me," she said. "To give me courage and hope and happiness. Father, you weren't afraid I was going to fail you, were you? I'm going to be as happy as can be. I'd be ashamed of myself if I was discontented."

Her father's chin quivered.

Kathryn nodded.

"Of course, it's going to be. We'll be the happiest folk in the West. You're going to get well—everything points to it, for the sunflowers have already bloomed a welcome."—Kind Words.

FATHER SEES IN SECRET

"Thy Father which seeth in secret Himself shall reward thee openly." (Matt. 6:4.)

It is a good thing to remember that our Father seeth in secret. As I write I am in a small cabin on board ship. An hotel bedroom has been described as the loneliest place on earth. So I can understand a cabin on board ship could likewise be described. It is indeed a secret place. The door is bolted. No one can get in. Yet how restful to know our Heavenly Father seeth in secret! He knows all about the lonely places. These lonely places lose their loneliness because He seeth. Your lonely place may not be a cabin. It may be a shop-assistant's bedroom, or a lonely apartment in a large city, or a farm kitchen away from the busy crowd, or a quiet office in a large building. Naturally you would be lonely. But you remember your Father seeth the secret place. The memory of that keeps us walking in the ways of righteousness even when out of the sight of men. It also turns the secret place into a room where we listen-in to Heaven.—Elim Evangel.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Zoar Church.—Perhaps the editor and the readers of the Herald think that Zoar is dead spiritually, but not quite yet. We are few in number but we are still awake, moving along slowly. Our former pastor, Rev. M. C Henderson, left us without a pastor at the close of the Annual Conference, but the Lord was good to us. He sent us a good preacher and we believe a good man, Rev. Hendry, of Charlotte, for which we are very thankful. Rev. Hendry filled his first appointment the fourth Sunday in December. He has filled all of his appointments, preaching some real interesting sermons. The people at Zoar like Pastor Hendry and his family fine. Our attendance is small, but we hope when spring opens up it will be better. Pray for us. We need your prayers. LILLIE A.

Concord, Saxapahaw.—We were very glad indeed to have with us the second Sunday afternoon of this month Mrs. H. C. Nicholson and Mrs. E. Lester Ballard, of Mebane, who brought to us splendid messages on the Auxiliary work. Mrs. Nicholson then presided over a meeting which was held at this time and helped us reorganize our Auxiliary; then divided it into Circles Nos. 1 and 2. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. R. S. Woody; vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Guthrie; secretary, Mrs. R. T. Woody; secretary of missionary education, Mrs. J. C. Guthrie; secretary of Young People's Work, Miss Mona Roberson; secretary of benevolence, Miss Ruby Woody; secretary of spiritual life, Mrs. A. N. Roberson; secretary of thank-offering, Bessie Coble. Mrs. Neal Hargrove was elected leader for Circle No. 2. We plan to hold a meeting next Sunday after Sunday school and finish organizing. We are going to give our thank-offering program the first Sunday in March; at this time a play, "Color Blind," will be given. We appreciate very much the help Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Ballard gave us and we give to them a hearty welcome to come back any time they can.

Was glad to see a goodly number of visitors present Sunday. We always welcome them to our church; hope they will come back again. Was glad to hove Mrs. Arthur Andrews and daughter back to worship with us after having left our community.

Brother Waldo Woody was one of our visitors. He was invited down to teach the Baraca class. So when Brother Loy came he invited him to speak for him in the afternoon. Brother Woody consented and as the result we heard a fine message. The thought that he brought to our minds was "What the Christian Life Is." This is a thought which should concern every person, both young and old. It is getting your sins forgiven and having your life transformed by the power of Jesus; it is bearing the brands of Jesus; living for a good purpose, being ever ready to do some good; it is a life of friendship and fellowship with Jesus. In this Christian life we find all that makes a happy and peaceful life, and there is no other way to happiness. If you have not exerienced this joy let me point you to Jesus who died on the Cross of Calvary that you and I might have this Christian life if we will choose it rather than the life of the world.

Glad to report that Mrs. Loy Roberson is better after a long illness. Mrs. H. G. Hargrove is back home after spending a week in Duke Hospital. Miss Verdie Marsbank, who has been sick, is better. Hope all will soon be well. BESSIE COBLE.

First Church, Charlotte.—The February thank-offering service was held on Sunday evening, February 11. Mrs. B. W. Little, secretary of thank-offering, had charge of the program. Miss Mary E. Williams, returned missionary from Japan, was the speaker. Her talk, which she illustrated with stereopticon slides, was thoroughly instructive and interesting. The attendance was good in spite of inclement weather.

Any church looking for an instructive and interesting missionary program would do well to have Miss Williams give a program and show slides of our work in Japan.

Circle No. 1 of the Woman's Auxiliary held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. G. W. Stegall. Mrs. Calvin Beatty led the devotionals, with Mrs. C. H. Dewese, Mrs. H. G. Garrison, Mrs. C. H. Daughtry and Mrs. G. W. Stegall taking parts on the program. Mrs. A. L. Haigler sang "Just As I Am." Mrs. B. W. Little, chairman, presided over the business session. One new members, Mrs. Hinson, was welcomed into the Circle. Seventeen members and visitors were present. Mrs. Stegall, assisted by Mrs. Calvin Beatty, served a delicious salad course with accessories.

Mrs. Leon Blake was hostess to Circle No. 2 at her lovely new home on Central avenue. Mrs. Lem Gilreath, evangelistic secretary of the W. C. T. U., was the guest speaker of the evening. She told of the great work that the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has done and is still doing, and reminded us that we should be thankful that our own state still stands firm for prohibition. She urged every woman present to join this great organization. Miss Maryon Muse led the devotional program. Two new members were received, Mrs. C. S. Wommack and Mrs. C. L. Banks. A delightful social hour followed the business session, with Mrs. Marion L. Trapp in charge of the program of Valentine games and contests. Mrs. Blake, assisted by Miss Maryon Muse, served delicious refreshments.

Mrs. G. H. Hendry, Mrs. A. L. Haigler and Mrs. A. F. Love attended the World Day of Prayer service held at St. Marks Lutheran church by the Interdenominational Missionary Union, of which our local Auxiliary is a part.

The first quarterly conference was held on last Wednesday evening in connection with the mid-week prayer service. The service was well attended. The pastor's report showed he has surely been "on the job." During the quarter he has filled all appointments, held the three standard services of the church each week, preached 24 sermons, held 11 prayer meetings, taught 10 classes, made 110 visits, received two members, performed one marriage, conducted three funerals and made 16 special addresses. The attendance records, which have been kept for the past three months show that M. D. Frink, the Sunday school superintendent, and Mrs. A. F. Love have a perfect attendance record for morning and evening church services and the mid-week service. Mrs. G. H. Hendry attended every Sunday service, but was absent from one mid-week service while attending the Leadership Training School at Concord. Others whose attendance record has been nearly perfect are: Mrs. Leon Blake, Mrs. Ray Blair, E. Worth Cole, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Daughtry, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Harmon, Louis Garmon, Macie Garmon, Joseph Garmon, Mr. and Mrs. Hal P. Garmon, Lynn, Paul, Harold and Nellie Mae Garmon, Mrs. A. L. Haigler, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Harward, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ledbetter, Louise Hendry, John M. Muse, Mrs. F. C. Muse, J. C. Penny, Sr., J. A. Pressley, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stegall, Miss Mary Shaw and Miss Gray Stiles.

The play, "Sunny-Jane," which was presented by the Young People's Department of the Sunday school at Oakhurst High School, was well received and will be given in the recreation hall of Brevard Street M. E. church, South, on Tuesday evening of this week.

Te church school, with M. D. Frink, superintendent, continues to grow in interest and attendance.

Miss Marie Walters' class of Intermediate girls won the banner for perfect attendance on Sunday morning, February 18. The Young Men's Baraca class continues to grow in numbers and interest.

The Woman's Auxiliary meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, February 28, in connection with the mid-week prayer service with the pastor conducting the devotionals. He will use the subject, "Christ of Every Road." A program, "Know Your Missionaries," will be presented by members of the Auxiliary.

The pastor is planning a pre-Easter evangelistic campaign to last a week or ten days, ending on Easter. REPORTER.

Canaan, North Davidson.—Our Sunday school is moving along nicely for the winter months, though we have had a great deal of sickness among our people; 'most everyone is able to come back now. We were all made happy on last Sunday when Mr. Andrew Clodfelter, probably the oldest member in our Sunday school, was able to be back in his place after suffering a stroke of paralysis.

On February 4 Young People's Day was observed at our church. Bro. Grant administered the Lord's Supper at the beginning of the service, then our girls and boys took charge. The program consisted of readings, songs and poems, all emphasizing youth. I hope the young peope were benefited by being reminded of their many opportunities to be of service. I think we should give them more of the resonsibilities of the church, as they do what they undertake so well. At the conclusion a collection was taken that will go on our World Service budget.

The Ladies' Aid of our church gave an oyster supper on Valentine night. We had a very enjoyable occasion. Our women had taken the responsibility on themselves to pay $50.00 on our parsonage debt, which we have already done. We take this opportunity to thank everyone that had a part in making this possible. I think the people of the entire circuit have their minds running in the same channel and that is toward paying off the parsonage debt.

We deeply sympathize with our pastor and family in their sadness. Bro. Grant was suddenly called to his old home at Shelby where his father had just passed from this life to the life beyond. The writer is not well enough informed to say more., May the Lord comfort them in their sorrow.

The death angel came into our midst and claimed the infant babe of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Berrier on February 14. Rev. Mr. Madison conducted the funeral in the absence of our pastor. We wish to say to the bereaved parents, "Only another rose blooming to brighten the way for us."

Our February meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hine. The program for the meeting was most interesting, dealing with the life of Washington. Mrs. Ray Brendle concluded the program with a reading, "Be Courageous."

Midland.—In spite of bad weather, measles and mumps, our congregations are holding up well. Midland and Pine Bluff have paid their A. C. B. in full. Love's Grove will pay next Sunday and the full amount will be forwarded to Treasurer Allen next week.

Midand is taking an advanced step and is paying pastor's salary weekly. Bro. O. B. Furr is on the job with both feet—gets there before the fellow gets out of bed—searches his pockets and brings in the cash. Bro. Furr gets a great kick out of it. You try it.

The ladies of Pine Bluff, with Mrs. Ad Jenkins as leader, are raising funds to re-cover and make other repairs on their church. Sunday school rooms may be built. The ladies gave a noodle supper Friday night, which netted them $33.00. The social feature was fine and all seemed happy.

Love's Grove has installed a new heating system on a cash basis.

Under the leadership of Bro. R. O. Garmon, a song and praise service is being held at Midland every Sunday night. It is attracting much interest and enlisting many young people in the devotional service.

Bro. Rowland Brooks, one of our best teachers, is building a large Senior class in Sunday school. W. D. REED.

Macedonia, Fallston Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. H. F. Fogleman, came to us Sunday afternoon, February 11th, with a soul-stirring message. He used for his text "Deep calleth unto deep, and the word was made flesh. Due to the fact we are in the midst of an epidemic of measles, our crowd was small. Hardly one-third of our people were able to attend. Hope for them all a speedy recovery.

Our community has one big drawback; that is, the parents are willing for the children and young people to have all the religion. I think it would be so much nicer for the parents to take the children to church instead of sending them. It makes me think of a little story I heard once. A little boy asked his dad to go with him to church. The father replied, "Oh, I can't go to church; I'm getting old and established." The boy went on to church while his dad hung around in his dirty clothes, looking over the farm. The next morning he was up early to go about his work. He caught out his mule, started up the hill; the mule stopped. The mule wouldn't pull in spite of abuse. The boy said to his father, "Dad, he has got like you—old and established; he just can't pull." This made the old man think, so the man took his boy to church after that instead of sending him. Hope the people will wake up to the fact that it is their duty to go to church. We are working to get the adults to take a part in Sunday school. We shall not be satisfied until we have accomplished that end.

We covet your prayers that we may be able to make this the best year in our history.

Seagrove, Why Not Circuit.—Our Ladies Aid Society sponsored a church supper Saturday night, February 17, which was served in the basement of the new church and announced the opening of the Sunday school department. The proceeds from this supper and the sale of a chair which had been donated to the society by Mr. Finch Kearns, of High Point, amounted to nearly $70.00.

We held Sunday school for the first time in the church Sunday morning and immediately after Sunday school a free dinner was served in the basement to all members present. The Sunday school rooms are almost complete and we are indeed proud of them and we hope to be able to complete the auditorium in the near future.

Our pastor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, will fill his regular appointment next Sunday night, February 25, and preach for the first time in the new building.

We are having a very good Sunday school under the splendid management of Mr. S. G. Richardson, and we are expecting a much larger attendance now that we have more room.

We appreciate the splendid spirit of co-operation shown us by members of other churches and denominations in the work being carried on here. MRS. NOAH WILLIAMS.

Thomasville.—On Sunday, February 11 the citizens of Thomasville were highly favored with an appealing program of music rendered by the well known Utica Jubilee Singers of Mississippi. They have traveled quite extensively; have had two European tours and have also broadcasted over the National Broadcasting System. Their purpose being in the interest of the Utica Normal and Industrial School for Negroes. Their program was composed of plantation spirituals presented by a male quartet, the outstanding feature being "Ol' Black Joe," and three very pretty solos presented by Hal Thompson, accompanied by Mrs. M. H. Cole. A very interesting address was presented by M. H. Cole. After the Utica Jubilee Singers had given their program in Thomasville at Community church, they went on to High Point to First M. P. Church, where, we are told, they had a completely filled auditorium.

Sunday, February 18, was observed as thank-offering day. The evening service was set aside for the thank-offering program, at which time, through the courtesy of Mrs. J. W. Boyles, a group of young ladies from Greensboro College presented tableaux of famous Bible women. The college trio sang two very beautiful numbers and C. L. Berrier, Jr., of the local church, presented a very pretty vocal solo.

The candle-lighting service was impressively used as the thank-offerings, amounting to $50, were contributed by the various circles and other departments of the church. At the close of the service hot tea, cookies and mints prepared by the Women's Auxiliary were served to those participating in the program.

The board of stewards held their regular monthly meeting and reports showed good results. They're running ahead on the first quarter's budgets. We're a little in arrears on pastor's salary, but expect to take care of that by the end of the first quarter, February 15, and we feel sure that, with their splendid co-operation, they will do it.

We feel that mention must be made of the lasting good work of the Woman's Auxiliary made up of the three circles of Community Church. They continue successfully in carrying out their expectations.

Caroleen C. E. Society.—The C. E. Society of Caroleen was entertained at a social at W. D. Short's Saturday night, two weeks ago. We had a most delightful time. We are raising money also to help paint the church. We hope to have our church painted before long. We also hope to increase our membership of the C. E.

Mount Zion, Pinnacle Charge.—Our pastor, Bro. Hunter, filled his appointment the third Sunday. I think that it was one of the best sermons that we have heard from him in his many years of work here. The writer heard some rtmark that the longer he is with us the better he preaches.

The measles and othe sickness are having effect upon our Sunday school. But we have not gone into winter quarters yet, and don't think we will. We are expecting a much better attendance after a few more Sundays. I wonder if all schools have members that hibernate a part of the year, especially during the winter months?

We were gad to have Bro. E. S. Stone back with us at church after being absent several weeks because of serious illness. We trust that Bro. Stone's health will continue to improve and that he and his family can soon be back with us in Sunday school, for we miss them, as they, most of the time, are at Sunday school and church.

Bro. Dalt Wall, who has been sick since last August, does not seem to improve any.

We were sorry to see Bro. C. R. Mickes and family move away. They located near Walburg, N. C. He was our reporter last year, also teacher for our young men's class. If my memory serves me right, he said that we would hear from him personally through the Herald.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.
WESLEY E. JONES.

Bethesda, Halifax Charge.—Our Sunday school is progressing nicely and though we are few in number, the faithful few are usually there and interested in the work of the Sunday school. We are hoping for better attendance when spring opens hp.

We had planned to have our Thank-offering servire the second Sunday in February, but the day was so unfavorable and the congregation so small we decided to postpone it until the second Sunday in March. We were well repaid for venturing out in the weather Sunday. Our pastor gave us a beautiful and impressive sermon, which touched the hearts of the people and made us feel that we wanted to do more for the Master.

Mrs. Loy, Wednesday afternoon of last week. We had a most delightful meeting. The question box and answers were used and were very instructive. We hope by this, and special study of our Missionary Record, to be enabled to do better work in the missionary field.

Rev. and Mrs. Peeler and mother, from Enfield, met with us. We enjoyed having them, and hope they will come again.

Saxapahaw.—I was elected reporter for this church before Conference, but haven't been on the job; hope to do better in the future.

Pastor Loy filled both appointments the fourth Sunday. We were glad to have Bro. Loy back with us this year. He is well liked by young and old, and is very much interested in young people's work. Soon after coming on this charge he organized the Christian Endeavor Society at this church. The young people are interested in the work and are having some good programs each Wednesday evening.

The first quarterly conference was held at this church Saturday, January 27.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

DAISY WINNINGHAM, Reporter.

New Hope.—We meet each Sunday at 10 o'clock for Sunday schol and have very large crowds and very good collections. We are trying to have a dollar every other Sunday to send the Children's Home. We are sending them one dollar this week.

Our pastor meets with us the first Sunday night and third Sunday in the morning. He brought us a real good message and the true Gospel. He does preach.

Mrs. Henderson had the New Hope women to organize a Ladies' Auxiliary Sunday. We are glad to organize because like we feel like it will help out, and we ladies will have a part. We will meet at Mrs. W. W. Morris' home Wednesday evening at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Henderson is planning to have a piano for the church by March 1. We are looking forward that this will be a good year. We have raised money to pay for our piano.

REPORTER.

◆

Mebane.—First quarterly conference adopted assessments of Annual Conference and World Service, and the church is starting well toward raising the entire amounts. "Three-Ten" campaign to raise $100 in ten days netted $70, which paid the insurance premium on the church for three years, and church extension apportionment of budget, with some left over. More has been raised on the entire budget during first quarter this year than for several years past.

Young People's and Christian Endeavor Day both were observed Sunday, February 18th. The Thank-offering for the Woman's Auxiliary was observed.

Church attendance is splendid. The Christian Endeavor Societies are active. The pastor is preparing special Lenten heart-searching sermons and talks, culminating in Passion Week and Easter celebration.

Three new members were received February 4th: Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Pender and Mrs. E. L. Ballard.

Our efficient reporter has not been able to write for some time. Mrs. Frank Foust has not been strong for some time; however, she is much improved, but has been ordered by her physician to take more rest. We hope this will soon enable her to take her place in the church again. The Mebane church is saddened by the recent death of our former pastor's wife, Mrs. W. E. Swain. We loved her and her influence in our church will live. She organized our Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and thus helped us to be more interested in missions. Our sincere sympathy goes out to Lynette, James and John, as we are wont to call them. Dr. Swain and family are always remembered with pleasure in our church and town because of the helpful, Christlike leadership.

We are very much pleased to note that Dr. McCulloch is able to be home again. Hope his health will be greatly improved by his hospital experience.

MRS. H. C. NICHOLSON.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Our Sunday school is holding its own. Sunday school work seems to be increasing. The teachers and officers are doing all they can in their respective places. The worship program was conducted according to the program used for Young People's Day.

We did not have preaching, as is the custom on Sunday afternoon, but Young People's Day was observed. Our pastor was not present. He was called on to conduct a funeral at Bellemont church. However, Young eople's Day was observed with able speakers. Rev. D. I. Offman, of the Luthern Synod, brought us a message that was a challenge to both young and adult. Rev. Mr. Fisher, also of the Lutheran Synod, was the other speaker. We were shown that the parents had much influence in shaping the lives of youth. If parents sit down on the job of being Christians then youth is very likely to follow in their footsteps.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Our pastor's message yesterday morning was one of very marked interest and helpfulness. His text was found in Mark 11:3: "The Lord hath need of him." Miss Iris Welch and Mr. Oscar Easter sang a pretty duet at this service.

The hour for the evening service was used by our Woman's Auxiliary for our annual thank-offering service. At this time a little missionary play called "Color Blind" was given under the direction of Mrs. V. L. Smith. Miss Lucille Payne played the role of Mrs. Tracy, an artist, whose commission it was to paint a beautiful picture of little children around the throne of God to be used as a memorial window in church. Many little children were used to represent the different nationalities in this play. The artist who was at first "color blind," realized in the beautiful climax the joy of a missionary spirit in the world because her eyes were opened to an understanding of Christ's command, "Preach the gospel to all nations." At the close of this playlet a beautiful candle-lighting service was held. Each department representative was given a lighted taper, and in turn lighted a candle in each pew, who in turn lighted his neighbor's candle. Each person on entering the church had received a tiny candle. The choir sang "Send the Light" during this period of candle-lighting. It was a very beautiful and impressive sight, a capacity audience each holding high his little light. Then all joined in the chorus of "Send the Light." Dr. Taylor made a brief talk on "Mission Needs." We were fortunate in having with us at this time the Misses Chisholm of Thomasville, who sang two duets beautifully and sweetly. All in all, this was a good day in our church.

The first vote on the hut project has been cast showing a majority in favor of building a hut. When a vote of the full membership has been received we'll make another report of same.

We extend our sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Yokely and family in their bereavement. Mr. Yokeley's 15-year-old son, Aaron, died early this morning in a local hospital following an operation for appendicitis. Burial will be tomorrow afternoon in the family plot of Lebanon cemetery after the funeral services in the church.

Kannapolis.—Our church work is moving along nicely under the leadership of our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. C. W. Tutterrow, and the efficient helpers. Attendance has fallen down some for the past few weeks due to the epidemic of measles. There has been quite a number of our own people to be indisposed with it and also many others of the community.

Pastor Morris delivered a pleasing message Sunday, February 18, at the morning worship, using "The Peril of Contentment" as his subject. At the evening hour the subject was "Looking At Life." He spoke of people always looking at the dull side of life, hunting for trouble and never thinking of the bright side, and when a beautiful Sunday comes, begrudging it for not being Monday or Tuesday, days we can work.

We were happy to have the "Silver Tone' colored quartette to be with us at the evening worship. They did some real good singing for us. A free will offering was taken for them.

Pastor Morris has organized a Junior choir and with the help of Misses Wilma Readling, Elva Sides and Mr. Arthur Tutterrow, they are receiving some worth while training. They have their practice each Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. We are proud of these Juniors, for they will be men and women of tomorrow.

The Layman's Fellowship will hold its regular monthly meeting on Saturday, the 24th, at the parsonage at 7 p. m. All members are urged to be present. Visitors are welcome. Mr. F. G. Hammer, of Gibsonville, will be the visiting speaker and we trust the meeting will be worth while. At 8 p. m. they have an invitation from Circle No. 1 of the Ladies' Aid to join them at the home of Mrs. Clyde Fagan, North Walnut street, to enjoy a box supper, the proceeds going to the Ladies' Aid theasurer.

Our church is very badly in need of Sunday school roms and an enlarged auditorium. A campaign is now on for raising funds for this amount. Twenty-five chairmen have been appointed and each of these given four names. Each of these 25 units are asked to raise $50 by the end of March. We feel that this can be done. So let's all do our part.

We noticed a good item from Rev. J. L. Love's work. We are glad for them that they can see and know that the Master's work is progressing by their leadership and help and our prayers are that more good may be accomplished though them in the future. We often think of them and the work they did with us.

And Rev. Mr. Smith is often remembered and good thoughts and prayers go up for him that much good may be accomplished through his efforts. Mr. Smith, we would like very much to see a report from your work.

Our Senior C. E. Society is rapidly increasing in spirit as well as number. They have a real live society, having an average attendance of about 20.

We are thankful to note that none of our membership is seriously sick at this writing. There are several cases of measles, but all seem to be getting along nicely.

We missed Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kiser from church Sunday. They have been spending some time in the country with Mrs. Kiser's mother. Hope these and all others that were absent will be able to be back soon.

Little Boyce Jean, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. X. E. Grayson, is still enjoying her vacation at Damascus, Va. She has been with her uncle, Mr. Dana H. Grayson, since the 29th of December. She had the pleasure of celebrating her birthday while there the 28th of January.

Calvary, Greensboro.—The Mission Club enjoyed a Valentine party at the hut last Monday evening. This took the place of the regular monthly meeting. Eleven members and seven visitors were present for the party.

Dr. Pritchard was ill and unable to fill his regular 11 o'clock appointment last Sunday mouing. Rev. T. F. McCulloch gave a splendid short talk at that time.

The Friendly Class met with Mrs. R. S. Hemphill last Monday evening with 16 members present. Mrs. Hemphill was in the chair for the business session, during which time new officers were elected, as follows: President, Mrs. Frank Richardson; vice-president, Mrs. J. N. Griswold, sec'y; Mrs. L. P. Allred; assistant secretary, Mrs. Jack Hughes; treasurer, Mrs. Harry Julian; teacher, Miss Pearle McCulloch; assistant teacher, Mrs. Howard R. Neece; and flower committee, Mrs. H. A. Seigmond and Mrs. J. P. Lowman.

A Valentine program was enjoyed immensely by everyone present. The hostess served delicious refreshments.

The Woman's Auriliary held the last evening meeting of the Auxiliary year at the hut Monday evening. The Business Women's Circle had charge of the program. They were very fortunate in securing Mrs. D. S. Coltrane to talk to the Auxiliary. She made a very helpful talk, using as her subject "The Challenge of Defeat" or "Life's Burdens.' Mrs. D. E. Curtis, president, presided during the business session. The attendance prize was won by Circle No. 3.

The annual thank-offering service will be held at our church next Sunday evening. An interesting program is being provided. The pageant, "Thanksgiving Gates,' is one feature of the program.

We wish to sympathize with J. W. Swain, whose mother died last Saturday. Mrs. Swain was a member of Calvary church and was the widow of Rev. W. E. Swain, D. D., who served as president of the M. P. Conference for five year. Funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Swain at LaGrange, N. C., Sunday afternoon.

About 50 people were present at the Central Pastors' Federation meeting held at our church all day Monday. The morning session started at 10:30 o'clock with Dr. Andrews presiding. Rev. N. G. Bethea, of Gibsonville, spoke on "The Meaning of Christian Stewardship," in which he discussed four fundamental reasons why people contribute to the church: (1) From the standpoint of biblical law; (2) A matter of Christian efficiency; (3) Because of self interest, and (4) Because of love for the cause. Rev. N. M. Harrison, promotional secretary, made an announcement regarding the Methodist Protestant Pastors' Summer Conference, which is to be held at High Point College, June 25 through July 6. This is to be an extension course of Westminster Theological Seminary. Members of the Seminary faculty will have charge. These will include Dr. F. G. Holloway, president of the Seminary; Dr. C. E. Forlines, of the chair of Systematic Theology, and Dr. M. J. Shroyer, Department of the Rural Church. This course is required by the North Carolina Conference of all unordained ministers and those taking it will receive credit on their Seminary work.

Rev. S. W. Taylor, D. D., of High Point, spoke on "The Necessity of Evangelism in the Modern Church," presenting three major reasons, these being: Sin still exists; there are sinners everywhere, and that there is no remedy for sin except through a plan of salvation outlined by Christ.

Luncheon was served in the hut by the members of the Woman's Auxiliary, and upon readjournment at 1:30 o'clock officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. J. W. Paschal, Burlington; vice-presirent, Dr. S. W. Taylor, High Point; secretary-treasurer, Rev. E. L. Ballard, Mebane.

President Andrews addressed the gathering on "Difficulties of Putting on an Annual Conference Program," pointing out the scattered condition of the district; differing attitudes on the part of the people; local problems; lack of general familiarity with the program, and lack of leadership. He said a church should never become so grownup that it was as big as it could be or had all it could do. Continual directed growth is the major function of the pastor's position, said Dr. Andrews.

Dr. A. G. Dixon, superintendent of the Children's Home, presented problems that now confront the home, particularly that of replacing a burned out heating system. The Federation went on record as favoring a special campaign in March to liquidate outstanding obligations at the home.

John A. Ingram, who is a member of the Clinic Hospital staff, is teaching a class of Boy Scouts in First Aid at the Hut, where the troop holds its regular meeting each Friday evening at 7:30. He has continued this for a number of weeks, giving a series of lectures and demonstrations on First Aid. This has indeed proven interesting and I am sure profitable to those that are taking this course. Not only boys, but adults, are preparing themselves for an emergency in this course. Mr. Ingram is gladly giving his time and service to this worthy cause. Who knows, he may be teaching some boy the fundamentals of first aid and by having the exact knowledge he may be able to save a human life if an emergency should occur. He has many years of experience in this work and is a very capable and efficient instructor. This is a standard course and is approved by the American Red Cross. There are two more classes to be held, then the first aid test will follow.

Incidentally, Mr. Ingram is a member of this Troop Committee, and the boys hold him in high esteem.

The boys had a great time during the National Boy Scouts Week. This marks the celebration of the 24th anniversary in Scouting for America. The Scouts of this Troop last Wednesday began their good turn for the President of the United States. You remember that he made a national request for each Scout in America over the Radio February 10.

Efland, Orange Circuit.—Our services on Sunday were very inspiring and well attended. For the morning message Pastor Williams used Daniel's life as an example of true faith. We are sure if we had more Daniels today our church organizations would not need to send out SOS calls nor call our missionaries home.

Our Young People's Day was observed the fourth Sunday in January. Mr. Bradley, of the high school faculty spoke on "The Task of the Young People." He gave us some very helpful ideas on what young people have done and can do. Misses Walker and Hopgood, also of the school faculty, played a violin duet for this program. We are always glad to have these young ladies play for us.

The young ladies of our church met Sunday morning and organized a Missionary Circle. This work is new to these young people but we feel sure they will get valuable information and helpful inspiration by following this work.

Our oyster supper was quite a success. It added about $20 to our budget besides making some of our men exceedingly happy. They enjoyed it so much that we hear rumors that they plan to sponsor a fish and oyster dinner themselves at an early date. The date has not been set. We, the ladies, do not feel that they are doing this because they did not like what we served, for evidences then proved otherwise. Perhaps they got an idea from the men of Graham. We are sure this will be a success and will inform you later.

On Saturday evening, February 24, the ladies of the church will serve a chicken dinner at the church. We hope to have another pelasant and profitable evening for the church. The public is always welcomed on these occasions.

Mt. Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Since our last report, Rev. L. E. Mabry has been with us for his two regular appointments. The first Sunday at 3 p. m. and the third Sunday at 11 a. m. Both sermons were very inspiring.

Young People's Day has not yet been observed on account of sickness of one of the characters in the pageeant. This service will be held as soon as can be arranged.

Next Sunday, February 25, at 7:30 p. m., the Ladies' Auxiliary will hold the February thank-offering service at the church. Rev. J. L. Trollinger, from Brown Summit, will be with us and speak for us. Our pastor will also assist. Some special music is being planned. We hope to have a large crowd. Everyone is invited.

The Auxiliary met with Mrs. C. M. Neese February 7 and held the regular monthly meeting. A very large crowd was present and a good program given. Our March meeting will be held in the church; at that time we hope to have many visitors and maybe gain new members.

The Burlington Quartette worshipped with the Christian Endeavor on Sunday, February 11. They helped out the program with their splendid singing. We are always glad to have these girls with us.

Sunday school is still going very smoothly. In spite of cold weather and sickness we had 118 present last Sunday. All classes are showing much interest, and we hope much will result.

There is right much sickness in our community. We hope all will soon be on the road to recovery.

MRS. L. P. HOLT, Reporter.

Denton Church, Denton Charge.—With the prospect of a bright and sunny day before them, the members turned out strong with 111 present. Before the classes went to their rooms, the Sunday school was treated with a duet, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," by Mrs. J. T. Bowman and Miss Helen James. After the classes came back the service was closed with announcements and a hymn.

At the preaching hour our pastor, Mr. J. T. Bowman, delivered an interesting sermon, using as his text the words, "I am the way, the truth and the light." Immediately following the sermon four new members were taken into the church. These were Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Haltom, Miss Helen James, and Miss Lillie Doby. We are very glad to have these new members with us.

Following the 11 o'clock hour, a meeting of the members of the church was held. Business was dispatched promptly, as it was getting rather late.

At 6 o'clock the young people of the church gathered for their weekly C. E. meeting. The program was enjoyed by all. A very good crowd turned out for the night service.

When church opened today we were greeted with a pleasant surprise. This being the enclosing of the choir loft by a rail and curtain. We are thankful to Mr. and Mrs. Coy Kearns for this nice gift, it being one of the many that they have given to the church, thereby making it more pleasant to worship in.

MAX ROGERS, Reporter.

Pleasant Grove Station.—Activities of the church are going along nicely. Young People's Day was observed the first Sunday. The young people were in charge of the two services. After a short Sunday school lesson the classes assembled in the auditorium of the church to hear a very helpful message on "Witnessing for Christ," by Mr. Hoyt Wood, a ministerial student of High Point College. At the preaching service Dr. A. G. Dixon brought the message, using as his subject, "Youth's True and Everlasting Friend." At the close of the service a reconsecration service was held. The services were very inspiring and helpful to both youth and adults. The collection for World Service amounted to $15. The Sunshine Auxiliary met Monday evening, February 5, with Miss Helen Kennedy. Thirteen members were present. We were very glad to have Miss Louise Powell as a new member.

On Wednesday afternoon, February 7, the Ladies Aid met with Mrs. Homer Veach. A large number of the members were present. Mrs. Joe Murphy was in charge and had an interesting program.

On the second Sunday Dr. Andrews was a welcome visitor to the church and brought the message at the preaching hour. After reviewing the works of the Conference he brought a timely message to a congregation smaller than usual, owing to sickness and very rough weather. Sunday we were back on our regular services. Several of our members are still out sick. An epidemic of measles is keep a few childen away. Although new faces are joining with us in our Sunday morning services. Bro. Powell is still working hard to make this a successful year for our church. A special Bible story for the children was told to a very attentive group of children. This is to be continued from time to time. The remaining part of the service was taken up with the subject, "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire."

MRS. CLYDE PAYNE, Reporter.

Cedar Cliff, Mt. Hermon Charge.—The work is moving along very nicely at our church, with very good attendance and splendid interest in the services. We are striving to go through the winter months.

On February 11 Mr. Overman, teacher of Saxapahaw school, and pesident of A. C. C. E. V., spoke to us. We observed Young People's Day.

Members of the C. E. Society held a very enjoyable social at the president's home, Miss Bertha Boger. Weiners and marshmallows were served.

Several of the members of this church have been holding prayer meeting in Saxapahaw community and report great services.

Best wishes to all.

MRS. R. M. BOGER.

Melton's Grove.—There has been no report from Melton's Grove for some time. Our Sunday school, though small, has been very good for the winter. Rev. C. W. Saunders has filled every appointment since Conference and is giving us some good sermons. He is getting the children lined up and taking some part in the service.

We are having the church painted inside, which will make it more attractive. We are hoping to accomplish much during this year.

GLENNA LANE.

Forsyth Charge.—The work on this charge continues to go forward although the attendance at the services for the past few weeks has not been up to par, due to the extremely cold weather and sickness among the membership of the churches.

Since the generous pounding which we reported some time ago, other useful gifts have come to the parsonage, including a turkey by Miss Myrtle Kiger, of Maple Springs; a ham by Mr. W. G. White, of Union Ridge; and a shoulder and other fresh meat by the Cox family of Hickory Ridge.

Approximately $150.00 has been spent on the parsonage since Cinference, including a septic tank, bathroom fixtures, etc. This gives us practically all necessary modern conveniences and makes this one of the most desirable parsonages in the Conference. All four churches shared equally in these improvements, most of the money being donated by the women's Auxiliaries, although a number of the men contributed generously also. We sincerely appreciate these and all other expressions of interest in the welfare of the present occupants of the parsonage as well as those who are to follow.

The Annual Conference claims and the Methodist Protestant Herald are being emphasized these days, and we hope to make a better showing on these as well as the other interests of the general church this year than last.

R. A. HUNTER.

South Winston Charge.—Sunday was the beginning of the second year for our beloved Pastor Bro. Atlas Ridge. He came to us Sunday morning with an excellent sermon. He began by reading a few verses from the fourth chapter of Amos and his text was the 12th verse of the same chapter; his subject was "Preparedness," and he did a wonderful job on this subject, although he did not have many present.

At our evening worship we had between 45 and 50 present and among our visitors was Dr. C. H. Whitaker and we are indeed glad for his presence.

Bro. C. E. Ridge conducted our evening services. He is a good singer, and conducted the song service; also he sang and played two of his songs at the piano.

He began his service by reading a part of the third chapter of Phillipians and he chose the 13th verse for hi s text: "This one thing I do,' and he surely did a good job. I just think you people down at Shiloh church should be very proud of your pastor, as we know now he can preach and sing and do a good job of it, too. I want to think him for his service and welcome him back to our church at all times. Visitors are always welcome at any time at our church.

Come on with your Herald subscriptions now. We at South Winston have added two more to our list for this year.

Am very sorry Mrs. Ridge is not so well lately. Hope she will soon recover.

W. C. NORRIS, Reporter.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—On the second Sunday morning the ground was covered in ice, and it was almost impossible to get to the church, but services were held both morning and evening. Our faithful pastor drove the 30 miles from his home on icy roads and brought us two splendid sermons. Sunday morning his subject was "Finding God in the Common Things of Life," and Sunday night on "Giving God What You Have."

We saw in the Herald that Dr. McCulloch has improved. We send our best wishes for his continued health.

In my reports since Christmas I have forgotten to mention the nice circulating heater the Ladies' Aid and Sunday school bought. It surely is appreciated in this cold weather we have been having.

Not only the entire community, but the many friends elsewhere of Mrs. B. A. McClimon were shocked and saddened when the news was spread that she died suddenly Saturday night, February 17, at 10 o'clock. There is nothing left to say in praise of Mrs. McClimon. She said it by her life. She was loved by all who knew her—they had no reason for not loving her. Our hearts go out to her lonely companion and dear children in this sad hour, but may they be comforted in the thought that "though it be our loss it is her gain." We are only separated for a while. She has crossed the river and yet she cannot cross back, yet we can cross and go to her. If we live the life she challenged us to live we may someday meet her, and what a happy reunion! LOTTIE HARRISON, Reporter.

Fountain Place, Burlington.—A leadership training school was held here with Rev. N. G. Bethea as dean and Mr. Ballard and Mabry teaching. Several received certificates, but the cold weather stopped most of those who started courses.

On last Sunday night the February thank-offering servise was held. Mrs. A. V. Amick presided over this meeting. Each person wrote a few words in appreciation of someone who had had some good influence in his or her life. This was put in the envelope with the offering. The offering amounted to $21.80.

The Alamance County C. E. Union met with the Fountain Place C. E. Society on the last Friday night in January. There were over 200 present. The C. E. met last Wednesday night with Mr. Bethea leading. Mrs. Jack Randolph, of Gibsonville, read an interesting paper on "The Evils of Wrong-doing From a Physical Standpoint."

The Ladies' Auxiliary met with Mrs. J. W. Wright last Monday night. A George Washington banquet was planned, the necessary committees were appointed and are now working on it. The proceeds go on the church debt fund. REPORTER.

Canaan, Denton Charge.—The work of the new year has started off nicely.

We were very sorry to lose our pastor, Rev. Robert Short, and his dear wife and family, whom we had all learned to love. We wish for them much success on his new work.

On the other hand, we heartily welcome our new pastor, Rev. Mr. Bowman and his wife. Bro. Bowman has filled all his appointments since coming here, bringing us some very interesting sermons. We believe if the members will co-operate with our pastor we will have a successful year.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely under the leadership of Bro. J. S. Harris as superintendent. We have had a very good attendance through the winter months and especially in the Young People's class. We have 46 members on roll in this class with 100 per cent attendance many times. The attendance has dropped down some in the last month on account of many of the members going away to work.

Best wishes for the Herald and its readers.
LILLIE WARD, Reporter.

Friendship, Fallston Charge.—At the regular church service Rev. Fogleman delivered a very inspiring sermon based on Paul's letter to the Galatians. The special music for the service was very good.

Our Sunday school superintendent, Bro. Gettys Bingham, has measles. Because of his absence Bro. Fogleman acted as superintendent Sunday morning. In spite of the cold weather a very large number was present. We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Sain and Mr. and Mrs. Moore, of Morganton, worship with us.

Sunday night the Christian Endeavorers were led by Mr. Wellington Lewis. The program was well rendered and interesting.

The Woman's Auxiliary, which met Monday afternoon, is progressing wonderfully. The last meeting was with Mrs. Fogleman.

We are glad to hear that many of our friends. who have measles are improving and will soon be with us again. The epidemic in our community is almost over.

Our hearts were made sad this morning (Tuesday) by the death of Mr. H. S. Cline. Although not of our denomination, he was a man whom we all loved, and he leaves a gap that will not easily be filled. We extend to the family our deepest sympathy.

REPORTER.

Draper Church.—The work here is moving on nicely through there was a decided decrease in the attendance at Sunday school and church services Sunday; this was due to measles. There are over 400 cases in our town. Naturally this hit our Sunday school and church a hard blow; but, even with this handicap, we had a very good congregation.

The C. E. is still on the increase. At present there are 88 members on roll of the society.

The contest between the Reds and the Blues closed Sunday night with the Blues three ahead. The prize will be given next Sunday night.

We are glad to report that all claims are paid up to date; also the Herald campaign has been completed and Draper appears in capitals and subsidy paid in full.

Southside, we don't see any subsidy to your credit. Come on, brethren, let's get together on this Herald campaign and see if we can double the subscriptions by Conference.

A few of our people with the pastor attended the Pastors' Federation at Calvary church, Greensboro, today. They report a very good meeting and enjoyed inspiring addresses on tithing by Rev. N. G. Bethea and on evangelism by Dr. Taylor; also the addresses by Dr. Andrews and Dr. Dixon in the afternoon.

We are looking forward to the time when the sick will be well and back in their places at church.

With prayers and best wishes for the speedy recovery of our beloved Editor and success in his field of service.

MARY STEWART, Reporter.

SMILE-PROVOKERS

Quoted by Rev. N. G. Bethea: Old Lady—What a pity the depression put off its coming to the midst of the hard times!

Quoted by Rev. W. F. Kennett: Prof. Holt—Mr. Mulligan is somewhat pugnacious, is he not?

Student—I don't know about that, Professor; it may be he is: but I am sure of this, he will fight.

THIS IS NO JOKE

Kansas, a pioneering state in the cause of prohibition, is made the butt of many jokes because of its dry attitude. It is no joke, however, what Kansas has reaped as a result of its bone-dry law. In Kansas there are:

Fifty-four counties without any insane; 54 counties no feeble-minded; 96 counties without any poorhouses; 53 counties without any persons in jail; 56 counties without any representatives in the state penitentiary.—The Christian Observer,

"MONEY TALKS"

Did you ever listen to a one-sided telephone conversation? Once in a while you hear a word of the other side, and it is a bit encouraging, and you "sit up and take notice."

That is the way with the work I do. I do all the talking, and only once in a great while hear enough of the response to even "sit up and take notice." But the six letters I have received have given me courage to go on.

We have heard the expression, "Money talks." So I went over to Mrs. Taylor's to hear it talk; and if we have made no errors in transcribing, this is what it says for Mr. Minnis from North Carolina since April 1, 1933, to the present time:

We are thankful for these gifts, and for the care of the people in so many ways. God bless and prosper and direct His own.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Phillips

John Bennet Phillips was born February 24, 1875, and departed this life February 4, 1934, aged 58 years, 11 months and 10 days. We were in the Baltimore community Sunday morning, February 4, when the news came to us that Bro. Phillips had suddenly passed away at 6 o'clock. In the fall of 1922 he professed faith in his Lord and Savior and became a leading and loyal member of Baltimore M. P. church.

We extend our prayers and sympathy to the bereaved family. Rev. Mr. Hutchins, of the Friends church, and Rev. C. B. Way assisted in the funeral service.

D. R. WILLIAMS.

Binkley

Sallie Dalton Binkley was born December 15, 1858, died January 21, 1934. She was the daughter of the late Martin and Elizabeth Wilhelm. On January 18, 1877, she was married to C. H. Binkley. Of this union her husband and four children survive: One daughter, Mrs. D. B. Smitherman, and three sons, W. C., G. H., and S. A. Binkley, all of East Bend. She is also survived by one brother, J. B. Wilhelm, of East Bend; 11 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by one infant son.

With her husband she united with Baltimore Methodist Protestant church in the year 1895 and remained loyal to her church and Savior until the end. She was a good wife, a loving mother, and a kind neighbor. In the last months of her declining health she was grieved to think of leaving her husband and family and loved ones, but longed to go to that rest to which her Christian life entitled her.

The funeral services were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. C. B. Way. There were many beautiful flowers. May the bereaved be comforted by the power of the Holy Spirit. D. R. WILLIAMS.

THIS IS THE TASK—WILL YOU FACE IT SQUARELY?

The amounts apportioned to the several churches of the Conference to be contributed as HERALD SUBSIDY, while the same as for last year, are repeated below in the belief that there may be some who may fear to trust their memory as to the amount assessed their church or charge:

Churches with less than 100 members contribute	$2.50
Churches whose membership is from 101 to 200	5.00
Churches whose membership is from 201 to 300	7.50
Churches whose membership is from 301 to 400	10.00
Churches whose membership is from 401 to 500	15.00
Churches whose membership is more than 500	20.00

The HERALD depends very largely upon these Subsidy payments for its existence, and it is of vital importance that these assessments be met. In laying your plans for this year's work, be sure that you have not omitted this very essential part of your financial program.

Well, well, here they come. Look at Draper! She's walking on top of the earth. Just to think, she not only went over the top last week in subscriptions, but she also went over in sending in the full amount of subsidy. That is a distinction that belongs only to Draper so far this year.

And did you see what Whitakers did? They got in a balloon and came very near going to the top. Knowing those people down at Whitakers as I do, I am not surprised. For while there are not so many of them, they make up for it in quality. We shall look for their report this week with a great deal of interest.

There is another crown to be placed on the head of somebody and I want to take the time to do that now. I did not get started awarding honors until several weeks of the new Conference year had gone by, and some things happened in that time, one of which was, ORANGE CIRCUIT, with B. M. Williams as its progressive pastor, beat every other charge to the goal in raising subsidy in full. HATS OFF TO ORANGE CHARGE FOR THAT!

Now, my rule is not to mention anything until its first appears in the Herald, and I must stick to my rule; however, a little bird tells me there are some fine things coming out in the Herald this week. How I wish I could tell you about them, but I must not. You discover them when you get your copy and I will write about them next week.

THE CHILDREN'S HOME

Will you allow me space in your paper to say a few words about our Children's Home in High Point? At present we have 108 children in the institution. They have to be clothed and fed by the Methodist Protestants of North Carolina. These children come from all over North Carolina and from out of the state as well. The North Carolina Conference has adopted these children as our own, and it is up to us as a denomination to see to it that they are clothed and fed and, at least, given a high school education. Dr. and Mrs. Dixon have given all the energy that they have to this institution, and it is up in North Carolina we have 235 Sunday schools. Out of this number there are very few, comparatively, which are contributing anything to the Children's Home.

I suggest that some layman visit the Sunday schools, especially those which are not contributing, and see if they won't give us at least one Sunday's offering per month. I believe if we can get every Sunday school in North Carolina Conference to contribute regularly each month to the Children's Home that we can relieve Dr. and Mrs. Dixon of an embarrassing financial situation.

The Bible and Future Life

Some Bible readers have contended that the Jewish scriptures (Old Testament) do not teach a future state of existence. The truth seems to be just the reverse. While certain texts employed to support this doctrine may not have any reference to a future state of existence, other texts can be found which very clearly express this view. But even conceding that the Old Testament presents no adequate representation of a future state of existence for men, the New Testament more than makes up for any deficiency.

The great witness is Jesus. He brought life and immortality to light. He said, I will come again that where I am there ye may be also. He not only promised future existence, but existence under the most favored and desirable conditions. We are to be with Him! And we are also to be like Him! Our future life will not be a bare existence, but an existence enriched with all the riches of the divine presence. Men sometimes doubt the revelation of God to us in all His glory, but Jesus removes this doubt. Our Father is to be with us manifesting all His goodness. Not only is He to be with us in His glorious personality, but He will permit us to behold some of His choicest works that He has made for our delight. We will live in a place prepared for us. We will live in our own home as part of our Heavenly Father's splendid family. The home to be prepared for us will be especially adapted to us. One supreme privilege will be that of seeing Jesus as He is. And we shall be like Him because we shall see Him as He is! Jesus delights in the prospect and the same prospect fills us with joy unspeakable. The future life is necessary as a fitting supplement to this life. Because Jesus lives we shall live also. Because Jesus Christ lives with us our future state will be Heaven. Jesus lived His earthly life with His eye on Heaven. His former estate was glorious with the glory He had with the Father before the world was: His future state will be glorious with the added glory of man's redemption and eternal salvation. How real that past eternity was to Jesus and how real to us will He make that future eternity! What grand furnishings are being gathered for that great house not made with hands! All the saints of all the peoples and nations will have reserved seats with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the future Kingdom of Heaven. What a glorious event that will be when Jesus yields up to the Father all authority and all rule forever! A state that holds such an impending crisis must be unspeakably real. A state that has logical relations with all the states of the past must have reality in the future. Jesus lived in Heaven and for Heaven and delighted to think of us with Him in Heaven.

Peter also looked for a glorious future state. He wrote: We expect a new heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. Righteousness, the profound essential. The will of God will be done there. No sin shall enter there. The happiness of the righteous will ever abide there. Peter entertained no doubt of the future state. It would be for him and all savd by Christ a joy everlasting.

John also looked forward to a great satisfying future. He beheld its glory and beauty. He saw thousands of purified souls entering into it.

Time would fail to tell of all Bible writers who rejoiced daily in a hope of Heaven. Pitiable indeed are the men of our day who cannot see the light of Eternal Day.

Mrs. Dr. Harris Crosses Over

It has been but a few months since we were called on to chronicle the death of Dr. F. R. Harris, of Henderson, N. C. On Saturday of last week Mrs. Harris followed him in death. She was a distinguished woman and will be missed by many. She was distinguished as a granddaughter of Dr. William H. Wills and as the daughter of Rev. Jesse H. Page; also as the wife of Dr. F. R. Harris and by many personal qualities of her own. She and her husband were leading members of Henderson Methodist Protestant Church. They leave a son and three daughters. May God comfort and lead them!

Why the Herald is Late

For the first time in more than six years the HERALD printers (McCulloch and Swain) are late in delivering their product. A freezing rain was the cause. Breaking trees and wires put most of the electrical machines of the city out of operation. It took four days to make repairs and our issue is four days late. We hope to be on time with the next issue. Please excuse our delay.

JUDGE NOT

The truth has been given to us to feed our souls and enlarge our hearts and build up our brethren; some people use it as a foot-rule with which to measure them.

One of the surest signs of self-satisfaction and spiritual pride and decline is the judging of others.

It is astonishing how big and important we feel when we are measuring and judging others; it is equally astonishing how small we feel when we are conscious of being measured by the Lord.

If we judge ourselves, esteem our brethren better than ourselves, and pray for them, we shall please the Lord.—Scripture Truth.

WHAT ABOUT DENOMINATIONAL CHURCH HISTORY?

By Luther K. Long

Leaders among Baptists are starting a movement to promote greater denominational interest and activity. A recent editorial in The Watchman-Examiner—an outstanding Baptist weekly—strikes the denominational church history note. It says:

"If our pastors should tell their congregations what our fathers had to suffer in propagating our denominational Baptist principles, these principles would be regarded as a precious heritage by the present generation. Other denominations now accept as a matter of course principles that were once held by Baptists only. Our work, however, is not finished, for all our principles are not yet accepted. We still have a great work to do in the world, but many of our people because of ignorance or indifference believe that all churches are alike and teach the same things. The fault lies largely with our pastors. To a large extent we no longer have a teaching ministry."

Further on, the editor draws on an article by Arthur H. Brown in The Biblical Review. Quoting Mr. Brown:

"It is said that intelligent laymen would be glad to know what the chairs of church history in our theological seminaries are for. Ministers bring the results of their theological and exegetical studies into the pulpit. They bring the results of scientific and economic studies. But, as a rule, they are silent on the history of the church, and the opinion appears to prevail that there is but little in it that can be made practically useful. I believe, however, that the field thus neglected is one that is rich in material of high value alike to the minister and to his people."

I heartily agree with two things in the foregoing quotations: (1) The Baptist denomination has much in its history of which it may justly be proud. But this is true also of every other denomination. (2) Baptists have contributed some things of great value that have been accepted and used by other denominations. This, also, is true of the contributions of other denominations to the general good.

Denominational promoters are inclined to overlook the part other churches have in any good cause. Baptists are not the only group that has stood for freedom of the church from domination by the state. The Maryland colony, the William Penn colony, the Plymouth colony—as over against the Massachusetts Bay colony—were all headed in the direction of tolerance, as truly as were Roger Williams and his colony at Providence. Methodist Protestants are not the only group that has stood for freedom from domination by the episcopacy and in favor of lay representation in church councils. Baptists, Congregationalists, and Disciples are honored workers in the same cause—seeking a church without a bishop in a state without a king. Fundamentalists and Holiness people are not the only groups holding in high esteem the sacred scriptures and counting of great importance personal Christian experience. There is no place for jealousy and strife as to which group is foremost and exerts the most potent influence. The great thing is to get results—whoever does the getting—and these results should draw into a closer fellowship the workers of various groups.

Denominations should congratulate themselves on what they are giving up, as well as on what they are giving. Baptists should rejoice that many of their churches are giving up close communion. Baptists and Disciples should sing for joy because many of their churches are not now requiring the rebaptism of persons coming by letter from churches that baptize by other methods than immersion. Congregationalists and Baptists should freely admit that many of them are realizing that they can use to advantage some of the connectionalism of the Methodists; and Methodists will do well to admit that many of their ministers and members are not as much enamored of the episcopacy as some of their bishops wish they were, and that many of them recognize some beauties in the Congregational and Baptist ways of thinking and doing that they wish might be taken over by Methodists. It would do no harm if Presbyterians tempered their enthusiasm over their ancient, solid, and unchangable system of belief by freely admitting that many of their loyal members look with appreciation on the things of other denominations, and would be glad if their own creeds and ways of doing things were not so hard and fast.

The study of church history should not be confined to the heroes and heroic events connected with one's own denomination. One should be glad to know of the principles and achievements of members of other groups. Above all, students of church history should be ready to hail with delight the arrival of the time when any special groups—realizing that essentially they are alike and teach the same things—may wisely combine into one organization.

It has fallen to my lot to know many ministers and laymen in many denominations. I count it a joy thus to know them, and it is a distinct advantage to be able to rejoice in their sacrifices and achievements in the work of the kingdom. While I am glad for all the good work that Baptists have done, I should regret any movement among them toward making their group any more distinctly denominational.

THE PURPOSE OF JOHN'S GOSPEL

John expressed his purpose as follows: "Many other things did Jesus in the presence of his disciple, which are not written in thi book: but these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and believing ye may have life in his name." John had selected from a larger mass of available material, such things that Jesus did and said that would tend to bring out, and strengthen faith in Jesus Christ. It is very plain that John aimed to write a Gospel of Jesus Christ rather than a biography of Him. The latter would have been revealing, but the former is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.

The first two Gospels gather their interest in the Messiahship of Jesus Christ around the confession of Peter; while John climaxes his with the confession of Thomas. We are greatly indebted for such strong testimonies, from eye witnesses of unimpeachable character such as Peter and Thomas. They asked our questions for us, and obtained satisfying answers to them all. Yet the Messiahship of Jesus is of so-vast importance, that we naturally seek all the possible proof. Let us then visit the scene of John's Baptism, witnessing the opening of the heavens unto Him: see the Holy Spirit descend as a dove upon Him, and hear a voice from heaven saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

Such unmistakable proof was necessary to banish skepticism, doubts, and despondency among the disciples. From the accounts in the four Gospels of the falterings, doubts, haltings even among the twelve may be gathered what existed among those outside the twelve. John selected such facts that would most likely lead a bewildered, perplexed soul into a clearer and fuller knowledge of Jesus Christ, as the Son of God, and the Saviour of the world. Paul felt that to be the spreme need when he wrote, "I count all things but loss that I may know Him." Paul's final word was, "I know him whom I have believed."

John was not content with mere intellectual enlightenment, as important and much needed as that was; yea, he sought moral awakening and spiritual quickening. A careful reading of John's entire Gospel, pictures the author at first as a philosophical theologian, who gradually leaves the realm of the theoretical; and concludes as a warm-hearted, impassioned, practical Evangelist. Paul was no more of an evangelist when he wrote the Corinthians that he determined to know nothing among them, save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified. Philosophical and biographical writings may be instructive, and entertaining; but John proclaimed salvation through Immanuel's name. His chief purpose was to lead perishing souls unto the fountain of eternal life.

The purpose of John's Gospel is found in the climax of his book. Climaxes are interesting, and we like to focus our attention on them. Most readers are pleased to reach the climax of a good story: many an audience was thrilled as the late William Jennings Bryan reached his oratorical climaxes; and poor is the individual who has never lingered on the mountain peak for the panoramic view to be had. The pious soul lingers over the fact that "Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing he may have life in his name." John might have written an imperishable book on philosophy, or a life of Jesus Christ that would have overshadowed all others; but somehow, we feel the religious world is richer for his having written a Gospel instead. He may have been able to do the former, but the world knows he did the latter.

W. A. Ledford.

SPIRITUAL NEEDS IN OUR CHURCH

In a recent discussion of the weaknesses of the Methodist Protestant church, it was said that there is a lack of denominational pride, co-operation, and co-ordination; a criticism of the individuals; too little loyalty to the church, and a constant drain in the membership of the church. However, all these faults revert to one great, underlying cause which is fundamental to the successful Christian life and church—that fault of lack of spirituality.

There is too little religion deep down within us; although there can never be too much Christ-like feeling with regard to others. Yet Dr. Tolley Thomason, of Richmond, says that a Christian is a person rightly related to both God and man through Christ. Here it is the right relationship, direct approach to God, that is completely absent.

An existence of a fellowship, a friendship, with God, brings with it a peace, serenity, and contentment, and satisfaction—not in a static state of soul, but in a growing, expanding progress felt within, and a deeper desire to always further that growth. With this fellowship comes the desire for sharing inner experience (the basis of the Oxford Groups and their changed lives). There is the feeling of "I have an invaluable experience; would you not like to enter the circle of God's friends, so that we may all work together in His service?" All too frequently there is a feeling of "Come to our church to help us balance our church budget or to help the quota of new members that we have set for ourselves for this year. Or you may gain by the standing we have for social position or the amount of money represented by our church." When there is no mutual interest in that relationship with the Supreme Being to hold the members of the church to their ideals which they have set up for themselves, but only the relationship of right conduct, then the church would have many equally competent civic clubs to take over its purpose.

A desire to show enthusiasm is the smoke from the inner spiritual fire that exists. In wishing to show their love of God and desire to serve Him, there would be no pleading for funds with which to run the church, for each member would be giving the utmost which he could give; likewise the choir would be well organized, the teachers would be prepared the best that they were able, the followers of the church would make the most of their opportunities. When, and only when, the members of the church have the urge to serve God, to broaden their own experiences with Him, will duties cease to be such and become the pleasure and privileges for which they were intended and fulfill the original purpose. Then will the doubts of loyalty, co-operation, criticism and all the kindred evils be lost in a universal effort of the church to fill its own spiritual drive and necessities.

THE BANKER'S SON

"My son, said a banker to his son, "I want to give you a lesson in business. Here is a half dollar. Now if you can find any boy you can trust who will take this money and pay you interest for it, you may lend it to him; if you invest wisely I'll increase your capital."

When evening came the banker said, "My son, how did you invest your money today?"

"Wlel, father," replied the little fellow, "I saw a little boy on the street without shoes, and he had no dinner; so I gave him my fifty cents."

"You'll never make a business man in the world," said the banker; "business is business. But I'll try you once more. Now, here is a dollar to invest; see how well you can do it."

A merry peal of laughter from the boy followed this which was thus explained: "My Sunday school teacher said that giving to the poor was lending to the Lord, and she said He would return to us double; but I did not think He would do it so soon."—Unknown.

A STANDARD OF LOVE

"A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."

At a glance, it will be seen that there is a unique feature to this commandment of our Lord. That unique feature, at once, challenges comment, and, if possible, elucidation.

He calls it a "new" commandment. He distinctly summarized the Ten Commandments of Sinai as embodied in two, viz.: Supreme love to God, and love to other people equal to love of oneself. Now here He tells His disciples that He is giving them a "new" commandment on the subject of love.

He sets up a new standard. The old standard was, "As you love yourself"; the new standard is, "As I have loved you."

The "Golden Rule" would grow out of the old conception: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them." That should be a universal rule of social behavior. A man, as a man, as a human being, to say nothing of his being a Christian, ought to be unwilling not to observe that rule in his life-relations to other human beings, whoever they may be, or wherever they may be found. If he is not willing so to treat all other human beings, he ought to renounce his status as a human being, and get down on all-fours, where he belongs.

A new rule, we might call it the "Diamond Rule," emerges from this new conception of Jesus. It is not, "Do to any man what you would have him do to you," but for any fellow disciples what the Master has done for you—in so far as that is humanly possible. Your love for fellow disciples must be as much as possible like the love of Christ for you.

Of course, that implies a distinction between His love for the world at large and His love for His disciples—a distinction easily established from the Divine Record.

One of the features of this Standard is the quality of His love that is set up as the standard. Mark some of its characteristics: (1) Its long-suffering. His disciples were very slow to learn. Recall, for example, the scene in Gethsemane, where, in spite of His agony, they could not "watch with Him" one hour, but repeatedly went to sleep. (2) Delicate considerateness. Peter had bitterly denied Him, on the night of the betrayal; and, yet, after He had risen from the dead, in sending a message, the angel said: "Go * * * tell His disciples and Peter." He knew how Peter had grieved over his denial, and He did not want the distressed Apostle to feel that he was discarded.

Long-suffering and delicate considerateness! If your love is like His, your attitude and action towards your fellow disciples will be characterized by these two fine qualities.—Christian Index.

SIGNAL LIGHTS

"It is well you stopped when the red light flashed,"
She said as we drove along.
"For an officer stood on the corner there,
In charge of the traffic throng."
And I smiled, and said to my daughter fair,
As we waited on the spot:
"I always stop when the red light shows,
Be an officer there, or not."

Then she sat in thought as we drove along,
And suddenly she said:
"There ought to be lights for us all through life—
The amber, the green and the red.
What a help 'twould be if a red light flashed
When danger and shame were near,
And we all might wait till the green light came
To show that the road is clear."

"My dear," said I, "we have tried to light
Life's road for your feet to fare,
And we pray you'll stop when the red light glows,
Though none of us may be there.
We have tried to teach you the signs of wrong,
And the way to a life serene,
So stop, when your conscience-post shows red,
And go when it flashes green."

—Edgar A. Guest.

We had better leave all the measuring of others to the Lord. He will do it without partiality or prejudice.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Pastors' Reports Tabulated

Seventy-eight reports were mailed out; to date fifty-eight have been returned. All pastors are expected to report to the President quarterly. Blanks are furnished so the task will be as light as possible. The purpose is to find out what is being done by the churches during the conference year on the conference program. The questions asked are vital and should be answered. Among them are these:

"What percent of the annual conference budget (all claims) did your church accept?" Forty-three pastors reported that 100 per cent was accepted. Ten pastors report definite amounts were accepted, while the others report lesser amounts accepted.

Twenty-three pastors reported definite amounts accepted on World Service ranging from 8 per cent to 100 per cent.

Thirty-seven pastors reported that they would hold all the special days of the denomination.

Thirty reported that they had definite plans for re-enlisting the absentee members.

Twenty-two pastors use envelopes for collecting all claims; eight use them partially—some of the members use them. Some pastors make every-member canvass, some report that the stewards visit the members occasionally and get what they can for the claims and pastor; several take offerings at the regular services to apply on the annual conference claims. But there is no uniform financial system used in our conference.

Six churches have paid the annual conference budget in full out of eighteen.

Forty-six churches report Church Extension assessment paid in full. No call has been made for Superannuates' claim, yet three churches have paid it. No call has been made for High Point College, yet four churches have paid it. No call for annual conference debt, yet one church has paid it.

We have not named any church which paid a part of the assessments. Many have, and we hope the treasurer of the conference will give this list at an early date. In the meantime, we would like very much to receive the other blanks sent out to pastors, about twenty of them. LOST?

"Name Some Problems Now Confronting Your People"

The answers given here were many. Here are some of them: A church debt; the lack of denominational loyalty; low morale; indifference; financial burdens; lack of leadership, etc. These cover most of the troubles they mention. These causes of worry are old but not feeble; they have the vitality of Anteas and the invulnerability of Achilles. They are hard to overcome and harder to destroy. But our people should not surrender to them. And it is not strange that we should have them and many moroe. Human nature is a hotbed which the devil keeps well seeded with his evil designs. Some of them will ever hound and hinder the faithful worker, but still we can overcome them all.

A Church Debt

is not an inherent evil. It usualy comes as the result of progress and wise planning. A new church building is needed to take care of the growth of the church. The only thing to do is to build, and in order to build some money has to be borrowed. Where the trouble begins is when the people fail to live up to their obligations—go to sleep at the switch and ditch the affair. The debt was the wise thing; the foolish thing was the failure of the members to stand back of the project. A church debt when properly handled is a means of grace to the membership—becomes a tonic to the spirits of the membership and stimulates acts of sacrifice which they never would have known had they not built a new church and borrowed money to do it with. No reason for discouragement here. It is a challenge to faithfulness.

Lack of Denominational Loyalty

This often results from the lack of information about the denomination. People who think enough of a church to join it are not going to turn from it without a cause unless they are absolutely unstable. And the reason many cease to take interest in the church they joined is because they remain in ignorance of what the church is doing elsewhere. They never hear of missions, of education or the various philanthropies of the denomination, and since they are never called upon to share in any of them in any way, they decide that they have joined an ecclesiastical corpse and naturally want to leave it. Of course, this does not describe the cause of all defections, but it hits many of them. The cure is not abuse but information. Not tears, but shouts; not quitting, but double diligence on the part of the leaders. Any church that increases faster than it assimilates will have many of this type. Try to assimilate the increase.

Indifference

is a sort of pernicious spiritual anæmia caused by a kind of "hook worm" which keeps people too close to the temporal affairs of life. Such people are usually ignorant of what their conduct will do for others; they are blinded to the claims of the gospel by the darkness of their own souls. They cannot hear the calls of duty to serve Christ for the noisy static of their own cross-purposes. This disease is not cured except by much prayer and constant abstinence from selfish enterprises.

Lack of Leadership

is being gradually overcome. During the past decade there have come into our church life scores of leaders better prepared and many of them most willing to serve. As these find places and fit themselves into them gradually this problem becomes less acute and galling.

We want to emphasize, the problems confronting our church are not different from those confronting other churches and certainly are not impossible of solution. Let us be challenged by them. Let us renew our consecration to the task, give ourselves more to daily prayer, and keep less of our daily earnings for our own needs until we shall wrench our church from the ruts which trouble us so much.

"The Sky is Falling"

There is in a child's book this story of the "little red hen" which one day when a feather from somewhere fell upon her head, ran to the other barnyard fowls telling them the sky was falling. She caused quite a bit of commotion by the announcement.

There are people of the red hen type. A mighty little thing upsets them terribly and the sky at once threatens to fall unless such and such a thing is done or unless so and so is brought into or put out of the church. Pastors often meet this little chicken and usually know how to appraise their cause of fright. It is too bad they have to take any time with such, but they do to keep others of like mind from being stampeded.

The great Houdini who performed so many wonderful tricks a few years ago,—freeing himself from handcuffs inside boxes, the boxes sometimes being thrown into the water—said that he never allowed himself to become excited. He just would not be stampeded by any situation. Lots of us should learn poise, composure, from him. Discouragement often comes as a result of red hen scares. Gideon's success came out of the fact that he stampeded the Midianites. Had he not done that his three hundred valiants wouldn't have lasted ten minutes before that great host. Battles have been lost, armies destroyed and kingdoms wrecked because of fear—the red hen kind, groundless.

And there are entirely too many red hens ready to throw a fit of fear into a group of church workers. Their major activity is running away. They can lead the van in a rout but have no strength to bear the burdens in an attack. Such people should never be given positions of leadership because they lead in the wrong direction; they should never be given tasks that are hard to bear because they are chicken-hearted.

ON CONSOLIDATING CHURCHES

The Editor was standing in the lobby of a small town hotel after a lonely breakfast. The proprietor of the hotel, with the friendly curiosity of his kind, asked him who he was, what he was doing and why he was in the neighborhood. Upon learning that he was a preacher and intending to preach in one of the local churches the host began to talk, giving some observations which had long been considered axiomatic in and about the lobby. Said he: "The trouble with the church is that there are too many churches. In this town there are five weak, struggling churches when there ought to be one big church with a big preacher and it could be supported and the people would attend it."

The Editor had just had a bad night and was in the mood for argument. He frequently gets that way. He came back with an answer something like this: "Well, that depends. The purpose of the church is not to run a big institution but to give people an opportunity to worship God in a way that helps them and a chance to do religious work for the increasing of their religious life. If there was one church in this town instead of five do you think that more people would go to that one church than now go to the five? Do you think that all would get more out of one kind of service than they are now getting out of their own churches? Do you think that more people would really work for the one church than are working in all the churches as they now are? Do you think that more people would study the Bible with the interest that Sunday school teachers have in preparing for their classes? Do you think that more persons would sing in the choir of one church than are now singing in the five churches? Do you think that one preacher paid a larger salary would visit more people and exert a larger influence than the five preachers are now doing in this town? Would one church do more real religious work than is now being done?"

Our host simply replied, "Well, I don't know, I never just thought of it that way before."

Being started we continued: "There are three hotels in this town. Could not one hotel do all the business that comes here? Could not one drug store sell all the drugs the town needs? Would it not be possible to close all your stores and have all the merchandise sold by one or two big stores? If you did what would happen to the little fellows who are making a fair living and keeping the fine small homes going in the community? If you were to consolidate all your business wouldn't that turn this town to a cross-roads village with a lot of empty houses up and down the streets and make the majority of your people move elsewhere?" The hotel man came back with an unanswerable statement which did not seem particularly germane to the argument: "Well, the church ought to be different."

The church ought to be different and we are rather thankful that it is. We have seen so much of consolidation and merging, with swivel chair artists in executive positions getting on the nerves of salesmanagers by sending out impossible orders, with watered stocks and floated bonds burdening business to the breaking point to furnish gravy for promoters, with mass production and standardized commodities clogging the markets, that we are inclined to believe the present economic mess has been the result of this merging business and we are rather inclined to believe that its fruit in ethical, moral and social values has been on the debit side of the ledgder. Seeing what many consolidations have done in some zones we are ready to pray, "From such within the church, good Lord, deliver us."

We know the arguments in favor of church consolidation. "There are too many weak and struggling churches." But how can a weak church ever become strong without struggling? May not a struggle be good for the soul? If men are willing to sacrifice for the right and joy of worshipping God after the cast of their minds and according to the dictates of their consciences, may not that very sacrifice create within them loyalties of the highest value? Within these little churches we know great characters with mighty faith which have been developed by the struggle.

"There are so many little churches with little preachers. We ought to have one big church in each neighborhood with a big man at the head of it." But a great church does not make a great preacher. A great preacher can sometimes make a little church great. Little preachers in little churches may fit and do fine work in spite of their size and because they fit each other. A preacher in a church five times too big for him is a major tragedy that leads to the smothering of the preacher and the shrinking of the church. So long as there is no certain way of ganging either preachers or churches it is a risky thing to throw four men out of the ministry and to close four churches on the chance of picking the big man for the one big church that is to remain. The bad luck of making a misfit in the situation might destroy the remaining church.

"The expense of maintaining so many churches is too great." We do not have the figures at hand nor have we time to dig them out of denominational year books, but we have an idea that the per capita cost for current expenses is not as large in small churches as in the larger ones. The more modest buildings are not so heavily burdened with debt. It is our impression that in this depression the little churches have held up as well and made as large contributions to the general churches as the big ones. We wish some man with a statistical mind would check this feeling of ours and correct us if we are in error.

"The people would go to one great inspiring service of worship rather than to a lot of little flat meetings." Our experience is that they do not. We have seen a lot of experiments tried with union meetings in the summer time, at special holiday seasons, in evangelism, and we have never seen these union meetings draw as many people as the aggregate attendance of the same congregations worshipping separately. We know of one town in which a church was closed a long time for repairs. There was perfect co-operation between the ministers and perfect and friendly co-ordination between the members, but the combined congregation never drew a number of worshippers equal to the number who usually worshipped in the two churches. Nothing makes for the assembling of the people together so much as the intimacy of fellowship, a sense of responsibility for performing a duty or filling a vacant space or an order of worship that fills the personal need of the worshipper. These things are often lost in a larger group. We believe that the percentage of worshippers in proportion to the membership of the church is higher in the smaller than in the larger churches.

We believe in big churches but we believe they ought to become big by growth rather than consolidation, which is another name too often for destruction. We are Protestant to the core. We believe in the communion of the saints, in the rich felowship within the group, in the right and the good of every soul approaching God with the ritual and order of service which will best open his mind to religious reality. These precious legacies of Protestantism are worth more to us than size of building or conformity it liturgy. To sacrifice them even for economy or efficiency would be too high a price to pay for the latter things even if we were sure to purchase them by the gift. We have seen enough of consolidation in business and politics, and have seen something of its cost in the administrative departments of the general church, to be sure that it would be an advantage in the local churches.—The Methodist Protestant-Recorder.

THE FRUIT OF ONE BIBLE

Forty-five years ago a Jew stepped into the Bible House in Constantinople to buy a Bible, because he could get the Old Testament in this way a dollar cheaper than through the Jewish Publication Society. He read the New Testament bound up with the Jewish Scriptures and was converted to Christ. His wife followed his example and for many years the two conducted in their store a volunteer Bible agency, selling the Scriptures in thirty-three different languages.

Twenty-five years ago he moved from the Near East to the Far West, engaged in business in San Francisco. His only passion was to preach Christ and to distribute the Scripture, cpecialy among the Jews. Two years ago he went to the San Francisco agency of the Bible Society and gave to the Society a deed of all his property in the city to be spent for the distribution of Bibles among the Jews throughout the world. Eternity alone will reveal the souls saved as a result of the reading of the New Testament by this Jew. Is the distribution of the Word worth while?—Christian Monitor.

OUR STORY PAGE

A BORN NATURALIST

Donald trotted off, taking a winding path leading through the woods. It was a longer way to the school-house which stood on the other side of the stretch of timber. School had been closed for three days to permit the teacher to attend the State Association.

Down in the woods, on the banks of a clear, rippling stream, he stopped and turned handsprings over and over in the white sand. Then he stood very still, thinking aloud: "I want to know if one squirrel or two squirrels stay in the same hole in the winter."

In a short time he crept into a thicket behind a tree and kept very still. Only the red leaf falling on a carpet of gold could be heard. Then very carefully he imitated the call of the gray squirrel. He had not long to wait. In a hole high up in a walnut tree a little gray head appeared—then the squirrel came out—first its head, then half of its body, and each time it moved it hesitated, looked and listened, with its keen, bright eyes taking in everything. Then out it came with a flirt of its tail and sat on a limb not far from the hole. It was followed by another and another. Donald watched them a long time, smiling. He was studying squirrels. He saw them run into the hole again and each return with a nut and sit on a nearby limb and crack and eat it.

"So much for that, you squirrels," he said. "I thought you kept your nuts in the same hole with you." At the sound of his voice the squirrels vanished.

The tinkle of a bell told of a flock of sheep near by. Donald wandered on a short distance and climbed into a maple. In a dead limb of the tree a woodpecker had chiseled out a round hole.

"Now, I am going to see if that is a woodpecker's nest or a flycatcher's." Again the boy was thinking aloud. " 'Most any one would say it is a woodpecker's. But the crested flycatcher has a queer habit of placing a piece of snakeskin in the hole in which its nest is located."

Hitching along the limb on which he was seated, Donald carefully thrust his arm into the hole and brought out the nest. "Just as I thought," grumbled the boy. "He's whipped the woodpecker and stolen his nest. A flycatcher is a sneaking sort of bird—well of course, he catches flies—but I don't like him. He whistles fine."

Donald dropped to the ground and rolled over a few times, then sat up and emptied his pockets. There were small samples of everything of wood and field. "Ah, I broke it." The broken egg shell interested him. "That's a siskin egg—greenish white speckled with reddish brown. The nest was in the tree just above where I found the egg. The siskin lines its nest with pine needles and hair."

He wandered on. Suddenly a ground squirrel ran into a pile of rocks. Whistling, Donald moved the rocks one by one until he found the nest, which he examined with great care. He fingered it gently. "You nice little nest," he said. "Now it's settled. I thought they lined you with fur." Then he replaced the stones. Just as he finished, a small reptile, having a scaly body and four well-developed limbs, came crawling from under the pile of rocks. "A lizard," and the boy laughed. "Now, there are two things I shall find out. Ned Kramer said a lizard had but two toes and I said five. And he said they could curl and stiffen the tail if angry." He found the last to be very true, and discovered that the lizard had five toes. "Go on now, you ugly-looking thing. You're no better than any other reptile."

A rabbit slouched through a thicket, eyed him shyly and ducked into the briers, nor quite out of sight. Without moving, Donald watched him lying flat in the brown grasses, ears forgetful of alert erectness, falling along his shoulders as if the wind had blown them so. One move and he would give a wild bound ready for fast running. His going is spasmodic. "He could not wear a speedometer," chuckled Donald.

A redbird called with a voice of flame from his ruby throat. A blue jay was busy stealing food. The boy called to him: "You are a merry thief. You steal for the love of stealing. You forget where you hide your plunder." The blackbirds were making tumult in the treetops; talking all at once, evidently planning to leave the woods. In the morning they would be gone.

Donald enjoyed October. It was his favorite month for bird's-nesting. He had no cruel intent. The nests were empty and the birds gone—flown to some other land of summer. Now he was at liberty to take and study the nest for its beauty or novelty. Into every tree he looked or prodded, and found many secrets that the birds did not tell. He knew but few built in treetops, that the birds loved best the thickets. Then, too, so many birds made their nests on the ground. He called one nest a poem and another a picture. "You wickerbasket, I know two happy birds spent days in making you," he whispered. The sunlight sifted through the falling leaves and the warm golden light was glad among the trees.

The boy trudged through the timber like an Indian. But the moment he set foot on the woods road he felt a hunger and turned towards home. When he had gone about a mile he came to the gate.

The place looked beautiful, dressed in its autumn colors. He was hurrying on toward the house; but as he passed the garden he saw standing in one corner, with a large bunch of asters in her hand, his mother. His eyes lighted up with pleasure as he hastened to her.

"How do you happen to be home so early?" she asked.

"I found out about the squirrels and I am hungry."

"You must have hurried."

"No, I played along and saw many gay-colored flowers and weeds, animals and birds."

"And is that why you love the woods, my child?"

"That is why I loved them today. I found the funniest bird's nest. They wove together a piece of old newspaper, a lot of strings, grass blades, threads from rushes, roots, sticks and branches, as if they were in an awful hurry. It was in a little elm tree leaning over the stream."

"Did you see the sheep?"

"I heard the bell. They were not far in."

The boy's mother searched his face as he stood leaning over the fence with his cap in his hand. He was a happy, healthy child.

"Mother, I do want to know all I can about animals and wild life—where they live and how they live."—Michigan Christian Advocate.

THE HEROIC DEED OF A MINE BOY

Who the boy was, the authority for this tale of heroism does not say. Perhaps the man who was once that little boy objects to having his name mentioned in this connection.

Surely a braver boy never lived than this little boy who worked in the dump of one of the coal fields of Illinois long years ago before coal mines were supplied with equipment to save the lives of entombed miners, as they now are, by means of pipes through which food and air may be sent to them.

There had been a cave-in at this Illinois mine and the rescuers discovered that the sixty imprisoned miners were cut off from the air by six hundred feet of broken rock and coal seams. There appeared no possibility of saving the lives of these men until the leader of the band of rescuers noticed a small opening into the mine. No man could enter it, but a small child might.

The foreman called the little boy who worked in the dump and asked him if he would risk his life by crawling down that hole to carry a flexible pipe to the imprisoned miners, through which air could be sent them. The man told the boy that to attempt this thing he must take his life in his hand. Unless he moved carefully coal and rock would settle down and crush him to death; it might fall and kill him anyway before ever he reached a place of safety.

The boy took the end of that pipe and leaving the daylight behind began to crawl six hundred feet through the awful darkness. Sometimes he had to squeeze his way along, and more than once during the terrible journey he felt sure he would never reach the open part where the men were trapped and waiting to die. At times he could scarcely pull the pipe along, but the brave boy finally reached the miners with the pipe. He was so exhausted that he could barely whisper through it to the rescuers that he had finished his perilous journey.

For one week the boy and the miners waited back there in the darkness while the rescuers worked day and night to set them free. But for the pipe through which came air, water and milk they must have perished soon after the cave-in.

Can you imagine how those sixty miners and their families loved that brave boy? When the governor of the state of Illinois thanked the boy at a public meeting, he asked what he could do for him. The boy answered that he would like to learn to read! Imagine that; all he asked for was a chance to learn to read!

That brave lad never worked in the mines again, as he had before, but went to school, and the State of Illinois paid his expenses. This boy was not only a hero, but he has the honor of having been the first who ever made it possible to supply entombed miners with air and food through a pipe. —Our Young Covenanters.

COURAGE

John Fletcher was in his pulpit one Sunday night. The opening service was begun, when his sermon and his text swept out of his mind, like a slip of paper through the window. He tried to recall the sermon; he tried to recall the text, but in vain. Song after song, prayer after prayer followed, pushing him to the moment when he would have to preach, text or no text. The darkness grew denser—until he had to rise. Just then the scene of Nebuchadnezzar's furnace rose up before him and the whole horizon was lit up with the blaze of thought. He began to preach, and the Spirit gave him liberty. The crowded assembly was baptized from on high.

He knew nothing of it, but in that church was a little woman who took her life in her hand that night to serve God. Her husband hated Fletcher and swore he would bake her in his bread-oven if she ever went to his church again. God had given the little woman a chance to answer her own prayer—but it is to be answered in a burning oven, and she is willing to pay the price. She has braved all this and has come to church tonight. This is what that lost sermon meant. But she had the One she needed. When she reached her home the oven was red and her husband stood in the door brandishing his bread-knife. Nothing daunted, she walked up the steps, and he fell on his knees crying, "Oh, wife, pray for me! pray for me!" We men drop on our knees before that kind of religion. The other sort never troubles us. Sanctified heroism saved her husband—the least cowardice would have doomed him.—The Dawn.

THE BEST GIFT

Mr. Bowman, in an article in the Missionary Review of the World tells the story of a Hindu woman who was walking along the banks of the Ganges; and as she walked along, she had by her side a little boy some three or four years of age, and in her arms she had a little baby girl, wailing little thing. An English officer passed that way and spoke to her, because there was agony written in that woman's face. He said, "What is wrong?" She replied, "The gods are angry with me; they have given me this little baby girl." He passed on, but he came back, drawn, I suppose, by the agony in that woman's face. The woman was there; the baby girl was there; but the boy was not there—the sturdy little fellow of three or four years. And this officer knew what had happened. The boy had been thrown into the river, and he said to her, "Why did you throw the boy in?" She answered, "Could I give less than my best to my god?"

Friends, that was a heathen woman. The story shows us the possible power in that woman's life if she really knew God. She thought a god was something cruel, one who was tyrannical, who demanded for no reason the sacrifice of her best loved one. And we who know God to be so true, so loving, so careful, so tender—can we withhold our very best from Him, be it the life of some loved one, or our own life? All that we have or hope to be, let us give in absolute abandonment to the service of the Lord Jesus Christ. Surely, surely, the restless millions await that light, whose dawning maketh all things new, and Christ also waits. Have we done what we could?—Sunlight for the Young.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Enfield.—We are sorry to report our pastor, Rev. E. O. Peeler, is very sick with flu at this time. We are wishing for him a speedy recovery. Many others in our town and community are sick and several are in the hospital. Mrs. J. M. Person came home Monday from a hospital where she has been for an operation. We are glad to report she is improving.

All the churches here united and observed the World Day of Prayer at our church. A splendid program was given by representatives fom the different churches. This service showed a wonderful spirit of co-operation.

There were no services at our church Sunday owing to the illness of our pastor, but the faithful few attended Sunday school in spite of the sleet and cold weather.

The Woman's Auxiliary met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Pierson. This being the day to elect new officers, the following were elected: President, Mrs. Eli Bellamy; vice-president, Mrs. Sam Pierson; recording secretary, Mrs. Egbert Banhill; treasurer, Mrs. Cecil Matthews; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Myra Mann. The semi-annual thank-offering program was also given at this meeting by Mrs. P. S. Bellamy and Mrs. E. O. Peeler had a part on the program. This time we called our offering "The offering of thankful memories," making it a memory gift in honor of those people whose lives and influence we appreciate so much. As each member placed her offering on the table they told in whose memory they were placing it. This was one of the sweetest thank-offering services we have ever had, and we had a splendid offering. The circles reported much success with the following propects this month: Selling oysters, sponsoring picture show; patching aprons and sponsoring magazine subscriptions.

With best wishes to the Herald and its readers. REPORTER.

Efland, Orange Circuit.—On Wednesday, February 21, the Woman's Auxiliary was entertained by Mrs. T. M. Crutchfield. In the morning Pastor Williams gave us some important facts on "The Needs of Our Church." I feel that since these facts were brought to us in such an impressive manner that we will each strive to make our bit a bigger bit.

A delightful buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. Crutchfield during the social hour. The afternoon was given over to the regular business meeting of the Auriliary and a very interesting program, consisting of music, discussions of phases of mission work, and reading from the Record of letters from some of our mission fields. During the business session Mrs. E. S. Taylor urged all who did not receive it to subscribe to the Methodist Protestant Herald, and then presented the patched apron idea to us for contributions to the Children's Home furnace. The Auxiliary gave $5.00 to this fund. Mrs. Taylor is working this idea in the Sunday school and we are hoping to raise a good contribution to this cause.

We haven't heard any complaints from the preacher, although Mrs. Williams said her new stove would burn biscuits. Most any of us would eat burned biscuits a few times, I'm sure, to have a nice new stove such as the ladies of Orange Circuit have recently placed in the parsonage kitchen.

Our chicken supper Saturday evening was quite a success, bringing in about $17.00. We were glad to have among our guests for the evening Mrs. Ila Thompson and Miss Georgia Thompson, of Burlington, who were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Thompson; Miss Mary Crutchfield, of Goldsboro, who spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Crutchfield, and a sister and brother-in-law of Mr. Lee Young, who were visiting from High Point.

PATTYE J. CRUTCHFIELD, Reporter.

West End, Thomasville.—Friday night, February 23rd, the Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Raymond Pierce on Barnwell street. After the meeting the hostess served cakes and hot chocolate to 12 members. The next meeting will be with Mrs. H. W. Armsworthy, March 30th.

Saturday night, February 24, the Men's Bible class met with one of the members, Mr. David L. Disher, for their monthly meeting for supper. Mr. Disher gave a fish-fry. There were 19 members and two visitors present.

Sunday, February 25th, was set for Young People's Day. The young people had charge of the morning devotional. Rev. H. W. Bell, the pastor, brought us an interesting message on Stewardship.

Sunday night a short session of Christian Endeavor was held and then the service was turned entirely over to the young people, who put on a play, "The Saving of Weary-World." We had a real good number present considering the weather. We wish to thank everyone for their attendance and offering.

MARY DISHER, Reporter.

Concord.—On Sunday, February 18, we held our thank-offering service. The little missionary play, "Color Blind," was given under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Litaker. It is not necessary for me to go into detail about the play, as the Lebanon church of High Point had the same play and has already given the story in last week's edition of the Herald. It was a good play, was well acted and everyone seemed to enjoy it. After the play a candle-lighting service was given in which a representative of each circle and also the different departments of the Sunday school were present to hand in their offerings. This, I think, amounted to $38.50.

Our Sunday school attendance has dropped off quite a bit, due to the measles epidemic. We have lots of little folks in our school, and when they are not there it makes a big "hole" in our attendance. The Cradle Roll, having around 20 on roll, had only two present Sunday, while the Beginners, having 29 on roll, had just four present. We miss our children and hope they will soon be back with us. We are really proud of our Sunday schol, for in spite of so much sickness, we had 255 present.

The Baracas have also fallen down some, but are still good, having 78 present.

The Intermediates had charge of the closing exercise Sunday morning under the direction of Mr. Paul Waddell, their superintendent.

The ladies of the church are having a "Hobo" social Friday night. I'm sure there will be lots of fun when we see our good church folk coming in dressed as hoboes. There will be a prize for the best dressed child and also adult. Each circle will put on a "stunt," and everyone is looking forward to having a good time.

We regret the death of Mrs. Robert Gray. She was taken sick while at her work, and was carried to the hospital where she died after a few weeks' illness. Mrs. Gray was a faithful members of our church. She will be missed, not only at our Sunday school and preaching services, but also at the different societies of the church, as she was nearly always present.

Our sympathy goes out to her husband and the three children whom she left behind.

Liberty.—Our pastor's message yesterday morning was one of marked interest and helpfulness. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. Pastor Love gave another good sermon at the evening hour.

The Woman's Auxiliary is planning to give a thank-offering program soon.

Circle No. 2 will meet with Mrs. S. M. Smith at her home on Fayetteville street, Thursday. Circle No. 1 will meet with Mrs. Boyd Reitzel Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Shepard, president of the Christian Endeavor, entertained the members at her home on Graham street. George Washington birthday suggestions made a colorful background for the party. Games and contests and refreshments were enjoyed.

The writer honored her father, W. C. Shepard, at a birthday dinner at their home Thursday, February 22nd, Rev. and Mrs. Love were the honor guests. Mr. Love returned thanks while the brilliantly-lighted candles shone forth emblematic of Mr. Shepard's beautiful life which is now 84 years.

His life is an example and a light to the pathway of his children. God bless you, "Dad;" you've been a mighty good father, with the strongest faith I ever knew.

Make us all, O Christ, joyful in hope, patient in suffering, active in service and abounding in love, for Thy name's sake.

Mrs. Love's sister, Mrs. Weaver Hunter, and two children, of Weaverville, N. C., are guests of Rev. and Mrs. Love.

Rockingham.—Our first quarterly conference was postponed until Saturday before the second Sunday in March. There will be preaching at 11 o'clock and conference at 2 p. m. All members are urged to be present. There will be preaching services the second Sunday morning and night, which is the regular appointment.

Our pastor, Rev. C. W. Saunders, last Sunday night preached a very interesting and inspiring sermon.

Bros. W. M. Jenkins and J. F. Maness urged the people to attend our mid-week prayer meeting. There will be prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. John Phillips next Friday night.

One of our oldest members, Mrs. Thanie Thompson, died February 17, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Archie McDonald. about a mile north of Rockingham. The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon at 4:30 from the M. P. church. Her former pastor, Rev. J. H. Trollinger, spoke feelingly and eloquently of Mrs. Thompson's Christian faith and virtues. The choir sang beautifully some of the old gospel hymns she loved so well in life. Mrs. Thompson's remains were laid to rest in the family graveyard six mies northwest of Rockingham near spot where she was born. She was the last survivor of the three children born to William Riley Covington and his second wife, Mary Bolton. Her husband, John R. Thompson, died in July, 1914. From girlhood to death her supreme faith in her Lord and Master never wavered. Reaping a generous share of human troubles and trials, she was never dismayed or discouraged, but could always emerge in triumph with the words, "If it is the Lord's will, it is all right with me." A meek but virtuous life beautifully lived and never for an instant forgot to practice the divine injunction, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." REPORTER.

Caroleen.—Our Sunday school has been very small for the last few Sundays due to the epidemic of measles. But we are trusting the epidemic will soon be over. We have been blessed in that no deaths have yet occurred from the epidemic.

We are very proud of our Sunday school superintendent for his faithfulness to his duty. Mr. Short has had six children in bed with measles, but he hasn't missed a Sunday from church yet.

We are raising money for painting the church. We have raised around $58.00 on painting. Most everyone gives a small sum every Sunday. In that way we feel that all can help and not miss it.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met Mrs. Q. B. Teseniar last month. The ladies all have so much sickness they were only fie members present. We are hoping to have more present when the weather clars up and the measles epidemic is over. Our meeting was in charge of Mrs. O. C. Webb, president of the Auxiliary.

Our nert meeting will be with Mrs. Ella Burgess of Avondale, the second Monday afternoon in March with Mrs. R. J. Tate in charge.

Best wishes for the Herald and its readers.

Connelly Springs.—We are delighted to see the fine spirit our people are entering into the work of this year. We appreciate the interest many have shown in providing for our needs. We have received the second pounding for the year from each church except one that was late with the first. In addition, we are often receiving produce from different ones. The finances have been above the average, thanks to the unceasing and tireless effort of our circuit steward, Bro. Claude Akiens. The general interest is good; attendance at the services has been off due to bad weather and much sickness. Uncle Fate and Aunt Polly Childress have been very feeble for the past few months. Mr. Gentry Ingle is confined with grippe. Grandpa and Grandma Setzer have not been well lately. The entire family of Bro. Harley Childress have been very sick with colds, pneumonia, and pleurisy. Miss Vella Watson, Mrs. Fortenbury, and others we haven't space to mention; we are glad to report all are improving. There has been an epidemic of whooping-cough, chicken-pox and a few cases of mumps in the community.

Our Ladies' Aid of Shady Grove is taking an active interest. I venture to say they hold the record for the short period they have been organized, less than two months. They organized with ten membtrs. The first meeting $12.00 was reported raised on a quilt. An oyster supper nttted them around $9.00. To date they have 22 active members and raised around $30.00, and are still going strong. They will prove a valuable asset to this work.

Our good people became concerned about the parsonage, it being so open to the severe cold, and ordered new inside doors. Bro. John Watson and Bro. Gilmer Childress put them up. The Ladies' Aid advanced the money. We are very grateful.

A heavy snow is thawing, followed by severe cold. I was pleasantly surprised when Bro. Fortenbury and Bro. Buck Akiens came early Monday morning and cut up our woodpile. Bro. Will Angel helped.

Another surpise: Sunday, a heavy snow, a steady downpour of rain. Not expecting any at Sunday school. Yet walked to church and found a number gathered. Among them our faithful Sunday school superintendent, around 80 years of age. Loyalty of this kind is an inspiration to us.

We solicit the prayers of our friends.

J. L. LOVE, Pastor.

Flat Rock Charge.—Owing to the snow, sleet, rain and muddy roads, we had a small attendance at Flat Rock church last Sunday morning for the regular appointment there. After the service the pastor was invited to the home of Bro. H. L. Johnson, where a good dinner was enjoyed. The condition of the weather appeared to be improving in the afternoon, so we decided to go to Bethany for the service there. Soon after starting to that church the weather became more severe, and consequently there was no one at Bethany for the service.

Our service at Palestine the third Sunday morning was well attended. At that service we had a number of visitors from other churches in the community. The service at Bethel church in the afternoon was fairly well attended.

On Tuesday afternoon of last week the pastor was called upon to conduct the funeral services for James Richard, two-and-a-half-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, of Winston-Salem. The services were held at Flat Rock church and interment was in the church cemetery. The child was killed in an automobile accident near Richmond, Va., and the mother of the child was seriously injured. Two other occupants of the car were also seriously injured.

Our people continue to remember us with suitable gifts for our dining table. Among them was a shoulder of meat from Bro. M. W. Thomas and family, of Flat Rock church. Nice gifts have also been recived from the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pegram, of Flat Rock church; Mr. and Mrs. Houston Landreth, Mrs. R. J. Sharron, of Palestine church; Mrs. J. A. Eller, and Mrs. Ed Hilton, neighbors.

The pastor and family appreciate the improvements made on the parsonage since we located here last November. A total of $120 has been spent for improvements, including a new roof, digging the well deeper and other incidental expenses on the parsonage.

The people of Gideon's Grove church and other friends sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Angel, members of Gideon's Grove, in the death of their infant child, which was born in a Greensboro hospital at an early hour Sunday morning and died about noon Sunday. Burial was at Gideon's Grove church.

There have been several cases of sickness among our church people for the past two weeks or more. We are glad to report that most of the people who have been sick are imroving.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Bethel church at 11 a. m., and Gideon's Grove church at 3 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Denton Charge.—Since writing to the paper the work on Denton charge has been moving along in a very satisfactory way. The people are interested in the work of the church and are striving to carry out the plans of their church. The pastor and his wife are still receiving poundings almost every day, for which they are very grateful to the people of Denton and to those living in the rural communities also.

Yesterday was the day for services at Canaan and Piney Grove and in spite of the rough weather and bad roads there was a large crowd present at Canaan for Sunday school and church service. Canaan paid in full her proportional part of A. C. B. We are proud of Canaan and her willingness to do what she is called upon to do. We feel sure that she is not going to stop here but that she will see the entire program carried through. Mrs. Jeff Harris has been appointed to solicit subscriptions for the church paper and she is asking every member she meets for their subscrition. She is being very successful and we hope in a few weeks Canaan will not only have her proportional part of subscriptions but that every home represented will have the paper coming into their midst.

We were very glad to receive into membershi at Denton last Sunday four new members: Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Halton, Miss Lillie Doby, and Miss Helen James. We are expecting others to join with us later.

J. T. BOWMAN.

Bethesda, State Street.—We were glad to have our pastor with us Sunday after being absent for some time on account of illness. We had 77 present for Sunday school, in spite of the sleet and snow.

The second Sunday in March we are planning an all-day service. Sunday school and preaching in the morning, dinner on the grounds; in the afternoon Mrs. H. C. Nicholson will be with us to discuss women's work. We are also expecting Mr. Rogers to be present and discuss men's work. We are to take our thank-offering at this time.

Our young people's play will be given next Sunday night, March 4, at 6:30 o'clock.

Ellis Lee, the 17-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Essick, died Saturday morning and was buried Sunday evening. The funeral was conducted by our pastor, Rev. T. M. Johnson, and Rev. Paul Rayle. It is hard to give these little ones up, but God's will be done, not ours. Ellis was a sweet little child with a smile for everyone. Just budded here on earth to bloom in heaven. He leaves a heart-broken father and mother, three little sisters, Ruth, Willie May, and Devere; also three little brothers, Hollard, Joe, and Calvin, with lots of friends and other relatives. May the Lord bless and keep them in these dark hours.

The death angel visited our community again Saturday evening and claimed the soul of one of our good neighbors and friends, Mr. Andrew Everhart. He and Mrs. Everhart have both been seriously ill for the last three weeks. Mrs. Everhart seems to be slowly improving. Funeral services will be held at Midway M. E. church, of which he was a member, Monday at 11 o'clock. Burial will be in the Midway cemetery. He leaves to mourn their loss his devoted wife, one daughter, Mrs. Joe Clodfelter, of Thomasville; seven sons, James of Asheville, Numa, John, and Luther, of Winston-Salem, Raymond and Faye of Bethesda, and Grady at the home place. He will be greatly missed as he was one of the oldest men of this section, being 73 years of age. He also leaves one brother, Mr. J. D. Everhart of Midway. May they all look to Him who said, "Come unto me, all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Haw River, Glen Raven Charge. — Pastor Pegg filled his regular appointment here this morning. Despite the rain and bad weather, we had a good congregation. We observed the Young People's Day at the Sunday school as well as at the church hour. Several young people made talks on their work. Owing to the bad weather, we had to call off the night service. The young people will conclude their program the second Sunday night in March, at which time we will take an offering for the Young People's work.

State Street Charge.—Bethesda Christian Endeavor Societies have consolidated recently, elected officers and change the time of meeting from Thursday night to Sunday afternoon. This change is already increasing the interest.

Bethesda has two important meetings announced for the near future, Young People's Day, using the pageant, on the First Sunday night in March. The other is an area meeting and thank-offering service combined on the afternoon of the second Sunday in March. Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, and perhaps others, will discuss the work of the Woman's Auxiliary. Mr. J. G. Rogers will discuss the Fellowship organization and its work. Other nearby churches are invited. It will be an all-day service. Preaching at 11 by the pastor, dinner on the grounds, afternoon program as above.

The attendance at State Street Sunday school for the last three Sundays has been cut about in half on account of measles and some scarlet fever. The schools of Lexington, except the high school, have been closed for three weeks. It would seem that when this epidemic of measles is over there cannot be any more until another generation is born.

The Auxiliary of State Street held thank-offering service the third Sunday night in March. Mrs. D. S. Coltrane made an earnest and impressive talk on the work of the Auxiliary. The worship part of the program was impressive and inspiring. The offering was gratifying.

The remaining sessions of the Leadership Training School for this area, postponed on account of the illness of one of the instructors, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday nights, February 27th and 28th, at First Church. The enrollment and interest in this school have been very gratifying indeed.

T. M. JOHNSON.

Bessemer City.—We had preaching services Sunday morning, February 25th. Our pastor, Rev. J. D. Cranford, preached a very interesting sermon. The congregation was rather small on account of bad weather. Our pastor's wife and little son were absent on account of sickness. We always miss Mrs. Cranford very much because she is rarely ever absent from church services. Our Sunday school was not as large as usual. Collection amounted to $6.27. We hope our school will be better when warm weather comes.

The board of stewards is to meet with Mrs. F. A. Fortenbury next Saturday evening.

Sunday school next Sunday at 9:45 and preaching services next Sunday evenning at 7 o'clock.

Pray for us that we may accomplish a great and lasting work for the Master.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Pleasant Grove Station.—I don't like to write much, but as we are shut in today, gazing upon the first snow of the season, and I was urging my Sunday school class to take the church paper, two men said if I would write more they would subscribe. I promised I would, so I must be true to my promise. Well, the world is full of good things as well as a lot of bad things. We are moving on toward our goals set for the new year. We are pressing the collar, and no one so far as we know pressing the breeching. Our congregations and Sunday school attendance are still growing. My Bible class has not reached the 100 mark, but we are growing and the workers are working, and when the winter breaks the roses will bloom.

We have had lots of good things since our last communication. We have some good talent from the youngest to the senior classes, so we decided to use this talent in our regular preaching service. We are asking each class to favor us with a special each Sunday, and these classes are giving us some fine music. The first Sunday was our Young People's Day. Cold, but the service was fine. Rev. Mr. Woods, of High Point College, favored us with a splendid address, and Dr. A. G. Dixon, superintendent of our Children's Home, gave us a fine sermon and closed with a reconsecration service. A fine response. It was a ral joy to see so many fine young people come to the altar for a reconsecration to the service of our blessed Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

On the second Sunday we had the pleasure of having Dr. R. M. Andrews, our beloved president, with us, and to have him bring to the church one of his good, stirring messages.

We were glad to have all these brethren with us and we are thanking God for these brethren and His message sent to us by them. They left us on the mountain top and our souls will continue to feast while we come down to the regular routine of cornbread and salad. We'll continue to go forward.

We have visited and met with the Ladies' Aid Society. This society was well attended; about 21 present, a real live working society of women.

I also met with the Brotherhood last Saturday night. The Brotherhood met with Bro. Homer Veches; a good attendance. After songs and prayers a a nice luncheon was served by Sister Vech and others. Then the Brotherhood went into a business session and discussed some of the interests and problems of Pleasant Grove church. The Brotherhood is not so large in numbers as the Ladies' Aid or as well attended, but both are composed of the heart of the church and are the pastor's right arm and are doing a needed service for the Master.

Now I am listening to the first thunderstorm of the season. As the lightning flashes upon my window I see the ground carpeted with the white snow and hear the timber breaking with the heavy ice, the wires are falling here and there; perhaps, in a few moments we will be without light save the burning coal in the grate and the light of God's Holy Spirit.

If this should get some more subscriptions for the Herald, I'll write again.

With prayers for our Editor and all who are doing Kingdom service.

H. L. POWELL, Pastor.

Shiloh Charge.—Since we have a reporter for the churches it hardly seems necessary for me to write about the things we are doing here, but they seem to leave some things for the pastor to say about their part in the work. Greer's Chapel has suffered a very great loss in the passing of Bro. C. F. Fitzgerald. He was a tower of strength in the church, both spiritually and financially; but the church still has a good leader in the person of his son, Bro. Stamey Fitzgerald, who is our Sunday school superintendent. He is conducting a good school and we predict for this church renewed interest in all of its activities with the coming of spring.

At Friendship we have a splendid church located in a few miles of Yadkin College in a prosperous community. Bro. W. M. Byerly is the very efficient Sunday school superintendent. He is conducting a splendid school. We are hopeful of this church being on the honor roll this year; this is where she rightfully belongs. They are splendid people to serve. One of its membrs., Mr. Certha Lanier, is seriously sick, and we ask that you pray for him.

At Shiloh we have a church that is very much alive, and all of its organizations are functioning harmoniously. Bro. H. A. Leonard has been Sunday school superintendent for about 20 years, and he is very successful in his line of work. Normally the attendance is around 250. Bro. Protus Koonts is president of a wide-awake C. E. Society; this society is really doing things. They have set for their financial goal this year $150.00 to be applied on the church budget; they also sponsored a plan that has supplied the church with 125 good cloth-bound hymn books. This society has a large attendance, and they are regular.

Just recently the church trustees planted a fine lot of shrubbery about the church and grounds; this is greatly appreciated by the congregation and adds much to its beauty and appearance.

Bro. Jeff Berrier, a valued and faithful member of this church, is ill at this time. and we ask that he be remembered in your prayers.

Another pounding! On Tuesday evening, February 13, about 40 of our Shiloh friends came to our home and gave us a pounding. They pounded us severely, but it was just the kind of pounding that preachers and their families enjoy. They pounded us with ham meat, shoulder meat, side meat, 100 pounds of flour, 50 pounds of sugar, four hens, both sweet and Irich potatoes, beans, milk and butter, eggs, molasses, honey, canned goods, cereals, and other useful articles for home use.

As all articles were not labeled we will not mention names for fear some might be overlooked, but the dear Lord knows them all, and we pray that He will richly reward each of them. We appreciate the gifts for their material value to us, but we appreciate still more the spirit that promted the giving, and all we have, dear brethren, to offer as a token of our appreciation is our humble service.

C. E. RIDGE, Pastor.

Asheville.—January and February have brought to the Asheville church several interesting events. An adjourned session of the quarterly conference met January 24th, at which time Pastor Maier asked to be released as pastor here in order to accept a call to Toronto, Ohio. It was with regret that the conference finally voted his release.

Friday, January 26th, about 100 people attended the annual C. E. banquet. A very interesting program consisting of music, stunts, and speeches by representatives from each of the three C. E. Societies was given.

Rev. J. F. Minnis preached at the 11 o'clock service January 28, and on Wednesday evening, January 31, at a meeting of the congregation he was unanimously chosen as pastor of the church. He was assigned to the pulpit here by Dr. Andrews; and we gladly welcome him and his family.

The Fawcett Bible class held its January meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Williams. An interesting report of the growth and work of the class during 1933 was given. Rev. and Mrs. Maier were present and the social hour became a farewell party for them.

The Senior C. E. Society had charge of the program for Young People's Day, February 4. Miss Nancy Clouse gave a story, Mr. Minnis a talk, and special music was a solo by Mr. James Bailey and songs by the Junior choir with Miss Eleanor Golphin at the piano.

The Young Women's class met on February 2 with Mrs. Albert Daniels, at which time plans were made for improving their classroom.

Friday, February 9th, Mrs. Minnis and the children arrived. Pastor Minnis and his family are now living at the parsonage, 165 Hillside street.

The Senior C. E. Society held its regular business meeting February 9th, with Misses Mildred and Janeth Younginer. Plans were made for a supper which was given at the church February 21st.

The Junior C. E. Society gave a benefit Valentine party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Eller, February 16. The Juniors, with several of their older friends and parents, were present.

The Intermediates sponsored a variety program at the church Friday evening, February 23. The program consisted of recitations, music and a short play.

The Young Men's and Young Women's classes of the Sunday school enjoyed a Valentine party on February 13, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robey Wilson.

The Woman's Auxiliary met February 15th with Mrs. E. C. Fawcett. An interesting program was given, followed by the business. A nominating committee to name officers for the coming year was named, and plans were made for the Thank-offering service.

The choir has been enjoying meeting in the homes of the different members.

The Children's Department of the Sunday school is now under the leadership of Mrs. C. B. Baker.

Jack, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, has been sick for some time. We hope he can soon be in Sunday school again.

February 22 the Fawcett Bible class met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McIntire with members of the Woman's Auxiliary as invited guests. This meeting was called a few days early as a farewell meeting for Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fawcett, who with their family are leaving Tuesday, February 29th, for their new home at Cheyney, Penn. Those who know the Asheville church can imagine how great is our loss in the moving of this splendid family. They have indeed given themselves wholeheartedly to the work here. Mr. Fawcett resigned as teacher of the class, which he had taught for so many years, and Rev. Minnis was elected to succeed him.

The same evening, the young men and young women of the church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Daniels in a farewell party for Misses Alma and Margaret Fawcett.

Sunday evening, February 25th, the Woman's Auxiliary gave their Thank-offering service with members of the Auxiliary taking part on the program. A special number was sung by Miss Lola Johnson, and a short play was given by Mrs. West, Misses Margaret Fawcett and Josie McNeill. A most interesting talk on religious work in India was given by Mrs. Minnis. REPORTER.

First Church, Lexington.—Our pastor, Rev. Mr. Isley, brought us two inspiring messages Sunday. For the 11 o'clock service his subject was "Experimental Christianity," and his evening subject was "A Recipe for Happiness."

On Tuesday evening, February 13, the Christian Endeavor Society enjoyed a social at the home of Miss Lola Mae McCulloch. Various games and contests were enjoyed, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments to a large number of Endeavorers.

An interesting surprise to their many friends was the marriage of Miss Ellen Snider and Mr. A. Commodore Johnson, February 9, at 4:30 at the home of the groom's father, B. F. Johnson, at Walnut Cove. Rev. O. E. Ward, pastor of the Walnut Cove Baptist church, officiated. The bride wore a beautiful dress of navy blue crepe with matching accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses and baby's breath fern. Mrs. Johnson is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Snider. She is at present connected with the Lexington Shirt Corporation. Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Johnson of Walnut Cove, but has for the past few years been associated with the Standard Oil Company at Lexington. The couple will make their home with the bride's parents.

Our community was made sad recently by the passing of Mrs. Laura Koontz. Mrs. Koontz followed her brother, Jule Tesh, who died only three days before. Funeral services were conducted by Pastor Isley and Rev. Mr. Burroughs at Beulah Reformed church, and interment was in the cemetery there. We do not understand why they were taken in this way, but we know that God knows best and that He never makes mistakes. Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to the bereaved ones and may they so live that they will be prepared when they shall be called to meet her.

Miss Mary Belle Talbert, who has been quite ill with measles, is improving.

Rev. C. G. Isley and mother spent Tuesday in Burlington.

Spring Hill Church.—Rev. C. L. Grant was in the pulpit Sunday morning at his regular appointment. His subject was "Face to Face With God." The text was found in the 33rd chapter of Exodus and based on the 11th verse. God has been speaking to man through all the ages. He knew that children of Israel needed a deliverer, so he asked Moses to lead them out of bondage. God spoke to Adam face to face in the cool of the day in the Garden of Eden. Then to Noah. Noah was to build an ark to save the human race of that day. He built an ark that would house his wife, sons and their wives and two of every living creature on earth. Noah preached to the people about the descending of the great flood for 120 years, but they turned a deaf ear to his preachings. We find in time where David disobeyed and transgressed the laws of God. He also was brought face to face with God. Later the great king, Nebuchadnezzar was confronted with God through the handwriting on the wall, but as the story goes he couldn't interpret it. He is speaking to us face to face today, telling us there is a duty each and every one of us should perform. If we value the kingdom of Heaven, then we must do our duty. We should look on the church as the best and most sacred thing on earth because God speaks to us through the church. The church may be termed as the life-saving of man. Our problem is to know and appreciate the real value of the church. However, we do not do this as much as we should and do not realize what the church means to the world. The value is untold. We are on trial for our lives and the question is this: "What is your life going to be?" Then is the time we are brought face to face with the Heavenly Father. It is our duty to do our best for the Master. Everyone present enjoyed this inspiring and uplifting message.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Virgil Swaim last Saturday evening at 2 o'clock. The pastor was at the meeting. The collection was $7.20. They voted to try to help pay the parsonage debt. They meet with Mrs. Clay Swaim the first Saturday afternoon in March.

It was decided Sunday to finish hauling rock and sand for the basement Friday afternoon.

We will observe Young People's Day Sunday. There will be a program in the morning beginning at 10 o'clock. That evening at 6 o'clock we will have C. E. as usual and at 7 o'clock the pageant, "Saving of Wearyworld," will be presented. The Canaan Male Chorus has been invited to come and sing for us and possibly a quartet from South Main Baptist church of High Point, will be with us that evening. Our desire is to have a large audience and invite each and everyone to come.

While some of our members have been confined to their homes on account of sickness were able to be at church Sunday, there are still some on tre sick list. Mrs. A. D. Sink and Mr. Julius Swaim are seriously ill at this writing. On Saturday evening Clyde Swaim was taken to Burrus Memorial Hospital were his appendix was removed. He is getting along as well as could be expected. We wish for these a speedy recovery as we miss them at Sunday schools and preaching.

EDITH YORK, Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Even though the weather was very rough, we had an attendance of 100 at Sunday school Sunday. Dr. Pritchard has worked out a plan to try to promote more regular Sunday school attendance. Beginning with next Sunday, and continuing until the close of the Conference year, on the first Sunday of each month, at the close of Sunday school, "Certificates of Appreciation" will be awarded to those who have not been absent from Sunday school a single Sunday during the previous month. At the close of the year a special prize of some kind will be awarded the dozen having received the most certificates.

We were very glad to have Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Bankhead unite with our church last Sunday. Dr. Pritchard received them at the 11 o'clock hour. They came to us from the Brown Summit Methodist Protestant church on the Haw River Charge.

Commissioner Edgar Hoe, representative of the Salvation Army in India, Africa and Australia for a period of 30 years, who Sunday took part in the celebration of the 29th anniversary of the Army's work in Greensboro, preached to us Sunday morning. Just preceding the sermon Arthur Fiddler, of High Point, sang a most beautiful solo entitled: "The Blind Ploughman." He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Robah H. Fields.

Clarence Ingram, one of our Boy Scouts, did a good turn Sunday morning by placing sand on the church steps, which were covered with ice, to prevent anyone's falling.

Considerable damage was done to the beautiful trees in our churchyard by the terrific sleet storm Sunday night.

Quarterly communion service will be observed at our church next Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour.

Our pastor asks that we endeavor to double our Children's Home offering next Sunday.

Due to the bad weather and the breaking down of the furnace in the church, the missionary pageant, "Thanksgiving Gates," which was to have been presented by the children of the church under the direction of Miss Vivian Sullivan, last Sunday evening was postponed until next Sunday evening at 7:30. There will be a practice of all the children in the pageant next Friday evening at 4 o'clock.

Our missionary circles will meet next Monday as follows: Circle No. 1 will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the president, Mrs. C. M. Friddle, 1402 Asheboro street. Circle No. 2 will meet Monday afternoon at at 3 o'clock with Mrs. Howard R. Neece, 1502 Asheboro street. The Business Women's Circle will meet Monday evening at 7:30 with Miss Ila Burrow on Asheboro street.

MRS. HOWARD R. NEECE, Reporter.

Mcklenburg Charge, Pageland.—Our church is picking up since our new pastor has been with us. We are having right good crowds at church most every preaching Sunday, more than we were having.

We have organized a Ladies' Aid, one for the middle age people and one for the younger people. It may be that we will get more interested in it later. We have also divided up the young people's class in two sides, the blue and red. We are to see which side gets the most new members and the side that wins gets to have a party given by the side that loses.

Mr. Henderson delivered a great message Sunday night; his text was taken from the fifth chapter and seventeenth verse of Matthew. I think everyone there enjoyed the message. We still love Mr. Henderson and his family. His wife is a great worker in the the church. She is loved by all the people of our church. Mrs. Henderson is so interested in our church until I believe if we had her down here with us all the time we could make something out of our church yet. If we just had Mr. and Mrs. Henderson to come down and live with us, we would be more interested in the happenings of the church.

It was decided to start having Wednesday night prayer meeting. We all hope it succeeds, but of course it can not unless all the members will help. But we just hope that our church will be a success yet.

ELISE MARZE, Reporter.

Asheboro.—While our reporter is taking a much needed rest from her work as Auxiliary president and Herald reporter, the pastor "will drop a few lines" to the readers of the church paper.

Our church has been moving along fairly well with Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, prayer meeting, Workers' Council and "the like of that." Then, too, quite an interest is being shown in finances, the church paper, and in church attendance. It is generally understood, of course, that the Woman's Auxiliary is doing its part and doing it well. The new president, Mrs. Jess T. Pugh, is off to a good start in lining up the work for the new year.

Among those who have been on the sick list lately are: Mr. R. R. Ross, Mrs. W. C. Hammer, Mrs. W. R. Hamlin, Miss Esther Ross, Mrs. John Swaim, Mrs. N. M. Harrison, N. M. Harrison, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Redding, Mrs. L. F. Ross, Mary Jane Ross, James Hendrix, and Mrs. Otis Rich. A number of others who have been indisposed are "on their feet" again.

The writer with several others attended a chicken supper in the basement of our new church at Seagrove a few nights ago. Wish you could have been along to see that new and modern church building that is nearing completion on the pay as you go plan. There are few of our churches that will surpass it in beauty of architecture and equipment for modern work in religious education. This, of course, has been made possible by the wide-awake and consecrated people of that community. Out at the parsonage on Richland Charge and consecrated people to make the parson's home more attractive and livable. Giles Chapel was the first church to furnish and beautify a room. Browers is now on the job with a room, while New Union, Charlotte, and Cedar Falls are just about ready to spring a happy surprise.

The other charges of our district will be heard from in the future.

R. C. STUBBINS.

TO PASTORS

At a meeting of the trustees of the Children's Home last Friday it was decided to set up a campaign to lift the Home of debt; the total amount is about $6,000.

The objective is to reach every Sunday school and church in the conference. Where the school is going and is sending in an offering to the Home, it is urged to double it; where the school is not going, to enlist the congregation to do this for the school. We are contacting all the Chairmen of the Districts, a special committee from each pastoral charge together with the Home Secretaries and special solicitors at large.

We want your co-operation. See that the superintendent of the Sunday school knows all about this, urge him to present the matter to the school, and when the offering is being taken speak of the burden the Home has carried for years in this debt; and when it is received, see that the offering is sent at once to Superintendent Dixon.

We need your most cordial co-operation in this matter and sincerely hope we shall receive it gladly.

Fraternally yours,
R. M. ANDREWS.

MAGAZINES

Up to date I have sent $21.25 in to the company for magazines and $4.64 commission in to Dr. Dixon. When we send in $100.00 we will get $5.00 refund. Do you know of any other way we can make so much money without cost?

You are going to have your magazines. Every business man must have his, and it will not cost you 1 cent more to send your orders to me and our Home needs this money.

I cannot come to you, but you can send your orders to me. Won't you do it right away?

Better homes and Gardens, one year 60c; 2 years $1.00; 3 years $1.50, until March 15, 1934, when it will be $1.00 per year. Rush your orders in.

MRS. MABEL RUSSELL.

Concert Manager—What, you want $10 a night for playing? That's ridiculous in these times. You must charge by the note.

Musician—No, I charge by the mile. I play the slide trombone.

CAMPAIGN FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME

For five years we have wished to put on this campaign, but all the while something else was pressing, so we gave way and other great enterprises were given attention. Now your workers here have carried the burden just as long as they can, so the President of the Conference and the President of the North Carolina Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary took the lead and, after consulting many of our workers, presented the matter to the Board of Trustees in a meeting last Friday.

The Trustees launched the campaign, and by their direction the following letter is going out this week to a number of selected workers, and to all the Children's Home Secretaries in the local churches. These letters go from the President of the Conference, the Secretary of the Conference, the Children's Home Secretary of the Branch, and from this office. So if you happen to get two letters just remember that you are being approached from two sources.

The Letter

Dear Friend and Co-Worker:

By direction of the Board of Trustees of the Children's' Home, we are putting on a campaign during the month of March to raise sufficient funds to clear off all indebtedness. This letter comes to ask you to co-operate with the chairman of your district, the workers on your charge, and the workers in your local church to raise the necessary amount during March.

These obligations are of long standing and are pressing, so the need is great. Please get busy and do your best to enlist others to help you put this over on your charge and in your church. Others are writing to your pastor and your Sunday school superintendent. See them, and work with them to get the organized classes, the Christian Endeavor societies and the women's organizations busy. What we want you to do is to get every organization in your church working, and every person, even the children, giving. Pennies and nickles will help, but we need quarters, half-dollars and dollars. So get the pennies, nickles and dimes! but urge those who can to make larger contributions.

The plan is to raise this money in March.

(1) Get every church and Sunday school to make an offering.

(2) Get all Sunday schools which do make regular offerings to the Home to at least DOUBLE their offering for March.

(3) Get all organized classes, Christian Endeavor societies and women's organizations to co-operate in every way, each raising a good offering.

Please leave nothing undone that you can do during March to help us get rid of this burden at the Home. Our creditors have been longsuffering, but they are pressing. Let's pay them.

This plea comes to you from 108 children with outstretched hands and with bright expectant eyes. God bless you while you help Him to help us. Thank you, and may God richly bless every one who contributes in any way.

Very truly yours, etc.

We know that this is a cause in which all our people are interested, so with every organization in every local church working until we reach the last individual, and with every one given a chance to contribute to this worthy cause, we confidently believe the full amount will be raised during March.

Please remember, "Just thirty-one days of thought, and prayer, and planning, and faithful co-operation, and giving to help raise sufficient funds to relieve the tremendous strain from the hearts and hands of your workers here. Everybody helping, men, women and children, this can be done easily and quickly if all will help." We are already thanking God for the expected relief.

Yours in the Master's service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

MOUNT HERMON PREACHERS

Mount Hermon church, in Alamance County, has sent out seven men to preach the Gospel of Christ, as follows: Revs. Alexander Albright, John Loy, Jordan Neese, Peter Sharpe, J. W. Garrett, George W. Holmes and H. L. Isley. Millard Isley, a member of this church, and a grandson of Rev. J. N. Garrett, is in High Point College preparing for the ministry. Alexander Albright and George W. Holmes each served as president of our Annual Conference for a number of years. John Loy and Peter Sharpe were local preachers. It is said that Mr. Loy had great natural ability and preached remarkably well. He did much work in revival meetings and was used of the Lord in bringing many souls to Christ. Peter Sharpe was a very promising young man, but his career was prematurely cut short by death. Peter Sharpe's brother, M. Henry G. Sharpe, has been a licensed exhorter at Mount Hermon church approximately 50 years. Jordan Neese was a physician and a preacher and served a number of charges, he and John Loy both being great-grandfathers of Revs. W. M. and O. C. Loy. Rev. J. N. Garrett had the distinction of being the only man who went out from this church to serve it as pastor, he having served two pastorates on Mount Hermon Charge. Rev. G. W. Holmes has been an educator and a preacher, serving as president of Yadkin College for a number of years. Revs. Garrett, Holmes, and H. L. Isley each taught successfully for several years. Rev. H. L. Isley was baptized as an infant by Rev. J. N. Garrett, received into Mount Hermon church at the age of 15 years by Rev. J. H. Bowman, and licensed to preach in the same church by Rev. J. A. Burgess.

—Sunday night, February 25, will long be remembered by the people of Greensboro. The crashing of trees, caused by the heavy sleet, the breaking of limbs, telephone and light poles made one wonder if anything would be left by morning. A series of thunder storms added to the horrors of the night. And on Monday morning what a sight! There was a twisted mass of trees wires, poles and almost anything else that could fall.

"Now get back, don't crowd them; give them plenty of room." Here they come! Some of them are riding prancing steeds, some limousines and others are riding high on the band wagon. Who are those in that king's chariot? "Madison," you say? Oh, yes, Glenn Madison, the pastor of the First Church at Thomasville. And the one riding with him is Mrs. Myers, the Herald Agent. They have just led their church to victory in the Herald Campaign, both as to subscriptions and subsidy, and this is the victory parade. And what is that big sign down yonder that reaches across the street? Let me get my field glasses and see. Oh, yes, it says "Thomasville, First, is the first church in the N. C. Annual Conference to reach its quota whose combined contributions for subscriptions and subsidy amounts to more than $50.00 in clean, unadulterated cash." Well, it is no wonder they are having a big parade. Congratulations by the bushel!

I knew I was sick last week but I did not know that I was delirious, but I must have been. For in figuring out Whitaker's percentage I said, seven into thirty-seven will go seven times, and did not notice the error until it came out in print. Well, maybe I was speaking of what they are going to do within a very short time.

Saxapahaw, I see you came in good and strong again on subsidy. That is fine. And Brother J. T. Cozart, who always helps to bring up things down on Granville, sent his own personal gift of $10.00 on deficit. That was certainly a fine thing to do. Thank you, Brother Cozart.

Just remember this, that when we are increasing the circulation of the Herald we are making it easier for Dr. Andrews to get his message to the people. It is also easier for Dr. Dixon at the Children's Home, and Dr. Humphreys of High Point College. Folks do not give to anything until they first know about it.

J. E. PRITCHARD,
For the Committee.

What is Jesus Doing Now?

As people answer this question they determine their course in life. The question has two answers: (1) Jesus may be conceived as spending His time idly or for His own pleasure. (2) Jesus may be conceived as energetically spending His time in the effort to establish the Kingdom of righteousness. If you think of Jesus as an idler, you make of yourself an idler so far as spiritual interests are concerned. If you think of Jeus as intensely active, you catch the spirit of His activity and tend to become diligent in the Vineyard of the Lord.

Is Jesus an idler or an actor? Both pictures may be read out of the same Bible by different readers, by being allowed first to read their own conceptions into the book. Even the earthly life of Jesus does not yield the same picture to different readers. Some see the Man of Galilee as a flabby idler and dreamy weakling. Others see him as physically energetic and mentally and morally active. Both pictures are not true and cannot be true. His extraortdinary achievements in a very short public life indicate the intense efforts of his life. Most people will admit that Jesus' life on earth was one of energetic action. He was no dreamer and no idler. But how is Jesus engaged now? What is He doing or trying to do? What light do the Scriptures throw on this question?

The Scriptures do not fully reveal, yet they are far from silent. Between the intensely interesting moment of the resurrection and the intensely interesting moment of the ascension there are numerous indications of activity. Jesus was continuously at work at His great unfinished problem. Many were to be visited and instructed and inspired for their part in the great movement Jesus had inaugurated. It must not be imagined that Jesus by His death and resurrection had relieved Himself of all feeling of duty and responsbiility for the completion of the task: on the contrary, the Father had just invested Him with all authority and all responsibility. It was for Him to give heed and heart to the greatest movement of all human history. He was to lead a race to spiritual emancipation.

Paul in his writings has numerous references to the great part Jesus is now taking in the effort to bring the world to salvation. He is not only Lord of all, but He is fellow-laborer with every man who will accept his part of the task. His promise is of His perpetual presence with every one who will join the ranks of the loyal and earnest workers.

In his Patmos vision John saw Jesus earnestly engaged with His three-fold task—that of Prophet, Priest, and King. Either of the three is enough, but He with more than the labors of a giant is making perfect with all.

Jesus was our example in enduring suffering; He is also our example in undergoing labor. His task calls to us as well as to Him.

THE MARCH CAMPAIGN FOR THE HOME

Others will perhaps take space in the HERALD this week, so we will be very brief. Pastors, Sunday school superintendents, Children's Home Secretaries and several other workers through the Conference have been asked to co-operate in each charge and in each local church to make this March campaign a success for the Home.

The conference officers, the branch officers and also each member of the Board of Trustees of the Home have been asked to back the movement and boost the undertaking in every way possible. A splendid organization has been set up that cannot fail if the organization works. It will not work itself. The individuals in the organization must do the work. This must be done in the local churches; we mean, in ALL the local churches.

Those of us who have lived under the burden of these obligations so long are praying and trusting and believing that you are going to come to our relief to the extent of your ability between now and the first day of April. We are already praising God for the relief that is to be ours by that time. You will not disappoint us. We thank you, and may God bless you every one.

Yours in His blessed service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

BRANCH MEETING TO BE HELD IN HENDERSON

The Annual meeting of the North Carolina Branch of Women's work in the Methodist Protestant church will be held in the Henderson M. P. church, April 4 and 5, 1934. Further notice concerning the program will be given later.

MRS. W. C. HAMMER, President,
MRS. J. M. MILLIKAN, Recording Sec'y.

BETHLEHEM OF JUDAH

Perhaps, no more pleasant memories, for the Christian, cluster around any place than around Bethlehem of Judah. While it will always be noted, for being the home of David, and the birthplace of our Lord, yet, other things happened there to make it memorable. It was one mile south of Bethlehem where Rachel died and was buried. Bethlehem was the home of Boaz; and the scene of the beautiful story of Ruth and Naomi. Here the sainted Samuel came to anoint David king; and where David cried, "O that one would give me water to drink from the well of Bethlehem, which is by the gate." Now fifty generations of believers have lived there continuously.

Bethlehem of Judah is not listed among the great cities of the world. It has never had much above five thousand inhabitants at any one time. But what makes a city great is a pertinent question. Thousands of children from some thirty countries participated in a voting contest to choose the twelve greatest characters of history. In making these choices the children unconsciously made up a new list of the great towns of the world. After considering them carefully, one feels like each is entitled to be called a "Royal City." Dole, France, gave to the world Louis Pasteur, who through his medical discoveries proved a real benefactor. Hodgenville, Hardin County, Kentucky, is the birthplace of that tall figure that America and the world delights to honor—Abraham Lincoln. At Bridges Creek, Virginia, George Washington was born. Epworth, England, which is not found on any railroad map, gave to the world its greatest reformer of the 18th century, John Wesley, and his brother, Charles Wesley, the poet of Christianity. When Boston was a mere village Benjamin Franklin was born there. Christopher Columbus was born at Genoa, Italy; Florence Nightingale, at Florence; Joan of Arc, at Domremy, France; and David Livingstone, Blantyre, Scotland; while George Stephenson stole in at Wylam, England.

How could such an event as the birth of Christ create such a small stir, even in Bethlehem? The people, doubtless, were preoccupied with other things. The spectacular happenings of the "grown-ups" caused them to lose sight of the "Babies." Around one hundred and twenty-five years ago the people of England and the world were so absorbed in the battles of Napoleon that a whole host of heroes stole in unnoticed, and unannounced. In the year of 1809 William E. Gladstone, Lord Alfred Tennyson, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Charles Darwin, Abraham Lincoln, Felix Mendelssohn, Samuel Morley, Edward Fitzgerald, Francis Kemble, were all born. Gladstone set a new standard for statesmanship; Tennyson won immortality among the poets; Abraham Lincoln gave the world a new conception of freedom, and Mendelssohn enriched the world of music.

The world was in darkness and the shadow of death when "the Light of the World" was born in Bethlehem of Judah. Christ did what all too few of His followers have learned to do: namely, took His best to the world's worst. When the people of the world were helpless, unworthy and unlovely Christ died for them. But the situation was not as hopeless as it appeared. The light shined in the dark places of the earth, transforming them into works of light and mercy. When the Gospel of Christ could penetrate the cesspool of crime and immorality centered in Caesar's household, and make Christians worthy to be called saints, surely no place should be given over to Satan's kingdom.

The Church has faulted the Jews for allowing Jesus to be born in a manger, crucified on another's cross, and buried in a borrowed tomb. The fact of the millions in Asia, Africa, South America and the Islands of the Sea, who do not know the Christ, after nineteen hundred years of Gospel preaching, is more shocking to me. The millions in America, and especially those in my own parish, who are not Christians, often force me to my knees. Paul felt the weight of the responsibility and the opportunity when he exclaimed, "Who is sufficient for these things?"

The story is told of a certain lady of India converted to Christianity. She was greatly stirred by her new experience, and told people about it. On a trip to America, passing through the great state of Pensylvania, she engaged in conversation with a well dressed gentleman; and was pouring out her heart and soul, what Christ had meant to her. The man interrupted, "I don't believe in missions, and what you are talking about." The lady persisted, "But you are a Christian, are you not?" The man replied, "I am not." Then the lady added, tearfully, "Then you are a heathen. I didn't know there were any heathen in America." That was the lady's view of the man without God and without hope in this world. Thoughtfully, solemnly, prayerfully, What is heaven's conception of such individuals?

It seems fitting that our churches, both pastors and laity, join the shepherds in the resolve to go even unto Bethlehem; not so much to see what is come to pass there, but that Christ may be born anew in our heart, and souls, which is the hope of glory. If the church could, in the New Year, keep up the high tide of Christmas, what a blessed year she would have! Return from her manger scenes, and her altars, glorifying and praising God for the gift of His only begotten Son that we might not perish, but have eternal life.

MAKING SUNBEAMS

Little Willie laughed and clapped his hands, and then stretched them out to catch the pretty sunlight that streamed in upon his bed in the crib. All the children laughed, and Charley said: "Silly baby."

"Not so silly, after all; it is a very pretty thought," said mamma. "It's what God wants all His children to do—catch the sunbeams. Look at baby's face and see." And, sure enough, the little fellow had bent his head forward until the golden light was on his rosy cheeks and bright curls.

"I think I know what mamma means," said Louie, looking into the baby's laughing face. "She means catch the— the happy, and be glad instead of cross."

"That is it," said mamma. "There is happiness all around us. If we try to catch it for ourselves, and make others happy, too, will not that be like sunshine? Yes, and if things do not go just right, we can call it cloudy weather; but we can be cheery, and so make sunbeams."—Light and Life.

ANNUAL MEETINGS

Of the Interdenominational Young People's Commission and the International Council of Christian Education, Chicago, February 7-17, 1934

The Interdenominational Young People's Commission, composed of representatives from agencies supervising the work among about eight millions of young people in the United States and Canada, met for about three days, at which time the Young People's topics were adopted and in collaboration with the Young People's Work Professional Advisory Section, launched a very far-reaching program for young people. The program is being built around the following theme: "Christian Youth Building a New World." This program is embodied in the idea of (1) a new person, (2) a new home, (3) a new church, (4) a new community, (5) a new nation, and (6) a new world.

During the following ten days the Annual Meeting of the International Council of Religious Education was held. This Council is made up of representatives from 43 Protestant denominations, including our own, and a large number of state and city councils. There were held ten sub-committees of the Educational Commission; sixteen Professional Advisory Sections held separate meetings. These were composed of specialists in the different fields of Christian Education; the Quadrennial Convention, which was composed of twelve to fifteen hundred delegates; a meeting of the Educational Commission and the final Annual Meeting of the Council itself. In all these meetings programs in Christian Education as related to the home, church and community were worked out.

Those of us who had the privilege of attending during these busy days endeavored to make contact with as many groups as possible. The denomination, however, was specifically represented in the following groups: Rev. Crates S. Johnson, D.D., Editor of our Sunday School Literature, attended the Editors' Section, the Quadrennial Convention and the Educational Commission. Rev. B. F. Langdon, of Chicago, attended the Pastors' Section and the Quadrennial Convention. The writer attended the Young People's and Leadership Training Sections, the Quadrennial Convention and the meeting of the Executive Committee of the International Council and the three-day session of the Interdenominational Young People's Commission and was re-elected as Treasurer of that organization.

It was my privilege to preach for Rev. B. F. Langdon at the Southfield Church in Chicago, Sunday morning, the 11th, and upon my return trip to preach for Rev. J. W. Hawley, D.D., at First Church, Pittsburgh, and Rev. J. Leland at the Fourth Church, Pittsburgh, on Sunday, February 18.

While attending the meetings of the International Council two things impressed the writer very much: (1) the enthusiasm with which the new youth program was received; (2) a great realization on the part of our Christian Education leaders of the need for a greater spiritual emphasis for the planning and promoting of the program of Christian Education.

Send in a report so we can know just how much we have raised for World Service through this special effort.

Leadership Training Schools

We are to hold a district school at High Point College for the section from Greensboro to Thomasville. The following are the dates: Sundays, 3 p.m., April 8, 15, 22, and Mondays, 7:30 p.m., April 9, 16. See the HERALD later for further announcement.

Don't forget our Conference Leadership Training School June 25-30. The Conference Council Executive Committee meets Friday afternoon of this week to make definite plans for this school. Make your plans to go to this school this summer. Start that Leadership Training Club now.

LET'S SING!

Several weeks ago members of the choir and other singers in our West End church, Greensboro, got together in one of the homes and had what they called an "Old Fashioned Sing." Folk songs, hymns, old popular music, and other kinds were used. Choruses, quartettes, and solos were heard. It was a general, informal good time, singing, which could well be copied by other church groups elsewhere.

Most people love to sing, and who has more incentive than Christians? Young people like to sing. Though few may have trained voices, most of them can sing well. They need to be organized into a chorus, a choir, a quartet or octet, that their talent may be harnessed for the church and the Lord.

Maybe you already have a young people's choir in your church. If so, fine! If not, it is time to organize one, especially since Easter is so near at hand. If you already have a choir of older folks, let the amateur choir sing at either of the Sunday services, alternating with the other. Anyhow, a younger choir should be in training to succeed the older choir, as its ranks become depleted.

At our Leadership Training School this summer, another opportunity will be given young people's choirs to demonstrate their ability on the opening night. The first attempt last summer, when four choirs competed, was considered much of a success. This year we shall not have competition, but a "code" by which to be rated. This will appear in the HERALD at an early date, perhaps next week.

If I can be of any assistance to you in organizing and conducting your choir, or in the selection of music, please let me hear from you.

E. LESTER BALLARD.

WHAT CAN I DO ABOUT MY VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL NOW?

1. Set the date. Even this early it is wise to have a fairly definite idea of when certain things are to be held. In other words, make a church calendar.

2. Select a faculty. There may be changes later but people appreciate being asked in advance to do things—and the ones you want will be more likely to be able to work in your school if they know far enough ahead to build other things around that date.

3. Begin gathering material. These include magazines—especialy those with pictures, Bible and character stories, plays, poems, etc. And along about the end of school, if you'd ask your Sunday school children to donate crayons, paste, pencils, etc., left from school, I expect you would collect enough for your school. After all, the materials aren't the main thing; your teachers make your school.

4. Begin "talking the school"—in Christian Endeavor, Sunday school, etc.

5. If the date set is to be the latter part of the summer, persuade your faculty members to attend the High Point Conference, June 26 to July 2, and take the course in Vacation Church School Methods.

CLOCKS, MOTHERS AND RELIGION

By LUTHER K. LONG

When a boy on the farm, I have sometimes come into the house and found no one there. All the family would be away, except mother, and she, I knew, would be either in the garden or in the milk-house. The rooms had been put in order, the dinner table was partly set, and the "boiled dinner" was cooking in the big iron kettle on the kitchen stove.

How different the place seemed at such a time from what it did when the entire family was about, filling the rooms with activity, conversation, and laughter! I missed the family. But, in the stillness, I became conscious, as at no other time to the same extent, of something else that was always there. It was the big old clock on the mantel over the fireplace. Its measured "tick, tock, tick, tock," sounded out so distinctively and impressively in the stillness of the empty house.

To my childish mind, it was some clock. Occasionally I was up late enough to see my father wind it. How could he always remember to attend to that important matter? I often wondered. When the clock's door was opened for winding, I could see more clearly the way the face was set over the works. The bell and the striking hammer were interesting. But the special attractions were the long, slow-moving pendulum, and the heavy weights, held by strong cords that reached almost to the clock's floor.

How different in dignity and impressiveness such a clock from a little, round affair operated by an unsubstantial spring that makes rapid, jerky movements to indicate the passing of the minutes, which—such a clock seems to say—do not amount to much anyway. The electric clock is even less impressive. It records the passing of time correctly enough, but it never utters a "tick" or a "tock", and is very poor company. What is home without a sizeable clock on the mantel, the measured movements of its pendulum steadied by heavy weights at the ends of strong cords, its solemn "tick, tock" never allowing one to forget its presence and the passing of time?

My mother was much like our clock. As I remember her she was tall, rather slender, with a large frame. It never occurred to me to notice whether she was graceful in her movements—so I think she must have been at least fairly so. She could pass once through a room and, with slight motions this way and that, set the things in better order than most women in the course of an hour's work. She would go to the milk-house, remove the cream from several large crocks of milk with a wooden ladle by a few twists of the wrist and hand that I know were graceful, and then bring back to the house, single-handed, enough tasty food to almost cover the dining table.

Mother didn't say so much. But her sentiments and attitudes were readily recognized, and thoroughly respected. She was reliable, not showy, and always to be counted upon to do her part. Like the big clock, she marked the minutes with dignity, and filled the passing hours with homely service. If I should happen to be for a few hours in a home where the mother was twitchy and jerky in her mind and movements, I was more than glad to get back home and become rested and at peace in the presence of my mother.

Religion comes to minister to all sorts and conditions of people. The unbalanced, the temperamental, the excitable, the slow, the immature, the hardened, the aspiring—all may be benefited by the religious spirit.

It would be vain, and undesirable, to be seeking for every one uniform manifestations of religion. Variety is the spice of life, and it has a proper place among the manifestations of religion. But there is something specially appealing to me in a religious person who has some stride and sweep in his thinking and moving. I like to see a man go at the business of religious thinking and living after the dignified and progressive style of our old clock on the mantel as it measured and recorded the passing hours; and in the efficient manner of my mother as she went about her household duties.

"Let everything be done decently and in order."

HIGH POINT COLLEGE NEWS

The second annual basketball tournament, prolonged because of the severe weather last week, will come to a close tonight (Tuesday). Some thirty high school teams have participated in the three classes in which they were grouped. The class A division was won by Bessemer High School of Greensboro. The class B division was won by Pinnacle of Pinnacle, which team was coached by one of our own graduates. Class C finals will take place between Walkertown and Staley tonight. The latter is also coached by one of our graduates. It will be of interest to know that several other teams taking part in the tournament were coached by High Point college grads. Our own varsity season closed with a game here with Guilford last week, and because of this defeat there is a question as to our position in the championship race.

Last Saturday was the annual society day for the Artemesian and Akrothinian Literary Societies. The visiting speaker for this occasion was Prof. Henry Furches of Old Town High School of the class of '31. The societies each year make a gift to the institution. These societies united this year in presenting the college with a large electric sign to be placed on the front campus bearing the name "High Point College—Founded in 1924", with a bronze tablet showing the names of the donors and the date. The gift was accepted by President Humphreys with appropriate words of appreciation. It is expected that the sign will be erected within the next two or three weeks. The day was brought to a close with a banquet in the college dining room. The hall was decorated in the society colors. Small tables to accommodate four were arranged in the order of a pullman car. Various speeches and toasts were given to the alumni, faculty, and societies by representatives of the two societies. The innovation of a great deal of interest was the orchestral music from a concealed place coming through an electric loud speaker.

It will be of interest to know that there are four literary societies on our campus. There are two for young ladies and two for young men. They meet every other Thursday night. The annual day for the other two societies will be May 5. The president of the Kikanthian society is Miss Edith Guthrie, of Saxapahaw; vice-president, Miss Virginia Massey, Pleasant Hill; secretary, Miss Hazel Welborn, Trinity, and treasurer, Miss Annie Laurie Moss, High Point. The officers of the Artemesian society are: President, Miss Jane Lingo, Milton, Delaware; vice-president, Miss Adylene McCollum, Reidsville; secretary, Miss Pattie Bartee, Reidsville, and treasurer, Miss Mary Lewis Skeen, Farmer.

The annual music contest in piano and voice will be held at the college Saturday, April 28. This contest is open to high school graduates or seniors who expect to graduate before September, 1934. Each contestant will render two numbers of his own selection from memory. The winner of each, the piano contest and the voice contest, will receive free music tuition at High Point College for the school year 1934-'35. Any student interested in entering the contest must register for same and should communicate with N. M. Harrison, Promotional Secretary.

The registration day for the annual oration-essay contest has been closed and the speeches are now in the hands of the judges on composition. The delivery part of the contest will be conducted Thursday and Friday nights, March 22 and 23. The subject upon which all of the contestants wrote is, "The Kind of College Freshman I Would Like to Be." The public is invited to hear these contestants on the nights mentioned. The grade of the judges on delivery will be added to that of the judges on composition to determine the winner of the contest. The winner will be awarded a free $100 scholarship for four years.

Miss Edith Guthrie of Saxapahaw has been selected to represent High Point College in an oration contest to be held at the King Cotton Hotel, Greensboro, Thursday, March 8. She will meet contestants from other colleges of North and South Carolina and Virginia. Miss Guthrie won second place in this contest last year, and by virtue of her experience and development it is predicted that she will receive first honors this year. Mr. John Hussey of Florence, S. C., will represent the young men in the contest. Mr. Hussey is a freshman and was the successful contestant in the High Point College high school oration contest in his state last year. He will meet contestants in Greensboro from the same schools on Friday of this week. Mr. Hussey has great ability in this line and will give a good account of himself in this contest. The public is invited to these two contests.

The A Capella Choir will sing at the High Point Friends church at the evening service Sunday, March 17. This is an annual appearance there for our choir. The pastor of the church always makes an engagement soon after the opening of the choir in the fall. There will also be a program given at Grace church, Greensboro, at 4:30 Sunday, April 18.

JUDGE NOT

The truth has been given to us to feed our souls and enlarge our hearts and build up our brethren; some people use it as a foot-rule with which to measure them.

One of the surest signs of self-satisfaction and spiritual pride and decline is the judging of others.

It is astonishing how big and important we feel when we are measuring and judging others; it is equally astonishing how small we feel when we are conscious of being measured by the Lord.

It is generally those who have grown the least that spend the most time measuring others, like the Corinthians who set about to measure Paul. How ludicrous and yet how pathetic the sight of those spiritual dwarfs attempting to measure that giant.

Happy we shall be if we heed the Lord's words and take the beam out of our own eyes before we begin to take the mote out of the eyes of others.

If we judge ourselves, esteem our brethren better than ourselves, and pray for them, we shall please the Lord.—Scripture Truth.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.
CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.
CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Preparation for Easter

As yet but few of our churches conduct evangelistic services during this season, yet it offers a splendid opportunity to those who do. We know that in other churches and in other conferences of our own church, the season is one in which the spirit of evangelism prevails very largely in all the church services.

While not many pastors may engage in evangelistic services during Easter, we sincerely hope that but few, if any, will fail to observe the Easter program in the Sunday schools which has been prepared for them and which is mailed out upon request without cost. The offering is credited to the World Service budget and in this way a boost is given this budget of the church.

Remember the Children's' Home

We have been greatly pleased with the reports which are coming in about the Home campaign. Many Sunday schools are accepting the challenge to double their contributions to the Home. But even if all should do this we shall need more yet in order that we raise the needed $6,000. So we are urging the friends of the Home to make larger contributions than usual in a personal way. If many shall do this we hope that ere March shall end to rejoice with Superintendent Dixon in the discharge of this debt which has so greatly troubled them.

Mt. Pleasant Charge, Rev. J. W. Braxton, Pastor

I visited both churches on this charge, i. e., Mt. Pleasant and Pleasant Union, the former at 11 o'clock, the latter in the afternoon. The weather interfered with attendance at both appointments; they were not normal in numbers. I arrived at Mt. Pleasant in time to attend the Sunday school, and found classes already formed busily engaged in the lessons. Mt. Pleasant has very good equipment for a rural church, several Sunday school rooms, a lighting plant and good auditorium for the church services. It is admirably situationed for a rural station and may become one at no distant day. The preaching was made easier by a worship program which the congregation appeared to enter cordially into. The offering at the Sunday school was twice the usual offering for the Home, in compliance with the request of Superintendent Dixon. The church had paid the Church Extension assessment and some other smaller amounts, and was not very far behind with the pastor's salary.

Pleasant Union was reached before the Sunday school was over. About thirty people were present. This attendance is much below the usual for Sunday school and preaching, I understand. It was an extra service for this church, also. Pleasant Union has also paid assessment for Church Extension and was nearly up with pastor's salary. The officials of this charge appear to have a kindly attitude toward the work of the general church and will doubtless take care of the other claims in due time.

Pastor Braxton has entered enthusiastically upon the work, planning and getting his plans to work for a fuller enlistment of the entire membership, and is meeting with hearty co-operation of the people. He appears quite happy in the work and the people are well pleased with the fine showing he is making. We are quite hopeful of a good year on Mt. Pleasant charge.

"THAT'S ME!"

Sitting down in the orphanage grounds upon one of the seats, I was talking with one of our brother trustees, when a little fellow, we should think about eight years of age, left the other boys who were playing around us, and came deliberately up to us.

He opened fire upon us thus: "Please, Mister Spurgeon, I want to come and sit down on that seat between you two gentlemen."

"Come along, Bob, and tell us what you want."

"Please, Mister Spurgeon, suppose there was a little boy who had no father, who lived in an orphanage with a lot of other little boys who had no fathers, and suppose those little boys had mothers and aunts who comed once a month, and brought them apples and oranges, and gave them pennies, and suppose this little boy had no mother and no aunts and so nobody ever came to bring him nice things, don't you think somebody ought to give him a penny? 'Cause, Mister Spurgeon, that's me."

Somebody felt something wet in his eye, and Bob got a Sixpence, and went off in a great state of delight. Poor little soul, he had seized the opportunity to pour out a bitterness which had rankled in his little heart, and made him miserable when the monthly visiting day came round, and, as he said, "Nobody ever came to bring him nice things."

Turning the tables, we think some grown-up persons, who were once little Bobs and Harrys, might say, "Suppose there was a poor sinner who deserved to be sent to hell, but was forgiven all his sins by sovereign grace, and made a child of God, don't you think he ought to help on the Savior's cause? 'Cause, Mister Spurgeon, that's me."—Spurgeon.

NOW

A Difficulty Wisely and Happily Settled

"I do wish," said a mother, speaking of her daughter to a friend, a man of God, who was visiting her, "you would speak seriously to Caroline; she does not care anything about the salvation of her soul." And, so saying, she went out of the room, and left them together; upon which he, seeking, as Paul did to the Corinthians, to catch her by guile, and apparently for the moment taking her part, said:

"Now tell me, Caroline, are they not wearying you with this subject?"

"Yes, sir, they are," she replied, taken quite by surprise at words so unexpected from him; "they keep continually talking about it, till I am tired of hearing them."

"So I thought," he replied. "Let me see, how old are you?"

"Eighteen, sir."

"Have you good health?"

"Yes, sir."

"The fact is," said he, "Christianity is a good thing in itself, but the question is, how far is it well to be troubling a young creature like you with it?" And then, pausing a moment, he added, as though a new thought had suddenly struck him, "I wonder how long it would do for you to wait before you turn to God?"

"That's just what I have been thinking myself," said Caroline.

"Well," said he, "suppose you wait till you are fifty. No, that won't do. I attended the funeral the other day of a lady fifteen years younger than that. Thirty; how will that do?"

"I am not sure that it would do to wait quite so long," said Caroline.

"No," he answered, "I do not think so either. Something might happen. Let us see, twenty-five, or even twenty, if we could be sure that you would live so long—a year from the present time; how would that do?"

"I don't know, sir," said she.

"Neither do I. The fact is, my dear young friend, the more I think of it, the more am I afraid of your putting it off a moment longer, especially as the Bible says, "Now is the accepted time . . . now is the day of salvation." (II Cor. 6:2). It says so, you know; and if it does, is it not wise to act upon it, to seize the present moment, to seek the Lord while He may be found, to call upon Him while He is near? Had we not better kneel down, and ask God for mercy?"

Caroline knelt down on the spot; and in a day or two believing in Christ, whose Blood had washed out her sins, rejoicing in hope of the glory of God, she was accepted in the Beloved—eternally safe.

Reader, how is it with you? Is this mighty question settled in your case? Are you a believer in Christ? Are you washed in His Blood?—accepted in Him? Do you know yourself to be everlastingly safe? If not, it is to be feared that you are trifling with God; at all events, while this question is unsettled, you are running a risk; I need not tell you of what; your own heart and conscience, I trust, have told you already. "Today if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts."—Unknown.

BLIND TOMMY

From his appearance no one would ever have guessed that Tommy was blind. His eyes were as bright and clear as any boy's could be. He could hit a mark or strike a nail better than any one of his playmates. Mother was the one who could tell you most about his blindness, which some folks thought didn't amount to anything. It was quite a serious matter to her.

There was something very strange about it. Tommy seemed to see a piece of pie right through the pantry door, or a slice of cake in a tin box that was shut up in a dark closet. He could see the boys playing ball fully a mile away; and he could see his special chum, Charley Blanks, with a fishing rod over his shoulder, almost before he turned the corner of the street. Yet he never could see the ash pan, set out doors for him to empty, though he stumbled over it half a dozen times through the day. As for the coal bucket, which Tommy was supposed to keep filled for mother—and every boy knows that mother, with a good, stout boy of her own, ought never to lift a bucket of coal — Tommy never seemed to see it as it stood by the cellar stairs.

There were other things that Tommy could not see. The garden walks might be green with straying grass or the flower beds with weeds, the lawn might sadly need a shearing, but blind Tommy would go whistling away, and presently his voice would be heard shouting and laughing in busy play with other children.

Queer about Tommy's blindness, wasn't it? Do you suppose any doctor could cure it?—Publisher Unknown.

DARE TO BE A DANIEL

Tom Brown had been at boarding school for more than a year when a new boy entered. The first night the new boy looked around the sleeping-room with its twelve occupants, and then bravely knelt by his bed and prayed. Several boys laughed and sneered, and one boy threw a slipper. Tom promptly threw a boot at the young tormenter. When the lights were out and the other boys were sleeping, Tom was still wide-awake. He recalled the promise he had made to his mother that he would kneel every night and pray to God. He thought of how he had broken that promise and had said to himself, "It will do just as well if I say them in bed where nobody will know to laugh at me." But little by little the prayer had been neglected, until at last it was given up. Now he became ashamed of his own cowardice, and resolved that in spite of ridicule he would kneel down the next morning and pray.

When morning came, Tom gathered all his courage and knelt by his bedside, and to his surprise two other boys knelt in prayer. Because of the courage of one boy, they had conquered the coward spirit and been true to the right.—

The Campaign

The March campaign for the Home is off to a good start with three offerings already in:

Two Friends	$50.00
Woman's Memorial S. S., double offering	10.00
Welch Memorial S. S., double offering	10.41

With the first offering of the campaign came this expression: "We are still very hard pressed for money, but we are doing what we can. Wish we could pay the whole debt. If every M. P. would only do what they could do then the debt would be only a small matter. We hope the campaign will meet with complete success and every penny be paid off."

A widow, whose property was swept away from her in this depression, in sending one of the above five dollars, said, "I am enclosing a small check for your furnace, a thank-offering for our heavenly Father's care for us this hard winter. I haven't suffered at all and have been very well. I am with my niece in a comfortable home and have had loving care by the entire family."

Such expressions and such willingness to help in a cause like this, all go to show that many people can help if they will only think they can.

Cothing and Other Gifts

Ladies' Aid Society, Mt. Lebanon, Randleman, a bundle of cookies for lunches.

Mrs. B. E. King, Gatesville, Texas, one quilt.

We are thankful for all these gifts. The dear Lord bless and help in these 31 days of March. Do not only your bit, but your best for the Home, and He will bless

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

NOTE: Just as we were finishing this report, a card came saying, "Average first Sunday offering, First Church, Winston, for Children's Home, $9.40; double that would be $18.80. Our offering this morning, $21.14."

First Church, Lexington, average monthly offering to the Home, about $4.50. We have just received from them for last Sunday:

The Sunday School	$15.30
Woman's Auxiliary	10.00
Mt. Carmel, on same charge	2.55

One of the brethren who brought the money said: "You don't holler loud enough. The people would help if they knew."

Good! A. G. D.

I'D LIKE TO GO

It seems to me I'd like to go
Wrere bells don't ring nor whistles blow,
Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound
And I'd have stillness all around—

Not real stillness, but just the trees'
Low whispering, or the hum of bees.
Or brooks' faint babling over stones
In strangely, softly tangled tones .

Or maybe the cricket or katydid,
Or the songs of birds in the hedges hid,
Or just some such sweet sounds as these
To fill a tired heart with ease.

If 'tweren't for sight and sound and smell
I'd like the city pretty well;
But when it comes to getting rest,
I like the country lots the best.

Semeimes it seems to me I must
Just quit the city's din and dust
And get out where the sky is blue—
And, say, how does it seem to you?

REMARKABLE, BUT ENCOURAGING

The February number of the Home Chronicle, published by the Children's Home in Winston-Salem, carries this remarkable statement:

"Four years ago today when the present management took charge of the Children's Home there was found a $40,000.00 debt hanging over the institution. Two hundred and forty resident children and 25 mothers' aid children were being provided for. Today the Children's Home is free of debt and is providing for 345 resident children and 126 mothers' aid children.

"During last year not a cent of money was borrowed for operating the Children's Home, thanks to our friends who forwarded their contributions continually through the year. The ten per cent apportionment money, which was formerly received to a great extent late in the conference year, was largely paid before conference. The early payment of this money enabled us to have the benefit of its use and prevented our having to borrow at such interest charges as go with borrowing.

"Every contributing friend of the Children's Home can now be assured that every cent of his money goes to the care and direction of children, none being spent to pay interest on borrowed money."

PROPOSAL TO BRAND ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE AS HAVING OUTLIVED USEFULNESS IS DEFEATED BY OHIO PASTORS

The Anti-Saloon League has outlived its usefulness and the dry forces of the country should be reorganized under leadership that is educational in type.

This somewhat sensational statement was contained in the report of the temperance committee brought before the Ohio Pastors' Convention in session Wednesday in Memorial Hall.

After some discussion, the report was referred back to the committee and the reference to the Anti-Saloon League was eliminated, and a stand for one united organization to carry along the battle front was substituted.

Following the motion for adoption, Rev. Arba Martin, Methodist, Portsmouth, suggested the elimination of the statement that the Ani-Saloon League had outlived its usefulness on the grounds that confidence would be given to the wet forces when the press of the country carried the news that Protestant clergymen of Ohio had repudiated the League.

His remarks brought applause. Dr. F. Howard Callahan, Methodist, Cleveland, then spoke in behalf of the committee's stand.

"The weakness of the dry cause in the past few years," he said, "has been the reluctance of the Anti-Saloon League to yield to reorganization."

Dr. Howard H. Russell, Westerville, founder of the Anti-Saloon League, was at the convention and went to the front of the hall to defend his organization.

"I am not here to plead for my job," he said. "I am here to plead for the elimination of the sentence of death to the Anti-Saloon League in the report. It's a mistake that we have not been willing to consider reorganization. Just as the propaganda against prohibition has deceived people, so the caricatures and cartoons of the Anti-Saloon League have deceived the brethren of the churches. The wets would applaud this action."

Rev. Charles Ryan Adams, Presbyterian, is chairman of the temperance committee, and spoke briefly on the report, which was brought in by Rev. C. W. Graham, Third Avenue M. E. Church.—The Columbus (Ohio) Citizen, January 31, 1934.

ATTENTION, METHODIST PROTESTANTS

I only wish I could get every member of the Methodist Protestant church in North Carolina to see the need at our Children's Home at High Point. I visit the Home once each month and they are very much in need; for instance, our superintendent of the farm, Mr. J. A. Dixon, has been faithful and does not have but few words to say about his salary, but has not had any pay for sixteen months at the end of this month. Will we as M. P. members get busy? Let's each one of us give as much as $1.00 within the next two or three weeks and help those good people at the Home and those precious fatherless and motherless children. We can deny ourselves of somethting and help them and we will be rewarded for it in the end.

A MOTHER.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mitchel Grove.—Attendance for the past two Sundays has been much lower, but we feel sure when the weather clears up some we will have them all back again. The Bible class and the Senior class are running a contest. The class that has the smallest offering during the year is to pay the Children's Home $5.00. Much interest is taken in this as they are very close together.

On February 24th the ladies of Mitchell's Grove gave a chicken and oyster supper at Mrs. Ola Misnheimer's. The proceeds went toward the building fund. This fund was started nearly a year ago. We planned to build two Sunday school rooms, which are needet very badly. One of these rooms is very nearly completed. We hope to be using it in a very short time.

Death has visited many homes in our community in the past month. Two of whom were members of this church, Mrs. Chinita Hill and Mr. L. H. Beck.

Mrs. Hill died February 14 and Mrs. Beck died February 16. To the bereaved we extend our deepest sympathy. May God comfort them all.

Siler City Church.—"For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul."—Matt. 16:26. These were the words of the text used by our pastor the first Sunday morning in March. This was a good sermon and was enjoyed by all present.

Dr. Andrews did not fill his appointment the fourth Sunday night due to the inclement weather, but we are glad to learn he is coming later.

We had 103 in Sunday school the first Sunday, this being the largest attendance this year. The Baraca class, with Mr. B. E. Fox as the efficient teacher, have on a contest for new members. This contest will last until Easter when the defeated side will be host to the winning side at a barbecue dinner Easter Monday. This is a fine class and has 37 members so far with new ones being added each Sunday. Last Sunday each member of this class asked the Sunday school a Bible question. On the second Sunday morning in March Mrs. L. L. Woody's class of teen-age boys and girls will have the questions. This is an interesting feature of our school and everyone enjoys the questions. Try it!

Fourteen members were present at the January Auxiliary meeting. The devotionals were led by the president. A short business meeting followed. Circle No. 1 had charge of the program and presented a short play, "A Plea for More Subscribers to the Missionary Record." This play was written by Mrs. T. L. Smith, chairman of this circle. Immediately after the play the president arose and put on a drive for new or renewal subscriptions. The results were very encouraging, making our Auxiliary almost 100 per cent subscribers to our Missionary Record. At the February meeting new officers were elected, as follows: President, Mrs. L. L. Woody; first vice-president, Mrs. Emma B. Siler; second vice-president, Miss Sallie Smith; secretary, Mrs. D. L. Johnson,; assistant secretary, Mrs. B. E. Fox; treasurer, Miss Minnie Cooper; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Bill Wright; reporter, Mrs. J. N. Johnson. All dues have been paid for the year. Each Circle paid $10.00 recently to help gutter the church and have helped in many other things.

Mrs. Henry Poole, who has been quite sick, is out again, we are glad to report.

Mr. T. C. Fox has been kept away from church for quite a while with a badly infected foot.

Mrs. D. L. Johnson is confined to her bed with sickness. Also, Mr. B. E. Fox was kept at home Sunday due to illness. We miss all these who are sick in our Sunday school and church services and hope they may be with us at an early date.

Our Easter program, under the leadership of Miss Minnie Cooper, will be given Easter Sunday night.

Calvary.—Our good reporter, Mrs. Neece, has kept you so well informed about our church that it has not been necessary for me to write much, so I have given most of my time to the subscription page of the Herald; however, there are just a few things I would like to say.

These have been busy days at Calvary. There is something going on a great deal of the time. The women are working hard trying to finish up their budget. They are fairly well out on their Branch budget, but not out by a good deal on their local budget. We have not been able to do much on the Annual Conference Budget yet. A payment on the church debt fell due the first of January, and then to make things worse, right here in the midst of these hard times all the insurance that the church carries fell due. As these policies were all written for a period of three years it made quite an item and has absorbed all our spare cash. But we are hoping to see daylight some of these times.

An effort was made last Sunday to double the Sunday school offering for the Children's Home, and the effort was reasonably successful.

At the beginning of the year we decided to try to pay our World Service Budget by the offerings on the special days and the payments by the Woman's Auxiliary. Several weeks ago it was decided to try to raise $50 for missions as an Easter offering. This amount was apportioned to the Sunday school classes and some of them have already made some start on their apportionment.

It was also decided to set our goal for 50 new members to be gathered in by Easter. Some have already been received, some letters have been written for and others will be Then we are to have Decision Day in the Sunday school, and we are hoping to gather in a goodly number from that source. All things considered, the prospect is good for a successful year.

More than 50 certificates were presented in Sunday school last Sunday to those who had not been absent from Sunday school during the month of February. A regular epidemic of measles is making it more difficult just now to have a full attendance.

The thank-offering service of the Woman's Auxiliary, postponed two weeks ago on account of bad weather and again last Sunday night because the lights at the church were still off as a result of the heavy sleet of the week before, is to be held next Sunday evening.

C. E. Society, Siler City.—A very unique program was given the first Sunday night under the direction of Miss Sallie Smith. The society was asked to imagine they had been shipwrecked and cast on an uninhabited island, having neither song-books nor Bibles. Songs were sung from memory and some Psalms were repeated by different members. Also the Ten Commandments and Beatitudes were repeated. The topic for the evening was "Jesus in Poetry," and each member told their favorite song with "Jesus" as the keynote. Our two poets, Miss Jay Holt and Charles Stone, then gave a poem they had composed, using "Jesus" as the theme word. We are very proud of our poets and would like to let others read the poems they had written:

CHRIST

You've heard of the Christ
  Who died for us all,
The rich and the poor,
  The great and the small.

This story is true,
  And He's living today,
Ready to save us
  In the old-fashioned way.

He knows our thoughts,
  Whether good or bad,
And when we do wrong
  It makes His heart sad.

He wants us to love Him
  And obey His great will;
Listen when He calls us,
  In His small voice so still.

We owe it to Him
  To give Him our best,
For those who do this
  He helps while in distress.

Christ is your Savior,
  Christ is your Friend;
Give Him your heart,
  He'll keep you to the end.

—By Joy Holt.

"JESUS"

Jesus, He is such a Guide to me,
  Like a pilot in a storm,
Tho' His body I cannot see,
  But I know He's there, for I can lean on His arm.

Jesus, He is always near when I need Him,
  A very present help in trouble;
My enemies, I triumph over them,
  And all my worries vanish like bubbles.

Jesus, in Him can I put my trust,
  And sweet peace rests with my soul;
He is such a Friend to countless friendless millions—
  Jesus, the sweetest story ever told.

—By Charles Stone.

Miss Smith then told in a few words the main thoughts of the topic, after which the story-teller of the society was called on to tell a Bible story. The doxology was sung and the Mizpah repeated.

We would be glad to exchange ideas for programs with any society that cares to. We have a real wide-awake society and it seems to get more interesting every Sunday night. We were glad to welcome the two new members and visitors last Sunday night, and hope to add more new members as we go along in this great work.

MINNIE COOPER, Reporter.

Friendship, Mount Hermon Charge.—Sunday school was conducted at the usual hour, with a very good attendance. Followed by a splendid sermon by our pastor, L. E. Mabry, using as his subject "Barriers That Separate Us From God." In his message he plainly pointed out that it's the little things that count. Let us catch the little foxes that destroy our vines. Things that keep us in the spirit of coldness. We need communion with God. Keep ourselves in the love of God. Satan comes in little things. "Be sure your sins will find you out." "He that covers his sins shall not prosper." The little, harmless things may be the poisonous things of life.

We feel sure everyone enjoyed the sermon.

It was decided to have the Easter service the first Sunday in April.

We are very sorry to hear of Mrs. Paul Kinney being ill in a hospital in Statesville. We hope she will soon recover.

ASSISTANT REPORTER.

Spring Hill, North Davidson.—Due to rain and bad roads there were not as many out for Sunday school and preaching yesterday afternoon as usual, although the attendance for the weather was good. Rev. Charles Grant was in the pulpit at 3 o'clock, using as his text Romans 5:19: "For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous." The subject might have been termed "Sin." We find the beginning of time in the garden of Eden where Adam and Eve lived. Adam led by his wife disobeyed and transgressed the laws of God. All through the ages man has been blaming woman for sin but they are not altogether to blame because both have sinned through all the ages. The first sin was caused by looking at the beautiful tree and often through the ages something beautiful has caused us to stray. Satan started sin in the world by telling a falsehood. Man is always experimenting and sometimes proves disheartening. Some results of man's disobedience are chain-gangs and penitentiaries are filled with those as a majority who do not follow Christ. Sin and disobedience are in our midst today, but Christ is the atoning way. It is the grace of God that saves us and makes us what we are. Cain and Abel brought their products to God, and he smiled on Abel's gift while He frowned on Cain's. Why? Because Abel brought his gift in the spirit that God would have him do so, and Cain did not, so Cain became jealous and slew his brother. Then God asked Cain where his brother was. We may be asked the same question, "Where is our neighbor or brother?" Will our answer be "Am I my brother's keeper?" We all are each other's keepers, and may we fight the battle together and let Jesus lead us lest we stray.

On account of bad weather the fourth Sunday evening the play, "Saving of Weary-world," was postponed until Sunday evening, March 11, at 7 o'clock. We hope everyone will notice this change and come out for the play.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Clay Swaim Saturday evening at 2 o'clock. A 100 per cent membership is desired.

It was decided Sunday afternoon that if nothing prevents us from doing so, we will have the dedication services of the church the third Sunday in May. Also the third Sunday in July will mark the beginning of our revival meeting.

We were indeed glad to have Mrs. John York and sister, Mrs. Boone, to sing some special songs for us during the services Sunday. We invite them to come back again.

Our hearts were made happy by the return of Mr. Julius B. Swaim, our choir leader, who has been absent because of illness.

The oldest member of our church, Mrs. Julia Ann York, is confined to her home on English street with sickness. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Born, March 2, to gladden the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Swaim, of Wallburg, a daughter, Alice Pauline.

EDITH YORK, Reporter.

Flat Rock.—Our services at Bethel and Gideon's Grove churches last Sunday were well attended, considering the rain and the muddy roads.

Funeral services for John W. Laudreth, who died Thursday night of last week following a stroke of paralysis, were held at Palestine church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bro. Landreth was 87 years old and had been a member of Palestine church for 61 years. An obituary will appear in the Herald later.

The writer conducted the funeral service for Katherine, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erviu Hayden at Palestine church Sunday afternoon. Rev. E. A. Long, Baptist minister, assisted in the service.

We are pleased to announce a special feature for our services at Gideon's Grove and Flat Rock churches next Sunday. Prof. H. G. Easley, blind musician, of Burlington, will be with us at both services and render special music. We hope to have large congregations.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Bellemont, Mount Hermon Charge.—Young People's Day was observed here Sunday evening, February 11.

The regular preaching service was held on the fourth Sunday at 11 o'clock. The congregation was smaller than usual on account of bad weather, but Pastor Mabry preached a fine sermon.

Our hearts were made sad by the passing of two of our faithful and beloved members, recently. Mrs. Loula Rich Webster, wife of V. B. Webster, passed away on February 15. Mrs. Webster was ill with pneumonia just a week. Funeral services were conducted from this church on Sunday, February 18, by her pastor, Rev. L. E. Mabry, assisted by Rev. A. O. Lindley and Rev. W. F. Ashburn. She was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneeath a mound of beautiful flowers. A host of sorrowing relatives and friends were present to pay their last respects.

Another of our members, Mrs. Mary Eva Randolph, died on Wednesday, March 1, at Rainey Hospital from injuries received from burns. Funeral services were conducted here Thursday, March 2, by Rev. L. E. Mabry, assisted by Rev. Wayne Curtis and Rev. Mr. Swaney. Interment was in the church cemetery. Mrs. Randolph was always willing and ready to be of service whenever possible. Both of the deceased members will be missed by everyone. We feel that the church suffers a great loss with their going.

Jimmie Coble, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Royzelle Coble, is ill with pneumonia. Also quite a number of children in the community have measles. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

The Sisters' class enjoyed a Valentine party at the home of Mrs. Sidney Russell on Wednesday evening, February 14. This took the place of the regular monthly meeting. Valentine games and contests were enjoyed. The prizes went to Miss Mattie Pickett, Mrs. Clay Holt, and Miss Ramah Shoffner. The hostess served delicious refreshments, carrying out the Valentine idea. Twelve members were present for the party. The March meeting will be held with Misses Ramah Shoffner and Freddie Sharpe.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Jim Albright, a son, James Donald, on February third.

Mr. and Mrs. Fleet Isley announce the birth of a son, Jerry Douglass, on February 9.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, preached an unusually good sermon yesterday. At the close of the service the Lord's Supper was administered. Our congregation was not as large as usual on account of the weather and so much sickness in the community.

Our pastor is kept busy with appointments to meet and visiting the sick. Yesterday he preached three times and conducted one funeral.

The second quarterly conference will meet at Hawkius Chapel church Sunday, March 11, at 2 p. m. All the official members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Hattie Harper, wife of R. W. Harper, one of our stewards, passed away on Monday night, February 19th. The funeral was conducted at this church on Tuesday afternoon, February 20th, and she was laid to rest in the church cemetery. Our church has lost a good member. Our deepest sympathy goes out to her husband and three children.

We were glad to have Mr. Ernest Day, of Burlington, Mr. Walter Coley, of Roanoke Rapids, and Mr. Manning, of Vaughan, to worship with us yesterday.

MRS. B. F. MORRIS, Reporter.

First Church, Charlotte.—Our Sunday school is making splendid progress and attendance has been very good regardless of bad weather. Miss Maryon Muse's class of Juniors won the attendance banner, having a perfect attendance. The Young Men's Baraca class, R. S. Garmon. teacher, was second in attendance.

The Wilma Shaw Bible class entertained the Baraca class at their regular monthly meeting last Thursday evening. Mrs. G. H. Hendry, president of the class, had charge of the devotional program. Mrs. C. S. Wommack spoke on "How We Can Build Up Our Class." There is a membership contest on between these two classes. The Wilma Shaw Bible class has an enrollment of 39 and has set 50 as their goal by Easter. After the business session, a delightful social hour was enjoyed. A musical program was given by M. L. Sloan, A. F. Love and Mrs. C. S. Wommack. Mrs. Roy Blair sang several selections. Refreshments were served.

A lovely Bluebird Tea was given by Mrs. G. H. Hendry on Monday evening. A delightful hour of good felowship was enjoyed. A musical program added to the entertainment of the evening.

On Friday afternoon a Bluebird Tea was given at the home of Mrs. G. W. Stegall. A large crowd enjoyed the occasion and declared Mrs. Stegall a charming hostess.

The Woman's Auxiliary met on Wednesday evening in conjunction with the mid-week prayer service. The pastor conducted the devotionals. He gave a very interesting talk on "The Christ of Every Road," by E. Stanley Jones. The program, "Know Your Missionaries," was full of interest and information. Pictures of our missionaries and of our work in Japan, China and India, presented by Mrs. C. H. Daughtry, added to the interest of the feature. Officers for the coming year were elected: President, Mrs. B. W. Little; vice-president, Mrs. C. H. Daughtry; secretary, Mrs. J. A. Crow; treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Dewese. The outgoing and incoming officers will meet on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. H. Dewese on Thomas avenue to select Circle chairmen and the secretaries.

A young people's missionary society will be organized with Mrs. A. L. Love and Mrs. G. H. Hendry as leaders. There has been a long felt need for more missionary work among our young people, and they seem eager to do some real missionary work, and will appreciate the opportunity thus afforded them.

The annual Young Peole's Day program, which for various reasons has been delayed, will be presented on Sunday evening, March 11, by the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society under the direction of Mrs. G. H. Hendry, superintendent.

The Intermediate C. E. Society will meet with Mrs. Hendry on Friday evening for a business meeting and social.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society voted last Sunday evening to enroll in the campaign for better reading, directed by Dr. Poling, and will building a Christian Endeavor library, using the books listed by the International Society of Christian Endeavor as the foundation for a real library.

A box supper will be held in the Baraca class room on Friday evening, March 16, to raise funds to purchase these books.

The pastor was called to Concord on Sunday afternoon to conduct the funeral of Joe Nash McLaurin, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McLaurin.

Our hearts have also been saddened by the death of little Billy Robinson, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Robinson. Billy was a member of our Cradle Roll department, joined the Cradle Roll class in the Sunday school before he was one year old and was a faithful member until his death.

Pastor Hendry is suffering with a sprained ankle. He delivered the Sunday evening message while seated and in spite of severe pain he gave us a splendid message. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Graham.—Due to bad weather, the thank-offering service which was supposed to have been held the fourth Sunday night will be held this coming Sunday night at 7:30. Mrs. D. S. Coltrane, of Greensboro, will be the speaker. The thank-offering will go to the local Auxiliary and will be credited to their World Service Budget. Please plan to attend.

The Graham Sunday school doubled her apportionment to the Children's Home last Sunday, sending $20 instead of $10.

Circles of the local Auxiliary met as usual: Circle No. 1 at the home of Mrs. J. H. McPherson; Circle No. 2 at the home of Mrs. A. N. Neese, and Circle No. 3 at the home of Mrs. C. L. Reavis. All reported delightful meetings. Circle No. 3 had the election of their chairman, electing Miss Lizabelle Foust.

Lexington, Mount Carmel.—Rev. C. G. Isley preached a very helpful and inspiring sermon Sunday morning. He chose his text from John 7:17. He stressed the fact that we should live so the world could see that we are Christians.

The Sunday school continues to grow, with new scholars being added nearly every Sunday.

Elise Swicegood, the little daughter of our faithful superintendent, is very ill with pneumonia following measles. The prayers of all Christians have been asked for her recovery.

It was voted to send one Sunday's collection to the Children's Home from Mount Carmel.

An every-member canvass is being made to raise money to pay off the church debt.

Two from Mount Carmel received certificates from the Leadership Training School that was finished up last week at First Church in Lexington.

Community Church, Thomasville.—Sunday, March 4, was observed as Children's Home Sunday by Community Church. A special offering of $25.00 was raised to apply on the great indebtedness of $6,000. We know that every church is putting forth a special effort to more than double its usual offering for the Children's Home. The Women's Auxiliary raised $10.00 as a separate offering for this cause.

The ladies of the church are rejoicing over the fact that the entire Missionary budget is paid in full. The check was sent last week to the treasurer, Mrs. S. W. Taylor. Again our ladies are to be highly commended in their loyalty and untiring service to the program of the church. This week they are sending home-made cakes to the Children's Home.

On Friday, March 9, at 6:30 a covered dish supper will be served at the parsonage at which time the second study book of the year will be given. The subject is "Eastern Women of Today and Tomorrow," by Ruth Frances Woodsmall.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. T. G. Perry on Thursday afternoon at 2:30. Officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter; vice-president, Mrs. T. G. Perry; secretary, Mrs. A. M. White; treasurer, Mrs. H. F. Surratt.

Members of Community church express their sympathy to Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter in the loss of her father, Andrew Everhart; also Messrs. John and Bob Cranford in the loss of their father, J. F. Cranford, of Denton, N. C.

On Wednesday evening at 6:30 the Layman's Fellowship will hold its regular meeting at which time will be given a very interesting program of special music and an address by Dr. P. E. Lindley, of High Point College, his subject being "The Need of Men for the Kingdom."

The attendance at the morning worship service last Sunday was somewhat better than usual. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Charles F. Finch, rendered a very beautiful selection entitled "I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes," the incidental solo being very effectively given by Miss Rena Clodfelter. The sermon, "A Lesson From Winter Weather," by the pastor, was very interesting and appropriate.

Very little has been said regarding the evening attendance, which might leove the impression that we are not quite so loyal as we should be. Those who were not present on last Sunday evening certainly missed hearing a most interesting and worth while message, entitled "Meekness." This was the third item of the Christian's Code, and I think the best; that is not only my opinion but the opinion of several. But don't take our word for it. Just come out next Sunday evening and find out for yourself. This includes tho young folks, too. Don't let previous engagements keep you away; bring them along, too. Let's really show our due respect and appreciation to our pastor.

Our church is taking a block of ten subscriptions to the Methodist Protestant Recorder during the months of March and April. We might state that our people were very enthusiastic in buying this paper. Every copy was sold on last Sunday by one of the young boys of the church.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

McClimon

On last Saturday night, Mrs. B. A. McClimon died at her home in the Liberty Hill community, aged sixty-two years. She suffered from a stroke early in the morning of her death. She had often said she would go as her father, and hoped she would not linger after the attack. So it was; her illness was short. Surviving are her devoted husband, Brother B. A. McClimon; three daughters, Mrs. Eudora Vaughn, Mrs. Edith Nalley, and Mrs. Sallie Bennett; six sons, R. H., Harvey, Glenn, Cecil, John and R. A. McClimon. There are three brothers, Walker, John and Arthur Elmore; two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Wood and Mrs. W. S. Johnson; there are also 16 grandchildren.

Her funeral service was held at Liberty Hill, where she had been a loyal and devoted member for 34 years, in the presence of a large concourse of weeping friends. The service was conducted by her pastor, assisted by Rev. Mr. Kendrick, Rev. Mr. Stogner, Rev. Mr. Lance, and Rev. Mr. George. The body was laid to wait the Resurrection call in the church burying ground, banked with an array of beautiful flowers. It was an interesting sight to look on, when her six fine sons bore that "Temple of God" to its last resting-place. They rise up to call her blessed, indeed.

Their home was what might be termed a model home for harmony, tenderness, love and congeniality. From the day it was begun it was a place where God was honored, the Bible resorted to, and the church burned deep in its affections. She and her devoted husband were married 39 years ago, and they had been faithful members of Liberty Hill for 34 years. As someone has well said: "She needs little said about her, for her life speaks for itself." May the Lord raise up others to take her place, and bear the banner of our Lord where she has laid it down.

May mercy and comfort attend those who feel their loss most keenly, bind up the broken hearts, comfort the lonely, and fill the aching voids. "Death has no terror for the blood-washed soul," and "Earth has no sorrows that heaven cannot heal." "My God will supply all your needs."

Fitzgerald

Charlie Francis Fitzgerald, farmer and member of a prominent Davidson County family, died at his home in the Linwood section on Tuesday night, February 13, 1934, at the age of 74 years, one month and 28 days.

Mr. Fitzgerald was twice married, first to Mary A. Meachum in August, 1881. To this union were born 10 children, all of whom survive. After the death of his first wife he was again married to Blanch E. Meachum, a sister of his first wife, who died on November 28, 1920. Both were daughters of Rev. W. D. Meachum, at one time a Davidson County pastor. Mr. Fitzgerald transferred his membership a few years ago from the M. E. Church, South, to the Methodist Protestant Church and contributed largely to the building of Greers Chapel church on Highway No. 10, near Yadkin river.

The children surviving are Rev. J. B. Fitzgerald, Walnut Cove; Rev. J. W. Fitzgerald, Mooresville; Mrs. P. W. Allison, Mrs. D. G. Wilson, Mrs. J. W. Jarrett, Miss Ethel, Clyde, Stamey, Roger Fitzgerald, all of the Linwood community, and Mrs. Fred Pritchard, of High Point. Surviving also are seven brothers and sisters. One brother, Rev. J. H. Fitzgerald, is a missionary to Mexico.

The writer was assisted in the funeral by Rev. R. S. Troxler, a former pastor of the church, and Dr. S. W. Taylor, of High Point. The burial followed in Greer's Chapel cemetery.

Bro. Fitzgerald provided well for his church and his family. I mention the church first because he was one man who put the "Kingdom of God" and the church of Jesus Christ first in his plans and program. Because he lived the church, the community, and the family, has been made richer; for he has left to us a priceless heritage that cannot be bought with earthly treasures. While we see his face no more, yet his influence still lives, for "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." May the bereaved family find comfort and assurance in this, and other precious promises in God's Holy Word.

Hulin

Rev. John W. Hulin, son of Jesse and Caroline Hulin, was born November 16, 1859, and departed this life February 12, 1934. He died at his home at Love Joy church near Troy, Montgomery County, after a protracted illness which refused to yield to medical skill.

In early life he professed religion and joined Love Joy church and all his life lived a worthy and consistent member. On August 20, 1879, he was married to Miss Sarah Frances Haltom, also of Love Joy community. God blessed this union with eight children, three of whom are dead and five survive. The living children are: K. W., Mrs. Maud Hall, of Love Joy; Mrs. Ola Hilliard, Harris, and Paul, of High Point. His oldest son living, K. W., moved in with his father a few years ago and took charge of his farm. Also surviving are his wife, 30 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. He also leaves two brothers, A. W., the oldest, and J. L., the younger brother. Besides these his friends are numbered by the hundreds all over the Conference where he travelled as an itinerant ministers for 23 years. This stroke falls most heavily upon his wife. For about 55 years they lived together in peace and love, sharing each other's joys and burdens. But now it is all over. He has lain aside the cares and turmoils of this life for the crown that was awaiting him.

For a number of years Bro. Hulin felt that the Lord had called him to the ministry. He hesitated because of his lack of an education, having been brought up at the close of the Civil War. The call lingered, and in the fall of 1907 he decided to yield and went to Conference and was admitted to the class and assigned to Davidson Circuit. For 13 consecutive years he served this charge to the satisfaction of the charge and Conference. In 1920 he was assigned to Why Not Charge. This made him pastor of Love Jty, his old home church, where he was received gladly. He served Why Not for five years and was then assigned to Midland Charge. Here he remained until 1930 when he was superannuated. After being superannuated he moved back to Love Joy and purchased a farm adjacent to the church property. He remodelled the house, which made for him and family a beautiful country home in front of the church. Here the lamp of life went out February 12, at 12:30 a. m.

We feel that a great man in Israel has fallen. Great, not because of literary education, but because he relied solely upon the Holy Spirit for his Teacher, and, after all, he was educated. Near the close of the Civil War his father was murdered and his mother, with three small boys, was left alone to fight the battles of life. This good mother did her work well and her three sons became men of strong Christian character, honorable citizens of Montgomery County, and men who have always stood for the right. No wonder the Lord laid his hand upon one of them and lifted him into our ministerial ranks and enabled him to become a great revival preacher. He was called of God and Spirit-filled. We can still hear some of those wonderful prayers that seemed to unlock the doors of heaven and bring down the power that made strong men and women shout and convicted and converted sinners. Upon whom will his mantle fall?

An obituary committee has already been appointed by Dr. Andrews and will report more fully at our next Annual Conference.

Rushing

Mrs. Bertha Sells Rushing was born July 20, 1901, died February 24, 1934, aged 32 years, six months, and 24 days. She was twice married, and had three children by her first husband. Her second marriage was to Mr. Rushing, of Charlotte. She is survived by her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sells, of Kannapolis; four brothers, William Sells, of Kannapolis, and Boyd Sells, of Jacksonville, Florida; three sisters, Mrs. Pearl Wiliams and Mrs. Katherine Howell, of Concord, and Miss Edna Sells, of Kannapolis.

She was cheerful to the very last, professing faith in Christ while yet in the flesh. Her last words were: "I'm not afraid to die, for I'm ready to go."

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. P. Morris at the Methodist Protestant church, Kannapolis. There were many beautiful flowers. May the bereaved be comforted by the power of the Holy Spirit.

McLaurin

Joe Nash McLaurin, little son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McLaurin, of Concord, was born May 3, 1930, and died March 3, 1934, aged three years and 10 months. He is survived by his father and mother; three brothers, Eugene, D. A., and Lawrence; one sister, Carolyn, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss. He was baptized in infancy by Rev. G. H. Hendry. He attended Kannapolis M. P. church with his parents, who are members of this church.

Little Joe was a beautiful boy and, according to his parents, a very obedient child. His mother said, "His little legs never grew tired of 'running errands around the house." He called the writer "My Preacher," who likewise was very fond of him. Although hearts have been broken, surely the loss is heaven's gain, for heaven is made only the more attractive by this beautiful bud which God has called home.

The funeral service was conducted at Concord M. P. church by Rev. G. H. Hendry, pastor of Charlotte First M. P. church; Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of High Point College; Rev. J. M. Morgan, pastor of Concord M. P. church, and C. P. Morris, pastor of Kannapolis M. P. church. "Does Jesus Care?" was rendered as a duet. Misses Agnes Litaker and Louise Holland sang "Gathering Buds." Flower girls were chosen from both Concord M. P. church and Kannapolis M. P. church.

The pastor and members of Kannapolis M. P. church extend their prayers and sympathy to the bereaved family. May they be comforted by the power of the Holy Spirit.

C. P. MORRIS.

Thompson

Mrs. Thanie Covington Thompson was born June 6, 1862, and departed this life February 17, 1934. The funeral was conducted by the writer Sunday afternoon, February 18th, from the Rockingham M. P. church, of which Mrs. Thompson was a member. After the funeral her body was laid to rest to await the resurrection in the Covington burying ground about six miles northwest of Rockingham, N. C., beside her husband, John R. Thompson, who departed this life in July, 1914; also three of their five children preceded their mother into the great beyond and two survive, Mr. J. J. Thompson and Mrs. H. A. McDonald, both of Rockingham, N. C. The Covington burying ground is near the place where Mrs. Thompson was born and nearby are the graves of his father, mother, grandfather, grand mother and other kindred.

Mrs. Thompson was the daughter of William Riley Covington and his second wife, Mary Bolton Covington. To this union were born three children, of which Mrs. Thompson was the last survivor. Mr. Covington first married Thanie Bolton, and to this union were born eight children. Only one of these, Henry C. Covington, is now living.

She was a good woman and will be missed. May the good Lord comfort the bereaved and help them to so live that they shall long to see their Savior's face.

JAMES H. TROLLINGER.

Hester

Kenneth Alexander Hester was born February 11, 1914, and departed this life February 12, 1934, aged 20 years and one day. He was the youngest son of the late B. L. Hester and Mrs. Mattie Wilson Hester. Kenneth was injured February 11 when his car overturned on the slippery roads. His neck was broken. He was rushed to Maria Parham Hospital for treatment, but the injury was so serious he passed away the following night. It was a deep shock to the whole community to hear of his death. Kenneth was so active and full of life, especially with the young people. He was one who could make friends wherever he went with the old as well as the young and had a pleasing word for all. To know him was to love him. He professed faith in Christ when quite young and joined the Island Creek Baptist church. Later he had his membership transferred to Harris Chapel Methodist Protestant church with his family, where he remained a faithful servant until the end. Kenneth is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mattie Wilson Hester; one brother, Maurice, and an only sister, Prentice Hester, all of whom reside in Vance county. Funeral services were hold February 14 at 3 o'clock at Harris Chapel church. The church was filled to overflowing with friends and loved ones who had met to pay their last respect. The service was conducted by his former pastor, Rev. J. W. Braxton, assisted by Rev. D. D. Broome. His body was laid to rest in the church cemetery beneath a mound of beautiful flowers. May the bereaved be comforted by the power of the Holy Spirit.

A FRIEND.

Harris

Mrs. Fletcher R. Harris, widow of the late Dr. Fletcher R. Harris, of Henderson, passed from earthly activities to her heavenly reward February 24, 1934. She had been seriously ill for the past several weeks, suffering with a complication of diseases, and had been in a coma more or less for the last two weeks; therefore her death was not unexpected.

Funeral services were conducted from the Methodist Protestant church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the pastor, assisted by Rev. D. E. Barnhardt, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Interment was the Elmwood cemetery where she was laid to rest beside her husband, who had preceded her by six months lacking three days.

Mrs. Harris is survived by one son, W. Page Harris, of Durham; three daughters, Miss Agnes Reese Harris and Mrs. W. H. Boyd, of Henderson, and Mrs. Ralph Owens, of Richmond, Va.; one brother, F. L. Page, of Greensboro; three sisters, Miss Anne M. Page, of Augusta, Ga., Mrs. L. R. Gooch, of Henderson, and Mrs. Ben Dunlap, of Ansonville, S. C.

Mrs. Harris was the daughter of Rev. Jesse H. Page, a prominent Methodist minister, and Martha E. Wills.

Her death leaves, not only her immediate relatives, but a large host of friends with a sense of great loss. She was interested in the better and finer things of life. Those who knew her well recall her intense interest in and profound love for music. In her young womanhood she took private lessons in piano and organ under Professor Lineback, of Salem, N. C. Later she studied music in a girls' school in Asheville. Some years ago she organized a Choral Society in Henderson and directed it with marked success. Two annual concerts given by the Choral Club under her direction were considered perhaps the most outstanding musical events that have taken place in Henderson.

From the Methodist Episcopal church she transferred her membership to the Henderson Methodist Protestant church 47 years ago. She manifested a deep interest in all the activities of the church, especially giving her services to the choir and the women's activities. For many years she was director of the church choir, and at the time of her death she was treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary. She expressed the wish that she might be active in service to the end, and she almost, if not altogether, had her wish, for just before her last illness she was in her accustomed pew at church. Two years ago she brought the A Capella Choir of High Point College to the local church to the delight of music lovers of the church and community. Last year she had arranged for their return for another engagement when she was taken ill and cancelled the engagement. She was ever loyal to her church, and the pastor found in her a most sympathetic supporter.

Mrs. Harris was also intensely interested in the civic and social affairs of the community. For many years she was president of the local W. C. T. U., and I understand she was instrumental in starting the Boy Scout movement in Henderson. She organized the Civic League, which developed into the Henderson Woman's Club, of which she was one time president and of which she was later made honorary president for life. She was also a charter member of the Women's Tuesday Club, in which she was an active member until her death.

Notwithstanding all these activities in church and civic affairs, she found time for the duties of a loving wife, a devoted mother and a careful housekeeper and a delightful hostess.

Truly she will be greatly missed in her home, her church and in the community. No one can fill her place, but there is a place of service to be filled by each one left behind, and in some measure, at least, others can carry on the same kind of work she was ever ready to do.

When I knew that she had slipped away to the spiritland I thought of the words of G. D. Prentice: " . . . The close of her life was calm as the falling of a quiet stream—gentle as the sinking of the breeze, that lingers for a time round a bed of withered roses, and then dies as it were from very sweetness. It can not be that earth is man's only abiding place. It can not be that our life is a bubble, cast up by the ocean of eternity to float a moment upon the wave, and then sink into darkness and nothingness. Else why is it . . . . that bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view and then taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affection to flow back in cold and Alpine torrents upon our hearts? We are born for a higher destiny than that of earth. There is a realm where the rainbow never fades—where the stars will be spread out before us like the islands that slumber on the ocean—and where the beautiful beings that have passed before us like visions will stay with us forever."

Even before her last illness overtook her, Mrs. Harris assured her loved one of her hope of heaven, teelling them that she knew she was going there. In that glorious hope and blessed assurance the hearts of her loved ones are comforted.

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

Robinson

On Monday morning, February 1, 1934, the death angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Robinson and took the soul of little Billy Gene home to heaven to be forever with Jesus, the Friend of little children, Who said "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Billy Gene was born July 12, 1930, and was enrolled on the Cradle Roll of the First Methodist Protestant Church school, Charlotte, on September 14, 1930. He began to attend the Cradle Roll class in the Sunday school before he was a year old and was one of our most faithful members. He seemed to enjoy atttnding Sunday school so much.

He had undergone an operation on January 30 for the removal of his tonsils and adenoids and was apparently recovering nicely when a blood vessel burst in his throat and he died in a few minutes.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. H. Hendry at the home. Burial was in Elmwood cemetery.

Billy leaves his father and mother, a sister, Betty Anne, a brother, Baby Joe, a grandfather, two grandmothers, a number of other relatives and a host of friends who will miss him, for he was a lovable child with a sweet disposition. He always seemed so happy and cheerful.

God, in His all-wise providence, has tenderly lifted him out of this world of sin and suffering and carried him to His eternal home in heaven.

We extend to the bereaved ones our sincerest sympathy and pray that the Lord, who gave and has taken away, may lead them on to meet him.

Cradle Roll Dept. Supt.

Mrs. Perry surrendered her heart to the Lord in early life at the age of 15 years and joined Calvary Methodist church and later moved her membership to Weaver's Chapel Methodist Protestant Church and remained there until the end.

Mrs. Perry was one who bore her pain and suffering patiently. She was ever faithful to her church. She suffered much during her last day and all was done that could be for her. She was carried to the hospital in Raleigh, but nothing could be done for her. The Master called her home to be with Him.

The funeral service was htld at the home Saturday afternoon, February 17, at 2 o'clock, with Rev. Rufus Bradley of the Methodist church in charge of the service assisted by Rev. H. Reid Miller of the Baptist church and Rev. C. Rees Jenkins of the Presbyterian church.

Hester

The hearts of many were made sad when Kenneth Alexander Hester was seriously hurtt in an automobile accident. He and his family were returning home on the Townsville road, Route 3, when the car turned over on the slick, icy road. They were rushed to the hospital and Kenneth was the only one who had been seriously hurt. His neck was broken and in spite of all the nurses and doctors could do he passed on to the other world about 11:30 o'clock Monday night, February 12, at the Maria Parham Hospital.

Wednesday evening at 3 o'clock Kenneth was quietly taken into the church as a favorite hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross," was being sung. The funeral was conducted by Rev. D. D. Broome and by Rev. J. W. Kenneth was loved by all who knew him and leaves behind many loved ones and friends besides his devoted family. May God comfort and cheer the bereaved ones and help us all to meet with Kenneth again on the other shore where sorrow and pain are never known. A FRIEND.

Jenkins

Mrs. Fannie O. Wilson Jenkins was born August 1, 1872, and died February 20, 1934, at the age of 62 years, six months and 20 days.

She was united in matrimony in March, 1899, to Mr. Henry Jenkins. To this union were born 12 children. Her husband and two of the children preceded her to the grave.

She is survived by the following children: Mr. Garnet Jenkins, B. S. Jenkins, Jessie Jenkins, Henry Jenkins, Mrs. Lena Walker, Mrs. D. G. Dickens, Mrs. F. M. Shearn, Mrs. S. J. Harris, Miss Beatrice Jenkins, Lucile and Peal Jenkins, all of Littleton, N. C., Route 3.

Mrs. Jenkins was a member of Weavers Chapel church for 50 years and lived a consistent Christian life. She was always willing to do what she could for her church and her friends. She was widely known and was loved by all who knew her.

She had to suffer much pain for about two weeks, but she bore it patiently and with a smile while she was conscious, and at last she passed quietly away and went to be with the Master. We feel it a great loss, but it is heaven's gain, and we can again join her and the others that have gone on.

The funeral was conducted by her pastor at the grave and her body was placed by the side of her husband beneath many beautiful flowers in the family cemetery near her home.

Webster

This community was made to mourn in sadness on last Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Lula Rich Webster departed this life to be with the Savior whom she loved and delighted to serve. She had been ill only a week with pneumonia. Those with her expected her going, as she weakened so fast under the ravages of the disease. She rmained conscious almost to the end.

Mrs. Webster was born January 3, 1869. She spent her entire life, from early girlhood in the service of her Savior and delighted in the work of the Kingdom. She was so devoted to her church and was always at its services when her health would permit.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. V. B. Webster; one step-daughter, Mrs. W. J. Smith; two step-sons, Con and Carl Webster; several nieces and nephews; three sisters, Mrs. W. A. J. Sharpe, Mrs. J. Heenan Hawk, Mrs. M. L. Cheek, and one brother, Mr. James H. Rich; also a host of friends. Her friends were numbered by her acquaintances, as she was loved by all who knew her. She will be greatly missed in her home, church and community.

We feel sure that she was prepared to go into the presence of her Lord. She was free to discuss her departure from this life while she was in her usual health. Some time previous to her going, she wrote a selection of the old hymns that she loved, four in the selection. When it was found that she had done this the hymns were used in the funeral service. They were: "Asleep in Jesus," "Where We'll Never Grow Old," "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Trust and Obey." It would seem to the writer that in this selection there is a most wonderful message. She said first of herself, Asleep in Jesus, safe with Jesus that she loved so much, all physical handicaps forever gone, now able to praise the Lord throughout the endless ages. That now pain and sorrow would not come to trouble and disturb. Looking by an eye of faith, she was able to say, "Holy, Holy, Holy, God of hosts." Then a direct message to all, "Trust and Obey." I am sure that if her still lips could speak, she would ask everyone to live the right ife.

Her home was the home of the minister. It was she who first invited me into the home after I came to this community. So many times has the present pastor and family enjoyed the hospitality of that home. We shall miss her so much, yet we can be assured that our loss in heaven's eternal gain. May we be submissive to the will of the Master and realize that her work was well done and that she only answered the call of Jesus to her eternal home in the skies.

Our hearts go out in sympathy for all who mourn her departure, and say, be faithful, only a short while and you shall join her in the perfect praise of her Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. L. E. MABRY.

In spite of all his pain and suffering he seemed to be happy every time I visted him. He was the oldest man in the county, and was widely known and loved by all who knew him.

The funeral was conducted by his pastor in the home and his body was placed by his wife in the family cemetery near his home.

Williams

The sudden passing of Mr. R. F. Williams came as a great shock to his loved ones and friends. He was ill only a few hours and apparently no one expected his death. A sudden death is perhaps easier upon the one who is passing away, but the shock is tremendously hard upon the loved ones. However, through the years Mr. Williams had lived a Christian life and this fact should greatly comfort the members of his family. While it is natural for us to weep when the family circle is broken, yet the members of this family should not weep as those who have no hope.

Mr. Williams was a charter member of the First Methodist Protestant church in Burlington. He had much to do with the growth and development of this church and his influence is still felt among some of the people, particularly those among whom he worked. Mr. Williams was widely known in the Methodist Protestant Church, especially in this state. He was interested in every phase of the program of the church and Conference. He served well and efficiently upon many committees and boards of his local church and of the Conference. He manifested a particular interest in the institutions of his church. He lived a Christian life without fear of loss and persecution.

The great need of our church and of the world is for men who will loyally support the church; men who will not compromise with the devil; men who think, not in terms of profits, but in terms of service; men who will honor God in their lives; men who will give spiritual values, not material things, first place in their lives. A careful study of present conditions reveals the fact that such men are few; therefore, we pray from the depts of our soul:

"God, give us men a time like this demands.
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands.
Men whom the lust of oriee does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor, men who will not lie."

The funeral service was conducted from the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Spoon, of Burlington, and the body was laid to rest in the city cemetery. Dr. Clyde Turner, of Greensboro, conducted the funeral, assisted by the writer.

The loved ones are prayerfully carried to the God of all comfort and peace. In Him there is a peace greater than any anguish of the human soul; in Him there is a comfort which surpasses the deepest sorrow of the human heart; in Him there is a strength stronger than any burden of the human life. May our heavenly Father bless and comfort each one. FRED W. PASCHALL.

Powell

Mrs. Mary Snow Powell died January 26, 1934, aged 52 years.

She was the wife of Solomon Powell, of Winston-Salem. Her going away is sad, but we hope to meet her in that better world where no suffering ever comes.

Surviving her are her husband and one brother.

The funeral services were held January 28 at Pilot church, where she united at an early age and remained a faithful member until death.

Rev. Mr. Hunter and Rev. Mr. Smith conducted the services in the present of a large host of friends and relatives.

MRS. LOLA MARION.

Perhaps you wonder why I did not put Calvary above Graham this week. Well, my rule in figuring out percentages is to throw away factions. If it is more than a half I use the next highest number and if it is less than a half I drop back to the next lowest number. Graham had a fraction more than Calvary, so I am putting them in second place. But Calvary is coming yet.

Just to think, I do not have any charge to rave over for having a hundred per cent this week! Somebody please hurry up and give me something to puff about. You see, when a charge raises its quota I say all the nice things I can think about and we then put it in its permanent place in the column in CAPITALS. Then I quit saying anything about that charge unless it should go on and send in so many subscriptions above its quota that I just had to mention it again. The capital letters play a merry tune in honor of that charge every week.

But while there is no charge to be raved over, there was some good work going on. That young man, Stubbins, down at Asheboro is still lifting his church out of the miry clay and some of these days they are going to be at the head of my column. And Henderson, another one of my former charges, did a splendid thing by sending in a great big ten dollars—it looks as big as a wagon wheel—on susidy. And then, all along the line from Dan to Beersheba there was steady climbing. Keep it up, good folks.

Just remember we are almost to the 500 mark now and I am hoping we will pass it this week. That is right good, but we must move faster yet to reach the goal of three thousand subscribers.

Our Children's Home

When father's gone and mother, too,
How much of home is left for you?
When house is sold to pay the debts,
How small the sum that each one gets!
When all are scattered here and there,
There is no home—not anywhere.
When we can find our friends no more,
Then we must tramp from door to door.

When shoes are worn and clothes are rent,
With every cent of money spent,
When cold and hunger steal within,
What can you do that's not a sin?
The world looks dark and cruel, too:
What have you done that it hates you?
Your view grows dark and darker still;
Your eyes with tears begin to fill!

* * * * *

Your vision clears, you see nearby
A splendid Home from God on high!
Your very own, a gift of love,
Inspired and planned by God above!
It stands today no idle toy,
A minister to human joy.
And don't we know that God is glad
To see us serve a lass or lad!

Those who receive to tender care
And snatch from Satan's cruel snare
Are joined with God in love's relief
For sick and blind and lame and deaf.
The noblest work God gives to men
Is save some from a lion's den,
Safe-house them with the good and pure,
And make their food and raiment sure.

Sheba Reported Unearthed

In the time of Solomon the Queen of Sheba made him a visit and paid him great respects because of his wisdom and wealth. She, too, was ruler of a great nation for that day. Remains of her capital city have just been found by explorers, indicating that it was a magnificent city and affording further confirmation of Bible history.

Movement to End War

French women are credited with the latest movement to save the nations of Europe from war. If any people have gained a right to call a halt to the prosecution of war it is the French. They have been the chief sufferers from the burdens and miseries of war. They have not been wholly free from a warlike spirit, but this has been provoked by the presence and threats of warring nations. And as usual, the women of the nation have suffered more than the men. Thousands of women are now moving and organizing to work their plan. Their plan is somewhat like the League of Nations, with one important and essential difference: instead of asking a recalcitrant nation to be made an enemy and punished with arms, there will be an effort to pacify by diffusing the spirit of peace. The French women are preparing to make a special appeal to the women of America for their help in this noble undertaking. We hope for their success in awakening deeper and more wide-spread public sentiment against war.

JESUS AND PAUL

By Luther K. Long

The Men's Class to which I belong is discussing, during this winter, some things concerning Paul—his life, his experience, and his teachings. We never go far without encountering Jesus. The relations of these two—their personalities, their ideas, their teachings. I was asked to speak at one session on the topic, "Jeus and Paul." What follows is the substance of that talk:

It is claimed by some that Jesus did not establish the Church, that He did not plan to establish a Church, that He did not originate what has come to be known as Christianity, and that He had no expectation that His name and teachings would be heralded throughout the world. To Paul has been given credit for originating the Christian system of belief, teaching, and conduct; and he is named as the chief promoter of the organized church. According to these folks, what we have is, in the main, Paulism—instead of the Christianity we should have had, if the simple teachings and life of Jesus had been given full sway.

While there is a measure of truth in these representations, they do not furnish an adequate and satisfactory statement of the facts in the case.

That Jesus is central in Christianity, that He contemplated its spread over all the world, and that He expected that He Himself would always need to be reckoned with in its administration, are all included in His Great Commission to His disciples: "All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Paul was always loyal to Jesus—from his "What shall I do, Lord?" on the Damascus road, to his "I know whom I have believed" before his martyrdom in Rome. But Paul went beyond the range of the simple statements of Jesus. This he sometimes did in such manner as to puzzle the minds and disturb the attitudes and practices of many Christians.

Love is central in the teaching of Jesus. It is also central in the teaching of Paul. Jesus summed up the requirements of the law and of the prophets in the two commandments of supreme love to God and love to one's neighbor as to one's self; and he added a new commandment, "that ye love one another, even as I have loved you." The 13th chapter of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians is in perfect accord with these words of Jesus. And that chapter indicates to what heights the mind and heart of Paul could reach.

Jesus and Paul are in perfect harmony when they speak of the spiritual conception of God. "God is a Spirit: and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and truth."

Jesus is represented in the gospels as teaching that he would come again soon. Luke, having described the ascension of Jesus in the first chapter of Acts, concludes: "And while they were looking steadfastly into heaven as he went, behold two men stood by them in white apparel; who also said: Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye looking into heaven? this Jesus, who was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye behold him going into heaven." All through the Christian centuries Jesus has been expected by many of His followers; but He hasn't come. There are two explanations of the discrepancy between promise and fulfillment. One is that Jesus was limited in His knowledge—a part of His having humbled Himself—and was influenced by the current expectation that there was to be a triumphant reign of the Messiah. The other explanation is that the disciples misapprehended Jesus' words—as they did at other times—and so misrepresented His teachings. Their own convictions were so strong that they easily mistook what they thought for what He said. I prefer to think the disciples, rather than Jesus, were mistaken.

Paul went much further into details concerning the appearing of our Lord than Jesus is represented as doing. "For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord," says Paul, "that we that are alive, that are left unto the coming of the Lord, shall in no wise precede them that are fallen asleep. For the Lord Himself shall descend from heaven, wtih a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we that are alive, that are left, shall together with them be caught up in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord." As life and experience went on Paul came to realize that the program of Jesus involved a long range of time. He busied himself with that program, and the near approach of the second coming dropped out of his speaking and writing. But Paul's early, immature writings are with us today, and many earnest Christians are still loyal to his mistaken views.

Jesus spoke of salvation and condemnation. Paul, being by nature theologically-minded, went far beyond the words of Jesus as to those who should be saved. He took up calling and election. He wrote to the Romans: "And we know that to them that love God all things work together for good, even to them that are called according to his purpose. For whom he foreknew, he also foreordained to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brethren: and whom he foreordained, them he also called: and whom he called, them he also justified: and whom he justified, them he also glorified." Our Presbyterian friends went a long way beyond Paul, even passing on the fate of infants—elect and non-elect. But they are not the only folks who have believed and taught, as essential truth, notions that were based on unwarranted speculations. It was Paul who started this speculation.

There was not the least legal or ceremonial twist to the mind of Jesus. Paul was naturally of a legalistic turn of mind. He spoke much of the Law of Moses. Had he not been overcome by the grace of God in Christ Jesus he would have continued the same hard, ungracious legalist he was when he persecuted the followers of Jesus. It was some job to change Saul of Tarsus—the hard Pharisee, the strict legalist—into Paul, the loving Christian Apostle who could write out of a full heart: "If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am become sounding brass, or a clanging cymbal. And if I have the gift of prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge: and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing." It was a long process, and Paul achieved nobly; though he sometimes fell back into old rabbinical and theological forms of thoughts and expression—to the confusion of many good people.

I wish that some competent person would go through the writings and addresses of Paul, select out his mature and distinctly Christian thoughts—those ideas by which he lived and died—set them down connectedly, and give a rational explanation of how and why he sloughed off ideas that he had outgrown. Every thoughtful student of Paul does, to some extent, that very thing. I wish some one might do it thoroughly and completely.

SHOULD DANCING BE ALLOWED AT OUR COLLEGE?

The High Point Enterprise of March 6th carried the following announcement:

"HIGH POINT COLLEGE STUDENT BODY SEEKS PERMISSION TO DANCE"

"The student body of High Point College this morning voted to instruct the student council of the institution to draw up a petition to permit dancing at the college. This petition will be presented first to the executive committee of the faculty, and if approved it will be submitted to the institution's board of trustees.

"The vote of the student body was almost unanimous in favor of the motion requesting the petition. Students today appeared optimistic over prospects for the granting of the petition.

"The student meeting was featured by lengthy discussion of the motion. It is reported unofficially that the majority of the faculty members appear to be likely to support the students' request."

It is not our intention at this time to discuss this subject here, but merely to let our church folks know what our college faculty and our trustees have to contend with. We do not know who among the student body is leading the fight to get permission to dance. Surely he is not a member of the M. P. church in North Carolin,a for our conference has gone on record as opposed to the card table and the modern dance. The college is a child of the M. P. church in North Carolina. Then, would it be wise to try to operate a college tolerating dancing, when the church to which it belongs is opposed to it? What would be the result?

GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

Captain Robert Dollar, steamship magnate, who died recently, not only was a diligent, daily reader of the Bible, but an active exponent in its distribution. He placed a Bible in every cabin of the big ocean fleet which he controlled. In addition to this, on each of the trans-Pacific liners, there was a supply of Chinese Bibles to meet the need of Chinese passengers, cabin boys and waiters. Captain Dollar not only contributed to the work of the American Bible Society, but paid the freight charges on all shipments of its Scriptures that he distributed in such large quantities.—Moody Bible Institute Monthly.

CONFERENCE LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

This school will be held at High Point College, June 25-30. Plan to take your vacation during that period. If you will go to this school, you will have a good rest, meet some of the best people in North Carolina, and be better prepared to help carry out your church's program.

The price will be $5.50 for full-time students and $1.50 for day students. Where can you take that small amount of money and have such a wonderful vacation?

LEADERSHIP TRAINING CLUBS

Those who are interested in leadership training in your local church should be united into an organization to promote the leadership training program in your church. This club could organize a class for leadership training in the local church. It could support the district leadership training schools. But at the present time it could unite in an effort to raise money to pay a part or all the expenses of a group to the Conference Leadership Training School at High Point College this summer. Rev. J. Clyde Auman, Graham, N. C., is director of the leadership training clubs. Write him for suggestions. As soon as you organize, send him the name of your church and the names of your members. All who are interested in leadership training should join this club, even if they cannot attend the High Point school. They can help make it possible for some one else to go. On with the Leadership Training Clubs. T. J. WHITEHEAD.

That I may see God! The Creator of our universe! The Provider of all our blessings! The Ruler of our world! The Giver of His Only Begotten Son! The loving Father of His children! The strength in time of trouble! The Desire of Christian living! The Joy of the faithful Christian!

That I may see others! See their utter helplessness in their own strength and wisdom! See their possibilities when brought to right relationship to God! See their desire to know more about God! See their willingness to be brought to God! See their need for Christian help and fellowship!

That I may see myself! How I need God! How God needs me! How I need other people! How other people need me! Open my eyes that I may truly see myself being obedient to the Heavenly Vision for me in faithful, loving Christian service among others for God.—The Watchman-Examiner.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE NEWS

This is rush-week on the campus for the sororities and fraternities. Members of these groups after careful consideration of the new students as well as the old ones who are not in fraternities and sororities, elect a certain number to invite to join their organization. Some of the prerequisites for receiving a bid is college residence for at least one semester prior to rush week and the class average of at least "C," as well as other personal qualifications. There are three fraternities and sororities on the campus which furnish social recreation for our young people. Each organization has its club room.

Fred Julian, a member of the freshman class, while on a visit home over last week-end, while riding on Saturday night with a friend met with an auto accident which placed him in the Randolph hospital at Asheboro. It was thought that Mr. Julian's accident was more serious than it is balieved now to be.

The Civitans of High Point were guests of the Promotional Secretary at a luncheon at the college on Tuesday of this week. Three members of the college staff are connected with this civic organization. They are: Dr. Hill, Kennett, and Rev. N. M. Harrison.

In the tri-state oratorical contest held at Greensboro last Thursday and Friday awards for second place in oratory were made to Edith Guthrie, a senior, and John Hussey, a freshman. Both of these young people have unusual ability along this line.

The A Capella Choir of the college is just commencing its season of public appearances. Its first extended trip from the campus occurs the first of April when they will visit eastern Carolina. On Friday, April 6, they will give a program in the Methodist Protestant church in Enfield. The following night at Aurelian Springs High School and at the eleven o'clock hour on Sunday, the 8th, they will appear at the M. E. church in Roanoke Rapids. The woman's auxiliary of Henderson M. P. church are sponsoring a program by this group to be given in the Stephens theatre at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. They have secured this place because they do not feel that any church in the city will take care of the crowd who will come to hear their program.

A silver loving cup was the award made to the successful teams in the high school basketball tournament which terminated on Tuesday, March 6, in the new college gym. The winners were: Class A, Bessemer High School; Class B, Walkertown High School; Class C, Pinnacle High School. Each of these received a cup. Five of the best players in each class were selected to whom was given a gold basketball. These awards in Class A went to Boone, Bessemer; Hendrix, High Point; Maness, Bessemer; Culler, High Point! Shelton, Greensboro. Class B awards went to Lanier, Denton; Cox and Scotton, Staley; Bringly, Pilot; Wagnor, Walkertown. Class C awards went to Thomas and Wright, Ramseur; Jones and Walker, Pinnacle; Ray of Mills Home, Thomasville. The gate receipts took care of the purchase of these awards. The college offered a scholarship to the best performer in each class which was awarded to: Class A, Boone, Bessemer; Class B, Brinkley, Pilot; Class C, Ray, Mills Home, Thomasville.

It will be of interest doubtless to the readers of these notes to learn more of the religious organizations on the campus. There are four in number. The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. meet on Wednesday night twice a month, at which time they provide a devotional service and a discussion of some religious topic which is of particular interest to the young people. The Christian Endeavor society is the organization which predominates on the campus. Both young men and young ladies are united with it and take part in its program. They meet each Sunday evening after dinner and usually use the regular C. E. topic for discussion. For several years these young people have supported a child at the Children's Home. They frequently have this child visit the campus, and they find a genuine joy in this type of service. The Christian Endeavor sponsors a daily prayer service of the students, which is held immediately following dinner at 6:30. It has been frequently said by visiting ministers from different sections of the country that no other college of their knowledge has such a family altar daily as this. It is brief, but provides inspiration to those who attend it. The fourth organization is that of the ministerial students, and of course is referred to those who are looking forward to entering the ministry. It meets each Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Each leader selects his own subject, and frequently has as the speaker a minister of the city or a member of the faculty.

FACING THE SUN

Don't hunt for trouble,
  But look for success;
You'll find what you look for—
  Don't look for distress.
If your eyes see the shadow,
  Remember, I pray,
That the sun is still shining—
  You're just in the way.

Don't grumble, don't bluster,
  Don't dream and don't shirk;
Don't think of your worries,
  Just think of your work.
The worries will vanish,
  The work will be done—
No man sees his shadow
  If he faces the sun.—Optimist Magazine.

The best type of public speaking today is that of President Roosevelt. His English style has the clearness of Cicero and the conciseness of Lincoln. His delivery combines the directness of Demosthenes with the impressive power of Gladstone. In choice of words and charm of delivery he furnishes a rare example to those who aspire to excellence of speech.—Grenville Kleiser.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Which Position is Yours?

In every church there are some who occupy the position of promoter or preventor; worker or worrier; booster or buster; pillar or sleeper; attendant or absentee; peacemaker or peacebreaker, etc. It might be profitable if many members of the church would enlarge this list, sit down and classify themselves. We have seen some mighty good people get in the way of splendid projects and stay in their way without seeming to realize how destructive their efforts were. Likewise, we have known church members to absent themselves from the church so regularly for no real cause until they backslid. We repeat, it might mean a good deal to some church folks to make a careful examination of themselves and find out what position they hold in their church.

Some Plans Pastors Are Using

Bro. Trollinger gets out the "Circuit Rider," a mimeographed sheet in which he gets to his people the plans and objectives he is endeavoring to put over for that period. It gives the assessments for every claim for each church, with other stimulating suggestions.

Brother Whitehead keeps a record of the attendance of his members upon the Sunday services and sends out at the end of the quarter a tabulated sheet showing how many members and how many visitors were present for the morning and evening services; then asks where were you? He also gives the amounts of all claims the church is asked to pay, with other suggestions which ought to be of service.

Brother Cook prints a monthly folder in which he brings to the attention of his church members those plans and objectives he desires to emphasize. The printing is done by himself and has wide possibilities of service, if the cost can be covered without hurting him.

Brother Bethea mimeographs his church bulletins on the inside cover of two printed pages by the Layman Company. These printed pages are devoted to stewardship and they must be bearing good fruit, for his Gibsonville church is the first church in the conference to pay all the various claims of the annual conference.

Doubtless I have overlooked other plans used by pastors; these are before me and I want to commend the enterprise shown by these active pastors to increase the efficiency of their church people. There is some financial outlay and some labor as well required to do this, but the cost is fully covered by the increased activities of the church folk, no doubt.

The Branch Meeting at Henderson, April 4-5

This conference for the women of our church should be of vital interest to all us. However, I understand that a goodly number of the women do not participate in this inspiration-giving, information-getting meeting. There appears to be a feeling of "it is not for us" among the women in the churches that still have Ladies Aid societies, instead of the Women's Auxiliaries which include all that the Ladies Aid, the Woman's Home Missionary and the Women's Foreign Missionary societies combined ever undertook.

Our women who are working succesfully in every phase of church work wish to enlist the sympathy of all our women, no matter what name they give to their organization; and they would very much like to have help from them all. For instance, some of our women just now are unable to give much to the financial support of the church program, might help some of our best workers in the Auxiliaries to discover a better way to raise money than they now have. Your presence would, therefore, help in that way. And I am sure you would get a great deal of benefit from attending the meeting.

Of course the Henderson church might be able to entertain all the women of our church, were they to go there, and remain over-night; but it is quite possible for the majority of the women of our conference to get to that meeting by using the automobile and spend most of one day there, returning to their homes for the night. And whether you attend or not, be sure to send a full report of what your organization is doing; let it be Ladies Aid, Auxiliary, or what not. Send this to Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, Reidsville, by the 30th of this month. And if she has sent any of you a report blank, be sure to fill it out as requested and return, or write on the back of it what sort of an organization you have in your church during the year. We need to co-ordinate all the organizations of our conference in their activities, so that the entire church shall labor, pay and pray through them.

Pastors' Reports

All pastors have reported except six. I have wondered whether to publish the list of those who have failed, because I think they simply overlooked it, instead of failing to comply with a regulation of the Annual Conference.

Vance Charge, Rev. D. D. Broome, Pastor

We had most disagreeable weather for this visit. Got into the snow at Durham and found plenty of it on Vance circuit.

I visited Harris Chapel, Gillburg, and Flat Rock churches last Sunday in the order named. Small congregations at each church, but we had services at them, and those there appeared interested in the messages delivered.

Brother Broome has made a good start on his work, and is most desirous of succeeding. He has planned his work and is trying to work out his plans to the greatest advantage. Vance, like some other of our churches in eastern Carolina, has not made the advances it should have made. We have some of the finest sort of people in that area, but they have not made so much progress as churches in middle Carolina. It is our hope that this condition shall be changed in the near future. There must be a greater sense of obligation to the denominational interests by many before the denomination shall make much more progress than it has in the past few years.

Brother Broome has been well received and is living in the parsonage in Henderson. A compact five-room house on the main highway between Raleigh, Norfolk and Richmond. They appear comfortably fixed up and I enjoyed the hospitality of their home on this trip.

EACH MORNING

Someone has written a book on "Life Begins at Forty." I rise to offer a substitute title, Mr. Author, "Life Begins Each Morning."

Whether one is twenty, forty, or sixty; whether one has succeeded, failed, or just muddled along; whether yesterday was full of sun or storm, or one of those dull days with no weather at all, Life Begins Each Morning!

Life is a day—this day. All past days are gone beyond reviving. All days that still may come for you or me are veiled in the great mystery, and for all we know, there may not be another for either of us. Therefore, this day is Life, and life begins anew with it.

There is no staged age or period of which it can be said, "Here is the dawn of life's day." Today is the dawn of that day. Take and use it as best you can, or as you choose. It is your life, and if you prefer to loll it away or waste it, that is your privilege, though it be unwise and unprofitable.

However you have used gone days, you can start afresh each morning, if you so desire. You can use this day for consolidating past gains of spirit, brain and hand, or you can use it for tearing down the old structure of self and laying the foundations for a new building. Each night of life is a well between today and the past. Each morning is the open door to a new world—new vistas, new aims, new tryings.

The greatest fact in life is this, that it never is too late to start again. History overflows with startling examples of this truth. And if we had access to the vast number of unrecorded lives, we would find an overwhelming mass of supporting testimony.

However discouraging your days may have been thus far, keep this thought burning brightly in your mind—Life Begins Each Morning!—Leigh Mitchell Hodges, in the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

AFTER JUDGMENT, WHAT?

The scriptures abundantly support the view that men are destined to die once, and after that be judged. The written word was authority for Jesus, and should be for His Church. Martin Luther left the Purgatory doctrine staggering, and the modern Millenarian theory can not be classed as a Christian doctrine. But it is good for man, that the two most solemn events in their lives are connected with the two most gracious truths of this dispensation: namely, death and Judgment are paralleled by the Atonement and the Second Advent. Thus fearful, faltering humanity may meet their two appointments with rejoicing.

Thus far the Scriptures are clear; but all Christian scholars admit, that our knowledge of things beyond the Judgment is very limited. Most of us have vainly wished for a fuller view of our future existence. The question with some is "where?", with others "what?"; while others, like Demas, are satisfied with this present world, and do not peer into the future. My own feeling is that while I know little about the lot of the damned, or of the saved beyond Judgment, yet what I do know makes me exceedingly anxious to escape the awful world of everlasting punishment, and be accorded an entrance into the place of eternal life, with the saved and sanctified of the ages.

The March 4th Literary Digest has an article entitled "The Waning Belief in Heaven and Hell." The article is largely composed of answers from a large number of Protestant ministers in and near Chicago, to a questionnaire sent to them by Prof. George H. Betts of Northwestern University. The large number of ministers, in all denominations, who hold lightly and reject entirely many of the cardinal, fundamental doctrines of the Christian church, is alarming. This questionnaire unmistakably proves the drift of modern Protestantism in America. My contact with ministers has convinced me that "hell has no terrors, nor heaven hopes" for many of them.

The writer neither classifies as a Fundamentalist, nor a Modernist; but an humble seeker after truth that will throw light on the life we now live, and that one we confidently believe lies beyond the Judgment. He has no hesitancy in taking his stand with the 92 per cent of the Methodist ministers in the above questionnaire who rejected the fire-and-brimstone type of hell, as it hardly seems possible for literal fire in the material realm to torment an immortal soul in the spiritual realm. That does not alter the possibility of there being a hell far more terrible than Jonathan Edwards and Charles B. Spurgeon described, of another type. May not the shadows, types, figures and pictures of everlasting punishment in the Scriptures, be attempts on the part of God to teach our finite minds somethting vastly beyond our power of comprehension? Likewise, may not the streets of gold, gates of pearl, crowns of glory, and harps, be attempts to get us to seek after something far more glorious than our finite minds can grasp? The writer thinks of heaven as a place far better than he can conceive, and hell far worse. There are worlds of vast dimensions and importance lying beyond the Judgment, as Jesus told us.

OUR STORY PAGE

TOMMY

"Ed, I declare that pup is a nuisance; he drags in something every morning; looks like a bundle of dirty rags and papers. Please go and pick them up and burn them before they get all over the yard," exclaimed Mrs. Perry as she emerged from the house, water bucket in hand.

"Naw," drawled Ed slowly, rubbing his wet face on the towel, "I penned Fritz up last night 'cause I was afraid he'd get over in the gypsy camp with their dogs and—"

"Then I suppose it was one of their hounds; I thought I heard something last night; I haven't felt comfortable since. Ed, I wish you would order them away."

"They've gone. I noticed they weren't there any more when I went after the cows this morning. They left an awful mess of trash and ashes down there; guess I will have to go and clear it away."

"You make a beginning by gathering those rags and papers out of the front yard. You had better—"

"What was that?" exclaimed the two people in alarmed surprise.

A faint wail came from somewhere in the direction of the rags in the yard. The two old people stood stock still and stared at each other. Presently it came again, fainter as if some one were in great agony. The bundle moved slightly and then was perfectly still.

"Ed there's something wrapped in those rags and it is in awful pain. What do you suppose it can be?" whispered Mrs. Perry.

"Probably a puppy or some kittens somebody wanted to get rid of; nothing to be excited over," Mr. Perry said in a not very reassuring tone.

"It didn't sound like a pup or a cat; it sounded like a—a—go and see what it is, please."

"Let's both go."

Ed and Martha stared down at a queer package of paper and dirty rags. Filth in the worst degree. Ed shoved it slightly with his foot. It moved and uttered a painful wail.

"It's a baby!" cried Martha, and casting aside her horror for filth, dropped on her knees beside the forlorn object. Carefully she pulled aside the paper and rags until a little form came into view. Mr. Perry gasped at the sight. In the midst of the rags lay a tiny baby. He was so thin that his little bones seemed to be piercing the rough skin. His eyes were large and sunken. His skin was rough and covered with sores. A glance showed him to be suffering from starvation and neglect. Martha took off her apron and wrapped him in it. Her mother heart was touched. No one need to tell her what to do. She carried the little waif into the house and laid him on the lounge while she hurriedly warmed some fresh milk. The baby was too weak to drink and as she put some in his mouth with a spoon it required all his energy to swallow it. Then she bathed him in warm water. It seemed to make little impression. The dirt and grime seemed to be a part of the hard, rough skin. Mr. Perry looked on in bewilderment.

Suddenly he exclaimed, "Where did it come from?"

Martha shook her head. "I have been wondering too."

"Do you suppose those gypsies might have left it there? I heard a baby crying in one of their wagons almost continually the other day when I was plowing in the west field," remarked Ed meditatively.

Martha drew back. "Is it a gypsy baby? Oh, Ed!"

"Well, he can't help it; looks like he needs something rather badly. Guess I better call the doctor."

The doctor arrived and was even more horrified than the Perrys had been. A careful diagnosis showed the little baby to be suffering from no special disease. He was slowly dying from starvation and neglect. With the doctor's help, Martha gave the baby more nourishment and again bathed it in warm water. The faint wailing had stopped and the child was resting more comfortably than it perhaps ever had before.

"What do you expect to do with him now?" the doctor inquired. Martha looked shocked; it appeared not to have entered her mind before. Ed was grave.

"I don't know," he said. "I have been thinking of that while you and Martha were caring for him. Those gypsies left last night. We probably will never be able to find them, and if we did, we could not prove it was their child. They would throw it away again. We can't keep it. Martha isn't strong enough and we have our own children and grandchildren," said Mr. Perry sadly.

"I fear he can't stand the shock of last night's exposure," the doctor said, "but if he does, he must have a home somewhere."

"Doc, do you know of any young people who might want to adopt a baby?"

"No, I don't, but you might advertise his story in the papers and in the meantime you have better place him in the county home."

"Poor little baby!" sighed Martha.

"Doc, how old do you think he is? Just by looking at him he might be a week and he might be five years; he really looks more like a dwarfed old man than a baby."

The doctor examined him carefully. "He is more than a few weeks old because his skin couldn't get in that condition in a few weeks. See, he has some teeth; I judge he is a little over a year."

"And no name; isn't it awful!" Martha said.

"I'll get a bite to eat and then see the trustees and have the superintendent of the county home come and get him; poor kid," Mr. Perry remarked.

All during the warm spring afternoon Martha divided her attention between the baby and watching the road. What made Ed so long in coming? Surely the Home was not overcrowded. They would certainly take the baby.

Dusk was falling as Mr. Perry returned. Martha did not see him until he entered the room. Then she asked in an anxious tone.

"Are they coming for the baby this evening?"

"How is the baby?" Ed asked rather gruffly.

"He seems to be resting quite comfortably, poor little fellow; life seems cruel to some. And, Ed, why do you talk so; is anything wrong? the Home isn't full, is it?" Martha asked in alarm.

"No, Martha, there is plenty of room at the county home, and I dare say many homes have empty trundle beds; but all are closed to our tiny gypsy."

"What! won't they take him?"

"No; you see, they take only the children of the county, and besides they require knowledge of the child's parents. Little gypsy has none. I tried at Greendale and all the counties around. I even asked a lawyer's advice, but he can do nothing. Poor little baby! I put a notice in several of the papers asking for a home for him."

"I wish we could care for him, but we can't. We'll ask God to provide a home for little Gypsy. He sees even the sparrows; He will not forget this bundle of suffering humanity."

Days passed into weeks, but no one would take the baby. Martha was not strong; the doctor said she dare not lose any more sleep. The baby must go, but where? He clung on to life with a bulldog determination. Had God forgotten the little baby? One morning Martha was too tired to get up. One of the children came home to care for her, but there was no one to care for the baby.

Ed paced back and forth; something had to be done. · A knock was hard at the door. Ed opened it and found himself looking into a pleasant, smiling face.

"Good morning, sir. Are you the people who are looking for a home for a little, homeless baby?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"I am the Superintendent of the Orphans' Home. We would be glad to open our doors to the baby. No one is too low for our Saviour's love, and so we care for any of His precious little ones who need us."

A new day dawned for the baby. He was given what is the birthright of every child, love and care. The sweet-faced nurse sat by the hour bathing his rough skin and feeding him, a little at a time, until he was strong enough to sit at the low table with the rest of the babies. The superintendent's own little daughter hovered over his little bed singing softly and amusing him until one day he laughed outright. The news spread and soon the little children and workers were rejoicing because Tomy, as they called him now, had learned to laugh.

Months passed in rapid succession. It was a beautiful spring morning. Great activity was being manifested at the Home on the hill. Dozens of bright little children were being dressed for Sunday school. The older ones were helping the younger ones with troublesome buttons and shoes. Some were repeating their new Scripture verses; others were lustily singing songs they learned in Sunday school. The workers were going among them, arranging clothes, inspecting ears, combing hair, and spreading love and happiness everywhere. Soon the big car would be at the door to carry the tiniest worshipers to Sunday school, leaving the rest to follow the short distance on foot. Greatest activity seemed to come from the nursery. A sweet-faced woman was dressing the babies. What nice babies they were, but one outshone all the rest. He was a sturdy little fellow of about three. Thick black curls framed a face of rare beauty. His black eyes sparkled with mischief. His rosy lips were always smiling, showing two rows of pearly teeth. A glance showed him to be the favorite with every one. His winning smile had won many friends, and he seemed to feel himself safe in their love.

"Time for Sunday school," called the superintendent, "let's all stand on the porch and sing, 'Jesus Loves Me'." Forty happy voices were raised in praise to the Ono who loves the little orphans.

"Are all the babies here? Where is our little Curly Locks? Tommy, you ready?"

"Sure, I put on my suit myself," answered Tommy proudly as he came trudging carefully down the steps.

Every one smiled. Can it be possible that only a little over a year ago little Tommy was the homeless gypsy waif nobody would have?

"It pays, oh it pays!" exclaimed the matron.

"Yes," breathed the superintendent softly, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."—Christian Monitor.

THE CONFLICT

Day follows day with strange, prophetic stride,
While evil men still stalk their human prey.
Material might now rears its ugly head,
Defiant of the rights of God and man.
More merciless than autocratic czar,
It seeks to force its iron-clad brutal will.
Beneath the cruel lash grim labor sweats,
Mere cringing slaves of agonizing fear.
While all the Christian world looks on abashed,
That puny man should so audacious be.
But Spirit stands aloft and vows
That all these things will one day be dissolved,
Since Mind, not matter, is the only power,
And Christ is still man's everlasting need.

—Grenville Kleiser.

GOOD WORKS AND SALVATION

The Apostle did not say: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling" in order that God may work in you. Instead of this he said: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling because it is God that worketh in you." He did not say: "Let us cleanse ourselves from every defilement of flesh and spirit" in order that we may have the promises, but: "Having these promises, let us cleanse ourselves from every defilement of flesh and spirit." Here is a vital distinction between Christianity and other religions. False religions and many modern and false interpreters of Christianity say: "Do this and that in order that God may bless you." Christianity says: "Do this and that because God has blessed you." It is not a willingness to die on the cross ourselves that saves us, but the fact that Jesus Christ hung on the Cross in our behalf. Devotion to Him will lead us to die for Him and His cause.—The Watchman-Examiner.

THE MINNIS SALARY CALENDAR

How fast are you filling the Minnis Calendars? I still seem to be doing all the talking. I'd like to hear a few words from the other end of the line, if only an occasional "Yes."

I know we have all been working hard during the past few weeks to bring our offering to Branch Meeting, to be presented at the evening service. Please place in an envelope and mark it with the name of your church, and the amount. We will need a little more than $200 to meet this year's obligation.

Last report gives State Street, Lexington, credit for $1.50. It should have been $1.00, making the total last time $669.64. The following amounts have been received since then:

Asheboro	$ 5.35
West End, Greensboro	16.80
Willis Booth	1.00
Mrs. R. S. Woody	1.00
Total	$693.79

MRS. C. W. BATES,

CAKES FOR THE HOME

Winston-Salem, First, was scheduled to furnish cakes the week of the sleet, and in spite of all the hindrances, we were able to take them four large cakes and about 80 cup cakes. We are expecting to finish the job later.

Last week Community Church, Thomasville, furnished cakes. This week First Church, Thomasville, will furnish them. Next week Hickory Ridge, Forsyth Circuit, will provide them.

I thank all who have responded, and I'll be asking others if you do not volunteer. Let me hear from you so I may give you a week. They are not likely to get too many cakes at the Home, at any one time; but there is danger in their not having enough, perhaps not any at all, some weeks.

MRS. C. W. BATES,
Children's Home Sec'y.

A VANISHING TEA

We are hoping this Children's Home Debt Campaign will be like that. You know how the Vanishing Tea worked. Some one invites ten guests. They each contribute so much. Each of these ten invite nine guests to a tea, who make their contribution, and in turn invite eight. After a while there are no guests to invite—it has gotten down to one. So the guests vanish. But something else vanishes, too—your worry over meeting

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

First Church, Burlington.—The work of our Sunday school is on the increase. The outlook is more encouraging than it has been for some time.

Since we have previously given the offering received on the first Sunday to the Children's Home at High Point, we were asked to double the usual amount last Sunday due to the fact that it was Children's Day Sunday. We are glad to report that we more than doubled the average amount by raising $101.25. Sixty dollars of this amount was raised at the Sunday school hour with 311 present. The remaining $41.25 was the proceeds from a most enjoyable banquet which was given Tuesday evening in the church hut.

The banquet was sponsored by the Sunday school Workers' Council, with Mr. Herbert Wade presiding. The women of the Sunday school served the meal and since practically all the food was donated, we were able to add the entire proceeds to the fund for the Home.

We as Methodist Protestants know the circumstances of our Children's Home and we should do all in our power to help Dr. and Mrs. Dixon carry on their good work more easily.

Church debts are hard to pay. If all the members of the churches would give as God prospers them in the periods of prosperity there would be no occasion for incurring church debts. Many people say during a depression: "If conditions were like they were a few years ago I would be glad to give liberally." But very few people will give liberally at any time, in prosperity or adversity. But in regard to the conditions at the Home, we are in the midst of a task that is tremendously important and definiely challenging. The time has come for us to think about success, work for success, and to be determined to achieve success, and to stop thinking about losses, misfortunes and failures and the possibbility of additional failures. Our deeds are governed by our thinking. Our thoughts are the products of our visions. The prophet said "Where there is no vision the people perish." Let's strive to see that the debt at the Children's Home is soon cleared and that the movement will be in the future launched on the pay-as-you-go plan. It can be done. Ask God to show you how, and then follow the leadings of the Spirit and it will be done.

Dr. Paschall, pastor, brought a very helpful message to his large congregation Sunday at the 11 o'clock worship. In the message the duty of every church member was greatly emphasized.

The Thank-offering service was held at the evening hour. The Woman's Auxiliary was in charge of this service. Mrs. M. A. Coble, president of the organization, was in charge. We were fortunate in having with us Mrs. J. Clyde Auman, of Graham, who delivered a splendid address. Mrs. Auman's subject was "Japan." Due to the fact that she and Mr. Auman had previously spent some time in Japan as missionaries her message was all the more interesting.

The Thank-offering of this church for the past year amounted to $110.00.

West End, Greensboro.—We have not had very much to say through the columns of the Herald regarding our work during the past few months, but have been carrying on the work of the church as best we could. Now that our pastor, Rev. T. J. Whitehead, is able to devote his entire time to the work here we are hoping to do greater things.

During the past month the Minnis Calendar Plan, proposed by Mrs. Bates at our Annual Conference, was worked out by the Woman's Auxiliary, the Sunday school and Christian Endeeavor. The "three months" pledged by our pastor was oversubscribed by $2.90, making a total of $16.70 raised for the Minnis Fund. This has been sent to the Auxiliary Branch treasurer.

Wednesday evening, March 7, at 7 p. m., the mid-week prayer service will be used for a Mission Study class. The pastor will review the first half of the study book, "Eastern Women Today and Tomorrow," by Ruth Frances Woodsmall. The book will be finished Wednesday, March 14.

At a supper meeting held recently a Layman's Fellowship was organized with Messrs. W. W. Eldridge, president; V. C. Stockard, vice-president; Z. T. Osborne, secretary, and Charles Routh, treasurer.

A play, "The Color Line," will be presented at the church Sunday, March 11, 7:30 p. m., under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary, as a part of their semi-annual Thank-offering program.

We are now completing plans for a series of revival services which will begin March 11 and continue for about 10 days. Rev. N. G. Bethea will help in these services. Mr. Bethea conducted the first revival services at West End some 15 years ago and we are looking forward to having him back again.

Calvary, Greensboro.—"Family Day" was observed at Calvary church last Sunday. Dr. Pritchard had asked that the families sit in groups. Our pastor used as his theme, in his sermon very appropriate for the occasion, "The Signs of a Christian Home," and for his text, "What have they seen in thy house?" In enumerating some of the things that should be seen in a Christian home he mentioned "A used Bible, religious mottoes, religious journals, a spirit of co-operation, a spirit of politeness and love."

Mrs. F. B. Richardson was hostess to 15 members of the Friendly class at her home on Randolph Ave Tuesday evening. Mrs. Richardson, class president, was in the chair for the business session, after which Mrs. T. B. Waugh directed the entertainment for the evening. Prizes in contests were won by Mrs. J. W. Tucker and J. F. Caudle. The hostess served a delicious salad course. She was assisted in serving by her young son and Mrs. T. B. Waugh.

Our annual Missionary Thank-offering service was held Sunday evening. Dr. Pritchard conducted the devotion and made a brief talk on missions. The pageant, "Thanksgiving Gates," went off remarkably well. Our offering amounted to about $45.00 and we feel sure it will reach $50.00 by the time it all gets in.

Just preceding the executive meeting at the parsonage Monday evening the Secretary of Spiritual Life, Mrs. David Glass, called a prayer meeting at the parsonage for our church members who are sick in the community. The officers of our Woman's Auxiliary for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Mrs. J. G. Sullivan; first vice-president, Mrs. Howard R. Neece; second vice-president, Mrs. J. E. Pritchard; treasurer, Mrs. Otis Campbell; secretary, Mrs. Harry Julian, and assistant secetary, Mrs. H. W. Highfill. The different secretaries are: Missionary Education Secretary, Mrs. J. Frank Coble; Secretary of Scholarships and Workers, Miss Sarah McCulloch; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. J. A. Williamson; Secretary of Thank-offering, Mrs. J. W. Swain; Secretary of Christian Education, Miss Ila Burrow; Secretary of Spiritual Life, Mrs. David Glass; Secretary of Temperance, Miss Velna McCulloch; Secretary of Benevolence, Mrs. M. H. Greer; Secretary of Memorial, Mrs. J. H. Cox; Secretary of Young People's Work, Mrs. J. E. Pritchard; Pastor's Aid Secretary, Mrs. D. E. Curtis; Secretary Bethel Home, Mrs. Willis Booth, and Secretary Children's Home, Mrs. J. F. Williams.

Dr. Pritchard went to Thomasville Tuesday evening to speak at a meeting of the Laymen's Fellowship group of the First M. P. Church, of which he was pastor several years ago. He was accompanied to Thomasville by Mrs. Pritchard.

Our Woman's Auxiliary will meet next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the hut.

The Business Girls' Circle will sponsor an old-fashioned box party in the hut Friday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ward, Thursday, March 8, at the Clinic Hospital, a daughter, Nancy Jane.

Winston, First.—On Friday night of last week the Baraca class held their meeting and a supper was served at the church. A wonderful address was enjoyed. This address was given by Mr. Hill, of High Point College, guest speaker. It was delightful to have had Mr. Hil with us and a great deal of good was derived from his message. The entire Sunday school was invited by the Baracas to attend.

Mrs. C. W. Bates was the gracious hostess to the Business Women's Circle a few weeks ago. Things of importance in ending the year's work were discussed. An enjoyable time was had by all. Some new members are being worked for.

At the morning worship, three laymen spoke on "The Three-fold Need of the Church and How It Can Be Met." The meeting was presided over by our splendid Sunday school superintendent, Mr. B. K. Millaway. Finances, one of the three-fold needs, was discussed by Mr. W. W. Weatherman. Second in this series was "Numerical Needs;" this was brought by Mr. C. H. Smith. The third was given by Mr. Whitlow, "Religious Needs." All of these talks were exceedingly interesting and helpful to the members of the church.

The last of Vespers was held Sunday evening at 5 o'clock. Dr. Bates' subject was "Losses of Lot." This was most interesting and was greatly enjoyed.

Next Sunday will be observed as Missionary Sunday. The semi-annual Thank-offering service will be held by the Woman's Auxiliary at the evening service and a missionary message will be given by Dr. Bates at the morning worship hour. The women of the church are hoping earnestly to close their missionary year's work at least even. Whether they do or not remains to be seen, but at any rate the best one can do is all that is required, and they certainly have made an effort.

The epidemics of chicken-pox, measles, scarlet fever, mumps, etc., are still raging among the younger ones of our membership, and occasionally we find some of the older ones in the clutch of these pestilences. Soon this will be over, we hope.

Miss Pearl Sapp, who was sick such a long time this winter, is back at her office again, getting along fine.

The regular meeting of the Philathea class was held on Montay evening with Mrs. N. F. Carroll, at her home on Arbor Road.

The condition of Mr. J. H. Brewer, who has been seriously ill at his home for several weeks, is unchanged. Sometimes rest comes better than at others. We extend to his family our greatest sympathy in their distress. He is the father of Mrs. F. D. Voss and Miss Dorothy Brewer.

Rehoboth, Granville Charge.—The most of January I spent in nursing the sick and on February 12 the stork came by and left a dear little baby boy to my daughter (Mrs. Burroughs), who is spending the winter here at home, and of course all the grandmothers know how we do love to spoil and pet our grandchildren, and so I have been on that job, too.

I am getting to be right old, but I think February was the worst month I ever saw. Last Sunday it rained and sleeted so that we did not have any Sunday school, but today it has been rainy but warmer, and there was a fair-sized crowd out at church considering the roads.

Bro. Spencer has been bringing us a series of splendid sermons, and we do enjoy them so much. One Sunday he gave us a sermon on "What Is Takes to Make a Man." I wish I could have known the thoughts of the men and how much they liked to be up with the standard. I hope before long he will preach on "What Is Takes to Make a Woman." It does one good to check up on himself once in a while, for we are apt to grow negligent and self-satisfied and need to be aroused.

Today Bro. Spencer took his text from John 5:36: "But I have greater witness than that of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do, bear witness of me that the Father hath sent me." It was a splendid message and given in such a way as to set each one that heard it to thinking about whether we live and work in such a way each day that our friends and our loved ones can see Jesus in us.

Our February meeting of the Auxiliary was held with Mrs. Richard Harris as hostess at her home. There were 19 present. Mrs. W. W. Grissom read the devotionals. Mr. Spencer led the prayer, several selections were read by Mrs. H. L. Wright, Mrs. Spencer, Miss Sue Harris, and Mrs. Maude Hight. After a short business meeting the patches were ripped off the Missionary aprons and under the patches was $14.00, which helped greatly on our budget. During the social hour Mrs. Harris served a delicious salad plate with pickles, hot coffee and cakes. It being Washington's birthday, the cherry tree and hatchet idea was carried out in the decorations.

We are all looking forward to the Branch Meeting, which is to be held in Henderson in April. So many of us have never been able to attend a Branch Meeting.

There is also going to be a Young People's Rally at the M. E. Church in Henderson in April. We hope the weather will be good and that there will be a good attendance at every service.

Bethel, Randolph Charge.—At our regular preaching service Sunday, March 11, our pastor, Bro. Suits, brought us a very interesting and helpful message. It was based on Eccl. 4:12: "A three-fold cord is not quickly broken." His theme was "Co-operation of the Three-Ply Cord of Home, School and church." the cords of home and school were again broken up into the three folds of physical, intellectual and spiritual for discussion, while the church was discussed under the topics of Sunday school, social life, and preaching service. The application of the truth was very forcibly made through the statement that by the co-operation of these institutions and the carrying out of right programs in them we would have a force that would make any civilization safe.

Brother Suits gives us variety of thought in his messages. We never feel that there is a sameness in his sermons, yet in all of them he points us to the Lamb of God, the Savior of the world.

One of our members, Mrs. A. M. Burrow, has not been in very good health for a while. We hope she will soon be stronger and able to be with us at church.

We appreciate the fact that several of our members who live at a distance often worship with us. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fields, of Greensboro, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cox, of Asheboro, and Mrs. Viola Berry, of Guilford College, are often among our number at the Sunday school and preaching services.

We were glad indeed to receive Mr. Edward Cox as a member of our church Sunday. He comes to us from Providence Friends church.

Our pastor asks that we consider having a Vacation Bible School some time during the summer. It has been a few years since we held our last one, but we hope to be able to have one this year.

Kannapolis.—Our Sunday school is being very well attended in spite of the fact of so much sickness for the past eight or ten weeks. We were glad to see some of these faces back Sunday, but there are still some missing.

"WE MISSED YOU"

"A word of greeting here we send,
  Our message to declare:
In Sunday school we missed you, friend,—
  A vacant place was there;
'Tis good to meet in fellowship,
  With prayer and thought so true;
When Sunday next shall come around
  We hope to welcome you."

Rev. Mr. Morris brought a wonderful message to us on Sunday, the 11th, at the morning worship, on "Missions." I'm sure that if those who oppose missions could have heard this message their minds would be changed. At the evening worship the message was brought by the Missionary Society with a very interesting program, with Mrs. Victor M. Whitley and Mrs. D. B. Cartner serving as program committee. Instrumental music was furnished by Mr. Arthur and Odell Tutterow, also a vocal duet; one number from the junior quartet, these being Mr. Arthur Tutterow, Mr. Odell Tutterow, Mr. Edward Sides, and Rev. C. P. Morris. Mrs. C. B. McCommons and Miss Willma Reading rendered the piano music. The play, "Color Blind," was effectively presented, with all parts being well represented, and the setting was beautiful.

We are nearing the close of the campaign for Sunday school rooms. Have you done your best? We feel that there is to be some disappointments along life's highway, but let's not give up too soon.

We are looking forward to the revival, which will start Easter Sunday. Rev. R. A. Hunter, of Winston-Salem, visiting preacher, will deliver the messages and we covet the prayers of the entire conference for a great success in winning souls for the Kingdom. May our little efforts be not in vain.

It is a pleasure to say that our sick ones are improving nicely.

A word of sympathy to Miss Edna Sells, who recently lost her sister, Mrs. Rushing.

"It may comfot you a bit
  To know that someone cares;
To feel that you're remembered
  In someone's thoughts and prayers.
It may help you just to know,
  However dark the way,
That someone's heart goes out to you
  In sympathy today."

This was the first funeral conducted in First M. P. church, Kannapolis, since it was organized eight years ago.

Also in sympathy to the bereaved family and friends of little Joe Nash McLaurin.

"In everybody's garden
  A little rain must fall,
Or life's sweetest, fairest flowers
  Wouldn't grow and bloom at all;
And though the clouds hang heavy,
  So heavy, oh, my friend,
I'm sure that God who sends the shower
  Will send the rainbow's end."

Hickory Grove, Guilford Charge.—Since the pastor of our church, Rev. T. A. Williams, was not able to fill his appointment Sunday afternoon, March 11, Rev. Paul Kennett, of High Point College, preached an interesting sermon on the text, "Be clothed with humility." He emphasized the false pretense of people.

We did not have prayer meeting Sunday night because of the cold weather, but will postpone it for two or three Sundays when there will be an added attendance. Miss Marie Strickland has been appointed to lead in our next prayer meeting. We have been having special songs to differ the programs. This seems to interest more people.

We welcome into our church Mrs. W. A. Matthews, who joined us by letter the second Sunday in February.

There have been several cases of measles in our community during the past month, thus making a difference in our Sunday school attendance.

A committee has been appointed to direct the Easter program which will be given Easter Sunday. The committee is striving to make this a successful event with the help and co-operation of other church members and the ones taking a part in the program.

The Intermediate class has held a contest to see who could write the best theme on the subject, "The Life of Paul." Magdalene Crumpler has written the best one, which is as follows:

The Life of Paul

Paul was a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia. He was educated at Jerusalem under a famous teacher, Gamaliel. He developed a passionate love for and in his own nation and he was also very keen and intelligent and honest.

Paul helped to put many Christians to death because he thought he was doing the right thing, but in his campaign of persecution something happened one day that put a question mark in his mind. While he stood outside the walls of Jerusalem and saw the rough gang stone Stephen, a fine young Christian, to death, he began to wonder if it could be possible that he himself was wrong. At first he didn't like to listen to the question that kept coming up in his mind. He got permission and started to Damascus to persecute the Christians there. But it happened on this journey that he saw a brilliant light which shone around and about him, and he heard a voice speaking his name, and it was here that he became a Christian.

At first he was called Saul because he lived among the Jews and he was called by the Jewish form of his name. Later when he spent his life among the Gentiles, and after he became a Christian, he was called Paul, which was the Roman form, because that was the language of the greater part of the world at that time.

Paul went about many places preaching and sharing the Gospel with others. He went to Asia Minor as a missionary. He wrote the words of our Scripture while he was in prison. —By Magdalene Crumpler.

Pilot Church, Pinnacle Charge.—Our Sunday school did not go into winter quarters, but there was such an epidemic of measles the first of the year that we were forced to close for a few Sundays, but since then we have been having Sunday school every Sunday that the weather was favorable, and now that spring is just around the corner and 'most all our people are well again, we expect a larger attendance. We had a good Sunday school last summer and expect to have a good one again this summer.

The weather was so bad the first Sunday that we did not have preaching.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Dezarn, on February 22, a son, Alvin Gray.

Mrs. Wesley Watson, who has been confined to her home for some time on account of paralysis, is some better at this time.

A marriage of interest to their many friends was that of Miss Ola Dezarn to Mr. Baze Moser, which was solemnized Sunday evening, March 4, 1934, at Mr. Matthews' home in Yadkin County. The wedding was a very quiet affair, attended by only a few close relatives and friends. Mrs. Moser is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dezarn. She is a talented musician, having been organist at Pilot church for some time. She is also a teacher of the card class. Her going away leaves a vacancy that will be hard to fill as she was much loved by the little people and all who knew her.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moser left for Graham, where he works in a cotton mill. We hope they will come back and be with us often.

Best wishes to the Herald and all its readers.

Rockingham.—Our first quarterly conference was held Saturday, March 10. Rev. C. W. Saunders read for the scripture lesson the first Psalm, and stressed the importance of being about our Father's business. Prayer by the pastor.

Miss Ellen Martin was elected secretary. The reports show that the work is moving along nicely. Our pastor has filled all appointments. Let's remember his recommendations and try to carry them out. They are fine. The treasurer's report shows that the finances are showing up well. Mr. J. L. Thomas represented Melton's Grove. Bethesda was not represented, but the pastor spoke favorably of the work.

The second quarterly conference will be held at Melton's Grove, Saturday before the third Sunday in May at 2 o'clock. There will be preaching at 11 and dinner at the church.

Our pastor preached two excellent sermons Sunday. Next appointment will be the fourth Sunday at 7:30 o'clock.

Our Sunday school is getting along very well.

We were glad to have the second quarterly conference at our church Sunday. It adjourned to go to Weaver's for the next meeting.

We had an interesting Christian Endeavor Sunday night. The Society was called to order by the president, Charles Nance, and then turned over to the leader, Edith Atwood. The speakers for the night were Dennie Fitzgerald, Kelly Whitaker, Swannie James, and Lindsay Disher. Our society is increasing in attendance and in interest.

Concord.—We held our regular services Sunday. Due to the cold weather and sickness the attendance has fallen down quite a bit. Our Baracas believe in having good singing in their Sunday school class. On Sunday, the fourth, the Lexington quartette was with them and the past Sunday a quartette from Kannapolis gave them several selections. We like to have these visitors with us and I'm sure their singing was enjoyed by all.

A nice crowd attended the Hobo social given in the basement of the church by the Ladies' Auxiliary. Circle No. 3, Mrs. Claude Littles, chairman, carried off the honors for the night. This Circle was given a dollar to add to their treasury by their president for having the most money in their "patched shirt," and they also won the prize for having the best "stunt" at the social. We really should give this Circle a pat on the back, don't you think?

The Woman's Auxiliary sponsored a program of string music at Long School Friday evening, March 9. The proceeds amounted to $25.00. Following this program our pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, presented our Auxiliary president, Mrs. E. F. Litaker, a beautiful Elgin watch as a token of appreciation to her from the Auxiliary members.

The final Auxiliary meeting of the year will be held next Monday evening at the church, at which time the new officers will be elected and instaled, together with the new Circle chairmen who were elected at their respective Circle meetings last Monday evening.

A splendid spirit of co-operation has been manifest this year in our Auxiliary, and the ladies are to be highly commended for their untiring service and loyalty. They are rejoicing over the fact that the entire budget is paid in full, $25.00 donated on the new car shed which is being erected at the parsonage, and a nice sum in the treasury.

Funeral services for Little Joe Nash McLaurin, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McLaurin, was held at the church Saturday, March 3rd. The parents of the child are former members of our church, and we extend to them our deepest sympathy in the loss of their loved one.

Rehoboth, Creswell Circuit.—We have certainly had our share of rain, snow, sleet, for the last month; it has been many years since this section has had such a spell of weather. We had services at Rehoboth Sunday; very few attended. At the Baptist school only three were present. They came to us for preaching, but these conditions were on account of the snow and bad weather. It was decided to not have a night service. Bro. Bingham gave us a splendid sermon. I wish we could have had a large congregation to hear him.

Bro. William Wiley is sitting up some, to the delight of his many friends. Bro. W. E. Blount, who has been very sick, is up again. Bro. C. V. White will enter his 80th birthday the last day of March. He has had a cold, but is better. May he be spared to us many more years.

An urgent appeal was made on behalf of our Children's Home Sunday. We will do all we can to double our collections this month. We also hope to get a number of subscribers to our M. P. Herald. REPORTER.

New Hope.—We began to think times are getting better around New Hope, and people are becoming more earnest. We began to think when Mr. Henderson set his head for money to buy song-books and piano, it will come. He bought three dozen books and we have our piano now, and we are real proud of it. We thank our pastor for the pride he took and the good spirit he carries with him. We all are trusting this will be a good year for us.

Our Ladies' Aid is working on some quilts now. We have $1.70 in the treasury for membership the first month. We have other ladies who are going to join. We are planning to bring our treasury up high, and we are going to undertake something for our young folks.

We are glad spring is here and we hope people all over the land will learn to praise God for His goodness and mercy to mankind.

Draper Church.—Yesterday was a very good day for us. Church and Sunday school were very well attended considering the weather and sickness in town. But we are glad to report that measles is about over, so we are looking for a decided increase in attendance. The weather has been so bad for the past month that it has greatly retarded the church work here but with the coming of spring we hope to get back normal.

Our community was saddened by the death of Bro. Buck Hart. He fell sick on Monday of last week and died Friday morning. Bro. Hart was a good man and a good neighbor, a good husband and a good father. He was a member of the M. E. church, South, though he divided time with the M. P. church of Draper; he attended the morning service at our church and went to his church at night. Bro. Hart will be missed in both churches. His funeral was conducted in his church on Sunday afternoon by his pastor, assisted by the writer and Rev. Mr. Thompson, in the presence of a large congregation of friends and relatives. He leaves to mourn their loss his wife and six children, an aged father and mother and two or three brothers and sisters. May of the Good Lord comfort them in this hour of their sorrow.

The program of our church each week: Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., preaching at 11 a. m., C. E. at 6:30 p. m., preaching at 7:30 p. m., mid-week prayer meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., union prayer meeting Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Everybody is invited to come.

L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Union Grove, Mocksville Charge.—On Sunday morning Rev. G. B. Ferree filled his second Sunday appointment. His message was taken from "Tithes and Offerings." This sermon impressed me as being one of the best ever preached at Union Grove. Bro. Ferree emphasized the need of giving all to the Master, because He gave all for us. One point brought out was: "There is no such thing as a stingy Christian." For whole-hearted Christians stand every ready to give more than the tenth portion to God's cause and kingdom. May God give our pastor the messages that we need most. Because we open our eyes to the fields and realize that the harvest is great, but the laborers are few.

Our Sunday school is still on the up and up. The fine spirit that is shown each Sunday morning is proof that Union Grove Sunday school is putting God first.

Bro. Finley Cash is very ill at this writing. There seems to be little hope for his recovery. Brother Cash has been in declining health for the past six or eight years. May his last days on earth be brightened by the hope of life eternal. May God send his blessing upon Brother Cash's family during their time of trial.

Thomasville, First Church.—There has been no report from our church in several weeks on account of sickness in the home of our faithful reporter, Mrs. T. A. Lloyd.

Sunday, March 4, was observed as Children's Home Sunday. We received an offering of $15.30.

The Woman's Auxiliary held their annual thank-offering service on Sunday night, March 4. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Ragan. The pageant, "Color Blind," was presented. An offering was taken which amounted to $12.57. The Woman's Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting at the home of our pastor, Rev. T. Glenn Madison. Mrs. Madison as devotional leader opened the service with a hymn. Call to worship. Theme, "How to Find Reality in Your Daily Devotions." "Testimony." She gave the personal testimonies of John the Baptist, the Samaritan Woman, and man's testimony to Christ. The devotional period was closed with sentence prayers. We were glad to welcome Mrs. John C. Lloyd and Mrs. Thompson. Mrs. Lloyd took charge of the program, reading interesting papers on Christian experience and world evangelism, giving the Christian experience of Miss Brittingham. In the absence of Mrs. Carl Lloyd, Mrs. A. Ragan conducted the Question Box. Mrs. Lillie Hart reported eight new subscriptions to the Missionary Record. We hope to have our quota by the next meeting. The ladies were very happy over the fact that our missionary budget has been paid in full. We hope to start the new year with a clean leaf. Many plans were made for the new year. This week the ladies are sending several home-made cakes to the Children's Home. The Auxiliary will hold an installation service on Sunday morning, March 18. At this time the pastor will preach a missionary sermon.

Our C. E. Society met last night with Mrs. Anna Williams as leader. A play was given by five young people of the Society, namely: Misses Nell and Dorothy Jarrett, Ruby Kirkman and Messrs. Marx Teague and Arlie Hill. We have a wide-awake C. E. Society under the leadership of Mrs. W. G. Myers. Much time is spent on program which makes the services very interesting.

We were glad to welcome Rev. C. L. Grant, who preached for us at the evening service.

On Tuesday evening of this week the Laymen's Fellowship will hold their regular monthly meeting. Rev. J. E. Pritchard will be the speaker. There will be special music with refreshments served at the close of the meeting.

A series of services will be held the week preceding Easter with Rev. G. I. Humphreys as pulpit help. The following Sunday being Easter, the play, "Easter Radiance," will be given.

We were very happy to be the first church in the Conference to reach the goal in Herald subscriptions and susidy. Thanks to Mrs. W. G. Myers, our Herald agent. She usually gets what she goes after. We appreciate her services in every way.

Our church has also promised to take a block of subscriptions to the Methodist Recorder during the months of March and April.

MRS. STEWART WESTMORELAND.

Shiloh Charge, Greer's Chapel.—We were all deeply saddened by the death of our beloved teacher, Mr. C. F. Fitzgrald, on February 6, 1934. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him, for a better friend in time of need could not be found.

Suntay afternoon, March 11, 1934, Rev. C. E. Ridge filled his appointment at Greer's Chapel. His sermon, the Parable of the Talents, was enjoyed by all. It is so easy for us to bury our talents and not to try to multiply them. Everyone has a talent and it is God's will that we use it to His advantage. And it is just as true that we can make our talents a curse by using them to His disadvantage. So let us check up on ourselves while there is still an opportunity.

The attendance of the Sunday school is just a little below the average, due perhaps, to the cold weather. But it hasn't stopped the progress of the Young Girls' class. They have organized and are having a social every month at the home of one of its members. The next one is to be held at Miss Beulah Barber's home on March 16. Everyone has a very enjoyable time at these get-togethers, and the fellowship in the class is improved.

CHURCH REPORTER.

Caroleen.—The C. E. Society is doing nicely. We have nice groups of young people who are interested in the C. E.

We are planning a nice Easter program and hope to be successful. We are very glad that Mr. W. D. Short's folks are well of the measles and able to attend church again. We are very sorry that our secretary has been absent for the last two or three Sundays. We hope that she will soon be back again.

Our pastor, Rev. J. D. Morris, made an interesting talk at our meeting last Sunday night. We were very glad to have him with us. We hope that we will have large crowds and good collections at our meetings.

MARY SUE COFFEY, Reporter.

First Church, Lexington.—Our pastor's message Sunday morning was one of marked interest and helpfulness. "But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." Matt. 6:6. These words were chosen as the text. The subject was "God's Secret Service." At this service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. At the evening service Mr. Isley brought us another inspiring message entitled, "Man's Spiritual Pedigrees."

On Thursday evening, March 15, the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Kooutz. A full attendance is urged.

Sunday, April 1, will mark the beginning of the spring revival at First church. Rev. L. E. Mabry, of Mount Hermon charge, will be the engaged help.

Mrs. Commodore Johnson is confined to her home because of illness.

Mrs. C. L. Hedrick, who has been sick recently, was able to be back at church Sunday.

MARCH CAMPAIGN FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOME MARCHING ON

Many things about this campaign are encouraging, as our report this week shows. Others are very discouraging, as you would readily see, if you were in our position and had read all the mail which has come during these first 12 days of March, especially so if you had been compelled to read that mail in bed with a severe case of flu.

With today, 12 days of March are gone, carrying with them two Sundays, the two Sundays on which many of the offerings for the Home are taken. There has been a considerable swell in the offerings, but many letters have referred to the "bad weather" and "church debts." We fully realize the handicaps and the pressing conditions through which all of us are passing these days. We are trying to be patient. We are trying to be brave. We are trying to keep cheerful. We are trying to believe that it will all come out right some day. But we have reached our extremity here. We can not go much farther without a willing response from our people. It is said that "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." That being true, He certainly has a wonderful opportunity to lead His people to lift the burden here; for we have gone to our extremity.

Quoting once more the words of a good brother who said, "You don't holler loud enough. If the people knew they would help." We are trying to holler so loud this time that all the Methodist Protestants in the Conference and their friends will hear. Not all read the Herald, so they will have to hear through pastors, Sunday school superintendents, Children's Home secretaries, presidents of Auxiliaries, presidents of C. E. Societies and other interested workers. Pass along the word, take the offering and let us have it on or before the first of April.

We entered into this campaign with such buoyant hopes and such confident expectations that we are just looking to the Lord and to our people, believing that they will not disappoint us. "Our expectation is from the Lord."

Thirty-one days of prayer and thought and activity for, and giving to, the Children's Home, on the part of 30,000 folks, with their friends. What will be the result? We look forward anxiously and expectantly to the answer.

The organization is a good one, and we trust that every unit of it is at work. It cannot fail if everyone works. A good offering from every Sunday school and church, backed by the Auxiliaries, the C. E. Societies and the organized classes. We plead with you not to fail us. The dear Father Himself lead in it all to the glory of His name and the advancement of His Kingdom.

Yours in His service,
A. G. DIXON, Supt.

AN ENTERPRISING MAN

A man so weak
He cannot speak
But once a week
And then in squeak
Rushed like a streak
To muddy creek
And raised a shriek,
"See my physique!"

He then dashed home
Through miles of loam,
Quaffed glass of foam,
Set out for Rome.
He missed by ohm.
Armed with fine comb
He stopped in dome
And wrote this poem.

His readers swore,
Their hair they tore,
They did implore
He write no more!
Hungry and sore
He promised lore
Would come before
Their every door.

New age of learning
Thus marked its turning
With fine discerning
And deeper yearning.
The fire's still burning,
The churns keep churning:
The tides are turning,
The world is learning.

—William Green, of Coshocton, Ohio, has been president of the American Federation of Labor since 1924.

certain financial obligations of the organization to which you belong.

The last week in February there was mailed out from 906 Carolina Avenue more than 400 letters. At the same time Doctor Dixon and Doctor Andrews and Mrs. Nicholson were mailing out letters. Perhaps some of you received two letters. If so, you have a double responsibility.

If you have received this invitation to help lift the debt on the Children's Home for current expenses, won't you in turn invite someone else to do so until every Methodist Protestant and every friend of our Children's Home has been reached. Then we will see the debt vanish, and we can all be happy over it.

BUDGETS PAID IN FULL

Asheboro, Charlotte (Richland), Eden, Julian, Lebanon, Maple Springs, Shiloh, Siler City, Thomasville (Community), Union Ridge (Forsyth), Weaverville, Whitakers, and Hope (Chatham) have paid their budgets.

May I have YOUR name next week?

MRS. S. W. TAYLOR, Sec'y.

AUXILIARIES, LET'S GET BUSY!

Do you realize that we have less than one month in which to finish our budgets? As the Branch Meeting is so early in April this year, I must close my books a little early, so am asking that all money reach me not later than March 28th.

Nine Auxiliaries have already paid their budgets and several others are almost out. I want to print a long list each week from now till April 1st of those who have paid their budgets. May I have the name of our Auxiliary in one of these lists?

I watch eagerly for the postman twice each day now to see how much mail I get, where it is from, and how much money it contains. I shall hope to hear from YOU in a very short time, telling me to put your name on the "paid in full" list.

Watch for your name in the first list next week. Be sure to have your money in by the 28th.

Yours in the work.
MRS. S. W. TAYLOR, Sec'y.

Philathea Class, First church, Burlington, 7 table cloths for boys' dormitory.

Woman's Auxiliary, Harmony Grove, West Forsyth, 52 half-gallon cans of fruit and vegetables.

Woman's Auxiliary, Community church, Thomasville, cakes for lunches this week.

If you read the Herald last week you read, "Woman's Memorial S. S., double offering, $10.00." It should have read, "Woman"s Auxiliary, Community church, $10.00."

We are so thankful for all these gifts of money and substance.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Thompson

Kendrick Roby Thompson was born in Randolph County July 23, 1862, departed this life February 14, 1934. He was on a visit to the home of his daughter, who lives in Montgomery, Alabama, when he had a stroke of paralysis which caused his death.

In early manhood he professed religion and joined Mount Ebal M. P. church in Davidson county near Denton. He never moved his membership from this church, although he spent several years of his life away from the community where he was born. From 1900 to 1913 he lived in High Point; following this period he returned to the place of his birth where he remained until 1928, when he returned to Guilford County where he spent most of his last days.

In June, 1883, he was married to Miss Martha Bischer, also of Randolph County. God blessed this union with three children, two boys and one girl, all of whom are now living. The oldest son, S. A., lives near Greensboro. The second son, Garfield, lives in High Point, while the daughter, Mrs. Tular Tuttle, lives in Montgomery, Alabama. The deceased has no brothers or sisters living, but has 15 grandchildren, and four great grand-children. In addition to these he has left many friends who join the family in mourning his departure. The deceased was an affectionate father, a good neighbor and one who was loved by those who knew him best.

The funeral was held at the home of his son, Garfield, who lives on Franklin street in High Point. The writer, Rev. C. L. Grant, and Rev. Mr. Hilliard, of the Baptist church, conducted the service. At the conclusion of the service in the home, the body was carried to Deep River Friends church and he was laid beside his wife, who died two or three years ago.

Our deepest sympathy goes to the sons and daughter, who feel this stroke most heavily. May the Lord bind up these broken hearts and give each one grace to say, "The Lord gave and the Lord taketh away, blessed be the name of the Lord."

GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

Landreth

John W. Landreth was born January 24, 1847, and went to his heavenly reward on the night of March 1, 1934. His age was 87 years, one month and five days. He was married three times, and is survived by his third wife, Mrs. Rosa Landreth; two daughters by his first wife, these being Mrs. C. P. Tucker, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. H. H. Strader, of Summerfield. There are 20 grandchildren, 45 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren who also survive, besides a large number of cousins, nephews, nieces and other relatives.

"Uncle John," as he was affectionately called, was loved and admired by all who knew him for his gentle spirit and kindly disposition. The people who knew him for many years gave testimony to the effect that "he was a good man." He possessed genuine piety and a lovable disposition because of his sterling Christian character. We are informed that he was a licensed local preacher at one time, and was called upon to conduct regular church services in the absence of the pastor. Also an interesting fact was revealed at the funeral service concerning the good life of the deceased. It was that he had been an active member of Palestine Methodist Protestant church, in Rockingham County, for 61 years. This is a record which very few people have made.

Funeral services were held at Palestine Methodist Protestant church March 3, at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by the writer, and the body was tenderly placed in the grave between the two former wives to await the Resourrection morning.

C. B. WAY.

Robinson

Billie Gene Robinson, second child of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Robinson, was translated February 19, 1934. Billie had been a member of our Cradle Roll since soon after his birth, which occurred July 12, 1930. He was quite an attractive, sunny and buoyant spirit, full of life and laughter.

Following a throat operation soon after Christmas he was thought to be recovering when suddenly his life was snuffed out as a result of an internal hemorrhage.

The funeral was conducted at the home on Clement Avenue the following afternoon. Many friends were present with their flowers and sympathy. He is survived by his father and mother, one brother, one sister, three grandparents. The writer, assisted in song by members of the church choir, conducted the funeral. Burial was in Elmwood cemetery, Charlotte.

G. H. HENDRY.

Sharpe

"Be content, sad hearts;
God's plans, like lilies, pure and white, unfold;
We cannot tear the close-shut leaves apart."

Infinite and beyond our feeble understanding are the ways of the Master, our Lord. For in the stillness of the night, December 12, 1933, an angel from heaven winged its way into the home of Mr. Robert C. Sharpe and accompanied to her celestial home the pure, sweet soul of his wife, born November 4, 1890, Maggie Wellons Stroud.

"Where'er He sees a smile too bright
Or heart too pure for taint and vice,
He bears it to that world of light,
To dwell in Paradise.

He leaves our hearts all desolate,
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers;
Transplanted into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers."

Mrs. Sharpe was the daughter of the late J. Wellons Stroud of Chapel Hill and Mrs. Geo. F. Crutchfield of Efland. She was the great-granddaughter of Rev. Daniel Thompson, who was the founder of the M. P. church in this section. She had been in ill health for many months, suffering from a complication of diseases, but she bore her extreme affliction as well becomes one of God's chosen. She remained bright, cheerful and hopeful of recovery, even when her devoted attendants realized that the end was near. Need we say the end? Nay, not the end for such a consecrated Christian, but the beginning of the abundant life beyond with Him who reigns eternally our Sovereign and our Friend.

"There is no death! The stars go down
To rise upon some fairer shore;
And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forever more."

While very young she realized the need of the Savior, joined Chestnut Ridge M. P. church and proved a helpful, loyal member until her marriage, when she transferred to the Efland M. P. church. There she attended faithfully and did her best to promote His cause as long as her health permitted.

Surviving relatives closely connected are: her husband; two sons, Harold and Victor; one daughter, Margaret Strond; two half-brothers, M. Ivey and James E. Crutchfield; two sisters, Pattye J. Crutchfield and Mrs. Gaston B. Moore of Whitakers; also her step-father, Geo. F. Crutchfield. Two infant sons, besides both her parents, were among the blest "over there" to welcome "Wellie" home.

To give her up when she seemed so needed, seems hard indeed, but we can only bow in humble submission to the will of Him who cannot err. Surely, we cannot understand why a mother who wanted so much to live for her children should be taken; this was her greatest concern during her last days with us, but it was His plan, it must be well. He gave, He hath reclaimed, blessed be His name forever. Heaven will be sweeter and more worth striving for since "Wellie" is there. May we so live and emulate her example that we may meet her in that heavenly land, when we, too, shall be called to wrap the drapery of the couch around us and lie down to pleasant dreams.

Using the rites of the M. P. church, Rev. B. M. Williams conducted the services from the church which she loved, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, December 14, 1933. "Wellie" was very fond of music, having made a special study of piano and voice herself, and some of her favorite hymns, "Face to Face," "Abide with Me," and "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown," were used. Interment was made in the church cemetery, witnessed by many sorrowing relatives and sympathetic friends. The floral tribute was lovely. But, for a Christian like "Wellie,"

"There is no death! An angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread;
He bears our best loved things away,
And then we call them "dead."

Ever near us, though unseen,
The dear immortal spirits tread;
For all the boundless universe
Is life—there are no dead."

CALVARY	57
WHITAKERS	54

Last week I told you tnat Calvary was coming to the front, so you see she is standing right up at the top this week. While I always like for my own charge to make a good showing, I also like a close race. So Whitakers and Graham, I am pleading with you to come on up and make Calvary move on or get out of the way.

And Yarborough was heard from last week with a substantial number of subscriptions and dollars. Keep on speaking, Yarborough, say it with cash. Also, Lebanon at High Point began to assert itself. Well, that is mighty fine. Henderson, also, just keeps climbing. They sell so many copies of the Herald each week and that keeps pushing them up all the time. And a lot of others sent in contributions that makes the last page of the Herald look better and at the same time it puts the paper into the hands of people who will read it and who will be better informed about the workings of the church.

All the blank spaces in the "Received" column are taken now except five. Let us fill all of them. Pastors, just look down the list and see how much better it would look with all of the spaces filled. Some years ago a certain church on a certain charge promised thirty dollars on pastor's salary and lacked only twenty-six dollars of paying up. So, in the matter of subsidy for the Herald, all of the 84 charges have sent in something on subsidy except 69. Let's bring that number down, brethren, by leaps and bounds. So, who will be next?

I am hoping we will have such big amounts sent in this week that I will not know where to begin in praising folks next week.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

L. T. S. CLUB

The lack of interest and financial means are the two main reasons why we have not had a larger attendance of our church leaders and young people at the High Point Leadership Training School. A good L. T. S. Club will get rid of both of these impediments. The regular meeting of the club will stir u interest in the whole program of leadership training. Lack of interest in leadership training is due largely to lack of understanding. An L. T. S. Club will give you an o portunity to inform yourselves. Where th is no information there can be no inspiration.

Then again many, especially young people, are kept away from the school due to insufficient money. A club will offer many ways of raising money. The churches last year which had the largest attendance had L. T. S. Clubs.

Get the most wide-awake member of your church or Sunday school to head up the leadership of the club. Plan to have at least two meetings each month of your club from now until June 25th. At these meetings have each person to bring an offering of at least 25 cents.

WHO CAN BE MEMBERS? Anyone who is interested in leadership training, whether they plan to go to High Point or not, may be a member.

Be sure to get your CLUB going at once. Along with the chairman there should be a secretary and treasurer.

YOUR DELAY will keep many from going to High Point College. Plans are being made for the greatest school yet. When you have organized, tell us so through the Herald.

Good Friday

O day of days, eventful day!
It seemed the world would pass away.
Strange things on earth were come to pass,
And good men cried, "Alas, alas!"

The heavens with the earth were shaken
And many hearts with fear were taken.
A frightful darkness hid the day
And groping men felt for the way.

It was a time of stress and strife
To every creature filled with life:
Angels and men and devils came
And fell to blows in furious game.

Well armed with truth or armed with error,
Contending hosts excited terror;
No one could see the end to be,
But both sides hoped for victory.

What was the case when day was done?
Whose was the loss and who had won?
Alas! There lay among the dead
The hero great with uncrowned head!

It seemed a dark and hopeless way,
It was a bright and glorious day!
The crownless hero 'throned on high
Would wear a crown above the sky!

Exulting devils, wicked men,
Would find themselves in prison den.
A Good Friday it was indeed,
For God Himself was in the lead.

—Some take the fact that Paul changed the subject of his discourse at different times as evidence that he had changed his creed. But the fact is, we believe, susceptible of more plausible explanation. Paul wrote and spoke of the topics of most interest and importance at the time to the special people he was addressing. Paul did not go around with a wheelbarrow loaded with a barrel of sermons or theological books. Hence he dealt in original discourses and we would have expected Romans to be different from Ephesians.

—We were pleased to have a call on Tuesday from Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Way, of Flat Rock charge. They are interested in their people and show it by their works.

—Dr. T. C. Amick is quite ill with influenza at his home at Elon College. Dr. Pritchard visited him this week.

A True Short Story

Nash is the little son of a Greensboro druggist. One warm summer night he waited in the store until closing time that he might go home with his father. A lady of huge build came into the store about midnight to get a cold drink. She had evidently been taking some kind of vigorous exercise and was very warm. She gave her order and took a seat at a small table to await its filling. Nash's attention was attracted to her and he walked around her, gazing with curiosity. Presently he walked up to her and said politely, "You forgot to dress!"

Question: What kind of vigorous exercise had the large lady been taking?

MAN PROPOSES—GOD DISPOSES

When George Whitfield, the great evangelist, went about preaching the Gospel, there was a bugler in the army who was determined to oppose the message. Hearing that this messenger of Christ was coming to the place where his regiment was stationed, he made his plans. When the evangelist was due to begin his campaign, there stood the bugler in the forefront of the great crowd ready to blow his bugle in the preacher's face—and so drown the message.

The meeting began, but when the time came for George Whitefield to speak, the bugler's arms were so firmly pinned to his sides by the pressure of the dense crowd surrounding him that he could not raise his bugle to his lips; he was therefore compelled to stand and listen to the message of redeeming love, of full and free salvation for all, through the Blood of Christ on the Cross.

The love of God shone into his heart, the hardness melted away, the antagonism was changed to repentance, and he went away rejoicing in the knwowledge that the Lord was his Savior.

Is He yours? Have you given your heart to the Lord?

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." (Acts 16:31.)

"There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." (Luke 15:10.)—A. M. W., in Our Children.

—Is this a new stroke of economy? A Massachusetts man had a letter to send to me and one of similar import to send to a New York man. Instead of writing two letters he wrote one letter and mailed it to me, enclosing a directed and stamped envelope to mail it to the other man after I had read it.

TO DANCE OR NOT TO DANCE

The announcement that students of High Point College want to add dancing to their social calendar brings home the fact that measles and other childish ailments do enter the best regulated families. Frequently it is not the patient who suffers most.

To tolerate dancing in the church college would be unthinkable to many a friend and patron, because indulgence in dancing and card-playing seems to militate against the best conception of right conduct. As they point out, education has failed unless it can safeguard human character; and every day they make earnest prayer that High Point College may not fail in its high calling.

The students, on the other hand, are no less earnest if a bit more flippant in their agument. They do not believe or enjoy being told that all those who resist authority are wrong. When students from other good colleges glance askance or even ridicule with the cheerful cruelty of youth, they react dynamically to the social criticism of their contemporaries. Let someone advance the admonition that the Lord's people are a peculiar people and the answer cracks back with brisk insolence, "You're telling me!"

The administration and faculty must come to a decision. All that looks sound is not. If the College fails to realize the idealism of "old-fashioned preachers" and only forbids dancing as a matter of expediency or policy, the institution has lost ground. If faculty members who were trained in good schools where dancing was permitted merely "come along" with the administration in order to hold their jobs, the student body is not fooled. A most insidious blight settles down on the whole campus and pervades every activity. No freedom of speech is allowed, and anyone who lives there is in danger of becoming a two-faced liar—at a Christian institution of learning!

It is a problem. Any student departure from statute law may provoke an emotional scene that is distinguished more by heat than light; but none is more sure-fire than the question of dancing in a church school. The present writer, who has no connection with High Point College except membership in this denomination, enters the discussion like an old horse that finds a cane-mill in the pasture and walks around the path a few minutes for the sake of old times.

At three church colleges in which the writer has taught, dancing was discouraged. One college had quit making active resistance and was giving tacit permission for student dances. Another college was in a mess because strict rules had been covered by a landslide of student violations. Anything might happen—and often did. The third college was still rigidly righteous. Students dutifully attended revival meetings, and all cases of students breaking out of jail to attend dances were promptly hushed up. The "old-fashioned preachers" were satisfied. Was the college exerting all the splendid influence of a Christian home? It was not. The college was rotten.

At three state colleges, including two universities, where the writer has taught, dancing was approved. In one of the universities a dancing class was held in the Y. M. C. A. building to promote creditable standards of performance. Years of experience had made clear the distinction between good dancing and bad, for tradition approved of dances properly conducted.

In a smaller state institution there was no such helpful tradition. It was in a small town where provincial convictions had always been opposed to dancing, probably with good cause. Now the liberals had won a victory and dancing was supposed to be mysteriously and suddenly transformed from bad to good. Faculty members were called for duty as chaperones, and in that capacity the writer attended.

The dance was terrible. Many of the students, having come from coal mining camps where social advantages were limited, behaved in a manner that might be described as uncouth. They saw nothing wrong in sweaters and dangling cigarettes and curious clinches. Their dancing was bad by any standard.

Instead of issuing a prohibition, the administration said to the faculty before the next occasion: "Go out there on the floor and act like gentlemen!" Now the present writer was distinctly handicapped by a set of Methodist Protestant legs, but he made the effort. Others did likewise. Perhaps the students had been uncouth, but they were not dumb. They took the hint. They blossomed out in wedding garments of their own with plenty of dignity and courtesy to pass any inspection. Then they showed the faculty a thing or two about dancing!

No statute law is necessary to make college students weigh and consider and choose that which is truly better. All they need is a fair opportunity without too much force. Sublimation will follow.

PERSONAL INFLUENCE

By GRENVILLE KLEISER

The man you most admire is the type of man you ought to be. He is courteous, adaptable, magnanimous, sympathetic, and tactful. He favors pleasant aspects of life, and has large common sense. It is well to study this type of man and to emulate his example. The fine qualities of kindliness, tact, sympathy, and courtesy can be cultivated by giving them thoughtful attention. You can also learn what not to be from the unlovely type of man. He is captious, contradicting, unsympathetic, and phlegmatic. You feel you have nothing in common with him. He repels you. You can develop in yourself the manners, tastes, and habits which you most admire in others. The man you most like to meet is the type of man you ought to be.

The exclusive often excludes itself. Put a barrier between yourself and the world, and you will not so much shut the world from you as you will shut yourself from the world. Man was not made to live alone. Times of solitude are essential to your greatest growth, but you must also have the society of your fellow men in order to round out your life into fulness. Exclusiveness is not good when it deprives you of influences and associations which you ought to have. There is a happy mean between solitude and sociability. You must have periods with your auto-comrade, when you can hold deep communion with yourself, and appraise your spiritual assets; but it is equally important to mingle with society that you may benefit by its ideas and influence.

You are what you are. No pleading, pretense, assertion, explanation, or apology can make you other than you are innately. If you would be other than you are, set to work in the silent and secluded chamber of your own soul, and there begin the work of reformation. All growth is from within out. A veneering process never changes character. To progress toward perfection, apply yourself persistently and sincerely to mental stock-taking and mental housecleaning. Put your mind in order, and be fastidious in forming your habits of thought. Power in its supreme forms always works noiselessly. Accustom yourself to do everything with regularity, poise, and deliberateness. Be yourself at your best. You are what you are.

The greatest influence for good that you can wield in the world is by your personal example. Your own undeviating devotion to high ideals will do more to encourage and help other men than any verbal counsel you can offer. The effect of a great example can not be fully estimated, since it often influences men unconsciously. Probably when you least suspect it you are most influencing those about you. Hence the importance of always being on your best behavior. Life is a precious thing, and apportunity to do good through example and service imposes a sacred obligation upon each and all. Let your best self be expressed in your speech, manner, and personality, that you may be a constant help and inspiration to other men.

SHOULD THE REQUEST BE GRANTED?

Dear Editor:

May I have space in the Herald for an expression of my belief regarding the proposed dancing at our High Point College? This is a Methodist Protestant-owned and operated institution. It is advertised as the place for Methodist Protestant boys and girls.

Now, if dancing be permitted, will the students, by this act, be made better physically, intellectually, or spiritually? If so, how? If not, then why permit it?

I am not as young as the members of the student body, who are petitioning the authorities for this privilege. I am a close observer, and I have learned something about what sin does for people. Perhaps "tipping the light fantastic toe" in itself is not a sin, but the vices that go hand in hand with dancing—smoking, drinking, gambling, night-riding, and kindred practices—lead one directly into the broad road to destruction.

"When lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death. . . . Do not err, my beloved brethren." (James 1:15, 16.)

We are taught in Timothy, chapter 6, to follow after righteousness, godliness, faith. And also that foolish and hurtful lusts will drown men in destruction and perdition. Who rules that College, the young heads or the older heads? Have we forgotten Rehoboam's folly as recorded in Second Chronicles?

Does it cost the student more to dance than it does not to dance? The cost of one night's dancing (in dollars and cents) would pay a student's way in class room many weeks. (But the money loss is nothing compared to character loss.) Is it wise, then, and is it fair to those patrons of the College in opposition to a step of this kind, to permit dancing in our College?

Faithful Methodist Protestants who have made sacrifices in order to help build and support the College in the hope that their children could attend an ideal Christian institution, are going to be disappointed if this thing happens.

Let those whose inclinations are toward dancing attend some other college where it is allowed. (When you put a bad apple in a barrel of good apples, and let it remain long, you know the natural result.)

I, for one, do not advocate student rule in such important matters as this.

It wouldn't hurt for the faculty as well as the student body to study more closely the life of Mark Hopkins (1802-1887), the revered president of Williams College for thirty-six years. President Garfield, who was at one time his pupil, said: "A log with a student at one end and Mark Hopkins at the other, is my ideal college." As president of Williams College, Mark Hopkins did much to build up the prestige of the institution, and to develop the individual student. For nearly thirty years he served as president of the American Board of Foreign Missions. One of the leading educators of his day, he was a man of great influence.

The young people of our day need to be taught to improve their time instead of to squander it. There are too many temptations already. Why put more evil in their pathway?

I, as a member of the M. P. Church who have sacrificed to help High Point College, am opposed to dancing at the College.

Lena Hammer Thacker.

A LAYMAN'S VIEW

We, the people of the Methodist Protestant Church, have almost sweated blood to have a Christian College to send our children to for a college education. We think we have this in High Point College, and we pray that the College will maintain this standard.

We trust and pray that the faculty and trustees of our College will use enough wisdom and counsel with God long enough not to permit dancing at the College. The day you start dancing at the College is the day our College will start down hill.

The only thing in my judgment that gives victory to a Christian institution is the high standards of Christian living it holds up to the world. If we turn our College over to the world, flesh, and devil, then we know we are defeated. We are asking and praying that the officials of this institution will drive this demon of dance so far from our College that he will never return.

When we lower our standards of High Point College to the standards of some other institutions of learning in this country, then we invite a competition that we cannot compete with.

Again I urge you to counsel long and pray much before you lower the standards of High Point College.

OFFERS FREE AID TO CHURCHES

In its crusade to avert the "tragedy of Easter"—that is, the custom of many churches of bringing their services to a climax on Easter Sunday and then virtually letting everything drop—the Family Altar League of America offers for the third successive year to every church in the United States and Canada free help in staging an Easter-to-Pentecost spiritual enrichment campaign.

Easter comes April 1 and Pentecost Sunday, May 20. This period, moving forward from the day of the Resurrection, through that glorious season when Jesus appeared and comforted His disciples and prepared them for His final leave-taking, through the Ascension, and on up to the Day of Pentecost, which is the birthday of the Church, should be the most glorious of all the year for His church. Real prayer and dedication will bring a new Pentecost to the Church. May it be the Lord's will that it come this year.

The spiritual enrichment program contains suggestions of procedure, sermon outlines and other helps. Any pastor or layman may secure a copy by addressing The Family Altar League, 189 West Madison Street, Chicago, and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THE TONGUE

It is your tongue; it belongs to you, and is the only one for which you are responsible. Your neighbors' tongues may need care also, but that is their business; this is yours. See that it is properly attended be. Be sure to watch that tongue.

It needs watching. It "is an unruly evil"—watch it. It "is fire"—watch it. It is a helm, which guides the vessel; let the helmsman keep wide awake. It can bless or it can curse; it can poison or heal; it can pierce hearts and blight hopes; it can sow discord and separate chief friends. Watch that tongue!

No one but you can take care of that tongue. You are its only ruler. Your neighbors may hate it or fear it, or wish that they could bridle it, but they cannot do it. You have the power. Watch that tongue!

That tongue has already got you into trouble; it may do it again. It is "set on fire of hell." It burns up peace, blessing, reputation, and hope. It causes sad days, weary nights, tearful eyes, and heavy hearts. If a man "will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guilt." Watch that tongue!

The Lord watches that tongue. "There is not a word in my tongue, but, lo, O Lord, Thou knowest it altogether." For every idle word we must give account in the day of judgment. What will be the record of that tongue then? Watch that tongue!!

That tongue shall sing God's praises for ever in Glory, or beg for a cooling drop of water in the devouring flames. Watch that tongue!—Marching Orders.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Democracy a Responsibility

Our church is what our fathers called a democratic church. It has been considered by many a free church, i. e., a liberty-allowing church. A church where people could do as they desired. But democracy is not nor never has meant the lessening of responsibilities; it has ever meant the increase of responsibilities. When you joined the Methodist Protestant Church you assumed new responsibilties which you must carry or be disloyal to your vow. You become a member of a compact to bring in the Kingdom of God, and to bring it in in your own heart. The far flung phalanxes of the church at once looked to you as a member of the compact to help them in their efforts to carry the Good News of the Gospel they preach. At once you are a part of the denominational program which must move forward together. It is a unit in its indivisibility—every part must advance if the denomination is to thrive. And you must be true—must do your part even though others fail in doing their part. The standard set for each of us is what we can do, not what others are doing. Not until each of us has done his best can he feel that he has done his part. I have grown weary of hearing of Mutual Rights by those who always insist that mutual means "my own way," instead of the rights of all. It really looks like some folks will have to remain here a long time, if they are to be ready for heaven when they die. And those who refuse to work with others in the Methodist Protestant Church will hardly be much of a neighbor to those beside them in the New Jerusalem. So democracy means a government by the people, not government by a person. All dictatorships will have to be discontinued before democracy is operative. Certainly before there can be a real Methodist Protestant Church in some communities, there must be more co-operative effort on the part of the membership.

The Road to Utopia

Plato described his ideal state in the Republic, and Bacon gave his conception of such a state in the Atlantis. Both are interesting and are familiar to most well informed people. But after Bacon wrote his thesis he said this, "The road to Utopia is science and it is tortuous, unlit, turning back upon itself, lost in useless bypaths and leading to chaos." Not a very cheering picture to those who are seeking it. But whether the road be science, religion, labor, or what not, the road to Utopia is largely an unmarked way of life. For this reason it requires more courage and faith and perseverance than the majority of people have in order to travel this way very long. For there are set by the way Doubting Castles, kept by Giant Despair; Sloughs of Despond, where many remain all their lives; lions beside the way to intimidate the faint-hearted, etc.; so much so, that few there be who reach Utopia, the land of their dreams. Only a few years are sufficient to discourage the majority. And a little experience will reveal the futility of most of the schemese undertaken by men to bring about some reform. Human nature is hard to change and to keep changed. What at first appears to be as easy to keep going as a perpetual motion soon turns out to be a troublesome affair. And because many of the plans religious leaders conceive do not at once catch the imagination of all and work like a charm, most of those who conceive them quit and turn out into some bypath and strive no longer to improve their lot or the conditions of others. The Apostle Paul exhorted some of his church members to "work out their own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God that worketh in them both to will and to do." Paul said work, not rest out. Religion is the severest discipline in life. The kingdom of God suffereth violence and the violent take it by force. Heaven yields up its treasures only to the persistent worker, those who are importunate in prayer and who endure unto the end.

Guilford Charge, Rev. T. A. Williams, Pastor

I visited Fairfield and Vickery churches on this charge. The hours for the services are 9:45 and 11 a.m. The first preaching service is held just before Sunday school, and the Vickery service just after Sunday school. The attendance the pastor said was below par at both appointments, some sickness in both communities.

Fairfield is one of our old rural churches; it dates back into the long ago. The present church building is on a highway, quite accessible and is well attended usually. It is one of the best working churches on the charge. I do not know what parts of the budget they assume but I understand they take care of their obligations very well.

Vickery church is comparatively new. It was dedicated twelve or more years ago during my former term of office. Here they have a good Sunday school and the attendance upon church services is very good, I was informed. Vickery is likewise well located for good attendance.

The circuit has paid its allotment for Church Extension and for Superannuates. That is fine. The latter assessment has not been called but the pastor and his wife are interested in the work and have raised both assessments in full. So they are now ready to begin on other claims. We are expecting Guilford to pay all the Annual Conference claims in full this year and to make larger offerings to the World Service budget, too. Pastor Williams appears well liked and seems to be happy in his work.

Lebanon Church, High Point, Dr. S. W. Taylor, Pastor

I visited this appointment at the evening hour of worship. There was present a good congregation and they were attentive as I spoke to them. Lebanon has a great opportunity for growth. The building is right well suited for the various services and there are some fine people who want to go forward in this church, so I am predicting that within a few years the membership, which is already large enough for efficiency, will be greatly increased.

The congregation was just finishing taking its vote on building a hut and it was decided to build. I understand work will go forward at once. Pastor Taylor worked out a schedule for the various claims and the people are working on them each month as they become due; it is the hope and expectation of both pastor and people that all these claims will be fully met. There is in evidence here a spiritual atmosphere which speaks well for pastor and people. Such an atmosphere makes it easy to preach and should make it very easy to carry on all the acivities of the church. The pastor reports Lebanon in fine shape, the only source of worry is the fact that some of the members are not yet employed full time so that they can do financialy as much for the church projects as it is in their hearts to do. We enjoyed our visits to both charges; the weather was all that one could desire for March.

WHEN DAYS ARE DARK

By Grenville Kleiser

A serious problem is to know what to do when you are confronted by dark and discouraging days. The sun seems effaced. You are in deep despair and depression. Your heart is heavy. You are mastered by material misfortune. You feel perturbed, pessimistic, powerless. But the solution for this seemingly sad condition is at your ready hand. The remedy lies in hard work. Apply yourself at once to an earnest, energetic, mind-absorbing task, and your troubles will rapidly take wing. Do this with faith, and believe that the remedy and reward will be speedy and sure. Life is short, hence the importance of putting forth your best effort today. Work has the mark of divine approbation, since happiness is conferred not upon idleness but upon labor.

Experience is the great schoolmaster of life, constantly disciplining you through tests, trials, and difficulties. It imposes penalties for mistakes and misjudgments. It indicates where danger lies, and warns you of inevitable punishment lurking in undesirable directions. Thus you learn the penalty for waste of time, the scattering of energies, the pursuit of ill-considered plans, and the prodigal squandering of physical and mental power. Experience tells you not to repeat an offense lest greater punishment befall you. Experience makes you understand that you are living in a real world, with real work to do, and serious problems to solve. Carefully note the lessons of daily experience, that your life may be rounded out into fulness.

Men who hurry most, accomplish least. When your plan has been well made, you can proceed to your day's duties with deliberateness and confidence. Your best and deepest thoughts will disclose themselves at times of stillnes, not in a blustering tempest of over-activity. Moreover, a uniformly tranquil spirit will safeguard you against many common mistakes of judgment and feeling. As you form the habit of doing everything deliberately and calmly, you will accomplish more, do it better, and have the satisfaction at the close of the day of having used your powers to the largest advantage. Thus work will become to you an increasing pleasure, leading you constantly to higher accomplishment.

You have inspired moments, times of mental exaltation, when you feel a sense of unlimited personal power. This is the time to note such thoughts, and to set them down in writing for actual use. Make a record of your new ideas, plans, purposese, ideals, and resolutions. The habit of putting these vital matters into writing will make them more definite and concrete, and serve to remind you of possible negligence. Bear in mind that there is not a moment in which your character is not being shaped in one direction or another, and that your life is simply the product of repeated choices. Grandeur of character is the effect of many habits. Know precisely what you want, proceed directly to it, and the best results will reward your diligence.

SHOULD DANCING BE ALLOWED AT HIGH POINT COLLEGE?

The following resolution was adopted by our last Annual Conference:

"Whereas, there is a growing tendency among church members of this day to engage in dancing and other questionable amusements, and

"Whereas, such conduct hurts the influence of the church and retards spiritual growth,

"Therefore, Be it resolved, That this Conference is opposed to dancing and card playing; and that pastors and religious teachers do all in their power to influence those under their care to refrain from such conduct."

In view of the above resolution, and since the College is fostered by the M. P. Church in North Carolina, would it be expedient to permit dancing at High Point College? Who will answer?

A Pastor.

UNMOVED

Paul said, "None of these things move me."

He did not say, none of these things hurt me. It is one thing to be hurt, and quite another to be moved. Paul had a very tender heart. We do not read of any Apostle who cried as Paul did. It takes a strong man to cry. Jesus wept, and He was the manliest Man that ever lived. So it does not say, none of these things hurt me. But the Apostle had determined not to move from what he believed was right. He did not count as we are apt to count; he did not care for ease; he did not care for his mortal life. He cared for only one thing, and that was to be loyal to Christ, to have His smile. To Paul, more than to any other man, His work was wages, His smile was heaven.—Full Gospel Journal.

OUR STORY PAGE

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

John Jones was just an ordinary boy, nothing extraordinary or strange about him, just like all other lads, fond of fun and the usual games which make up the general routine of a young life. At the age of sixteen he came under religious influences and after the usual ups and downs "gave his heart to God."

He had a liking for the sea, and within six months of his conversion, shipped on board a vessel bound for the United States of America. Unfortunately—for him—he was the only Christian on that ship. Previous to shipping aboard, he had promised his dear old mother that he would meet her three times a day at the Throne of Grace.

To carry out his purpose, and to keep strictly to his word—which was his bond—he would "go below" at the appointed times, and thinking his prayers were not sufficiently real and earnest enough unless made audible, he would usually pray aloud. This of course, roused the temper of the ungodly sailors, consequently they made him their butt, and he became subject to all kinds of insults and persecutions.

They tried every device possible to make him give up praying, but all to no purpose.

They sang ribald songs, and danced around him while on his knees. They cursed, they swore, they levelled at him every possible abuse and every epithet that hell could devise, they hit him, threw all kinds of missiles at his poor head, smacked his face, and many other unmentionable indignities were heaped upon him; it seemed as if all hell was searched in which to find some method worse than previous ones by which they could turn him from his purpose.

But he prayed on; nothing seemed to move him; he cried unto God for his tormentors, constantly beseeching the Throne of Grace that they might be saved, and unite with him and his dear mother at His footstool. This continued day after day. Still he prayed on. His poor tormentors, getting angrier than ever, threw pieces of wood at him and bruised him terribly; they poured buckets of water over him and drenched him to the skin, but all to no purpose. They could not put out the fire in his soul.

They were not satisfied with their inhuman acts and resorted to severer measures. They tied him to the mast and laid thirty-nine stripes upon his poor naked back, and with each lash, the flesh quivered and came away from his body exposing a gory mass of flesh and blood.

He was carried away unconscious to his bunk, but as soon as he was well enough, he continued to pray on as well as he could.

Finally, the fieldish rascals tied a rope around his body and threw him overboard into the sea. He struggled in the deep dark waters, swimming as best he could in the rough seas—although still very weak, ill and emaciated through their hellish conduct—endeavoring to take hold of the sides of the ship to climb up. They laughed and jeered at him, pushing him away with a long pole. At last his strength gave out, and, thinking they really meant to drown him, he made one final effort, called upon his Heavenly Father to forgive them, and saying to the sailors in a very weakened voice, "Please send by body to my dear old mother, and tell her I died for my precious Jesus."

He now sank into the deep waters, the seas pouring over him. When his persecutors saw they had now gone far enough, they pulled him out, laid him upon the deck, and after hard rubbing and working upon his poor exhausted frame, they eventually succeeded in restoring animation, and the life which had almost gone out of him now showed signs of return.

Now, terrible convictions began to come upon these awful men; their hideous brutal conduct smote upon their consciences; they became almost distraught and demented; in a flash they saw their murderous, fiendish work, and before night came on, they were crying, groaning and screaming—like cowards—for mercy. After some considerable time had elapsed, two of the worst scoundrels were pardoned by a merciful God and saved. They at once commenced to pray down in "the hold" with the young martyr, but the others, thinking they were up to their games again with the poor lad, called on them to desist at once, saying he had had enough.

Inside of a week, every soul on board that vessel—including the captain—was blessedly and miraculously saved; the Holy Ghost came upon all in great power, and that ship which had previously been the "cock-pit" of hell, now became a veritable Bethel, and all because of the faithfulness of one poor lad only sixteen years of age.

In a short time the vessel put into harbor, together with several other ships, because of a great storm then raging. The lad began to hold religious services on board his own vessel, and, quite unknown to him, the captain sent word around to all the other vessels, inviting their crews to a service on board his ship, stating how a lad would give his experience of how he was nearly killed for Jesus' sake.

While the dear lad was "below" preparing his address, the crews began to come together. They filled the decks, climbed into the rigging, occupying every available space, even to sitting in the boats all around the ship, and when the young preacher came on deck it was packed with men.

They sang and then prayed and then he took for his text, "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." The effect was electrical; the Holy Spirit began to work and very soon many were on their knees crying to God for mercy. Several were saved, others convicted, and a real work began, and as a result of that day's work alone, one hundred precious souls were added to the Kingdom of Heaven.

The work did not stop at that vessel, but extended to every vessel in the harbor. Also out on the ocean many souls were saved; the work continued for many weeks; marvelous were the cases of blessing.

Here we have concrete evidence of what God will do, if only His people are faithful.

And all this mighty work brought about by the faithfulness of one small lad of sixteen years. We are living in the days of the Holy Spirit and the same power is at our disposal now. May God help us to rely upon Him.—Sunshine.

TWO PLOWMEN

Sylvan Cole and August Brown were cousins. They lived on farms next door to each other; and as they were about the same age and same size, they had fine times together. Spring days had come; the very air seemed calling, "Wake up, boys, planting time is here."

"Say, Gus," said Sylvan, "spring's come right on time this year. I heard a blue-bird yesterday. Those gay little chaps do surely love a chilly night and such sunny days as these. He reminded me of the spring plowing. Don't you think we"d better begin tomorrow?"

"Al right," replied Gus, "if father will let us have the horses. I wish that I knew as much about birds as you do, Sylvan; but my plow is all shined up and ready. I looked after that last fall before I put it away. How about your plow, Coz?"

"The honor is yours, Gus," he laughed. "If I know about birds, you know about plows, and a lot of other things, too. I suppose your furrws will all be straight as bee lines again this year."

"That they will if I can make them so. Why, Sylvan, it's easy; and a field looks so much better. Just place your stake awayahead and then keep looking at it and drive toward it."

"Guess you're right, Gus. I'm going to try this year to have a better looking field, and there will be other times to watch the birds."

"Sure," answered Gus, "and the best time to study them is early in the morning, anyway."

"I'm proud of your fields, boys," said Mr. Cole one day as he looked them over. "Keep looking ahead and make straight for your goal; thats the way for plowmen and all runners, too, even those who have entered the Heavenly race. Keep looking unto Jesus, and all your ways will be straight and true."—Joy Bells.

ADD TO FAITH

Add to your faith—do not add to yourself. This is where we make the mistake so often. We must not only enter by faith, but we must advance by faith every step of the way. At every new stage we shall find ourselves as incompetent and unequal for the pressure as before, and we must take the grace and the victory simply by faith. Is it courage? We shall find ourselves lacking in the needed courage, but we must claim it by faith. Is it love? Our own love will be inadequate, but we must take His love, and we shall find it given. Is it even faith itself? We must take the faith of God, and Christ in us will be the spirit of faith as well as the blessing that faith claims. So our whole life, from beginning to end, is but Christ in us—in the exceeding riches of His grace, and our exerlasting song shall be: "Not I" but "Jesus the Author and Finisher of our faith."—A. B. Simpson.

"THE BIBLE SAYS SO"

A few days ago I met a little girl to whom I said, "Do you know that Jesus loves you?" Her face lighted up with a simple smile of confidence, and the ready answer came forth:

"Oh, yes, sir!"

"How do you know that?

"Because the Bible says so."

"But as you speak about the Bible, my little girl, I must tell you what that holy Book says, that we have all sinned, and come short of the glory of God, and that there is none righteous, no, not one."

"But Jesus said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me'," she replied.

"But you are a sinner. You have done many naughty things. What makes you think He would receive you?"

"Because the Bible says He died for sinners, and therefore He died for me."

"But this is a very great thing for you to say. How can you be so sure about it?"

"Because the Bible says so."

"The Bible also says that Jesus will come again and take His people up from the earth in a moment some day. What will become of you then? How would you feel if He were to come now, while you and I are talking?"

"I should be very happy."

"Why would you be happy?"

"Because He would take me up to be with Him for ever."

This was childlike faith, and I found that she showed by her ways that the confession of her lips was the real working of the Spirit of God in her heart.—The Home Evangel.

ONE BILLION

It is estimated that there are now in the world one billion persons that may be rightly classed as heathen.

Approximately forty million of them die every year. That is at the rate of one hundred thousand each day, or, to put that sad fact in another way, four of them slip into eternity every time we breathe! Stop! Listen to the clock on the wall just now! As you count the ticks of the clock you count the death of one for whom Christ died, but who never knew of Him!

Christian reader, see if the following parade of facts makes you strut any! The Christian people of the world give to support missionary work the startling sum of one cent every ten days, per individual! Each Christian in the world gives an average of one-tenth of one American cent per day!

We give a meager support to ten thousand missionaries. Ten thousand missionaries divided among one billion heathen means that each missionary is responsible for the evangelization of one hundred thousand souls! That is as though Youngtown, Ohio, for instance, had one Gospel minister! Or Spokane, Washington, or Wilmington, Delaware! Or as though Omaha, Nebraska, had but two missionaries, and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, had five!

In this country we have one minister to every seven hundred people, while China has one to every one million!

All the foregoing goes to prove that * * *, you finish that sentence, please!—Publisher Unknown.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

EXECUTIVE MEETING

The Executive Officers of the N. C. Branch met with Mrs. J. M. Millikan, Greensboro, March 8th, for the purpose of outlining a program for the Branch Meeting. Plans for the promotion of work in the Auxiliaries were discussed.

The problem of getting reports from all the women's organizations in our Conference was not solved, and the question, "What constitutes an Auxiliary?" and "How can an Aid Society become an Auxiliary?" have not yet been answered.

The day was profitably and pleasantly spent. The attractive and delicious luncheon served by the hostess, her gracious hospitality, and the fellowship of friends will not soon be forgotten. ONE OF THE OFFICERS.

BUDGET PAID IN FULL

Concord, West End, State Street, Union (Halifax), Union Chapel (Granville) and High Point.

MRS. S. W. TAYLOR, Treas.

GIDEON GROVE AUXILIARY, FLAT ROCK CHARGE

Since our reporter for the Ladies' Auxiliary was not able to attend the last meeting, it has been requested that I report for this meeting.

Our Ladies' Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting at the parsonage with Mrs. C. B. Way on Monday night, March 12. Most of the members were present, and we had a most delightful meeting. We had several visitors present.

Mr. Easley, the blind musician of Burlington, was visiting at the parsonage, so we were fortunate in having him furnish music for us.

At this meeting we decided to order the "Missionary Record" and hope that our Society will be able to carry on better work by the use of it. Since our last report we've received two new members into our society. With everyone working together we hope to accomplish much this year.

After the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, which were enjoyd by all.

We hope that our reporter, Mrs. Hassell Angel, will be able to be with us in our next meeting, which will be at the home of Misses Virginia and Maurine Lemons on Monday night, April 9. GLENOLA WALKER.

NORTH CAROLINA BRANCH, WOMEN'S WORK, MEETS IN HENDERSON, APRIL 4-5

All roads will lead to Henderson for the fifth annual meeting of the North Carolina Branch of Women's Work, April 4 and 5. A tentative program was printed in last week's Herald, and the Henderson Auxiliary is looking forward to having a large number of visitors. They are asking for names and number of delegates. In planning for the meeting, let us not forget to be prayerful for guidance in doing all things in accordance with His will. We are fortunate in having Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis, who have recently returned from India, and Mrs. J. Clyde Auman, who will speak of our work in Japan. One of the outstanding features of the meeting will be exhibits, which are being assembled by the secretary, Mrs. N. M. Harrison. The devotions will be conducted by various district chairmen, these being chosen by Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, Chairman of Districts. In these busy days, every one has learned to conserve time. This is true as to length of the meeting—only two days and one night. For this reason, committees have been named to do much, before the meeting, in the way of recommendations and suggestions. Let anyone who has plans present them to a member of the committee, under which it should be considered. The work is yours, and the success of it depends upon the united efforts and co-operation of the womanhood of our church. There remain only a few days for the last-minute efforts. Do your best, women! We have not reached our financial goal for World Service, the North Carolina Budget, or in our Missionary Record subscription quota. The reports are coming in splendidly. Please continue—looking to the meeting with the hopes of hearing: "This is the best ever."

The committees follow:

Committees

Nominating, Mrs. J. E. Pritchard, Mrs. D. S. Coltrane, Mrs. J. M. Millikan.

Resolutions—Mrs. E. L. Ballard, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, Mrs. A. H. Jobe.

Young People's Work—Mrs. A. H. Ragan, Miss Frances Taylor, Miss Lucy Clyde Ross, Miss Edith Guthrie, Miss Jewel Welch, Miss Virginia Massey.

Committee on Appointing Committees—Mrs. S. W. Taylor, Mrs. George R. Brown, Mrs. R. M. Andrews.

ALL TOGETHER—JUST ONCE!

As Will Rogers says, "All I know is what I read in the papers," and what I read in the Herald concerning the Debt Campaign for the Children's Home, while encouraging, is still a bit disappointing. I suppose the Herald of last week really contains the first returns in that campaign, which is to continue for the whole month of March, and has as its goal the raising of $6,000. According to this report, 38 Sunday schools and two individuals contributed $441.04. Of this amount one Sunday school, Burlington, First, contributed $115.68. (Brother Paschall, how did you get 'em to do it? Tell us; it might help the other folks to do a bit better.) That leaves almost 200 Sunday schools that have contributed nothing—or at this writing have not reported—and leaves us about $5,600 short of the total amount to be raised. It appears to be up to the Sunday schools, and individuals, who haven't contributed to get busy and do their part.

And that brings me back to the subject—I wonder why the Methodist Protestants in North Carolina can't do one thing all together—just once? If we would each of us do our bit, the load would be lifted. "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." It isn't too late to get busy. Just one more Sunday in this month. But there is no law against taking that offering on Easter Sunday, or later, if you haven't yet taken it.

Come on, folks, let's go!

Midland.—Love's Grove is preparing to close the annex with folding doors, and also to paint the inside of the church. They have most of the money in hand to do the work. An entertainment given by the church Saturday night netted them $58.00.

We were delighted to have Mrs. Mary Lee Springer unite with us at Midland last Sunday. She comes from the M. E. church is a very active worker in the church.

Others were to join on confession of faith but were hindered by an epidemic of measles. Pine Bluff will soon have a new roof. Most of the money is in hand.

Bro. O. B. Furr is still on the warpath as steward. Midland is in the lead on finances.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Yesterday was another good day in our church. Two splendid sermons by our pastor, Dr. Taylor. Special music, etc. Isn't it fine that we are able to recognize good things even part of the time? There is so much manifestation of God's love all about us daily, so much for which we should be grateful every day! And yet, we come in contact with grumblers who would try to convince us that the world and everything in it has gone to the bad. Oh, that every eye could be opened to see the beauty about us and that every heart would rjoice in God's love! And every voice sing "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork!"

We were favored with special music in the morning service by Messrs. Oscar Easter and Ferman Wright, High Point College students, who sang "It Pays to Serve Jesus." In the evening service Mr. and Mrs. Bogle sang two excellent selections.

The women of our Auxiliary are very gratified on being able to report the budget paid in full.

The Circles met last week as follows: No. 1 with Mrs. V. F. Crouch on Louise Avenue, with Mrs. J. W. Thacker, chairman, leader; No. 2 with George Moore, on the Winston Road, Mrs. W. M. Crouch, leader; No. 5 with Mrs. Pritchard, chairman, as leader.

The general meeting was held in the church today (Monday). Mrs. Percy Payne conducted the devotional. Mrs. C. B. Welch, our retiring president, in a brief talk expressed her appreciation for the splendid co-operation of all the active members. The meeting gave Mrs. Welch a rising vote of thanks for her fine services and pleasant leadership throughout the year. At this time, the Auxiliary presented Mrs. S. W. Taylor $10.00 as a token of love and esteem to her for her untiring efforts and loving services, especially among the children.

The names of new officials, with Circle chairmen will be announced later. The reporter failed to obtain them for this report.

We are very pleased to have the following new members added to our church roll: Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Crouch, by letter from First Friends Church, this city; Mr. Oscar Easter, Mrs C. M. Hilliard, and Mrs. Helen Ferriero. The latter is a native Porto Rican, who a few months ago moved into our city. Her husband is a business man in the city.

A good many cases of sickness have been reported among our members. Some are improved. But the following are still unable to be out yet: Mr. Edward Hutchins, Mr. J. Murphy, Mr. W. L. Guyer, and Mrs. Clarence Pierce. Mrs. Pierce recently underwent a serious operation in Burus Memoial Hospital. She is improving as well as could be expected.

Mr. W. B. Brackett, father of Mr. George Brackett, died this morning of heart trou His funeral will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at Welch Memorial church. We extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Lexington, First, and Mount Carmel.—The Sunday school and church services on the Circuit continue to be good, in spite of the bad weather and an epidemic of measles which have cut down attendance.

The Ladies' Auxiliary and the Sunday school of First church recently raised the sum of $25.00 to go to the Children's Home. This is but one example of the splendid offerings given from time to time for the financial support of the church and pastor.

Mr. H. C. Koonts, the efficient superintendent of the Sunday school at First church, is planning a supper for those whose attendance record for last year was perfect. Those who made this enviable record may look forward to a most pleasant time.

The work at Mount Carmel is also progressing. The good people of this church are making a determined effort to pay off their church building debt this year. They have already made a splendid beginning.

Recently we have been remembred with a number of valuable gifts, including wood, meats, and other useful articles. I wish to mention especially the gift of a crocheted counterpane donated by Mrs. B. F. Everidge. Although Mr. and Mrs. Everidge have moved to Kernersville they still remember their pastor. This, as well as all the various gifts, are highly appreciated.

Revival services will begin at First church on the first Sunday in April with Rev. L. E Mabry as the pulpit help. We are looking for a real revival, and request the prayers and co-operation of everyone in the meeting.

C. G. ISLEY, Pastor.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—Sunday school was conducted at the usual hour yesterday with good attendance. Our Sunday school is growing; all seem to take a great interest in it.

Bro. Henderson brought us a great and helpful message at 11 a. m. He used as his subject "The Second Coming." I feel that Bro. Henderson preached the best sermon yesterday that he has preached at Stallings. Of course I feel always his last sermon is the best. At the close of the service he made a proposition that all that wanted to be ready when the Lord comes again to come and him their hand. I think everyone in the church went up. The church was greatly revived.

The Christian Endcaevor meets each Sunday night at 6:30 p. m. The young people are taking great interest. We had an unusually large crowd out last evening.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. P. D. Drye the first Thursday of this month. Bro. Henderson had charge of the devotional. Several of the members made a talk on the Scripture lesson. Mrs. P. L. Garmon led in prayer. We attended to the regular business. The secretary called the roll and we paid our dues. There were 10 members present and the collection amountd to $3.25. We were very sorry that some of our members were absent on account of sickness. Mrs. Drye served delicious refreshments. We closed with prayer by Mrs. Henderson.

We are planning on having an Easter program. Mrs. Henderson, assisted by several other ladies, has charge of training the children.

We are glad to report that Mr. M. L. Stallings was able to be at church yesterday.

We ask the prayers of all Christian people that the work here may go forward.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS.

Ebenezer, Greenville Charge.—Due to the bad winter weather, snows and sleets, we have failed to hold our last two appointments. But our faithful pastor, Mr. Joyner, is doing all he can to fill his appointments. He got over half way last Sunday and due to bad roads had to turn back. He is kept busy visiting the sick when the weather permits.

At this report five of our active members are in Roanoke Rapids Hospital Mrs. J. B. Clements, our beloved superintendent's wife, is much improved.

Mr. Warner Pearson has lost one finger and it is feared his hand will have to be amputated.

Mr. Vassie Pearson is doing fine following an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Minnie Rook is not doing so well.

Miss Blanche Pearson was operated on for appendicitis.

We pray for them a speedy recovery and hope we have a good day and a good crowd for our next service.

MRS. W. A. WOODRUFF.

Union Chapel, Granville Circuit.—The weather has been so very bad that our attendance has fallen off greatly. It was so that we could not have services at all on last fourth Sunday, but as the weather clears up and Spring approaches we feel sure our people will be faithful to coming.

On the second Sunday afternoon the program was in charge of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary, rendering a short Thank-offering program, followed up by a missionary talke by Rev. Mr. Spencer. The collection taken amounted to $5.67.

Last Friday night the Auxiliary met in its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. Lou Davis. We had a good program, a splendid crowd, and an excellent collection was taken, after which we enjoyed a social hour. The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Our Sunday school, though small during the bad weather, has been doing some excellent work recently. We have on a contest, one class challenging the other classes toward raising money for the Children's Home. Real interest has been created and w hope to have a goodly amount collected at the end of six weeks.

The members are getting anxious to get a piano for the church, and four memberss have already promised $65.00. We feel sure that the other members should make out enough to get it without trouble. Music adds greatly to the general interest of the church and Sunday school, and most especially with young people, who are our men and women of tomorrow.

We have missed our superintendent, Mr. Thomas Woodlief, for the past several Sundays. He has had serious sickness in his home and has been unable to be with us; however, our assistant superintendent, Mr. Melville Edwards, has taken his place very efficiently. He is a wide-awake leader.

Our prayers are that we may continue to go forward raipdly.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

Calvary, Greensboro.—The Baraca class held its regular monthly business meeting in the hut last Thursday evening. Hester Causey, second vice-president, acted as toastmaster. During the supper hour the vice-president gave an opportunity for a roun table discussion on problems confronting the class. J. C. Coe, teacher of the class and general superintendent of the Sunday school, made a brief talk concerning the interests of the class. Dr. Pritchard made the feature address of the evening, his subject being "Opportunities for the Baraca Class." A delightful supper was prepared by W. L. Caudle and his committeemen, Merritt Sullivan and Howard Neece. Floyd Reynolds, president, announced that T. B. Waugh, vice-president, would have charge of the program for the next meeting. L. A. Pugh was appointed supper chairman for the next meeting.

The Anna Starr Bible class met in regular monthly session with Mrs. D. E. Curtis last Wednesday afternoon. Officers for the new year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. D. E. Curtis; vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Williamson; secretary, Mrs. J. G. Sullivan; assistant secretary, Mrs. C. M. Friddle; treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Williams; teacher, Miss Velna McCulloch, and assistant teacher, Mrs. David Glass. After the business session a social hour, consisting of games and contests directed by Mrs. J. F. Williams, was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. A very special feature during the social hour was a reading, "A Matrimonial Controversy," by Mrs. M. H. Greer. Winners in the contests were Mrs. C. M. Friddle, Mrs. J. E. Herndon, and Miss Velna McCulloch.

The Easter cantata, "The Man of Nazareth," will be presented by the members of our choir in the church next Sunday evening at 5 o'clock. Mr. Arthur Fiddler, of High Point, is directing the cantata.

The last Auxiliary meeting of our Missionary year was held at the hut Monday afternoon. Mrs. D. E. Curtis, retiring president, presided. Mrs. J. W. Swain conducted the devotions. Mrs. J. F. Williams was re-elected secretary of the Precious Jewels." Circle No. 2 won the attendance prize. Delegates were elected to attend the Branch Meeting at Henderson April 4 and 5 were as follows: Mrs. J G. Sullivan, Mrs. Harry Julian, Mrs. J. L. Spencer and Mrs. Howard Neece; alternates, Mrs. J. E. Pritchard and Mrs. David Glass. Mrs. Curtis expressed her thanks for the co-opeeration given her by the members of the Auxiliary during the year.

Dr. Pritchard receive two new members into the church last Sunday morning. Mrs. Clem Campbell came from the Hayes-Barton Baptist church in Raleigh and Miss Hazel Hinshaw came from Liberty Methodist Protestant church. We welcome these people to our church.

Circles Nos. 1 and 2 will sponsor a dinner at the Morrison-Neese Furniture Store next Thursday. Anyone wishing to get dinner there may secure tickets from any member of the Circles.

Dr. and Mrs. Pritchard were hosts to the Workers' Council of the Sunday school Monday evening at the parsonage.

Dr. Pritchard has called a meeting of the children at the hut Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. His purpose of this meeting is to instruct the children as to the meaning of baptism and church membership.

The members of our church wish to extend their sympathy to Mrs. Norman Kirkman, whose mother, Mrs. M. M. Tisdale, died at Camden, N. C., last Wednesday.

J. W. Swain, member of our church, has been elected president of the Greensboro Printers' Association.

The Boy Scouts Troop No. 7 seem to be making considerable progress. Eight new members have been received into the Troop since January. All passed the tenderfoot requirements. Te entire Troop did their daily good turn last Saturday by gathering all the debris around the church and raking the church lawn, which was in a very bad condition because of the recent sleet storm.

Due to the resignation of Ross Dixon as assistant Scoutmaster, W. L. Caudle, a former Troop committeeman, was elected in his stead at the last Scout meeting. The Scouts are planning to spend the day at Camp Gray stone, Saturday, March 31.

Henderson.—Owing to the very bad weather recently our attendance at the Sunday school hour and church services have not been so good. However, the interest and spirit seems to be improving and with a spring-like today our attendance was much improved. Beginning on Sunday night of March 4th, our pastor, Rev. L. W. Gerringer, began a series of sermons, using a famous picture for each service to illustrate the outstanding events in the life of Christ during the Passion Week. First, "The Triumphant Entry Into Jerusalem;" second, "The Last Supper;" third, "In the Garden;" fourth, "Christ Before Pilate." Next Sunday "The Crucifixion," and Easter "The Resurrection." These services have been largely attended and prove most interesting and inspiring. Bringing to us in a very vivid manner the real suffering of our Lord. The Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. H. A. Jordan is furnishing the music for the evening services and the singing is greatly enjoyed. Much credit is due these young people and their leader for their faithful services.

The Philathea class met on Tuesday night, March 6th, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Baity, with Mrs. Silas Powell assistant hostess. The president, Mrs. Alvin Nuckles, presided over the meeting. During the business session plans were made for a rummage sale and the class-room committee instducted to clean the class-room before Easter. A special committee reported a box of gifts sent to the Children's Home last month. Plans to send some cookies for the Children's Home were also made. The program was in charge of Mrs. L. W. Gerringer. She gave a very interesting sketch of the life of St. Patrick. Mrs. J. M. Baity read a humorous poem also about St. Patrick. During the social hour delicious refreshments consisting of lime jello and wafers were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Anna Mae McIntosh received the prize for winning the contest.

Our Semi-Annual Thank-Offering was held Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour on March 4th. Mrs. J. M. Baity, secretary of these services, presented a brief outline of our missionary work in the home and foreign fields. Following this Miss Alice Faulkner gave a splendid reading entitled "Her Mite Box." Rev. L. W. Gerringer then gave a wonderful missionary sermon and our offering was $25.00.

On Monday afternoon the members of the Ladies' Circles held a joint meeting at the home of Mrs. Clyde Finch to finish up their year's work. Mrs. Gerringer conducted the devotionals and the business was devoted to checking up on the collections and pledges for the year. They are not up with their budget and time is so short it means quick work if they reach their goal. However, the Circle chairmen have been very faithful in their efforts, also the members have responded and co-operated in all the projects and hope to bring their budget nearer to full payment soon.

As second Sunday, March 11th, was such a disagreeable day the offering for our Children's Home was held over until this Sunday. Today our secretary reported a collection of ever $25.00 for the Home. We are indeed very glad to be able to send this in to Dr. Dixon and thus help make their burdens lighter.

Wednesday night, March 14th, the second quarterly conference convened at the church. Pastor Gerringer presided over the meeting. Reports were given from the various chairmen of their organizations. Mr. E. C. Kittrell's report was most interesting, as he has been able to collect a large part of our back indebtedness. We hope soon that with the co-operation and response of others to have this amount paid in full. Delegates to the Annual Conference were nominated as follows: Mr. Henry T. Jowell and Mr. E. O. Faulkner.

The last Auxiliary meeting of the missionary year will be held Monday night, March 19 at the church. A large attendance is hoped for and plans will be made for the entertaining of our N. C. Branch Meeting to be held here April 4th and 5th. All churches sending delegates please notify Miss Alice Faulkner, 425 Charles Street, Henderson, N. C., not later than March 29th. We are looking forward with much interest to this occasion. Let us pray and work for the best Branch Meeting yet.

Mount Pleasant, North Davidson.—Rev. C. L. Grant delivered two very interesting sermons last month. One, a very beautiful sermon, was on Prayer.

Young People's Day was observed February 18. A very interesting program was given by the young people, after which Bro. Grant gave a very interesting talk along the line of young people. I think everyone who heard it was inspired by his talk.

Last Sunday Mr. Grant took for his subject, "Insufficient Religion," his text being taken from Isaiah 28:20. Religion must be based upon Christ Jesus to be a sufficient religion. A form of religion without Jesus is like the bed that was too short for the man and the covering too narrow to wrap himself in. The Rock, Jesus Christ, is the only sure foundation. Some other beside the Rock may seem to be a sure foundation till the test comes, then it falls. Be sure everyone builds upon a foundation that will do to die upon.

Our superintendent, Mr. L. H. Hilton, has not been with us in a few Sundays on account of sickness, but we hope for him a speedy recovery.

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—Our pastor filled his regular appointment second Sunday with two interesting and helpful sermons. At the morning hour the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. Rev. Short announced that Dr. Andrews will be with us next second Sunday morning on effort was made to double our regular offering to the Children's Home. An offering of over $5.00 was taken.

Mrs. J. K. Poole has been real sick, but we are glad to note she is back in services with us.

Mrs. Lela Pearson is very sick at this writing, also some of the little folks have whooping cough. We hope they'll soon be back with us.

Sunday night the Juniors had charge of C. E. Their subject was willing workers—and what a little band of willing workers they are!

The Ladies' Aid met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Harrison.

Fourth Sunday morning the Willings Workers' class will have charge of the opening of Sunday school. An interesting program has been prepared.

Albemarle.—We have been having real good attendance at our Sunday school and church services for the past several weeks. All the churches in our town are putting on a special drive to increase the attendance at the various churches during March and April. Our church has shown a decided improvement for which we are very thankful. Our pastor has been preaching along evangelistic lines all during the month and his sermons have been splendid ones. During the week before Easter Sunday we have services each night and are hoping we will derive much benefit from them and are all praying to that end.

The Lucy Hatley Circle held a quarter social on last Friday night at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hatley. Mrs. Ira Smart and Mrs. J. E. Gantt were joint hostesses with Mrs. Hatley. The evening was spent in playing contests and games. Much interest was shown in an auction sale of fancy-work made by members of the Circle. The proceeds amounted to about $9.00. Delightful refreshments were served carrying out the color scheme of green and white.

The Cam Snotherly Circle has divided itself into two teams and an apron was made for each team. Each member keeps the apron one week and tries to raise all the money possible. Each donation is sewed on the apron under a patch. After the aprons have been in the hands of each member the losing team will entertain the winning team or, rather, the team which has raised the largest amount.

The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the church on last Tuesday afternoon. Twenty-three ladies were present. A splendid program was given by the Lucy Hatley Circle. After the business hour and program the Cam Snotherly Circle served refreshments.

Mrs. D. F. Harkey, who has been ill for some time, is slowly improving.

Little Johnnie Lou and Faye Anderson are able to be back at church after having had whooping-cough.

Little Miss Elmina Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reece Smith, is able to be out again after having been confined to her home for some months following an operation.

Mrs. S. P. Day, who has been ill for some months, is slowly improving.

English Street, High Point.—The past Sunday was a good day at English Street. There was a good attendance at the Sunday school and at both preaching services. Our pastor brought us two good sermons. His subject Sunday morning was "The Good Shepherd." As he himself had at one time been a shepherd of sheep, he was able to give some very interesting comparisons. At the evening service he spoke on "The Two Ways—the Broad and Narrow." We had a wonderful reconsecration service and one little boy accepted Christ as his Savior.

Our little folks are practicing for the Easter service. We are planning to have an interesting program.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is still growing and doing good work. They are trying to do something that will benefit their fellowmen who are less fortunate than they by gifts and messages of cheer.

We feel that our singing should be greatly improved, as we have begun our choir practice again and have a regular pianist now who is helping very much. Too, we have bought tidies for the choir and are planning to buy some new song-books in the near future.

We are glad to report that many of our members who have been sick are able to be back with us again. We are sorry to report, however, that one of our little folks, Miss Frances Troxler, is ill at her home. For her and all other sick ones, we wish a speedy recovery.

Winston-Salem, First Church.—Just a few items to supplement what our reporter had to say in last week's issue:

The second quarterly conference was held last Wednesday night, with a good attendance, and, considering everything, good reports. Brothers W. N. Pegram and R. L. Hopper were nominated for delegate to the Annual Conference. Among the suggestions made were, the purchase of a parsonage, the organization of a Layman's Fellowship, a survey of the church community, the improvement of the church property. All of these we hope will come to pass shortly.

We have a goodly band of "Won by One" workers. They are taking hold of the WOFC—"Win One for Christ"—campaign, and we are hoping for good results from their activity.

The church has subscribed for a block of 10 Methodist Protestant Recorders. These are being sold by the Circles of the Auxiliary. They are having no difficulty in disposing of them, and probably could sell more if they had them. But we'll hold it at ten. The campaign for the Herald subscription quota is going a bit slow, but Winston hasn't failed so far to get into capitals. We'll blossom out presently.

We were all delighted at the ease with which we doubled our first Sunday offering for the Children's Home. The folks gave gladly and cheerfully. (Wish all the rest of the Sunday schools would do likewise.)

The Sunday school classes are underwriting the Superannuate apportionment for this church—$40—and have a good part of it already in hand.

We had a good day yesterday, with good attendance at all services. Next Sunday morning the new officers of the Auxiliary will be in stalled and the preacher will direct his sermon especialy to the women of the church. The Auxiliary is practically out on its budget, only one of the five circles having failed to reach the goal, and this one will probably pay out.

This town goes Moravian on Easter. So we are not planning for much for the day. We are hoping to receive a number into membership by profession of faith. And we are looking for a good offering from the Sunday school.

C. W. BATES, Pastor.

Flat Rock.—Prof. H. G. Easley, of Burlington, blind musician, was with us at Gideon's Grove and Flat Rock churches on the second Sunday. He sang a solo selection at each church. The attendance was about as usual. We had good attendance at Palestine church last Sunday morning, with a number of visitors from the M. E. church in the community. We were pleased to have these and all other visitors. Re-covering of the church will be done soon. Money has been raised to buy a metal roof.

The service at Bethel church in the afternoon at 3 o'clock was not as well attended as usual, due to the warm, beautiful afternoon, which afforded many people an opportunity to go away on visits and visitors coming to see some of the members. It is more difficult to hold afternoon service in our churches on account of visiting during the hour of service.

The second quarterly conference for Flat Rock charge will convene at Bethany church Saturday of this week, March 24, at 2 p. m. We are hoping for a good attendance from all of the churches.

Some of our people have remembered us with suitable gifts since our last report, for which we are very thankful. Mrs. Archie Lemmons, of Palestine church, evidently believes the saying that preachers like chicken, for she sent a nice, fat hen to the parsonage last week. On a recent visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Combs, of Bethel church, we were presented with sweet potatoes, onions, dried fruit and milk. Bro. C. B. Pegram, a regular attendant at Flat Rock church, learned that we were in need of a milk-bucket, so he made us a gift of this very serviceable article. We thank Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Humphries, of Bethany church, for two dozen eggs; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Johnson, of Flat Rock church, one dozen eggs, a good-sized piece of ham meat, and a glass of jelly.

The pastor and family, accompanied by

Prof. H. G. Easley, of Burlington, enjoyed a splendid meal in the home of Mrs. J. J. White and daughter, Miss Gladys White, Tuesday evening of last week. Mrs. White is a consecrated Christian woman and she and her daughter are members of Gideon's Grove church. Mrs. White is a teacher in the Sunday school.

The pastor and family enjoyed a very pleasant visit and delightful supper in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Eller, neighbors of the parsonage family, last Sunday night. Mrs. Eller is active in the work of the M. E. church in Stokesdale.

Flat Rock church will entertain the district conference or rally of the Sixth District, of which Rev. J. L. Trollinger is chairman, on Sunday, April 29. The program is being prepared by Bro. Trollinger and provides for morning and afternoon sessions, the morning session to begin at 10:30. The Sunday schools are to suspend their regular sessions and meet at Flat Rock church.

The pastor and family had as their guests last Sunday the following: Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Campbell and two sons, Raymond and J. D., and Miss Inez Way, all of Burlington. They attended the service at Palestine church.

Our appointments for next Sunday are: Flat Rock church at 11 a. m.; Bethany church, 3 p. m. C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Denton Church, Denton Charge.—As a result of a fine spring morning, the worshipers turned out 130 strong. Our offering at Sunday school jumped from about $3.00 last Sunday to $6.47 today. Next Sunday has been designated as Children's Home Sunday, and an offering will be taken for the Home. Mr. E. O. Lane's class of boys will have charge of the Sunday school services.

A very good congregation was present to hear the wonderful sermon preached by our pastor, Rev. J. T. Bowman, at 11 o'clock. We were glad to welcome a number of visitors for this service.

At 6 o'clock the C. E. Society held its regular meeting with a goodly number present. The subject for discussion was "What Christ Has Done for Me." Many of the members took part in the program.

At 7 o'clock the pastor preached a very interesting sermon on "The Seven Sayings of Jesus on the Cross."

We are glad to hear that some of our sick members are improving.

Thomasville, Community.—On Friday evening at 7 o'clock the Intermediate girls of Community church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. J. E. Clodfelter for the purpose of organizing a Teen-Age Girls' Circle of the Woman's Auxiliary. We hope that all our young girls will show an interest by being present at this time because we realize that great work is being done throughout the various other circles and there's no time like the present for our younger girls to get started in this worth while field.

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society, under the leadership of Mrs. H. F. Surratt, is still doing commendable work with an average attendance of 25. Very interesting programs leading up to the Easter service are being arranged and rendered by the different members of the society.

The Ministerial Association held its regular monthly meeting at the High School auditorium on Monday morning at 10:30. Dr. G. I. Humphreys, of High Point College, was speaker for the morning, his subject being based on the Lenten season. He dwelt on the Personality of Jesus and His Method.

On Wednesday evening at 7:30 the Workers' Council will hold its regular meeting at the church. The main purpose of this meeting, along with their other undertakings, is to make preparations for the Easter programs in the various departments of the church.

We realize that quite a bit has been said by our pastor concerning subscriptions to the Methodist Protestant Herald. The most desirable results have not as yet been obtained, but we feel sure that with a little more time they will be. According to the last account from the pastor we lack only three and a half subscriptions and we hope that through co-operation on the part of our members these will be taken care of by Easter. ODESSA MYERS, Reporter.

Shiloh.—Our work at Shiloh is still moving on very well. Sunday morning at Sunday school we observed our March campaign for the Children's Home. Our usual collection is around $4.00, and they asked us to double it. We did more, our collection Sunday being $12.75. Our people are very much interested in the Children's Home and we are sending not only money but prayers also.

Brother Ridge then brought us a very interesting message at the 11 o'clock service from Mark 2:5: "When Jesus saw their faith he said unto the sick of the palsy, son, thy sins be forgiven thee. He then gave us a very interesting sermon on "Faith." May we have more men with faith as the four men who let the man sick of palsy down to Christ.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock the missionary Auxiliary gave its Thank-offering program which was very good. The collection amounted to $6.00. The program was on "Our Thank-Offering Chest."

Our prayer is that more people will become interested in mission work.

The C. E. Society is planning an Easter program to be given Easter Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. We extend a welcome to all to attend any of our church services.

Mount Hermon Church, Mount Hermon Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. L. E. Mabry, has been with us for his regular appointments this month. The first Sunday afternoon was a very rainy time, and there being right much sickness in the community accounted for a small number present for the 3 o'clock service. The third Sunday with a beautiful day gave a very large crowd at the 11 o'clock service. The subject for this sermon was "Palm Sunday." Scripture, Luke 19:28-48, using as a text the 41st verse, "And when he was come near he beheld the city and was sorrowful." This city was Jerusalem, the home-land of Jesus, and this was the last journey of Jesus into his home-land. A very large crowd was gathering for the Passover. Many hoped Jesus would be there. Jesus was conscious that He came to die for all people, and that He was going to submit Himself willingly. Oh, how the multitude praised Jesus as He entered into Jerusalem, throwing palms in His pathway and crying "Blessed be the Son of David!" But so much of this came only from the lips. Because many of this crowd were soon to scorn Him. Yet of all this hurrahing Jesus Himself was sorrowful and in tears, knowing the wickedness of the city. Although this city appeared so beautiful, it was filled with corruption. It was the sin of this city that concerned Jesus. It is not what we possess but what we are at heart that Jesus is concerned about. Some are true to church, but millions are in sin. Even today Jesus weeps for the sinner. He wept because He loved, and He still loves. Many before us have been true to Christ. Won't we take up the cross? Will we let Him save us, or will we crucify Him anew? Let us hold Christ supreme; seek to live for Him.

Sunday school attendance has been somewhat down for the past few Sundays, but last Sunday we had a better record. The Burlington Male Quartet worshipped with us last Sunday. They sang for Sunday school, also for preaching service. We were very glad to have them and welcome them back any time.

The Young Men's Class and the Philathea class are planning to add more shrubbery around the church. We are hoping other classes will follow the lead.

The Easter service will be held Easter Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Everybody is invited.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has changed the time of the monthly meetings. We will now meet on Friday following the third Sunday. Our next meeting will be held in the church. Our Thank-Offering program was given Sunday, March 11, at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Frank Holt had charge of the devotion. Mrs. J. Clyde Auman, returned missionary from Japan, made a very splendid talk on "Japan." The collection amounted to $6.40.

MRS. L. P. HOLT, Reporter.

New Hope.—We are glad to say our church work is moving forward. The Sunday school is the largest in a long time and collections are good, but we are not pleased with our attendance, it could be so much larger.

We need to pray for conviction. We have failed to pray so much till we don't have very much conviction. We fail to have the heavenly sunlight to fall upon us, and our desire grows dim for the lack of love for Christ. We lose faith; we ought to hold fast to the profession we have in Christ. Prayer will kill sin or sin will kill prayer. Are we praying today? We are letting the time slip by when we ought to be spending most of it in prayer for our boys and girls who are facing this unfriendly world. I have four girls and two boys and I am praying that the Lord may save them. Once I heard a sermon preached about Noah building his ark and saving his family of eight, and that left the impression upon my mind that if we could only do as Noah did, just save the family of ours, there would be none lost.

We are thankful for the good people who started the Children's Home for the fatherless and motherless children. I want to say that we don't sacrifice enough for them and the cause of Christ.

Rev. M. C. Henderson was on time for Sunday school, and we had a wonderful lesson. Mr. Henderson preached a good sermon. The music was fine and it was good to be there. We were blessed.

Earl Cook, as we all call him, for he was born at New Hope and he has built himself up to where he is today. He needs praise for standing the hardships that come his way. He has taken the time and trouble to write a history of New Hope.

May the Lord bless us all, is my prayer.

FAYE AYCOTH, Reporter.

Charlotte Church, Richland Charge.—The Woman's Auxiliary held a Thank-offering service the third Sunday night in February. Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Hethcox, was the speaker. The special music furnished by the Yates Girls Quartet was much enjoyed by everyone.

The Auxiliary met with Mrs. D. T. McCain and Miss Sally McCain at their home March 17. A very enjoyable meeting was held. Six aprons were donated at this time. New officers wers elected: President, Mrs. Ray McCain; vice-president, Mrs. R. L. Hethcox; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. S. E. Henley.

Our room at the parsonage was painted last week. Curtains are now being made for the windows.

Last Sunday was the day set apart for a double offering for the Children's Home. The offering was more than doubled and the attendance at Sunday school was just twice as large as the Sunday before.

Miss Ruth Watson, who is attending school at W. C. U. N. C., Greensboro, spent the week-end with Miss Sally McCain.

Mrs. J. H. Redding, who has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Wright, in Burlington, came home last week.

We are glad to see Dexter Bulla back in Sunday school. He has had whooping-cough.

REPORTER.

Palestine, Flat Rock Circuit.—Pastor Way filled his appointment Sunday. The attendance was very good, and all seemed to enjoy Brother Way's message fine. The reporter was indeed glad to hear him, it being her first time to attend since Conference, and the first time to hear him except at a funeral. Palestine people are always devoted to their pastor and stand by him always. I am sure if our people all pray, love, co-operate with our pastor we will have a good year. A pastor is God's messenger, and without the cooperation of his people he can make little progress. May it be the sincere desire of our hearts that we will do the very best we can to make this year one of the best.

We were glad to have Mrs. Way and children with us and Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, and Miss Way, our pastor's sister and uncle and aunt from Burlington, worshipped with us. A number of people from neighboring churches were also with us.

The trustees of Palestine are raising money to put a new roof on the church.

Our stewards made up our part of the money to pay for putting the new roof on the parsonage which has been recently put on.

REPORTER.

New Salem, Randleman Charge.—We are very sorry to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. J. B. Trogdon, is critically ill at this time in the High Point Hospital. There was no service at our church Sunday owing to the illness of Mrs. Trogdon. If it is God's will we hope she will be restored to health and take her place at church where she is missed so much. We feel that the prayers of the people will be appreciated by Rev. and Mrs. Trogdon.

Our Sunday school is going along very well, and though we are few in number, the faithful few are usually there and interested in the work of the Sunday school. We are hoping for a larger attendance when spring opens up.

We still hold our prayer meetings every Sunday night.

Since our last report death has taken one of our neighbors, Mrs. H. F. Bisherer, who after a long illness passed away February 24.

She was laid to rest the folowing day at Level Cross M. P. church. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. B. Trogdon.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hayes, a daughter, March 17th, Beribeth Amy.

Our second quarterly conference has been postponed until after Easter.

MRS. R. F. WARD, Reporter.

Mount Hermon Charge.—Last Sunday, the third Sunday was a splendid day for us here on this charge. The people took advantage of the beautiful spring day and filled the churches of Mount Hermon and Friendship with earnest worshipers. At both services the audiences were above the average, although we have had splndid attendance all the time. That is one thing that is characteristic of the people here: they do go to their churches for worship.

Many of our people have been confined to their homes because of sickness. Quite an epidemic of measles, whooping-cough, chicken pox, etc., has been very prevalent in this immediate community. Also, many have suffered from pneumonia; with several it has proved fatal. We trust with the coming of better weather that the sick ones will speedily recover.

The prospects for one of the best Easter exercises at three of the church are the best since I have been here. We expect to make a crditable show on our W. S. budget on these occasions.

Our second quarterly conference will meet on Saturday of this week, March 24, at Belmont church. The hour is 2 p. m. Everybody invited; church officers urged to be present.

All of our Sunday schools will double their offerings to the Children's Home for the month of March. L. E. MABRY.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH OF TOMORROW

If the Methodist Protestant Church of tomorrow is to perform the task that will be awaiting her, then her fuure leaders must know each other better. The High Point Leadership Training School will furnish a splendid opportunity for our future leadership to become better acquainted. Organize a L. T. S. Club in your church or on your charge, and interest your people in this Great School. Do not say I have not the time to go! In my opinion we must take off more time for the Lord and His cause, if our civilization is to escape going on the rocks.

Who will be first to tell me they have organized?

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Organizer.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

McLaurin

Firsts are often suggestive; first in school, or to marry, or to gain distinction. First to be lost in death is a significant First for any father and mother. Joe Nash McLaurin is the first to go from the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McLaurin. The date of his departure is March 3rd, 1934, just three years, ten months after his birth.

Joe was a most winsome and likeable child; smart, obedient and ready for life. He lived unusually close to his father and mother, thus adding pain to the loss.

He had an attack of measles over a period of two weeks when pneumonia developed and in spite of all that loving hands could do, was translated to the House of Many Mansions.

The funeral was conducted at First Methodist Protestant Church, Concord, in the presence of a vast throng of sympathizing friends and relatives. The floral offerings were large and varied. The writer was assisted in the service by Rev. C. L. Morris, Dr. P. E. Lindley and Rev. J. M. Morgan.

I am sure for you who sorrow this may be yours to experience:

"One sweetly solemn thought, comes to me
o'er and o'er:
Nearer today my Father's house than I've ever been before."

G. H. HENDRY.

Charlie F. Fitzgerald departed this life February 6, 1934, at the age of 74 years. He had been a patient sufferer for the last two years and his death was not unexpected. It was my privilege to know Uncle Charlie for a number of years, and I flatter myself on claiming him as a warm friend. I admired him for his sterling character, for his loyalty and devotion to his church and for the great service he rendered to his denomination.

It was my privilege not only to know him but to work with him. He had been a teacher or held some office in the church ever since he was very young. He was one of the charter members of the church. He moved his membership from the M. E. denomination to the M. P. in 1927. Since that time "Uncle Charlie" has given liberally of his time and substance to the support and maintenance of the Greer's Chapel church. He honored God in his life and maintained a Christian attitude toward his fellowmen. Even after his health began to decline he was still interested in coming to church and teaching his Sunday school class.

He was very quiet, never butting into other peoples' affairs, always honest, kind and true. He was very industrious in earlier days. He worked hard all through the week and on Sunday spent the day worshiping God. His works live on and will live on in the community and church. He loved the church and the progress of it because that stands for a spiritual kingdom in which he had citizenship.

Suggestions to the Leaders:

Easter Sunday gives a wonderful opportunity to have one of the best services of the entire year. The pastor or some other leader in the church may be called into the service to make the leader's talk or lead in the group discussion. This meeting may be held early in the morning, or it may be held at the regular Christian Endeavor meeting period, provided that period comes on or before Easter. Every member should make preparation for the discussion period. Special efforts should be put forth to make the room attractive.

Special Topics for Discussion:

1. How does faith in the resurrection improve our ideals?
2. How does faith in the resurrection change our attitude toward life?
3. How does faith in the resurrection change our attitude toward death?
4. Discuss the importance of the resurrection in the Christian religion.
5. Does the church stress the resurrection enough today?
6. How can the church make Easter Sunday mean more to you?

T. J. WHITEHEAD.

P. S.—The Christian Endeavor Topics will be written up in the Herald weekly from now on. Different people will be asked to plan the programs from now until May 15. After that time, Mr. Luther R. Medlin will write up the topics weekly. T. J. W.

JUST LIKE DAYS OF OLD

The following story, from the Chicago Daily Times, January 19, 1934, reads like an all too familiar newspaper item of 20 years ago. The benefits of repeal are becoming more apparent dail. The story, captained "Squanders Cash on Rum, Leaves Wife to Die Alone," follows:

"A story of unspeakable poverty was told today in domestic relations court by Mrs. Bertha Quotrocki, truant officer for the Carpenter school, when John Neuman, 1141 W. Chicago avenue, was arraigned on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors. Mrs. Quotrocki said:

"'I went to his home with Juvenile Officer Frank Kacjewski to see why his children were not in school. We found Mrs. Neuman lying nude in one of the two beds in the house, covered only with ragged pieces of carpet sewed togethr. She was ill with pneumonia and half starved. We rushed her to the county hospital, where she died a few hours later.

No Food In the House

"'They used only two of the six rooms. In the other one we found six children, Walter, 11; John, 10, and William, 9, all sons of Neuman, and Catherine McDade, 18, and her sister, Agnes, 12, orphaned daughters of Mrs. Neuman's sister Mollie.

"'The house was not heated. There was not a crust of bread there. There were a few pieces of furniture. The children slept on the floor. All were scantily clad, unwashed and weak from hunger. We sent them to the juvenile home.

Used Cash for Rum

"'Until two weeks ago the family received two baskets of food a week from a relief agency. Then Neuman got a job at $12 a week and the relief was stopped. He spent the money for liquor. We found he had abused the children and had threatened to beat them if they went near Mrs. Neuman. She was left to die unattended.'"

Neuman stood unabashed during the recital. He told police officers he was glad to be in jail where he had a warm place to sleep and regular meals.—The American Issue.

port that every church in the Conference has responded through some one of its organizations. Some churches are responding through two organizations, and some through even three.

The campaign for the Home was launched early in March, but too late for some churches to get ready for it the first Sunday in March. So we know of a few who plan to take the special offering on the first Sunday in April, the very first day of April. Plan for it in March, but by all means take the offering, after proper announcements, the very first opportunity.

Of the $6,000.00 asked for during March we have received to date, March 19th, from all sources, cash to the amount of 997.69. By faith we are holding on to God, believing that He will stir up His people to respond happily and liberally to this call within the remaining days of March and the first day of April.

God bless and lead in all Kingdom service.

Well, well, just look at the charges in the places of honor this week. Some time ago I told you I was going to take the three that were the farthest along in the campaign and put them at the head of he column. This week the number has increased to five, all because somebody at Fountain Place and somebody at Community Church has been working and sending in more cash. But when you think about who the pastors of these two churches are it is not surprising, for both of them are among our tried and true. That big man at Community Church, Rev. H. F. Surratt, is a hard man to stop, and that little man (physically), Bethea, at Fountain Place never knows defeat. And so here they come marching right up to the 50 points, and one says to the other, "Stand back," and the other one replies, "You stand back; this space belongs to me!" So here they are, brethren. Both of them are standing on the same stump, and I am wondering which will jump on up first. And Graham—what a narrow margin you have! The only thing that keeps you in third place is that small fraction you have above 50. But you had better look out or you will get run over.

And there is that brother, Ray Leatherman, who I believe is the Herald agent on Shiloh Charge, and Brother H. F. Fogleman, who is doing such valiant work on Fallston Charge, and Brother Mabry, who is gradually bringing up Mount Hermon charge, and a good many others who are determined to reach the top.

Now, folks, let me give you a good slogan: "MORE NEXT WEEK!" If everybody will see to it that something is sent in from each charge each week, even though it should be only one dollar, we will all keep climbing.

So here we go! J. E. PRITCHARD.

Thrice Exalted

I

Uplifted on a rugged tree
That scoffing men might look and see,
His blood streamed forth till He grew faint:
He uttered not a single plaint!

II

From out the grave He rose again
To loving talk with living men:
He proved himself in higher sphere
By what He did while living here!

III

God gave Him place at His right hand
To have a rule in every land;
At length He rose to highest height
In region where there is no night!

A Quiet But Rapid Religious Movement

It began less than three months ago and now numbers tens of thousands in its following. The movement originated in a remark made by Dr. Michael Hoke, a distinguished surgeon of Georgia Warm Springs Foundation. The remark was that he was convinced that the only hope for recovery in America is through the rebuilding of character in the lives and homes of the nation. The remark was made to a newspaper man of prominence with the request that he use his position and influence to impress the thought. The journalist did his mite and soon there were forty professional men in the group, then thousands of all classes, now tens of thousands, and others still asking for pledge cards.

The movement has no formal organization. It has no president or chairman or bishop. There are no fees or dues. The only expense of membership aside from what the member may of his own accord spend for propagation is the few cents paid for pledge card.

If you wish to join the movement, sign the pledge and send it to Christian Crusade League of Prayer, 716 National Press Building, Washington, D. C.

The Covenant Pledge follows:

"Believing Jesus Christ to be the only Lord and Saviour and Supreme Revealer of God, Father of us all, I promise henceforth during this year to live a simple, sincere, active Christian life, realizing with God's help fellowship with Christ, and to encourage others to similar fellowship.

"I will join with others in a league to pray daily and I will endeavor each day to read and meditate upon the Holy Scriptures, at least once a week to make a personal effort to encourage or draw someone nearer to Christ."

LOYALTY TO GOD

By Grenville Kleiser

It is an inspiring thought to know that God is always present and therefore always available. Dwell intently upon this sublime fact until it becomes clear and real to your consciousness, and you will experience a sense of augmented confidence and power. Affirm to yourself, over and over again, that God is real, present, immediately and always accessible to you, and that you can depend upon Him with confident assurance at any moment of the day. It is only reasonable that the power which made you can sustain you. It does sustain you. Listen much to God and He will instruct you and show you the way in which to go. In the degree of your meekness and obedience He will guide you toward light, truth, and perfection.

However long you may experiment independently, you will at length realize that you must harmonize your own will with the will of God. There is no other way to eternal truth and happiness. It is exceedingly difficult for some men to conform strictly to God's laws, though they know that His ways are necessarily best. Human perversity insists upon trying it own ways first, and then when it ignobly fails, turns to God and His divinely ordained laws as the only means to salvation and contentment. To conform to God's laws is an indication of strength and intelligence. True power and freedom come not through defiance of divine laws, but by willing obedience to them. Be loyal at heart to the will of God and you can never go astray.

The realization that Divine Mind is always present and is ready to co-operate with you, will stimulate in you new faith, power, and purpose. As you avail yourself of this great spiritual power, and use it in your daily activities, there will open to you unlimited possibilities of endeavor and attainment. Today is the day for you to be renewed by the transforming of your mind, to make a new appraisement of your character and life . The more you launch your thought upon a high spiritual plane, the more swiftly will you progress toward the ideal life. What you habitually think, you gradually become. Seek constantly to make more of yourself and your opportunities. Think, meditate, reflect, and then act with resolution.

DRAMA of OUR CHURCH BOARDS and INSTITUTIONS

The Annual Conference Budget

Prepared by President Andrews

I am the Annual Conference Budget. I was the firstborn in the Annual Conference family. It was my task to find the funds for all the enterprises of my Church except the pastor's salary. But there became so many of them that I could not attend to them all. I was so impersonal that no one loved me; I was so indefinite in my appeals because I had so many interests to present, that the people did not give much consideration to what I said. In fact, I was neither Miss nor Mister, Brother nor Sister, to them. They called me IT when they spoke of me and regarded me with about the same esteem they would have shown for a red-headed stepchild.

Then there came into our Conference family group, the Superannuated Society, Church Extension, the Methodist Protestant Herald, the Children's Home, and last to arrive was High Point College. These will all speak to you shortly, but before they present their claims let me tell you of the task now committed to my hands.

I am to raise funds to keep our Annual Conference clicking. Out of what I raise the President of the Conference receives his salary; the interest on the debt of the District Parsonage is paid; two hundred dollars for the Methodist Protestant Herald; salary for part-time services of the Treasurer of the Annual Conference is paid, beside other smaller items of expense. So you see my task is no insignificant one. Were I to fail entirely, our Conference could not very well exist; and without our Conference, but little could be done for Kingdom service by the local church.

And yet, I am often regarded as an intruder when I visit a church to tell them of my needs. They appear to think that I have no right nor part in the bounty of my church. Really, I have seen some church members nod while I spoke, and once in a while I have seen high church officials read a hymnbook as I attempted to describe our deplorable plight.

They forget that they are a part of the Annual Conference family, and that as members of this family they owe it to themselves as well as to others to help carry out the program of the denomination. For every church much assist in carrying on the projects of our leaders and to accomplish the goals they set before us, else there is no need of having leaders nor that the denomination undertake any work except preaching in the several local churches.

Some of our people have a terrible affliction. I call it Localitis. Do you know what it is? It is a trouble in the brain. An obsession which prevents those who have it from seeing or realizing the needs and claims of others. It means that only a small section of their minds has been touched or stirred by any recital of the needs of other churches. They belong to that group whose slogan is, "Every fellow for himself, and the devil take the hindmost one"; and I am here to tell you that some of those fellows are going to get caught, for they are away behind in their services to others.

There is a saying in a very old Book that "no man liveth unto himself and no man dieth unto himself." That was true many thousands of years ago, and it is still true; so true that every church that grows does it because it is made up of members who are unselfish in their gifts and services.

The other night I had a most pleasing dream: I dreamed that my Church was moved by the Good Spirit so effectively that no member of it suffered alone; no member of it sorrowed alone, and the projects of our leaders were the projects of all our members. It was a thrilling dream. I felt that the Kingdom of God had already come. I am still much chastened that this dream is yet untrue, but I am inspired by the hope that it shall yet become true—so true, that every one of the two hundred and thirty-two churches in our Annual Conference shall be bound together with one bond, inspired by one vision, and actuated by one purpose. Then when our Conference shall adjourn with a program for the year, every church will eagerly attempt to carry it out.

Adieu until I come again.

Church Extension

Prepared by Dr. J. E. Pritchard, Chairman

I am the Board of Church Extension. Some people are familiar with my origin and my achievements, others are not. While there are many things that might be said in my behalf, the thing of which I am the proudest is that I help the weak. Here is the situation facing me. There are many communities where new churches are needed. The people in these communities may be just as good and just as loyal to their Lord and to the denomination as any that can be found anywhere, but many times they are too few in number to build a church without some help. When a situation like this arises they come to me for help, and if it is at all possible I help them. But I can help them only as you help me. In my own name I have no wealth. What the people give me I pass on to others. And, oh, how my heart does ache when I cannot help! If you could have seen what I have seen for the past few years your heart would have ached, too. There are many good opportunities right now for new Methodist Protestant churches, in communities that are not over-churched. In many cases people of our denomination who love their church have moved into towns and cities and want a church in which to worship, and they have come to me for help; but I could not help them because of a lack of funds.

Then, too, a few years ago there were several communities where they built good church buildings, and in some cases men of the church put up their own homes as a pledge that the loans on the new church would be repaid. Then the depression came along, incomes diminished, some of the best people lost their jobs and they could not continue to pay. I had been helping a number of these places, but because my income was cut off I could not continue to help them. Instead of making their burdens lighter I had to make them heavier because I had to withdraw my support, and it came very near breaking my heart. But I have hopes of better things, and I am still going to help. There are too many well-to-do Methodist Protestants in North Carolina to continue to embarrass me by not dividing with me. When the matter of raising the assessment for Church Extension is presented to the congregations, I believe there will be people in every church who will come to the rescue so I can help these struggling churches.

Now, I know it does not become any man to boast of his achievements, but I realy am proud of what I have done. Within the past twenty-five or thirty years I have helped to build some of our best churches. Of course they were not considered our best churches then. Many of them were just poor, struggling, weak churches, but I helped them on their feet and now everybody is proud of them. In some cases I helped to build the building, and in others I paid the interest on their loan while the church reduced the principal. In still other cases I helped pay the salary of the pastor so he could devote his entire time to the work; so in any cass I had something to do with the establishing of the church. And even before I came into existence under my present name, our town and city churches received help from some other churches. It would be safe to say that not a half dozen of our town and city churches were built without outside help from somewhere. Would you like to know where some of these churches are that I have helped? They are West End and Calvary churches in Greensboro, Fountain Place in Burlington, Graham, Siler City, Reidsville, Lebanon and Welch Memorial in High Point, First Church and West End in Thomasville, Denton, Albemarle, State Street in Lexington, Spencer, Charlotte, Asheville, Haw River, Glen Raven, Enfield, Whitakers, and perhaps several other places. Now since I have done so much, I think I am entitled to a good deal of credit. And, too, you know that those who have been helped are under obligations to help other people as soon as they can. This is the law of life. "Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on: 'twas not given for thee alone, pass it on." Since I have done so much for these churches I am expecting them to help others, and the way to do it is through me. I am the organized agent of the Conference, and usually those who help much help through me.

The Children's Home

Prepared by Superintendent Dixon

I am the Methodist Protestant Children's Home, High Point, N. C. My business is to rear and train dependent children. I consist of land, houses, barns, cattle, mules, chickens, and other livestock. But my most priceless component is 108 pair of hands to be trained to do things right, 108 pair of feet to be directed into the paths of righteousness, 108 pair of eyes to be opened only to the beautiful and the best in life, 108 pair of lips to be taught to say only the kind, pleasant, appreciative things, 108 pair of ears to be taught to take heed how they hear, 108 sets of brains to be developed for the Father's use, 108 hearts to be taught to love the true and the good, and 108 consciences to be awakened to know good from evil.

About 23 years ago I heard the voice of the Lord Jesus saying unto me, "Suffer the little, dependent children to come to thy bosom." In response to that call I came into being in a very small, dilapidated building in Denton. In about three years my friends moved me to High Point and gave me much more comfortable houses for my children.

Mine are normal, healthy children, with their good traits and their bad inclinations just like so many other children gathered anywhere else.

In my work I am sometimes happy and jubilant, and sometimes sad and depressed, just like any other parent. Sometimes all goes well, and at other times worries and perplexities come.

My heaviest burden comes in trying to keep my children supplied with the actual necessities of life, and to keep the wolf from the door.

My greatest responsibility comes in undertaking to hold them steady and to develop their moral and spiritual natures.

It is a great work, but it is a work in which a great many people must share. In undertaking to care for my 108 children properly, I have an abundance of work to do. The housekeeping must be done, including the cooking, cleaning, dish washing, making beds, washing and ironing the clothing, milking the cows and caring for the milk and butter, sewing and patching, feeding chickens, pigs, cows and mules. My work never ceases, and I must be on the job 24 hours in every day for seven days in every week.

I operate a farm, including poultry yards and a dairy, and thus produce all the chickens and eggs, milk and butter, pork and beef, and all the garden and farm produce possible before calling upon others to help. In this my children are noble helpers. But strive as I may, it is not possible to care for so many little ones without the aid of all my good Methodist Protestant friends. And, oh, how thankful I am that they have helped so wonderfully with canned fruit and vegetables, potatoes, pumpkins, molasses, clothing, and so many good warm quilts for our beds. It does my heart good to know that there are so many good people who love my children and are ready to respond with helping hand, with both money and produce, to care for them.

All my children except three attend school, and I have three college students helping with the work; so there are 108 lunches to be packed every school morning, and I must have the children all dressed and off to school by 8:20 every morning. On Sunday mornings they must all be dressed in clothing which will not shame them, and gotten off to Sunday school and church at 9:30. It is a pleasant work, to be sure, but my hands, head and heart are filled with the task.

One of the things which cheers my heart is the good reports which come back to the old home from so many of my children who have already gone out into the world. Some are married and starting homes of their own, some are keeping house for others, some are in college, some are in training, some are nursing, some are teaching, and quite a few are in business; and from nearly all of them come good reports of character and conduct, and that they are making good citizens.

This cheers my heart and nerves me for the task of undertaking to carry on in the good work of caring for His little ones who are fatherless and motherless.

The Superannuated Fund Society

Prepared by Dr. T. M. Johnson, Chairman

I, the Superannuated Fund Society, am the foster mother of twenty-four—twelve sons and twelve daughters. These twenty-four are looking to me, their foster mother, to supply them with bread.

My sons have advanced in years until they have largely passed the period of their earning power. There is scarcely any place for them in the commercial world. If they apply for a position in business they are told they are not needed, that there are more men than there are jobs, that younger men are more efficient. Such of them as have sufficient physical strength would be glad to serve in a pastorate, the field for which they have especially trained, and in which they have done efficient work. But here, as in the business world, they are told that there are more men than there are pastorates, and that the people want younger men as pastors.

So these twelve foster sons of mine have largely become dependents for the necessities of life.

The twelve foster daughters of mine are all widows, with little earning power, some of them none. They were wives, now widows, of ministrs of the Gospel. They stood loyally by their husbands, and did the wife's part as long as their husbands could be in the active service of the Master. These, too, like the superanuated ministers, have become largely dependents. In many instances, the voluntary help from near relatives and loved ones is all that has kept these worthies from actual want for the necessities of life.

I do not ask alms or charity for these children of mine. I do not ask luxuries for them. But I do most earnestly appeal to the members of the church which they love and in which they served, to show adequate appreciation of such service by such contribution of means or money as to procure for them the necessities and some of the comforts of life.

The amounts we have raised in recent years for this cause have been so pitifully small as to cause all who care to blush with shame. We have attempted to explain this by the fact that the interest of superannuates has been in a budget with other causes and has suffered thereby. That explanation can not be offered any more, as the superannuate interest is now a fund to itself, is not in any way connected with any other interest or fund, and hence stands on its own merit. This fact now affords each and every contributor opportunity to show by the amount of his contribution his full interest in the superannuates and their widows.

Another explanation offered as to the smallness of the amount raised for these worthy servants is the scarcity of money, and that contributions for all purposes have fallen off. There is truth in this statement. But as long as one has income sufficient for necessities and some comforts, and even luxuries at times, should he not by economy and maybe self-denial, share a portion of his income with this needy cause? Let each one answer this question in the spirit of gratitude to God for the blessings of life and in the spirit of brotherly love to his fellowman.

High Point College

Prepared by President Humphries

I bring you greetings.

I am an institution. My white tower, tall and stately, lifts your eyes heavenward. And my tower is a symbol: a symbol of the hopes, ambitions, and larger opportunities for youth, all youth, but especially the youth of the Methodist Protestant Church.

I represent several kinds of investment. On the material side I stand for an investment of more than one half million dollars: money that has been converted into land, buildings and equipment—money given for the service of youth. But I also stand for an investment that is not material, for I am a token of High Faith, Earnest Effort and Splendid Venture on the part of the Church.

I bear witness. First to a splendid record in my ten years of existence; a record comparable to that of any institution in my class. Since my doors opened in September, 1924, nearly one thousand young people have entered for training; and when this June has come, three hundred and twenty-five will have completed their courses and have received diplomas, in the years from 1928 to 1934. My product have taken their places in the field of service: forty-seven per cent of our students are now teaching in the schools of North Carolina; twenty per cent of the now active pastors of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church have had training within my walls; a number of our other boys and girls are now serving in the pastorates of other denominations; still other graduates are pursuing postgraduate work in various universities. I am gratified that mine is a record of training youth for service in and for the Church and for the State; a record of which the whole church can justly be proud.

I am a prophecy. A foretelling of leadership in the pulpit and the pew; a foretelling of achievements in the field of education in the name of the Church. I am prophetic of the greatest opportunity that the Church in this State has to "lengthen its cords and strengthen its stakes"; I am crying, "Heed me, heed me!"

And I voice a great need, if I am to live and serve. A need for real interest and devotion to me on the part of the Church. A need for contributions that will enable me to do my part in helping young people to get the training I can give. A need for wholehearted patronage by the homes of our people. A need for your prayers that I may serve in the best possible way.

I am your child. You brought me into being. You are under obligation, a moral responsibility that cannot be evaded, to keep me alive, not in a poor sort of fashion, but

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Charges Which Pay Annual Conference Expenses in April

Forsyth, Fallston, Albemarle, Reidsville, Asheville, Flat Rock, and Mt. Hermon. The assessments are found in the Conference Journal, and will be presented by the pastors. We urge that these be paid as promptly as possible; that the amounts be sent to Treasurer J. H. Allen, Reidsville, just as soon as collected; that these charges do not try to raise the High Point College assessment in April, but do it in May, as both months are set apart for this claim.

Assessment for High Point College in April and May

This is the largest amount the churches are asked to raise in the Annual Conference budgets and we are giving two months, April and May, to do this in. The amounts for each charge should already be in the hands of the church officials; in fact, some charges have paid their assessments already. We hope there will be no delay in raising this; the amount is just half as much as last year and we are hoping to raise every cent of the amount. The money is badly needed to pay teachers' salaries and we urge every pastor to promptly present the claim and raise it as speedily as possible.

Your Church a Field or Force, Which?

A field is a plat of ground that must be cultivated to produce a worth-while harvest. Without suitable cultivation only weeds and other useless vegetation grow upon it.

A force is a body in which there is power for action. We speak of a force of working men—a group of workers who do things.

Some churches ever remain in the category of the field. They have to be cultivated to get worthw-while results. The pastor is a husbandman, a sort of agriculturist in the employment of the church.

Which is your church, a field or a force? That which must patiently be cultivated year after year or a vital force for righteousness which is busily engaged in the work of the Lord?

Not infrequently I get into a church where I think that an ecclesiastical funeral must be conducted very soon. All are dead or dying. The superintendent of the Sunday school and other officials are dead; the pastor is sick. There is no need of talking about doing something there—they have no desire for doing anything. They have no plan to work—no desire to even see others work. The only monument they expect for their church is a tombstone. Personally, the only use they have for a church is a burying ground; and the major use for religion is a church funeral. Beyond these things their interests do not venture, nor do their hopes extend. Yes, such is a field, a poor stubble field. Or to change the metaphor, if it is a force, all are sick; one not willing to wait upon another. Such a church! The Lord help us! It is a reflection on Christianity to call such a group a church! They are not entitled to the title because they have so few of the elements of Christianity.

As a field, when the pastor is willing and efficient, quite a bit is done. But without an ecclesiastical agriculturalist who both plans and works, nothing worth while will be done.

But as a force the church does not wait upon the pastor. Of course they want him to direct them, but they are ready to do things. You can tell the difference between the field and the force sort of church whenever you contact it. Even the buildings reveal the difference, the community knows the difference, and the Annual Conference Journal tells the true story of such churches.

The Gifts for the Children's Home

We have been greatly pleased to see how willingly some Sunday schools have co-operated in the plan to double their offerings to the Home, but the special offerings have indeed been small. We still hope that more of our people will make a special offering towards the liquidation of this indebtedness.

Pinnacle Charge, Rev. A. L. Hunter, Pastor

Our engagement here called for a visit to Pinnacle, Shoals, and Mount Zion churches. But the weather was not propitious. The attendance at Pinnacle and Shoals was quite small and the pastor thought it wise to call in the night service at Mt. Zion, in which I concurred.

We are pleased to note that all the churches on this charge have paid their assessment for Church Extension, which was not done last year at all, and the pastor hopes that all the other claims of the Annual Conference will be met also.

Brother Hunter is rounding out a quarter of a century on this work. Only one other pastor in the entire church, that we remember, has served a church longer—no one in this Conference. And the service he has rendered, the co-operation he has received, testify to the wisdom of a long pastorate whenever pastor and people are congenial and understand each other. Still we do not think that all pastors want long pastorates, nor that all churches care for them, but much more can be done by pastor and people who thoroughly understand each other and who co-operate with each other than can possibly be done by the rapid transit method of many which must change at the end of each year and would change in six months if it could be done. We hope to visit this charge again in the summer and hold a group meeting of the workers or officials of the charge, thus to make contact with more of the officials on the work.

DRAMA OF OUR BOARDS AND INSTITUTIONS

that I may be healthy and strong and active to do my best. I am the heart of your Conference's forward look, onward step for service by trained minds, loyal hearts and willing hands. I am High Point College.

The Methodist Protestant Herald

Prepared by Dr. Bates of the Herald Committee

I am the METHODIST PROTESTANT HERALD. I am the child of one who saw a vision and dreamed a dream. The man who brought me into being was a preacher in another Conference and a teacher in Adrian College, Michigan. But he was a native of North Carolina, and loyal to his own Conference. He believed that the Methodist Protestants in North Carolina could and ought to have a college of their own. But he knew if that were ever brought about the Conference would need to be educated to see the need of it. How better could it be done than through a church paper? So he gave up his professorship and his pastorate and returned to North Carolina, and I was born.

I have not grown as I ought, and I have not done all that I might. I am only as big as the people who take and read me. If there were more of them there would be more of me, and I could do so much more to help the Conference carry on its work.

But I have done something. It was through my help that the Children's Home came into existence. The people throughout the Conference never would have caught the vision of opportunity, nor responded to it, had I not been. And I have had something to do with the fact that while many of the conferences around us have declined, the North Carolina Conference has been advancing from year to year. I have implanted a denominational consciousness and a church loyalty in the hearts of many members of the Church, without which we could not have carried on.

But most of all, I have helped to bring to pass that for which I started forty years ago. But I had to live thirty years before he who dreamed the dream saw the dream come true. Through all those years there was hardly an issue of me that did not contain some reference to the proposed college. Through those years property was bought, a publishing house built, a Board of Education organized, all looking toward the day when the dream might materialize. I have lived to see the dream come true—the College is a reality.

But my mission is not yet ended. I must continue to increase interest in the College and the Children's Home, and in the program of the Conference and of the denomination. I appeal to you to help me do my work better. Introduce me to more of our people, let me come into more of their homes. Instead of one out of thirty-five Methodist Protestants in North Carolina taking and reading me at least one in ten should do so. If I could inform more folks, I could make them more interested in the work the Church is trying to do. Inspiration without information is impossible.

Enough for this time, but you shall hear from me again.

DEPENDS ON WHERE THE DROP FALLS

A few weeks ago I received a letter from a Methodist Protestant family in my home town in Georgia, whose pastor I used to be. They asked my advice about sending their daughter to High Point College next year. I replied that I had rather my daughter would get her education at High Point College than any institution that I knew of, for two reasons: first, it is a Christian college; second, it is Methodist Protestant. I spoke in the highest terms of the faculty, and boasted that I knew the most of them personally.

But now I am like the man who went to the home of a friend. After being welcomed and seated, he found that he could see through into the kitchen where the wife of the home was cooking dinner. She was making up dough for the bread. She had a very bad cold, and a drop was hanging from the end of her nose. The man was asked if he would stay for dinner. He said, "Depends on where the drop falls."

More than once I have been asked to get the names of those who were graduating from Albemarle high school. I was glad to do it, but now I am waiting to see where the drop falls.

If High Point College permits dancing on the campus, or sponsors a dance anywhere else, well, I just can't stay for dinner, that's all.

Statistics tell us that 90 per cent of the girls who go to the red light district for a life of open shame go from the ball room. Why should High Point College, a Christian college, permit or sponsor a thing that festers the soul and runs to moral corruption?

Let's keep it clean and God will honor our work.

OUR STORY PAGE

JOSE, THE FAITHFUL

A Rainbow Missionary Story

"O God," prayed Jose, "it would be better for You to take me to heaven than that I should fall into sin."

Jose was an Indian boy who lived in Peru. Not many moons had passed since he had heard about Jesus the Savior of the world. But Jose had become a faithful follower of the Lord Jesus, and loved Him devotedly. He would rather die than grieve the Lord by doing something that was wrong. As the days passed, he felt that he might not live long.

One day, when Jose and his sister were standing at the grave of a soldier, Jose wept and said, "I, too, must die away from home some day. Ann Prista died a young man. How happy he is! I also should like to die!"

Jose had been attending the mission school in Huanuco. The school year was drawing to a close. The missionary, worn with the year's work, was planning the closing days. In her heart there was one great longing—"Oh, that many of these children might truly come to the Lord." It had seemed to be an unfruitful year in this respect.

A week before school closed, Jose and Luis, an older boy, asked the missionary if they might go to the Indians who had never heard of Jesus and teach them the Gospel. The missionary was very glad to hear this, and plans were made for the boys to go on a preaching trip right after school closed.

Jose was an earnest Christian boy. Although he lived in a wicked city, and at an age when most of his boy friends were led astray, his own life had been kept pure. He was a good boy and could always be depended on. But he was greatly persecuted at home and was glad when he could be in school. He spent much time at the school and mission station where he met with sympathy and understanding. He was the life of the school spiritually and socially. Everybody loved Jose because he was always willing and ready to help. When a costume was needed for the Christmas exercises, it was Jose who made it. When some one was sad and discouraged, it was Jose who showed himself friendly. In Sunday school he was always present, and in prayer meeting he was always earnest in prayer. It was no wonder that every one loved Jose.

After school closed, Jose and Luis, his boy friend, started out on their preaching trip. Ten wonderful days passed. How happy they were as they gathered a group of Indians around them and told them the story of Jesus. Jose's heart was so light and happy that he did not mind the rough, toilsome journey over the mountains.

One day while they were walking along on a narrow mountain path, Jose's foot slipped and struck a stone ten feet below. This turned him head first, and he fell over thirty feet farther down the mountain. His head was crushed, and he died instantly.

Luis, his companion, rushed as fast as he could go down the lippery side of the mountain; but when at last he reached his friend, he was dead. He had gone to be with the Savior he loved so well. He had laid down his life for the Gospel.

News of Jose's tragic death soon reached the mission station. The missionary, together with eight native men, went immediately to the little town of Panao where the body was taken. The coming of the missionary touched the people. To think that the foreign missionary should be so concerned about this young Indian boy surprised them. "No priest would have taken the trouble to come as the missionary did," the Indians said.

The authorities would not allow the body to be taken to the mission station, so the funeral was held in Panao. About two hundred people attended, including some of the very prominent people of the town.

One of the priests objected to their burying Jose in the Pantheon, but an old priest and others said, "He will be buried in the Pantheon or even in the church if it pleases us to bury him there." Thus God honored a humble Indian boy who was almost unknown to them.

Back in the school-room at the mission station, the missionary used this opportunity to urge her class to be ready as Jose had been to meet the Lord should the call come for them. "Jose," she said, "had lived for Jesus, and now he has laid down his life for the sake of the Gospel." The class loved Jose, and the memory of his sweet life spoke to them.

The young men in the little church were also stirred by his death. A former companion of Jose had not been very earnest before his death, but on the following Sunday night when he was to give a missionary talk, he said, "I have not been able to speak for Christ before, but now through God's help I can do so."

The beautiful life of Jose, laid down for the Master, was bearing fruit, for "except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

Only Jose's family remained untouched by the death of the young lad. They had opposed the Gospel and had persecuted Jose while he was living, and now at his death they showed no grief. They not only blamed Jose for going to preach the Gospel, but they blamed the missionary for sending him.

I am sure you will want to pray for the family of Jose as well as for the church and school at Huanuco, Peru.—The Alliance Weekly.

NO LIGHT IN HIS LANTERN

One night a man was run down at a level crossing. Consequently the old signalman in charge had to appear in court. After a severe cross-examination he was still unshaken. He said he had waved his lantern frantically, but all to no avail. The following day the superintendent of the line called him into his office. "You did wonderfully well yesterday, Tom," he said. "I was afraid at first that you might waver." "No, sir," replied Tom, "but I was afraid that old lawyer was going to ask me whether my lantern was lit!"

How tragic it is that so many Christians are "waving the lantern" in the same way—and lives are lost.—Sunday Companion.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

We are glad to print the names of new Auxiliary officers for the benefit of the state officers who have to have them. But the addresses must be included, else their printing is very little use. Make up the list of your new officers with correct mail addresses, (don't guess at them), and send them in separate from your report. We will print them in a group when we have space.

THE LAST CALL

Before Branch Meeting, for the Minnis' salary. I am trusting the delegates at Branch meeting next week will make it the very last call. Fill up as many of those "Calendar Months" as possible. Bring your "calendars" or names for display and your money for the offering.

As best I can calculate from the facts I have, we should have paid Mr. Minnis $950.00 from last April until his return from India. The report to date is as follows:

Previously reported	$693.79
Thomasville, First	10.35
Worthville	12.00
Spring Church	8.80
Enfield	5.00
Whitakers	5.00
Total	$734.94

We still lack $215.06.

"Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he with a chuckle, replied,
That maybe it couldn't, but he would be one,
Who wouldn't say "No" till he tried.
So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried, he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done—and he did it."

I am sure "it can be done" if each one will go about it with a determination to succeed.

Remember that the money raised for the Minnis' salary counts on the World Service Budget for your local church. One-third of the year is gone, and according to Mr. Allen's report 185 churches have sent nothing on the General Conference budget, and only a very small amount by others. The money you raise by this method not only helps this fund, but helps your church meet its apportionment.

MRS. C. W. BATES,
Chairman Minnis Fund.

SPRING CHURCH MISSIONARY NEWS

Circuit Auxiliary

March 7th the Auxiliary met at Garysburg in the home of Mrs. M. L. Crew with nine active members, one honorary member, one visitor and three Precious Jewels present. Mrs. M. L. Crew was devotional leaders and used the lesson, Guidance, as laid down in the February Record. Pastor Neese led the prayer. At the end of March, 1933, there was $32.03 in the treasury and this year at the March meeting there was $32.81. Quite a bit of money has been raised during the year and paid out for different things. There has been sent to the Branch treasury from Spring Church Charge about $105 not counting all that the Lebanon Auxiliary has sent in. Our budget for the year was $45.00. At our last meeting the ladies voted to raise the budget to $50 for next year; $31 of the $105 was for the Minnis Calendar fund.

At the February meeting part of the officers for the new year were elected and at the March meeting secretaries were appointed to correspond with the Branch secretaries. At this meeting delegates to the Branch Meeting in Henderson were elected as follows: Mrs. H. E. Vassar, Mrs. John Hart; alternates, Mrs. M. L. Crew and Mrs. Len Glover. By virtue of their office the following are also delegates: Mrs. Rupert M. Robinson, District Chairman; Mrs. C. E. Dimick, president, and Mrs. William H. Neese, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Robinson was program leader and a paper, "Christian Experience," was read by Mrs. Neese. Mrs. Hart conducted the Question Box. We adjourned to meet April 11 with Mrs. W. H. Camp. The hostess served delicious refreshments. Since the above meeting Mrs. Taylor has notified us that our Auxiliary goes on the Honor Roll. We are very proud of that honor.

Under the auspices of the Circuit Auxiliary, the missionary play, "Beginning At Jerusalem" was given in the Pleasant Hill church March 4 at 7 p. m. It was a bad night but the faithful few were there and the offering amounted to $4.00.

Lebanon Auxiliary

The Lebanon Auxiliary held their spring Thank-offering service March 18 at the 11 o'clock service. The pastor preached a short missionary sermon, after which the president, Mrs. W. W. Grant, took charge. In a few well chosen words she explained why we hold Thank-offering services. Letters were read from our missionaries in forign fields by Miss Louise Hubbard, Mrs. W. W. Grant, Mrs. L. P. Woodruff and Mrs. Neese. A poem, "Christ," was read by Miss Moore. Mrs. C. T. Moore led the prayer. As the secretary called the roll of Auxiliary members they responded by placing their gift on the table. A public offering was then taken. It all amounted to $5.00.

Delegates to Branch Meeting were elected in a call meeting following the morning service. They are Mrs. W. S. Burnette and Mrs. W. H. Camp. Delegates by virtue of their office are Mrs. W. W. Grant, president, and Mrs. Wm. H. Neese, corresponding secretary. This Auxiliary also has officers corresponding to the Branch officers, but the corresponding secretary does not have a list of them at present. They will be reported later.

May we all meet in the Branch Meeting in Henderson April 4 and 5, and may it be the greatest meeting our Branch has ever had.

MRS. Wm. H. NEESE,
Corresponding Sec'y.

LAST MINUTE NOTES FOR BRANCH MEETING IN HENDERSON

Reports indicate a large attendance at the Branch meeting which convenes in Henderson next Wednesday, April 4, at 10 a. m. In addition to the program which has been previously printed, there will be a short memorial service at which time an honor roll will be read. All Auxiliaries are asked to send, by representatives, a list of women who have passed away during the past year. In case especial tribute is desired, friends or Auxiliaries could memoralize a faithful worker by the payment of $10.00 and will be a credit on the Auxiliary budget. This should be reported to Mrs. C. F. Finch, Henderson. The meeting will begin on time and all representatives are urged to be on time. Let all women pray each morning after waking that plans may be made that will be pleasing to the Master and profitable to the work of the church.

Do not forget that Mrs. Bates is asking that the balance due on Minnis' salary be sent to her by delegates and friends who attend Branch Meeting.

MRS. Wm. C. HAMMER, President

BUSINESS GIRLS' CIRCLE, MT. PLEASANT

"Customs of China" was the general topic discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Business Girls' Circle of Mt. Pleasant Auxiliary, Saturday night, March 24, at the home of Mrs. H. F. Amick.

Ruth Bowman told of the play customs of the Chinese children, showing that they cared very little about sports and hardly knew what play meant. Katherine Causey then discussed other peculiar customs of the people, telling about their food, their clothing, their homes, and their religions, and Miss Sallie Amick gave the names of the Methodist Protestant missionaries in China. Special music was given by Mrs. H. F. Amick and Miss Rebecca Woody Causey. They sang "Living With Jesus."

In the absence of the president, Miss Margaret Causey presided at the meeting, with 22 persons present. Mrs. Amick, assistd by Miss Sallie Amick, served refreshments.

OPPOSES DANCING

Dear Co-Workers with Christ:

I was shocked indeed when I read in the Methodist Protestant Herald of a possibility of allowing dancing at our Christian college. Can we call it a Christian school and allow this? Can we even call ourselves Christians and support a college where this disgraceful amusement goes on? We believe we have great men at the head of this great institution that will say no, and if it takes it, ten thousand times no.

When it was first organized I added my little mite, but if this request was granted I would regret I ever spent a penny.

We still have utmost faith and confidence in the College, and believe it will stand; but let's not take the devil in as our entertainer or co-worker. There are all sorts of clean entertainments for our college boys and girls.

With kindest regards to all who manage the affairs of the College, I do sincerely urge them to pray much and hold our College to higher things than the modern dance.

The Old Testament points toward the Cross.
The Gospels tell the Story of the Cross.
The Epistles point toward the Throne.
The Revelation tells the story of the Throne.

LAST CALL FOR MARCH

Another Letter and Why

The March campaign has been so interrupted and disturbed by bad weather, and has fallen so far short of its goal, that we are sending out a follow-up letter this week. The letter comes to say a hearty THANK YOU, Give Us Another Chance, and Let EVERY Church and Sunday School Send an Offering. The campaign should not close until every church in the Conference has made its offering.

Of the $6,000 asked for during March, we have received to date, March 26th, $1,268.76. However, $97.25 of that is counted in the above furnace fund. Please do not let up until you have done you level best for the Home.

We do not know what to do, and we have nobody to appeal to except Methodist Protestants and their friends. We are in distress, and the conditions giving the distress are not of our making. We inherited it. We have been and are asking you what to do. The failure, or even the partial failure of this campaign will only compel us to ask all the more earnestly, What Shall We Do?

"Strike while the iron is hot." The organization has been set up in the Conference, and a great deal of work has been done already, so it will be easier to finish up the job now while it is before the people.

Yours in His blessed service,
A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

S. S. CLASS MEETING

The Ladies' Bible Class of State Street Church, Lexington, met the the home of the teacher, Mrs. John B. Leonard, Thursday, the 22nd.

The occasion was the quarterly "Revealing Party." Each member of the class has a "Heart Sister" and is also Heart-Sister to some other member of the class. No member knows who is playing Heart-Sister to her until the Revealing Party once in three months.

The devotion was conducted by the pastor. Mrs. Gray Davis sang "Does Jesus Care?" and "The Half Has Never Yet Been Told." Miss Lila Aaron read "John Looked At Me and I Looked At John" and "When Malindy Sings."

After a short business session the hostess served refreshments—a salad course. The color scheme was green and white, carrying also the Easter idea.

The thought was unanimous that it was quite an enjoyable occasion. The determination of all the members is to go forward to do things and to build the class larger. The large attendance in this meeting was a prophecy of growth and of greater activity.

On Furnace

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Douh, Baltimore, W. Forsyth	2.00
Lycoming, N. Y.	20.00

We have received a total of $584.18 on replacement of furnace. The new furnace, together with some repairs we tried to make on the old one, hoping to save it, cost $589.53, or just $5.35 more than has been sent to us. We think at least that much more will come from a source here in High Point. The Rotary club, the American Business Men's club, and the Lions club, all of High Point, made substantial gifts to the cause. Many individuals and some firms contributed. One young woman took an offering among her fellow workers in a hosiery mill at a noon hour and sent us $15.85. Friends in High Point contributed $479.70, and friends outside of High Point gave $104.48 on this emergency fund. And of the $104.48, friends outside of North Carolina contributed $54.00 of the amount. We very greatly appreciate the hearty response with which our appeal for help was met.

Then, too, as a direct result of the agitation in High Point for the furnace funds,

Orange Charge.—Severe weather and bad roads have somewhat interfered with our church work. However, we are still trying to carry on.

We are grateful to the Woman's Auxiliaries of the charge for purchasing and having placed in the parsonage a cook stove.

We are planning for Easter services as follows: Easter Sunday, Union Grove, 11 a. m.; Chestnut Ridge, 3 p. m.; Efland, 7:30 p. m. We are hoping Hebron will have their Easter program immediately following Sunday school or Sunday night.

Hope to have communion services as follows: Chestnut Ridge and Hebron, second Sunday in April; Efland and Union Grove, third Sunday in April.

B. M. WILLIAMS.

Siler City Church.—The pulpit was filled by our pastor on the third Sunday morning. This was just another one of Mr. Isley's good messages. Theme: "God's Call to Service." Miss Verda Shaw Fox sang very impressively, at this time, "Face to Face."

The second quarterly conference for this charge was held in Siler City church on Wednesday night, March 21st. Each church was represented and a good congregation present. The reports were encouraging, but all might have been better, specially the financial part. Messrs. L. L. Wrenn and W. A. Poe were the nominees for delegate to our next Annual Conference. Mr. Wrenn made a plea for more subscribers to our dear old M. P. Herald. He urged that each one do his best to raise our quota. As this was our mid-week prayer service night, Miss Kara Andrew, from Hope church, who was present, gave us a most interesting talk on "Stewardship." This splendid talk was right to the point and everyone enjoyed it immensely. We are aways glad to have Miss Andrew with us.

All Circles of the Auxiliary met in March and elected the new officers for the coming year. Circle No. 1, chairman, Mrs. T. L. Smith; Circle No. 2, chairman, Miss Sallie Smith, and the Young Ladies' Circle, Mrs. E. D. Woody as leader. Each circle has done fine work the past year and each has started the new year with greater zeal to do even better than last year. Our Auxiliary met in the Philathea room on Wednesday afternoon, the 21st, with 11 members present. The president, Mrs. L. L. Woody, had charge of the devotionals. All business of the old year was rounded up and reports read. We have raised $215.32 the past year and paid out to various causes $192.68. We now have a nice sum in the treasury to start the new year. Delegates were elected, as follows: To go to the Branch Meeting in Henderson, Mesdames L. L. Woody, T. L. Smith, Emma B. Siler and Miss Minnie Cooper. Circle No. 1 had charge of the program for this meeting, and the chairman, Mrs. T. L. Smith, with the help of Mrs. Stout and Mrs. Emma B. Siler, read and told an interesting story concerning Liberia. We have no missionaries there and the story revealed a great opportunity for some real missionary work in that country.

We are very sorry to have to report again that one of our very active members, Mrs. D. L. Johnson, is still confined to her room and cannot be up much. We miss her so much in all the activities of the church. We are hoping and praying she can soon be with us again.

The Baraca class had charge of the devotionals the fourth Sunday morning in Sunday school, presenting a good program. This is a fine-looking class of young men and we are very proud of them. Also the Men's Bible class asked the Sunday school some very interesting Bible questions at the close of the class period.

MRS. J. A. COOPER.

Melton's Grove.—Bro. Saunders filled his regular appointment last Sunday and gave us a fine message on Prayer. We like our pastor and believe we are going to have a good year at Melton's Grove.

We now have the church painted on the inside, and it looks much better. Last Tuesday several members and some of our Baptist friends gave the church a real good cleaning out, and then we all went to the home of Mrs. Thomas, who served a good dinner, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The next quarterly conference will be held here Saturday before the third Sunday in May. Hope to see a good many from Rockingham and Bethesda here.

GLENNA LANE.

Kernersville.—Our reporter, Mrs. Faye Butner, has been sick; also her little daughter; so I am writing a report for Kernersville.

Our people here are showing a fine interest in the program of their church. We have elected a new board of officials. Our new Sunday school superintendent, Bro. Butner, is a fine leader and we feel sure that our school will grow. Bro. A. N. Linville, who served for a number of years as superintendent, has been elected on the board of stewards, and a real steward he is!

Our recent communion service was held and a large number took active part in the service.

The Christian Endeavor Society is doing a good work. They recently held a social at the parsonage with a fine attendance. We have organized a Junior Society with Mrs. O. B. Wiliams as superintendent. The meetings are being well attended. The Ladies' Aid Society is doing a fine work. They have recently bought some needed furniture for the parsonage, and now they are going to have the church re-painted inside. This is a needed improvement. They held their monthly meeting last Tuesday night at the parsonage with a good attendance. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Williams, assisted by Miss Rose Linville.

The pageant, "Easter Radiance," will be given by our young people next Sunday night at 7:30.

We received the special offering for our Children's Home at the Kernersville church last Sunday. The amount received was $35.00. We feel that our offering is a fair one, coming from a church that in recent years has not given such a special offering for any outside purpose. We believe that this is the beginning of better things. We have raised the total amount for Church Extension on this charge. Pastor and people are working hard, and we expect to have a good report for this charge at the next annual conference. The people are very kind to the pastor and wife. They have brought us many special gifts. Bro. and Sister John Linville furnish us with milk and fresh butter, without money and without price. They operate a dairy and we greatly appreciate their extreme kindness. Bro. Wilie Morgan, of Sandy Ridge, gave us a fine ham this week. He has a kind spirit. Thanks!

Pine Grove, Sandy Ridge, and Ai churches are sending a special offering to the Children's Home this week.

One of our oldest and the only charter member of Sandy Ridge church, Mrs. Margaret Smith, aged 93, died last Thursday. The funeral and burial was at Sandy Ridge Friday afternoon.

O. B. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

Concord, Saxapahaw Charge.—Our Auxiliary held its Thank-offering program the first Sunday morning of this month at the preaching hour. A pageant, "Color Blind," was given. After the pageant was given Pastor Loy gave a very impressive talk on Missions. Our Sunday school is still moving on, but the attendance is not what it should be; hope to get the people to attend more regularly.

Mrs. L. E. Moore has been eleced choir-leader to succeed Parker Lewis, who has moved from our community to Siler City.

Am very glad to report that some of our members who have been sick for some time are improving. Mrs. L. E. Guthrie, who has been at Rainey Hospital, is home and will soon be able to be back at church with us. Mrs. Loy Roberson is able to be out again. Mrs. T. H. Moore is improving, and Mrs. H. G. Hargrove and son, Thomas Marion, came home from Duke Hospital Saturday afternoon.

Young People's Day was observed the third Sunday afternoon. Rev. J. C. Auman brought the message to us which we all appreciated, for it was a very timely message to all. He used as his subject "The Christian Growth." We are always glad when Mr. Auman can be with us, as he was at one time our pastor and he made friends with everyone. We were also glad to have Mrs. Auman and sister, Mrs. Johnson, with us. We give to them a cordial welcome to come back to worship with us any time they can.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pickard, of Burlington, were visitors with us Sunday afternoon. We give to them and all other visitors a welcome any time they can come to visit us.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

BESSIE COBLE.

First Church, Lexington.—Our attendance at Sunday school and church services for the past several weeks has been good considering the bad weather and sickness in our community. As a means of stimulating growth in the Sunday school plans have been made and committees appointed for the purpose of canvassing our section of the city. We are planning to make the canvass on March 29. We believe that there are a number of people who have recently moved into our community but have not been attending any Sunday school. A live Sunday school must be a growing Sunday school.

On Sunday evening our pastor, Mr. Isley, brought to us an unusually good message. His text, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." This helpful and inspiring message was greatly enjoyed by all present.

At the 11 o'clock service Sunday Mr. J. G. Rogers, of Denton, spoke to the men of the church and assisted them in organizing the Laymen's Fellowship organization. Officers elected were as follows: O. F. Johnson, president; Roy Wallace, first vice-president; T. D. Westmoreland, second vice-president; H. C. Koontz, secretary, and J. J. Mallard, treasurer. We are sure that this organization is going to be an asset to the church.

At 2 o'clock the district meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary was held at First church. The speakers for the afternoon were Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of the Women's work, and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, chairman of districts. Both messages were helpful and inspiring and were enjoyed by all present.

Last Tuesday evening Mr. H. C. Koontz gave a supper honoring those who did not miss more than one Sunday from Sunday school during the past year. Twenty-eight members enjoyed Mr. Koontz's hospitality.

Next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock an Easter program wil be given under the direction of Mr. H. C. Koontz.

April 1 marks the beginning of a revival at First Church. Rev. L. E. Mabry of Mount Hermon Charge will be the pulpit help.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Koontz announce the birth of a daughter, Peggy Ray, on March 12.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Democrat.—Pastor Huss filled his appointment at our church with a real good sermon. Mrs. Huss and their daughter accompanied Bro. Huss to our church. The ladies of the church gave Mrs. Huss a quilt, which she appreciated. Some of the ladies of the other churches in our community of other denominations helped make the quilt also.

Our pastor suggested that our Sunday school make an offering at least once a month to the Children's Home. Our Sunday school plans to make an offering on the second Sunday in each month. A small offering was made last Sunday. The children in the Sunday school especially seemed to be very much interested in making this offering.

Your reporter offered attendance prizes during the last three months, and there were 16 prizes won by the children in our Sunday school.

The second quarterly conference is to meet at our church the fourth Sunday in April.

Miss Zula Wilson joined our church last Sunday. We are glad to welcome her into our church.

V. B.

Beulah, Mecklenburg Charge.—Since we subscribed for the Herald some few weeks past I have not seen anything from our church. I am a girl ony 11 years of age. If the readers of the Herad will overlook my mistakes I will try to write a few lines.

Rev. M. C. Henderson filled his regular appointment Sunday at 11 o'clock. He preached a good sermon, which was enjoyed by all.

We are very proud of our new Sunday school superintendent, Mr. W. H. Schell, for his faithfulness to his duty. I am sure he will make us a good superintendent if we will all do our part.

Crowds have been very small during the winter months, but since spring has opened up we all hope to see larger crowds. If all will come and take a part in Sunday school. I am sure it will help every one of us and make us all feel we are serving our heavenly Father. We hope our Sunday school will succeed, but of course it will not unless all help.

One of our great church workers, Mrs. John Phifer, has been very sick, but we are very glad to say that she has improved.

We will observe our Home-Coming Day the fifth Sunday in April. There will be lots of good speaking. All of our former pastors are requested to come. Other nearby churches are invited. There will be all-day services and dinner on the grounds.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

CORNELIA LEMMOND.

Friendship Church, Shiloh Charge.—As our church hasn't had a report this year, we want to say we are alive yet, and getting along fine, although our number hasn't been so large during the winter. We are hoping to grow in attendance as Spring approaches.

Rev. C. E. Ridge filled his appointment Sunday evening at 3 o'clock. The people love our pastor, Rev. C. E. Ridge. He is an excellent speaker and a wide-awake man. His sermons are always helpful and good.

Friendship people were happily favored with the chorus from Union Ridge M. P. church Sunday evening, March 25. The chorus rendered the most beautiful of songs. Everyone enjoyed it to the fullest extent. We also enjoyed having them worship with us. Young and old were enthused by a talk by Mr. Philip Mock, who came to Friendship occasionally years past. Hope they all will come again soon.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will meet March 26 with Mrs. Ida Holt.

There will be an Easter pageant given at Friendship. I don't know the exact date.

Flat Rock Charge.—Due to the rain and muddy roads there was a reduced attendance at Flat Rock church last Sunday morning. Those who attended the service were very attentive to the message of the pastor. There was no service at Bethany church in the afternoon on account of the rain.

After the service at Flat Rock church last Sunday morning the pastor, accompanied by his daughter, Louise, went to the home of Mrs. J. B. Ogburn by a previous invitation. A good dinner and pleasant visit were enjoyed in this home. Mrs. Ogburn is a near-invalid, and does not attend the services often. She is very much interested in the work of the church. Her late husband was one of the active members of Flat Rock church for many years.

The second quarterly conference was held at Bethany church last Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. Every church on the charge was represented in the attendance. Very encouraging reports were made by the pastor and superintendents of Sunday schools. The pastor reported $93 received on the salary, 152 visits made, five funeral services held and eight subscriptions secured for the Herald during the quarter. The chairman of the board of parsonage trustees made a report of the improvements made at the parsonage since the present pastor moved into it. These improvements were made at a cost of $120, and all of the money has been raised to pay for the improvements. Bros. W. E. Johnson, of Flat Rock church, and H. H. Wilson, of Gideon's Grove church, were elected nominees for delegate to the next Annual Conference. Both are splendid men and either of them would represent Flat Rock charge in the Annual Conferene in an excellent manner.

Bro. F. M. Pegram, our faithful Sunday school superintendent at Bethel church, is ever mindful of the pastor and family and proved that fact by bringing us a number of gifts some time ago, including flour, meal, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, canned fruit, two pounds of butter, and two dozen eggs. Last week Mrs. J. B. Ogburn, of Flat Rock church, sent us a 48-pound sack of flour. We are indeed appreciative of these gifts, and the spirit in which they were given.

We regret to learn of the illness of Mrs. C. G. Hunter, of Pleasant Hill church on West Forsyth Charge. She was one of the faithful members of our former charge, and we hope for her a speedy recovery.

Bethel church will render an Easter program next Sunday night, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Our appointments for next Sunday will be at Bethel church at 11 a. m., and Gideon's Grove church at 3 p. m.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Salem, Saxapahaw Charge.—It has been some time since we have had a report, as the reporter has been in with scarlet fever. Our pastor, Rev. W. M. Loy, filled his regular appointment at our church today. The congregation was small due to the bad roads and sickness. Several of our members are ill with measles, while two have had to have operations for appendicitis—Mrs. Carl Durham and Walter Shore. We trust all the sick people may soon be back with us for services.

Our C. E. is still alive. Miss Christine Bradshaw will lead next Sunday night. We plan to observe Young People's Day the second Sunday morning in next month.

REPORTER.

Alleghany, Davidson Charge.—March 25th was rainy but our pastor was on hand and preached a good sermon. We enjoyed it. Bro. E. A. Bingham scarcely ever misses an appointment. I wish all were as faithful.

The young people are practicing for a program on Easter Sunday night. Hope that they will think about Christ; think that Jesus died and rose again for us. Let us live for him.

Wishing for all a hapy Easter.

ABIGAIL COGGIN.

Lexington, State Street and Bethesda.—Both churches are quite busy, practicing for an Easter exercise. The Auxiliaries of both churches are planning to send each two whole time representatives to the Branch Meeting next week. State Street may have an extra carload there for one day.

The men of State Street church heard Mr. J. G. Rogers talk "Fellowship" at First church Sunday at 11 o'clock. Representatives of State Street Auxiliary and others heard Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Hammer in the afternoon session on the same date.

Bethesda Auxiliary received a gratifying sum in the Thank-offering service the second Sunday in March. They and others present were inspired and encouraged by the talk as part of the Thank-offering program by Mrs.

J. W. Boyles on the work of the Auxiliary, as were all present by the talk of Mr. J. G. Rogers on the Fellowship work.

State Street is holding pre-Easter services this week.

The two adult classes—men's and women's—are entering upon a competitive contest for members. T. M. JOHNSON.

Haw River, Glen Raven Charge. — Pastor Pegg filled his appointment here Sunday, March 25. He chose for his text Mark 1:1: "The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God." Owing to bad weather the congregation was small.

After preaching service we observed the Lord's Supper. We had no night service due to the fact that our pastor is helping Mr. Broome in a revival service near Henderson.

We are putting on a Herald campaign for the church through the Sunday school. We order 15 copies per week at the present, but we are hoping to get it up to 25 per week by the last of April.

Mrs. C. P. Suits, who has been confined to her bed, is improving and is able to be up some each day.

We are sad to relate the passing of Mrs. Julia M. Smith from labor to reward, Wednesday, March 21st. Funeral services were held at the M. P. church. Interment was in the church cemetery. T. S. COBLE.

West Forsyth Charge.—Our congregations have been very good considering an epidemic of measles and quite a number of aged people who haven't been able to get out during the severe weather. I have filled all appointments regardless of weather. The people seem to appreciate my efforts to serve them.

Our second quarterly conference will be held at Union Hill church April 7 at 2:30. I urge all churches of this charge to be represented, as there is important business to be transacted. D. R. WILLIAMS.

Calvary.—For good and sufficient reasons our very efficient reporter has asked me to write this week. And I had just as well to begin with the thing that is still ringing in my ears, namely, the Easter Cantata, "The Man of Nazareth," by James Rogers, which the choir under the direction of Mr. Arthur Fiddler with Miss Huldah Booth as the very efficient accompanist, gave last Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. For a number of years I have been hearing college choirs, community choirs and church choirs give creditable musical performances, but I am safe in saying that in all of my recollection I haven't heard any choir that rendered any finer music than our own choir last Sunday afternoon. Our regular choir was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gyles who were of great assistance in the solo work. Solo parts were taken by Mr. Fiddler, Mrs. L. W. Bissett and Mr. and Mrs. Gyles.

On Thursday evening of this week at 7:30 o'clock we will hold a communion service. This service has been sponsored by the Senior Christian Endeavor Society. In addition to trying to get people out to the service, members of the society will read Scripture passages.

On Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock the pastor will meet with any children who may want to unite with the church next Sunday for final instruction. On Sunday morning the Itermediate and Senior C. E. Societies will hold a joit sunrise prayer meeting at 6:30 in the hut. This will be followed by a light breakfast served in the hut.

At the Sunday school hour the Easter offering will be gathered in from the members of the Sunday school, the entire offering of the school going to Missions. Weeks ago quotas were given classes in the hope of raising $50.00. Some of the classes have their money in hand.

At the 11 o'clock hour we will have the Easter sermon with Easter music and the regular service at 7:30.

The second quarterly conference will meet on Monday evening at 7:30.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a meeting of all the circles and the new circles will be launched, and chairmen will be elected.

On last Sunday morning committees were appointed to arrange for the annual revival meeting, which very likely will be held the last part of April, and for the anniversary service of the church, which will be held May 6th. The committee on revival meeting will convene Thursday evening of this week following the Communion service.

On Friday of this week there will be a three hours' service from 12 to 3 o'clock in the West Market Street M. E. Church, South, in which various ministers will discuss the words of Christ on the cross. This writer is to discuss the second saying: "Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise," and Mrs. L. W. Bissett of our church will sing "O Sacred Head Now Wounded."

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Pinnacle, Pinnacle Charge.—We were glad to have our president, Dr. Andrews, with us Sunday at 11 o'cloc. He gave us an inspiring and interesting talk on "Discouragement." The few present enjoyed it very much.

Because of bad weather and sickness our Sunday school has been low in attendance. We are thinking it will improve when spring opens up.

Miss Violette Hunt, who has been away from Sunday school several Sundays because of her eyes, is improving, and on behalf of the school I hope she will soon be back with us. PAULINE WATSON, Reporter.

Gibsonville Church.—On Tuesday evening of last week there was a call meeting of the board of stewards, at which time they decided to work in groups during a canvass which will be put on in a few days among the membership.

A union meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, the Junior Circle, and the Ladies' Auxiliary was held in the Hut at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday af last week. A worship program was in charge of the Young Ladies' Auxiliary. This was led by the president, Miss Lessie Faucett.

The members of the Junior Circle entertained with stunts and games. These were dircted by Little Misses Julia Allen and Camille Kivett. The members of the social committee served coffee, sandwiches and cakes.

We were glad to have Rev. N. M. Harrison to preach for us last Sunday night. We were also glad to have four of the students of High Point College to worship with us, as well as to take a part in the music program. Rev. Mr. Harrison supplied for our pastor, Mr. Bethea, who is visiting relatives in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Owen and children spent last week-end with relatives at Yadkin College.

A union program of Easter music is being prepared by the choirs of the four local churches. This program will be given on Easter morning in the public school auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

There is special Easter music being prepared by our choir for the church service. Both of the musical programs are being directed by Miss Rebecca Lowe, the local music teacher.

As a result of measles and colds the attendance has been rather low in the Junior, Primary, Beginner Sunday school department for the last few Sundays. We hope the little folks will soon be well and able to come back to church again. REPORTER.

Midway, Haw River Circuit.—Our pastor failed to be with us the fourth Sunday in February on account of sickness. However, he was with us the second Sunday of this month. At this time the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, which was a very impressive service. There has been an epidemic of measles in our community; this has brought our Sunday school attendance down quite a bit. The day school was closed for three weeks.

Prayer meeting was conducted yesterday by Bro. Milton Wright.

We are planning an Easter program which we hope will be a success.

Some time ago our community was made sad by the untimely death of Mr. Lemmie Mitchell. He was killed by a falling tree. He leaves a wife (who before her marriag was Miss Lula Harrell) and two small children. He belonged to the M. E. church but had attended this church since moving here about four years ago, and had planned to move his membership here. The funeral was held at Midway, conducted by Rev. J. H. Trollinger and Rev. J. C. Gillespie of the Baptist church. Our deepest sympathy goes to the young wife and other loved ones. May the Lord bind up their broken hearts.

Plans are being made for an installation service soon. The Auxiliary met Monday night with a goodly number present. The budget is paid in full and the Auxiliary gave $7.50 on the Annual Conference budget. The Auxiliary also subscribed for eight Missionary Records to be used in the Circles. Delegates were elected to go to the Branch Meeting in Henderson, April 4 and 5.

A series of pre-Easter services will be held at the church Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of this week at 7:30 p. m. The Lord's Supper will be administered on Thursday night. Sunrise service, Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, Easter sermon, "Proofs of Immortality," 11, a pageant, "Easter Radiance," Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock will close the Easter services.

The entire church sympathizes with them in their sorrow—the loss of husband and father, and our prayers go up for them.

Misses Annabelle Thompson, Myrtle Davis, Mary Wall, Margaret Snipes, and Pearl Leslie, of High Point, and J. R. Holden, Jr., Greensboro, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ballard Sunday and attended services Sunday night.

Mr. J. E. Barnette has been seriously ill with flu and diphtheria, but is much improved. We miss them in their accustomed place at church.

Mrs. J. E. Foust was carried to Duke Hospital Monday afternoon. The prayers of the entire church go up for her recovery—that she may be able to be to the home the wife and mother she longs to be.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Sides and C. D., Jr., of Pine Hall, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Keever, of Southmont, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Allen, parents of the bride. We wish for this young couple a long and useful life.

Mr. J. F. Jobe has been right sick, but is much improved.

MRS. CALLIE NICHOLSON.

Bellemont, Mount Hermon Charge.—On the fourth Sunday morning at 11 oclock, Pastor Mabry filled his regular appointment, delivering a very appropriate and interesting Easter message on "Jesus Weeps for Jerusalem." He read for his Scripture, Luke 19:28-48, and took as his text Luke 19:41: "And when he was come near, he beheld the city and wept over it." As the day of the Passover drew near a large crowd began to gather at Jerusalem. The people heard that Jesus would be there and came to see Him. Some of them came to be healed of their diseases, while others came out of curiosity. Jesus knew that He was going up to Jerusalem to die for humanity, yet He did not hesitate for a moment. He submitted Himself willingly. As Jesus came near to Jerusalem the people began to praise Him and to throw palm branches and clothes in His path. They were in a way crowning Him an earthly king. The people were just worshipping Jesus with their lips and not with their hearts. Too many peole do the same way today. They worship with great praise, but when it comes to falling down upon their knees and asking Jesus' blessing upon their lives they are not to be numbered with the followers of Jesus. Everybody had the name of Jesus upon their lips, but when He drew near they turned a deaf ear upon Him. Jesus is near us now. He is near to us even in our sins. He wants to make us new creatures in Christ Jesus. Will we turn a deaf ear to Him? It is a good thing to praise God with our lips, but we want to see works. Why did Jesus break down in tears amidst all the praises of the crowd? Why did the Savior weep? He did not weep for Himself. Jesus did not have anything to weep for, because He had no sin in His life. When Jesus looked down upon the beautiful city of Jerusalem and saw all the sin and corruption He broke down and wept. He wept for the sins of the people. Jesus knew that He would soon have to sacrifice His life there. Jesus was not mindful of all the beauty and splendor of the city, but he was looking upon the hearts and souls of the people. Today Jesus does not look upon our outward appearance and our possessions, but He looks upon our hearts. Jesus is weeping for our sins today. We know people who have great sympathy for us, but this is nothing compared with the sympathy Jesus has for us.

In conclusion, Pastor Mabry said that cruel man sent Jesus to the cross, but He would come again. May we prepare for His coming and take Jesus as our Savior. This is a day of opportunity. Mr. Mabry urged us to take advantage of our opportunities and use our power and emotion for Jesus Christ and His program.

The Children's Quartette from Glen Hope Baptist church rendered special music during the service. We enjoyed their singing and hope they will come and sing for us again.

The second quarterly conference was held here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A pageant will be given by the children and young people of the church on Easter Sunday night. The program, which is under the direction of Mrs. Clay Holt and Mrs. Wayne Curtis, promises to be good. Everyone is invited to be present.

There is still a lot of sickness in the community. We hope everyone will soon recover from their illness.

Draper Church.—Easter program for Easter Sunday, Sunday moning; sunrise prayer meeting; subject, "Christ Is Risen." At 9:45 Sunday school; Bro. Bill Howell, general superintendent. At 11 o'clock, Easter program by the Sunday school; collection for World Service. Sunday night, preaching by pastor; subject, "Resurrection." Everybody is invited to all these services. Come and pray for them.

If it should be the Lord's will, we wil begin our spring revival the fourth Sunday in April. Brethren, pray for this meeting. Let's begin now to get ready for a good meeting.

L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Cleveland Charge.—On the third Sunday in March we filled our regular appointment at Pleasant Hill church. The membership is not large at this church, but they are interested in Kingdom service. The congregation was fair for that place, and very attentive. We enjoy trying to preach to them. And they are willing to work, and that makes it easier for the preacher; but when folks just sit down on you, and say "I can't" and "I won't," it makes it hard. If folks will just try they have every ounce of energy in their preacher at their command. God bless you, I like that little word TRY, but I don't like I CAN'T.

These folks at Pleasant Hill are willing to try, and they are going to do things, too; for after the service we called a meeting of all the ladies of the church, and every woman there responded. After I told them what I wanted, we organized a Woman's Auxiliary with 18 members. I call that fine. On the Wednesday night following they held their first meeting at the home of Mrs. J. T. Warlick; had a good meeting; everybody interested. Mrs. T. Z. Bumgardner, president; Miss Ruby Warlick, secretary; Mrs. R. S. Troxler, leader for the meeting. After the meeting refreshments were served. May God bless the society and make it grow. We are planning to organize one at each church on this work. Pray for us that we may be able to do great things for the Master.

On the fourth Sunday afternoon we held service at Mount Moriah. It was rainy and muddy, but we had a good many folks out. This church has a wonderful opportunity, and we are praying that they may see it, and grasp it.

Bro. R. C. Waters is our Sunday school superintendent, and we are expecting him to do a good work here this year. We will let you hear more from this church later. Next week we will write you a letter about Kistlers and Lawndale. Say! You ought to come to Kistlers next Sunday at 11 a. m. We have asked two of our ladies to write a paper on the subject, "The Needs of My Church," and they are going to read that paper next Sunday morning. Come hear it.

R. S. TROXLER.

Randolph Charge.—It has been so long since we have let you hear from us, and so many things have taken place we hardly know where to begin. We have been depending on the reporters to report, but some of them have failed us. Wonder if they have gone into winter quarters?

Our work has not progressed as we expected at the first of the year. On account of unfavorable weather the attendance has been very poor for several Sundays. We are hoping when the weather gets better that we can make up for all that we have missed.

We have received substantial gifts from all the churches since conference. The gifts have ranged all the way from sweet potatoes to chickens and a ham of meat. The tokens of kindness have been greatly appreciated by pastor and family.

It is hardly necessary for me to say anything about dancing at High Point College, or anywhere else. Those who have heard me preach know how I stand on dancing and card playing. If we are training leaders for our churches and teach them that dancing and card playing is all right, whom will they lead and where will they lead them to? I am sure they will not lead those who have a high standard of Christianity. I feel that it would be very difficult to make a move that would hurt High Point College more than to allow dancing there. It was to put a barrier in the way of this very move that the resolution referred to last week was offered at the last Annual Conference.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock Holy Communion was observed in our church. At this time a quartette from High Point College, composed of Messrs. Easter, Moser, Pittard, and Wright, sang "Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love." Miss Lena Hunter played the piano accompaniment. The congregation enjoyed this number very much, and we hope they will sing for us again.

The evening service was called in on account of a shortage of fuel for heating the church. Mr. Huff, the treasurer, is not responsible for this, however, because he placed the order for coal in due time. It just happened that it was not delivered according to promise; hence the embarrassment. Let everybody come next Sunday and join in Easter rejoicing. If the weather should be cold, the house will not be cold.

The Woman's Auxiliary served a barbecue last Thursday evening at the Junior Hall on North Main street, (the "pig" being a gift from Brother J. W. Montgomery) and besides having a good time they swelled the treasury to the amount of $20.00.

Our new president, Mrs. V. F. Crouch, has announced the following leaders for our work during the coming year: Circle No. 1, Mrs. Percy Payne, chairman; Circle No. 2, Miss Lonla Thacker, chairman; Circle No. 3 (night circle), Mrs. F. S. Pritchard, chairman.

Next Monday is the time for our Circle meetings, it being Monday after the first Sunday, but due to the fact that it is a holiday the time will likely be postponed until a later date. Please let each member listen for Sunday's announcement regarding this.

S. W. Taylor, Jr., spent the week-end, March 17th, with Professor Stimson in Statesville. Mr. Stimson formerly taught music in High Point College, was director of the Glee Club, and was a special friend of Sammie's, who is one of our good singers.

Miss Elizabeth Baever is a patient in Guilford General Hospital, having undergone an operation for appendicitis a few days ago.

Mr. C. A. King, our Sunday school superintendent, is not well, having suffered a spell of severe cold.

Mr. Albert Blair is reported doing fine in Bnrrus Memorial Hospital after an operation for acute appendicitis.

Mrs. Clarence Pierce has been removed to her home, 611 Richardson street, after undergoing a serious operation in the Bnrrus Memoial Hospital. Her condition is reported as being very satisfactory at this time.

Well, the hut project is finished—all except raising the cash and erecting the edifice. In other words, we have a majority of four votes in favor of building.

First Church, Charlotte.—The Young People's Day program was presented by the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society under the direction of their leader, Mrs. G. H. Hendry. Miss Marguerite Helms, president of the society, presided.

The Woman's Auxiliary met on last Wednesday evening. Mrs. B. W. Little and Mrs. C. H. Danghtry were elected delegates to the Branch Meeting to be held in Henderson, N. C., on April 4 and 5. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. B. W. Little; vice-president, Mrs. C. H. Danghtry; secretary, Mrs. J. A. Crow; treasurer, Mrs. C. H. Dewese. Circle chairmen: Mrs. C. H. Dewese and Mrs. C. S. Wommack; Secretary of Scholarships and Workers, Miss Gray Stiles; Secretary of Missionary Education, Miss Maryon Muse; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. C. H. Danghtry; Secretary of Thank-offering, Mrs. H. J. Garrison; Secretary of Christian Education, Mrs. R. S. Garmon; Secretary of Spiritual Life, Mrs. G. H. Hendry; Secretary of Temperance, Mrs. A. L. Haigler; Secretary of Benevolences, Mrs. J. A. Perry; Secretary of Memorial, Sustaining and Perpetual Members, Mrs. R. C. Millaway; Secretary of Young People's Work, Mrs. A. F. Love; Pastor's Aid Secretary, Mrs. G. W. Stegall; Children's Home Secretary, Mrs. J. C. Penny.

A series of evangelistic services began on last Sunday morning and will continue through this week, with services each evening at 7:30.

Rev. G. H. Hendry is doing the preaching and a thoroughly helpful program for the week has been announced. Cottage prayer meetings have been held in the homes of the membership during the past two weeks and will continue during the revival services.

Mrs. Steve Conder is training the children for the regular Easter program, which they will give.

An Easter-egg hunt will be given on Saturday afternoon for members of the Cradle Roll Department.

Graham.—At a recent meeting of the Auxiliary, the following persons were elected delegates to the Branch Meeting at Henderson: Mrs. G. S. Stafford and Mrs. A. P. Williams. Mrs. J. Clyde Auman and Mrs. J. L. Johnson were elected alternates. The president, Mrs. C. C. Bnrke, and Mrs. J. H. MePherson, plan also to go. So Graham will be well represented.

On Friday evening of this week the Intermediate Christian Endeavor will entertain the Senior C. E. in the Hut. An interesting program is being planned, and all Endeavorers are requested to be present.

A special Easter program will be given by the church next Sunday evening at 7:30. At this time the offering will be received for the Board of Missions. Our Mission Board is in great need of funds and urges our people to make their offering as large as possible. In connection with the morning service the choir will render the anthem, "He Is Risen."

April has been set aside as the month of the TITHE by the Board of Stewards and the said Board calls upon the whole membership to give at least one-tenth of their income during the month of April. With this tithe the board of stewards hopes to be able to pay all bills up to date. Dr. R. M. Andrews will be with us on the fifth Sunday, at which time we expect our people to bring in their tithes. J. CLYDE AUMAN.

English Street.—On the past Sunday morning, Rev. W. S. Moore, a retired minister of this city, occupied the pulpit in the absence of our pastor, Rev. C. H. Hill. He used for his subject "The Baptism of the Holy Ghost," delivering a very forceful message thereon.

At the evening service, Rev. Mr. Hill was able to fill his appointment. We were very glad to have three boys from the Wesleyan church to give us some instrumental music. We greatly enjoyed their music; hope they will be with us again soon.

We are very sorry to report that our pastor's wife, Mrs. C. H. Hill, is very ill in the Burrns Memorial Hospital. We always miss Mrs. Hill, for she has a smile and a kind word for everyone. There is a place vacant which no one except Mrs. Hill can fill. We are hoping that she will soon recover and be back with us.

On last Wednesday evening, March 21, one of our most faithful members, Mrs. J. A Bowers, passed away. She had been ill for quite a while, but before her illness prevented her presence at the church she was one of the most active church members of the Ladies' Aid, Ladies' Bible Class, and the Christian Endeavor Society. To her relatives and the host of friends that she leaves, we offer our deepest sympathy. The greatest comfort we can give is to point them to One who can bind up all broken hearts and help the heartaches to be lighter. REPORTER.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Cooper

William Braxton Cooper, 68 years of age, died Sunday morning, March 11, 1934. His sudden and unexpected death was a great shock to his children and friends.

Bro. Cooper was a good man, a good citizen, a good neighbor, a good father and a good Christian.

Those less fortunate than himself or in trouble always found a friend in Bro. Cooper, who manifested his sympathy in a way that helped them. He had been a loyal and faithful member of Piney Grove church for many years. For years he was the faithful and efficient superintendent of the Sunday school at Piney Grove.

His funeral service was conducted at Piney Grove church, March 12, by Rev. H. L. Isley, his pastor, assisted by Rev. T. J. Whitehead, of Greensboro, and the writer. The large number attending the funeral was proof that he had many friends in the community where he grew up and spent the greater part of his life.

Surviving Mr. Cooper are four sons, C. A. Cooper, of Monroe; L. C. Cooper, of Mebane; Rev. F. R. Cooper, of Asheboro, and D. L. Cooper, Siler City; four daughters, Mrs. W. L. Kivett, Mrs. A. E. Pleasants, Mrs. W. L. Dnncan, and Mrs. Max O'Connor, all of Greensboro; also a number of grandchildren.

Interment was made in the church cemetery. Pallbearers were C. K. Wrenn, E. D. Woody, T. C. Fox, D. E. Stone, C. N. Bray, and W. S. Durham.

W. M. PIKE.

Booth

With sorrow we record the passing of one of our honor students of the Pilot View School and a faithful member of the Pilot church Sunday school, little Ruth Anna Booth, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthnr J. Booth, aged 11 years, five months, and nine days. God called her home on January 24, 1934, after a brief illness with measles, pneumonia and mastoid trouble. She died in the Baptist Hospital at Winston-Salem. She is survived by her parents, two sisters and one brother, also her grandparents and a host of friends who mourn their loss.

She was greatly loved by her teachers and schoolmates, and her going away leaves a vacant place in the school which no one can fill; but our loss is heaven's gain. She was in the seventh grade and was an honor student, and was at all times dependable in all her work. She was patient throughout the hours of suffering that she was called upon to endure.

Funeral services were held at Fairview church January 26, at one o'clock, and were very impressively conducted by Revs. Brown, Reid and Latham, after which the remains were laid to rest in the Fairview cemetery to await the resurrection.

God in His infinite mercy and love has plucked this rose, which budded on earth, to bloom in heaven; therefore, Be it Resolved;

That we bow in humble submission to His will. For although her going away is sad it will serve as a beacon light from this world to the brighter and better world to which she has gone.

That we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy and commend them to our Father's care. In all our sorrow we know our Savior cares.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Pilot church Sunday school, to the Pilot View school, to the M. P. Herald, and to the family.

"Gathering buds, gathering buds,
Full grown alone will not do,
Jesus is gathering day after day,
Buds for the Kingdom of Heaven."

MRS. LOLA MARION,
MISS HESTER FRYE,
MISS JUANITA HUNT.

Stafford

George Newton Stafford was born August 12, 1860, departed this life March 2, 1934. He was the son of Nathan and Mary Ellen Stafford. He was twice united in marriage; first, to Mary A. McPherson, second, to Lois E. Latin. To the first union were born two children, William Nathan and Sarah Ellen. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. L. A. Thompson; four grandchildren, Rachel, Albert, Sabert, and Elmer Thompson; one brother, James S. Stafford; two nieces, four nephews, and many other relatives and friends.

He joined the M. P. church at Bethel when a young man and remained a faithful church member until death.

Funeral services were conducted in Bethel M. P. Church by Rev. J. A. Burgess and his body was laid to rest in the Bethel cemetery. J. A. BURGESS.

Hight

On February 15th, Miss Myra Hight quietly slipped away to the land of the blest. She had been ill with pneumonia for two weeks. Her condition had been serious, but she seemed to be improving until a sudden change came the day before she passed away.

She was the only daughter of Brother and Sister T. H. Hight, whose residence is on Burwell Avenue, Henderson. Funeral services were conducted at th home Friday, 16th, by the pastor, assisted by Dr. S. W. Taylor, of High Point. The high esteem in which she was held was attested by the large gathering of friends and the many beautiful floral offerings.

For something like 19 years she had been a faithful member of the Henderson Methodist Protestant church. She loved her church next to her home. Though not as strong of body as many others, yet she was seldom absent from any of the services. She was secretary-treasurer of the Primary Department of the Sunday school and took great delight in the work. She loved the children dearly. She was also vitally interested in the Woman's Auxiliary, being always ready to do what she could to promote that phase of Kingdom work. At the time of her death she was local treasurer. But her interest did not stop with those two phases of the work. She was faithful in attendance upon the regular worship services, being present for the service on Sunday before she was taken ill. And just the week before her last illness she took a course in "The New Testament" taught by the pastor in the Leadership Training School held at the Henderson church. The pastor has not found a more faithful member anywhere than she was.

In thinking of her death one thinks of what was said of Mary, who sat at the feet of Jesus there in Bethany, "Mary hath chosen that good part." She seemed always choosing the good things, and she was ever ready to pass the good things on to others. No finer, sweeter spirit could be found in our church than she. The children will miss her, but her influence will ever abide to bless them. She will be missed in all the work of the church, but as we remember her faithfulness we will be inspired to greater diligence.

In addition to her parents, Miss Myra is survived by two brothers, Clyde H. and Charles E. Hight. These all have the prayers and sympathy of the pastor and the church. Even in our sadness we have been made to rejoice at the manifestation of Christian fortitude by her parents. What a glorious and blessed thing is Christian faith!

"Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And there, sometime, we'll understand.

"Then trust in God through all the days,
Fear not, for He doth hold thy hand.
Though dark the way, still sing and praise:
Sometime, sometime, we'll understand."

L. W. GERRINGER, Pastor.

NOTE: This obituary should have appeared the week after Miss Hight's death, but it was lost somewhere between the pastor's study and the editor's office. The pastor regrets this very much, and of course the editor could not publish it until it reached his office.—L. W. G.

Swain

In the early morning of February 18, 1934, one of the choice spirits of earth slipped away and went to join the loved ones in the spirit land, where they shall behold His face whom to know is life eternal and in whose presence is fullness of joy, in the person of Mrs. Laurah Wood Swain, widow of the late Rev. W. E. Swain, D. D.

Born into that culture and refinement which has always been characteristic of the best families of the eastern part of the state, her life never lost its charm and graciousness. Her girlhood days were spent near LaGrange, N. C., but in 1890 she was married to Rev. W. E. Swain and from that time on until her husband retired from the active work of the ministry she readily adjusted herself to the life of the itinerant minister. Whether as the wife of the circuit rider or the wife of the president of the conference, she was the same big-hearted friend and neighbor and made friends wherever she lived. Whether the house she lived in was large or small, well built or poorly built, it was home to her, and soon after the day she moved into it, it began to take on the appearance of a real home.

While she was not a Methodist Protestant by birth and early training, she became one of the best among us. Having once joined the Methodist Protestant Church with her husband, she gave the best of her life to it, and even though in her last days she spent a good portion of her time with two of her children who lived in communities where there was not a Methodist Protestant Church, she still proved her loyalty to the church of her choice by keeping her membership at Calvary Church in Greensboro until the time of her death. In the years to come those passing through the cemetery in LaGrange, N. C., where she sleeps beside her husband, will perhaps see inscribed on a monument these simple words: "Mrs. W. E. Swain, born March 9, 1856, died February 17, 1934." But this will tell only a part of the story. For the good deeds she did, the loyalty that she showed to her church, the splendid spirit of a helpmeet to her husband, the love of a good mother, her influence over her friends and those of her own household cannot be put on marble, but these things are written in the book of life which is kept in the paradise of God.

In her latter years her health was not sufficient for her to be very active. Finally, the summons came and she went away to be with her Lord.

She is survived by two sons and one daughter, James W. Swain, of Greensboro; John P. Swain, of Raleigh, and Mrs. Vernon F. Moss, Jr., of Wilson; one brother, D. W. Wood, of LaGrange; and one sister, Mrs. R. E. Beaman, of Wilson; and by a large number of more distant relatives and friends whose lives were made richer because she lived.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

Hatley

Doris Marie Hatley died on February 28, 1934, aged 19 years, six months and 19 days. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie R. Hatley, of the Friendship community of Stanly County. Doris Marie was a consecrated Christian girl, having united with Friendship Methodist Protestant church on August 16, 1925, and remained a loyal member until death. She was president of the Christian Endeavor Society, church pianist, and a good worker in the Sunday school. She was a graduate of Albemarle High School.

The church and community at large have lost one of its most lovely girls; she always filled her place in the life of the church and community in an admirable way, and her example can safely be followed; her testimony and advice to the young people, especially of the C. E. Society, will never be forgotten. These young people are going to grow better because Doris Marie lived. She gave a beautiful testimony before leaving; life was beautiful and she enjoyed living, but she was gentle and submissive to the divine will of God.

This was the first death in this family. She leaves her father and mother, three sisters, Mrs. Lottie Mae Lomax, Edith, and Grace Katherine Hatley; three brothers, Clyde, McKenzie, and Daniel Hatley.

The funeral was conducted at Friendship church by her former pastor, Rev. O. B. Williams, and Rev. A. D. Shelton, and her mortal remains were laid away in the new family plot in Friendship cemetery. The floral designs were many and beautiful.

We are praying that the Holy Comforter will comfort every member of the grief-stricken family. O. B. WILLIAMS.

Now, everybody take off your spectacles and see who is at the head of the list this week. That young man, Surratt, at Community Church got tired of playing second fiddle, and so he said to everybody, "Now, gentlemen, let me tell you something. There's no use in trifling with this thing any longer; I am going to put Community Church over the top in the Herald campaign," and he came very near doing it last week. I am fully expecting him to finish the job in fine style this week. And Whitakers nosed out Calvary last week by a very small fraction of a point. It is both singular and interesting how many ties we are having for places of honor.

Well, Graham and Fountain Place, it is just too bad there is not some place for you in my column this week, but I cannot help it. Maybe you'll come again good and strong next week.

It is certainly fine to see so much interest in the campaign. The letters that I am getting personally and the amount of money being sent in each week make me know that the campaign is on and that it is moving. All along the line with the exception of just a few sectors, the battle is being pressed. If we will just follow the slogan I gave you last week, which is "MORE NEXT WEEK," we will soon accomplish wonders. So may it be. Let the good work go on!

Jesus Expounds Murder

By W. A. Ledford

Jesus interpreted murder, not alone from acts and results, but what was in the hearts of men. A man might be a wilful murderer in his heart, but lack opportunity to carry out his murderous designs. Years ago I was present with a group of men when another came along and reported the assassination of the late President McKinley. An enraged partisan spoke with a deal of feeling, "If I had wrung that pistol from the hand of that assassin, I would have emptied the remainder of loaded shells in his heart."

A common reaction from a casual reading of Jesus' discussion of this important and timely theme, is that the penalties are out of proportion to the offenses. Just being angry with one's brother would hardly call for being brought before the Judgment. Just saying "Raca" to another, which is a term of contempt, would hardly justify being hauled before the Council. The climax is being endangered of "hell fire" for calling a brother a fool. Besides the Scriptures elsewhere exhort us to be angry and sin not, and Jesus called the two travelers on the way to Emmaus "foolish men and slow of heart."

A more thoughtful and prayerful consideration reveals things that are not seen on the surface, and are often missed by the casual reader. Modern scholarship throws a flood of light on this passage of Scripture by translating the original Greek "malign" and "rebel" rather than "anger" and "fool." The word "malign" gives the deadly flavor to the venom in the offending heart. Maligning is murdering another's fair name, reputation, and influence, which are all sacred, and inseparable parts of personality. This is done by poisoning, which is the most deadly and cowardly type of murder. We become indignant when some cowardly person poisons our pet dog, and may not God become righteously furious when some gossiper, wilfully and maliciously murders some of His children, made in His own image and likeness?

The teachings and example of Jesus should cause us to be slow to treat any one with contempt. That is not the Christian way of treating brothers. Yes, I know how subtle the art, and what adepts we mortals are in its practice. I have in mind now two ladies who are in the choir of the same church, weekly rub against each other, and haven't spoken to each other in over twenty-five years. Each treats the other with as much contempt, as if she were a hound; guilty of sucking eggs and killing sheep. Surely men of like passions with ourselves should be treated with more dignity and respect.

The word commonly translated "fool" in our Bibles, is not a Greek word meaning "fool" at all, but a Hebrew word meaning "rebel." When one brother calls another "Rebel," he commits the same sin that Moses committed at the waters of Meribah. The punishment administered to Moses and Aaron gives us some conception of the heinousness of such an offense. The more we look at and into these well known offenses, the more convinced we become that they are neither slight, petty, nor trivial in the sight of God. It would be much btter for us not to malign, treat with contempt, nor classify our brothers. The judgment seat is not ours with its responsibilities.

So far Jesus discussed this theme, negatively; but He always has a positive word. Here it is: "If therefore thou art offering thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, and first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." If at the altar, where all our sins come before us, we remember maligning, treating contemptuously and calling a brother a rebel, go and make that right before worshipping Almighty God with sacrifices. The Golden Rule, the New Commandment, along with all the ministry of Jesus show how dearly He was concerned about our relation with each other—that we live in peace and harmony together, here and now.

NON-CHRISTIANS PROMOTE CHRISTIAN IDEALS

E. Stanley Jones speaks of planting in the soul of nations "ideas that are working like leaven—permeating, saturating, and changing the sum total of life from within. That is exactly what is happening in the East today. Far beyond the borders of the Christian Church there are Christian ideas and ideals that are working an internal revolution in the whole of the life of the East."

Dr. Jones continues: "Said a leading non-Christian of India: 'Just as Mahatma Gandhi has Christianized nationalism, so K. T. Paul has nationalized Christianity.' Note 'has Christianized nationalism'—a non-Christian has Christianized nationalism! 'Isn't it our Christian duty to help our Mohammedan brethren in their difficulties?' asked a Hindu of me one day. A Hindu talks about his Christian duty toward his Mohammedan brethren! Mixed up but glorious. It tells of the silent permeation of a people by new ideas and new conceptions."

Don't we sometimes show more zeal to get the Christian label attached to a person or an idea than we do to develop what is in reality Christian in a person or an idea? And doesn't the denominational label at times loom larger than the Christian quality?

When I worship with a Jewish congregation, as I frequently do, and recognize in their hymns, responsive readings, prayers, and discourses the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ—and the very spirit of Jesus Himself—I am glad. And isn't God pleased? And isn't Jesus glorified, though He is not recognized by name? If He is what we believe Him to be, is He not willing to wait patiently for the full recognition of His person? The acceptance of His spirit is of far greater importance than the mere repeating of His name.

I sometimes get into what may truthfully be described as assemblages of freak worshipers. The singing, the motions, the ideas (if any), and the professions are so raw and irrational that an observer feels inclined to withdraw. Observing more closely and sympathetically, however, I see here and there a face and an attitude that indicate a serious desire and seeking for something higher and better than what has been attained. I may think the method is wrong. But what group of people has always been right in their religious methods?

What they need is instruction and sympathetic guidance. Superior airs and a condemning spirit will not aid a would-be-guide in gaining their confidence and influencing them for good.

There is just now a real crisis in foreign missions. Receipts of money have fallen discouragingly. Many givers are questioning the wisdom of trying to carry our religion to other peoples, when that religion has so disastrously failed to keep western civilization out of the terrible mess into which it has fallen. Surely we have no right merely to attack and destroy non-Christian faiths. All peoples are in distress. It seems wise, under present conditions, to recognize and to be grateful for the effort of everyone who is seeking to build up a good character, and a good life. Understanding, appreciation, co-operation, giving the best we have—this seems to be the line promising the best results.

I was in conversation with a group of seven men at a picnic a few days ago. Two of them were brought up Roman Catholics, though they have not been in their church for many years. They think they find no evidence of the existence of God or a future life. The other men—I do not know their denominational connections—expressed belief in God, confidence in a hereafter, and the conviction that we are accountable for the kind of life we live here. I presume their creeds and practices would not be considered orthodox in every respect by some church people. But there are well-meaning and good-living men, and they frown upon prevalent lawlessness and dishonesty. I hail such men everywhere as brothers, and pray that all of us together may partake more largely of God's good spirit.

JESUS CONSTANTLY GAVE HIS LIFE FOR US

It was not by his death that Christ saved the world, but by laying down his life for the world—by his death only as that was an inevitable consequence of the completeness of his consecration to his Father's will.

Passion week began when he was born. From the beginning to the end his life was laid down for humanity.

Jesus truly laid down his life when he went into the wilderness and wrestled with the tempter.

He truly laid down his life when he went into the courts of Jerusalem and scourged out the traders, knowing what hostility he was arousing.

He truly laid down his life when he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, where his enemies were, and his disciples followed amazed and wonder-stricken that he should go thither.

He truly laid down his life for humanity when he knew the plot that Judas was making for his destruction and refused to flee.

He truly laid down his life for humanity when he faced the mob in the Temple courts in Jerusalem and told the Hebrews to their face that they were traitors to their God and to their native land.

In all these events of his daily life Jesus was as truly laying down his life for humanity as when in the court of Pilate he said, "I am a king," and when in the court of Caiaphas he said, "I am the Son of God," and walked out bearing his cross to be nailed upon it.

And in all this he was interpreting the life of God in his world; the life of a Father who always has compassion on his children, always goes out to seek and to save them, always shares their sorrows and their sins.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE NEWS

The A Capella Choir, High Point College, will appear in sacred concert at various places within the next few weeks, as indicated below:

Friday, April 6—12:00-12:15 p.m., over Radio Station WPTF, Raleigh; 2:00-2:30 p.m., before the Governor and officials in the Capitol Building, Raleigh; 8:00 p.m., Methodist Protestant church, Enfield.

South Entrance to Roberts Hall
High Point College

It will be remembered that this institution is the only four-year standard Methodist Protestant College in the South. Its phenomenal growth in the ten years of its history; its high scholastic rating—A grade; its magnificent buildings, with unexcelled living quarters for the students and spacious accommodations for class and laboratory work; the fine type of student within the enrollment; the unusual moral and religious tone of the campus life there; these things should all commend themselves to Methodist Protestants, particularly, in North Carolina. They will do well to educate their children in the environment of a campus life such as found at High Point College.

Saturday, April 7—High School, Aurelian Springs.

Sunday, April 8—11:00 a.m., M. E. church, Roanoke Rapids; 4:00 p.m., Stevens Theatre, Henderson.

Monday, April 10—8:30-9:25 a.m., High Point High School.

Sunday, April 15—7:30 p.m., Wesley Memorial M. E. church, High Point.

Thursday, April 19—7:30 p.m., West End Baptist church, High Point.

Sunday, April 22—4:00 p.m., Sunset Theatre, Asheboro; 7:30 p.m., Balfour Baptist church, Asheboro.

Those interested in having the A Capella Choir visit their community should get in touch with Rev. N. M. Harrison, Promotional Secretary of the College, at once.

The Christian Endeavor Society gave a candy-pulling recently for the students and faculty. Five cents was charged for the privilege of pulling and eating the candy. A large number took part in the affair. For several years the Christian Endeavorers have clothed a child at the Children's Home, and it was for this cause that the money-making social event was held.

Dr. C. R. Hill, of the English department, is bringing weekly to the campus an interesting array of speakers. Each Monday evening he assembles the freshman group in the auditorium for a lecture by some business or professional man or woman. Last week Dr. T. Wingate Andrews, Superintendent of Schools of High Point, lectured on "The Lost Heavens." Another recent speaker addressed the students on "Advertising." These lectures are proving of such interest that other students are requesting the privilege of attending.

Coach Virgil Yow is daily, when the weather will permit, drilling his men in the theory and technique of baseball. Six letter men from last year's varsity will form the nucleus about which he hopes to build a winning team this year. The new men are showing good form. The schedule includes twenty-one games, ten of which will be played on the home grounds.

Another recent social event was a party given by the Modern Priscilla Club. The affair was held in Woman's Hall from 8 to 10 o'clock and the admission charge was fifteen cents. The proceeds were used to buy equipment for the cooking laboratory of the Home Economics department. The Home Ec. girls served refreshments and directed the games.

An essay contest, sponsored by the English department for freshmen only, created much interest in this class, and resulted in the selection of the winners as follows:

First Place, Dorothy Bell, Southport, N. C.

Second Place, George Armfield, High Point, N. C.

Third Place, Billy Weisner, High Point, N. C.

Dr. Hill presented the winners with prizes in the form of books. All three students are outstanding in their class records. Miss Bell made "A" in every subject last semester.

Original dramas are being written by several members of the Laboratory Theatre group. It is expected that the best will be produced by the students some time this spring. Miss Dorothy Bell is writing a folk play on life along the eastern coast of the state, entitled "Mud." T. C. Morris, Salisbury, Md., is developing a prison story called "Murder." Miss Jewel Welch, High Point, has chosen the familiar episode in American history portraying the affair between President Andrew Jackson and Peggy O'Neil, for her plot.

There are six social or Greek letter clubs on the campus, which prove of great social interest and development to the students. Three are for young ladies and three for young men. At this season of the year, they have what is called "rush week," at which times they extend invitations to the students of their choice who are eligible to join. "Rush week" ended with the following results:

Epsilon Eta Phi fraternity, the students indicated accepted the invitation: Kermit Cloninger, Lincolnton; James Warlick, Lawndale; Junius Woollen, High Point; Alton Hartman, Advance; John Eshelman, High Point; Joe Crowder, High Point.

The Delta Alpha Epsilon fraternity received: Billy Weisner, George Elder, William VonDrehle, and Robert Byrum, all of High Point.

Iota Tau Kappa fraternity was favored with the acceptance of the following: John Hussy, Florence, S. C.; Wilson Rogers, Denton; John Rudisill, Lincolnton; John Warlick, Lawndale; Russell Brown, Reidsville; G. I. Humphreys, Jr., High Point; Tink Shore, King; Paul Brinkley, Welcome; Quinton Veach, Thomasville; Wade Apple, Reidsville, and George Ingle, Siler City.

Theta Phi sorority pledges are: Lucy Clyde Ross, Asheboro; Rebecca Kearns, Leora Hampp. Mildred Crowder, Frances Kueth, and Julia Coe, all of High Point; Mary Bowman Shepard, Liberty; Sarah Hariss, Summerfield, and Gray Jackson, Mt. Croghan, S. C.

Alpha Theta Psi welcomed: Virginia Seward, Virginia Walker, and Iris Welch, all of High Point, and Laura Fritz, Lexington.

The invitation of Sigma Alpha Phi was accepted by: Margaret Smith, Winston-Salem; Evelyn Williams, Graham; Lucille Warlick, Lawndale, and Elizabeth Pirtle, Montgomery, Ala.

SHOULD CHRISTIANS DANCE?

By T. W. Callaway

By Christian is meant one born again by the Holy Spirit, through the Word, and thus made a member of the invisible Church, the body of Christ. This message does not concern the mere professing Christians, who have the name only. With them the question should be whether and how to become a Christian indeed. One must first receive Christ before one can receive instruction on how to live the Christian life.

The one question for the Christian to decide is whether the dance is of the world or not. If worldly, his attitude is clear and unquestionable.

The dance is seen to be worldly by its effect on the believer. It kills piety, dulls the conscience, destroys spiritual power, grieves the Holy Spirit, and dwarfs the prayer life. Praying knees and dancing feet are not joined. A dancer may have a form of prayer, but no earnest pleading, no real supplicating, no unction when praying. A dancing preacher would have his testimony discounted at once .Who would hear or accept his gospel? Then, also, a dancing church member has no power to lead a lost soul from darkness into the gospel light.

Dancing is mentioned in the Bible: (1) As a religious act, performed usually by maidens, in the day time, in the open air, in highways, fields, or groves. There is no instance in the Bible where both sexes united in such dancing. David danced because of great joy in the Lord. (2) Dancing is shown in the Bible as sin, and by sinners; vain fellows devoid of shame; of the irreligious families described by Job; that of Herodias, which terminated in the rash vow of Herod and the murder of John the Baptist. Idol worship was invariably accompanied by gross forms of dancing, lewd dancing, like that of today. See Exodus 32:19 and 25.

The pet verse often quoted by those defending the dance is Ecclesiastes 3:4, "There is a time to mourn and a time to dance." Since the Jewish people knew nothing of dancing except as a religious act before the Lord or before idols, it is obvious which is meant.

The Warning of the Word

"Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil men."

"Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness."

"If sinners entice thee, consent thou not."

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly."

"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world."

"If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

"The friendship of the world is enmity with God."

"Come out from among them, and be ye separate."

"The pleasures of this world choke the Word."

"I [Jesus] have called you out of the world."

Reasons for the Warning

Because it leads to impure thoughts, improper conversation, immodest action, and immoral living.

Because the universal testimony of superintendents of rescue homes is, that the dance hall is one of the chief causes of the defection in the morals of girls.

Because Christians in participating are "yoked together with unbelievers" and show no difference between them.

Because often a girl will dance in the embrace of a man on the ballroom floor with whom she would be ashamed to be seen on the streets.

Because dancing feeds the old carnal nature, and Christians are exhorted to "make no provision for the flesh."

Because dancing never made a Christian a better Sunday school teacher, church worker, wife, or mother.

Because the church - member - dancer becomes at once a stumbling-block, and is called by the world a hypocrite.

Because the modern dance calls for motions and movements that cannot be executed or enjoyed without close physical contact of the dancers.

Because the modern dances were invented in the brothels by the most degraded men and women, and by a most subtle procedure have received the approval of society and pose under the guise of respectability.

"Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughter,s saith the Lord Almighty."—. 2 Corinthians 6:17.—The Bible Institute Colportage Association.

—The Congregationalists and the Christians have united their two general church newspapers, The Congregationalist of Boston and The Herald of Gospel Liberty of Dayton, Ohio. The Christian Sun still serves the south.

—Since ill health came upon us we have received advice as to recovery of health. This advice came from friends and much of it was wholesome. But some of it is rather puzzling. For instance, one friend cautions that we avoid oranges and orange juice, while another friend urges that we eat oranges to abundance. We decided that we would try both prescriptions—eat some and let some alone. We never knew till recently how much good liquid there is in an orange peel. We find that we have been wasting our oranges by trying to eat them like apples. An orange calls for an orange squeezer.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

The Half-Year Meet

I am hopeful of putting on in the latter part of May a meeting to review the results of the six months' activities and to lay special emphasis upon what must be done in order that the year shall be closed in good form. Plans are now being formed for this meeting and it is our expectation to have present two visiting speakers to bring us inspirational messages, besides those of our own conference who may appear on the program. We hope to have at least seventy-five per cent of our pastors present and also to have lay representatives from as many pastoral charges. Such a meeting has great potentialities and we believe it can be of great service to our workers this year.

Group Meetings

We are beginning a series of meetings which we hope to continue through the summer with our church workers—the official boards of our rural charges and others who are deeply enough interested in the work of the church to attend them. At these meeteings we shall have discussed such topics as Religion in the Home, Evangelism, Stewardship, Layman's Fellowship, the Women's Auxiliaries, etc., by some one well prepared to present the subject. Then we will offer opportunity for free discussion, so that any one present may take part in the meetings. The meetings will all be confined to small areas. No effort will be made to get three or four circuits together as formerly; in most cases the meeting will be held in a central place on a circuit for the officials and other members of said charge.

Gray's Chapel, Saturday, April 14

We will hold one of these meetings. It is to be an all-day meeting and the following speakers have already been secured: Evangelism, Dr. S. W. Taylor; Stewardship, Rev. N. G. Bethea; some representative of the Layman's Fellowship will be there and the president of the conference will discuss the duties of church officials. Brother Suits is inviting the members of the choirs in nearby churches to come and add to the pleasure of the occasion with special music.

Request for Prayer

I have a letter from a troubled wife asking the prayers of the readers of the HERALD for her and her husband. He has been so unkind to her and neglected her so much of late that it is breaking her heart; so this troubled woman is asking the prayers of all who read this that this trouble may be healed and that joy may take the place of this great sorrow.

When Organization Counts

We sometimes hear speakers decry organization as though it were a vain thing, if not an evil thing; and on the other hand we hear other speakers praise organization as though it were the only thing. But while organization without power is futile, power without organization is often chaos or no more than an idle dream. They must be co-ordinated. The organization must be vitalized and the power wisely directed to be of most efficient service. There are lots of dead organizations—even churches—which have only the form of life. But little or nothing can be accomplished by such organizations. It is like building a water wheel far from a stream and expecting to run machinery by it. But that does not signify that organization can't be of great service. In fact, it is absolutely indispensable in all activities where several people are engaged. A church ought by all means to be well organized—not to trust to the organization for power, but to trust it as a channel or means by which the power shall be wisely used. I happen to know some churches which have enthusiastic peoples, some members with talent for service, and members who want to do something worth while, but there is no organized form of life—the energies are not directed, and often but little is accomplished where much could be and would be accomplished, if definite goals were set and the workers directed to the accomplishment of the objectives.

Kannapolis, Rev. C. P. Morris, Pastor

I visited this church at the morning worship hour. There was present a large number for Sunday school and a splendid congregation for preaching. The pastor opened the doors of the church and received eleven members, baptized one infant, took offering for World Service and a second offering for th Annual Conference Expenses. The amount for the expenses was more than pledged and paid when the service closed.

Here is a congregation that has outgrown its quarters. They do not have room for all the Sunday school classes in the church, and the house was well filled at the preaching service. Already twenty-five members have been received since conference. All assessments are paid to date.

The official board is seriously considering a new church. If times were a little more normal I believe they would venture at once upon the project, and may do it anyway. It is certainly a live group, full of enthusiasm and ready for every good work. I hope that a way shall soon be found to supply them of this their great need—an ample equipment to house their Sunday school and congregation.

Brother Morris is serving his second year and is quite popular with his members. It is a joy to see our young men doing such splendid work as they leave college and go into the pastorate. It was a pleasure to visit this little group of workers.

South China Grove Church

This society was organized Sunday night. Twenty-eight members were received and four more are expected to come in when their letters can be received. The service was held in an old theater building on the rightway; but this is too far from th homes of the people who will attend this church and soon we imagine some arrangement will be found to hold services in the village where the members and prospective members live. A canvass of the community had been made, and thre certainly appears to be plenty of room for this new church there.

Rev. J. O. Fry, a minister in the Wesleyan Church, had already joined the Kannapolis church and it was he who gathered the group together for organization. He was asked by the group to serve them as pastor until conference, and I have appointed him to serve in that capacity. Officials were elected and a Sunday school had already been organized, and plans are made to participate in all the work of the denomination. A report will be sent in by others.

MR. PREACHER, MEET SATAN

By James L. Elderdice

A young theological student refused to write a thesis on "The Devil." "No, I don't want to know anything about him. I don't intend to have anything to do with him, and I can put my time to better use than trying to find out anything about him." And there are those who commend that attitude toward the Devil as being a wise and safe one—which must be an amusing and satisfactory one to his Satanic Majesty, who is thoroughly acquainted with every individual, and has something to do with every one of us.

Since "all Scripture is given by inspiration and is profitable for . . . instruction," and since it tells us a great deal about the character, purposes and doings of Satan, as well as about the character, purposes and doings of God, and since they also repeatedly warn us to be "vigilant" of Satan's lionlike approaches, to "resist" him, not to be deceived of his agents, who "transformed as the ministers of righteousness" seek to seduce us, and not to be "ignorant of his devices," "lest Satan should get an advantage over us," it is evident that one of the most profitable exercises of the Christian minister is to "search the Scriptures" for all that can be learned concerning mankind's greatest enemy.

It is not necessary to occupy the position of the backwoodsman, who wrote a letter to an evangelist who had held a successful revival in his neighborhood, in which he said: "Before you came here I had never heard of either God or the Devil, and now I know and love them both." We should know both, but to love and serve God, and to hate and fight the Devil.

Unfortunately, there are those so little familiar with the "devices" of the Devil, and so little concerned about the destructive results of his operations, that they say, when their attention is directed to the mischief that is being wrought in their membership and community by the propaganda of all sorts of soul-destroying doctrines, "The best way to deal with these matters is just to pay no attention to them. Let them alone, and interest will soon die out." On the same principle that the way to check a spreading fire is to let it alone, or not to molest the wolf that enters the fold to destroy the flock.

Their members come to these pastors, perplexed, or perhaps deceived by the alluring or specious character of pamphlets they have read, or the charming talks of some intelligent parlor lecturer, explaining his or her pernicious cult, and ask them their opinion as to the truth or falsity of these teachings, only to have the whole subject dismissed with an airy wave of the hand and the reply, "That sort of truck? All bosh! I never read it, know nothing about it, and the best thing you can do is to chuck it into the fire."

That pastor's conception of his ministry is very low who thinks he meets all the requirements of his office when he preaches sermons, visits the sick, and carries out all the special day programs of the Church. Because we are warned that "many false prophets shall arise," because "The Spirit expressly teaches that . . . some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils," that "there shall be false teachers . . . who privily shall bring in damnable heresies," we are admonished to do three things "Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus."

The average church member's knowledge of Scripture teaching is quite elementary, at least not sufficient to prevent being led into the acceptance of very dangerous doctrines, so plausibly represented as being exposition of Bible truth, and so apparently verified by the liberal use of Scripture texts, perverted and misinterpreted as to deceive the very elect. Take a pastor as ignorant of the interpretations and logic of these "damnable heresies," and of their origin, as his members are of the Scriptures, and you have a field from which the Devil will reap a fine harvest of tares. Moreover, should such a pastor come into contact with the skillful controversialist of atheism, or any other popular heresy, he would suffer a humiliating defeat in the attempt to refute his teachings, and thereby lose prestige, and the loss of confidence in him as a defender of the faith.

"Study to show thyself a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." We have in mind a pastor whose idea of becoming such was to secure heretical literature direct from the publishers, then to secure from other publishers anti-heretical literature. Thus the bane and antidote were both before him. The arbiter between these contestants was the Word of God. Every statement was brought to this standard to determine its truth or falsity. The result was that this seeking to obtain all possible information about the Devil and his "devices," with the consequent intensive search in the Scriptures to learn "whether those things were so," greatly enlarged his knowledge of Scripture truth, more fully confirmed his faith in its divine origin, and convinced him that there is no possible perversion of the truth by false prophets that cannot be successfully refuted by "It is written," and "it is written again."

There was the added satisfaction of being able to help inquirers after truth, by pointing out to them what Scripture would refute error, and to meet on their own ground the advocates of false doctrines and to prove that their heresies were age-worn and amply refuted centuries ago.

Would you be fully equipped to "fight the good fight of faith?" The Bible Institute Colportage Association, Chicago, The Biola Book Room, Los Angeles, American Tract Society and Loezeaux Brothers Truth Depot, New York, and various other publishers, can furnish abundant ammunition for the warfare against all the spiritual foes that are assaulting the Church and the Word of God.

THREE EGGS

Somewhere in New York a heavy-set man bald, of a rather testy turn of mind, is walking around with a poached egg in his pocket—or was. We heard about it from a gentleman named Gardiner who was in a Childs restaurant with his wife and two children, Julia and Patricia. All four of them saw what happened. The heavy-set man had ordered two poached eggs. When the waitress appeared bearing a shiny white plate with the two eggs shimmering on it and swung around to place it before him, one of the eggs slipped noiselessly and amazingly into his right hand coat pocket. The girl was panicky, but the man hadn't noticed what had happened. He glowered at the plate. "I ordered two eggs, didn't I?" he snarled. "I'm sorry, sir," the girl said simply, and wisely. Then she hurried to the kitchen and brought another egg. About ten minutes later the man put down a dime tip and left, with the egg.—New Yorker.

SETH PARKER AND WORLD PEACE

Phillips H. Lord, of Jonesport, Maine, better known as "Seth Parker," has purchased a four-masted schooner in which to tour the world. We are told that he has a contract with the National Broadcasting Company to "bring him back by radio from several remote places," these to be the biggest broadcasts since radio came into being, covering Europe as well as America. We understand, too, that he has a contract with the Winston Publishing Company for a series of new books for boys, to be called "Phil Lord Before the Mast," "Phil Lord in India," etc. A certain large motion picture company also is said to have engaged him to make thirteen short pictures of the expedition which will be sent back to this country to be run while he is away. He will also make six short "Seth Parker" pictures based on the character of "Seth Parker," a Down East, Maine Yankee, seeing for the first time the strange things the remote places of the world have to offer.

He will produce all this and much more for the sake of us at the "Home Base." But think of the international, interracial possibilities of this tour of the good peace ship, Seth Parker! Mr. Lord, acknowledged by most of us to be one of America's great religious influences—will be a veritable embassador of the Lord of Love and Peace to all peoples. In personality, in character of contact, in method of approach, he will do a work for international understanding and peace that even our highest grade missionaries cannot do. The spirit of this earnest Christian will permeate every community he touches. Let's wish him bon voyage.—Missionary Herald.

THE WAY FOR MYRTLE

"O Mother! Dad! Everybody!" Myrtle burst into the living-room, her cheeks flushed, her eyes wide and dark with excitement.

"What is it, dear?" her mother wondered.

"Here, here! Calm down!" cautioned her father, laughing at her speechless condition.

"Yes, think of the hard-working blood vessels!" Tom added.

"Tell us, quick!" Elsie demanded. "What is it?"

"Mr. Kincaid!" Myrtle announced, dropping into a chair and drawing a long breath.

"Been killed, has he?" Tom jeered heartlessly. "Never heard of him!"

"Oh, he's wonderful!" Myrtle exclaimed. "He's to be here next month."

"What of it?" Tom prodded.

"Well—I'm coming to the important part. * * He's to lecture and sing, I think. He's a wonderful singer—coach—teacher. * * He's the president of that music college in New York. We were talking about it last night, mother! Remember? And I met Mrs. Draper at the conservatory just now. She's to have a reception for him—and, mother!—she asked me to sing! For Mr. Kincaid! I ran all the way home to tell you!"

"Huh!" Tom offered disgustedly. "That's nothing! Suppose he says your voice is fine? That you ought to study at his college? You've no money to spend like that."

"That's just the point!" Myrtle assured them. "He's going to give a scholarship! Think of it! To some girl from this part of the country. He's to visit six cities on this trip and wants to hear the best talent—student work, of course. When he goes home he'll make a selection. * * O Mother! Daddy! Wouldn't it be wonderful if he should choose me?"

"Very wonderful," her mother agreed.

Myrtle looked anxiously at her father.

"I wish I could send you," he told her slowly. "It hurts—not to be able to help my own child."

"Daddy!" she reproached, throwing herself into his arms. "You have helped me—you and mother—more than you'll ever know. You've fitted me to live and to make a living. You've given me every opportunity—every advantage this place affords. You've given until it has hurt—us all. I won't let you help me any more—financially. It's up to me—to help myself."

"If Mr. Kincaid likes you—you'll get the scholarship?" Elsie questioned excitedly.

"If he likes my voice. If it's good enough. Oh, I hope! My voice is good, isn't it?"

"Wonderful!" they assured her.

"It was kind of Mrs. Draper to ask you to sing," Mrs. Taylor said gratefully.

"Yes—wasn't it? She said I had the best voice around here—would more than likely win! Oh, I'm going to work so hard—getting ready—"

"It's because you have worked so hard that you are ready," her father reminded. "The years behind will count, not the month ahead."

"You have a chance," Mr. Saget, the voice teacher at the conservatory, assured her. "It will be wonderful if you get it. Master teachers, you could never afford to pay for lessons. It's the opportunity of a lifetime."

Myrtle counted the days, almost the hours. Only seven, six, five, four, three left!

"Mr. Saget is to play for me," Myrtle told the family that night. "Mrs. Draper invited all the faculty to meet Mr. Kincaid. It's funny—she hasn't said another thing to me about singing."

"She has a guest," Elsie said. "A very pretty girl about your age. Some kin, I think. She sings beautifully. I heard her. Myrtle! Do you suppose!"

"What?" Myrtle asked.

"Do you suppose she intends for that girl to sing?"

"Perhaps," Myrtle admitted. "She said she would not ask another girl to sing because I was a sort of protege of the club. But if this girl is a relative and visiting from this section of the country, why, of course she would have the right—"

"Lots of girls will sing for him," Mrs. Taylor told them. "It won't make any difference if this girl does sing."

"N-no," Myrtle agreed uneasily.

"I am so thrilled!" Myrtle said impulsively, stopping at the curb. "Every time I think of Mr. Kincaid I—well, I almost have heart failure!"

"Do you expect to hear his lecture?" Mra. Draper asked in cool, condescending tones. "He is a splendid speaker. I think he will sing, too. * * He is to be my house guest and I am giving a little affair in his honor tomorrow afternoon * *. So busy! And here I am waiting while my niece selects a frock for my party. Oh, here she is! My niece, Audrey Fitzgerald, Miss—er—Taylor * *. Audrey has a marvelous voice. I would love for you to hear her! She is to sing for Mr. Kincaid at my little party tomorrow. I am expecting her to capture that scholarship he is offering * * . So glad to have seen you * *. I hope you will enjoy the lecture * *."

Myrtle walked away fighting back tears of bitter humiliation and despair. Before the conservatory she hesitated. Finally she went in. Mr. Saget was alone in his studio. Myrtle poured out her story.

"Too bad!" he sympathized. "It's just too bad! I'm sorry."

"Couldn't I sing for him?" Myrtle demanded. "Couldn't we make a way?"

"I'm afraid not. He's to be her guest. She's back of this lecture—paying for it, in fact. But the club's getting the credit. He's to be her guest. Gets in at two—reception in the late afternoon, then the lecture at the hall. He is to leave at midnight. I'm sorry * * . It's too bad!"

Myrtle carried her mangled dreams home and wept out her disappointment in her mother's arms.

"Don't say anything about it, please!" she entreated at last. "It can't be helped and it hurts horribly! I want to forget all about it—"

The next day was crammed with misery. Beneath the hot pain of every minute throbbing stabs of hatred tore her. Mrs. Draper! Some day she would get even!

Late afternoon found her alone in the house. Her mother was visiting a sick friend. Tom and Elsie were at the library. Not time to start supper * *. She sat down, allowing herself to think of the brilliant reception in progress at Mrs. Draper's lovely house. Mrs. Draper—gracious, charming * *. The crowd of exquisite, perfumed women * *. The distinguished honor guest * *. Perhaps even now that girl was singing. That was all right. But her chance had been taken away! Oh! She would never forgive Mrs. Draper, never!

Never? Carry this horrible, biting thing in her heart? Feel its malignant, insect-like sting repeatedly? Oh, no! The disappointment was bad enough—it had left a scar upon her life. But hate—why, hate would leave a scar upon her soul!

"Hate," Myrtle said aloud, "Hate! It's very sound is ugly, but it's touch! It's my own fault. I opened a welcoming heart and said, 'Come in.' Now I can't make it go out! I can't * *." She slipped to her knees, buried her head in her arms, rested quiet against the cushions of the big chair.

Twilight lay grey upon the world when she rose to her feet. Her eyes were soft—her expression tranquil. She sat down at the piano and ran her fingers carelessly across the keys. Then she began to sing:

"If the world from you withhold of its silver and its gold,
And you have to get along with meager fare,
Just remember, in His Word, how He feeds the little bird;
Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there.

"Leave it there . . . Leave it there . . .
Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there. . . .
If you trust and never doubt, He will surely bring you out;
Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there.

"When your enemies assail and your heart begins to fail,
Don't forget that God in heaven answers prayer;
He will make a way for you and will lead you safely through,
Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there.

"Leave it there . . . Leave it there . . .
Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there. . . .
If you trust and never doubt, He will surely bring you out;
Take your burden to the Lord and leave it there."

"That's the best singing you've ever done in your life!" her father approved from the doorway.

"Daddy!" springing up in consternation. "Oh, I was to get supper! I had no idea! I'm sorry! It will be late!"

"Never mind. It doesn't matter. Everything all right with you?" he asked, slipping his arm about her.

"Yes, daddy! Very much all right!" she assured him.

Two weeks later Myrtle received an important-looking letter.

"New York," she wondered, examining the postmark. "I wonder—" ripping it open. "From Mr. Kincaid!" she gasped. "Listen! I'll read it aloud!"

"My Dear Miss Taylor:

"I recently filled a lecture date in your city and was the guest of Mrs. Adrian Draper. She is an old friend and was pleased to take advantage of friendship. She staged a reception in my honor. After the melee I escaped and wandered in the late twilight about the city. Upon a quiet side street I heard a girl singing. I stood listening until the last note died away. The song spoke of burdens—of a place where they may be discarded. I have many burdens. That song spoke to my soul. Later I realized the quality and power of your voice. I made inquiries from Mr. Saget at the conservatory. I learned your name and your ambitions. I heard of Mrs. Drapers shabby behavior and your disappointment. Don't worry about that any longer. I heard you sing, after all. You have a lovely voice and something altogether lovely back of it. You will be able to use it for the good of the world and the glory of God. It gives me great pleasure to offer you the coveted scholarship with an extra year of study added to it."

"Oh—how wonderful!" Myrtle gasped. "How perfectly wonderful!" To herself, she added: "And if I had gone on hating Mrs. Draper it would never have happened. This big thing came to me because I could not bear to be small enough to hate anybody. The Lord gave it to me because I made up my mind to be what He wanted me to be, even if I couldn't have what I wanted. And then He gave me—this! Oh, how wonderful! How perfectly wonderful!"—Kind Words.

WHY DOES A HEN CACKLE AFTER LAYING AN EGG?

This characteristic is supposed to have been inherited from the wild jungle fowls of India and the Malay Peninsula, which scientists believe were the parents of our domestic chickens. In their wild state they usually run in small flocks of six or eight—one cock and several hens. When a hen is ready to lay she steals away from the flock, lays her egg in a concealed nest, and then cackles to attract the attention of her mates which have wandered away in the meantime. In response, the cocks in the neighborhood begin to cackle, and the lost hen recognizes her flock by the voice of its leader. This cackling characteristic has never been bred out of our domestic fowl. —Exchange.

THE L. T. S. CLUB

If you want to increase your attendance to the High Point Leadership Training School then organize an L. T. S. Club. And what we do we must do quickly, as the date for the school, June 25 to 30th, is just over the hill. And for you to get there it may be a "hill of difficulty," but if you will organize a club it will save many of your difficulties.

J. CLYDE AUMAN, Organizer.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Those who want work at the Conference Leadership Training School, June 25-30, should file their application with Rev. J. Clyde Auman, Graham, N. C., at once. Mr. Auman will handle that phase of the work this year.

PLANNING INTERMEDIATE CURRICULUM FOR VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL

The important problem of what to teach requires a great deal of thought and attention. There is a multitude of materials—one has only to get the catalogue of the circulating library of the M. P. Church (executive secretary, Board of Religious Education, Westminster, Md.) to realize this. Besides the dozens listed there, you can get a similar catalogue from the various denominational boards. What shall we choose.

It seems to me that our aims are to be considered first. Once they are set up, we can choose the material which seeks to accomplish those aims. For this department, I suggest such aims as these: 1. An understanding of worship and an idea of how it may be secured; 2. An appreciation of the life-story of Jesus and of His principles; 3. The training of students in the art of self-expression, through story-telling, dramatizing, etc. If you will secure a copy of Service Bulletin No. 803, Curriculum Material for Vacation Church Schools (International Council of Religious Education) 203 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.), you will find there a brief discussion of each book. This will help a great deal in choosing a course—or courses. You should plan in terms of three years, since there are three age groups in this department. Have a different course—and a developing one—for each group. Use one per year—or, if your group is large, and if you have plenty of teachers, divide the department into three grous and give all the courses at the same time. But plan to hold your students at least the three years.

The New Co-operative Texts, which are to be published in April or early May, are especially recommended by Miss Paschall of the Religious Education Department of Western Maryland. "The Kingdom of Love," by Carrier, is a year course, planned for a week-day school. Yet it can be adapted to a Vacation Church School. It strikes me as a splendid book, embodying all your aims—and others, too.

For rural groups, "The Church and the World's Farmers," by Jenness, should be good.

"How Big Is Your World?" by Lobinger, is another good one. Both of these emphasize the broadening of one's conception of nation and race.

In view of the new Philippine bill which has just passed, giving the Filipinos until October 1st to accept, "The New Philippines," by Leidt, is timely.

In view of the Far Eastern situation, "The Orient Steps Out," by Jenness, is valuable.

"Project Lessons on the Gospel of Mark," by Wadhams, is good.

Decide now what you want, so you can estimate the cost of the school.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Mizpah, Haw River Circuit.—Our revival services began the fourth Sunday night and closed Sunday morning. Services were held each day at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Despite the unusual weather the attendance was good. Rev. O. C. Loy, of Enfield, was the visiting preacher. He preach inspiring sermons at each service. As a result there were 11 to join the church. All were children of the Sunday school with the exception of one who came from another church by letter.

We enjoyed so much having Mr. Loy with us in our church and homes. He will always find a welcome whenever he happens our way.

Pastor Trollinger is still preaching good sermons for us. Recently he preached a series of sermons on the Parables. The subject of the Sunday morning sermon was "The Forgotten Christ." After the discourse 10 children were baptized and received into the church. It was a beautiful scene.

Our Sunday school and C. E. Society are still doing good work. However, there's always room for improvement.

Quite a number of our people have been sick. REPORTER.

Calvary, Greensboro.—Beginning next Sunday evening the hour of our Sunday evening preaching service will be changed from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Sometime ago Dr. Pritchard suggested we set $50.00 as the goal for our Sunday school Easter offerings, and it made us glad to see how happy he was Sunday when he realized this goal had not only been reached but had been passed. Our offering amounted to $52.55. Not a single class fell down on its quota. This made a record Sunday school offering for our church. Our record offering until last Sunday was $31.55.

Just prior to his sermon Sunday morning Dr. Pritchard expressed his thanks and appreciation to the congregation for the fine way in which they responded to the Easter offering.

The theme of our pastor's sermon Sunday morning was "The Empty Tomb." The choir, with Mrs. L. W. Bissett and Mr. Arthur Fiddler as soloists, rendered special Easter music.

The following people united with our church Sunday morning: Mrs. Clifton Causey, Mary Wood Swain, Burton Swain, Roy Younts, Donald Garrett, Charles Bissett and John Smith.

The second quarterly conference was held at the hut Monday evening, at which time J. A. Cox and Howard R. Neece were the nominees for delegates to the Annual Conference to be held at Grace Church next fall.

Practice has begun on the play, "The Path Across the Hills," which the Woman's Auxiliary is planning to present some time in the near future.

Circles Nos. 1 and 2 met jointly at the hut Tuesday afteernoon. Mrs. J. G. Sullivan, new Auxiliary president, presided. Mrs. Willis Booth, treasurer of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Harry Julian, secretary of the Auxiliay, gave their yearly reports. The two circles were divided into three circles and chairmen for each were selected as follows: No. 1, Mrs. J. F. Williams; No. 2, Mrs. David M. Glass, and No. 3, Mrs. R. F. Laughlin. Our Auxiliary budget for last year was $1,000 and we raised $977.90.

Circles Nos. 1 and 2 sponsored a dinner at the Morrison-Neese Salon last Thursday, at which time they cleared $53.27.

Dr. Pritchard conducted the funeral services for Josephine Elizabeth Crews, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Crews, of Spring Garden street, and granddaughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Hutton, Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Pritchard is attending the Branch Meeting at Henderson this week. Delegates from our church who are attending are: Mrs. J. E. Pritchard, Mrs. J. G. Sullivan, Mrs. James Spencer and Mrs. Howard R. Neece.

Miss Blanch Hardee, of Enfield, has been the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Pritchard for the past week. She is going to the Branch Meeting at Henderson with the Pritchards and will return to her home following the meeting.

Since our pastor will be out of town, Rev. W. F. Ashburn will conduct the mid-week prayer service this week.

Fair Grove Church, Why Not Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. George L. Reynolds, filled his appointment here Sunday night, April 1.

Prior to the sermon the members of the Sunday school gave the pageant, "Easter Radiance." The service was very impressive. Miss Joanna Hunt and Mary Lilly had charge of the program. Our Sunday school is real interesting and growing. Mr. M. C. Auman is the superintendent. He has a good corps of teachers to help him.

South Winston Charge.—Our beloved pastor, Bro. Atlas Ridge, came to us again this evening, bringing with him an old friend of his, Bro. Sharp, of Spencer, N. C., who delivered the message, and it was a very inspiring message. His subject was "He is not here. He is risen." And he did well to have so few in the congregation, which was no doubt very discouraging to him, but he must rest assured we all enjoyed his sermon very much and will be glad for him to come back when convenient.

We have had right much sickness in our community for the past three or four weeks. Our superintendent, W. H. Smith, has been sick with pneumonia, but is up and about again. Also Bro. J. E. Littleton had the misfortune to lose him mother, and the community is very much in sympathy with him. Sister Ridge, our pastor's companion, has also been right sick for quite a while and is now very sick. She is at Davidson Hospital, Lexington, N. C. Hope she will soon be on the road to recovery.

We would that all Christians remember Sister Ridge in their prayers that she may soon recover and be with her companion through the walks of life, if it be the Lord's will.

Mrs. C. W. Bowers announces the marriage of her daughter, Mable Marie, to Ernest Leroy Johnson on Saturday, March 31, 1934, at Martinsville, Va., with Rev. J. P. McCabe officiating and using the ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home with the bride's mother, 2059 Urban street, this city. Our church and community wish them both many years of happy life. Mrs. Johnson was formerly our pianist.

On the third Sunday at 9:45 o'clock our Sunday school begins, and at 11 o'clock our preaching service will start, conducted by the pastor. At 3:30 o'clock our second quarterly conference will be held, with regular services at night at 7:30 o'clock.

On the first Sunday in May our 11 o'clock service as usual, with communion service. At 7:30 Dr. R. M. Andrews will be with us for the night service.

Hoping and trusting that our attendance will greatly increase now that the weather has opened up.

Visitors are always welcome at our church.

W. C. NORRIS, Reporter.

Flat Rock Charge.—Our services were well attended last Sunday. There was a decided increase in the attendance at Bethel and Gideon's Grove church. There was a large congregation at Bethel church Sunday night for the Easter program. The pastor and family, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hargrove, of Burlington, enjoyed a good dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Pearman, of Bethel church, last Sunday.

Bro. F. J. Lemmons, of Gideon's Grove church, and Bro. H. B. Pearman, of Bethel church, have subscribed for the Herald.

Services for next Sunday will be at Gideon's Grove at 11 a. m., and at Flat Rock at 3 p. m., with the Lord's Supper at each church. C. B. WAY, Reporter.

Baltimore.—Yesterday was a lovely day. We had a very good attendance at our Sunday school Sunday; also had an Easter service and took an offering for World Service. Then we elected the officers to fill the vacancies caused by the deaths of Mr. J. W. Doub and Mr. J. B. Phillips. Then our pastor, Mr. Williams, preached an excellent serman. His subject was "Why Christ Was Crucified." The sermon was enjoyed by all present.

LILLIE SPEER, Reporter.

Siler City Church.—Last week at our mid-week prayer service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, which was a very impressive service. A good congregation was present.

The Easter spirit was carried out in all services on Easter Sunday. Special music for the Sunday school was furnished by Irvin Ellington and Miss Verda Shaw Fox, who sang a very enjoyable duet, "Take Up Thy Cross." There were 102 present. The Baraca contest come to a close Easter. The defeated side will entertain the winners at a barbecue this afternoon at the Siler City Park. The Baracas and Philatheas entered a contest yesterday for the best average through this quarter.

Mr. Isley filled his appointment at the 11 o'clock hour with a splendid Easter message. Text: Luke 24:13, "And two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus. Mr. Evans Stone of Richmond, Va., sang as a solo "Calvary." The doors of the church were opened for the reception of members. Mr. Austin Nelson, of Hope, Bonlee, had his membership transferred to our church.

At 7:30 a pageant, "Easter Radiance," was presented. With the colored lights and the fact that each one who took a part rendered their very best service, and the untiring efforts of Misses Minnie Cooper and Sallie Smith, who had the responsibility of the program, the entire evening was a decided success. The church was filled to overflowing and the collection amounted to $6.15.

We are very sorry to report that our superintendent, Mr. L. L. Wrenn, is confined to his room with flu; also Mrs. D. L. Johnson is still not able to be up very much. We missed them so much at all the services yesterday.

Mrs. Coley Fox, who has been seriously ill for the past few weeks is able to be up again.

Mr. Evans Stone, of Richmond, Va., is spending the Easter holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Stone.

MRS. J. A. COOPER.

Orange Chapel, Saxapahaw Charge.—Yesterday was an ideal Easter Sunday for visiting as well as church-going, and a good many of our people must have been visiting as they were not at church. We had a fairly good congregation, but not what it should have been. However, this reporter come out of winter quarters and went to church—told the visitors that drove up as we were ready to start to stay till we go back, which they did.

And now, to hold my job, I guess I am expected to report, whether there is anything to report or not. Our Sunday schol did not go into winter quarters and our new superintendent is doing good work. And of course our pastor is always on the job doing good preaching.

We had intended having a Young People's program yesterday, but somehow it failed to materialize, but our offering went to the work.

Will write more when they give me something to write.

MRS. J. J. CRAWFORD.

Rehoboth, Granville Charge.—What a lovely Easter we had, and Bro. Spencer brought us the Easter message in his usual great and inspiring way, which was heard by the largest congregation we have had in a good while. It was almost Home-Coming day, as so many of our boys and girls who have married and moved to other sections came back to worship at the home church. We are so glad to have them come back, for it shows that they still love the church of their youth.

Our Auxiliary, I am proud to say, in spite of bad weather and muddy roads, has held all meetings since Christmas. The last meeting was held in the home of Miss Crystal Bobbitt; the attendance was good, and everyone seemed to be so anxious to get our budget paid. We were right much behind but, thanks to our loyal members and the efforts of Mrs. Richard Harris and Miss Sue Harris, who offered their services to collect hens or anything salable that the members would give, we almost reached our goal, but still a little was lacking, but on Sunday morning at church our wants were made known and as you might say, amost in the flash of an eye our young men rallied to our support, and we are able to be on the honor roll. We want to thank everyone that helped us and may God's richest blessings fall on them. Then, to make the day more perfect, one of our young men, who has never failed us yet, came with a check for $10.00 to begin our new missionary year with. May God bless you, J. W. R., and we thank you.

We are all looking forward to Branch Meeting next week in Henderson and hope to see many of our friends there. We ar sorry to report the illness of Mrs. H. B. Hicks, wife of one of our oldest and most loyal members. While Mrs. Hicks is a Baptist, yet she is loyal to her husband's church, and always ready to lend a helping hand.

Asheboro.—Since the reporter has been very busy with the Auxiliary work of the church, the Herald has not had many reports, but having finished two years as president, hope to report more often. We are glad our pastor, Rev. R. C. Stubbins, sent in a report a few weeks ago; would like to have them oftener.

The Woman's Auxiliary held the semi-annual Thank-offering service Sunday evening, February 11, at the church. Mrs. Stubbins had charge of the devotional period. Mrs. L. F. Ross, Thank-offering secretary, introduced Mrs. J. Clyde Auman, of Graham, who spoke very interestingly of our work in Japan. An offering of $25 was taken. On Friday, February 16, the World Day of Prayer, our church was open to the public for prayer and meditation between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. Soft music was played during these hours. At 3 p. m. the Auxiliary meeting was held in the social room of the church with a devotional period of special prayers and talks. In the business session the nominating committee submitted the names of officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. J. T. Pugh; first vice-president, Miss Esther Ross; second vice-president, Mrs. R. T. Lloyd; recording secretary, Mrs. Thomas Redding; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Swaim; treasurer, Mrs. L. F. Ross; auditor, Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr.; pastor's aid secretary, Mrs. L. D. Burkhead. All of these were elected to be installed at the March meeting.

The Circle meetings in March were well attended with good programs and a happy social hour together, with all realizing this to be the last meeting of the year before they would be divided. The chairmen and their Circles deserve much credit for thir faithful and efficient work of the year. The joint executive committee of the out-going and in-coming officers of the Auxiliary met with Miss Lollie Jones on Thursday evening, March 8th. Delegates and alternates to the Branch Meeting to be held in Henderson on April 4 and 5, were elected as follows: The president, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Swaim, delegates by virtue of their offices; Mrs. W. C. Hendricks and Mrs. L. D. Burkhead, elected delegates, and Mrs. R. D. Lowdermilk, Mrs. R. T. Lloyd, Mrs. J. S. Lewis, and Mrs. J. H. Soady, alternates.

Mrs. Wm. C. Hammer, Mrs. N. M. Harrison and Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., will attend as officers of the Branch.

The following are circle chairmen for the new year: Mrs. Mabel Black, Miss Lollie Jones, Mrs. Rufus Routh, for Circles Nos. 1, 2, 3; Mrs. N. M. Harrison, for Rebecca Ellen and Mrs. R. D. Lowdermilk and Mrs. S. F. Phillips, for Circle No. 5.

Mrs. Claud Winningham, leader of the Mission Band, and Miss Clarice Henley, leader of Sunshine Circle.

The secretaries of causes were also elected at this meeting. An Monday evening, March 12th, the Annual Auxiliary meeting was held in the social room of the church with a large attendance. Devotions were conducted by the president, Miss Jones, with Miss Enolia Presnell at the piano. "Launch Out Into the Deep," was the subject; Scripture reading, Luke 5:1-11. Consecrations hymns were sung, with prayer by our pastor.

Annual reports were given by Circle chairmen, secretaries of causes, and officers, which proved that excellent work had been done by all, every Circle having met and surpassed its apportionment. A summary of the year's work given by the president showed much accomplished in every way. She expressed her grateful appreciation to everyone for the fine co-operation rendered her and for fellowship and friendship enjoyed and for the hope of launching out into the deeps of more consecrated efforts and greater accomplishments in the new year. As the hymn, "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," was played very softly, all the newly-elected officers came forward and were installed with a very impressive service in charge of our pastor. The new president, Mrs. Pugh, made a brief talk, in which she asked for the hearty co-operation of all. A finance committee was appointed with Mrs. John Swaim chairman, Mrs. L. F. Ross and Miss Lollie Jones. Circle No. 3 was hostess to this meeting, serving hot chocolate and wafers. The new chairmen drew the names for their circles for the coming year.

The District meeting, of which Mrs. W. F. Redding, Jr., is chairman, met in our church Saturday afternoon with a good attendance, considering the rainy day. Mrs. R. L. Hethcox conducted devotions. Mrs. D. S. Coltrane spoke in a very interesting manner. Everyone enjoyed the meeting.

The Sunday school doubled its pledge to the Children's Home last Sunday, but are expecting to add more to it, the total amount of which will be reported later.

China Grove, J. O. Fry, Pastor.—The Methodist Protestant Church of South China Grove was organized April 1st, 1934, by Rev. R. M. Andrews, president of the North Carolina Conference. Rev. J. O. Fry was appointed pastor.

We enjoyed the visit of Dr. Andrews very much. Come again, Dr. Andrews; we will be glad to see you.

We have a nice Sunday school. Mr. Will Payne is our superintendent. We have 28 members to start with, with more to receive at an early date and we want all the visitors to come and worship with us.

Dr. Andrews' message on Sunday evening stressed the duties and privileges of church membership and the importance of living a Christian every day. Sunday morning the pastor brought a message on "Small Things," using as his text Zech. 4:10, showing how all good movements have begun in a small way. We were also glad to have with us Sunday evening the pastor and congregation from Kannapolis. We greatly enjoyed the singing of the Kannapolis choir and quartet; also the solo of the young lady from High Point.

We have as president of our Ladies Auxiliary Miss Pearl Gillespie. We ask all the readers of the Herald to pray for us and our work at South China Grove.

Stony Knoll, West Forsyth.—There has been so much sickness, more measles than any other disease, this winter, and so much mud, too, that we suspended Sunday school for a while. Everybody seems to be better and the mud is drying up, so we had Sunday school as usual Sunday morning with a good attendance and fine interest,so we are looking forward to a good Sunday school from now on. Our collection was for the Children's Home. I think all Methodist Potestant should remember the Children's Home.

Brother Williams was with us Sunday afternoon and, as always, brought us a cheerful message. It being Easter his subject was "The Resurrection." We had a fairly good congregation and good attention. Our only regret is that we only get to hear Brother Williams once a month, but here is hoping that Mr. and Mrs. Williams can visit in our homes often.

Since this is my first report this year, I want to say that our very best wishes are with our former pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, and we will be so glad to have him and his family visit us any time they can make it convenient to do so.

With many good wishes to the Herald and its readers. MARY SPEASE, Reporter.

Weaver's Chapel, Littleton Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, brought us a wonderful sermon yesterday. He didn't use as his subject The Resurrection of Christ, as might have been expected by some as it was Easter Sunday, but he used what God gave him to use at that time. We believe h preaches what God leads him to preach, regardless of what season in the year it is or what place he might be.

Our attendance is very good, but not what it should be, for there are many people that always find some other place to go which seems to them more important than the church. But may the time speedily come when they will realize that they are on the wrong road, and turn before it is too late.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Wilson were glad to have Bro. Vickery and family, also Mr. Manning, of Vaughns, N. C., take supper with them Sunday night, and while in the community they visited several of the sick people. We believe Bro. Vickery tries hard to do his part in every way, and we are trusting that every member on his charge will de his part in supporting the pastor and his family in financial affairs; also prayers, that the work may go forward.

Everybody seemed to enjoy Mr. Frank Lankister's interesting talk in Sunday school Sunday; also to have Mrs. J. A. Hayes, of Norlina, N. C., pay for us. We are always glad to have new members, and visitors worship with us. Our attendance at Sunday school hasn't been so good for the last few Sundays, which we think might be due to a much sickness in our neighborhood. We are hoping to increase our membership and interest in our school, now as the spring is beginning to open up. We have some new song-books ordered. We took an offering Sunday for the Children's Home which amounted to $2.00; also took collection for one of members' little baby that is in Roanoke Rapids Hospital that is badly in need. We got some over $5.00 for that cause.

We are expecting to have the Second District Rally here at Weaver's Chapel church the fifth Sunday in April, which will be conducted by Rev. W. H. Neese. All are invited to come and bring your basket, as it will be an all-day service with dinner on the grounds. REPORTER.

Spring Church Charge.—An Easter service was held in each of the three churches last Sunday. Each service was extra good, and therefore elecited much commendation.

Since Conference we have put across 11 spcial day programs, each with good results. We are due to observe 10 more special days this year.

A good delegation is planning to attend the Branch Meeting in Henderson this week.

Our second quarterly conference nominated Mrs. H. E. Vasser and Mr. R. M. Robertson candidates for delegate to next Conference.

First Church, Lexington, C. E. Society.—The Christian Endeavor Society held its quarterly business meeting March 27 at the home of Miss Hilda Miller. Ernest Hamilton, president, conducted the devotionals, after which the business was transacted in harmony. All reports were good and showed a good increase in membership and attendance.

The officers are as follows: Ernest Hamilton, president; Cicero Ray Hedrick, vice-president; Paul Wallace, secretary and treasurer; Lola Mae McCulloch, pianist, and Margaret Lea Swink, reporter.

After the business had been transacted numerous games and contests were enjoyed, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments. Thos enjoying Miss Millr's hospitality were Misses Beulah McCulloch, Lola Mae McCulloch, Margaret Lea Swink, Juanita Easter, Doris Clemmons, Miss Wallace, Arleue Wallace, Helen Hale and Messrs. C. G. Isley, Paul Wallace, Edward Miller, John Hamilton, Ray Hedrick, Stanford Miller, Gilmer Hedrick, Ernest Hamiltou, and John Miller.

Roberta.—Easter Sunday was more than Easter Sunday to the people of Roberta, although we had our regular Easter program. Besides Easter, the day meant that Roberta was once more free from debt, and at least 500 people gathered on this day to celebrate the occasion.

The people of Roberta deserve much praise for their faithfulness and many for their sacrifice in lifting the $725 mortgage from the church and parsonage. This, too, being a very dull time of the year for our members who are farmers to raise their part of the debt. Neither was it easy for those who work in the mills, as none is making more than a living, but all alike, both members and non-members, rallied to the call, making sacrifices that they might see the institution which has sheltered the religious lives of their forefathers and themselves free from debt. The nams and amounts of each contributor will be published in our local Church Visitor, which will go to press April 16th.

The day was a beautiful day, and people from all over the county and numbers from adjoining counties were present. Twentyfive or thirty were present from New Hope M. P. church in Union county, the pastor's home church. Westford quartet, of Concord, and Love Grove quartet, of Midland charge, furnished very many quartet selections. Sunday school met very early for a brief lesson, and at 10:30 the Primary classes rendered a very beautiful Easter program under the leadership of Mrs. John Pennigar and Miss Gertrude Furr. At 11 o'clock the regular preaching service was conducted by the pastor. Adjourned for lunch at 12:15. A large table was filled with good things to eat, and a large crowd enjoyed a worthwhile dinner together. At 1 o'clock the mortgage was burned directly in front of the church in the presence of a large crowd. Miss Juanita Cochran set fire to the papers while the pastor held it high in the air until it was consumed. As the burnt piece of paper sailed off, hundreds of members and friends cheered and clapped their hands with joy and thanksgiving to God. The afternoon service consisted of short talks and quartet music.

The records may show that we are a little behind the average on our A. C. B. and other claims, but we have had a reason for that. Our mind and effort have been turned toward the accomplished goal, but now since it is accomplished our minds will turn back to the claims, and we expect to go over the top with them.

Mr. Walter Lefler, living in a tenement house of W. L. and Z. D. Cochrane, of this community, lost the entire contents of his home a few days ago by fire. Mr. Lefler has the sympathy of the people of Roberta, as he has a large family of small children. The people have raised money and household articles to exceed the amount that he lost. May God bless Brother Lefler and his family and the good people who helped him. Mr. Cochrane is planning to re-build at once.

Brethren, remember us when you pray.

EARL A. COOK, Pastor.

Lebanon Church.—All regular services were held yesterday in our church. At the 11 o'clock service our pastor, Dr. S. W. Taylor, brought us a wonderful Easter message, using for his subject, "The Christian's Hope." At 7:30 p. m. an Easter program of songs, recitations, etc., was rendered.

The circles of our Woman's Auxiliary are to meet tomorrow as follows: Circle No. 1 with Mrs. A. J. Payne on North Main street at 3 o'clock, p. m.; Circle No. 2 with Mrs. Henry Pitts on North Main street at the same hour; Circle No. 3 with Mrs. Pritchard. We are entering into a campaign of three months' duration for the purpose of increasing attendance. Of course regular attendants do not need invitations to attend church services. But there are numbers of people who are apparently not interested in church work. It is chiefly these whom we are greatly interested in getting into the church habit. So long as there is a vacant seat in church we should not be satisfied with the attendance record.

A certain man recently said in the reporter's hearing that a certain church having 2,000 members had only about 75 present at a Sunday night preaching service two Sundays ago. Something must be the matter with that congregation. Our attendance is not that bad, but we would like to have an increased attendance.

In a quiet ceremony solemnized in our church last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Miss Ida Guyer became the bride of Mr. Glenn Lambert, of this city. Only a few close friends and relatives were present to witness the marriage. Dr. Taylor was the officiating minister. The bride is one of our most active members, a leader in C. E. work, and has a host of friends who wish her and Mr. Lambert much happiness through life.

The junior C. E. Union of this city is having an Easter egg hunt this afternoon. (Monday) on Mr. C. B. Welch's farm on the Winston road. Miss Myrtle Davis is in charge of the program for this outing.

Spring Hill, N. Davidson Charge.—Yesterday was Easter and a large crowd was out for Sunday school at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The memory of Jesus in the tomb was made more vivid to all present and at this Easter we look into the empty tomb of Jesus and a new assurance comes to everyone who has suffered a bereavement that our deceased loved ones are not lost, but they have gone before to be forever with Him. What a pleasant thought that in a little while we may all be together!

The third Sunday in May has been set aside as the day to dedicate our church and we are fortunate to have Dr. Andrews to preach for us in the morning services. Full plans have not been made concerning the afternoon services, but we feel sure we will have a good program and invite everyone to be with us for the day.

The C. E. Society of our church held a social at the home of Miss Myrtle Byerly last Saturday evening, but due to the rainy weather several members were unable to attend. Those that were there reported having a nice time.

Born, on March 26, to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bodenheimer, a daughter, Mary Lou.

Friends of Mrs. Julia Ann York will be glad to learn that she is now able to sit in front of the fire, and hope that she will soon be back in the congregation with us.

Mr. George Berrier, of Canaan, worshipped with us Sunday afternoon. We enjoyed the remarks he made and invite him to come again.

A short Easter program was given after Sunday school, and the collection will go on the World Service debt.

Tabernacle-Julian.—Our Easter services were not largely attended, yet the occasion was observed in a way that was impressive. Palm Sunday was observed at Tabernacle by the pastor in his sermon calling attention to the meaning and significance of the occasion. It had been hoped to conduct services each night of Passion Week, but because of much sickness in the community it was thought best to dispense with this part of our plans. Communion was observed at Tabernacle on Thursday night. This service was very appropriate and impressive. On Sunday morning a sunrise service was conducted in the large cemetery. This service consisted of music, Scripture reading and prayers. There are few places more suited to this kind of service just as the sun is rising over the hills. It was indeed a beautiful scene this year. Easter sermons were preached at both churches. The Easter program was rendered at Tabernacle on Sunday night, but offerings for World Service were taken at both churches.

The Woman's Auxiliaries at both churches have done good work this year. Julian closed the books for the year paid in full. Tabernacle lacked a small amount of being paid up in full, but it was a much better year than last year. We could not do without our good ladies.

We have had a great number of deaths in our churches this year. The last was that of Bro. Samuel Deviney, a charter member of the Julian church, and a good, faithful man. He died on March 29 and the funeral was conducted on March 30 at Shiloh church where he was a member for a number of years prior to the organization of the Julian church. More will be said of the life of Bro. Deviney at another time.

Liberty.—The A Capella Choir of High Point College appeared in a sacred concert here and gave us a very fine program. It was altogether very impressive and revealed efficient training on the part of the director, Miss Margaret Sloan.

In the choir was our own Miss Mary Bowman Shepard. We were glad to see a number present from our neighboring churches.

An Easter pageant, "Easter Radiance," was presented Sunday evening at 7:30, by our own local talent. Miss Helen Long Hanner and Miss Margaret King Shepard were directors, Miss Shepard having charge of the music.

It was encouraging to see so many at Sunday school this morning. R. L. Elkins is our capable superintendent and is getting the Sunday school back to normal again and with new enthusiasm.

The Woman's Auxiliary met with Mrs. Mamie Smith and re-elected Mrs. Smith president; Mrs. Fred R. Love, vice-president; Mrs. B. F. Reitzel, treasurer, and Mrs. J. E. Cox, secretary. Mrs. A. D. Gregg was elected chairman of Circle No. 1 and Mrs. John York, chairman of Circle No. 2.

Miss Margaret Shepard was hostess Tuesday night to the Junior Philathea class. Games and contests made up the entertainment period and during the social hour the hostess served a delightful course of refreshments, assisted by her mother, Mrs. F. A. Shepard.

Prosper Thy church, O Father, among us, and give success to its work. Bless our country and make us that happy people whose God is the Lord.

Replacement of furnace cost $589.53. Received to date on the fund, cash, $585.18, leaving us short only $4.35.

Clothing and Other Gifts

Mr. W. F. Grabs, King, N. C., one copy of Blum's Almanac. Sorry for the delay in reporting this.

Mrs. R. W. Riggin, High Point, 4 dresses.

Concord church, Saxapahaw, 31 quarts canned fruits and vegetables.

A box of nice handkerchiefs and coupons came from some source. We thank the donors.

Civitan Club, High Point, a large quantity of candy eggs for Easter. The children thoroughly enjoyed the egg hunt.

The March Campaign

The campaign for March is over and the results to April 2nd are: Cash from all sources, $2,010.69. It came as follows: On furnace fund, $87.25; sale of old clothes and junk, $22.22; North Carolina Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, $103,37; the above bequest, $500.00. So the campaign netted $1,297.85 to this date.

We have received many encouraging letters during this campaign, showing that people are greatly interested in the work of this Home. Many churches and Sunday schools were badly hindered because of the rough weather. We have asked them to give us another chance. So we shall go through April with anxious hearts.

If the results of this campaign are all in, then of course we are sorely disappointed.

The Outlook

While the funds were coming in from the campaign we had to live for the month, spring is upon us and seeds and fertilizers and spring clothing must be had. Along with the campaign came the bequest of Mrs. Fuller, and now within a few days we hope to receive from the Duke Endowment a bit over $2,200.00, which is something over $400.00 short of their last gift. This is due to the fact that we kept fewer children in 1933 than in 1932. So when the first of May comes our obligations will be reduced something like $4,000.00, which is about as low as we have been able to reduce them during the last five years. Then if the usual summer slump in offerings comes we will be back again as far as ever by Conference.

With credit virtually cut off, we do not know what to do. so we are asking you, What shall we do?

The Only Solution

The only solution, as we see it, is for every church in the Conference to be brought to make a monthly offering, and to make those offerings bigger than they have been for the last three years. The campaign has brought forth some fine responses. There are some fine responses in this rport. Glance over it and see. How will we stand May 1st?

Some Outstanding Facts

During the campaign 133 churches and Sunday schools have contributed, three C. E. Societies, 11 Auxiliaries, and 14 individuals have contributed. We are profoundly grateful for all the help that has come. We know these same churches and Sunday schools will contribute during April, and we hope they will continue with good offerings.

And surely we will hear from all the other churches in the Conference within a few days. A steady pull, all together, through the summer will save us from a heavy deficit by Conference. Tho dear Lord lead in it all.

WESTERN PASTORS' FEDERATION MEETING

The Western Pastors' Federation will meet at First M. P. Church, Lexington, on Monday, April 9, beginning at 10:30. Turn to the secretary's report and full program in the Herald of March 22. We are expecting a good program, and urge all pastors to be present. We also think it would be fine to bring as many of your laymen along as possible.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Resolutions of Love and Respect

We, the members of the Ladies' Aid Society and Ladies' Class of Liberty Hill Methodist Protestant Church, desire to record the passing of one of our most beloved members, Mrs. B. A. McClimon. On the night of February 17, 1934, the death angel entered her home and bore her sweet spirit away.

She was a great worker in our church and society, and for many years was teacher of the Ladies' Class. and was at the time of her death. We miss her so much and feel that no one can take her place.

Therefore, Be it Resolved:

First, that we bow in submission to God's will and remember, though it is our loss, it is her eternal gain;

Second, that her worthy Christian life is a shining example, challenging us to measure up to it;

Third, that to have known and labored with her is a privilege we shall cherish always;

Fourth, that a copy of this be sent to the Methodist Protestant Herald, the family, and that a copy be written in the minutes of our Ladies' Aid Society.

"The dead are only so in name.
All 'round, they live and move,
Unseen, unheard, yet still the same,
Still watching us with love.

"Sometimes they come to us at night.
They speak, how real they seem!
We sigh to see the morning light,
And woo again our dream.

◆

"Sometimes we feel that they have been
All day beside us, too;
So close, the wall between so thin
A touch might break it through.

"In joy or grief, by night or day,
Their sympathy they prove.
They are not lost, they live alway,
And guard us with their love."

MRS. A. A. FOSTER,
MRS. W. R. HARRISON.

Randolph

Mrs. Mary Eva Randolph, who was first married to J. W. Younger and after his death was married to J. R. Randolph, was born December 8, 1858, and passed away at Rainey Hospital February 28, 1934, making her 75 years, 2 months and 20 days old.

Mrs. Randoph was seriously burned a few days before her death while administering to the needs of one of her grandchildren in the home of Mr. York. It would seem that she was filling a much-needed place in this home. The mother of the home, a daughter of Mrs. Randolph, passed away last September, leaving an infant child.

She is survived by the following: Two daughters, Mrs. Mamie Isley and Mrs. H. T. Sharpe; three step-daughters, Mrs. B. M. Rose, Mrs. Mattie Jones, Mrs. Lydia Mahan; one son, Ray W. Younger; two step-sons, John H. Randolph, M. J. Randolph; two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Oaks and Mrs. Ida Hunter. She is also survived by 18 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Randolph was a faithful member of Belmont Methodist Protestant church. She will be greatly missed in the community as a kind, sympathetic person. She always tried to be of some comfort and cheer to all with whom she met.

May the dear Lord comfort and bless those who survive.

The funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted by Rev. Wayne Curtis and Rev. Mr. Swiney.

Lanier

Washington Cuthbert Lanier was born July 27, 1889. He departed this life March 11, 1934, aged 44 years, 5 months and 14 days. He was married to Miss Minnie Walser July 20, 1913. To this union were born eight children, seven of whom survive. Their names are as follows: A. J., Paul, Nancy, Russell, Melba, and Gary Lee Lanier.

Bro. Lanier professed faith in Christ while very young and united with the Methodist Protestant church at Yadkin College. He later moved his membership to Friendship church, Shiloh charge, where he lived a faithfu and consistent Christian life to the end.

The funeral service was held at Friendship church on March 12 at 2 p. m., in charge of the writer, assisted by Rev. E. C. Roach, pastor of Reeds Baptist church, and his body was laid away in the church cemetery to await the Resurrection morn.

The bereaved have our sympathy.

Fitzgerald

Permit me to say just a word about Bro. Charlie Francis Fitzgerald.

I was his pastor for the last seven years of his noble life, and I am sure that all who got a glimpse of his inner life can say with me, A good life is gone, a beautiful sunset, a "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

He was unassuming in his work. You never heard him boast of what he could do, or what he did. But he kept everlastingly at it until his dreams came true.

He had a vision of a beautiful brick church out on Highway No. 10, and he never ceased to labor, pray and pay until he saw the realization of his vision in the form of Greer's Chapel Methodist Protestant church as it now stands. It is a monument in memory of that noble life.

It makes no difference where you look on that litte church, you can see something that his hand has wrought, and as you look at the lives of the people who live in that community you can see imprints of that noble character, and for generations to come that little church will stand there in memory of him.

And here's hoping and praying that the work so nobly begun by him will be carried on by those who are left in the community. May the mantle that fell from his shoulders when he fell asleep fall on someone else who will carry on.

As a Sunday school teacher he was faithful until the last, even when advised by his physician not to go, and his children would plead with him not to go, he would reply: "I had

And there they are. While nobody went over the top last week, there was some good work done. Community Church is so near the top that they can look over the wall, down into the city. Calvary is still climbing, though she is still some distance from the top. Whitakers stopped for a little breathing spell, but I am expecting them to come on good and strong this week. Some time ago a nurse said that in hospitals nurses wear out if the patient stays too long. She said that the nerves of the patients bolstered up the nurses. I am wondering if it is not the same with my column. Would it not be well to change the scenes quite often? Well, there is no one any more willing for this to take place than your humble servant, so, folks, come on up and make these that have been the limelight get out of the way.

If it is not giving away some of the Editor's and the Printers secrets I might tell you that a year ago last week there were one thousand and ten copies of the Herald printed, while last week fourteen hundrd and two were printed. That sounds good, doesn't it? But it would sound better if we could say TWO THOUSAND.

Now who will astonish the natives with a big batch of subscriptions this week? I am always so anxious to get the final returns that I usually go to the Herald office and stand and wait for the first copy to come off the press. This week I am depending on some who faded from view weeks ago to come to the front again. Brethren, send in something, even if it is only a dollar.

rather die in the church at work than to die at home." And I have seen him teach the lesson when he had to hold to a bench to stand. It can almost he said of him that he died in the service of the Lord in his boots. I would to God we had more Sunday school teachers like him.

As a father we can see his worth to the community and the Kingdom. He reared 10 children, five boys and five girls, to manhood and womanhood, and all of them are members of the church. One, J. S., is the superintendent of Greer's Chapel Sunday school. Ethel, his daughter, is organist, and has devoted her life to that work since a child. Revs. J. B. and J. W. are both ministers in the M. E. Church, South, doing fine work.

May God richly bless this nobe family in their work, and help them in this dark hour of grief and sorrow to rely on Him to whom they have pointed others in days of sorrow. They sorrow not as those who have no hope, for while the tabernacle of clay in which Bro. Fitzgerald lived has been laid to rest in Greer's Chapel graveyard his spirit has gone back to God who gave it. Some day, if we are faithful, we shall shake hands with him again on the other shore.

A Nation on Its Knees

It's thought a grand and pleasing sight,
If seen by day or seen by night,
To see a nation on its knees
And hear its many urgent pleas.

They all seem moved by one consent,
In special way their forms are bent;
With pious face and unctuous tone,
They first kneel down and then lie prone.

But strange to say, there is no word
To indicate that prayer is heard:
Has Heaven ceased to answer prayer
That all is still and silent there?

But marvel not at what you see!
In it there is no mystery:
For God will answer real prayer,
But with a mob will have no share.

Prices and Losses in Miami

By Luther K. Long

So this is Miami!

It is different from Palm Beach and West Palm Beach. I spent a delightful week there amid the rare beauties and enchanting scenes of that interesting region. The Easter services at sunrise in the Park, and at 10:40 in the Poinciana Community Chapel, were excellent. The Poinciana Chapel Choir—a double quartet of professional singers from New York—deserves special mention. Their rendering of Gounod's "Unfold, Ye Portals Everlasting," was particularly inspiring.

Miami is much larger and, in some ways, more impressive. I have a room in Hotel Pershing for $5.00 a week. Ten days ago it rented for $14.00 a week. The demand for rooms was greater than the supply at that time. Now, the supply exceeds the demand, as many tourists have gone home.

The general delivery windows at the post office were not open when I went for my mail this morning. Looking for a place to eat, I noticed a restaurant across the street where grits could be had. Not having had any since leaving Georgia thirteen years ago, I went in. Everything was nice and clean. My breakfast of a bowl of grits and milk, two eggs with toast, and coffee, was 20 cents. I got a good dinner at night in another place for 25 cents. Of course there are much more expensive places.

An old German sat with me at a small table at breakfast. Strangers readily exchange confidences here, and he was talkative. He starts for Los Angeles, California, tomorrow, paying $50 to ride in a big Buick car with a man who lives there. He has spent the last fourteen years in Miami, having come from New York City where he lived sixty years. He had an interesting story.

For thirty years he conducted a large machine shop in New York, and prospered. His wife, twenty-five years younger, said to him: "We have enough to live on. You ought not to continue working hard in business." So he sold out, got together something more than $200,000, and proposed to go to Los Angeles and take life easy. His wife objected, saying: "I should never be able to see my people again. Let's first go back to Germany." They went to the old country. This was following the World War. He spent $10,000 rehabilitating her parents, and brought her three sisters to New York. They all came to Miami fourteen years ago for a little stop on the way to Los Angeles and comfort. He had a certified check for $186,000 and plenty of expense money.

This then thriving city got him. He made $100,000 in real estate, built and furnished a home for $21,000, refused $40,000 in cash for it, was offered $8,000 for it three years ago, and sold it a few days ago for $3,800—and was glad to get that much. As values shrank the three sisters clung to him for support like leeches. He established one of them in a beauty shop at a cost of $1,800 and turned them all out to fend for themselves. As values declined his wife lost interest in him and sued for divorce. Finding that she could not claim any property, she withdrew the suit. She has since resumed proceedings and he will not oppose the divorce. He gave her half he got for the home. He has $2,000 on which he proposes to live as far away from her as possible. At 74 his prospects are none too good, and he has lost much of his faith in women. His first wife proved worthless and had to be divorced, and now this one repudiates the sacred promises she made.

The bursting of the Florida boom, and the general depression, made it hard for many churches. In West Palm Beach the Methodist church sold a good house of worship and bought a larger and more expensive one. The old church came back on their hands, and now they are struggling under a debt of $120,000—an interest charge of between fifteen and twenty dollars a day.

The pastor of the Congregational church there told me that his church bought a parsonage for $25,000—and actually paid $20,000 on it—then gave it up rather than raise the remaining $5,000. They are now paying $2,000 for a home equally as good.

Sometimes property is gained with little intelligence. None at all is required to lose it. Generally speaking, holding on to it and using it wisely require pretty good sense.

INTRODUCING THE SPEAKER

For quite awhile I have thought I would write an article about introductions, but have neglected it from time to time. And while there is no particular reason for writing now rather than at some other time, yet if I ever get it done I must begin.

The purpose of an introduction is to make it is easy as possible for the speaker. And in so far as I know, there is nothing else that can be done for a speaker that will help him get started, that is more important than a proper introduction. But the question comes to us, What is a proper introduction? Introductions should tell enough so that the minds of the people will be at rest as to who the man is and what he represents, and yet should not put the standard so high that the speaker will have difficulty in living up to it. The purpose of an introduction should not be to flatter the one who is about to speak, but to pave the way for him in order that his message may be as effective as is possible. For if the occasion is worth the effort, then everybody ought to want to get the most out of it.

In order to get the subject before us, suppose we introduce a lawyer. This form might be used: "It is a great pleasure for us to have as our speaker this evening, one who is well qualified to discuss the subject which has been assigned to him. Our speaker was born in ...., brought up at ...., attended .... University and studied law at .... law school. Several years ago he began the practice of law in .... and has succeeded remarkably well. For the past five years he has served as District Attorney for the .... District of .... Ladies and Gentlemen, it gives me great pleasure to present to you the honorable Daniel Webster (or somebody else) who will speak to us on the subject, The requirements for making good in the legal profession."

Now why should we give any of the man's history and why should we mention his present position? Simply this: Not everybody in the audience knows him. And when he begins to speak, people are going to begin to wonder where he came from and if he went to school much and if he has succeeded in the profession or did he fail. A few sentences in the introduction will settle all those questions and the audience will not have anything to think about except what the man is saying. Anything that takes the mind of the audience off of what the speaker is saying is a hindrance to the speaker.

Now let us consider the kind of an introduction that we hear about nine hundred and ninety-nine times out of a thousand: "The speaker of the evening needs no introduction to this audience. We are glad to have Mr. So and So." The truth of the matter is that a man seldom ever speaks to an audience where he is known by everybody there. Many people in making the introduction think that because they know the speaker everybody else does. But this will not stand the test.

To my mind, one of the most faulty introductions that I know and yet one that is frequently used is the term Brother So and So without giving the initials. One time a minister rather unexpectedly dropped into a service where there were other ministers taking part in a service of more than ordinary importance. The presiding officer wanted the unexpected visitor to take part in the service. When the time came for his part the presiding officer said, "We are glad to have Brother So and So with us at this time." The man took his part and when it was over the service closed. Out in the yard the people were saying the same thing they were thinking in the house; namely, "Who is this Brother So and So?" If the presiding officer had even given the man's initials some of them would have recognized him. If the presiding officer had told where this man was serving at the present time, a great many more minds would have been set at rest.

Personally, I like for my congregation to know just as many people as possible. It adds to their interest ever afterwards to know a man and to hear him. In 1919 I went in Dr. A. G. Dixon's stead to the Louisiana Young People's Conference. In going I saw several cities, such as Spartahburg, S. C., Greenville, S. C., Atlanta, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., Meridian and Vicksburgh, Miss., New Orleans, and other places. Ever since then, when I have seen anything in the papers from any of these places, it has been more interestihg to me just because I have seen the place. But if I had seen the town without finding out its name it would not have been worth much to me. Just so, to hear a speaker without knowing who he is is not very inspiring. But to hear one and to know him adds interest every time you see his name again.

FEAR AS AN ESSENTIAL IN SOUL-SAVING

By Rev. Robert Short

I have read with delight, interest, and profit, much that is written about fear as a method in soul-saving being an outgrown one. These writers are wise and good, but in their effort to correct one extreme, they appear to me to have swung to another. To be sure, this method has suffered abuse, like the appeal to emotions, or the old mourner's bench, etc. But because a good thing is abused, is no just reason for discarding it.

Observation and experience have taught me that, in most cases, the initial step toward obeying God is prompted by fear. Love is the winning force, but fear prompts sinners to stop, look and listen to the "still small voice" of "Brooding Love." To picture God as a Monster, seeking vengeanse on sinners, for their insults, is but to belie the truth. But if the writers mean to tell us that fear as one essential in arresting sinners on their downward march, is not to be tolerated any more, then let me say, once for all, I am not quite ready to agree. They tell us that the appeal to fear, as used by Moody and Edwards, would prove ineffective of results today. Well, that depends upon whether Moody and Edwards were doing the preaching or not. For one to try their method of approach to lost men, without their convictions, burning love fr Blood-bought souls, and passion to win them back to God, could but end in utter and abject failure. But with these graces, any one might hope to succeed.

I have read much about great spiritual awakenings, but never of a single one where any of the essential avenues to the hearts of men were left out. The appeal to fear was always included. If we are ever to have another great awakening, may we not expect it on the same conditions? I fear that much of this boasting of culture, refinement and enlightenment, is just simple ''bunk.'' What age has registered more heartless and crutal crime and outrage since the Christian era, than this age has recorded? Of course, to preach a sermon on ''fire and brimstone'' to a congregation that had been bred, born and reared by God-loving, God-honoring parents, in a community where the church and Sunday school held first place, would be a tragedy almost unpardonable. But all men are not blessed with such God-sends, and the mild methods of approach would be like ''pouring water on a greasy plank.'' The appeal to fear has always been, and I verily believe, will always be one of the avenues of approach, in the majority of cases, in bringing this lost world back to its senses, and to God.

Take away the God-given instinct of fear, and to what length would the heartless criminal go in playing havoc with life? What does the lust-monger care for the gentle pleadings of our daughters? (I suppose about as much as many care for the gospel of love without emphasizing the ''wages of sin.'') It''s the consequences that halts him in plying his trade. Few boys dig in the field, for the love of father's orders, when the urge to play, swim and fish seizes them, but the fear of what will happen to them when daddy fihds out. Most any community affords persons who, if they knew you had $50, and you were off your guard, would call on you and take it before morning, were it not for the fear of the penalty if caught. Ask almost any public school teacher if the majority of her pupils dig into their books for the pure love of knowledge? or is it the dread of punishment, demerit, or fear of failure on examination? When parents hold ''no fear of God before the eyes'' of their children, we will soon have our fair land more full of criminals than it is today.

Fear has always had its merits. Awakened by fear in a great storm out at sea, John Wesley was aroused to a need of God he had never felt before. Does he not compare favorably in intellectual culture with the average sinner today? In the midst of an alarming illhess, upon what he feared was his death bed, Charles Wesley examined the ground of his hope of heaven, and realized he was on a false foundation. He found the peace of God, then wrote:

> ''Oh for a thousand tongues to sing
> My great Redeemer's praise.''

It was in the midst of a howling thunder-storm, when a bolt sunk in the ground by his side, and fear of the probable end, that Martin Luther bowed and gave his life to God. ''Noah, being warned of God, (moved with fear), prepared an ark to the saving of his house.'' Dr. Chalmers said, ''In my early ministry I sought, by extolling the excellencies of virtue, and proclaiming morality, to win sinners to God. But those I thought to be honest turned thieves. And I scarcely had any left that knew anything about morality, practically.''

Sinners are not apt to turn to God unless pastors show them the imminent danger and peril in which they stand, and thereby make them afraid to go on in their sins. When the love of sin seizes me, give me the gospel with plenty of hell and torment in it; with plenty of brooding love in it; and this, seasoned with plenty of the excellences of virtue and right living, and a flaming pulpit that will make no apologies for the messages of the burning prophets of former days who made sinners tremble, and rocked the continent with holy eloquence and spiritual power until ''Great fear came and the word grew and increased.''

THE "LORD'S ACRE"

A campaign is being launched to interest tobacco and cotton growers in the state in the project of setting aside one acre of land to be known as the ''Lord's acre,'' proceeds from which would be given to church and religious work in general. This plan is not new in this state. It has been tried out in the farming region near Asheville and has worked with remarkable success.

The ''Lord's acre'' idea is practical and feasible. It would put the support of the church and religious work generally on a substantial and dependable basis. The flippant phrase ''salvation is free'' cannot be taken literally. No one would want something that is worth anything for nothing. The person who is deriving real benefits from salvation would surely want to do something to help others.

While much can be done without money, yet churches, hospitals, schools and Sunday schools cannot be maintained without money. Ministers have been heard to plead with church people to support religious work as generously as they supply themselves with the lighter luxuries. This is a low and unworthy basis upon which to place the support of church and religious work. The individual should make as definite provision for contributions to the church as for any other phase of his life. The ''Lord's acre'' plan meets this provision. It would be a fine thing if its adoption could be made general over the state.—Winston-Salem Sentinel.

THE VALUE OF SHORTHAND

''Every young person should learn shorthand,'' advises Grenville Kleiser, well-known author. ''Charles Dickens attributed much of his literary success to his knowledge of shorthand. Personally, I have used it in countless ways,—to jot down the wise words of a friendly counsellor; to report verbatim an eloquent sermon or an instructive lecture; to promptly record an inspirational idea for subsequent use. Thorough training in shorthand incidentally cultivates many other valuable qualities, such as memory and concentration. It is a kind of mental discipline that helps the student to think clearly and logically. It tends to increase the vocabulary and to form a facile English style. Yes, every young person should learn shorthand.''

—The General Conference of the M. E. Church, South, will meet in Jackson, Miss., the 26th of this month. They hope to finish their work in fifteen days. One of the most interesting questions before them will probably be that of the ordination of women.

—Thieves broke into the First Presbyterian church at Concord recently and took away draperies valued at $250 and a rug worth $100. They used lighted matches to guide them.

HIGH POINT COLLEGE NEWS

The A Capella Choir returned Sunday night from a trip to the Eastern part of the state. They gave programs in Raleigh, Enfield, Aurelian Springs, Roanoke Rapids, and Henderson. Large audiences greeted them at most of these places.

Governor Ehringhaus was exceedingly complimentary in his remarks of the program given at the Capitol building in his honor. Mrs. Ehringhaus was present, and expressed a desire to have the choir in a concert at the Mansion at the time of some state function.

Miss Gladys Liner, of Hillsboro, a first year student, has just returned from the High Point Hospital where she successfully underwent an operation for appendicitis. Miss Mary Lewis Skeen, of Farmer, a Junior, and secretary to the Promotional Secretary, is recovering from an operation for the same cause.

Mr. Joe Coble, a Senior and the grandson of Rev. T. F. McCulloch, has been made captain of the track team. Joe is a ministerial student, but is interested in all activities of college life.

A Leadership Training School, under the direction of Rev. T. J. Whitehead, is now in progress here. It is held primarily for the church workers of High Point and surrounding communities, but a few of the college students are finding time to take some of the courses.

At this season of the year the attention of parents and young people turn to the thought of Commencements. Among the sixteen thousand or more who go out from the high schools this year, certainly some of them will be Methodist Protestants. We are as equally certain that some of them will go to college next Fall. Where will they go? When their church has established and is maintaining a college, which is just as thorough as any in the state, is it unreasonable to think that they should come here? What are we church people doing to encourage their attendance at High Point College?

CATHOLICS, PROTESTANTS, AND JEWS JOIN IN "BROTHERHOOD DAY"

A day on which Protestants, Catholics and Jews can meet together for better mutual understanding is to be observed on Sunday, April 29, as "Brotherhood Day," sponsored by the National Conference of Jews and Christians. In scores of cities and towns announcements have been made of plans to observe the day. The purpose is to emphasize the fact that the energies of Americans should be turned in the direction of joint constructive efforts among citizens of various religious affiliations. The day will not deal with doctrinal differences, it will not promote common worship; and it will not suggest a weakening of anyone's convictions. Its aim is rather to enable American Protestants, Catholics and Jews "to rise above old suspicions and prejudices, to look for ways for effectively working together in this crisis as citizens of American democracy, and to maintain and safeguard the American ideal of religious freedom and brotherhood."

An afternoon civic mass meeting is proposed, to be held elsewhere than in a place of worship, with representatives of Catholics, Protestants and Jews discussing plans for a definite program of joint activities for human welfare. Other suggested activities include special sermons, local radio broadcasts, brotherhood dialogues or talks in Sunday schools, discussions in various young people's societies, women's clubs, and men's service clubs to be held during the week. Free samples of suggestive materials are obtainable from the National Council of Jews and Christians, 289 Fourth Avenue, New York.

"There is real point in focusing thought on this intergroup understanding in a national way," wrote Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of Christ Church, Methodist Episcopal, New York. "It should enlist the fullest sympathy of every American citizen," according to Dr. George W. Truett, of First Baptist Church, Dallas, Texas.—Federal Council Bulletin.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.
CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.
CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

High Point College

Again we call your attention to your assessment for this cause. Every pastoral charge has been asked to contribute a definite amount to the College during April and May. There may be something in the way at some church so the offering cannot be taken now; if so, then remember to take it in May, but DO NOT FORGET the College! Their need is great and we should do our best to relieve the strain they are under.

Pastoral Responsibility

The more one sees and knows about the work of the church, the more is he convinced that the responsibility of those who lead in this is very great indeed. To be ever on the alert to understand the problems before the church and to find a solution will keep the minister keyed up to high tension. Too high to loaf or lounge. It is a shame for a minister to be lazy, indolent, idle. It is also a reflection upon him to long remain ignorant of his task. He of all people should know what is expected of him and to be found faithfully discharging that duty. He should be on his "toes" day after day and thus be an incentive to others to be busy about the Master's work.

Anderson - Yarboro Charges, Rev. Robert Short, Pastor

I visited Liberty Hill and Fairview churches on Anderson charge and Yarborough Chapel on Yarborough charge.

Here we have two very difficult fields to serve. It is two hundred and ten miles from the President's parsonage to the home of Brother Short in Easley, S. C., and Fairview church is five miles farther. To serve the four churches on these two charges requires a tremendous amount of travel. To make the three appointments last Sunday we must have traveled one hundred and thirty miles from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. These works were until recent years served by two pastors, and we hope before a great while they may return to this condition; but at the present time this cannot be done.

We found a good congregation at Liberty Hill in the morning. They are much interested in the church, quite loyal to the denomination, and heard me with marked attention. They have a good building here, grounds well kept, but no class rooms for Sunday school.

We visited Yarborough's Chapel in the afternoon. Here the congregation was not large but the people were interested in the message and it was a pleasure to speak to them. This church has passed through an ordeal within recent years—conditions which have searched the loyalty of its members. But there was a hopeful attitude and expressions of hopefulness for the future.

We were at Fairview at night. The rain had overtaken us and doubtless reduced our congregation here; but these people are alert, a live Christian Endeavor society meets each Sunday night, and there was much interest in evidence at the meeting I attended. Here we have some loyal people as are found anywhere in the denomination. They also have a nice church, grounds well kept, but no adequate arrangement for the Sunday school.

Liberty Hill has paid about two-thirds of their assessment for A. C. expenses. Fairview and Yarborough both have paid their assessments for Church Extension, A. C. Expense budget and A, C. Debt budgets in full. Hurrah for these folks! This in itself was to my mind a fair token of awakened interest and makes it easy for me to forecast a great improvement in the financial conditions there this year.

Brother Short is doing his best to keep the work going and the people appear willing to co-operate with him. They speak well of his efforts and he speaks well of their attitudes. I think all would be happy if by some magic the distances between these churches could be reduced about seventy-five per cent.

Western Pastors' Federation at Lexington

I arrived at this meeting late because of the distance I had to drive, but was surprised to see the good attendance of the pastors and several lay members. The meeting was reported as being very fine, and the brethren appeared to enjoy the fellowship on this occasion. I presume the local reporter will cover this for the HERALD this week.

Plan of Appointments

OUR STORY PAGE

"LISTEN—I AM THE WAY"

Save for an occasional moan, there was silence in the hospital ward, where two patients lay who had been injured through the falling of a building.

Nurse Cruse was on night duty. Of late her work had become burdensome to her, for she was weary and depressed. If the life-stories of patients and nurses could be told, what tragedies might be unfolded!

Administering the cooling lotion, as directed, to the heads of the last incoming patients, she paused. One had shown signs of consciousness.

"I've been a bad one, nurse; but got work at last, and then this—"

"You must keep still," she said, for he was badly injured.

The case in the next bed looked more hopeless: he had not spoken since he had lain there, and she retired to keep watch. Had they any trouble weighing on heart and spirit? Ah, if she could hear of the state of other people, some help or uplift might come to her; but alone—parents dead, friends far away—there seemed nothing left but her work, and even that had become wearisome.

Watching during the night the suffering ones of whom she knew nothing, gave her full time to turn her thoughts inward, when all at once a sound recalled her.

"Listen!"—from the unconscious stranger. "Listen!" louder still; and she arose and went to his bedside. Patting his hand, as if feeling for something, he said: "I am the Way." Then again all was quiet. But a thrill had stirred within the heart of the other injured man near by: and like an arrow the words had pierced the heart of Nurse Cruse. "Why," she asked herself, "only four simple words?"

Morning came, and she was off duty. Walking early in the park, before retiring for rest, she heard among the trees of singing birds: "Listen! 'I am the Way'." She knew they were Bible words, knew who spoke them, but had never known their full meaning—never understood that they meant anything to those who hear them rightly.

As the day wore on, the words gathered force, and as she thoughts of her want of strength, comfort, satisfaction, and peace. louder and louder they came, "I am the Way."

Wondering why that man had spoken thus while unconscious, she longed to hear more, and strangely perturbed in spirit, she went to her next night's work.

"Slightly better," said the doctor. "His name is evidently Hallam—David Hallam. His card has been found in his pocket."

"Nurse," said the other man, who had spoken of his bad life, "why does he keep calling attention to those words? He speaks as if it meant life or death!"

"I know; it struck me as remarkable. He'll be able to tell us, perhaps soon." She turned, as David Hallam spoke.

"You were speaking of me, nurse," he said. "Tell me what I said." She told him low how his words had followed her all yesterday.

"I will tell you all about it now," he softly said. "My mother was dying and I had seen her trouble. She pleaded that I would find my way to God. I said there was no chance of forgiveness, or holiness in my line of life; she said, with her failing breath, reaching her hand out for mine: 'Listen! "I am the Way".' After a minute's exhaustion, she gasped: 'Yes, Jesus Christ.' They were her last words, and I heard them still till I seemed to hear nothing else. They drew me past all the dangers of evil and wrong into that Way: yes, nurse, into Him who is the Way of God. Ah, 'tis worth calling attention to."

As Hallam slowly recovered strength, he began to exert a marvelous power over the doctors, nurses, and patients. When his fellow-sufferer left the hospital, a week before he did, with a hearty handshake he said: "Thank God you made me listen, and I'm going home to carry the message."

Nurse Cruse declares it was through that "Listen!" that she found the Way to peace, and gladness, and God. Many heard the story of the patient who made them listen, and were very sorry he had gone away.

David Hallam, from Australia, making his lonely way back to the old country, by an accident carried into that hospital had made many hear his Masters voice; but it was a year later, that, in the district where he found work, he was thrown among a large number of young men who were gamblers, and, reckless of all consequences, refused to take advice.

They knew him for what they called "a pious one," yet he was so genial and pleasant when he met them that they could not but respect him. He would pass them on their way to their evening revels, and at his word of warning they only laughed; but when he put in an appearance one night where he knew he would find ten of them, they were fairly astonished.

"Not the place for you," said one.

"Whatever are you here for?" asked another. Quite a tumult of voices arose, and excitement prevailed.

As soon as he could be heard, David Hallam said: "I know you are seeking for what you think best, and I want you to listen while I tell you there is only one source of true joy and real heart satisfaction and deep, abiding peace. There is only One who can say, 'I am the Way,' to that which has its center in God: and as I said in the hospital once, 'This is worth calling attention to, in this rushing, busy age'."

Silence reigned as he left the room, but the words had gone forth. A week later, one of the company stole away to David Hallam's room and poured out his heart's confession of folly and guilt. When he learned the way he asked: "Why are there not more who feel it worth while to tell of the right way? You did a grand thing that night, and you will hear the results."

Thankful, and gaining courage, Hallam went on to speak of the words that had arrested him at his mother's bedside, the words of Jesus—"I am the Way."—Glad Tidings.

BRANCH MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the N. C. Branch of Women's Work in the Methodist Protestant Church convened in the Henderson Methodist Protestant church on Wednesday morning, April 4, at 10 o"clock, and closed on April 5 at about four o'clock. Mrs. W. C. Hammer, of Asheboro, presided over the entire session, and Mrs. J. M. Millikan was the efficient secretary. After a splendid devotional service, conducted by Mrs. Richard W. Harris of Rehoboth on Granville charge, greetings and words of welcome were brought by Rev. L. W. Gerringer, D.D., the pastor of the Henderson church. Mrs. C. L. Finch, the president of the Henderson Auxiliary, was the most gracious hostess to the convention, and she and the pastor of the church did everything possible for the comfort and convenience of the delegates.

The president of the meeting chose for the subject of her annual address, "What the Church Can Do to Aid in the Recovery Program." Among the things listed were: To find wholesome amusement for the young people with the larger amount of time on their hands, establish the community sing, point the way to better things by having a more optimistic look upon life.

Reports were heard from the departmental secretaries. in most cases the report showing considerable progress. A beautiful memorial service was conducted for deceased members. One of the outstanding things at the meeting this year was the use of pageantry in showing the possibilities for various kinds of meetings.

At the evening service splendid addresses were brought by Mrs. J. Clyde Auman, who, with her husband, spent seevral years as missionaries to Japan; also by Rev. J. F. Minnis who has recently returned from India. Mrs. C. W. Bates then directed in the taking of an offering to finish paying the salary of Rev. Mr. Minnis. On the following day it was announced that the entire amount had been raised.

Mrs. W. C. Hammer, Mrs. C. W. Bates and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson were appointed a committee to devise methods for finishing the financial campaign for the Children's Home.

Miss Brona Apple and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson were appointed a committee to work with a committee appointed by President Andrews of the Annual Conference to make certain adjustments in the Districts so that the Districts in the Women's work will correspond with those of the Annual Conference.

One of the most significant things at the meeting this year was the fact that eleven auxiliaries sent requests to the finance committee to increase their apportionments for the coming year. Still another outstanding thing was the fact that auxiliaries in every section of the Branch had played an important part in relieving the distress and suffering in local communities as well as to raise money for missions.

The delegates to the Missionary Convention to be held in Washington in May are: Mrs. W. C. Hammer, Mrs. Geo. R. Brown, Mrs. J. M. Millikan, Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, and Mrs. N. M. Harrison. The alternates are Mrs. S. W. Taylor, Mrs. R. M. Andrews, Mrs. E. L. Ballard, Mrs. D. S. Coltrane and Mrs. C. W. Bates.

Banners for outstanding work were awarded by Mrs. A. H. Ragan of Thomasville to the following: Young People's Circle, Maple Springs, Forsyth charge; Sunshine Circle, Hickory Ridge, Forsyth charge; Mission Club, First church, Winston-Salem; Precious Jewels, First church, Thomasville.

MRS. J. E. PRITCHARD.

Questions for Discussion:

1. What should be the individual's attitude for him to get the most out of a worship service?
2. What are the dangers of neglecting church worship? To the individual. To the church.
3. What are some of the ways in which the individual may hinder public worship?
4. What are some of the ways in which he may help?
5. What should the Christian get from a real worship service?

Some Food for Thought:

"The church must seriously undertake the task of enriching her church services if she is to satisfy the demand of the spiritually hungry multitude at her doors, and if she would energize her own membership."—W. S. Lockhart.

"Worship alone satisfies the great fundamental, inborn yearning of the human soul.

This gift is just $404.87 short of the Duke Endowment gift for last year. In sending check they expressed regrets, and said it was mainly due to "a decrease in dividends over the previous year." Then, too, our books show a shortage of days' care of children for 1933 over 1932.

Furnace Fund

Mrs. D. L. Carroll, Reidsville	$5.00

This overpays replacement of furnace by 65 cents. Our friends paid for replacement with special offerings, so we did not have to draw on the regular fund for that item.

Maple Springs, Forsyth, about one-half bushel dried apples.

Friendship, Mt. Hermon, 1 small tablecloth, 4 bureau scarfs, and 4 laundry bags.

S. S. Class of girls 11 to 13, Second church, Millville, N. J., a box of handkerchiefs, wash cloths and other toilet articles.

A Correction—Hickory Ridge, Forsyth, recently furnished cakes one week for school lunches. Somehow it got reported just from Forsyth. Sorry for the omission.

Special Offerings—The very bad weather in March disturbed a number of the churches in their special offerings, so a number of good offerings are coming in in April to help make up for it. Note especially this time, Spring church, two friends, Whitakers Chapel, Concord regular, Dentou, Canaan, Reidsville, Rehoboth, Union Chapel and Mrs. P. A. Hardin. We are thankful for these specials and also for the good regular offerings.

We also greatly appreciate the Duke gift, and the allotment from the N. C. Branch, which is always large right at Branch Meeting. We are so thankful to everybody who has helped us to catch up a bit with our obligations. If all churches and Sunday schools which have not contributed in March, nor April so far, would send along an offering at once, it would greatly help.

Our Plea

Please hold the regular offerings up to your best, and prevent the summer slump in offerings, and then we will not drop back to so large a deficit by the time of the meeting of Annual Conference. We thank you for your help and pray God's richest blessings upon His dear children that they may prosper.

A. G. DIXON, Superintendent.

NOTE:—Mr. Wills has set a good example. We need lots of good books for our older children. Pass on one or more that you have read and will not likely read again, and we will thank you. A. G. D.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Liberty Hill, Anderson Charge.—We were indeed glad to have Dr. Andrews, our president, with us Sunday at the morning service. He used as Scripture Rev. 3:15, 16. Everyone present enjoyed his interesting and inspiring talk. Dr. Andrews came back to visit us. We are always glad to have him. Away down here in South Carolina, we sometimes feel so far off from the other M. P. churches, but still we know we are one of them.

It rained almost all Sunday afternoon and the roads seemed as bad as they have this winter, but services were held. The C. E. met, using for their topic "The Place of Bible Study in Christian Living," Mack Compton, leading. Afterwards, Mr. L. H. Mayfield, of Greer, brought us a message, using as his text, "I have sinned." Everyone enjoys having Mr. Mayfield with us.

Next Sunday night the Junior C. E.'s topic is "What Does C. E. Mean to the Juniors?" As usual, we are looking forward to a good program.

The other organizations of the church are functioning splendidly. The Ladies' Aid and Willing Workers' Class have been quilting quilts all winter. The church is proud of its women and girls who are willing to work so hard and faithfully in hopes of somebody getting Sunday school rooms.

Several of the children are missed on account of whooping-cough—also we are glad to know Mrs. Lila Pearson is able to be out again after being sick for some time; also Miss Anna Ruth Burnette is getting along fine since having a sinus operation and her tonsils removed.

We were glad to have Miss Emma Lee Poole, of Greenville, with us Sunday morning. Miss Poole was our former C. E. president for two years, but is now teaching in Greenville. We are always glad to have her with us.

Money is being raised on new song-books for the church. We hope to have them soon.

Albemarle.—We have enjoyed the past several weeks leading up to and through the Easter season very much. The week before Easter, srvices in th form of prayer meetings were held each night and our pastor gave splendid talks each night. We feel that we have revived in spirit as a result and that much good has been derived from these services. There are those of us who become more or less careless and these services do our souls good.

On last Sunday night (Easter), the young people of the church gave a splendid pageant under the direction of Mr. C. L. Hatley, and Mrs. J. R. Anderson. It was very impressive and everyone enjoyed it very much.

On Tuesday night of last week the Cam Snotherly Circle held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. C. L. Taylor. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Chas. Turner and Mrs. C. S. Moton led in prayer. The business session consisted of plans for a supper which is to be served in our church dining room on April 28 by the Heinz Co. The proceeds of this supper will be given to our Ladies' Auxiliary. During the social hour the hostess served delightful refreshments.

The Lucy Hatley Circle held its meeting in the home of Mrs. C. B. Efird. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. J. E. Gantt. It was decided to take a penny from each meal as a thank-offering and each member would turn their money in at the next meeting. A discussion was held concerning the Heinz Co. supper to be held in our church on April 28. During the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Burleson have been confined to their home for the past week with illness. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

Our church, in fact the whole town, received a district shock on Thursday, March 2'th when little Jimmie Helms, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Helms, was run over by a car driven by Frank Patterson, Jr. He was rushed to the Stanly General Hospital and everything within the power of human hands was done to save him, but God knew best and saw fit to take him to his heavenly home on Friday morning at 2 o'clock. The funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Friendship church, conducted by Rev. J. R. Anderson, assisted by Rev. A. D. Shelton. The little friends of Jimmie's who were Sunday school classmates of his were flower bearers. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. This little lad will be greatly missed in our community. His sunny smile and sweet disposition made friends for him wherever he went. Our love and heartfelt sympathy goes out to bereaved parents in their dark hour, but we know that our loss is God's gain, and that God's gathering this sweet little rosebud has brought heaven nearer to us. REPORTER.

Draper Church.—Easter Sunday was observed at Draper church. The first service was held at sunrise with a large attendance. The Easter story was read by Bro. Russell Stewart. The principal message was brought by the pastor and songs were sung by the choir. Short talks were given by a number present.

We were delighted to have some visitors from Greensboro worship with us in this sunrise service.

Yesterday was a very good day for us. On account of a revival meeting going on in town our congregations were not so large, but a good interest was in evidence.

On account of the revival meeting at the Baptist church we will drop back one week and begin our meeting on the 15th instead of the 22nd. Brethren, pray for us that we may have a good meeting. The pastor will do the preaching. L. S. HELMS, Pastor.

Calvary.—The outstanding thing to be reported this week is the campaign for Tithers for the month of April. The Committee arranging for the Anniversary service for Sunday, May 6th, the Chairman of the Board of Stewards and the Financial Secretary and the pastor held a meeting and decided to ask our membership to tithe for the month of April and to give the tithe to the church no later than May 6th. This campaign was launched last Sunday morning and before the day was over 68 persons had agreed to give the tithe for one month. If there is no designation how the money is to be used then it will be divided equally between the church debt and local expenses. Those who wish the division to be otherwise can so designate it. We are expecting several more to join the procession next Sunday.

Mrs. Otis Campbell and Mrs. M. H. Greer have the sympathy of our church in the death of their brother-in-law, Mr. Robert A. Pittard, of Hamlet, N. C. The funeral was held Monday afternoon.

Mr. L. V. Garrett, of near Tabernacle church, was operated on at St. Leo's Hospital Monday morning. Mr. Garrett is the father of our very efficient reporter, Mrs. Howard R. Neece. We trust for him a speedy recovery. J. E. PRITCHARD.

Fallston Charge.—Easter Sunday here was a beautiful day with a good attendance at all the churches. Three of the five churches on the charge had special Easter services. At Friendship church the cildren of te Mission Band trained by Mrs. F. B. Toney and Mrs. Clem Martin gave a splendid program Easter Sunday morning at the regular Sunday school period. At Hebron church the program was rendered at the regular 11 o'clock church service. First, the Sunday school gave the dramatic pageant, "Easter Radiance," as sent out by our Board of Missions. This was followed by a very fine talk by Prof. Frank Houser, Pittsboro, N. C., son of our Sunday school superintendent, Brother Charlie Houser. At Macedonia church Rev. Mr. Philbeck, Methodist minister, visiting in the community at the Easter season, preached at a special service at 11 o'clock. An Easter offering was received at each service.

Yesterday, the second Sunday, was our regular appointment at Laurel Hill church. The attendance was good with the largest offering thus far during the Conference year. Some three weeks ago a number of the members here gathered at the church and in a few hours made some very noticeable improvement on the church grounds. The annual memorial service will be held at this church on the second Sunday in May. The body of Rev. J. E. Hartsell, now of sainted memory, rests in a plot in this cemetery. A daughter, Mrs. A. P. Sain, is a member of this church and worshipped with us yesterday. Holy Communion was observed here and also at Macedonia church in the afternoon.

The members of Knob Creek church have recently treated the roof of the church to a new coat of paint which adds very much both to the worth and appearance of the building. The ladies' organization furnished the inspiration and part of the cash. Brother Quincy Hartman bought the paint and led the way in doing the work. At our last appointment at this church Brother T. P. Deal, Sunday school superintendent, called our attention to the needs at the Children's Home. The offering for his cause was $3.75. Those who were kept away on this occasion because of bad weather will perhaps be given an opportunity to give later. The ladies' organization here held its last meeting with Mrs. Frank Sain. The next meeting will be with Miss Lucy Willis.

At the March meeting of the Friendship Auxiliary, held at the home of Mrs. Clem Martin, officers for the new missionary year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. F. B. Toney; first vice-president, Mrs. John Lackey; second vice-president, Mrs. Clem Martin; treasurer, Mrs. Gettys Bingham; recording Secretary, Mrs. William Clay; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Fogleman. The program which was prepared by Mrs. Rufus Bingham was cut somewhat short because of the election of officers and other business. One of the things which they did and which we of course appreciate very much was to buy some paint for the kitchen and dining room at the parsonage.

Many of the people at Friendship church are learning to use the envelope system in church finances to good advantage. The offering here at our last morning appointment was by far the largest for the Conference year. Special music by F. B. Toney, Ellis Hoyle and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Hoyle with Mrs. Clem Martin at the piano added much to the service. This was a beautiful day and the attendance at Sunday school ran to 174. Blain Baxter led in the Christian Endeavor program last night. Miss Menola Smith will be the leader for next Sunday night. The annual memorial service at this church will be held on the third Sunday in May.

A Christian Endeavor Society is to be organized at Hebron church Sunday night. This announcement was made yesterday. Three of the churches on the charge are now making a monthly offering to the Children's Home. The second quarterly conference for the charge will be held at Macedonia church Saturday, April 21st. Dr. R. M. Andrews, Annual Conference president, will preside.

H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

Union Chapel, Granville Circuit.—The fifth Sunday rally will be held in our church this quarter. We hope all members will be present and bring a basket lunch to be served on the grounds.

There will be a call meeting of the officers of the Woman's Auxiliary on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30.

Mr. Spencer brought a very helpful sermon Sunday afternoon to a very good crowd. We are glad to see our attendance improving so much.

A goodly number of our Auxiliary members attended the Branch Meeting held at the Methodist Protestant church in Henderson last Wednesday and Thursday.

Our church took up a special collection Sunday toward the Herald subsidy fund. The paper is a great inspiration to our members, and we are vitally interested in its success.

MRS. E. C. HUFF, Reporter.

Matthews Chapel, Greensville Circuit.—Since coming to us Pastor Joyner has been bringing us some real interesting and helpful messages and has filled all appointments. We believe he tries hard to do his part.

Our Sunday school is doing very well despite an epidemic of measles and whooping cough, but since the worst is over we feel we will have better attendance.

Since our last report, we have had to give up two of our girls by marriage, but our loss is somebody else's gain: Miss Maie Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. P. Wright, to Wilson Pearson. They are making their home at Grandy, Va., where Mr. Pearson is employed with the state highway force. and Miss Rosa J. Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Clarke, to Lawrence Clary. They will reside in Richmond, Va., where Mr. Clary is in the barber business. Both were members of our church and Sunday school.

Second quarterly conference was held at Ebenezer church last Saturday at which time Ernest Chambliss and J. M. P. Wright were the nominees to the next Annual Conference.

Mrs. Edna Bowen, a member of our church, had the misfortune to fall and sprain her shoulder, and has suffered much since.

Our community was made sad on last Tuesday by the passing of Garnett Lynch, aged 22 years, after a brief illness of pneumonia. He was a member of James Square Baptist church, but attended our church with his wife, who was a member of our church and secretary of our Sunday school. Funeral services were held from Matthews Chapel Wednesday afternoon by Rev. L. J. Adkinson, of Roanoke, Va., a former pastor of Garnett, assisted by Rev. Mr. Joyner. Interment was made in the church cemetery. He is survived by his wife, father, mother and several sisters. We extend to them our sympathy. The high esteem in which he was held was attested by the large gathering of friends and the many beautiful floral designs.

LOTTIE EDWARDS.

Shoals, Pinnacle-Mt. Zion Charge.—Our Sunday school is improving in attendance since the nice, warm spring days have arrived, but we have many more people in our neighborhood who should attend. While our Sunday school is small in number, it is full of interest and as good a little Sunday school as you will find anywhere.

Our pastor, Rev. A. L. Hunter, filled his appointment here the second; he brought a wonderful message.

The Woman's Auxiliary served an oyster and chicken supper at the church Saturday night, March 31, from 5:30 until 8 o'clock. They took in above all cost $10.02, which will be used to help paint the parsonage.

ODELL MOSER, Reporter.

Flat Rock Charge.—Good attendance and splendid interest marked the services at Gideon's Grove and Flat Rock churches last Sunday. At Gideon's Grove the ordinance of the Lord's Supper was administered, with a large number of people participating. We were pleased to have present for this service a number of visitors, among whom were Mrs. J. J. Thomas, Mrs. J. B. Hargrove and young daughter, Erma Dell Hargrove, of Burlington. Little Erma Dell recited an interesting missionary poem. Louise Way sang a solo. After the service the pastor and family, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Hargrove and her daughter, went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lemmons, where a splendid dinner was enjoyed.

At Flat Rock church at 3 o'clock we were glad to have a large congregation, with a number of visitors. Among the visitors was Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, pastor of Grace Methodist Protestant church, Greensboro. Bro. Carroll had been given an invitation some time ago by the pastor to visit us at Flat Rock, and he came Sunday afternoon. He consented to preach, and deivered a very helpful sermon on the subject, "Christ in the Modern World." The people greatly enjoyed the good sermon and will be glad to have Bro. Carroll come again. Following the sermon, a duet was very effectively rendered by Misses Iva and Virginia Friddle.

Flat Rock church is engaged in a campaign to raise money for the indebtedness of the church. Pledges were taken at the service last Sunday and nearly $200 was pledged in a few minutes. A committee is at work soliciting pledges and contributions.

Flat Rock Charge now has two additional organizations. Last Saturday afternoon a young people's missionary society was organized at Gideon's Grove church with Mrs. C. B. Way as leader. The society starts with 26 members and more are to join later. Meetings will be held each month, on Saturday afternoon folowing the second Sunday. Last Sunday evening a Christian Endeavor Society was organized at Bethel church with 18 members. Bro. Pinkney Dwiggins was elected president of the society, and other officers were chosen. The society will meet again next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, at which time the first program will be rendered. We believe these young people are going to take an interest in the society and make a success with it.

A "tacky" party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Thomas, of Flat Rock church last Saturday night, and was attended by about 40 persons. Each one was asked to bring a penny for each year of their age. A beautiful quilt, made by the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, was sold at auction and the money, together with the proceeds of the tacky party, were put on the church debt.

Our services for next Sunday will be at Palestine at 11 a. m., and at Bethel at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. We expect to observe the ordinance of the Lord's Supper at each church.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

Macedonia, Why Not Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. G. L. Reynolds, preached a most excellent sermon Sunday afternoon. We all like Brother Reynolds fine; he gives his hearers the plain gospel truth and that is what all true Christians want to hear. We are sorry to note that Little Deebert Callicutt got his leg broken yesterday; he is one of our faithful Sunday school scholars, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Callicut, members of our church.

Our March offerings for the Children's Home was $7.07. Macedonia sent in 10 cakes to the Children's Home last Thursday. Those sending cakes were Mrs. J. H. Saunders, Mrs. Elton Tucker, Mrs. Carl Furr, Mrs. S. D. Hurley, Mrs. S. W. Hurley, Mrs. Naomi Saunders, Mrs. Effie Hurley, Mrs. Brock Hurley, Mrs. Jesse Saunders, and Mrs. Roue Saunders. We feel indebted to Brother Elton Tucker for carrying the cakes to the Children's Home for us.

MRS. J. H. SAUNDERS, Reporter.

Connelly Springs Charge.—The Ladies' Aid Society of Shady Grove met at the home of Mrs. Grace Hice Friday night, April 6th, with 14 members present, and one visitor. This was the third meeting since the society was organized, and the total amount raised is $56.90. Some of the money has been used for different necessary purposes: $12 paid on doors for the inside of the parsonage; $5 on pastor's car license; $2 for Children's Home. The society decided to bank the money each month, all except $5, so that we may be able at the end of the year to pay some on the parsonage debt.

Our pastor's wife, Mrs. J. L. Love, is taking a great interest in the society and church work. She has been to Morganton and different places to get donations to fix up the parsonage. I think when she and Pastor Love get through working it will look like a new place. We appreciate what they are doing.

The Sunday school is growing since spring began. The average attendance is around 75. We are hoping it will be larger in a short while.

Mrs. Love and I trained the children for an Easter program which was given Sunday night, April 1. There was a large congregation and all seemed to enjoy the program.

RUTH AIKEN, Reporter.

Orange Charge.—The second quarterly conference met at Union Grove church Saturday, April 7, 1934. The churches were all represented except Hebron. Nominees for delegate to the next Annual Conference are Bros. L M. Riley and C. H. Jones. Both are competent men. Either one will make a good delegate. B. M. WILLIAMS.

Piney Grove, Siler City Charge.—Although we have not been reporting much from Piney Grove, we have not been dormant. The church grounds have been leveled up and shrubbery planted, which adds much to the appearance of our newly-painted church. Curtains have also been bought and placed in the church to curtain off the Sunday school classes.

Last Saturday the two smaller classes of our Sunday school enjoyed an Easter egg hunt and marshmallow and weiner roast.

In order that our pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, might be with us for our Easter service, we had Sunday school at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, followed by our Easter program. The Easter service was well attended. The children did much credit to Miss Wilma Dark, Miss Effie Jones and Mrs. W. A. Poe, who trained them.

We are sorry to learn that two of our faithful members, Mr. and Mrs. D. I. Hinshaw, are moving this week and cannot be with us regularly, but hope that they will come as often as they can.

FANNIE LOUISE POE, Reporter.

Stallings, Mecklenburg Charge.—Yesterday was a god day for us at Stallings church. We had a real good attendance at Sunday school; number present, 77. Bro. Henderson brought us a wonderful message I hope it was like seed sown on good ground and that it will sink deep into the hearts of the hearers and bring forth much good. We were pleased to have visitors from Roberta church with us, Mr. and Mrs. Love and Mr. and Mrs. Hudson and families. We welcome you good people to come back to our church and visit us.

Our Christian Endeavor Society is doing splendid work. The young people are taking great interest.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. P. L. Garmon the past Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. For our devotional we read the 8th chapter of St. Matthew. Each one of the members made a short talk on the scripture lesson. Mrs. Henderson led in prayer. The roll call and number of members present, 12; collection, $1.60. We were glad to hove some of our members who had been absent back with us. After we attended to our usual business, Mrs. Garmon served delicious refreshments. Mrs. Hartis dismissed with prayer.

We are hoping to pay off the debt on our church in 90 days. Bro. Henderson is going to give $50.00 of it if the members will raise the rest, and we MUST raise the rest.

Mr. P. L. Garmon, of Norfolk, Va., spent the week-end at home with his family.

We are glad to report that Mr. M. L. Stallings is improving.

We ask the prayers of the Christian people.

MRS. M. L. STALLINGS.

South China Grove.—The Methodist Protestant church of South China Grove was organized on April 1st, 1934, by Rev. R. M. Andrews, president of the Conference and Rev. J. O. Fry was appointed pastor with 28 charter members. Mr. Will Payne is Sunday school superintendent; Mr. R. V. Walker, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. R. V. Walker, Mrs. J. O. Fry, Miss Ruth Thomas, Rev. J. O. Fry and Mr. Will Payne are teachers in the Sunday school, and the offering on the first Sunday in each month will go to the Children's Home.

Cottage prayer meetings are being held each Thursday night under the direction of Bro. Payne. We ask the prayers of the Herald readers for the success of this young church and we will do our best to make the Conference proud of South China Grove.

J. O. FRY, Pastor.

New Hope News.—Pastor Henderson delivered a wonderful sermon Sunday night. I hope his message reached each heart that heard it.

The Ladies' Aid met at Mrs. Mark Belk's home Friday and quilted a quilt for the parsonge. Me will meet at Mrs. Mary Aycoth's April 28th. We have several new members.

Our pastor had $16.00 left after paying for our piano and he gave it to the Ladies' Aid. We are going to take our dues and this money and cover the church. We are planning to have a Rally Day the third Sunday in April. FAYE AYCOTH.

Community Church, Thomasville. — Palm Sunday was observed by our church. The choir rendered a very impressive program of music. The pastor's sermon, "Shall We Crown or Crucify Jesus?" added much to the sacredness of the hour.

The last meeting of the year for the Woman's Auxiliary was held at the church on Monday evening, March 26, with the Young Ladies' Circle acting as hostess and Miss Susie Myers in charge of the devotionals. At this time the annual reports from the different officers and committees were heard. It was very gratifying to know that our local Auxiliary could be listed as one of the honor Auxiliaries of the state. Miss Iela Maud Boyles represented the Auxiliary at the Branch Meeting which met at Henderson.

Easter Sunday was a busy and happy day in Community Church. A program was given consisting of appropriate songs, recitations, and exercises by the children at 10:30.

At the usual morning worship service the choir sang two very pretty selections, "In the End of the Sabbath" and "Christ Is Risen." The pastor delivered a most significant message entitled "The Resurrection, a Sign of An Endless Life."

The pageant, "Easter Radiance," by Mattie B Shannon, was very effectively rendered on Easter Sunday evening. The main characters were: Narrator, Imogene Boyles; Resurrection Angel, Susie Myers; Reader, Odessa Myers; Thomas, Bob Crauford, and John, Ralph Jones. The choir with fitting selections added real significance to the program.

The Layman's Fellowship held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, April 4. The Young Ladies' Circle served the meal at 6:30, after which time a worth-while program composed of the business, of special music by a male quartet of the local church and an address by D. W. Mattocks, superintendent of the public schools, his subject being based on the home, school, and the church. An incidental project was taken up by the men in the raising of money for a lawn-mover for the church.

Various circles of the Woman's Auxiliary are serving Rotary dinners during the month of April. At the last meeting, Circle No. 2 served a very delicious meal.

The Sunday evening attendance is improving considerably and so is the pastor in his series of the Christian's Code. The seventh item, "The Promoters of Peace," which was given on last Sunday evening was said to have been the most interesting yet.

Last, but not least, we are very happy to state that $39.29 was raised Easter Sunday, which will go to World Service.

ODESSA MYERS.

Hawkins Chapel, Littleton Charge.—On the first Sunday night Rev. R. L. Vickery put before us a very inspiring Easter message. Do we think enough what Easter means to us? We are living with the Risen Lord. Jesus said in St. John 14:19: "Because I live, ye shall live also." But, remember, we are to ebey His command.

On the second Sunday morning Rev. R. L. Vickery read for his Scripture the sixth chapter of Galatians. His text: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

First Sunday morning the writer conducted prayer service. Miss Erma Hawkins has charge of the next meeting the third Sunday morning.

We are missing our superintendent, Mr. Edward Hawkins, for he has been away quite a while on account of measles; but glad to say our Sunday school is still moving.

Don't forget the second district rally will be held at Weaver's Chapel the fifth Sunday in April, the 29th. Rev. Mr. Neese has charge of the program.

Mrs. William Pepper and Mr. Ambrose Pittard are ill.

Bessie Lue, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hawkins, has recovered from measles and pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hawkins' little daughter, Peggy; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawkins' little son, Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carpenter, Misses Tula Pittard and Clyde Hawkins were the guests of Mrs. C. M. Hawkins Sunday.

Mrs. Captain Hawkins was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Howell Hawkins, Sunday; also Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Hawkins and two children.

Miss Elizabeth Hale was the guest of Miss

Mary Virginia Hawkins Sunday also, Miss Louise White, and Mr. Cutchin, of Portsmouth, Va.

Agnes Hawkins, daughter of Mrs. Garnett Hawkins, has returned home after spending some time with her grandfather, Mr. Will Pepper, and Aunt Dollie and Gertie Pepper.

Bethel, Flat Rock Charge.—The young folks presented an Easter program at Bethel last Sunday night under the leadership of Mrs. R. C. Gordon. Mrs. Gordon deserves much credit in training the children. The program was well rendered. We were very much pleased to have Misses Irene and Peace Jous, of Oak Ridge, to sing for us during the program. Rev. Mr. Way brought us an interesting Easter message Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. We were very glad to have with us for this service Mrs. Way's sister and her husband of Burlington. Next Sunday (second Sunday) afternoon we planned to have a meeting to organize a young people's society. We are very much in need of this and we trust that it will be a great success and that the young and old will all take a hand and much good may be done. One of our members, Mrs. A. A. Jones and little daughter, Rebecca, of Greensboro, Route 2, spent Easter with relatives and friends in the community. Now that the beautiful spring weather has arrived we hope that everyone will take more interest in the Sunday school and church work.

With very best wishes to the Herald and all its readers. REPORTER.

Piney Grove, Denton Charge.—Speaking from the third chapter of St. John, Mrs. J. T. Bowman, who, due to the illness of her husband, filled the regular appointment at Piney Grove church Sunday, said we must surrender our will to the Divine Will if God has full sway in our hearts. She also spoke in a logical and impressive manner upon the conversation of Christ with Nicodemus. She especially placed emphasis upon this answer of Christ to Nicodemus: "For God sent not his son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved." We agree with the speaker that if civilization continues to make progress, God must be put first in the heart and mind of every individual.

We regret the illness of our pastor, but we are always glad to listen to the inspiring words of Mrs. Bowman.

St. Paul, Greensboro.—We held our Easter service on Sunday night. Mr. Garner had charge of training the children for this service. Our pastor, Mr. Garner, was sick on the first Sunday in this month and Rev. G. F. Millaway preached at the 11 o'clock hour for him and Rev. W. F. Ashburn preached last Sunday night, being old pastors of our church. We are always glad to have them with us.

Miss Flossie Jones carried the small children of the Sunday school off on an egg-hunt on Saturday. Miss Jones is one of our faithful Sunday school workers. An epidemic of measles has been raging in our community for quite a while and has caused the Sunday school to be off some, but hope they will soon be over with this disease and as the weather gets better we are looking for our Sunday school to take on new life.

Our pastor announced last Sunday that he would start a revival meeting on the fourth Sunday in this month. Remember us in your prayers that we may have a good meeting and souls may be saved.

The Ladies' Aid Society placed a new refrigerator in the parsonage last week.

MRS. J. S. WADE, Reporter.

Bessemer City Church.—We had preaching services Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Our pastor, Bro. Cranford, preached a wonderful sermon. His subject, "The Highway to Heaven." It was a very touching sermon. It seemed as though a revival of religion was about to break out. God grant that we may have an old-fashioned revival that will bring our people to a sense of their duty and kindle a flame of sacred love in their hearts and put us all on the firing line in the service of the Master.

Our Sunday school was much better Sunday morning. The attendance was good. Our Sunday school record has been rather small. We have had much sickness in the community.

The C. E. Society meets every Sunday afternoon. This society is doing very well at present but we hope to accomplish more in the future and have a society that will uplift the young people.

Pray for us that we may go forward in the great work for the Master.

LUCY BRACKETT, Reporter.

Mebane.—The Easter services at the church were very interesting and beneficial. Attendance was very good and the offering was larger than usual.

We are just beginning a tithing campaign. The campaign will close around the 15th of May and we hope to pay half of the total church budget by that time.

The Circles of the Woman's Auxiliary met Monday evening at 7:30 with the chairmen of the respective circles.

We have organized a Leadership Training Club and hope to have several representatives of this church attend training school this summer.

MRS. CALLIE NICHOLSON.

Thomasville, First Church.—As our reporter has been kept from church on account of sickness in the home, I will mention a few things which have transpired since our last report.

We are not doing any great things—just plodding along, trying to hold our ground and to gain any new ground that we can. Our attendance at church and Sunday school is below normal, due to the epidemic of measles and other illness.

Our Pre-Easter meeting began on Sunday evening, March 25. Dr. G. I. Humphreys preached for us on Sunday and Wednesday evenings. Rev. H. F. Surratt preached on Monday evening. We are very grateful to these men for their very earnest and inspiring messages. The meeting closed with the Holy Communion service under the light of the cross on Thursday evening.

A pageant, "Easter Radiance," was presented at the regular church service on Easter Sunday evening. An offering was received for World Service. We had set our goal for $25 and I believe that we might have reached it if our attendance had not been checked on account of sickness. We received $18.08.

Our hearts have been saddened by the death of Mrs. D. R. Loftin, better known to us as "Grandma Loftiu." She was the oldest member of our church and one among the most faithful and loyal. As long as her health would permit she was always found in her pew. And after she could no longer attend she was anxious to do her part in a financial way, and did do it. In a campaign at the beginning of this Conference year to secure pledges to raise our Annual Conference interests, Granduma's pldge was among the first to come in. And it was among the first to be paid. Her life was an inspiration and benediction to those who knew her. We feel that we have suffered a great loss by her going, but we feel that our loss is her gain.

Rev. M. P. Chambliss brought us a very interesting and helpful message on last Sunday evening. We were glad to have him.

Our Woman's Auxiliary had three representatives at the North Carolina Branch Meeting last week. We are proud of the work our women are doing. They were one among the Auxiliaries that raised their budget in full, and they were one of the six Auxiliaries that asked that their budget be increased for next year.

The Layman's Fellowship and the Woman's Auxiliary will hold a joint meeting on Thursday evening of this week. Mr. Tucker, of High Point, who has recently returned from the Holy Land, will be the speaker.

T. GLENN MADISON.

West Forsyth Charge.—Our last appointment at Harmony Grove, which was the fourth Sunday in March, the attendance was much larger than at any service since I have been on the charge. We took an offering for the Children's Home, which amounted to $7.00. I think that was fine for such a small membership. On the first Sunday we were at Baltimore for the 11 o'clock service. The young people and children gave us a nice Easter program, which was enjoyed by all present. An offering was taken for World Service which amounted to $5.00. At 2:30 we were at Stony Kuoll and found the largest attendance we have had there at any service. Also took an offering for the Children's Home, but can not recall the exact amount.

On Saturday, the seventh of April, we were at Union Hill for the second quarterly conference. Bro. C. G. Hunter, from Pleasant Hill, and Bro. Grover Griffin, from Baltimore, were nominated for delegate to the Annual Conference. We filled our appointment there Sunday at 11 o'clock and took an offering for the Children's Home, and again our congregation was much larger than usual. They have 55 on roll in Sunday school and had 50 present. Our special meeting at Union Hill will begin the third Sunday in May. Bro. W. B. Speas was in the hospital for several days for an operation. We are glad to say he was able to go home last Thursday. Hope he will soon be strong and can fill his place at church.

Mrs. C. G. Hunter is quite sick in the hospital; hope for a speedy recovery, as she is an active member of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Pleasant Hill church.

Tabernacle had an Easter service, but as we could not be present we can not report as to the success of it, but we feel sure it was good; they have had good congregations all the year. At our last appointment there they took an offering for the Home.

People live to be real old in Yadkin and Forsyth counties. I have visited 16 of my members ranging in age from 75 to 94 years.

D. R. WILLIAMS.

Whitaker's Church.—Our church observed Easter with special songs and sermon by the pastor. Two of our Enfield friends favored us with a very suitable Easter message in song, which was very much appreciated. Some of our people attended the High Point College program in Enfield Friday night. Eight of our number attended Branch Meeting in Henderson last week and enjoyed the privilege very much. It sems to be growing in interest, judging by the attendance; it looked almost like an Annual Conference crowd except there were more women than preachers and men delegates. It is encouraging to know you are a part of such a great work. We were very sorry that Dr. and Mrs. Dixon and Rev. Mr. Casto could not be with us.

Our Sunday school is keeping up a good attendance in spite of bad weather and the large number who have been ill. We are very well up with our Conference claims, am very glad to say.

Our hearts are made sad by the death of one of our faithful members, which occurred two weeks ago.

Best wishes to the Editor and his helpers and readers of the Herald.

REPORTER.

Kannapolis.—"He is not here, but he is risen," Luke 24:6, was the heading of the Easter Sunday Bulletin. The day's services were started with a wonderful sunrise service at 6:30 a. m., conducted by the C. E. Society. A fine Sunday school, there being 187 present, and a splendid congregation for the 11 o'clock worship at which time the pleasure was ours to have Dr. R. M. Andrews with us, and he delivered some wonderful and helpful thoughts to our minds, and we trust they will long be remembered and practiced. Mrs. W. T. Kiser and Mr. R. T. Sides rendered a beautiful duet, "There's a green hill far away." At the close of the service the doors of the church were opened and the church gladly welcomed the following new members: Misses Bonnie Davis, Margaret Benfield, Nellie Downs and Mrs. Beatrice Marshall Hudson, Mrs. Garland S. Barker, Mrs. Annie Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Gibson and Mrs. Ruby Lynn Sides, who came to us by certificate; also Mr. Melvin Hudson and Miss Geneva Davis were received on confession of faith. These two and Gary Melvin, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson were baptized. We trust that all these new members will prove a blessing to the church.

The evening service was called off so those who could went to China Grove to assist Rev. Mr. Fry with his work. We hope for him and the church a great success.

Our revival started April 8 with the 11 o'clock service and with a splendid spirit prevailing. Special music was rendered by the Junior quartette, and Rev. Mr. Morris brought a wonderful message on "How to Obtain a Revival." At the close of the service he gave the invitation to all those who really and truly wanted a revival and wanted more power from the Father to kneel at the altar and some very helpful and inspiring prayers were offered.

At the evening worship Rev. Mr. Morris spoke on "The First Things First." The evening congregation was off some, due to the change of weather and late shower. We are expecting Rev. Mr. Hunter, who is an active minister in the M. P. church and has been for years. He is an able speaker and a consecrated man of God. He resides in Winston-Salem—to come to us Monday, April 9, to preach for us in our meeting. Don't forget to pray for him and our meeting. Don't miss a single service, and let God have His way in your life.

Mrs. C. B. Price and Mrs. V. M. Whitley accompanied the pastor of this church to Henderson to attend the Branch Meeting last week, made possible by the two Circles of the Ladies' Aid. The meeting was most helpful and the delegates gave in a good report.

It did us good to see some faces at church Sunday that had been absent for some time. You might think you're not missed when you are not there, but you are, for someone has YOU as an example. Why not try very hard to live up to the example we are expected to be of God and that "one" who is watching us.

Bethel Church, Flat Rock Charge. — The young people of Bethel community met Sunday, March 8th, at 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of organizing a Christian Endeavor Society. Rev. C. B. Way, the pastor, assisted us in organizing. The officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. E. P. Dwiggins; vice-president, Miss Avohlea Combs; secretary, Mrs. Albert Pope; treasurer, Miss Virginia Pearman; pianist, Mrs. R. C. Gordon; reporter, Miss Minnie Pearman. Other members were Mr. and Mrs. John Kellam, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Pegram; Misses Eva Combs, Bessie Pegram, Dura Pearman, Mildred McGee, Marie Apple, and Mr. R. C. Gordon, Percy Parker and Albert Pope. The honorary members were Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Gordon, Mr. J. C. Parker, and Mr. J. A. Pearman. Our next meeting will be Sunday, March 15th, at 7 o'clock, p. m. We will then appoint the program committee and the sick and cheer committee, and decide how often we will meet.

Our Sunday school is doing better and we hope it continues. We now have 110 on roll.

Rev. C. B. Way will be present at the regular appointment at this church Sunday, March 15th, at 3 o'clock, p. m. All members and visitors are cordially invited to attend.

MINNIE PEARMAN, Reporter.

Guilford Charge.—There has been so much sickness and several deaths since my last report; measles, whooping-cough, and mumps have been bad at all four churches. But nevertheless we haven't forgotten the church. We have paid church extension in full, superannuate in full. We are hoping to pay all the A. C. B. in full before Conference.

Three of our churches observed the Easter program.

We held our second quarterly meeting last Saturday afternoon at Mitchells Grove; the business was transacted in harmony. Bros. John Marsh and G. H. Weant were elected nominees for delegate to next Annual Conference.

Mr. Lindsay Kirkman, one of our members of Vickory church, is very sick. We hope he will soon be better.

President Andrews was with us the third Sunday in March at Fairfield and Vickory. All enjoyed his visit very much.

The people are still thoughtful of their pastor, giving him things for the pantry. I can not name each giver, so I will give by each church. Mitchells Grove, milk; Vickery, potatoes; Hickory Grove, milk, canned fruit, dried fruit, corn meal and potatoes; Fairfield, two dozen cans of fruit, four cans of meat, three chickens, one shoulder of meat, one large piece of ham, one large piece of bacon, milk of both kinds, and one load of wood.

We appreciate their thinking of their pastor in this way, and may the Lord bless every member on our charge.

MRS. T. A. WILLIAMS.

Connelly Springs Charge.—It is a great inspiration to us to note the interest and optimism which our people are manifesting since spring is open. The results of our efforts are more apparent. Our attendance is increasing rapidly and other phases of the work show marked improvement. Shady Grove gave an Easter program, the most beautiful and successful in years, thanks to Mrs. Aikens and Mrs. Love, who had charge.

Our second quarterly conference was held at Burke church Saturday, April 7th. Several matters of importance were acted upon.

We are still making improvements on the parsonage. It has been built only a few years and was left unfinished. Mrs. Love has solicited $45 by public donations. It is being finished inside and out. A smooth even cement finish to the front porch, with brick columns. We are planning to paint inside and out soon. Also have some shrubbery for the yard. We are getting lined up to pay off the $300 debt on the parsonage this year. We recently received the third pounding for the year from the good people of Shady Grove and are very grateful for their interest in providing for our material needs.

Sunday at Shiloh was the best service of the year; good attendance, good offering, good attention, and general interest good.

The good ladies of this church gave us a pleasant surprise when they presented us with a beautiful patch-work quilt, white and blue center, with NRA emblem, with names of different contributors worked in red. We cannot express our appreciation for this treasured gift.

J. L. LOVE, Pastor.

Corinth, Littleton Circuit.—Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Vickery, brought us another good sermon on Easter Sunday morning. Sorry that more of our members were not there to hear this message.

The Union Sunday school, which has been going on at Bobbitt's Chapel Baptist church, has moved to Corinth and will be held at 10 o'clock every Sunday except the second Sunday it will be held at Bobbitt's Chapel, as that is their regular preaching day there. Mr. B. F. Morris is the superintendent at Corinth. We hope that our people will co-operate and come and help make this a good Sunday school.

On Easter Monday the children enjoyed an egg hunt given by the Sunday school. Maynard Bobbitt received the prize for finding the most eggs.

We were very glad to have Mrs. A. S. Glasgow, of Winston-Salem, worship with us the first Sunday. It seems like old times to see Miss Fannie here and we are always glad for her to be here.

One of our stewards, Mr. Whit Harper, has been sick for some time. We are glad to report that he is better now. We hope he will soon be able to be back at church.

Several of our members attended the concert given by the A Capella Choir of High Point College at Aurelian Springs School Saturday night.

Don't forget preaching services at this church the first Sunday mornings at 11 o'clock and the third Sunday nights at 7:30 o'clock. Please be present and be on time.

Pleasant Grove Station.—The beautiful Easter time has passed and there still linger with us the sweet and glorious memories of the resurrection of a blessed loving Savior whose delightful presence is promised to be with us to the end.

We are moving forward—nothing very startling, nothing sensational—just moving toward our goals. For several Sundays we preached short sermons of eight to ten minutes to the children, looking forward to a harvest on Easter Sunday. The Sunday before Easter we brought them to decision for Christ; 14 took the stand for a life of service for the Master. On Easter Sunday morning we opened the doors of the church for the reception of members. We were somewhat disappointed when only five of the 14 came forward for baptism and membership and feel there was some neglect somewhere for proper instruction and encouragement. We rejoice in the fact that five new recruits for Kingdom Service are now with us in the march to the Celestial City of God. After the reception of new members we administered the ordinance of the Lord's Supper. It was a scene of joy when these five new members came forward and joined with us in commemorating the death of a crucified and risen Savior. After service one good sister said to us: "I don't know about one of the little girls, as her mother is not here and is of Baptist faith." I answered, "It is done now, and we can only leave the rest with the Good Lord." Betty was much on my mind and heart during the week—just what message I would get the following Sunday I did not know. On our arrival and entering church the steward handed me 50 cents to credit on salary. It was Betty's first payment to her pastor. After preaching, Betty was among the first to reach the pulpit to shake hands with her pastor. Jesus gave children, yes, little children, a place in the kingdom of heaven. Surely, His church will cease to deprive them. Watch out, and quit throwing stumbling-blocks in the way of these little ones. Jesus makes the act a fearful thing—"Better that a millstone were hanged about the neck and you were drowned in the depths of the sea."

Our young people put on a fine Easter program Sunday night at 7:30 p. m. I'll leave this for our good reporter.

The Kingdom work has suffered some on account of bad, snowy, rainy, sleety weather and sickness. There seems to be more sickness and deaths than in quite a number of years. We all hope for better weather and that the scourge of sickness will soon be over and we can get down to real culture in the Master's vineyard.

The Men's Bible class is growing in spite of obstacles in the way. We are some distance from our goal set—but our growth has been sufficient to encourage us to believe that the goal set is not impossible. We are real proud of this fine class of men and are looking forward to greater things for the Master. Every group of our workers is functioning nicely and signs of growth everywhere, even in nature life, is being resurrected; the fields and lawns are again clothed with life and beauty; the air has been washed clean by the falling rains and is fresh and balmy; the birds are singing—getting ready for their spring and summer task. Let man awake, shake off the lethargy of sin and indifference and enter the field of service for our Master with renewed strength and zeal. May God bless and awaken the activities of the whole church.

H. L. POWELL, Pastor.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Landreth

Our church has been saddened by the home-going of the oldest member of the church, J. W. Landreth. "Uncle John," as he was known, passed away Thursday, March 15, 1934, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Strader, of Summerzeld, N. C. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Rosa Landreth; two daughters, Mrs. P. C. Tucker, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Henry Strader, of Summerfield; 20 grandchildren, a large number of great-grandchildren, two nieces and six nephews, and also a large number of other relatives.

"Uncle John" was loved by all who knew him. He will be greatly missed by his family, relatives and his church, of which he had been a member 61 years. REPORTER.

Ward

Michael Ward, born December 19th, 1859, died March 9th, 1934. On October 6th, 1889, he was married to Miss Utensa Bell Pugh. To this union seven children were born, six boys and one girl. The daughter died about eight years ago. The sons are left with the widow, two brothers, one sister and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

The deceased had been a sufferer for several years. For the past year he was not able to be cut very much. He bore his suffering patiently. I never heard him complain.

In early life he accepted Christ and joined the Methodist Protestant church at Gray's Chapel. He later moved his membership to Bethany M. P. church and remained a faithful member till God saw fit to take him. He was faithful in attending the services as long as his health would permit. The last time I remember seeing him at his church was last year at the special meeting. He was in poor health and did not feel like coming in the house and sat in his car near the window where he could hear the preaching and singing. We can truthfully say a good man is gone.

On Sunday, March 12th, the funeral services were held at Bethany by the writer, assisted by Rev. J. B. Trogdon and Rev. T. A. Williams, after which his body was laid to rest in the church cemetery.

Fox

One of the most priceless treasures to be had in this life is a true friend. In Charley F. Fox I had such a treasure. Our friendship began when we were small boys and extended over a period of more than 60 years, interrupted only when death came to him on the morning of March 5th, 1934. We were born and reared in the same neighborhood and my first recollections of him date back to the time when we were little boys going to the neighborhood school together, or attending religious services at old Springfield Methodist Protestant Church where our fathers were members. When Charley and I had reached our early 'teens, we, too, joined this church. How sweet the memory of that happy day at Springfield when we, with other boys and girls, became members of the church. I am sure that bond of membership held us bound through the years and that our friendship was stronger because of this church tie. With us it never was forgotten, and though Springfield as a church was discontinued and the membership broken up and scattered, still our friendship held until death.

Charley and I attended the neighborhood schools together and saw much of each other during our boyhood years. In January, 1887, Prof. J. A. W. Thompson opened his celebrated "Thompson School" at Siler City, and Charley and I entered this school together. We boarded together in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Fox, we were in the same classes, had the same studies, belonged to the same literary society——all of which afforded us an opportunity to know each other like brothers. And through it all our friendship continued and grew stronger.

When schooldays were over for Charley, he went back to the farm, the home of his father, Himer Fox, where he became a successful farmer himself. Here he lived his life, surrounded by the scenes of his childhood—the streams, the trees, the fields, the birds, the hills and the wild life about him—among old friends and neighbors. In young manhood he was happily married to Miss Fiora Murchison, who came with her talent and grace to help him build a better and happier home. Their home was indeed a pleasant place to visit. I was there often and always found a warmth and welcome that made me glad.

Charley Fox was a man of decided views and did not hesitate to express himself upon the vital issues of the day. He was usually correct in his estimate of men and measures. He wanted to do the right thing and wanted Right to prevail. He has lived his life and is gone. He will be missed in the home most, but the community will miss him, we all will miss him. But we sorrow not as those who have no hope, for I believe he has gone to that beautiful place we call Heaven, and that we shall see and know him there.

"Then dry your tears and do not weep,
There is no death to souls divine;
On yonder hills they only sleep,
Your friends and mine.

"Sometime, somewhere, God keeps the day,
When you and I life's sea have crossed,
And in that land of endless May
We'll meet again the friends we've lost."

L. L. WREN.

Loftin

Amanda Jane Nance Loftin was born April 12, 1848, and departed this life March 31, 1934, aged 86 years, 11 months and 19 days. She was united in marriage with D. R. Loftin February 20, 1870. To this union were born eight children, three of whom preceded her in death. Those living are: Mrs. J. C. Morris, of High Point; J. E. and W. J. Loftin and Mrs. J. J. Watts, of Thomasville, and Mrs. G. T. Harris, of Denton. She is also survived by 25 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Loftin professed faith in Christ in early life and united with Chapel Hill Methodist Protestant Church. When the family moved to Thomasville she transferred her membership to the First Methodist Protestant Church, where she remained a loyal and faithful member until death.

The funeral was conducted in the First Methodist Protestant Church by the pastor, assisted by Rev. J. L. Trollinger and Rev. T. A. Williams, former pastors.

T. GLENN MADISON, Pastor.

Hatley

Little Betty Jane, the darling baby of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hatley, of Germanton, was buried at Palestine the first Sunday at 2 o'clock. Betty Jane was only two years and seven months of age at the time of her death. She had been ill since she was nine months old. It was with broken hearts that her young parents had to part with her. Weep not, dear parents. God knows best. A litte angel budded on earth to bloom in heaven where there will be no more sickness, sorrow or death.

Her funeral was conducted by her mother's pastor, Rev. C. B. Way, and Rev. Mr. Long, pastor of Germanton Baptist church, a close friend of the family. REPORTER.

Siler

Mrs. Julia Anne Siler, the oldest member of Piney Grove M. P. Church, departed this life March 11, 1934, having reached the age of 79 years. For a number of years she had been a shut-in, unable to attend church, but during this time she read the Bible through from cover to cover six times, deriving great comfort from the many promises.

In 1901 Mrs. Siler united with Piney Grove Methodist Protestant Church and attended the services as long as her health permitted. Her husband, Joe Siler, preceded her to the grave some years ago.

Four daughters and one son survive: Mrs. Daisy Staley, Mrs. J. J. Buckner, Mrs. Nannie Hogleman, Mrs. Everett Wicker, and W. M. Siler.

The writer and Rev. T. F. Andrew conducted the funeral at Piney Grove an March 13. The body was tenderly laid to rest in the church cemetery. H. L. ISLEY.

A NOTE OF THANKS

My dear friends:

I have been ill for about six weeks from complications following pneumonia, but am now improving. It is with great pleasure and indeed from the depths of my heart that I attempt to write a few words. Not a day passed during the first five weeks of my illness that some friend did not visit my home to enquire of my condition or to do a kind deed. My condition was not such that I could see them or realize their presence.

These words will, in only a small way, express my thankfulness to you—friend and neighbor from far and near and of every denomination—for every visit to enquire of my condition, for every helpful deed and for every prayer that was offered in my behalf. It is my prayer that the Droppings of the Spirit of God may fall upon everyone; to preserve the soul for the Kingdom of God. I ask you in the name of Christ—Prepare to meet Thy God.

Best wishes to all.

WHITAKERS	114

CALVARY	66

Just look at Whitakers this week! They are walking on top of the world. I knew they could do it, for that small church has in it some of the finest people in the world! They were not content to send in just their quota, but sent along a whole subscription above their quota for good measure. Well, that is what I call doing things with a vengeance. Now, I am going to ask you to follow me in your imagination to some future time—a long ways out in the future, when the Albemarle Sound shall have disappeared because of the erosion up the rivers. When a great city shall have been built where the Sound now is. A public school teacher is conducting a class in General History. She says: "Now, Henry, you tell the class when Rome was founded." Henry says: "I believe it was 753 B. C." "Correct," says the teacher. Then the teacher says: "Now, Mary, you tell when Alexander the Great started out to conquer the world." Mary says: "334 B. C." Then teacher says: "Now, all of you tell me when Whitakers reached their goal in the Herald Campaign," and all of them sing out in unison, April 5th, 1934!" "Right you are," says the teacher, and someone says: "Now, let's give Whitakers three cheers!" and they group themselves together and say: "Hip, hip, hurrah, hip, hip, hurray, Whitakers, Whitakers, Whitakers!"

Other charges are still climbing and I am execting them to go over the top right away.

The Great Conqueror

He came, He saw, He conquered;
His time on earth was brief,
He must complete His mission
And haste to quick relief.

Our world could not detain Him,
For other worlds appealed;
Universal need cried out
And could not be concealed.

A universe of joy the aim,
No place of shame and pain;
Creation cries for renewal,
The world made safe again.

God called for help and found it,
The Mighty One arose,
And buckled on His armor—
Will bring the war to close.

Trying to Discourage Foreign Missions?

It is credibly reported that some men of means who handle large sums of money for hire are saying to church boards who come for loans: "If you will agree to refrain from foreign missionary work, we will let you have the money; otherwise we will not let you have it."

What does this mean? If it simply means that these financiers scent unusual danger in making such investments at this time when it is unusually hard to raise money for missionary work, then it may mean that these men of dollars are disposed to take special precaution against unsafe loans. Those who have the care of other people's money should feel the obligation to save it from loss. It may be a virtue these men are exhibiting.

But what if it means that these financiers are at heart opposed to Christian missions? Then it is far from a virtue they are displaying to the world. To oppose missionary work is to antagonize Jesus Christ.

—Editor Shipley is justly aggrieved by action that arbitrarily adds to the cost of publishing the Protestant-Recorder. He points out that the paper was published at a loss and that the laborers were satisfied with their wages. Our statesmen, if they be statesmen, should remember what followed in the days of the World War when prices were thrust up alarmingly when it was not necessary to raise prices to secure the needed labor.

Some of the Evils of Racetrack Gambling

The case is thus stated by Rev. O. R. Miller, State Superintendent of the New York Civic League:

1. Racetrack gambling is ethically wrong in itself.
2. Racetrack gambling injures the man who bets.
3. Raretrack gambling injures the man who accepts the bets—the bookmaker.
4. Racetrack gambling injures thousands of business men whos eclerks, cashiers or other employees steal money from their employers with which to bet on the races.
5. Racetrack gambling injures thousands of homes, causing many suicides, as a result of money lost.
6. Racetrack gambling always demoralizes the jockey boys who ride the horses, and also every employee around the race track stables and paddocks.
7. Racetrack gambling upsets the minds of millions of people who read of large sums being won at race tracks, as, for instance, the woman in Brooklyn last week who won $75,000 on the Irish sweepstakes. Many people are thus tempted to use what little money they have, or can borrow or steal, to place bets on such racetrack ventures.

FOR MOTHER'S DAY

Plans for the observance of Mother's Day, which falls on Sunday, May 13th, include special suggestions for the cooperation of pastors in a community effort to improve maternity care. Sponsoring the movement is the Maternity Center Association, 1 East 57th St., New York City.

Using as a basis recent medical surveys which indicates that two-thirds of maternity deaths are preventable, the plan is to urge clubs of both men and women throughout the United States to survey the maternity facilities of their own communities to find elements in the situation which may properly be changed to effect improvement. Blank forms are available for this purpose, and prizes are to be awarded for the best appraisals of local conditions.

The Maternity Center Association offers suggestions for church bulletin notices, and an outline for a sermon, together with authoritative findings of medical authorities on the subject of how to reduce the mortality from causes connected with maternity. This material will be sent free of charge.

"BLESSED IS THE MAN THAT WALKETH NOT IN THE COUNSEL OF THE UNGODLY"

It seems enough has been said about dancing to convince High Point College that a number are not willing to support the college unless it stands true to its name. We are very much surprised that the question of dancing should have even been considered, and we feel it a reflection on High Point College that the question was allowed to come out into publicity. Can we afford to lower the standard of Christian living and let unsaved people dictate to us what to do and leave the Word out of our work? But continue thou in the things thou hast learned and hast been assured of knowing of whom thou hast learned them and from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. All scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works. We feel the man or woman that has accepted the place of teaching in any school or college should first of all be a scholar of the great Teacher of all teachers that they may know and understand how to teach boys and girls the way. Christ said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." It seems if teachers realized the tremendous responsibility of building characters of the boys and girls that are placed in their care we would see quite a difference in our schools and colleges. When some colleges allow dancing others are made to want to do as they do. The story of a young lady who was very fond of dancing but felt the need of a Savior, was dissatisfied with her life. She asked D. L. Moody if she was converted and accepted Christ as her personal Savior, could she still continue dancing. Mr. Moody told her she could dance all she wanted to dance. She accepted Christ, was born of God, became a new creature in Christ Jesus, old things passed away. She went back to Mr. Moody and told him she did not want to dance. When Jesus Christ comes into our heart and life we are satisfied with him, so to my mind the great question that should be considered at school or college is how to get boys and girls into the Kingdom of God. Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth. We older people want to be considerate, we do not want to forget that we have been young. We want every boy and girl to get out of life all there is in life in the right way, but we do not feel dancing will elevate or inspire any one to a higher plane of living, but we do feel it will have a tendency to lower us in life. Trust in the Lord and lean not to thine own understanding, in all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths. MARTHA PARSONS.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY TO TEACH TEMPERANCE

Nearly fifty years ago I heard a physician give a lecture, describing the effects of alcohol upon various organs of the human body. It seemed to me as I listened, that was enough to cause anyone to come to a full determination that no liquor should ever pass his lips. That was one of many influences brought to bear upon my young mind, which made it certain that I would never have the least inclination to use intoxicants.

Of recent years no such exhaustive account of the baleful harms that alcohol brings to our bodies has come to my notice. And I have often wished that the boys and girls of today might have the same teaching I had, and be led as I was to be teetotalers. For I know that if they were all so led, drunkenness would cease to be.

Our medicinal doctors have a great opportunity to give this needed teaching; for they have the requisite knowledge, they come in contact with the people, and what they say carries much influence, both for and against drinking.

Let us give our doctors the benefit of our sympathy, our encouragement, and our prayers, to the end that they may contribute their share, both by example and teaching, to drive from our communities the curse of drunkenness.

WHITEFIELD AND THE ROBBER

In one of his journeys, Whitefield was told of a widow with a large family whose landlord had distrained her furniture and was about to sell it, unless her rent was paid. George Whitefield's purse was never large, but his sympathy was great, and he immediately gave the five guineas which the helpless woman needed. The friend who was traveling with him hinted that the sum was more than he could reasonably afford; to which the reply was given, "When God brings a case of distress before us, it is that we may relieve it."

The two travelers proceeded on their journey, and before long, encountered a highwayman, who demanded their money, which they gave. Whitefield now turned the tables on his friends and reminded him how much better it was for the poor widow to have the five guineas than the thief, who had just robbed them. They had not long resumed their travel, before the man returned and demanded Whitefield's coat, which was more respectable than his own. This request was also granted, Whitefield accepting the robber's ragged garment till he could procure a better one.

Presently they perceived the robber again galloping towards them most furiously; and now, fearing that their lives were threatened, they also spurred their horses, and fortunately arrived at some cottages before the highwayman could stop them. The thief was balked and no doubt was immensely mortified; for when Whitefield took off the man's tattered coat, he found in one of its pockets a carefully wrapped parcel containing one hundred guineas.—The Gospel Magazine.

UNDERSTANDING FRIENDSHIP

The Settlement helped a negro preacher to fix up an old store where his congregation might assemble. His opening remarks at their first meeting struck a big note:

"Brothers an' Sisters: Dis am jes' a simple church meetin' house. But we never would 'a' had dis if it hadn't 'a' been fur de Settlement, wich is our bes' frien'. But it's ours, an' Ise glad to see you-all heah. I didn't ast de President of de United States to come, fur he wouldn't 'a' come. I didn't ast de Guv'nor ob New Yo'k to come, fur he wouldn't 'a' come. But I did ast Jesus to come, an' he's heah."

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

The World Children

A pageant and service for Children's Day program is being sent out by Dr. Haddaway to all pastors in the denomination and may be had free of charge by all the churches and Sunday schools in our church. We hope that every Sunday school in the conference will hold the service this year and make a faithful effort to secure a large contribution for Missions. This is one way the World Service budget can be paid by the churches. And if the entire amount is not raised in this way, much can be secured by a faithful effort on the part of those who prepared it; and we hope every pastor will urge his schools to use it.

Our Best

Often we find people discouraged in their tasks when really they had done splendidly. They were judging their efforts by what others did and fell far short of their labors; but their accomplishments were really splendid for them. Again we find others absolutely content with what they have done; they have done as well as others, therefore they do not worry, when in truth they should have done much more than others did. They made the mistake of letting others set the standard for their labors. The fact is, not until a person has done his best is he to rest content. Regardless of whether it is more or less than what others do, each of us must do our part—do our best. When this is done there should be no dissatisfaction with the results of our toil. In these days when money is hard to secure, we find some who are unhappy because they cannot give as much as they used to give. And we find others who are content because they give as much as others give. The first ought not to worry about his inability to give, and the other should worry much about his unwillingness to give.

Take the Program to the People

I am thoroughly convinced that our conference will not do more than hold its own so long as such large groups of our people are unreached by the appeals of the church for co-operative effort in putting on our conference program. There should not be a single church in all the conference where this program is not seriously undertaken. These churches which hesitate to do anything until they have taken care of themselves—their local needs—are, to say the least of them, a sad disappointment. No church has the right to withhold its support to the conference program, let their condition be what it may. It deadens the activity of a church to know only its own local needs. It is selfishness and selfishness always kills spiritual appreciation and inspiration.

If these non-co-operating churches would think for a moment what sort of a conference, what kind of a denomination, we would have if all the other churches did no more for the benevolent enterprises of the denomination than they. There were churches last year that did not contribute one dollar for the annual conference claims and claimants. Suppose all the other churches had been so thoughtlses of the conference enterprises as they, the conference would just go out of business. There MUST BE more thought given to th various interests of the conference and now is a good time for such churches to begin to do this.

We are planning programs for a day's study of the interests of the church which we hope to put on in every rural pastoral charge. It necessarily will be held on a week-day, but we shall be greatly pleased if we can get the officers of the churches to attend these meetings; we know they will have their interest in the church quickened if they will do this.

Roberta Charge, Rev. Earl A. Cook, Pastor

This is Brother Cook's first year at Roberta. The work has started off unusually well. The church debt has been paid off and the people are now preparing to take care of the conference claims. We hope to hear of this being done in due time. Roberta has a good opportunity as a church. It is made up of both rural and industrial people. They seem to get on fairly well together and they have done well. We hope that their interest is now on the rise and that soon the church will feel itself able to take care of the pastor and pay all claims in the style they set for themselves several years ago. Brother Cook is anxious to see the work advance along all lines and is doing his best to make it grow.

First Church, Charlotte, Rev. G. H. Hendry, Pastor

I held the second quarterly conference here and preached for them Sunday night also. The conference business was dispatched with promptness and I was impressed with a hopefulness in the reports of the officers and others present. The night service was well attended although it was raining. Brother Hendry has taken into the church since he came here, about a year and a half ago, quite a large number of people. Several of these are taking active parts and greatly helping in the work. However, there are still many of those who have been leaders there through most of the years of the church, some from the beginning, who are still faithful, even though they are not able to do financially what they once did for the cause. Our cause in Charlotte ought to grow, and we hope that it shall. I have a keen interest in the affairs of this church and we hope that it may soon find itself able to carry on as it once did. They are burdened with the parsonage debt; it has stood in the way for some time, and evidently will remain as a hindrance for quite a while. Still it is not an impossible task they have to carry it and the program of the church, too. Brother Hendry has served this church since first going there without a stipulated salary. We do not know how well it is working, but we sincerely hope that the time will soon come when the congregation shall find itself ready to promise and pay a definite salary to their pastor. It will help the church and certainly be a challenge to the membership.

The Mid-Year Meet

After talking with the pastor of Calvary church, where the meeting is to be held, we thought for the sake of those who will prepare the lunch it might be better to hold the meeting on Tuesday instead of Monday, and May 22nd is the day. Pastors, please make a synopsis of the accomplishments for the first half year and submit it to this meeting at the morning session. The main purpose of the meeting is to try to find out what progress has been made on the work and to lay plans for the completion of the work in good form. Other items of the program will be announced later. Keep this date on your calendar open, please.

"CAN I? OF COURSE I CAN!"

By Grenville Kleiser

If you answer "Can I?" with "Of course I can!" your success in any reasonable undertaking is assured. Many men invite failure because when confronted by a task or problem they at once offer excuses or explanations why it can't be done.

The right spirit is to say "Of course I can!" even in the face of difficulty and opposition. This is the spirit that wins daily battles of life. It is this unconquerable spirit that leads men to great achievement.

Do not assume that you would do better with larger opportunities while neglecting your present ones. The qualities of determination and diligence are as essential in small as in large tasks. Be alert, therefore, to the opportunities at your ready hand. Apply yourself with earnestness and intelligence to the work immediately before you. Make the most of today's chances, and thus fit yourself for larger undertakings.

Concentration is a great distinguishing faculty in men of high purpose. The ability to apply your mind steadily and exclusively to one matter at a time is a mark of superior power and is essential to great success. Concentration can be cultivated by regular and conscientious practice. When you detect your mind wandering, instantly substitute the desired subject for the intrusive one. This simple remedy will quickly cure the fault. Be deeply interested in what you are doing, and ignore vagrant ideas. Concentration is vital to your mental growth and personal advancement.

The truly great are those who willingly recognize their own deficiencies and earnestly seek to correct them. You are weak when you are reluctant to acknowledge your ignorance; you are strong when you place the desire to know and understand above mere personal prejudice and appearance. The wise man learns his own needs. Be honest and severe in your self-appraisal. True greatness is reflective, not assertive.

The crowning gift of your success is the power it confers upon you to help others. However easy or difficult you have found the road to achievement, having reached the goal you are in a position to point others the way. So you should give generously to others of your experience and counsel.

The ultimate test of the value of your success is the use you make of it. If it leads you to be selfish, worldly, or egotistical, then it is neither desirable nor worthy. Few men survive prosperity; but there are inspiring examples of successful men who have used their success not for selfish satisfaction, but for the betterment of their fellowmen. These are the men who deserve success.

CHURCHES THAT NEED AN UNDERTAKER

A venerable colored minister who had been pleading earnestly for foreign missions, closed with these words: "Bredren, I've heard of churches dat's dying of 'spectability, I've heard of a church where de souls of de people is all shriveled up wid selfishness, and I've heard of lots of churches like a barren desert, with no livin' waters, no waters of 'freshment runnin' in 'em, ''cause dey refuse to do de Lord's will. But, bredren, who ever heard of a church das was killed 'cause it gave money to foreign missions? Who ever heard of a church dat died 'cause it did what de Lord said? Neber, bredren! Ef anybody would tell me of such a church in all dis wide universe, I'd made a pilgrimage to dat church, I would climb up its ivy-mantled walls, and to de top ob de steeple, and lay did great black hand on de topmost stone of dat temple and say, 'Blessed are de dead dat die in de Lord.' "WHAT IS A HOME?"

Recently a London magazine sent out 1,000 inquiries on the question: "What is home?" Out of 800 replies received, seven gems were selected as follows:

1. Home—A world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in.
2. Home—The place where the small are great and the great are small.
3. Home—The father's kingdom, the mother's world, and the child's paradise.
4. Home—The place where we grumble the most and are trusted the best.
5. Home—The center of our affections around which our heart's best wishes twine.
6. Home—The place where our stomach gets three square meals daily and our hearts a thousand.
7. Home—The only place on earth where the faults and the failings of humanity are hidden under the sweet mantle of charity.—The Covenanter Witness.

OUR STORY PAGE

GIANTS

Bobby Hudson had been reading about David and Goliath. It was his favorite story in his book of Bible stories. Bobby liked the story better every time he read it. His eyes sparkled and his cheeks grew red as he imagined himself as David.

How splendid it must have been to advance upon the giant in his glittering armor! How David must have rejoiced when, by one brave deed that had encouraged them to overcome the enemy instead of running away, he had freed his people, not only from the cruel threats and taunts of the giant, but from the whole army of the Philistines!

But today, as Bobby finished reading the story once more, his face looked long and sober. He felt sad, and he leaned back in his chair with a sigh that made Cousin Margery forget the doll's dress she was making and look at him inquiringly.

"Why, Bobby, what is the matter?" she asked.

Bobby shook his head. "Nothing," he said slowly, "I was just reading about David and Goliath; and I couldn't help feeling sorry to think that there aren't any more giants to conquer."

Margery gave a funny little shiver. "I'm glad there aren't," she said honestly. "I should be afraid of them, I know."

Margery's big brother, Ned, who had been listening to the conversation, put down his book and sat up in the hammock. Ned was an Eagle Scout and had actually won a medal for saving a boy from drowning. Bobby and Margery loved him dearly and were very proud of him.

"Bobby, are you sure there aren't any more giants to be conquered?" he asked.

Bobby was surprised. "Why, Ned, you know there aren't any more real giants!" he exclaimed.

"I'm not so sure," said Ned. "What about Giant Ill Temper and Giant Greed and the very worst giant of all, Giant Self? Aren't they hard to conquer?"

Bobby's face turned red. "I do get angry sometimes," he confessed. "Do you think that I can ever get the best of my giant, Ned?"

"Yes, indeed I do!" said Ned earnestly. "It may be a pretty hard fight, but I'm sure that you can win. I used to be afraid. I was especially afraid of being in the water, but I made up my mind to conquer Giant Fear, and I know I'm succeeding. I may have fights with him, but I'll conquer him."

Bobby straightened up. "Ned, I'll try to conquer my giant," he said. "I'll fight real hard."

Bobby meant every word of his resolution, but the very next day when he went to vacation school he had a hard battle with Giant Self. Bobby did not like Tommy Whittaker. Tommy was always bundering and always tipping things over. Just as Bobby had a whole sheet of sums all worked out neatly, Tommy leaned back in his seat. His elbow bumped against the little inkwell on Bobby's desk. Over went the inkwell, and a large black spot splashed on Bobby's arithmetic paper. Oh, how vexed he felt! He had to do his work all over.

"I'll get even with Tommy at recess," he thought angrily. "I'll teach him not to knock over things on my desk."

Just as recess came and Bobby was marching out with the other children, he suddenly remembered his giant. He clenched his fists and thought fast. He wanted to get even with Tommy, but he wanted to conquer his giant too. He thought of Goliath marching out in his great coat of shining armor. Bobby's giant did not wear armor, but he was very real just then.

"Maybe Tommy didn't mean to knock over the ink," said a little voice, somewhere inside Bobby.

"He did too!" said the giant. "He ought to be slapped."

Bobby's mouth drew into a tight little line. "Go away," he told the giant sternly. "I'm not going to listen to you any more. I'm going to conquer you."

Instead of slapping Tommy, he gave him a smile. "I'll race you to the fence."

"My, you can run!" said Tommy when they stopped. "I don't believe any of the boys can beat you. And—and I'm sorry that I knocked over the ink and spoiled your arithmetic paper."

"Oh, that isn't anything," said Bobby cheerfully. "You didn't mean to do it."

Bobby's heart felt light because he had won his first victory.—Wee Wisdom.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

"Eat what you like,"
Said Doctor A.,
"Enjoy yourself,
Live for today."

"You must not mix,"
Said Doctor B.,
"Fresh fruit and starch,
They disagree."

"Go on a fast,"
Said Doctor L.,
"Just starve yourself,
And you'll be well."

"You've got to stuff,"
Said Doctor R.,
"Or you'll become Quite angular."

"Eat only prunes,"
Said Doctor O.,
"On food intake
You must go slow."

"Eschew all meat,"
Said Doctor K.,
"And live the bi-Ologic way."

"Ignore pet fads,"
Said Doctor M.,
"Or you will wear
A diadem."

Thus Doctors all
Quite disagree,
While men die of Perplexity!

THE GRATEFUL FARMER

The crops are bad,
The weather cold,
Grow what I can
I'm undersold.

I work long hours,
And eat cold hash,
My men all loaf,
Bank's gone smash.

I've unpaid bills.
A mortgage due,
The lawyer says
He's going to sue.

But corn on cob
I eat with mother,
For I've two teeth
That face each other!

THE DOG'S HOUSE

I like my cozy house,
Because when it is dark
I lay me down in peace
And safely park my bark!

GOSSIP!

Oh, have you not heard?
Sh! mum is the word.
It's gossip, you know,
So let us go slow.
Is anyone near?
Can anyone hear?
Now don't breathe a word,
The thing sounds absurd!
But don't tell a soul,
First get the news whole.
I'm last to defame
Another's good name.
All gossip and lies
I loathe and despise.
Yet what can one do
When rumor seems true?
I'm sure Mrs. Smith
Will say it's a myth,
And Jones will taboo
The thing as untrue.
You see it's like this—
The morsel don't miss!
Do listen! Be still!
Wait a moment until—
Sh! now not a word—
Don't want to be heard—
Be patient, I pray,
I know what you'll say,—
Just lend me your ear
And I'll whisper, my dear:
Our neighbor, the lord,
Has bought a new Ford!

DISILLUSIONMENT

The wind sounds very weird today,
It titillates my ears,
And brings to recollection clear
Scenes of bygone years.

It whispers, whines and whistles so,
And comes and goes in moans;
I stop to listen to its voice
Of multifarious tones.

The pictures it recalls to mind
Are sombre, dull and gray,
Suggestive of tempestuous night
And shivering winter day,—

Swaying trees and stormy craft,
And birds in headlong flight;
Of trembling witches in Macbeth,
And windy tombs at night.

It dies away, stops, starts again,
Nearer and nearer comes;
The noise grows even louder still,
Like a thousand beating drums.

But now my dream is quite dispelled,
As sense of sound grows keener;
'Tis not the weird and wizard wind,
It's Mary's vacuum cleaner!

ON MARGIN

To Callahan

My luck ag'in."

Into Wall Street
Went Finnigin,
Thinking he could
Money win.

But when he next
Wired Callahan,
This is how
The message ran:

"Stocks up ag'in,
Wint in ag'in;
Stocks off ag'in,
But up ag'in."

"Stocks up ag'in,

Stocks down ag'in,

ONLY A DIME

I'm only a dime,
Not much, I know;
They'll not let me in
At a cinema show

Once I could buy
A first-class cigar
But now a mere dime
Will not carry you far.

A long time ago
I was held in esteem;
But today I can't buy
A dish of ice cream.

A shave or a haircut
Was mine any time;
You cannot do much
Today with a dime.

Peanuts and popcorn
I bought by the bag;
Today at a circus
I'm nothing to brag.

In many hotels
I was good for a tip;
Waiter now spurns me
And curls up his lip.

I'm only a dime,
Not much in a lurch,
But I play a big part
In

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

Greetings, New Secretaries of Literature and Old!

Greetings, Auxiliary Presidents:

This is my first request as the new Secretary of Literature. As you know, it is very necessary that 1,000 new subscriptions be sent in for the Missionary Record. You also know that the quota for N. C. is 150. A letter from Miss Brittingham states: "The N. C. Branch has sent in 73 new subscriptions to the Record since the campaign began in January." This means, as you see, that we were 87 subscriptions short of our quota April 6th. Do we want to send our delegates to the Missionary Convention without our quota raised? NO! Of course, several subscriptions have probably been sent in since this letter from Miss Brittingham. We hope so, but I am urging that at least 75 of the 81 Auxiliaries send in at least two new subscriptions before May 1st.

Mrs. Coltrane has worked faithfully to secure this quota. Let us in appreciation of her faithfulness as Secretary of Literature for the last three years and also to help out in the publication of the Record, rally our forces and secure these other subscriptions.

We who have been readers of the Record know its worth and know also the enjoyment and information that we obtain from it. Can't we use this as "sales' talk" and go out after these new subscriptions?

Remember that the N. C. Branch is counting on you to fill our quota.

Yours for more subscriptions,
MRS. W. F. REDDING, Jr,
Secretary of Literature.

STEWARDSHIP

At our recent Branch Meeting I was asked for a list of Stewardship study books:

"The New Christian" and "The Message of Stewardship," both by Ralph S. Cuehman.

"Stewardship for All of Life," by Love Joy.

"The Way to the Best," by Anderson.

One duty among many others of the Secretary of Benevolences is to have a class taught in Christian Stewardship, and report the same to me. Take some sandwiches and go to some home, spend the day. Have the book given, NOT READ, then discuss the high spots.

It would be fine to have a course in Bible study. Then have one or two devotionals in Auxiliary program on Stewardship. Then secure a list of tithers in your church, and be ready to report same before next Branch meeting.

DR. J. H. GLASCOCK,
Sec'y of Stewardship and Benevolences.

SPRING CHURCH CIRCUIT AUXILIARY

The Spring Church Circuit Auxiliary met on April 11th at 2:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. William Camp. Mrs. C. E. Demick, president, presided over the meeting, using our mission song, "Launch Out," and theme, "Launch Out Into the Deep." Mrs. Vassar led in prayer. After transacting the business our treasurer stated that we had taken in over $12 from sales of Elizabeth Wade products, dresses, and dues.

There was a motion made to have cement steps put to the front porch of the parsonage; also lights to be put in the kitchen door. This motion was carried. We hope to get this done some time real soon.

Mrs. Melton Crew, our Secretary of Christian Education, presented the playlet, "M. R. A.," found in the February Record, which was very interesting.

The writer gave a brief report of the Branch Meeting.

We were very sorry that Mrs. Neese was ill and couldn't be with us.

The meeting adjourned with prayer, to meet in May with Mrs. J. M. Durham.

Mrs. Neese is able to be sitting up some at this writing.

Clothing and Other Gifts

The Pickens family, High Point, 116 books for our library.

Mr. W. F. Grabs, King, one blue-back spelling-book.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Welch Memorial, 21 cakes for school lunches.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Fountain Place, 14 cakes for school lunches.

Mrs. S. V. Lucas, Grace church, Greensboro, 3 sets of beads, 4 pair gloves, 2 pieces of underwear, 2 pair shoes, 3 dresses, 7 hats, 2 coats and some patterns.

We are thankful for every gift represented in the above report.

A great majority of the churches throughout the Conference have kindly sent offerings to the Home during March and April. We believe every one will. Will you justify that faith before April closes?

Somebody knows whether your church has contributed or not. If you have not, then came on next Sunday and let us have your offering before April closes.

Our Request

Please keep your offerings up to a good level during the spring and summer months so we will not fall further behind. Some churches pay the same amount each month for the entire year. That is a fine plan, and helps wonderfully here.

Our Gardens and Fields

After the heavy rains of last night we have a fine April day today and the sun is shining. The world is beautiful around us. Our farmers are hustling today, getting ready for planting as soon as the ground is dry enough. So if all goes well we will have lots of things planted by the end of the week.

A Children's Home Patch

In your planting please add a patch for the Home. Cultivate it and bring us the produce, or sell the produce and give us the money. Young people and older people as well can easily do this, and thus make good contributions to the Home. We greatly appreciate your continued interest.

A. G. DIXON, Supt.

I take this means of offering my apology to the Henderson church and giving this information to the readers of the Herald.

L. W. GERRINGER.

WESTERN PASTORS' FEDERATION

The Western Pastors' Federation met at First M. P. Church, Lexington, Monday, April 9th.

The general theme for the morning was Stewarship. Devotional was led by Rev. Earl Cook. Dr. Taylor brought an inspirational message on "Stewardship of Self." He emphasized the importance of giving ourselves wholly to the Lord. Rev. N. G. Bethea's message on Stewardship of Substance was very instructive. He gave a number of illustrations to show the importance of proportionate and systematic giving. Mr. R. L. Pope, cashier of the First National Bank, Thomasville, spoke on the Stewardship of Service. He stressed the importance of giving our time in service for others. It was indeed a helpful message.

The ladies of the church served a good dinner to the pastors and visitors. We thank Brother Isley and the ladies for the fine entertainment.

At the afternoon session Dr. R. M. Andrews delivered a profitable and inspirational message. Our president always brings good messages. Rev. N. G. Bethea was asked to direct a round table discussion on Stewardship. A number of pastors present took part.

Regardless of rain, a number of pastors and several laymen were present. We were delighted to have several visitors with us. Come again! E. A. BINGHAM.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Calvary, Greensboro.—Our pastor used for the theme of his fine sermon Sunday morning, "The Virtue of Being Grateful." He said people miss a great deal when they fail to express their appreciation to God, their church and friends.

Even though the hour of our Sunday evening service has been changed from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, the hour of our mid-week prayer service will continue to be 7:30.

The revival meeting will begin at our church on Wednesday evening folowing the first Sunday in June. Rev. Roy I. Farmer, pastor of the First M. P. Church in High Point, will be the pulpit help.

Mrs. Robah H. Fields, one of our dear members who has been quite ill for the past week, entered Duke Hospital Monday. We hope Mrs. Fields will soon be well.

The Woman's Auxiliary met at the hut Monday evening. Reports on the Branch Meeting in Henderson were given by the delegates.

Mrs. J. N. Griswold and Mrs. J. F. Caudle were hostesses to the Friendly class at the Huntley-Stockton-Hill Salon last Tuesday evening.

The Boy Scouts Troop No. 7 made their first visit to Camp Greystone April 7, at which time about 200 Scouts of the Greensboro Council met and spent the day there. The Council Court of Honor held its monthly court there. Three of the boys from Troop No. 7 advanced from Tenderfoot Scouts to Second Class Scouts. They were Billy Candle, Floyd Poe and Herndon Pike. Many other Scouts in the Council received merit badges, first and second class badges, and some received higher badges, such as Star and Life. Troop No. 7 continues to meet at the Hut each Friday evening at 7:30.

Concord.—We are glad to say our church work is moving forward.

Due to so much sickness, our past reports on attendance have not been so good, but now that the measles has waned and pretty weather is ahead our attendance will begin to pick up and I think everyone will take on a renewed interest in the church.

Our pastor, Mr. Morgan, brought us a very impressive Easter sermon last Sunday, after which the Lod's Supper was observed. Three new members were also received into our church by letter last Sunday.

Members of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society enjoyed a delightful picnic at Parkwood Lake Easter Monday. This is a splendid group of 50 young people who held their meeting each Sunday at 6:30. They take a great interest in their work, always have a large attendance at their meetings. The members of this group are also members of the Intermediate choir and furnish special music at many of the preaching services.

The Baraca Class held its regular monthly business meeting Thursday night, March 29, at the church with the president, P. H. Scarboro, presiding. Prior to the business session a delightful supper was served by members of the Ladies' Aid Society. Stahlee Funderburke of Kannapolis, the pastor, Rev. J. M. Morgan, and the teacher, W. J. Widenhouse each made brief but interesting talks. Plans were made for a membership drive and other items of business were discussed concerning the interest of the class. This class had charge of the service Easter Sunday night, presenting a splendid Kannapolis Glee Club in a sacred concert, which was much enjoyed by the large crowd present.

Delegates of the Woman's Auxiliary, who attended the Branch Meeting at Henderson, were Mrs. L. M. Burris, Mrs. E. F. Litaker, Mrs. L. K. Haynes, and Miss Agnes Litaker.

Cedar Cliff, Mt. Hermon Charge.—We had our regular church service Sunday. Mr. Mabry was not wis us because of helping Mr. Loy in a meeting, but Mr. Holmes spoke to us. He brought a very good sermon to the young people.

We are planning to have Home-Coming day the second Sunday in May. We are hoping to have lots of special singing and several speakers. It will be an all-day service, dinner on the grounds. Everyone is cordially invited to come and be with us.

We have several cases of measles in the community and lots of our crowd have been kept at home.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. De-Witt Bailey was buried March 10.

MRS. R. M. BOGER, Reporter.

Harmony, Yarborough Charge.—Our church is still progressing very nicely. Attendance in our Sunday school is increasing with the coming of spring.

Our pastor, Rev. Robert Short, continues to give us some very inspiring messages at each appointment. The pageant, "Easter Radiance," was very well carried out by the young people of the Sunday school. We were very sorry indeed that our pastor was unable to be with us.

On Saturday before Easter, the men of the community met at the church for the purpose of cleaning off the grounds. Many improvements have been made, but there is still more work to be done and they plan to meet another day in the near future and finish.

First Church, Lexington.—Last Sunday our Sunday school attendance was the highest for the year. We had 304 present. It looks as if the every-member canvass which we made recently is beginning to bear fruit. We are not satisfied with the number, however, and are striving to have 350 present next Sunday.

At the 11 o'clock preaching service Mr. Oscar Lee Easter, a ministerial student of High Point College, brought us a very helpful message, entitled "Heavenly Treasures in Earthen Vessels." At this service three new members were received into the church. These were R. L. Everhart, who came by letter from First Lutheran church; D. L. Walser, from State Street Methodist Protestant church, and Christine Auman by profession of faith.

At the evening service Mr. Isley gave us another good message entitled "The Highway of Life." As a text he used Isa. 40:29, "He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he increeaseth strength." Mr. Isley advised all to stop at the "filling stations" of prayer, Bible, church, and Holy Spirit as we travel along this highway.

The revival meeting, which came to a close Wednesday night, was a great success in every way. Rev. L. E. Mabry, of Mount Hermon Charge, did the preaching and held the congregation almost spell-bound by his interesting and inspiring messages. We hope Mr. Mabry may come our way again. As a result of this meeting there were 37 conversions and 28 accessions to the church. These were: Mr. James Hunt, Miss Lola Mae McCulloch, Mrs. J. C. Russell, Mr. Frank Plott, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clodfelter, Mrs. Marvin Barger, Mr. Ralph Mickey, Mr. Robert Myers, Miss Dorothy Auman, Mary Frances Auman, Miss Shirley Auman, Walter Lee Johnson, Mr. Grady Crouse, Evelyn Louise Hill, Iola Auman, Pauline Allen, Jacqueline McCulloch, Elaine Call, Mr. O. T. Williams, Mrs. Henry Berrier, and Mr. Marvin Crouse.

The Western Pastors' Federation met at First Church April 9. The attendance was not as large as expected because of the inclement weather. Stewardship was the subject for this meeting. Interesting addresses were made on Stwardship of Self by Dr. S. W. Taylor; Stewardship of Means, Rev. N. G. Bethea, and Stewardship of Service, Mr. R. L. Pope. Dr. Andrews was present and gave a very helpful address on Prayer at the afternoon session. A brief business session followed, after which the Federation adjourned.

The second quarterly conference for First church and Mount Carmel was held at Mount Carmel April 12. Business was transacted in harmony. All reports were good. Both Sunday school superintendens reported increased attendance and enrollment. First Church reported pastor's salary paid to date, $15 paid on General Conference budget, and $17.50 aid on Annual Conference budget. Six and one-half subscriptions to the Herald have also been sent in from First Church. Nominees for delegate to the Annual Conference are T. D. Westmoreland and R. M. Rowe.

An April 1, 1934, Mrs. Thomas Walker slipped away and went to join her loved ones in the spirit land, where they shall behold His face, Whom to know is life eternal and in whose Presence is fulness of joy.

Mrs. Walker is survived by her husband, one daughter, Ruby, her father, step-mother, and a number of other relatives. She united with New London Baptist church several years ago, but on moving to Lexington transferred her membership to First Methodist Protestant Church, of which she was a member at the time of her death.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, at First Church on April 2. The body was then taken to Friendship church, Albemarle, where it was laid to await the Resurrection call beneath a mound of beautiful flowers, which showed the high esteem in which she was held by her neighbors and friends. She needs little said about her, for her life speaks for itself. May the Lord raise up others to take her place and bear the banner of our Lord where she has laid it down. May mercy and comfort attend those who feel their loss most keenly.

bind up the broken hearts, comfort the lonely, and fill the aching voids. Death has no terror for the blood-washed soul, and earth has no sorrows that heaven cannot heal. "My God will supply all your needs."

Mrs. L. B. Koontz and Mrs. C. M. Isley attended the Branch Meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary at Henderson. Mrs. Koontz is chairman of the district and Mrs. Isley delegatet from First Church.

Pleasant Hill, West Forsyth Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. D. R. Williams, delivered another helpful and encouraging sermon at his regular appointment here Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The most important point that he stressed was the fact that each and every one had a talent to do something, something that no one else could do but us. It doesn't matter what that talent may be, God requires and expects us to use that talent to the best of our ability. Following the sermon the ordinance of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The attendance was better than usual at this service, and we were glad to have a number of visitors present. We welcome them at any and all services.

The Young People's Missionary Society met Sunday, April 8, to hold their regular monthly meeting. The meeting was held immediately after Sunday school. For this year the time has been changed from the second Saturday afternoon to the second Sunday morning following Sunday school. The change was made because they felt the attendance would be better at this time.

The Woman's Auxiliary meets with Mrs. J. D. Anderson on Thursday night, April 19, at 7:30. At this meeting the new officers will be installed. Mr. Williams is expected to be present to conduct the installation service.

We are glad to report that Mrs. C. G. Hunter and Mr. W. B. Speas, who have been sick for quite a while, show some improvement. Mr. Speas has been removed from the hospital to his home, but Mrs. Hunter is still a patient at the City Hospital. We hope she will be able to come home soon. Both Mrs. Hunter and Mr. Speas have been greatly missed in the church, as they were regular attendants at Sunday school and church services. We hope to see them back at church soon.

Spring Hill, North Davidson Charge.—Rev. C. L. Grant was in the pulpit Sunday morning at his regular appointment and delivered a very inspiring and uplifting sermon. The subject was "Forgiveness." The Scripture reading was from the fourth chapter of Ephesians beginning with the 17th verse and reading through the remaining chapter. If we look on the historical side of life through the past we find where it was necessary for men to forgive each other. Forgiveness is necessary when sin dwells within, because it demands us to forgive our fellowman. If we do not do this we need not expect forgiveness. It is God's word, that if we forgive others He, in turn, will forgive us. We know that it is our aim to follow in the footsteps of our Master. Sin is caused many times by putting off things till a more convenient time. This is the time when the devil and his angels rejoice, but we should be on the alert and shun him as much as we can. We should look to Jesus because through the blood of Jesus Christ we may seek redemption, pardon and forgiveness of sin. Jesus' words on Calvary's cross were, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." He may be saying the same words about us today. The reward of forgiveness would mean living on after death. If we are willing to forgive our fellowman we are walking in the light, but if we do not we are warlking in darkness. "Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other," as God forgives you. May we all be ready to forgive and walk in the light.

We were glad to have several visitors with us during the preaeching hour and invite them to come back and worship with us. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. John G. York and children, of High Point; Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Payne and Miss Annie Payne, of Mount Pleasant.

Coming as a complete surprise to their many friends was the marriage of our Sunday school superintendent, Mr. Robert Swaim, to Miss Nita Payne Saturday evening, April 14, at Kernersville. We wish them many happy years of married life together.

Friends of little Mearlene Cecil will regret to learn that she has been confined to her home for several days with pneumonia, but wish for her a speedy recovery.

C. E. meets Sunday evening at 6 o'clock with Miss Margaret Swaim as leader. Since the weather is warming up may we have a large crowd.

Henderson.—We have had so many wonderful experiences this month that the writer hardly knows where to begin. First of all, I would like to say something about the Branch Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary held here in our church the fourth and fifth of April. We believe that everyone, whether a delegate or an official or just a membr, really benefited by the great works that were carried out and accomplished at this wonderful meeting. Every report, every talk, every prayer and even every song, was filled with so much enthusiasm, that you could feel in the atmosphere a better spirit of fellowship, a greater desire for more soul-saving, whether it be home or in foreign lands. It certainly brought a better feeling in our church and caused about 30 of our members to pay off all old indebtedness, which amounted to several hundred dollars.

We want to thank each and every one that attended this meeting, regardless of the part he or she contributed, in making it one of the greatest spiritual revivals ever held by our denomination.

Our only regret is for those who did not attend and take advantage of this great occasion. You cannot imagine what you have missed, and the knowledge you would have gained, had you only sacrificed a little time in order to attend.

Sunday morning, April 8th, we were very fortunate in having A. Norman Ward and family with us. Brother Ward kindly consented to preach, and as Dr. Gerringer said, a God-sent message. As many of you know, Brother A. Norman Ward is the president of our Western Maryland College.

That afternoon we had the pleasure of hearing our A Capella Choir from our college in High Point. This was given in the Stevenson Theatre building, and was highly enjoyed by a full house. Much credit is due Miss Sloan for her most excellent work in presenting such talent. It makes every member proud that he or she had a part in making High Point College a Methodist Protestant institution that ranks with the best in music. A silver offering was aken by the Ladies' Auxiliary and a lovely response was rendered.

Dr. L. W. Gerringer preached a wonderful sermon Sunday morning, April 15th, on what is to become of the work Jesus began. That evening he started another series of sermons, this one being "The Spirit of Truth." If you are not attending these services you are missing Gospel messages that are true to life. Try and be there next Sunday night, for the more we put in a thing the more we get out of it. So, try hard, and don't miss again.

Richland Circuit, Brower's Chapel.—We are delighted with the good attendance and added interest our people are taking in the church and Sunday school. We hope it will get better yet, as we have had some unfavorable weather on our preaching Sunday for the two past months. Our pastor, Rev. R. L. Hethcox, could not get there, nor any of us, so if the weather is favorable for us on our next fourth Sunday in this month we hope to have preaching and Sunday school.

The Ladies' Aid of Brower's Chapel are getting along nicely, as we never miss having our meeting. Our last meeting met with Mrs. C. C. Pugh the first Thursday in this month, April 5. The meeting was opened with song and prayer and the chairman, Miss Effie Brown, read the sixth chapter Luke. Then we had many good readings by the members of the Circle. Roll called by Mrs. C. R. Winningham and the minutes were read. Then our treasurer, Mrs. C. L. Winningham, took up collection. Our next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Styers at Asheboro. After the social hour the hostess served refreshments.

First Church, Thomasville.—The Woman's Auxiliary met at the church on Thursday night, April 12th, for a brief business session. The meeting was called to order with prayer by Mrs. J. W. Baity. The roll was called with 18 members present and several visitors. Reports were heard from the different Circles.

Mrs. T. G. Madison, who was delegate to the Branch meeting at Henderson gave a brief report. We were surprised that our Jewel Band won the banner. We were very glad that our Auxiliary could be listed as a Standard Auxiliary. We would have been so glad to have been listed as an honor Auxiliary but, due to the lack of interest of so many ladies of the church, we had to say No, we do not have two-thirds of the membership in our Auxiliary. If we could get most of the ladies to show as much interest as some do, my! what an Auxiliary we could have. A motion was made to have a loyalty campaign composed of the Auxiliary and Layman's Fellowship with the co-operation of the pastor. We hope to win members and friends of the church who have lost interest. Our Auxiliary and church as a whole have been handicaped by so much sickness. At the close of the session the Auxiliary, Minnis Circle and Men's Fellowship assembled in the Men's Bible class room with I. A. Teague as devotional leader. The service was opened by the singing of "The Light of the World Is Jesus." Several Bible references were read on prayer, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Two numbers were rendered by the Jarrett quartet. Mrs. A. H. Ragan, president of the Auxiliary, then introduced Mr. S. E. Tucker, of High Point, who has recently returned from a trip to the Holy Land. He held the attention of everyone present as he gave the description of places that had always seemed so familiar, but since hearing Mr. Tucker they seem more real. We hope to have him with us again soon.

The Auxiliary as hostess, assisted by the Minnis Circle, served refreshments. A very pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

◆

Melton's Grove.—Bro. Saunders was not able to be with us this time. He is soon to undergo an operation. We hope and pray he will have a successful operation and will soon be with us again. Bro. Jenkins, from Rockingham, came and brought us a fine message from the 12th chapter of Acts. We were glad to have Brothers Jenkins and Maness with us.

We will have our Home-Coming the th Sunday in May. Former pastors, members, and friends are cordially invited to come.

GLENNA LANE.

Enfield.—Owing to almost an epidemic of mumps and measles in our town and community the attendance to all meetings has been much smaller. We hope the epidemic will soon be over and the attndance at church and Sunday school will pick up. Mr. Peeler is giving us some very fine sermons and those not present are missing something well worth while. Recently be baptized and took into the church Miss Susan Madry and Miss Elsie Sharpe Barnhill. The Sunday school gave the Primary and Junior Departments an egg-hunt Easter Monday.

Mrs. R. M. Robinson, chairman of District No. 1, held a district Auxiliary officials' meeting at our church in March. Te attendance and interest was very good. Many important things were discussed and plans and goals set for the new year. The Woman's Auxiliary met at the parsonage March 26th, with Mrs. Mrs. Whisnant and Mrs. Cecil Matthews hostesses. As this meeting completed our year's work, annual reports were given by each officer. These showed a very fine year's work and splendid co-operation. Some of our secretaries have been very active and deserve special mention. Corresponding Secretary Mrs. Myra F. Mann has conducted our correspondence in a most efficient manner and remembered all sick with cards. Thank-Offering Secretary Miss Mary Collins has put on two beautiful Thank-Offering programs, and Secretary of Literature Mrs. S. C. Whitaker, has secured our quota of Missionary Records and brought the church magazines and literature before the Auxiliary from time to time. She also worked up a joint missionary program between Whitakers and Enfield Auxiliaries. This meeting was held in our hut and was well attended. The program was very good and we hope this is the beginning of regular meetings. Mr. Peeler in a very impressive service installed th new officrs for the year. They are as follows: President, Mrs. E. I. Bellamy; vice-president, Mrs. Sam Pierson, Sr.; recording secretary, Mrs. Egbert Barnhill; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Myra F. Mann; treasurer, Mrs. Cecil Matthews; Secretary of Missionary Education, Mrs. Walter Moon; Secretary of Scholarships and Workers, Mrs. E. E. Stallings; Secretary of Spiritual Life, Mrs. Mary A. Barnhill; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. S. C. Whitaker; Secretary of Thank-Offering, Miss Mary Collins; Secretary of Christian Education, Miss Susie Whitaker; Secretary of Young People's Work, Mrs. Exum Bellamy; Assistant Secretary of Young People's Work, Mrs. E. O. Peeler; Secretary of Ttemperance, Miss Mary Sykes; Secretary of Benevolences, Mrs. N. W. Cousins; Secretary of Life, Memorial, Sustaining and Perpetual Members, Miss Mary Whitaker; Secretary of Pastor's Aid, Mrs. J. R. Powers.

Our Auxiliary sent the little girl we are clothing at the Children's Home a new outfit for Easter. They are busy making her school dresses now and hope to have them off to her within the next few days. Those attending N. C. Branch Meeting at Henderson from our Auxiliary were: Delegates, Mrs. Myra F. Mann and Mrs. S. C. Whitaker, also Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Peeler, Mrs. E. I. Bellamy, Mrs. Cecil Matthews, Mrs. Sam Pierson, Sr., and Mrs. Egbert Barnhill. They reported a splendid meeting, both in attendance and interest.

The A Capella Choir from High Point College gave a very fine program at our church Friday night, April 6th. Because of sickness and other entertainments, we were a bit disappointed in the audience, but those attending enjoyed the program very much. We enjoyed having Miss Sloan, Mr. Harrison, and the girls and boys with us. We feel very proud of our college and of the choir and hope they will see fit to come our way again.

Mount Hermon Church, Mt. Hermon Charge.—Easter service was held the first Sunday at 3 o'clock. The house was very well filled for the service. The children who took part in the program all did well. We also want to thank the Isley brothers from Friendship church for their special song and for joining the choir in all the music. The boys have worshipped with the Christian Endeavor recently also. We are always very glad to have them.

There is not so much sickness in our community as has been. Sunday school attendance is just about what it has been.

We have plans on foot to try to get the electric power line to our church. We hope this project may be realized.

Rev. L. E. Mabry brought to the church a very interesting sermon last Sunday at the regular 11 o'clock service, using as the subject, "Be Near the Kingdom of God." The communion service was also observed with a very large number witnessing for Christ.

The Christian Endeavor Society is holding regular Sunday evening services in the church at 7:30. Anyone is invited to worship with these young people.

The Ladies' Auxiliary finished up the missionary year with our budget paid in full. We feel we have had a successful year in spite of the depression, and we feel that we owe much to our past president, Mrs. V. S. Garrett, who has served us for two years. Our active members have just finished a contest. The members were divided into two groups and were working for new members, etc. The group losing in number of points was to entertain the winning group. The captains of these groups were Mrs. G. F. Holt ad Miss Truth Isley. We hate to see anyone lose a game but the Auxiliary was very happy when Miss Truth Isley invited us to her home last week for the social which she and her group had planned. Everyone seemed bubbling over with fun at the social. Many contests and games were played and then delicious punch and cakes were served. There were about 20 ladies present and several children. All reported a nice time together.

We are looking forward to another good year. Mrs. Holt has been one of our most active members, and we feel sure she will make a splendid president with the co-operation of everyone.

Mrs. Mabry, our pastor's wife, has been unable to worship with us for some time on account of had health. We miss her very much and we hope that she will soon be with us again.

Plans are being made for our annual memorial service, which is held the third Sunday in May. Judge J. Johnson Hayes, of Greensboro, will deliver the morning address. All plans are not yet complete for the afternoon service. We are looking forward to this day, when many old acquaintances will meet at Mount Hermon church.

Welch Memorial.—We are accomplishing no big things, but we are still doing a few things.

Dr. Williams is well now and is back in the pulpit after having missed preaching three times. Dr. Kennett, Oscar Easter, and Aubert Smith filled in for him. We enjoyed them very much.

Dr. and Mrs. Williams visited Mrs. Williams' mother near Chapel Hill Monday. It was her 90th birthday.

Sunday school is still progressing nicely. The attendance is very good and the offering is double what it was a year ago.

We were very glad to welcome Miss Mattie Pugh as a member of our church two weeks ago. She comes to us from Brower's Chapel. Miss Pugh has been attending our services for some time and we believe she will be a great help in our church.

Our revival begins the fifth Sunday in April. Rev. J. L. Trollinger is to be the pulpit help. Even though we had two good revivals last year, we are still in need of another and sincerey hope that this one may also be a success.

Shiloh, Connelly Springs Charge.—Our congregation has been off considerably for the past few weeks on account of bad weather and bad roads, but with the awakening of spring our congregations are beginning to grow, our Sunday school being the largest today for months. We are very glad to report that some of our old church members and Sunday school workers were with us today, Mrs. Miller and daughter, Miss Fannie Miller. They are very efficient workers in church and Sunday school. We are hoping to have them back with us soon as regular members.

The ladies of Shiloh assembled andpieced our pastor and family a nice quilt, which they appreciate very much.

Today being our pastor's regular appointment, he preached a very interesting sermon. We were glad to have our pastor's wife, Mrs. Love, with us. Plans were made to organize a Ladies' Aid Society on the fourth Sunday of April. We feel sure that the society will mean much to our church and community. Mrs. Love organized a society at Shady Grove and they are doing a great work and we feel sure the ladies of our community will do as well. So we are looking forward for this year to be one of the greatest years in the history of Shiloh; so everybody remember us when you pray as workers in his service.

MRS. C. M. PARSONS, Reporter.

Spencer.—Even though I have been at Spencer a very short time I am enjoying my work immensely. Of course, we are not large in number, but there is a deep religious spirit and feeling permeating each of the Sunday school and church members that gives me a peculiar satisfaction.

Last Sunday morning we raised our quota of subscriptions to the church paper and hope very much to send in more subscriptions in the near future.

At the present time we are making a drive in the Sunday school to enlarge, in fact, to double our attendance at this service. The attendance last Sunday was the largest it has been since I have been here. In addition to the visitors we had at Sunday school we also had several visitors for the church worship services.

There being no regular preaching service here on the second Sunday, the ladies of the church convert this hour into a missionary service or program.

It was our privilege on this past Sunday morning to commemorate the death of our Savior Jesus Christ through the communion service. The entire service centered about the Lord's Supper itself.

In regard to the future our ambitions and plans are many and we would be greatly appreciative of the thoughts and prayers of our Conference friends that we may realize to the interest of God what we hope to do.

AUBERT M. SMITH, Pastor.

First Church, Lexington, Mt. Carmel.—Rev. C. G. Isley filled his appointment Sunday afternoon. He preached a very forcible sermon, using as his subject "The Way of Life," to a large and attentive congregation.

The second quarterly conference was held at Mount Carmel Thursday night, April 12, with a large number of the officials from both churches present. Good reports were heard from both churches. The nominees for delegate to the Annual Conference were chosen, these being Mr. W. T. Westmoreland, from First Church, and Mr. R. M. Rowe, from Mt. Carmel.

The Ninth District Rally will be held at Mt. Carmel the fifth Sunday, April 29. This includes the following charges: Shiloh, Mocksville, Spencer, State Street, and First Church, Lexington. An all-day program is being prepared. Rev. C. E. Ridge, pastor of Shiloh Charge, will preach at 11 o'clock; dinner will be served on the ground, and Rev. J. C. Russell and Dr. T. M. Johnson, pastor of State Street and the local pastor, will speak on the afternoon program. The public is extended a welcome to come and enjoy the day with us.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Swicegood announce the birth of a son, Ira Donald Swicegood.

We are glad to report that Mrs. J. G. Tussey, who has been sick nearly all winter, is reported improving.

Our Sunday school continues to grow. A number who have been kept away on the account of the measles are able to be back with us again.

ZULA FRITTS, Reporter.

Roberta.—We were honored with the presence of Dr. Andrews at our church last Sunday. He preached at the usual hour a sermon which was listened to eagerly and enjoyed by everyone. Dr. Andrews congratulated us on paying the debt off our church property. He also congratulated us on our attendance at Sunday school. We were indeed glad to have Dr. Andrews with us and hope that it will be possible for him to visit us again soon.

The quarterly conference was held at our church last Saturday night, and Mr. Will Hudson and Mr. Arthur Lambert were selected as candidates for delegate to go to Annual Conference.

The Senior Christian Endeavorers are planning to have a social at the parsonage next Saturday night.

CLARA LINKER, Reporter.

Graham.—The second quarterly conference will meet on the 29th at 7:30 in the Hut.

The Graham church has been asked to give one-tenth of their income during the month of April. With this tithe the board of stewards hopes to be able to pay up to date. We are hoping that everyone will co-operate in this plan and "bring their tithes into the storehouse."

Dr. R. M. Andrews is to be with us on the fifth Sunday morning in what we hope will be a service of great rejoicing in that we have honored the Lord with the tenth of our substance. Pray for us that we may be willing to trust the Lord to this extent.

J. CLYDE AUMAN.

All entries must reach the association at its Greensboro office, 502 Piedmont Building, by noon, May 1st. The judges, representative citizens selected by the president of the association, will announce the winners on May 15.

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Brother Charles F. Fox, a prosperous farmer of near Siler City, passed away at his home March 5, 1934. In young manhood he united with Springfield Methodist Protestant church. From that time until he was called home he was a true friend of the Methodist Protestant church, giving of his means to the institutions of our church. It was his custom to help pay the pastor's salary at the Siler City church every year. Just about one month before his death Brother Fox worshipped with us at Siler City, and listened attentively to the pastor's message. He told some of his near friends that he was ready to meet his Lord in peace. Truly a good man has gone from us, and the Siler City community is poorer because of his going. His wife and one sister, Mrs. J. J. Andrew, survive.

The writer was assisted in the funeral by Brother L. L. Wren and Rev. J. C. Canipe, each making very impressive talks. Burial was in Love's Creek cemetery.

Perhaps someone who knew Brother Fox better and longer than the writer will write more.

H. L. ISLEY.

Stafford

George Newton Stafford, son of Nathan and Mary Albright Stafford, aged 83 years, six months and 18 days, went home to God on March 2, 1934. He was twice married, first to Mary A. McPherson, of Alamance County, N. C.; second, to Lois E. Latin, of Norfolk, Va. To the first union were born two children, William Nathan and Sarah Ellen. William Nathan died in infancy. He is survived by his daughter Mrs. L. A. Thompson, four grandchildren, Rachel, Albert, Sabert, and Elmer Thompson. One brother, James E. Stafford, four nephews, two nieces and many other relatives. His friends may be numbered by his acquaintances.

He joined Bethel M. P. church in early youth and remained a faithful Christian until death. He was sick 10 months and during that time was never able to sit up over 30 minutes at a time and often only a few minutes while his bed was being made more comfortable. During all that time he was very patient, although he suffered much. All that loving hands could do was done for him. His work on earth was finished and God bade him come home. 'Tis sweet to be with Jesus. It was characteristic of him that whatever work the undertook he did it well. He was born and reared in Bethel neighborhood and those who knew him best remember him as a model boy and man. His whole life is beautiful to remember, an incentive to others for a nobler, better life. He was well educated and kept abreast of the time. For some years he was a teacher and as a carpenter he was unequalled. When our church was remodeled and Sunday school rooms added he was foreman. He worked from beginning to end and gave it all. Such was his love for his church. He was never heard to estimate the value of his work, but to us it means much, and as we look at the beautiful work done there we always think of Bro. Stafford.

Funeral services were conducted in Bethel church at 11 o'clock a. m. on Sunday, March 4th, by Rev. J. A. Burgess. Songs sung by the choir were "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "There'll Be No Dark Valley," "Face to Face," and "Shall We Gather At the River." "The Old Rugged Cross," a favorite song of Mr. Stafford, was sweetly sung by Misses Opal Cook and Lottie Lea Foust. Many beautiful flowers were given by loved ones. Interment was in Bethel cemetery.

The devotion between Mr. Stafford and his daughter was touching to see. The mother died while Sarah was an infant; he took the place, in a measure, of both father and mother, and they clung to each other. To her his death seemed so calmly grand, silent and deep, as the broadening waters of a river flow toward the sea, so well he fell asleep, as his life joined eternity. At her request, we add the following verses:

"Farewell, Dear Father, sweet thy rest,
  Weary with years and worn with pain,
Farewell till in some happy place
  We shall behold thy face again.

" 'Tis ours to miss thee all our years,
  And tender memories of thee keep;
Thine in the Lord to rest, for so
  He giveth His beloved sleep.

"Brighter, fairer than living,
  With no trace of woe or pain,
Robed in everlasting beauty,
  Shall I see thee once again."

MRS. J. M. FOUST.

Bowers

Barbara Ellen Bowers, daughter of Alexander and Amanda Jane McCarn Rickard, was born in Davidson County on May 30. 1890, and departed this life March 21, 1934, at her home on Pope street in High Point.

She had been sick for a long time, but bore it all with patience and fortitude. Surviving are her father, Alexander Rickard; her husband, J. A. Bowers; two sisters, Mrs. Dickens, of Archdale, and Mrs. B. H. Davis, of Davidson county, and one brother, J. H. Rickard, of Thomasville. She also leaves nine nephews, seven nieces, one aunt, and many friends who mourn because she is gone.

On September 20, 1911, she was married to James A. Bowers. They lived together for early 23 years in peace and love, sharing together the joys and sorrows of this life. But now it is all over. Her work on earth has been finished and we fully believe she is enjoying heaven with all that heaven can be to a redeemed saint. In early life she professed religion and joined the church. Her first membership was in the Presbyterian church, but a few years ago she and her husband transferred their membeship to English Street M. E. Church. Of this church she remained a member to the time of her death.

Some six years ago the writer was assigned to English Street as pastor. For three years we observed her interest in all departments of church work. She was active in the Ladies' Aid Society, was a member of the C. E. Society and very active. When her health would permit, she took a delight in the Sunday school and was a member of the Ladies' Bible class. In short, she loved her church and manifested that love by her works.

The greater part of her married life has been spent in High Point. Here she made many friends who now join the bereaved ones in mourning her departure. Her husband will miss her more than anyone else, but knowing her life as he does, he has many things to comfort and make his heart glad in this dark hour. A very short while before she died, she spoke of her willingness and readiness to go. We feel like saying in the words of Charles Wesley:

"Servant of God, well done!
  Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
  And thou art crowned at last.

"Of all thy heart's desire
  Triumphantly possessed;
Lodged by the ministerial choir
  In thy Redeemer's breeast.

"O, happy, happy soul!
  In ecstacies of praise,
Long as eternal ages roll,
  Thou seest thy Savior's face."

To the bereaved ones we would again let Wesley speak in the last stanza of his immortal hymn:

"Redeemed from earth and pain,
  Ah! when shall we ascend,
And all in Jesus' presence reign
  With our translated friend."

Because of sickness in the home of the pastor, the funeral was conducted from First M. P. church by two of her former pastors, Rev. D. I. Garner and the writer. Her body was then carried to City Cemetery and laid away to await the resurrection morn.

GEO. L. REYNOLDS.

Causey

Mrs. Mary Jane Kirkman, the daughter of the late Roddy and Nancy Kirkman and the wife of David A. Causey, was born May 2, 1853, and died March 8, 1934.

About 38 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Causey were married. These two have lived the nearly 40 years in the same home in which Mrs. Causey died. The neighbors of Mrs. Causey knew her well and she was greatly loved by them. The impression she left upon those who lived near her was favorable and indelible, for to know her was to love her.

At an early age she became a Christian and joined Tabernacle Methodist Protestant church, where she remained a faithful and consistent member until the day of her death. Because of age and failing health she for a number of years was not able to attend church services, but in other days when she was stronger she was a faithful attendant of the church she loved. It was not the unusual thing for her to walk the distance of at least three miles that she might be on hand to hear the Gospel preached.

She was the last of a large family of brothers and sisters. Besides her surviving husband there are a number of nephews and nieces with a large circle of other relatives and friends who greatly feel the loss of a dear companion and one who was indeed a friend. But in the midst of great sadness they have their great joys in that they have the assurance that she has joined the hosts of the redeemed who have gone before and that she is waiting anxious to welcome those who are to follow.

On March 9 the funeral was conducted in Tabernacle church by the pastor, Rev. Geo. L. Curry, in the presence of a large number of those who were present to extend sympathy to the bereaved and pay respects to the deceased. The body was laid to rest in the Tabernacle cemetery to await the call of the returning Christ.

"How blest the righteous when he dies!
When sinks a weary soul to rest,
How mildly beam the closing eyes,
How gently heaves the expiring breast!

"So fades the summer cloud away;
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er;
So gently shuts the eye of day;
So dies a wave along the shore.

"Life's labor done, as sinks the clay,
Light from its load the spirit hies,
While heaven and earth combine to say,
How blest the righteous when he dies!"

GEO.L.CURRY.

Hanner

Martha Cornelius Allred, the daughter of the late Jesse and Naomi Allred, and the wife of Jesse Hanner, was born in Randolph county June 14, 1858, and died in Guilford County March 18, 1934. At her death her age was 75 years, nine months and four days.

For more than 57 years Mr. and Mrs. Hanner lived happily together and all these years were spent at the same home place. Together they made a sweet home; this happy home was shared by many who were most favorably impressed by the beautiful home atmosphere and the cordial hospitality. The many ministers who have in any way been associated with Tabernacle church have always carried pleasant memories of the Hanner home and the beautiful way it was presided over by this good housewife who was very quiet and non-assuming in her manner but who lived a beautiful and attractive life. Mr. and Mrs. Hanner were never blessed with children of their own, but their home was a home of young life. A large number of children found this home a blessing and a benediction to their lives where they were well cared for and given advantages of school and church and such other helps as would be for the good of young life. Two of these children, Mrs. E. T. Coble, of near Greensboro, and Mr. Henry L. Hanner, of Asheville, were adopted. They, with their foster father, survive and mourn the loss of an affectionate wife and a loving foster mothers who did so much to make a good home which meant comfort and happiness and joy to those it cared for and to those to whom it extended its cordial hospitality. One sister, Mrs. W. H. Jones, of Climax, and one brother, Mr. M. H. Allred, of Climax, also survive.

At an early age Mrs. Hanner became a Christian and joined Shiloh Methodist Protestant church, of near Julian. After her marriage she joined Tabernacle church and there remained a faithful, true and untiring member until she was called of God to go home with Him and be a member of the Church of Perfection in the New Jerusalem.

The life of this good woman was like that of the still small voice. Hers was a life of few word,s but she was a good thinker. She was a great reader. She loved her church paper and other good literature.

Her going is a great loss to her loving companion of so many years, the home she helped to build and which has meant so much to so many, to the church, to the neighborhood and, indeed, all of us who had learned to know her and to love her. But our loss is her gain and her going makes heaven sweeter to those who are left but hope to be there some day. Her victory has been won and the reward has been received.

"There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howsoe'er defended,
But has one vacant chair!

"We see but dimly through the mist and vapors,
Amid these earthy damps;
What seem to us but sad funeral tapers
May be heaven's distant lamps.

"There is no death! What seems so is transition:
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portals we call death."

The funeral was conducted in Tabernacle church on March 19 by the pastor, Rev. Geo. L. Curry, assisted by Rev. H. L. Isley and Dr. T. M. Johnson. Bro. Johnson and Bro. Isley had both been for five years each the pastor of Mrs. Hanner. The audience was large and the floral contribution was beautiful. The remains were then laid to rest in the church cemetery.

Skeen

On Monday morning the hearts of the people of the entire community were filled with sadness when it was whispered to one another that Worth Skeen, on of our earthly comrades and friends, was gone.

Worth was born March 8, 1914, and died March 26, 1934. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Skeen. He was an unusual boy in almost every way. Modesty seems to be his glory. Worth was always very careful about his speech and never said anything that would hurt anyone. He was always obedient to his parents and wished to do things for the benefit of others. We can not see his face, but his kind words and noble deeds will remain in our minds for years to come.

Besides his parents he leaves five brothers: Everett, of High Point, Colon, Fred, Horace, and Odell, of home; four grandparents, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his going. He professed faith in Christ while very young and joined Lineberry church. The service was conducted by Rev. E. A. Bingham. His body was laid to rest in Lineberry cemetery. The grave was covered with beautiful flowers from friends and relatives as a token of their love.

His death was shocking to relatives and friends because it was so sudden. With all the medical aid and all that father and mother could do was in vain. Seemingly with us today, active with life's duty, but gone tomorrow. Jesus always knows best, though, and He saw fit to take him rather than answer the prayers of his Christian Endeavor workers. By death coming so suddenly we know it's hard, dear father and mother, but bear in mind always "Jesus is our Comforter." His earthly father loved him but the love of his Heavenly Father was far greater.

There will be a vacant chair in the home, the school, and the church, and Jesus is invited to take this chair and heal the aching hearts. But it cheers our hearts when we think of the passage: "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

Good-bye, Worth,
'Tis so hard to say farewell,
But we'll meet you, where Angels dwell!

May our Heavenly Father comfort all in this sad hour.

FLADA SMITH.

Pullen

Mrs. Henrietta Bellamy Pullen departed this life suddenly, Monday, March 26, 1934.

A year ago last January she had a stroke and was very sick for some time, but after a while she gradually regained her strength to a certain degree but could not walk very well; she got able to do her work in part but was never able to be out except when she was taken to her children's homes. Her husband preceded her to his reward eight years ago last October and since then she has been father and mother to her family who so sorely miss her now. She leaves four children, three sons and a daughter to mourn the loss of such a mother. Our sympathy goes out to all of them but sad, indeed, is it for the two boys that were in the home with her. The others have families of their own, but of course feel their loss very keenly. She has two brothers and one sister living and a host of nieces, nephews and connections who loved and will miss "Aunt Ret," as she was lovingly called. She was a faithful wife, a loving and devoted mother, a kind friend and neighbor and a worthy citizen. May the God of love comfort the dear children in their great loss who have had the joy of having had such a mother. Her grave was covered with beautiful flowers which was so appropriate, for she loved them so much and spent much time with her flowers.

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

Taylor

Mrs. Mary Ann Ophelia Taylor was the daughter of the late George and Sallie Lewis, of Alamance County, North Carolina. She was born November 30, 1871, and departed this life March 26, 1934.

On October 8, 1893, she was married to Mr. William M. Taylor. In early life she became a Christian and united with Shiloh M. E. Church, South. After marriage she transferred her membership to Fairview M. P. church and remained a member there until the end of this life.

She was devoted to her husband, her children, the home and her church. She admired the right and abhorred the evil. Her home was always open to her pastor and ministers of all true denominations.

Besides her husband she leaves nine children: Sons, R. C., Paul, and Vernon, of Altamahaw, and E. D., of Graham; daughters, Mrs. H. C. Rudd, and Misses Margaret, Kathryn and Truona, all of Altamahaw; seven grandchildren are living; two brothers, M. W. Lewis, of Guilford College, and R. D. Lewis, of Altamahaw; also one half-brother, J. W. E. Lewis, of Guilford College.

In the absence of her pastor the funeral was conducted March 27 at 3 p. m. by the writer, assisted by Rev. G. C. Crutchfield, of the Christian Church, and Rev. H. E. Lance, of the Southern M. E. Church. The funeral service was in Bethlehem Christian church and the interment in the cemetery there. The grave was covered with most beautiful flowers, attesting the high regard for the deceased by a wide circle of friends.

May heaven's richest blessings rest upon the relatives and friends who survive!

J. H. ABERNETHY.

Johnston

On February 10, just four days before his 66th birthday, the death angel came and quietly and gently carried the soul of Joe S. Johnston to the life and home for which he had been preparing himself these three score years and six.

Joe, as he was known by most people, was of the type who grow into a Christian life. His life is characterized by the highest qualities of manhood. Thus, at an early age, he accepted Christ as his personal Saviour and joined Speight's Chapel M. P. Church, where he remained a member until his death. Even though he had moved out of the community, he was always interested in the work of the Kingdom, particularly through his own denomination. In his youth his was almost as familiar a face at all the preaching appointments on his home circuit as was that of the minister himself, for he often accompanied him.

In 1905 he was united in marriage to Miss Kate Russell, who survives. Never has there been a more faithful wife, and great must be her comfort because of her devotion and care of him. To this union were born three sons, all of whom preceded him to the spirit world.

He was devoted to his loved ones. A constant, understanding, sympathetic friend, a noble Christian gentleman, it is no wonder that his going away leaves an aching, empty space in the hearts of all who loved him.

His death occurred at the home in Richmond, Virginia, following a number of years of declining health, the last few of which were critical. On Sunday afternoon, February 11, the funeral services were held at the Whitakers church, followed by burial in the Speight's Chapel cemetery.

Though keen the pain of parting, we cannot but be thankful that his suffering is ended, and that he is reaping the rewards of a Christian life.

ABOUT DANCING

Probably there has been enough said about dancing to convince anyone, unless a person prays and gets so happy and dances unto the Lord; I have piped unto you and ye have not danced. I have mourned and ye have not wept. I feel impressed to say this one thing: I believe what is the matter with the world today is instead of a great many parents leading their children to Jesus they are being led by their ungodly children. Will the faculty of High Point College or any other Christian College be led by the ungodly. If the blind lead the blind both will fall into the ditch. God says in His Word: Then will we be led by the ungodly world or by Jesus Christ; do we seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men I should not be the servant of Christ. Gal. 1:10. I remarked before a nine-year-old boy: Are dancing, card-playing and theatre-going wrong for Christians? He said "Yes." What influence would I have over that boy to lead him to seek Jesus if I engaged in those things. Here is what God in His Word says: "Love not the world; neither the things that are in the world; if any man love the world the love of the Father is not in him, for the world passeth away, and the lust thereof, but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever. Also read John 17:14-19, I Peter 4:2-5. I leave it for your consideration.

A GOOSE THAT DRIVES THE COWS

Some time ago a farmer of Ballston, Oregon, while out hunting, shot and wounded a wild Canadian goose by breaking the tip of one of her wings. Feeling sorry for the injured bird, the farmer took the goose home and placed her in the barnyard with the rest of his fowls.

At first the goose was very shy at the approach of any human being, but being entirely dependent for her living upon the hand that was feeding her, in time she became quite tame, and eventually a great help on her master's farm.

Every evening the goose goes out into the pasture and drives the cows home. When they loiter by the wayside she urges them on by pecking at their legs until they obey her. After they reach the barn this clever honker drives each cow into her own stall. Occasionally when some cow becomes unruly and refuses to go into her stall the goose has to work very hard, but she never gives up until she has succeeded in driving each animal into its proper place.—Exchange.

LITERATURE DYNAMO

The National W. C. T. U. continues as an indefatigable dynamo for the production and dissemination of temperance literature. More than 3,500,000 (three and one-half million) pieces of printed educational material on every phase of the subject were distributed from National headquarters in 1933, and already the 1934 pace exceeds that of last year with over 1,025,000 pieces of printed material sent out since January 1st. The latest of these, just off the press, is a new edition of "Alcohol in Experience and Experiment," a 50-page brochure, by Cora Frances Stoddard, completely revised in the light of the new period of repeal.

MARRIED

Overman-Hunt

The marriage of Miss Jewel Hunt to Bennie H. Overman, of Burlington, took place Saturday, March 31, at the home of Rev. L. E. Mabry, pastor of the groom.

The bride was becomingly attired in a white swagger suit with blue and white accessories. With this she wore a shoulder corsage of Sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Overman is the daughter of the late J. D. Hunt, of Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. Overman is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Overman, of the Friendship community, Burlington.

The ceremony was witnessed by a few close friends and relatives. Both young people are very popular. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

Immediately after the ceremony the young coule left for a short wedding trip to Central Virginia. They are now at home, 227 Ireland street, Burlington.

REPORTER.

Braxton-Little

The Rev. Jabus W. Braxton was married to Miss Dessie Lea Little, of Durham, North Carolina, on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, April 11, 1934. The ceremony occurred in the Mount Pleasant Methodist Protestant church, near Kimesville, Dr. P. E. Lindley, dean of High Point College, officiating. The church was beautifully arranged with ferns and flowers appropriate to the occasion and an attractive placing of candles made very impressive the altar scene.

Miss Dorothy Hoskins, of High Point, sang "The Bells of St. Mary's," and "Oh, Promise Me," accompanied at the piano by Miss Edna Nicholson, Mebane, who also played Schubert's "Serenade" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Miss Cecil Little, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, of Greensboro, was the best man.

Rev. Mr. Braxton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Braxton, of Saxapahaw, is a member of the North Carolina Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church. He was educated at High Point College and Duke University. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. H. C. Little, of Maryland, and is a sister to Dr. Lawrence Little of our Conference. She also attended High Point College.

After a lengthy bridal tour, Rev. and Mrs. Braxton will be at home at the Mount Pleasant church parsonage, near Kimesville. Their many friends wish for them a happy wedded life.

FOUNTAIN PLACE	64

Fountain Place, we are so glad to have you back in the place of honor this week. We certainly have missed you for the past few weeks, but we were consoled in the thought that you were coming back strong again. One of the fine things about our system of rewards is that it favors the church that keeps on doing something each week. It is the regular work that counts. Almost any church can get hold of a dollar or two each week and at that rate it does not take long to reach the goal. If the Herald agents at each church on some of our large circuits will just send in something weekly the charge will soon be in CAPITALS.

Now, Community Church, you have been sitting up there on that pinnacle with your wings folded long enough. I am expecting you to flop your wings, leave earth behind and soar off into the clouds this week.

Several other charges that have been making a good run seem to have stopped to get their breath. BUT THEY ARE COMING. I have faith in them and am depending on them to put the charge on the honor roll. The pastor of one of the charges that was in my column several weeks ago has promised me that they will come to the front again. I am so anxious to spell out the name of the charge. It has seven letters in its name. What charge is it?

You good folks, come on and give me something to rave about. I need a charge every week to give a bouquet to. Somebody see to it that I have one and see how soon my vocabulary will give out.

FIFTH DISTRICT, NOTICE!

This is to give notice that there has been an adjustment of the hours for our Fifth Sunday Rally and that it will be held in the afternoon only. A Wonderful Glass

Our neighbor has a strange device,
You'll surely want to see it twice!
"An Aid to Vision" is its name,
The world is altered since it came.

My neighbor looks upon his deeds
And nothing sees like thorns or weeds:
All robed in beauty is his life,
No sign appears of sin or strife.

And then he turns his glass about
And scans your life both in and out:
And what a contrast he can see
When turning rond he looks on me!

Our neighbor's glass when turned on him
Will give him grace in every limb;
When turned on you or turned on me,
A monstrous sight the world will see!

A Sermon Worthwhile

In boyhood days I lived about midway between two Guilford county churches in the good state of North Carolina. These churches were Pleasant Garden and Tabernacle. Tabernacle was a Methodist Protestant church and Pleasant Garden was a Methodist Episcopal church, South. In those days these churches as a rule had pulpit service but once a month, and that not on the same Sunday in the month, giving opportunity to people in the vicinity to attend both churches, and many did so. I joined Tabernacle church, but was among those who attended both churches. I thus heard many of the best preachers of both denominations. Pulpit orators came especially to "revival meetings" and stirred the congregations with their fervid eloquence. Among the most impressive to me was Dr. Braxton Craven, president of Trinity College. Then there were some "mighty presiding elders" displaying the fact that they were men in authority. Tabernacle, too, in its annual camp-meetings held under an arbor, attracted throngs of preachers who occupied the "stand" and took turns in preaching "great sermons." Most people had their favorite preachers. I, too, had my favorite in Rev. J. H. Page because he was the first I heard that I could understand.

But I set out to tell you a little about a particular sermon that has the distinction of being to me the best sermon I ever heard in all my life. I cannot tell you much about it because I do not remember much about it. I do not recall the name of the preacher of it or his appearance except very vaguely. I think this sermon was delivered one warm Sunday afternoon to a small congregation. I do not recall any favorable comment by any person. No one else seemed to be impressed as I was. To me it was the best sermon I ever heard because it aroused my mind and satisfied my heart as no other sermon ever did. I was at an impressible age and was in an unsatisfied state of mind. My views of God were defective and erroneous. It seemed to me that God was very far off and very indifferent to me. The sermon of the day was rich food to my famishing soul. The text was, "The Lord is good and doeth good." This led to two divisions: the goodness of the character of God and the goodness of the deeds of God. What teaching was there in all the Bible that was more fitting to my spiritual condition? It was a great hour to me. God had moved from the horizon and taken His position in the zenith. God had been transfigured. He could never be the same to me again and He has never been the same again. Instead of emptiness there is infinite fulness. Instead of indifference there is intense and everlasting love. "God is good and doeth good!" Glory be to His Name!

MY HEART NEEDS THEE

My heart needs Thee, O Lord, my heart needs Thee! No part of my being needs Thee like my heart. All else within me can be filled by Thy gifts. My hunger can be satisfied by daily bread. My thirset can be allayed by earthly waters. My cold can be removed by household fires. My weariness can be relieved by outward rest. But no outward thing can make my heart pure. The calmest day will not calm my passions. The fairest scene will not beautify my soul. The richest music will not mark harmony within. The breezes can cleanse the air, but no breeze can cleanse a spirit. This world has not provided for my heart. It has provided for my eye; it has provided for my ear; it has provided for my touch; it has provided for my taste; it has provided for my sense of beauty, but it has not provided for my heart. Provide Thou for my heart, O Lord. It is the only unwinged bird in all creation; give it wings, O Lord. Earth has failed to give it wings; its very power of loving has often drawn it in the mire. Be Thou the strength of my heart. Be Thou its fortress in temptation, its shield in remorse, its covert in the storm, its star in the night, its voice in the solitude. Guide it in its gloom; help it in its heat; direct it in its doubt; calm it in its conflict; fan it in its faintness; prompt it in its perplexity; lead it through its labyrinths; raise it from its ruins. I cannot rule this heart of mine; keep it under the shadow of Thine own wings.—George Matheson.

PEOPLE RATHER THAN STUMPS

By LUTHER K. LONG

In the course of her visits, a missionary in New York City came across an old Irish woman living very uncomfortably in a dilapidated attic. The roof leaked and an umbrella was necessary to keep her measurably dry when trying to sleep of a rainy night.

"Why live like this," queried the visitor, "when you could have a pleasant room and good food in the country without very strenuous work to do?"

The change was made. It was only a few weeks, however, when the missionary found the old lady again in the same leaky attic. In response to the question, "Why did you leave that nice place in the country?" the answer was, "Oh, paples is more company than shtumps."

All of us are more interested in folks than in mere things. That is why it is always interesting to me to go places and make contacts with folks in various situations. Here are some recent finds:

Binker

One of the inducements for stopping a few days in a North Carolina city on the way down to Florida was an invitation to become acquainted with the 15-months-old son of a young couple living there. The father was born across the street from the parsonage in Michigan where I then lived. I baptized him in his infancy, ministered in various ways to his father and mother, his four grandparents, and buried three of his great-grandparents. He grew up, was graduated from a well known school of music, taught in a college, and married a trained musician. They spent two years in Europe studying piano and pipe organ, and for the past two years he has been the head of the department of music in a North Carolina college. What kind of a young son have such folks brought into the world?

Well, like many others, he is some boy! He had evidently heard of me. We readily became friends. He soon patted my knee and arm and seemed interested in what was said to him, though he did not fully get what it was all about. His parents and their friends take an interest in his affairs and that leads him to be interested in what is going on about him. That, I am sure, helps him to be much less peevish and fretful than the average child.

I remember when the father was two years old his mother used to say to him, "Leslie can't have everything he wants, can he?" Leslie would shake his head solemnly, as though the lesson was sinking in. Last year his salary was cut 20 per cent and an additional 20 per cent he just didn't collect. I am sure he stands up under this with a better spirit because of his mother's teaching.

This young boy has the same name as his father, but his parents call him "Binker." I soon called him "Mr. Binker," and, in a mild way, he seemed interested and pleased—appreciating somewhat, I think, that it is nice for us men-folks to have a little joke between us.

I know of no tobacco or drinking habits in this little fellow's direct ancestry. They were Christian people and church workers. I expect good things of "Mr. Binker."

Annie

She was born in Amesbury, Massachusetts, a good many years ago. I am told that she was the youngest of several sisters who thought her rather superfluous. At any rate they could do about everything that needed to be done, and she was not taken into their councils and plans. She did not write a letter until after she was 26 years old—though now, at the age of almost four score years, she writes many beautiful letters each week.

I remarked to her that she must have considerable first-hand information concerning the Quaker poet, John G. Whittier, whose home for many years was in Amesbury. No, she hadn't any recollection of ever having seen him or of having known anything about him at the time, though she thought she must have looked upon him many times. Whittier died in 1892 when Annie was 34 years old. "How much you missed! How I wish I might have had the opportunities you could have had of personal contacts with the Quaker poet!" Such were the exclamations that ran through my mind as we talked.

Annie has spent many winters in Florida. She lives quietly in her little house, writing letters, feeding birds and a wild rabbit that come to her yard, and attending to her small household tasks. Until within the last two years—when she fell and broke her hip—she was a regular attendant and interested worker in a small Congregational church here. For years she has paid a school bus to go out to the farm homes several miles away and bring in the children for Sunday school, and she always provides a liberal Christmas treat for the pupils.

We often hear lauded the advantages of being brought up in large families. I wonder if Annie's chances for a finer early development and a larger life could not have been much better had she been a member of a small family.

Vermille

I have come to know and appreciate a family from South Carolina, which has lived a good while in Florida. Besides the father and mother, there are four sisters and two brothers, all married but one, and each of the married ones has, I think, two children.

Vermille is the unmarried one. She is the oldest and, in my estimation, much the finest of all. Both the father and mother have some attractive qualities, but Vermille goes far beyond them. She is the staff on which they all lean. She is good, unselfish, efficient. I first saw her at the store and post office with two of her sisters and three or four of their children. Her kind disposition and superior qualities were at once evident. At church on Sunday she was in her place.

Did you ever consider what might have been the consequences had Abraham Lincoln been blessed(?) with eight or ten younger brothers and sisters? With his disposition he would have laid himself out to give them a chance in life. There would have been scant opportunity for him to read books for the enrichment of his mind. He would not have studied law. He might not have married. Politics, statesmanship, and the Presidency would have been out of the question. What a loss to this country and to the world!

I can't escape the feeling that if Vermille had been blessed with only one brother or sister she might have broken through financial limitations, acquird an adequate education, and rendered outstanding service. She might have married a man of her own fine type, and become the mother of children whom she would train nobly to serve their generation. Not so many in the family, but finer, better trained, and more effective children, should be our aim.

THE CHURCHES AND THE TRAFFIC IN ARMS

A League of Nations Commission was appointed in 1921 to inquire into the problem of the private manufacture of arms. The report declared that armament firms have been active in fomenting war scares and in persuading their own countries to adopt warlike policies and to increase their armaments; have attempted to bribe government officials both at home and abroad; have disseminated false reports concerning the military and naval programs of various countries in order to stimulate armament expenditure; have sought to influence public opinion through the control of newspapers in their own and foreign countries; have organized international armament rings through which the armaments race has been accentuated by deliberately playing off one country against another.

In the light of the foregoing, the conviction is growing that permanent world justice and peace will not be attained until the arms and munitions industry is placed under strict international control. A preliminary step in this direction would seem to be to place before the American public all of the essential facts regarding the manufacture, sale, distribution, import or export of arms, munitions, and other implements of war.

A resolution looking toward such an investigation has been introduced in the Senate. The Executive Committee of the Federal Council has recorded its approval of the proposed investigation. Many church bodies, in one way or another, have spoken their minds on the munitions industry. The World Peace Commission of the Methodist Episcopal church holds "that it is nothing less than social insanity for any people to leave the manufacture of munitions to private individuals whose only hope of financial gain depends upon their sale, that is, upon war and war scares." This Commission believes that "the manufacture and sale of war munitions should be placed under government ownership and control." The American Section of the World Alliance believes "that the manufacture, sale, and transportation of arms and munitions should be taken out of the hands of private individuals or corporations and carried on only by government agencies under strict international control." The Disciples of Christ strongly urge "federal control of the manufacture of all arms and munitions and the complete elimination of private profits from this bloody traffic." The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. believes that the private manufacture of munitions of war should be prohibited. The Federal Council of the Churches, at its 1932 Quadrennial Meeting, recommended that the traffic in arms and munitions be placed under strict international control.

Walter W. Van Kirk, Secretary of the Federal Council's Department of International Justice and Goodwill, in a recent public address in Washington, D. C., supported the proposed investigation of the arms and munitions industry. "The churches are beginning to realize that permanent world peace will never come until the private manufacturers of military implements are placed under the restraint of law," Mr. Van Kirk said. "Those who manufacture and sell for private profit the guns and bayonets and poison gases with which our sons and daughters are slain upon the battlefields are the enemies of public welfare. The traffic in arms and munitions is the world's most disgraceful racket. A thoroughgoing investigation of the armament racket would, I believe, shock the conscience of the nation. Such an investigation would doubtless reveal the fact that many of the persons who are always agitating for a big navy and who are busy day and night stirring up a devil's brew of international rivalries, hatreds and suspicions are the very persons who would realize a handsome profit in the manufacture and sale of the weapons of death."—Federal Council Bulletin.

HOWZURMUSIC?

Somewhere between Greensboro and Burlington there used to be a large sign over a filling station, which appeared to be a mixture of Eskimo and English. At first glance it did not register, but upon further scrutiny, it made its impression and served its purpose:

"Howzuroil?"

Right away I checked up in my mind whether or not I had sufficient oil in the crank case of my car, or if it needed changing.

It would serve the purpose of this article if the title caused you as pastor, Sunday school superintendent, or musical director to stop and think seriously concerning the music used in your church. "Howzurmusic?" Is it relegated to an insignificant place in your thinking and in the program of your church? Does it need replenishing, or should it be cleaned out—song books, choir music, and all? The worship of God deserves the best.

One of the best ways to improve your church music is to form a young people's choir, and give it a chance to develop and sing during some of the services. This should be composed of young people, not younger than 14 nor older than 24 years of age. Assuming that the director may be older, he may add his voice as a leader or a ballast.

To encourage your young people in this venture, have them prepare two good numbers to be sung the first night of the Leadership Training School this summer at High Point College. The first effort last year, when four choirs competed, was pronounced a success, and this year it ought to be better.

Instead of competing, however, each choir singing will be scored according to a set of approved standards. These will appear in an early edition of this paper, or will be sent to those interested upon application to the writer. Drop me a card, and let me know of your plans to organize such a choir. Do it now, because the time for the school is not far distant.

E. Lester Ballard.

IMPORTANT

For the past few weeks I have been reading in the HERALD about "High Point College Student Body Seeks Permission to Dance." To say the least, I am greatly disappointed in the Methodist Protestant College. I have noticed that most of the comment comes from people past college age. I am aiming to go to college some time, somewhere. Being I have always attended a Methodist Protestant church and am a member of church and Sunday school, I wish to go to a school supported by our denomination.

But, does dancing ever help the sinner to get salvation, or does it ever help a Christian to become a better Christian worker? How about a missionary taking dancing lessons, saying that when I get to my field of labor people may be won to Christ by the graceful movements of my body learned in dancing school? You may say, "Other colleges dance, why not High Point?" Maybe other colleges do dance, but if High Point Methodist Protestant College isn't better than other colleges, why sacrifice money and effort in order to have one, or why attend? The Bible says all that we do should be done to the honor and glory of God, and I can't understand how a Christian could dance having God's approval.

These are some thoughts that have been coming to me while reading about dancing in the HERALD. Can anyone answer these questions in the light of God's Word?

A YOUNG METHODIST PROTESTANT.

THE BEST GIFT

Mr. Bowman, in an article in the Missionary Review of the World tells the story of a Hindu woman who was walking along the banks of the Ganges; and as she walked along, she had by her side a little boy some three or four years of age, and in her arms she had a little baby girl, wailing little thing. An English officer passed that way and spoke to her, because there was agony written in that woman's face. He said, "What is wrong?" She replied, "The gods are angry with me; they have given me this little baby girl." He passed on, but he came back, drawn, I suppose, by the agony in that woman's face. The woman was there; the baby girl was there; but the boy was not there—the sturdy little fellow of three or four years. And this officer knew what had happened. The boy had been thrown into the river, and he said to her, "Why did you throw the boy in?" She answered, "Could I give less than my best to my god?"

Friends, that was a heathen woman. The story shows us the possible power in that woman's life if she really knew God. She thought a god was something cruel, one who was tyrannical, who demanded for no reason the sacrifice of her best loved one. And we who know God to be so true, so loving, so careful, so tender—can we withhold our very best from Him, be it the life of some loved one, or our own life? All that we have or hope to be, let us give in absolute abandonment to the service of the Lord Jesus Christ. Surely, surely, the restless millions await that light, whose dawning maketh all things new, and Christ also waits. Have we done what we could?—Sunlight for the Young.

THE SUBTLE FOE

A famous preacher once said in a sermon: "Paul got the defeat of his life, not at Lystra where he was stoned, for he built a church there; not at Thessalonica, where he was mobbed, for he planted a church there; not at Philippi, where he was beaten with rods and put into the stocks, for he built a church there; not at Corinth and at Ephesus, where he was persecuted, for he built churches there; not at Jerusalem where he was torn by the mob, for he built a church there; but at Athens, where no violence was shown him, but where they were indifferent!" Here they had no real concern for the true Way of Life.

Indifference is not only one of the deadliest, but also one of the subtlest foes from which humanity suffers. Many a conscientious person who would not for a moment hostilely array himself again a righteous cause, is quite willing to let it die through indifference and neglect. We need daily to be reminded of our Lord's solemn admonition in which He said, "He that is not with me is against me."—Our Youth.

"HE HATH SAID"

When the battle is the hardest,
Trials press on every side,
And the tempter calls the loudest,
That his way is bright and wide,

Then doth Jesus gently whisper
Words so full of love and cheer:
"I have said, I will not leave thee;
Fear thou not for I am near."

When thy way seems hard and rugged,
And thy strength is nearly gone,
Still He saith, "I will sustain thee;
Thou walk'st not the way alone.

" 'Neath my wing I'll ever hide thee,
And in pastures green I'll lead;
When thy heart is pressed with burdens,
I'll supply thy ev'ry need."

Yea, we know that God is faithful,
That His ev'ry word is sure;
Let us, then, in faith look to Him,
For His grace that will endure.

NO LIGHT IN HIS LANTERN

One night a man was run down at a level crossing. Consequently the old signalman in charge had to appear in court. After a severe cross-examination he was still unshaken. He said he had waved his lantern frantically, but all to no avail. The following day the superintendent of the line called him into his office. "You did wonderfully well yesterday, Tom," he said. "I was afraid at first that you might waver." "No, sir," replied Tom, "but I was afraid that old lawyer was going to ask me whether my lantern was lit!"

How tragic it is that so many Christians are "waving the lantern" in the same way—and lives are lost.—Sunday Companion.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

Churches Which Pay A. C. Expense in May

Orange, Mt. Pleasant, Randleman, Siler City, Shiloh, Saxapahaw, Granville. The amounts which these charges are expected to pay are found on pages 69 and 70. It is vital to the plan endorsed by the last Conference that the churches attempt to pay these amounts on the date set for such payment. It puts this claim out of the way for the rest of the year and puts money into the hand of the treasurer for the much-needed interest of this assessment.

Group Meeting at Denton

This was the first of this type of meetings we have held. There were between 35 and 40 present. The speakers were Mrs. W. C. Hammer, Mr. J. G. Rogers, Dr. T. M. Johnson, Rev. C. E. Ridge, and the president of the Conference. There was in evidence an interest in the topics discussed, The Woman's Work, The Layman's Fellowship, Stewardship, and Religion in the Home, by the visiting speakers; while the writer presented the duties of the church officials. The meeting was a success. The attendance was not large. No collections are taken at these meetings.

Second Quarterly Conference, Fallston Charge, Rev. H. F. Fogleman, Pastor

This conference was held at Macedonia church, rather far to one side of the charge, but there was a splendid attendance. We preached at 11 o'clock and held the conference in the early afternoon. There were many evidences of interest in the work of the church, both at the preaching service and at the quarterly conference. Pastor Fogleman is getting a good grip on the work and we are expecting to hear good reports from this work this year.

Saturday Night at Shelby, Rev. J. D. Morris, Pastor

Here was held a conference also of this group of churches, Shelby, Caroleen and Bess Chapel. All churches were represented and the usual business was transacted with a fine spirit of harmony.

Shelby church has had enough to crush it and has suffered greatly. However, there are still some who hold on and are doing their best to carry on the work there. I am greatly interested in this struggling church and want to see them succeed in bringing their church back to the state of efficiency it once was in. Sunday we visited Bess Chapel at 11 a.m. and Caroleen at night. We had the usual congregations present at these services. Bess has been trying to reduce the church debt for the past few years, and has brought it down to about one thousand dollars, I was told. They have a beautiful church—a building that would be a credit to the congregation anywhere; and but for the depression in which many of their leaders suffered greatly, the entire debt would have been lifted before now.

Caroleen is trying to raise money to paint the church—badly needed. The women of the church are fostering this plan and Pastor Morris informed me that they were about ready to begin to paint. Hurrah for them! This congregation appeared to be going along about as usual. Several members who once led in the work there have gone elsewhere and are doubtless greatly missed. But they still have faithful leaders.

Brother Morris has served this group of churches at different times and always gets along splendidly with the people. He is energetic and does not hesitate to give his best to the work, but he is greatly hindered by the distance he has to travel in serving the three churches. We hope that a new grouping can be made before a great while when the churches can have more service.

EAGLE AND WEASEL

It is said that a man one day strolling along in the country happened to see a magnificent golden eagle flying upward toward the sky. He watched it with delight and admiration as it strongly mounted upward; but presently he saw that something was wrong with it. It seemed unable to go any higher. Soon it began to fall, and presently it lay at his feet a lifeless mass.

What could be the matter? No human hand had harmed it. No sportsman's shot had reached it. He went and examined the bird, and what did he find? It had carried up with it a little weasel in its talons, and as it had drawn its talons near to its body for flight the little creature had wormed itself partly out of them and had drunk the life-blood from the eagle's breast.

How like this it is with sin! It may appear a very little thing one is at first tempted to do; just one glass of cider or wine, but presently a habit has fastened itself upon you and you have it to drag around with you the rest of your life. Many boys begin to do wrong who never intended to continue in a sinful life. When once they have started it is difficult to stop.

Boys, beware! Bad habits are like the creature that took the life-blood from the eagle's breast.—The Y. C. Companion.

THE BOY AND JESUS

"And Jesus took the loaves."—JOHN 6:11.

John the Baptist had been murdered by Herod. The news had come to Jesus; and gathering His band together, He took them across the Sea of Galilee with the admonition to "Come . . . apart, and rest a while." But the crowds were not to be eluded. The air was charged with excitement, the Galilean had stirred their hearts. In the evening they swarmed around the end of the lake and found Him in the desert. And a heart so tender as Jesus' could not reject their prayers for help. "He had compassion on them and healed their sick."

The afternoon slipped quickly away. The sun sat like a golden ball balanced on the sky-line ere it plunged behind the draperies of the night. It was supper time. The disciples began to manifest uneasiness. What would they do with such a crowd out here in the desert? Philip, calculator of the apostolate, circled the people and numbered them at about five thousand men besides women and children. Then a little conference with Judas the treasurer revealed that the disciples had thirty dollars on hand. Philip shook his head. Thirty dollars would never feed such a multitude. So he went to Jesus to announce the deficit.

The rest of the disciples were as much discouraged as Philip. Their faithlessness made them empty-handed. Hear them say to Christ, "Send them away . . . for they have nothing to eat!" Is it any wonder that Jesus often cried out to them, "O faithless generation!" They could reason, and figure, and estimate—but somehow they could not believe. They seemed so slow to learn that nothing plus Jesus is everything; and that everything minus Jesus is nothing!

"They have nothing to eat!" That cry has echoed across the hilltops of time. It crashes against the gates of the Church, fraught with accusation. It rings in the Temple of Israel, denouncing a self-centered priesthood; it pounds on the doors of the Middle Ages, trying to rouse a drunken hierarchy; it roars in the deaf ears of English ecclesiastics; it thunders across the length and breadth of the American church world. "They have nothing to eat." They are starving for the Bread of Life! Africans—Asiatics—Europeans—the world! Church of the living God, how long will ye stand empty-handed before the famishing hordes of earth?

Andrew pushed through the crowd leading a small boy by the hand. From the lad's other hand hung a basket. "There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes," he said to Jesus. Then his face fell, as he added his testimony of faithlessness, "but what are they among so many?" But Jesus looked beyond Andrew's worried countenance to the boy with the basket. Thank God for that little fellow! He gave Jesus something to work on. We're glad he was young and helpful, and not an old selfish mossback who would have been afraid of starving to death in the desert. The young lad's stomach was empty, but his heart was full of assurance toward Christ! He handed his basket and its contents to Jesus. The Lord might have called Gabriel to come and seine Galilee; but He seemingly preferred to show the world that little was much in His hands.

"Send the folks away," cried the disciples. "Make them sit down, they need not go away!" replied Jesus. "We have only five loaves," insisted the Apostles. "Bring them hither to me," cammanded Jesus, "and give ye them to eat."

"And Jesus took the loaves." That made all the difference in the world. The location of the loaves determined their usefulness. In the hands of the boy they wouldn't feed five; but in the hands of Jesus they fed five thousand! Our talents, our money, our lives will multiply in the hands of Christ. A loaf in His hands becomes as big as snow-crowned Hermon. A sardine becomes a whale. A dime becomes dollars. A kind word becomes a volume of benevolence. A glass of water becomes a Mediterranean of mercy. Moses could not talk; but in the hands of God he spoke to all nations! Paul was the chief of sinners; but in the hands of God he became the chief of Apostles!

Let us hand our loves to Jesus. He won't keep them if He sees we need them. He simply wants to bless them! After He has fed the multitudes, and fed us, then He'll give us back the original, and a thousand loaves for interest.—L. R. Woodrum, in John Three Sixteen.

"LOVE THAT NEVER FAILETH"

I know a home which is the abode of poverty, toil, and constant pain. Yet one canont remain there, even for one brief hour, without feeling that something fine and sweet and good abides in that place. There is an atmosphere of love, kindness, courtesy, gentleness, contentment, such as one seldom finds on this earth. The poor furnishings are forgotten in the presence of this greater thing, which indeed is priceless.

There is an invalid mother in this home who knows that she will never leave her couch until her spirit is summoned to the better and higher life.

There is a father who toils long hours each day for a small wage.

There is a son, just entering high school, who delivers papers both morning and evening, proudly placing his earnings in his mother's wasted hands.

There is a daughter who, aside from her household duties, is stenographer for a great business enterprise.

Each day is filled to the brim with tasks that must be done.

Still there are bright smiles, clear, ringing laughter, pleasing jests, cheerful optomism, and undimmed hope.

The son entered his mother's room with twinkling eyes and one hand held behind him.

Said the mother: "What have you in that other hand, you blessed boy?" It was a bunch of violets, fresh from the woods, which he held gently to her pale, sunken cheeks.

The daughter came with a book from the pubic library, and, with a kiss, placed it in her mother's hands. "I think you will like it, Mother," she said.

The father sat by the bed and told an interesting story he had heard that day; yet one could see that he was all worn with toil.

"What a wonderful home you have!" said the visitor. "What makes it so rich and full?"

"It is Mother," said the son.

"It is love and Mother," said the daughter.

"It is Christ and love and Mother," said the father.

"It is the love of Christ, the mind of Christ, in all of us," said the little mother.—Publisher Unknown.

TWO BOYS

I have read or heard quite recently of simple things which two boys did, and which gave the greatest pleasure to the persons for whom they were done.

One boy became a doctor, and a rather famous soldier-doctor afterwards, and, sad to say, he was killed in the war; but when he was only eight years old he was going home from school one day and saw a white-haired lady carrying a parcel. He raised his cap, and asked if he might carry the parcel for her. The lady was quite surprised at so small a boy offering to help her. He was so smiling and polite that she gave him her parcel, and asked him who he was, and where he lived. He was the son of a minister, and the next day the lady called at his father's house to tell his parents all about it, and to say how much she admired his kind and polite manner.

You may be sure those parents were very proud of their boy. The lady happened to be a lady of title, but Jan would have done just the same for a poor woman. His act gave immense pleasure to two homes, and one feels certain that it pleased Jesus, for it was just the sort of thing that He would have done, and probably did often when He was a boy.

The other boy was the son of poor parents in an English village. Near his parents' cottage lived an old lady, whom he often saw, but to whom he had never spoken.

There came one night a heavy snowstorm, and in the morning all the people in the village looked out on a white world. The wind had been so strong that the snow had been blown into great drifts, and it had blown up very high against this lady's house. I suppose Billy's father had shoveled away the snow from his own cottage door before starting out for work; but, to his mother's surprise, Billy asked for the spade, nearly as tall as he was, and when asked why he wanted it, he said he wished to offer to clear the snow away from the door and gate of the old lady, who had no one to help her.

She felt, however, that she must try, and when she opened her front door, there was Billy—ten years old—with spade and broom, offering to do it all for her; and he did it too; and when he had finished the front quite nicely, he asked if he might do her garden path at the back as well; not because he wanted to earn some money, though his parents are poor enough, but because he wanted to do a kind deed. I feel sure Jesus Christ was pleased with him, and would have said, "Well done!" to him.

The lady was so delighted that she made some verses about Billy and his kindness, and these are some of them:

"Oh, dear," she said, "I wish I had
Some one to help me sweep;
My hands and feet are very cold,
The snow, it is so deep."

Opening the door, what did she see?
A sight to cause her joy—
A bright-eyed, active boy.
A spade, fit for a man to use,

"I'll sweep your path, lady," he said,
"I'll make it clean and neat;
I'll shovel all your snow away,
It shall not wet your feet."

The job was tough and very long,
The snow was hard and deep,
But Billy stuck it like a man,
And asked for more to sweep.

Not for more money, you see, but to finish his job.

And one doesn't wonder that the lady made verses about him. She did something else, of course. Billy's action was something like a poem in itself.

And I don't wonder that in concluding her verses the lady says she is sure, when Billy grows up, he will be a credit to his home. He is that now, though he is not yet grown up. Probably he will not be a doctor or a soldier, but he will be what one wishes every boy was—a faithful follower and a brave soldier of Jesus Christ our Lord, who calls both boys and girls to follow Him and to serve Him by being a blessing and a joy to others.—Tract.

STEWARDSHIP OF POSSESSIONS

"Are the lawyers still searching for a clear title to Oakdene?" asked John Kendricks of his friend.

"Yes," responded Alwood De Coster, "they are still at it: they have traced the title back to Lord Mayor Woodroffs, of England, who, in 1660, took out a claim; but there is a prior claim, it seems, and I tell my wife that I should not be surprised to see Adam's name appearing on the title deed."

"And even then," said Mr. Kendricks, "the title will not be clear; there is a prior claim."

"Why, I thought Adam was supposed to have been the first man on this terrestrial ball!" exclaimed De Coster in surprise.

"If we trace the title deeds of all estates to their origin, we shall find in the most ancient of all land records this entry, 'In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth,' and across every title deed that has ever been executed is God's signature: 'The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein'," said Kendricks.

"Then, if God's signature is upon all property, may I ask where man's claim comes in?" asked De Coster.

"We are at best but His tenants, and if we do not recognize His stewardship we are but squatters," answered Kendricks.—Elim Evangel.

We are thankful for all the above gifts.

Our Request

Please see that the offerings in your churches and Sunday schools are kept up to a good level during the spring and summer months to help us from falling further behind.

School Closing

Our school will soon close. We have just one boy graduating from the high school this spring. The boy is Sam Coble, from Fair Grove church on Haw River charge.

We have one girl graduating from High Point College, Laura Braswell of Kannapolis, who entered the Home when she was four years old and is expecting her diploma from the college on the 28th of May.

A Children's Home Patch

It is planting time, and while you plant for yourself, add a patch or at lease a few hills extra for the Home. This can be done with great advantage for the Home. Thank you and God bless you.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Being a Quaker, I am in a sense a "stranger within your gates," but having so many dear friends amongst your good people, I am taking the liberty to write you, giving a description of a very pleasant day spent at the home of J. Wesley Whitehead, one of your standard bearers, honoring him on his 75th birthday.

Upon hearing a few days previous that a surprise was being staged for him on Easter Sunday, his birthday, I felt a little dubious, as I have been one who has had some misgivings on the subject of celebrations on Sunday, especially if it carried along with it a spread dinner, but upon duly considering the matter, I was sure that Wesley Whitehead's friends would not be inclined to put anything over him that would not be strictly "Biblical."

So on Easter Sunday morning, through the kindness of my friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Lindley, I, with them, started out on the 40-mile journey down on the Snow Camp route, about 15 miles south of Graham, three miles from the Centre M. P. church.

When we reached our destination, Mr. Lindley had some difficulty in finding a suitable parking place, for the large open space in front of the house under the huge towering oak trees was stocked with automobiles, indicating that people for miles around and from every direction had arrived before us, and it soon became evident that we were all present under one bond of union and communion. All were eager to express our appreciation of this friend and his family, and for the existence of this Christian home that has been a great blessing to the community and a haven of rest for the traveling preachers for something near half a century.

We were met by Mr. Whitehead's pastor, Rev. J. A. Burgess, under whose supervision things moved in a very quiet, orderly channel. After a few minutes spent in social intercourse with friends, at the call of the pastor all gathered in a quiet group on the east side of the house for what might be termed a religious Thanksgiving service.

Different ones in the audience voiced their appreciation of the life and services of our friend, one of whom I quote, Alfred Harris (Friend minister) and a saintly veteran in the cause of Christianity, a neighbor of Mr. Whitehead:

"I have known Wesley since he was five years old, and even when a boy he stood by his principles for truth and righteousness. He had an inborn inclination to improve every opportunity for self advancement—much of the time walking three miles to school, and on account of this determined spirit, he obtained an education far in advance of the majority of the young people of his day."

In response to the call of the one in charge Mr. Whitehead himself came forward and in a few brief remarks expressed (as well as broken sentences would permit) his sincere thanks for the kindly demonstration of the day.

Afterwards his second son, Rev. Talton J. Whitehead, pastor of the West End M. P. church of Greensboro, made a few fitting remarks in which he paid high tribute to the life and influence of his father; he afterward offered a very appropriate prayer.

Just here I wish to speak of the elder brother Ernest, who has for years been a tower of strength both to his father and this younger brother, devoting his life unstintingly to their interests—making it possible for them to carry on.

I am here reminded of the hymn, "When He cometh to make up His jewels (such as he) they shall shine in their beauty, bright gems for His crown."

Rev. J. A. Burgess then read a portion of scripture from the 47th chapter of Genesis, where Jacob was presented to Pharaoh, dwelling especially on Jacob's answer to Pharaoh's question, "How old art thou?" The speaker earnestly sought to convince his listeners that the calendar years have little to do with the span of life. Jacob whose years were only 130 and his answer stated, "Few and evil have the days of my life been; I have not attained to the years of my fathers." But the speaker declared that in spite of Jacob's failures he lived longer in those 130 years than did his aged ancestors of 500, 700, or even Methuselah in his 969 years. Jacob made a wonderful record in behalf of God's cause in giving to the world those twelve sons in whose hands were held the destiny of the religious world. Jacob's experience with the angels at Bethel, and later when he met God face to face at Penial,—these experiences all gave him a fuller and a longer life than had any of his forefathers.

In comparison the preacher spoke of Mr. Whitehead's eventful life with its sorrows and losses amidst it all, his untiring devotion to his home and to his church, and his firm reliance upon God have made him in experience perhaps the oldest man present. And on the other hand, his close acquaintance with God, his busy life full of plans and prospects for the good of others, hath given him in a sense the title of "youngest man" amongst us.

At the close of the service, all gathered around a heavily laden table, about 75 feet in length, filled with tempting viands through the kindness of the good women of the community. The preacher in his morning exhortation, I noted, said, "We did not come here today for the thrill of an automobile ride nor for a big dinner," but the dinner as it was came in place nicely, and we returned home that evening feeling that it was good to have been there.

S. C. SAMPSON.

P. S.—Out of modesty, Mrs. Sampson omitted her part in Brother Whitehead's birthday celebration. She gave two beautiful readings, one by Mrs. Roxie White, and one by herself; also made some fitting remarks.

ONLY TWO MORE MONTHS

There are only two more months until we will be heading toward High Point College and the 1934 Leadership Training School. These should be two busy months with our young people. Sunday school officers and teachers, and many others who are interested in the school. We should talk the school. We should help the church raise some money to send a group to the school. We should plan our summer's program so that we can attend the school.

There are many of our people who are interested in this school. Bro. Auman says "Our club is going to get out the ice cream stand right away and begin to make some money selling ice cream to send a group to the school." One girl said "I am going if I have to give up my job." I expect Mrs. J. J. Crawford, our young friend down in Orange County, has everything planned to go and all she is doing now is waiting for June 25th to come so she can start. Let's get busy now and begin to push the school. The definite set-up of the school will appear in the Herald of May 11th. Look for this issue. T. J. WHITEHEAD.

THE FACTS ABOUT SUMMER LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOLS TELL AN INTERESTING STORY

Did You Know?

1. That there were conducted 11 schools in 1926, 19 in 1930 and 24 in 1933.

2. That a total of 29 conference schools are scheduled for 1934, five more than last summer, with the following goals: 3,500 credit students, 15,000 popular attendance.

3. That there were 1,232 credit students enrolled in 1926, 1,521 in 1930, and 2,534 in 1933.

4. That the estimated popular attendance was 3,562 in 1926, 4,738 in 1930, and 12,833 in 1933.

5. That the following signed Life Service Declaration cards: 430 in 1926, 433 in 1930, and 1,101 in 1933.

6. That due to the co-operation on the part of the leaders of our 22 conference councils and the willingness of more than 200 instructors to give of their time without remuneration, that the 1933 series of Summer Conference Leadership Training Schools were conduced without the expenditure of World Service funds.

7. That the Director of Leadership Training was almost continuously in the field for three months during last summer; traveled 10,160 miles and taught and supervised the work every school day; and then was unable to be present in 13 of the 24 schools conducted.

8. That this summer 10 schools are to be held in camps, and four in institutions. The leaders of the remaining schools are in many instances planning permanent locations.

9. That since 1911 when the late Dr. Charles H. Hubbell conducted a three-day conference at Gull Lake and in 1915 when Dr. Harlan L. Feeman established a school of methods at Sabina, this means of training our leaders has grown to be the greatest means of training our people for work in the local church.

10. That in 1932 we had 105 accredited instructors representing 13 conferences and at the present time we have 199 representing 22 conferences.

11. That this leadership training work is only one phase of the work promoted by the Department of Religious Eeducation of the Christian Education Board.

12. That the results obtainin in this and other phases of our work in recent years is an outgrowth of the work so zealously begun by Dr. Charles H. Hubbell, who was elected in 1908 as the first Executive Secretary of the Board of Young People's Work; and continued so nobly down through the years by those who have followed in his train.

13. That the stry told by the above facts should inspire us to continue this necessary work until every church has a trained and consecrated leadership.

Yours for a successful 1934 series,
F. L. GIBBS,
Director of Leadership Training.

METHODIST PROTESTANT SUMMER CONFERENCE LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOLS—1934

The Methodist Protestant Summer Conference Leadership Training Schools for 1934 will be conducted under the auspices of the Department of Religious Education of the Christian Education Board and the Conference Councils of Christian Education.

We are glad to announce our Summer Conference Leadership Training Training Schools for 1934. Let us turn to the results of the first two years of this quadrennium for inspiration for the 1934 series:

	1932	1933	Goal for 1934
Number of schools held	20	24	29
Enrollment	2,005	2,534	3,500
Instructors	190	216	250
L. S. declarations	861	1,101	1,200
Graduates	117	262	300
Total attendance	10.699	12.833	15.000

Due to the results achieved by the heroic efforts on the part of our leaders during the past two summers, we have dared to plan for 29 schools, five more than last year. With your continued co-operation the goal for 3,500 students, with a popular attendance of 15,000 can be realized. The challenge was never greater. Local churches command more efficient and consecrated leadership in these times. Our summer conferences are a means for providing this leadership.

Reasonable Rates

Effort is being made to keep the cost of our schools as low as possible for those who attend. Free textbooks are furnished those taking young people's courses. Textbooks for standard courses rent for 25 cents each. These and other services are being rendered each council in consideration of the 25 cents per capita fee which is paid by each council to the Board of Christian Education. This small fee makes it possible for us to operate our entire series without drawing upon World Service funds. For the entertainment cost of your particular school, write your council leaders.

Courses will be offered for ministers, teachers, Sunday school officers, leaders of youth, young people, and others who are interested in joining Christian youth in building a new world. These schools are held in the most desirable places. Some of our conferences have added new equipmnt to thir camp and some others are opening entirely new camp sites.

These schools afford great opportunities for Chrsitian fellowship, worship, study, instruction, supervised recreation, and other activities which will equip one for more efficient and consecrated leadership in local churches.

STORY-TELLING IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

There is no art more ancient than the art of story telling. The story began away back in the childhood of the race. It was among the first steps in the development of literature. All the world loves a story. It gives a picture of life. It arouses the inner life of the listener and carries him out of himself. Through the story we live the lives of all people, all races. It helps to satisfy our thirst for knowledge.

The importance of story-telling in training boys and girls in their religious lives is far greater than the church has yet realized. By the use of stories we may be able to release ourselves from the narrow jail of our petty individual lives and make for largeness of life and freedom. The story breathes the life of the universal spirit through our imagination. The Gospel of Jesus Christ is a story that never grows old. When Jesus was here on earth He used the story-telling method in His teaching and preaching. Often when we hear a minister preach we cannot tell or give the exact text he used word for word, but we can tell the story he read in the scripture lesson. Perhaps not many or any of us could give the Sermon on the Mount word for word, but we do know the Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins, the Ten Talents, and the Sower. We read that every time Christ talked to the people He told them a story—"Without a parable spake He not unto them." Jesus Christ is the supreme pattern and if He has set so great an example for us, how can we do otherwise than set a high value on the use and power of the story?

In the course offered in Story Telling for the Leadership Training School for this summer at High Point College we hope not only to teach the value of story-telling but to study stories that may be used in church schools, daily vacation Bible schools, recreational programs, etc. We will want to learn to select and classify stories according to age interests of different groups, also according to special days and according to the lessons to be taught. Many interesting books have been written on the art and value of story-telling and numerous interesting and beautiful stories and story books are to be found. Several of these splendid books may be obtained from the office of the Board of Christian Education, Westminster, Md.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

AUDITOR'S REPORT

The Branch Meeting coming so early in the month it was almost impossible for the treasurer, Mrs. Taylor, to balance her books and turn them over to me to be audited before the meeting. I have now checked the books for the year, April 1, 1933, to March 31, 1934, and find them correct and in good condition.

ESTHER ROSS, Auditor.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT RALLY

Sunday, April 29, is the date set for a rally for the churches in the Eleventh District—Forsyth, West Forsyth, Pinnacle, Winston, First, and Winston, South. The entertaining church is Shoals church, Pinnacle charge.

The morning session will begin at 11 o'clock and will be in charge of Mrs. T. L. Speas, chairman of the Auxiliary work. She is planning a good program, and expects to have Mrs. W. C. Hammer, president of the Denominational Woman's Work, and of the North Carolina Branch; and Mrs. H. C. Nicholson, chairman of districts, to make addresses. At 12:15 there will be dinner on the grounds.

After dinner, the district chairman will be in charge, and will probably make an address on some phase of church work.

We are hoping that all the churches in the district will be represented by good delegations.

My suggestion as chairman is that we make an earnest effort this year to get better acquainted with each other as churches. We live too much to ourselves, too much engrossed in our local problems. Let's come together for fellowship and inspiration on these fifth-Sunday occasions.

C. W. BATES, Chairman.

DEDICATION AT SPRING HILL, NORTH DAVIDSON

The program will be as follows:

Sunday school at 9:45.

Sermon at 11 a.m. by Dr. R. M. Andrews, followed by the dedication service.

12:30, lunch by the ladies of the church. Please bring well-filled baskets.

Special music and short speeches will constitute the afternoon program. Bring your flowers and place on the graves of your loved ones also.

Come and spend the day with us, you will enjoy it. COMMITTEE.

FROM PASTORS and PEOPLE

Denton Charge.—Due to my illness I was unable to fill my regular appointments at Canaan and Piney Grove the second Sunday in this month. Mrs. Bowman conducted the service in my absence. The work in these two churches seems to be going fine, but we expect them to do better as the weather opens up.

Eastr Sunday was a lovely day and our services at Denton church were well attended. A large crowd was present for the morning service, and three new members, Mrs. T. W. Mitchell, Misses Luna Bisher and Katherine Sexton, were received at this time. We aro delighted to have these join with us and pray that th church may be a great blessing to them and that they may be a help and inspiration to the church. The Easter pageant was given at the evening service to a full auditorium of people. The offering was pleasing.

Last Sunday both services were well attended. Special music was rendered at the morning servire by a quartet composed of Miss Helen James, Mrs. Bowman, Messrs. P. D. Hamilton, and Edward Hill. For the evening service Misses Marjorie and Helen Cranford sang a duet.

The Sunday school seems to be steadily growing and much interest is being manifested in Christian Endeavor. Last Sunday evening there were 38 seniors present and 26 juniors.

An all-day district service will be held in Denton church Friday, April 20, with Dr. R. M. Andrews in charge. Other visiting speakers will be present also.

The revival services will begin at Denton church Sunday, May 6th, with Dr. S. W. Taylor as pulpit help.

Mitchell Grove Church.—For the past month our Sunday school attendance has been picking up. We are hoping that it will go much higher this year than last. The primary class moved into the new school room Sunday. This not only was a help to this class, but was a help to the other classes as well. We hope that we may be able to add more rooms in the near future.

On Sunday night, April 1st, an Easter program was given. The pageant, "The Easter Radiance," was presented; also recitations and exercises by the smaller children. After the pageant, Mr. T. A. Williams, our pastor, gave a splendid talk.

The second quarterly conference was held at Mitchell Grove church on Saturday afternoon, April 7th.

A pie supper was given at Mrs. Ola Meisenheimer's Saturday night, April 14th. The proceeds went on our building fund. A large crowd was present.

The Woman's Missionary Society met Sunday for the re-election of officers. The following were elected: Mrs. Herman Billings. president; Mrs. Ola Meisenheimer, vice-president; Miss Josie Parson, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Gwennie Jones, corresponding secretary.

The C. E. Society met last Sunday night. Mr. Curtis Jackson was the leader. The topic was on prayer. Many good points were brought out. After the program the society decided on taking up a Bible study. One night a week is to be devoted to this. Mr. J. L. Cashatt is to be the leader.

◆

English Street.—Our Sunday school seems to be on an upward trend. We had very good attendance Sunday and reached our goal of 300 enrollment, that had been set the first of the year. At the morning church service the Lord's Supper was observed.

For the past week, an old-time singing has been in progress at the church. A Mr. Faucett has been teaching the school, which will probably continue through the week. We feel that our singing should be greatly improved after the school, and as we have also just ordered some new Hymnals.

A revival meeting will begin in our church on the first Sunday in May. We ask the prayers o fall the Christians that we may have a great revival.

The Senior C. E. Society plans to give a supper at the hut on Friday evening, April 27, for the benefit of the church.

H. T. Troxler and J. A. Bowers have been nominated as delegates to the Annual Conference. REPORTER.

◆

Hope, Siler City Charge.—Our pastor, Rev. H. L. Isley, has been meeting all of his appointments and bringing us good messages each time. The attendance at Sunday school is increasing some, though it is not as good as we would like to see. So many of our people have been kept away on account of sickness. Messrs. J. L. Fields and C. C. Routh have both been quite sick for some time, but are improving some now. We hope that they may soon be well again.

The Woman's Auxiliary has started on its new year's work. Mrs. D. T. Vestal was reelected president, Mrs. Curtis Crissman secretary, and Miss Kara Andrew treasurer. Miss Kara Andrew represented our auxiliary at the N. C. Branch meeting at Henderson, and reported a splendid meeting.

Last Sunday night a very interesting C. E. meeting was held, with Misses Margaret Shaw and Elizabeth Hanner as leaders. We have been having some good programs, and our young people are taking an active part.

A MEMBER.

Thomasville, Community Church.—As an open item to more or less put a good spirit into the minds of our readers, we are happy to state that our Annual Conference expense is paid in full. The check for $60.00 was sent in last week.

The quarterly conference met week before last at the church, at which time J. W. Boyles and C. L. Berrier were chosen nominees for delegates. A vote will be taken later to determine who will be our delegate.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its first meeting for the year on Monday at the church. Plans for the new year's work were made at this time. Mrs. H. F. Surratt was presented a lovely birthday cake from members of the Auxiliary.

Communion service was observed in our church on Sunday morning, April 22. The choir at this time sang a very impressive and fitting number entitled, "Bread of the World." The pastor's sermon, "Quietness of the Mind" leading up to the Communion hour added much to the sacredness of the service.

At the evening worship service the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society favored the congregation with a special musical number. It is very gratifying to know that our young people are continuing to do such good work. The membership is still quite commendable. At the last meeting of the society there were around 30 present.

The Leadership Training School which has been held at High Point College terminated on last Sunday. We rejoice in the fact that nine members of Community Church received certificates, three of which were standard certificates and six young people's certificates.

Members of Community Church offer our congratulations to the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clodfelter, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Berrier, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Cranford.

Kernersville Church, Kernersville Charge.—The Ladies' Aid Society held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, April 17, with Mrs. John Corum on the Greensboro Road. Rev. O. B. Williams, pastor, conducted the devotionals. The lesson was a study of the books of the Bible and was also conducted by the pastor. The secretary, Mrs. A. N. Linville, read the minutes of last meeting and presented other interesting reports. Mrs. John Linville and Miss Mamie Guyer were appointed flower committee until next meeting. The society welcomed Mrs. Clay Parrish and Grady Wall as new members. During the social hour Mrs. Corum, assisted by Mrs. Seymour Albert, served refreshments to Rev. O. B. Williams and 11 members. The May meeting of the society will be held with Mrs. Charlie Cooke.

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society social was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Linville, with their daughter, Miss Rose, acting as hostess. During the evening games were played and contests held. Before refreshments were served the pastor, Rev. O. B. Williams, spoke encouragingly to the society. Sandwiches, cake and lemonade were served to about 25 young people.

Sunday, April 15th, at noon at the parsonage of this charge Mr. McKenzie Hatley and Miss Gladys Helms, of Albemarle, N. C., were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. O. B. Williams. The couple was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harkey and the sister of the groom, Miss Edith Hatley, all of Albemarle. After the vows the party was served dinner by Rev. and Mrs. Williams. The happy couple returned to Albemarle that afternoon where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Linville spent last Sunday visiting relatives at Albemarle.

Mr. T. C. McCuiston, an esteemed citizen of Kernersville, is still seriously ill. Mr. McCuiston is a valued citizen of this community and has a host of friends who will learn of his condition with sorrow.

Sue, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butner, who was ill for several weeks, has resumed her work as student in Kernersville school.

Second quarterly conference of Kernersville charge will be held at Sandy Ridge church on Saturday afternoon before the first Sunday in May.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams plan to be away from this charge during the fifth Sunday week-end. They plan to spend part of the time at Hillsboro and Durham. These fifth Sunday week-ends are taken to make up the pastor's vacation, as he takes no other vacation during the year. They deserve these visits and we hope they have a pleasant stay this time. REPORTER.

Haw River Church, Glen Raven Charge.—Pastor Pegg filled his appointment here Sunday. We had a large congregation, both morning and night. Mr. Pegg chose as his text the 121st Psalm.

We are glad to report that Mrs. C. P. Snits, after several weeks' confinement, was able to worship with us at the 11 o'clock hour.

Our Sunday school is increasing rapidly. We had the largest crowd Sunday we have had this year. The Baraca class will have to move from the auditorium until further arrangements can be made for them.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Curry Coble, a daughter, Betty Sue, on April 14, 1934.

T. S. COBLE.

Bethesda.—Rev. William Jenkens brought us an able message Sunday, the 22nd, in the absence of our pastor. He was accompanied by Bro. Maness, also of Rockingham. We hope they will come again soon. We believe the Lord crowns their efforts with success. We believe they are both good men.

We are sorry to learn that our pastor is sick. We hope for him a speedy recovery and that he will soon be able to carry the message to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. Mount Olivet gave us some old-time soul-inspiring songs in the afternoon.

May the Lord bless our good old M. P. Church. J. R. BOON, Reporter.

First Church, Charlotte.—The Easter program was well presented before a large audience. Mrs. S. W. Conder was in charge of the program and trained the children.

A delightful silver tea was given by Mrs. T. J. Dellinger at her home on East Tenth street, honoring Mrs. Hendry.

We were glad to have Dr. and Mrs. Andrews and Robert with us last Sunday. Dr. Andrews held the second quarterly conference and preached at the evening service, giving us a splendid and inspiring message.

The parsonage association, which has been organized to raise necessary funds to pay the debt on the parsonage promises to be a success. Mrs. G. W. Stegall, pastor's aid secretary, is in charge.

The church extends sympathy to the pastor and Mrs. Hendry in the death of her father, E. B. Blanton, who died suddenly while attending church service in Clearwater, Florida, where he lived. Rev. and Mrs. Hendry and Miss Louise, and Mr. T. J. Dellinger attended the funeral in Clearwater.

We also share grief with Mrs. R. N. West, whose father, John Hoesman, died at his home here last week.

Grace Church, Greensboro.—Our Auxiliary is having their all-day mission study Tuesday, May 1, at the home of Dr. Joy Glasceck on Northridge street in Sunset Hills. One of the mission study books will be given by Dr. Pritchard, and the other by Mr. Carroll. All the ladies of the church are invited to come and bring their sandwiches and come to spend the day.

May 4th marks the 43rd anniversary of Grace Church, and to celebrate that anniversary we are having a banquet at 6:30 in the hut. All former pastors are to be special guests, also the president of our college, Dr. Andrews and Dr. Humphreys. Mr. J. Norman Wills will act as toastmaster. A most important feature of the meeting will be a roll call of all the living members of our church.

Dr. Spahr, our beloved pastor emeritus, will conduct the service of May 6 to mark the 64th anniversary of his preaching career. On that day the roll will be called for the honored dead of our church.

M. L. W., Reporter.

Lebanon Church, High Point.—Last Sunday at the 11 o'clock service, Mr. R. L. Pope, of Thomasville, spoke on "Character Building." This is the first of a series of lectures on this subject.

Our speaker next Sunday morning will be Mr. T. Wingate Andrews, Superintendent of the High Point City Schools. It is expected that a large audience will be present to hear this able speaker.

On next Sunday night we are to have a service of worship in song. A splendid Thomasville quartette, also the Chisholm Sisters from Thomasville, have promised to be present to have part on the program. There will be congregational singing, too. Everybody will enjoy this service. All are cordially invited to attend.

It will be of interest to many to learn that pledges have been made to cover the cost of the erection of the hut. Some pledges are already paid, the others are to be paid during this year. The work on this building will be started at an early date. It is hoped that it will be completed by late summer, if not earlier.

Our ever-zealous, beloved pastor, Dr. Taylor, keeps exceedingly busy preaching the gospel both in and out of the pulpit, ministering to the needy and hungry souls and taking care of the pastoral work in general. How fortunate and how blessed we are!

Our people are grieved over the death of little Dale Clemmons Montgomry, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale C. Montgomery, and we desire to express deepest sympathy in this bereavement. The little angel took his flight back to Heaven after a brief sojourn of only three days on earth. The funeral service was conducted from the home at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon by our pastor, Dr. Taylor, and the darling's little form was laid to rest in Lebanon cemetery.

Fallston Charge.—We had a good day yesterday at Knob Creek church. The attendance at Sunday school was 103, the largest thus far during the Conference year. The people gave good attention to the sermon. Special music by Miss Ruth Hartman, Theo Hartman, John Queen and Miss Pansy Queen added to the service. A collection amounting to $5.64 was received for the Children's Home. This is almost double the offering for this cause one month ago, and makes the fourth Sunday school on the charge which is now making a monthly offering to the Children's Home. The annual memorial service at this church will be held on the fourth Sunday in May. The Ladies' organization will meet on Wednesday of this week with Mrs. A. J. Jeffress.

All the churches on the charge were represented at the second quarterly conference which convened at Macedonia church Saturday. Dr. R. M. Andrews preached at eleven o'clock and presided over the quarterly conference which was held at 1:30 in the afternoon. Dinner was served by the ladies during the intermission. Brother Lester Huss, of Macedonia church, and Brother J. L. Lewis, of Friendship church, were nominated by the conference as candidates for delegate to the Annual Conference. The next quarterly conference will be held at Hebron church.

The people at Friendship church report a good Sunday school yesterday morning. Miss Maggie Lou Clay provided the Christian Endeavor program for the meeting last night. Miss Clara Wright will be the leader for next Sunday night. The April meeting of the Missionary Auxiliary was in the nature of a joint meeting with the Auxiliary from Bess Chapel. The meeting was held in the Friendship church. The following individuals took part in the service: Mrs. F. B. Toney, Mrs. H. F. Fogleman, Mrs. John Lackey, Mrs. Rufus Bingham, Mrs. Gettys Bingham, Mrs. B. F. Heavener, and the pastor. Mrs. Heavener is district chairman and hopes to have a meeting some time in the early summer, perhaps at Hebron or Friendship church.

Three funerals should be recorded. Mrs. David Boyles of the Hebron community died on Monday night of last week and was buried at Hebron church on the following Wednesday. Brother Rufus Lackey, of the Laurel Hill community died Tuesday, March 6th, in Duke Hospital, Durham, and was buried the following Friday at Bess Chapel. While writing this report I received information that Marshall Britten, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Britten, died in the Lincolnton Hospital this morning as a result of an automobile accident yesterday. Funeral service will be held at Hebron church tomorrow, Tuesday, at 11 o'clock.

We have a large number of boys and girls from our churches who are graduating from our local high schools. The following are among those to graduate: Minnie Blanton, Ruth Hoyle, Pauline Buff, Loreue Goodman. Loy Queen, Ellen Baxter, Vatha Wright, Bessie Wright, Thelbert Wright, Doyle Martin, Cerelda Lackey, and J. D. Shelton. Perhaps I will think of others who should be added to this list by the time this appears in print.

H. F. FOGLEMAN, Pastor.

Knob Creek, Fallston Circuit.—As we do not have a reporter from Knob Creek church I will volunteer and send in a report to let the readers know how we are standing.

Our Sunday school is moving along nicely. We had 103 present Sunday. Our attendance is better and the people seem to be taking more interest in Sunday school work. Mr. T. P. Deal, our superintendent, asked the members to try and bring someone each Sunday. We can make our Sunday school better if we will try. Rev. Mr. Fogleman filled his regular appointment Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. He preached an interesting sermon. The subject, "Christ is the door and the Good Shepherd." We had right many visitors in our congregation Sunday. We welcome them back and are always glad to have visitors to worship with us.

Our Memorial service will be the fourth Sunday in May at 11 o'clock.

The Ladies' Home Circle is doing very good work. We have raised enough money to paint the roof of our church. We have our meeting twice each month. Our last meeting was held at the home of Miss Lucy Willis. We had a very interesting program. Our next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. A. J. Jeffers on Wednesday, April 25. We are sorry to state some of our members are sick at this time. Hope they will soon be out again.

Best wishes to the Herald and its readers.

Tabernacle-Julian.—A very beautiful installation service for the newly-elected officers and secretaries of the Tabernacle Auxiliary of Woman's Work was observed on last Saturday in the afternoon. The use of Pine Needle Lodge, a most suitable place for such a service, was secured for the occasion. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Geo. L. Curry, and Mrs. Ed T. Coble, the newly-elected president. Beautiful and appropriate music was rendered by Mrs. Kirkman and Miss Ross, both of Pleasant Garden. After the installation service was over, Mrs. Coltrane, of Grace Church, Greensboro, brought a very appropriate and helpful message on methods and the importance of the Woman's Work of our church. These visiting ladies were very much appreciated, and we thank them for their services. Most delightful refreshments were served by Circle No. 4. We are not anxious for time to go any faster, but we would be glad for installation service or something its equivalent to take place again at an early date.

Death has visited us again and this time the call was for Mrs. Viola Bowman, the widow of the late John D. Bowman. Mrs. Bowman died very suddenly April 19 in her home all alone. The funeral was conducted in Tabernacle church by the pastor in the afternoon of April 20 in the presence of a large attendance of sympathizing friends and relatives. Mrs. Bowman had been a member of tabernacle church since early womanhood. She was 54 years old and leaves five children, all adults. She was a good woman.

Bro. W. T. Hanner, of Julian, has been on the sick list for a few days, but is improving at present and has been out of his room a part of the time in recent days.

Tabernacle memorial service will be observed on the third Sunday in May (May 20). All friends of the church are given a special invitation to be present. It will be an all-day gathering.

GEO. L. CURRY.

Concord.—Sunday school and preaching services were well attended today, and one new member was received into the church.

Today marked a red letter day in the history of our church. The church is able to pay all its indebtedness to date and having some $20.00 in the treasury. This is the first time that our second quarterly conference has been able to say that in the past 38 years. With God's blessings, we hope to keep this wonderful record.

The Woman's Auxiliary held its joint meeting Monday night at the church with the new president, Mrs. L. M. Burris presiding. After items of business concerning the meeting were discussed the delegates to the Branch Meeting at Henderson gave their reports.

The Young People's Class held a "tacky" party at the church Thursday night. The prize for the tackiest woman was awarded to Mrs. E. F. Litaker, while B. R. Craven was chosen as the tackiest boy. After many interesting games, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Morgan, our pastor's wife, is confined to her home by illness. We hope she will soon be able to be back at church with us. She is a helper in the Beginners' Department at Sunday school, and was missed very much Sunday.

First Church, High Point.—In the last pastoral-reporter letter, announcement was made of the coming to First Church of the Utica Jubilee Singers for Sunday evening, February 11th. Well, for once it was a joy indeed to have an over-flow crowd. All available space was filled with chairs, many stood and still others were turned away. The program was indeed well rendered and was of a high order.

Another busy quarter of the year is almost gone. With our efficient reporter, Mrs. R. T. Pickens, still somewhat indisposed, I will make a few comments for the Herald. All are rejoicing that Mrs. Pickens was able to leave the hospital and with the family move to the new residence, 912 Montlieu Avenue. Facing the beautiful High Point College campus, the new environment should be conducive to complete recovery.

In the parsonage there have been busy, anxious days. Mrs. Farmer was not so well for several weeks. It was finally determined that another operation was necessary. This she underwent March 14th for the removal of a large inward goiter. She is recuperating nicely and hopes are bright for much better health.

Mr. Richard Shaw continues very ill in the hospital and many prayers are being offered for his recovery. Miss Mary Lyndon, Mr. C. C. Robbins and Mr. G. C. Cagle are recovering nicely from recent operations. We are regretfully recording the going to the heavenly home of Mrs. H. M. Sechrest and Mrs. Hal Bencini. An appropriate obituary will be submitted shortly.

Sunday evening, February 5th, the Woman's Auxiliary Thank-offering service was held. The address was given by Rev. J. Elwood Carroll, of Grace Church, Greensboro. Special musical selections were rendered by the A Capella Choir of the College. The service was intersting and hepful.

Our Layman's Fellowship was organized February 21st after a supper meeting and a stirring address by Mr. J. G. Rogers, president of the Conference Fellowship. Mr. J. H. Jennings was elected president. He and his executive committee have already sponsored one stated meeting and splendid plans for the future have been laid out.

An interesting installation service was carried out by the Woman's Auxiliary at High Point College March 26th, when Mrs. J. C. Whitesell began her second term of office. Both the reports from last year and the beginning of the new year were encouraging. Mrs. Whitesell is an able executive and with her splendid corps of helpers will effect fine service. Sunday morning, April 15th, I used for my sermon subject the Branch Meeting theme, "Launching Into the Deep," and gave recognition to the new officers, chairmen and secretaries of the Auxiliary.

In the April Auxiliary meeting Monday, April 16th, a fine program was carried out. Mrs. W. C. Hammer, the N. C. Branch president, was present and in her gracious and effective manner conducted the devotional period. Her address was helpful.

An appreciated gift has been made to the church for use in the office by Dr. A. A. York, M. D., in the form of a typewriter. This practical and timely expression of interest in Christ's church is very much appreciated.

We will hold the second quarterly conference May 6th.

R. I. FARMER, Pastor.

Kannapolis.—"With deep sorrow and yet great joy" the revival services came to a close. We feel that Rev. A. L. Hunter, the pulpit help, put his all into these services, and hope for him many blessings. There were about 50 converted and reconsecrated. We enjoyed the interest shown throughout the services, not only of our own town, but others as well. We were indeed glad to have Rev. Morgan and family with us on one evening, and others from Concord. Special music was furnished by different ones. A special collection was taken for Bro. Hunter to the amount of $33.45.

On Sunday, April 22, at the 11 o'clock worship a very interesting service was observed. Rev. Morris did not preach but delivered a wonderful sermon in the form of "His Last Will and Testament." At the close of the message communion was observed. Several gave their names to be received into church membership at a later date. We had the pleasure of receiving Miss Pauline Litaker into our church on April 15th.

Rev. Morris is leaving the latter part of this week to spend the week-end with his father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Morris at Fallston, where he will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon to the high school graduating class. We will have the pleasure of hearing Mr. J. J. Barnhart, a great church worker of our town at the evening worship. The service will be in charge of the Layman's Fellowship. A good congregation is expected for these services, for there will be some very efficient speakers.

Mr. D. B. Cartner is in the hospital. We pray for his early recovery.

Mrs. Annie Davis is improving.

On Monday, April 16th, the sad duty came to Pastor Morris of performing the funeral service of the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Harold.

West End, Thomasville.—On Friday night, April 20th, the Men's Bible class entertained the Ladies' Aid Society with a delicious supper and string music at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Binkley on Moore street. Those making music were Eugene Ledwell, Babe Stout, Robert Russell, and Mr. Jack Trent. After supper the Ladies' Aid gathered in the living room for their regular business meeting. There were 21 members and one visitor present. I think everyone present had a nice time and we, the Ladies' Aid, thank the Men's Bible Class for it.

Saturday night the C. E. Society gave a social at the home of Miss Edith Atwood. There were about 45 or 50 present.

Our revival at West End began Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. James Hornbuckle, of Trinity M. E. Church, had charge of the morning service. Sunday night Rev. C. E. Ridge had charge of the service. He will continue preaching throughout the revival. We would like to urge everyone who is interested in helping others to find God to attend these services and help make this revival a success. The services will bgin at 7:30 o'clock each evening. We are planning to have special singing each night if possible.

Mount Pleasant.—A "Kid" party, featured by characteristic costumes and games, added to the fun and entertainment at the regular meeting of the Mount Pleasan Church Business Girls' Circle, held Saurday night, April 22. Mrs. Howard Roberson, assisted by Miss Vertie Linens, was hostess to the club at her home near Kimesville.

The program centered about a study of Japan and included a paper on "Japanese Play Customs," by Mrs. Carl Clapp and a question box on "Facts About Japan," led by Miss Sallie Amiek. Miss Callene Phillips had charge of the devotional period.

During a business session, at which Miss Edith Smith presided, officers for the new society year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. W. H. Stafford; vice-president, Mrs. Howard Roberson; secretary, Mrs. H. L. Phillips; treasurer, Miss Margaret Causey; and pianist, Mrs. Roberson. The retiring officers are: Miss Edith Smith, president; Miss Callene Phillips, vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Coley, secretary; and Miss Margaret Causey, treasurer.

After the meeting the hostess provided an entertaining social hour which was followed by a surprise feature in the form of a weiner roast. Miss Vertie Linens won the prize for the most child-like costume and Mrs. Earl Clapp received a prize as contest winner.

The next meeting, it was announced, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Causey, with Misses Rebecca Woody and Edith Cansey as hostesses. This meeting will take the form of a "backward party."

Mount Pleasant, North Davidson.—The annual memorial service will be held on the fourth Sunday in May. The program for the day will be as follows:

9:45 a. m.—Sunday school.

11:00—Sermon by Rev. J. A. Palmer, pastor of Heidelburg Reformed Church, Thomasville.

12:30—Lunch by the ladies. We ask all to bring well-filled baskets.

2:00 p. m.—The congregation will go in a body to the cemetery for a short service, which will be one of the most impressive services of the day. We ask all the people who have loved ones to bring flowers to decorate the graves of those we love and whose memory we cherish.

2:30—We will re-assemble in the church where Rev. T. Glenn Madison, pastor of the First M. P. Church, Thomasville, will give an appropriate address.

Possibly other speakers will be heard. At the close of the addresses the incidental business of the association will be conducted, election of officers, paying of dues, etc.

Looking forward to a great and good day and trusting everybody will co-operate with us in showing our love and esteem for those who meant so much to us while living and laboring for the great cause they loved.

J. R. STONE,
W. D. PAYNE,
Committee.

First Church, Lexington.—"Clean Hands" was the subject of the very helpful and encouraging sermon delivered by our pastor, Rev. C. G. Isley, at the 11 o'clock service Sunday. His text, "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully," was taken from the 24th Psalm, verses 3 and 4. "Thou art the Christ," was the subject and text for the evening service. Large, attentive congregations were present for both services.

The district rally will be held April 29 at Mount Carmel. Those appearing on the program are Rev. C. E. Ridge, Shiloh Charge; Rev. Aubert Smith, Spencer; Rev. C. G. Isley, First Church; Dr. T. M. Johnson, State Street, and Rev. J. C. Russell. This will be an all-day service with lunch on the grounds.

Sunday morning immediately following Sunday school, the Young Ladies' Missionary Circle was organized with 12 members. The following officers were elected: Juanita Easter, Circle chairman; Margaret Lea Swink, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. L. B. Koontz, counselor.

Messrs. R. L. Everhart, Frank Clodfelter, and Frank Plott have been appointed to fill vacancies in the board of stewards. H. C. Koontz, Sr., J. H. Yates, W. C. Gibson, and Ernest Hamilton were appointed to plan a program for Home-Coming Day, which will be held May 13.

The Layman's Fellowship will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30. Dr. T. M. Johuson will be the speaker. All members are urged to be present.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will give a chicken dinner and supper April 28.

MARGARET LEA SWINK, Reporter.

Mount Zion, Pinnacle-Mount Zion Charge.—With the coming of warmer weather our Sunday school seems to be taking on new life and is increasing in attendance each Sunday.

On April 15th our pastor, Rev. A. L. Hunter, delivered a good and inspiring sermon which was enjoyed by a very large congregation.

The annual memorial services will be held at Mount Zion church on the third Sunday in May. Picnic dinner on the grounds, so come and be with us on that day.

Since our last writing the death angel has been present in this community. On March 25th, at the home of her son, Mr. Winfield Setliff, Mrs. Harriett M. Setliff passed to her reward. She was a little more than 84 years of age. Interment was made in Mount Zion cemetery on April 8th.

Mr. H. Dalt Wall was called to his reward April 8. His body was interred in Mount Zion cemetery.

On the 20th of April Mr. James Laue departed this life. Interment was made in Mount Zion cemetery.

All of these were good people and we feel that our loss is their gain. The breavd have our sympathy. REPORTER.

Flat Rock Charge.—We had the usual attendance and interest at our services at Flat Rock and Bethany churches last Sunday. Owing to sickness among some of the members the attendance was reduced at Flat Rock church. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper was administered, and a large number participated. A special feature of this service was introduced at the suggestion of some of the members, that of giving recognition to the young boys and girls. They were asked to gather at the communion table in a group. A number of them responded, and it was a very impressive service.

The attendance at Bethany was a little larger than at any other service for the present conference year. The membership at this church is scattered, and the attendance of members is comparatively small. We had about 15 members at the service last Sunday afternoon. There were about 20 visitors present. We believe this church is going to make progress this year. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper was administered.

After the service at Flat Rock church last Sunday the pastor was invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Wilson, where a good dinner and pleasant visit were enjoyed. After the service at Bethany in the afternoon, the pastor and family went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McCollum by previous invitation, and enjoyed a good supper and brief but pleasant visit. Other guests in the home were Mrs. J. R. Newell, a niece of Mrs. McCollum, her daughter, Miss Helen Newell, and son, Bobby Newell, of Reidsville.

Decision was made at Flat Rock church last Sunday to have the revival meeting at that place beginning the second Sunday in June. At Bethany the date for the revival meeting there was set for the fourth Sunday in July.

Mrs. J. T. Sharron, Route 2, Summerfield, a member of Palestine church, is now a subscriber to the Herald. We hope that many more of our members will begin reading the church paper. We find that many of our church people are paying for and reading the daily newspaper, but are not taking the Herald. They are inconsistent when they say that they are unable to subscribe for the Herald at $2 per year when they pay three times that amount for a daily newspaper.

Since our last report we have been remembered with a number of gifts from the people of the charge. We wish to thank the following for useful gifts: Mrs. R. W. Pegram, one dozen eggs; Miss Virginia Lemmons, a dress for Mrs. Way; Bro. George Friddle, two and one-half dozen eggs; Mrs. Thomas Friddle, two dozen eggs, can peaches, honey, sausage, vegetable soup, two hens; Mrs. J. T. Sharron, can strawberries; Miss Grace Tucker, can peaches; Mrs. R. C. Gordon, one-half pound butter. We appreciate very much these gifts and the spirit in which they were given.

Flat Rock Charge is honored this year with having the Sixth District Rally which will be held at Flat Rock church next Sunday. The program will begin at 10:30 a. m. Rev. J. L. Trollinger, pastor of Haw River Charge, is chairman of the district, and will direct the program for the day. We presume the program will appear in the Herald this week. We are looking for a good day and expect to see people from the churches of Flat Rock Charge and the following charges in the district: Kernersville, Haw River, Reidsville, and Draper.

Two of our members have been in St. Leo's Hospital at Greensboro for some time. Mrs. Coy Angel, of Gideon's Grove church, was operated on Monday of last week, and we trust she will soon be able to return home. Mers. Herbert Wilson, of Flat Rock church, underwent an operation on Friday of last week and is reported recovering nicely. We hope for each a speedy recovery.

C. B. WAY, Pastor.

State Street-Bethesda.—Both State Street and Bethesda are functioning normally as church normalcy goes in these abnormal times. There is life and interest in the Sunday schools, in the Christian Endeavor societies, in the Auxiliaries, in the church services. Also our Yadkin College church is normal in the once-a-month Sunday afternoon church service and in a joint Sunday school with the M. E. South Church in the village.

Easter services were held by the Sunday schools and an offering was taken for World Service. The attendance has picked up encouragingly since the measles epidemic has passed and the weather is more favorable.

Interest in Christian Endeavor activity has quickened. The Young People's Society of State Street has entered on a Bible reading contest that promises to be both interesting and profitable. The societies of both churches are giving encouraging effort to meet the social as well as the religious needs of the young people.

Both churches sent representatives to the Branch Meeting. These came back with renewed and increased enthusiasm that is already bearing fruit. The Bethesda Auxiliary is introducing the Lord's Acre idea, reports as to results to be made later. They are also to supply cakes to the Children's Home in the near future. State Street Auxiliary is introducing to them new devices to raise their quota.

Bethesda has launched what may be modestly termed a Junior church which has already created considerable interest among the boys and girls up to ten years of age.

T. M. JOHNSON.

Caroleen.—The church is prospering. We have good attendance and good interest. We had our second quarterly conference Saturday night, April 20, at Shelby, N. C. Dr. R M. Andrews was with us in our conference and preached for us Sunday night. We all enjoyed his visit. One of our members, Kathleen Quinn, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Rutherfordton Hospital. She is improving nicely and hopes to come home this week. REPORTER.

North Davidson.—We would like to express our appreciation to the people of this circuit for their co-operation in making possible the much-needed imrovements around the parsonage.

We are making progress, I am sure, and I believe this will be a good year for us. Our Sunday schools, C. E. and other organizations are well attended. We have a new spirit of zeal and co-operation in our midst. There is a parsonage debt that is in our way some, although we plan to remove it this fall. Pray for us that this will be a great year for us. C. L. G.

Calvary.—Our reporter, Mrs. Neece, is out of the city this week, so whatever reporting is done will have to be done by me.

Our Sunday school crossed the 200-mark a week ago Sunday for the second time this Conference year, the attendance being 201. Last Sunday it slipped back to 184, but we are expecting it to come back good and strong now as the weather is better and measles is disappearing.

One more new member was received on profession of faith in the church service Sunday morning, the same being Ruth Younts. This makes 13 we have received so far this Conference year and have not yet put on the evangelistic campaign.

Plans are now pretty well worked out for the tenth anniversary service of the church which service will be held this year on the first Sunday in May. The pastor will preach the sermon at 11 o'clock and instead of serving dinner on the ground the members of the church will take the visitors home with them for dinner. The second service will be held at four o'clock in the afternoon and we are hoping to have a number of ministers and laymen to bring greetings and make short talks. So, all you folks that read this, just remember that this is an invitation to you to come and be with us for the day, and if it is not possible for you to be with us at the morning service, then come for the afternoon service. A special effort has been made to get our people to tithe their income for the month of April, the same to be divided between the church debt and the local budget, which also includes the Annual Conference budget. This tithe is to be brought in by the Anniversary day. Seventy-two persons have agreed to do this.

J. E. PRITCHARD.

South China Grove—We have been holding a revival meeting the past week. The preaching has been ably done by our pastor, Rev. J. O. Fry. Our attendance was very good. We had 11 converts. We also had cottage prayer meeting every afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and had several converts at these meetings.

Our Sunday school has been growing very nicely. Our first Sunday school opened on March 25th, 1934, with 15 present, and this past Sunday, April 22, we had 36 on roll and 34 present. We are hoping within the next five weeks we may have 75 or more on roll.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve a chicken supper on May 12th; proceeds will go to the church.

On Sunday night, April 22, our C. E. Society was divided into two groups, a Junior and a Senior. We have 10 members in the Junior and eight in the Senior. Miss Pearl Gillespie is president of the Juniors and Mrs. Ed Hines is president of the Seniors. These societies are going to have charge of our Mother's Day program.

MRS. R. V. WALKER, Reporter.

NINTH DISTRICT RALLY

The Ninth District Rally will be held at Mt. Carmel church on the fifth Sunday in April, with a morning and afternoon session. The theme for the day is evangelism, and a very helpful program is in the making.

The following charges are represented in this district: First church, Lexington and Mt. Carmel, State Street, Bethesda, Shiloh, Spencer, Mocksville.

It is our desire to make this one of the very best meetings we have had, both in interest and attendance. Now come on, all you good laymen, and bring your lunch, and help make this meeting a big success.

T. M. JOHNSON, Chairman.

—Miss Elizabeth Williams, of Calvary church, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Williams, gives her senior recital in piano at the Greensboro College this evening. Members and friends of Calvary church have been given a cordial invitation to attend, and it is expected that many of them will avail themselves of this rare opportunity.

—Mrs. Howard R. Neece, Calvary's reporter, has talents for more things than writing. This week she is substituting for her father in listing property for taxes in the township in which her father lives.

—Miss Imojean Boyles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyles of Thomasville, has been chosen May Queen at Greensboro College.

—Mrs. C. C. Pritchard of Thomasville is quite ill in the Wesley Long Hospital in this city.

Great events usually cast their shadows before them. Usually there is some warning or some premonition that the thing is going to happen. The rivers do not usually rise unless there has been rain. The lightning does not usually flash nor the thunders roll until the clouds have formed. The earthquake shock is usually preceded by a roar. The scientist knows that the the 21st of March and the 21st of September the sun will rise in the East and set in the West to all parts of the world and those who want to get their bearings can be on the lookout at those times and make observations, but SPENCER, yes. SPENCER, without any warning, like the lightning flash from the clear sky, went over the top in the Herald campaign and piled up the biggest percentage of any charge so far this year. I had been wondering what had become of them and wondered why they did not send in something, but they did it and did it with a whoop. Congratulations by the car load. Now let Spencer send in her subsidy fund and she will be in a class all to herself.

And did you see what Fountain Place and Kannapolis and Graham did last week. Poor Calvary! Even though she is steadily climbing, she was crowded off the stage.

And did you see that GREAT BIG FIFTY DOLLARS from the Conference Council of Religious Education? That was fine! And that ONE-FIFTH OF A HUNDRED DOLLARS on subsidy sent in by SHILOH Charge. MY, that was great!

SIXTH DISTRICT RALLY

The Sixth District, which is made up of Haw River Charge, Reidsville, Draper, Flat Rock and Kernersville charges, will gather in the Annual District Rally next Sunday, April 29, at old historic Flat Rock church, near Stokesdale. The first service will begin around 10:45 and the meeting will continue until in the afternoon, with a recess for picnic dinner. Every person attending is urged to bring a lunch sufficient for yourself, and some over, so that none need go without enjoying this part of the day.

President Andrews will be the principal speaker in the afternoon. The program is to be most enjoyable, and the most appreciated part will be when representatives from the churches will tell "The Best Thing at My Church This Year." Everybody come, and let's make this a gala time for all.

"Adding Sugar"

By W. A. Ledford

Life is the highest valued thing within a man's reach. After it is reduced to its lowest terms, and shorn of all its ameliorations and adornments, men continue to cling unto it. Once Satan spoke truthfully, "All that a man hath will he give for his life." The late Robert F. Horton speaks of the penniless, helpless, useless ones: living the wastrel life, and hovering along the river' brink, but refusing to yield to the temptation to leap into the river and end their miserable existence. The words of Christ concerning life and its abundance are tantalizing to them.

While men cling unto life, even in its lowest terms, they agree that it could be infinitely better than it now is. If that bit of practical, wholesome counsel were applied, "If fate hands you a lemon, add sugar and have lemonade," much of the world's misery would be abolished. This sane philosophy of life should be published from the housetops, and proclaimed from the highest mountains, and broadcasted from the tallest towers. Few of us could emulate the aged, poor widow Dr. G. Campbell Morgan saw; alone in the hovel, eating her Thanksgiving dinner of stale bread and salted herring, and singing God's praises for drawing upon land and sea for the same.

There are a few Pollyannas along life's pathway, who scatter sunshine and look for the good; and determine to make the best of everything. They brighten the corner where they are, and where the other fellow is also. Jesus called such the salt of the earth, the light of the world, and the good seed of the Kingdom. There are many others who feel aggrieved, imagining that they have been handed a lemon unjustly. They air their troubles, evil days, and short-comings with great gusto. They bring out of their evil treasures as many ills as sprang out of Pandora's box. Such have never learned that the world had rather smile than frown with them.

Possibly this brief message might fall into the hands of some forlorn laborer, toiling under trying conditions, which almost break his morale. If so, let him know that the best of one's salary is invisible. If one cannot fill a small place, he can hardly expect promotions. There are many ambitious men in the ministry, who early dreamed of city streets, wide boulevards and teeming multitudes; but have actually lived their lives in the open country, traveled dirt roads, and bemoaned their misfortunes. May be our places we choose are not God's choices for us. King David dreamed of building a temple, and waged war all his reign. All other ways were closed to Paul before he entered Macedonia. Even Philips Brooks had to fail in the teaching profession, before he entered the ministry, which he magnified, and in which he won world fame. Jesus fed the multitudes in the desert, and preached many of His greatest sermons to individuals. If fate hands you lemons, add sugar and thereby make life more wholesome for yourself and for society.

Whose Beast Was It?

The story of the Good Samaritan states that the wounded man was placed on his own beast by the Good Samaritan: whose beast was it—the wounded man's or his benefactor's?

Three Called Home

In less than a week three of our ministers' wives have been taken. Mrs. Atlas Ridge died April 26, Mrs. D. A. Highfill April 27, and Mrs. A. O. Lindley May 1st. Mrs. Highfill was preceded in death several years by her husband. The going of these ladies in one week will leave a large vacancy in our church.

Explanation

The Herald is mailed to subscribers on Thursday. If your order is received later than Thursday it will be filled on Thursday of the following week. This applies to clubs as well as regular subscribers.

—Brother R. A. Moore, aged 78, member of Grace church, died last week. He was a quiet and reliable man.

—Grace church, Greensboro, will celebrate its 43rd anniversary in a fellowship banquet on May 4th. They have had some struggles but have the spirit of good overcomers. We wish them good success and continued and increasing prosperity.

—The last week the editor was permitted to enjoy a visit from his chum of college days, Rev. L. K. Long, now of Washington, D. C. They talked much of many things and learned that they had grown nearer together rather than farther apart. Mrs. Long sleeps in Maryland, one child in Michigan, one son teaches in the University of Michigan, one dauguhter is a returned missionary from China, one daughter is married and lives in California with her husband, one son is in Washington rendering service in a department of the federal government. Dr. Pritchard called for pulpit help Sunday morning and Brother Long pleased our people by responding with a sermon on "Making the World's Highways Safe." He visited High Point College and a number of mill villages and the Guilford Battle Ground. He returned to Washington on Tuesday of this week. He has had an eventful life and has resources for many interesting conversations.

A DECADE IN THE OLD NORTH STATE

By E. Lester Ballard

Please, kind editor, grant me the space, and please, patient reader, give me of your time, and I shall indulge in pleasant reveries. Your curiosity will seek satisfaction, if your interest is not at first aroused, when I inform you that you are more or less concerned in my reminiscence.

It happened that, on Sunday morning, April 27, 1924, I first stood in the pulpit of a North Carolina Conference Methodist Protestant church, as pastor. by the general consent of the membership and the unsought invitation of the president of the conference. I had come from a like position in the second largest city of the state of Maryland, located amid the mountain grandeur of the western part of the state.

After the service, my beloved Seminary classmate and predecessor, Rev. N. M. Harrison, Jr., and I stood at the door of the West End church, Greensboro, and received the greetings that only a Southern congregation knows how to offer. The general sentiment of the group, expressed by many and implied by others, was: ''We're sorry you're leaving us, Mr. Harrison, but we're glad to have you with us, Mr. Ballard.'' And ever afterwards this warm-hearted greeting was practiced by the loyal people of the church.

During the week I received a welcoming letter from the secretary of the conference, Rev. C. W. Bates, which, though I neglected to acknowledge, was nevertheless greatly appreciated, and helped to make me feel more at home in a strange land.

After nearly three years had elapsed circumstances indicated the wisdom of a change of pastorate, the chief of which was that one of the members of the church, who had been prevented from engaging in foreign missionary work, decided, with my permission, to enter the home mission field. So together we have tried to keep the home fires of evangelism burning for our God and his Christ. We have never arrived at a satisfactory conclusion as to whether or not two can live together as cheaply as one, but we are positive that two can live happier together than each by himself.

A helpmate indeed is she,
As together we sail life's sea.

Four years as associate pastor and director of religious education in First church, High Point, left happy memories not a few. They are a people who love a pastor and family, and who do not forget them after the pastorate has terminated. Whether or not the years spent there were fruitful remains with the members and the Lord to reveal. What is of a certainty is that innumerable beneficial experiences were added to our lives, which since have served us in good stead.

Contact with the children and young people of High Point inspired me to attempt improvement in training in the field of religious education. Two hard but happy years in Boston, we believe, helped us considerably in more than one way.

On our return trip from the famous New England city, an offer came to me to ''fill in'' as director of religious education at Grace church, Greensboro, until certain adjustments could be made. Gladly did I accept, for this was the particular type of work for which I had been preparing. Although the position called for considerably more than religious educational work, association with ''my'' conference president of former days, and with the good people of this church was most pleasant.

At the Annual Conference session, two months after our return to the Old North State, I was agreeably surprised at the welcome I received. Some of my brethren, whom I thought barely knew me, made me feel that after all I may have been missed a little. And so my joy over returning was increased twofold.

This year finds me at Mebane, the church with a splendid rcord from its organization at the beginning of this century. ''Going to Mebane? That's a fine town.'' ''There are splendid people in our church at Mebane.'' ''I'm sure you'll enjoy your work at Mebane.'' Such were the encouraging comments I received from friends within and without our church, after the Stationing Committee's report had become effective. And I have found them entirely true.

What have I to say after ten years? In substance, I am happy that I am a member of the North Carolina Conference. My associations with my brethren here have been most pleasant. My contacts with the three presidents under whom I have served, Doctors Dixon, Taylor, and Andrews, have been entirely satisfactory. I have never had any complaint to make concerning my appointments. I am pleased with the state, its climate, its people—almost without exception.

At times during this decade, I have been asked if I didn't get homesick, or if I didn't intend to leave some time. In answer to the first question, I have always said, I miss my old friends at times, but I have never had occasion to become homesick. In response to the second inquiry, I have no intentions to leave, unless I am expelled, or unless I feel called of God elsewhere. So you have me on your hands, brethren, at least for a while longer.

God's blessings be upon us all,
Both young and old, both great and small;
And give us power more souls to win,
His blessed kingdom to usher in.

THE END OF DANCING

The question of dancing at High Point College seems to be proving as difficult as the old problem of making an egg stand on end. Some say it can't be done.

The first necessity is to face the facts. Or is that really necessary? So many people seem to avoid trouble with unfamiliar facts by denying them existence, which is a most comfortable outlook on life and one which all tadpoles endorse one hundred per cent. Yet to put ourselves in better company perhaps we had better make the strenuous effort, because problems have a way of causing embarrassment until they are solved and put to rest.

Now a dog is a fact, and a very familiar one. It has a leg at each corner and a tail fastened on behind. To deny any part of the dog's structure is highly absurd. Likewise it is extremely foolish to take one quick look at the moving part and suddenly declare to the interested world that the function of a dog's tail is to wag the dog! Oh, no. Such a judgment, with all due respect, cannot be called final.

To deny that dancing has a place in modern life is to deny a fact. Sure it is! Dancing is a fact, whether you dance or don't. The real problem is not, therefore, to admit a fact (which is easy), but to determine and grant the fact's rightful place in the scheme of education. In other words, what is the connection between college dancing and the students or parents who care a great deal about the spiritual life? Avoiding the strong temptation to say, "Ain't none!", let us agree that too much emphasis may be worse than not enough. In a well-regulated school, tails do not wag dogs.

Everybody knows that all schools are not alike. Otherwise there would be a great shortage of school spirit and love for dear old alma mater. For example, there are so-called finishing schools which exist primarily to teach the social graces and give training in the book of etiquette. Splendid! Let them carry on at top capacity as long as they provide something the world needs as urgently as good manners.

On the other hand there are certain mediaeval schools which still insist that nature is sinful. Very sad. Since life and spirit are so antagonistic and incompatible, the only thing for a wayfaring Christian to do is to keep himself as far away from the world as possible. All right. Let these schools exist as a shelter for those tender souls who don't know how much work the Lord has to be done outside of churches.

Finally we come to the liberal arts colleges, whose business is broad and complicated. Consequently those to whom the conduct of High Point College is delegated have no easy task in meeting their obligation to put first things first and second things second. Every element in education must have its rightful place. The whole is composed of various parts, just as one vine has many branches.

At this point somebody should inquire, "What would be the loss if dancing were left out?" Well, the world happens to be largely populated with men, women, and children—a dreadful condition from the standpoint of ancient theology and modern psycho-analysis. Co-education has done a lot to abate that nuisance, but Adam and Eve still don't know what to do about each other. Realizing that a religion of repression is a fertile source for that unwholesome condition so keenly described in novels like Elmer Gantry and plays like Rain, almost anyone can understand that dancing of the right sort has a place—a peculiarly appropriate place—in a church college. Dancing sublimates a desire by creating an art expression.

This purpose is the legitimate end of dancing, and when it is recognized at High Point College the music can begin to play.

—The retirement of Rev. Thomas A. Woodford from the headship of the church school, Pine Ridge, Ky., awakens surprise. So large an event calls for explanation which we presume will come in due time.

THE PASTOR'S SUMMER SCHOOL

Through typographical error, my letter to the pastors some time ago stated that the Pastor's Summer School would convene June 25 and close July 16. The letter should have read that the school would commence June 25 and close July 6. I regret that this mistake occurred. The pastors will please make this correction on their calendar, and it is hoped that they will schedule nothing during this time to either prevent them or any other pastor from attending the school.

It will be remembered that this Pastor's School is extension work of the Westminster Theological Seminary. President Holloway advised me a few days ago that he was including the set-up of this school and its curriculum in the Seminary catalogue, a copy of which he proposes to send to each minister. He also stated that he would issue certificates of credit to all who completed the different courses.

I am suggesting to each pastoral charge in the Conference that they give their pastor a vacation during these two weeks and pay his expenses to the school. The total cost for tuition, room and board for the school is only $8.50.

The pastors who pursue these courses will return to their respective pulpits better trained for the arduous and perplexing problems of the pastorate and a renewed consecration to the work. Any church or charge will do well by themselves as well as the couse of Christ in showing this little consideration to the Shepherd of the Flock.

N. M. Harrison.

BED, BASKET, OR CANDLE

A wise man has said that there are only three ways in which anyone can look at life, it is either a bed, a basket or a candle. Those who look at life as a bed, of course, are the ones who look for an easy way through it, who expect to reach the skies of achievement on "flowery beds of ease," who think the world owes them a living.

Those who think of life as a basket are the ones who live only for what they can get out of life. They are the "gimme" folk who are always asking, "What is there in it for me?" They are the bargain hunters. They will do a favor for you if they think there will be a chance to get the favor returned. They will work in the church or in the Sunday school class, provided they can have a place that will give them prominence. They wish to serve only themselves.

The ones who look at life as a candle are the ones who are giving out of themselves all the time. A candle cannot give without using up itself. You never saw a candle that could burn and not be consumed. It has to sacrifice in order to give.

When Jesus said, "I am the Light of the world," that is the sort of light He meant. He was unable to give light and hope to others without being consumed Himself. When He said, "Ye are the light of the world," He meant that all His followers must be the same kind of lights, that give without any expectation of return, that give of their best, and their own lives if need be, that the rest of the world may have light.

It is the candle-like lives that please Him rather than the bed or the basket lives.—Publisher Unknown.

A PARTIAL VIEW OF THE HIGH POINT COLLEGE CAMPUS

In the accompanying picture of High Point College will be seen Roberts Hall, the Administration Building, and a part view of Woman's Hall, the girls' dormitory. In the foreground will be seen a part of the front campus. These are some of the scenes which will greet the young people who attend the Leadership Training School, June 25-29.

We invite you to our campus for this few days' stay. Those who are prepared for college we invite to return in September.

The buildings and grounds will be yours. The college faculty members, who remain or return for the Training School, with their wisdom, approachable attitude, genial spirit and superior council, can be engaged for conferences for the asking. Some former students and those who have not completed their work here will be on hand to welcome newcomers to the campus, and tell them of things of interest about High Point College life. Evidences of student activity in life conquests, of traditions which inspire, and experiences which enrich will be evident wherever traces of the annual enrollments can be found. Come and enjoy this season with a select group of young people in an inspiring environment.

TALKING BUSINESS

A pastor was passing a big department store, and followed a sudden impulse to go in and talk to the proprietor on the subject of his salvation. Finding him, he said, "Mr. T., I've talked beds and carpets and bookcases with you, but I've never talked my business with you. Would you give me a few minutes to do so?"

Being led to the private office, the minister took out his New Testament and showed him passage after passage which brought before that business man his duty to accept Jesus Chrit. Finally the tears began to roll down his cheeks, and he said to the pastor: "I'm seventy years of age. I was born in this city, and more than a hundred ministers, and more than five hundred church officers, have known me as you have, to do business with, but in all these years you are the only man who ever spoke to me about my soul."—Peniel Herald

Consecration :: Co-operation :: Consolidation

CONSECRATION—let us devote our energies and talents to the work to which we are called.

CO-OPERATION—let us willingly, gladly, work with others who are likewise called to do the work of the Lord.

CONSOLIDATION—while our individual tasks may be small and insignificant, yet when joined with others they are of greater value.

The Mid-Year Meet

Tuesday, May 22nd, is the day, 10:30 the hour, Calvary church the place.

The morning program will include brief reports from the pastors for the half year just closed. Reports from the Treasurer of the Annual Conference, from the woman's work, from the Children's Home, from the M. P. Herald, from the Board of Church Extension, the Superannuated Society, etc., will be presented. The reports must be concise, but should include all that has been done that is worth-while.

Lunch will be served by the ladies of the church.

The afternoon program will include:

An address by Dr. S. D. Gordon.

An address by Dr. W. A. Stansbury.

Subjects to be announced later.

We hope to have present many laymen at this meeting.

If There is Interest

One of the difficulties many pastors face in getting the program of the church operating in their churches is the lack of interest in them by their members. No amount of explaining gets the program across because the individual doesn't care about its best points. It never takes much distraction to turn the faces of such people away from the speaker when he is trying to tell them about the program their church wants to put over. It is too bad that so many people will consent to join the church when they have so little interest in its progress as some reveal on such occasions. "If only there is interest" in the project, the people will learn about it and soon make it go. Often am I asked, "How can we interest more of our people in the work of our church?" This is not the place to tell how to do it, because it cannot be done here. Different projects and different people require different methods; nevertheless, the pastor is right when he says, "If only there is interest" in this or that project all the rest is easy.

Two Ministers' Wives Go Home

Mrs. D. A. Highfill, wife of the late Rev. D. A. Highfill, died last week at her home in Liberty, and the wife of Rev. Atlas Ridge died the same week at Lexington and was buried at Canaan church, Denton charge.

Third District Meeting, Rev. B. M. Williams, Chairman

This meeting was held at Sapling Ridge church, Alamance charge. The meeting was unusually well attended. I suppose there were at least seventy-five people, notwithstanding the fact that it was a fine day for the farmers to do their work. A sumptuous dinner was served on the grounds. Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Ballard, Rev. N. G. Bethea, and the President of the Conference occupied most of the time. There was quite a bit of interest and we believe the meeting was fully worthwhile. Several churches were represented, and the next meeting goes to Hebron church, Orange charge.

Immediately following the district meeting, the second quarterly conference of Alamance charge was held. The usual business of the conference was transacted. The attendance was good. Not a great deal was reported paid pastor, but more was paid for conference claims than was paid last year at this time. The charge has been considering the parsonage question for some time, and decided last Saturday to let the matter rest a while owing to the fact that part of the money was tied up in the bank and no prospect of immediate release. We are sorry to know this.

Graham Church, Rev. J. Clyde Auman, Pastor

This little group of workers is quite active and appears to be doing well under the circumstances. The church is handling the financial claims by committees so that no appeals are made from the pulpit, and they like this method. The Sunday school is in the hands of Brother Don Holt, a young man of good training, and he is giving his best thought to the work. He is using a method for enlisting the people that I certainly commend most heartily. When he joins the school he becomes a stockholder in the school and is given a share of stock. The object of the leaders is to keep the value of the stock constant by holding the attendance at school regular. The member must be present and on time to register. The entire scheme would take more space than I can give here, but I hope that those who are interested shall communicate with Brother Don Holt, Graham; he will take great pleasure in giving full details of the plan.

Large numbers of the Herald are being disposed of each Sunday and I am looking for Graham church to give Dr. Pritchard an opportunity to rave over it in many superlative terms before a great while. It might be well for him now to seek some most expressive superlatives to have on hand for that day. Graham seems to be moving on towards higher things.

District Meeting, Rev. J. L. Trollinger, Chairman

This meeting was held at Flat Rock church, Sunday. I reached it after most of the program was over, but found a hundred or more people present enjoying the day together. Dr. Brown, Pastor Way, and Chairman Trollinger were present and several churches were represented. I think the day was worth while from what I heard as people spoke of the occasion. The chairman had after I arrived several reports from members and pastors giving the BEST THING their church has done this year. It was very interesting to hear these reports. I presume all of the day's program will be reported by the local reporter.

ARE YOU AN EMBEZZLER?

A bank near my home town failed. The cashier was brought into court and convicted and sent to the penitentiary for a term of years for embezzlement. But what is embezzlement, and what act had he done that condemned him? He had taken the money placed in his hands in trust and intended for the upbuilding of the bank, and had appropriated it to his own use, leaving the bank without funds to meet its obligations. The new Standard Dictionary says embezzlement is "the fraudulent appropriation to one's own use of money or goods intrusted to one's care and control."

When God made man, He gave him possession of the earth and all that was in it. He said to Adam, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion." (Gen. 1:28.) A great swindler came and lied to him, and the man sold out, but got nothing for his possessions. (Isa. 52:3.) In the same verse Isaiah tells us the Lord proposes to redeem all that man lost. Jesus came "to seek and to save that which was lost." (Luke 19:10.) Jesus paid the full price of redemption.

But Jesus is gone into a far country. What has He done with His property here? Matthew 25:14 says, "He called His own servant, and delivered to them His goods." Does He expect any income from His goods before His return? Notice what He says in Mark 12:2: "At the season He sent to the husbandmen a servant, that He might receive from the husbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard."

And how much of the fruit of the vineyard does the Savior expect from the husbandmen? Has God a standard by which we may know when we have done our duty? He surely has. The part of the income required is specifically mentioned in Leviticus 27:30: "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's: it is holy unto the Lord."

This division of the income has been recognized by the followers of God from the earliest times. Only a little over four hundred years after the flood, Abraham recognized this standard when he paid tithe to Melchizedek. (See Genesis 14:20.) When the Children of Israel had left their bondage in Egypt, and God was about to give them possessions in the land of Canaan, delivering to them His vineyard where He had set His hedge, dug the place for the wine-fat, and built a tower, He explicitly stated the amount of fruit He expected from them, a tithe of all. (See Leviticus 27:30-34.)

But some one says: "I am in debt, and I must pay my debts before I can pay tithe. My debts come first." Suppose that bank cashier had said to the judge, "But, Judge, I was in debt, and my debts come first, so I used that money to pay my debts." Do you think the judge would have said, "If that is the way you used the money, it is all right; your debts are first, and you are free"? Suppose you had placed $150 of your own hard-earned money in that bank. When you heard that plea, would you have agreed that the cashier's debts came before the bank's obligation to you? One-tenth of your income is no more yours than the money you placed in the bank on deposit belonged to the cashier. God says, "All the tithe of the land . . . is the Lord's." No part of it is yours, never was yours, and never will be yours. It is the Lord's. Justice would say of the bank cashier, "He is an embezzler; let him pay the penalty." Even so is he an embezzler who takes for his own use God's tithe.

There is coming a day when every one must stand before God and face the record in the books of heaven. This is a life and death question. Is your record clear, or is there a record of robbery and embezzlement? Only the blood of Christ can clear that record. Even that blood will not clear the record until you have determined to correct this act in your life. "If the wicked restore the pledge, give again that he had robbed, walk in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity; he shall surely live, and not die." (Ezekiel 33:15.)—Selected.

THE SECRET OF HOLINESS

There is only one way to be holy. Holiness means separation—separation from sin, from uncleanness, from all that is unworthy or injurious. Some people are afraid of being too holy; but few are afraid of being too healthy, and holiness is spiritual health. How, then, can we have this wonderful posession or experience of holiness? Moses knew the secret as he said to the Lord: "If Thy presence go not with me, carry us not up hence. For wherein shall it be known here that I and Thy people have found grace in Thy sight? is it not that Thou goest with us? so shall we be separated, I and Thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth." (Exod. 33:15, 16.)

God's welcomed presence is the secret of holiness. Only God can separate sinners from sin; only God can cleanse the unclean; only God can save and heal and restore the spiritually sick, separating us from disease, and making and keeping us spiritually whole and healthy. Only if God goes with us shall we be "separated," or holy. The Lord is able and eager and faithful to do just this. To all who will let Him, today, He says what He said to Moses more than three thousand years ago: "I will do this thing also that thou hast spoken: for thou hast found grace in My sight, and I know thee by name."—*S. SERVANTS OF CHRIST

A slave had just bidden his wife and two babes good-by, and was led to the block to be sold. When his new master claimed him, he said, "Sambo, I have bought you at a great price to set you free." As he removed the chains, Sambo fell on his knees and kissed his master's feet, saying, "Massa, I'll be your slave forever." That is just what Jesus is looking for in our hearts. He bought us as a great price, and He comes, beseeching us to present our bodies a living sacrifice. Do we love Him enough to do that?—The Alliance Weekly.

OUR STORY PAGE

WHEN HANS OBEYED

Hans was watching his sheep very carefully that day. They were feeding on the edge of a great wood, and in the wood the older shepherds had often said there were wolves lurking, waiting to steal a lamb from the near-by flocks. As Hans stood leaning on his crook, looking into the debths of the forest, a hunter came riding out. As he caught sight of the shepherd lad, he turned his horse toward him.

"My lad," called the hunter, "can you tell me the way to the nearest town?"

"There is only a sheep path leading there from here," replied Hans as he pointed in its direction. "It is a long way, and the path winds about so and leads into so many other paths, I am afraid you will never be able to find your way."

"Would you like to jump up behind me, and show me the right path, then?" asked the hunter.

"Oh, sir," said Hans, "I could not do that. I have to look out for these sheep to see that no wolves attack them from the forest."

"Why," was the quick answer, "I can well pay you more than the cost of the sheep that are lost, if only you will show me the way to town."

"But I have promised, sir, to stay by the sheep, and watch them faithfully. My master could not trust me again if I left them."

"Then," was the laughing reply, "let me stay with them while you run to find a guide who can show me the way."

"But, sir," said Hans, "the sheep, you see, would not know your voice. If you called them back from danger, they would not come."

"But I could ride after them. Can't you trust me that much?"

"No," replied the lad, "you have tried to make me break my promise to my master and disobey him by leaving his sheep. How do I know you will then keep yours to me?"

At that the hunter laughed. "You are right, my boy," he said. "I only wish I could truts my servants as well as your master can trust you. Well, now, point out the right direction for me, and I will try to find the town myself."

Just then, however, another group of hunters rode out of the forest, and upon seeing the one who was still beside Hans, they shouted for joy.

"Oh, sir!" they cried, "we thought you were lost. We dared not go back without our prince."

When Hans heard that he had been talking to such a great man, he was afraid that perhaps he would be punished for not helping him more; but the prince only smiled down at him and told his companions what an obedient boy he was.

Not long after that a servant came to take Hans to the castle.

"Hans," said the prince, as soon as he arrived, "I want you to leave your sheep and come to serve me. You are a boy whom I am sure I can trust."

This made Hans very happy, but still he did not forget his duty to his master.

"If he can find another boy to care for the sheep," he answered, "I will come gladly."

So back he went to be a shepherd lad once more. But it was not long before another boy was found to take his place, after which he went to the castle to serve the prince, and became one of the most faithful and trusted of followers, because he had learned to obey.—Junior Worship Guide.

THE BOY WHO WOULD NOT SMOKE

"Here he is, fellows; here's Al. We've got him now!" The speaker was Ruel Norris, a lean, tall, young fellow, a little older than the sa-called Al.

Albert Barkhart, a boy of sixteen, dressed in a heavy, gray linen shirt and blue overalls, soiled by the reddish dust of the brickyard, turned to find himself looking into the eyes of "Bully" Bill Harkins.

Albert stood without flinching; within him fires of intense emotion were hotly burning.

About a month before Albert had joined the brickyard force. Since that time he had helped to wheel the burnt brick from the kilns. It was hot, heavy, and dirty work. The pay was good, and he needed the money.

He was boarding in the village. His parents were both dead, and he had to make his own way. He expected to attend college, and he needed every cent he could scrape together. He came from a home where he had been taught industry and economy, as well as clean living.

Albert had not been with the brickyard boys long before he found himself face to face with a serious problem. Whatever good qualities they possessed, they were rough fellows. They smoked enough cigarettes to keep a thin cloud of smoke in the kilns all the time.

Albert did not like their smoking, though he could bear it, but he would not smoke himself. Every time they smoked they passed the pack to him. When he refused to take a cigarette he noticed they seemed hurt.

"You can't belong to this bunch," spoke up Bully Bill Harkins, "unless you are sociable enough to smoke with us."

Albert assured them that it was not because he desired to be unsociable, but that his parents had always taught him that it was not good for one's health, and he did not wish to start the habit. "I have never had a cigarette in my mouth," he declared.

The boys let the matter drop at that; but, as the days passed, they became more and more intolerable. Albert obtained permission to wheel from a kiln all by himself. His action caused the other wheelers to have anything but a good feeling toward him, and they expressed themselves very emphatically about him. Fortunately he could hear practically every word they said. Leading from their kiln to his there were several underground air tubes, through which were forced blasts of air when the kilns were burning, but now they served as a secret telephone.

One day Albert heard Bully Bill say, "If you fellows are agreed that smart upstart will smoke, we'll make him smoke. What do you say, boys?"

"We're agreed," spoke up the other two.

"All right," Bully Bill said, "then at noon we'll capture the abstainer and make him smoke."

Although Albert burned with anger he kept on working all the harder. The more brick he wheeled the more he earned. Each wheeler kept his own account.

After Albert ate his lunch he sat with his back against the walls of the kiln before resuming his work. He was thinking about the threat, when suddenly Ruel came in, followed by Bully Bill and Dave.

"Al, we had intended to be rough with you this noon, but, because of a suggestion of Dave's, we have thought of trying something else," said Bully Bill. "We are going to see who is the champion brick wheeler. Do you want to be in on it?"

"I would not object to a contest," said Albert; "but being a little new at the work, I fear I would not make much of a showing against you experienced wheelers. Yet, I'll enjoy taking part."

It was agreed they should start the next morning when the whistle blew, take off the usual time for lunch, and stop at 6 o'clock. New stacks were started so that it would be easy to determine what each had done that day.

"We haven't been working steady enough," said Bully; "if we try we can beat that greenie to a frazzle."

The next day every boy worked as if his life depended on the contest. About noon Dave slipped over to see how Albert was getting along. "Fellows!" he announced on his return, "if he doesn't have one-third more brick on his pile than anyone of us, I'm no judge."

"Stop your kidding," spoke up Bully Bill.

"Honest!" declared Dave: "go look for yourself."

In the middle of the afternoon Bully Bill slipped over to spy Albert's stack. "It's no use, fellows," he said on his return. "We're beaten. If he'd stop right now we couldn't overtake him by quitting time. That fellow is going as strong now as he was the first hour. He has wind to burn, while we're most fagged."

"Well, what would you expect from a bunch of cigarette smokers?" said Dave.

"I suppose you couldn't expect as much," acknowledged Bully; "but we must not let the boss know we've been beaten by that green hand."

"What can we do?" asked Ruel.

"We'll quit right now for the day. Then we can say we didn't work the whole time. Tomorrow there is to be no work for the wheelers; they are going to haul the stacks away in trucks."

"Well, what's that got to do with it?" asked Dave.

"Why, tonight," repeated Bully, "we can come here and wheel enough from Al's stack to keep——"

"But his count," broke in Dave.

"Of course his count won't be correct," cut in Bully Bill. "He will be a lot short when they check his count tomorrow. Result, he'll be in wrong for cheating. But we must all stick together."

"I'll take no part in it," spoke up Dave.

"And you'll peach, then, of course," said Ruel.

"No, I'll not tell, but count me out, and don't put any more bricks on my pile. That fellow is better in every way than any one of us."

The secret telephone did its work well. Albert saw the fellows going down the road long before quitting time, and he knew exactly what it meant. That evening he made it his business to go to the brickyard after dark and hide in the bushes.

Soon he recognized the voices of Bully Bill and Ruel. "Let's have a smoke first," suggested Ruel, and they walked over beside the dry house as they talked in low tones. Albert kept his eyes riveted where they were in the darkness. Then he saw the remains of a cigarette making an arc as it snapped from the fingers.

Suddenly the fire flew in all directions, and there was a loud intonation. In a second flames had risen all around. Albert jumped from his hiding place and ran. The clothing of both Bill and Ruel were a mass of flames. The cigarette had set off the fumes of a gasoline tank left open. Albert grabbed several pieces of burlap which had been used to protect special shaped brick in shipment, and without apology he threw Ruel roughly to the ground and wrapped the burlap tightly about him, then he treated Bully Bill the same way. His quick work saved the day and the flames were quickly extinguished.

"Now, get a move on, you fellows," commanded Albert, "we must save the dry house."

Although the faces of the boys were blistering, they succeeded in putting out the fire without doing much damage.

"We owe our lives to you," said Bully, to Albert, after the danger was over.

"Yes, I suppose you do," replied Albert.

"And we were going to cheat—" stammered Ruel.

"I know all about your trick," put in Albert.

"I'm glad Dave told," said Ruel; "if he hadn't——"

"Dave didn't tell," said Albert.

Only the rustle of the leaves could be heard as they walked on together.

"Well, it's no use to put it off any longer," spoke up Bill: "I wish to ask your forgiveness. You are better than any one of us, physically and morally. We knew it, but hated to admit it."

"I forgive you," said Albert. "I am glad you both have the courage to admit you were wrong."

Several days later when the three boys met again in their kiln Bully said: "If we don't smoke for a while, we may be able to stand up to the work like Al. It takes a real man to take what we have been throwing into his teeth, and it wasn't because he was a coward, either. He's as husky as a young giant. Hereafter we're not saying anything against his principles."

"Dave and I have been talking it over, and we are heartily with you," said Ruel.

This bit of conversation pleased Albert not a little as the sound of the loud voices came through the underground chamber.—Sunday School Messenger.

Note to the Leader: This is a very important special day. Special effort should be put forth to make this a very beautiful and impressive meeting. The mothers of all Christian Endeavorers should be invited. Everyone who takes part should make special preparation.

'My Trust"

A picture memory brings to me:
I look across the years and see
Myself beside my mother's knee.

I feel her gentle hand restrain
My selfish moods, and know again
A child's blind sense of wrong and pain.

But wiser now, a man gray grown,
My childhood's needs are better known,
My mother's chastening love I own.
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

DO YOU NEED A VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL SUPERVISOR?

There may be several churches which need and want to have a Vacation Church School. The only thing that keeps these churches from having such a school is the lack of someone to organize and direct the work. Miss Maxine Taylor, of Henderson, can give her time to such work during the summer months. The churches securing her services will be expected to provide room and board and a small financial remuneration. If Miss Taylor cannot attend your school, she will have other supervisors who can. Write her for information.

PLANNING THE JUNIOR CURRICULUM

Ages 9, 10, and 11

In this department you want to plan for a lot of handwork, for children this age like to do things. Your teacher should have great ingenuity along this line. Let the children dramatize the stories; illustrate them; and tell them themselves. As far as possible, in this department, especially, the teacher shoud remain in the background—be a guide, but let the children feel that they are not only doing the work but planning it.

So far as textbooks are concerned, there are many good ones. Mr. Gibbs published a list of some in the Herald a few weeks ago. There is a new series coming out this spring which the Council is securing. So far we have only the first of the series, the others not having yet been published. The series is being edited by the Intrnational Council and, judging by the primary number, is espeiially good. They were recommended to me by Miss Paschall of the Western Maryland College Faculty and I feel that we can trust her judgment. I shall write more of these as they come to hand.

I would like to see our church schools emphasize World Brotherhood as much as possible. Such texts as these are good on this line: A Travel Book for Juniors—Hanson; Citizen, Jr., Espey; and Hebrew Home Life, Lobinger. All these may be secured from Mr. Gibbs.

In this department as in the Intermediate, plan a three-year course and either use three classes or one of the three courses each year. In this way you will hold your group. You cannot give them the same courses each year.

MAXINE E. TAYLOR.

STEWARDSHIP PLEDGE CARDS

Have you gotten any signers in this campaign for members, brother pastor? About one thousand have been given out; only one pastor has sent in a list of names. Be sure and send them to me as you get the work done.

Encouraging reports are coming in from several places in these district meetings. Let us know what you are doing and if there are any problems we can help you solve we will do it gladly.

Yours for More Liberal Giving,
N. G. BETHEA.

Special Gifts

Mr. W. F. Grabs, of King, N. C., has placed a new blue-back spelling book in each dormitory. We wish our older children could spell all the words in them. We are thankful for these gifts of money and books.

Our Special Plea

This is the last day of April, and in checking up we find that there are still a few Sunday schools in the Conference which have not contributed to the Home during March and April. Give them a chance during May. The pastor of Weaverville charge wrote us this last week, and this is a part of his letter: "Please find enclosed $15.00 for the Home. We did not complete our offering in March because of bad weather, so we carried on in April." That is fine! "Go thou and do likewise." Also note that Asheboro has contributed another $22.00 on the special for March. This makes a total of $81.15 that Asheboro has sent in on the special for March. If they had quit as soon as March was out they would not have sent half that much.

Please hold your Sunday schools up to good regular offerings for the spring and summer. Avoid the summer slump this time.

Octagon Coupons

We get so many inquiries, asking if the Octagon company has not discontinued the coupons. They have not, and every one you will save for us and send to us will help. We need one more refrigerator, and we also need to do much painting. If we had enough coupons we could do both. Save them and send them to us.

A Business Man's Suggestion

Yesterday a good business man, who is a good friend to the Home, suggested that we make a special plea this summer and fall to get the men to give us grain. The women and girls are already writing in asking about cans which they will take and fill with fruits and vegetables. And the men have been giving potatoes and turnips and pumpkins and some grain. Wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye will fill one of our greatest needs. We

HONOR DR. AND MRS. T. R. WOODFORD AT WASHINGTON CONVENTION

May 14-16—Many Visitors Expected

Miss Bettie Brittingham, associate secretary of the Board of Missions, suggests that each Branch join in sending a gift to the Missionary Convention, honoring Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Woodford, who are retiring from Pine Ridge, Ky., where they have served many years so faithfully and well. District No. 13, of which Mrs. T. L. Speas is chairman, donated $1.00 at the meeting Sunday, as a nucleus; some of their members ask that each of the other 17 districts send like amounts, which will make a nice gift from the Branch. In all probability, friends of Dr. and Mrs. Woodford would like to share. Money should be sent to Miss Brona Apple, 222 North Edgeworth street, Greensboro, marked "Woodford Fund." Miss Apple will in turn send offering by N. C. delegation to the convention in Washington, May 14-16.

The Washington Entertaiment Committee has arranged special rates for visitors in home near Rhode Island Avenue church for lodging and breakfast, luncheon and dinner being served in the church. Names of visitors expecting to attend should be sent to Mrs. B. P. Burtis, 327 Webster Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. It is hoped many of our people will attend the convention. See the nation's capitol and many interesting places at this time when everything is in its beauty.

Do not forget. North Carolina has not met her quota in Missionary Record subscriptions; send 75 cents to Mrs. W. F. Redding. Jr., Asheboro, N. C., at once and help in this emergency. Will each Auxiliary president ascertain whether or not any women in their churches want to attend the convention and send in names accordingly? Pray for the convention, and for the meetings of the Boards of Missions, Christian Education and Administration, all of which will be in Washington the week of May 14.

REPORT OF SECRETARY OF MISSIONARY EDUCATION

Branch Meeting, Henderson, April 4, 5, 1934

Madame Chairman and Members of the Branch Meeting:

Dan Poling, Jr., speaking to a recent meeting of the Council of Women for Home Missions in New York City, told of his own experience in teaching a Daily Vacation Bible School in South Dakota, and said, "I sensed in it an opportunity, but I also sensed my poverty. I felt that I had nothing to give to the boys and girls who walked six miles to attend my classes. It brough to me a new realization of missions and a dependence upon God." How I wish that our local Secretaries of Missionary Education might have that same feeling—that sense of poverty—to such an extent that they would do something about promoting Missionary Education in our churches.

Out of 77 report blanks sent out, only 22 came back with any information at all on them. Three were sent back with nothing on them. About half of the Auxiliaries reporting have missionary instruction given in the Sunday schools and Christian Endeavor Societies. Seventeen have some definite missionary instruction given to their young people once a month and 17 used the Study Books.

We are all well aware of what the last few years have meant in our own personal lives, how we have had not only to economize, but live frugally. How familiar the phrase, "I am not going to Branch Meeting this year for I have nothing to wear." We think we have economized and sacrificed, but we have not suffered as much as our mission work has suffered and our denomination has suffered irreparable loss. Various stages of economizing have been passed through:

First, a mere pruning, without actual loss.

Second, salaries of missionaries cut, replacements ceased, native workers discharged and certain institutions closed.

Third, a further cut in salaries and in many cases almost no salary at all. Missionaries at home on furlough not returned to the field, all furloughs postponed one year, then missionaries recalled and in some cases properties sold.

These stages are familiar to all of us and they are familiar in all denominations.

India

Most of us already know that Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Minnis were recalled from India, arriving in America about the first of this year, but they are now pleasantly located in Asheville, N. C., where Mr. Minnis is serving our church. They have shown a very fine spirit and as much as we hate to lose them as missionaries, we are recompensed somewhat by having them in our state, still cheerfully and efficiently serving our Master. In India are left Rev. and Mrs. Paul Cassen, who are doing evangelistic work; Miss Mildred Miskimen, who is doing the educational work; and Dr. Edith Lacy, who is carrying on the medical work as a clinic. The hospital has been closed a year and a half and the schools are closed, with only the orphans and the settlement farm of converts from the Criminal tribes left. Miss Miskimen writes that it looks as if the orphans and the people on the settlement farm will have to go soon. Workers who have given years of service to the Mission have been turned off, and they will have difficulty in finding other employment, as competition is great and preference is always given to non-Christians.

Japan

In Japan, Miss Charlotte Douglas has secured work outside the Mission and Miss Hempstead has offered to let her furlough begin March 26th, when she sailed for America, and she is relieving the Board of her furlough support at that time. Rev. Paul Warner's furlough was due next summer and Rev. Mr. Lynch's the following year, so Mr. Warner has been asked to come as early as possible and be back on the field by February, 1935, and then Mr. Lynch's furlough will begin. With the Warners and Miss Hempstead at home on furlough, and Miss Douglas working outside the Mission, only Miss Hodges, Miss Wolfe and Mr. Lynch will be left in Japan. The Japan Mission recommended that support be discontinued for the two schools, Nagoya Middle School, and Eiwa Jo Gakko, as well as 12 stronger churches, and that these be aided in becoming self-supporting. The Japanese people have taken a courageous attitude, although it means that certain important Districs, for which our Church alone has been responsible, will be wihout the Gospel.

Dr. A. N. Ward's Sunday school class at Westminster, Maryland, has assumed the furlough support of Mr. Warner while at home and also his support on the mission field for six months after his return. The North Baltimore church has assumed part of Miss Hodges' support.

China
